Yielding to the earnest request of a large number of voters, Hon. J. L. Peters, of Columbiana, has finally consented to become a candidate for representative in the lower house of the next general assembly. We know of our own personal knowledge that this is a genuine case of the office seeking the man. Friends have importuned him for the past several weeks, and he has sought in every way to avoid becoming a candidate, but finally the pressure became so great he felt it would be the basest ingratitude to ignore the claims of his friends longer, and he has given his consent to make the race. Never before have we seen such unanimity among the people of the entire county in the selection of a candidate for any position. The opinion seems practically unanimous that he is preeminently the man for the place. He is not Columbiana's candidate, he is the people's candidate.

It affords us peculiar pleasure to be able to say to our readers that during a long and intimate acquaintance with Mr. Peters we have found him uniformly courteous and gentlemanly—a high-toned christian man, noble-hearted and generous to a fault. No man can say aught against "Joe" Peters. He is an orator, pleasant of address, strong, convincing, and his campaign will be conducted on a high plane. He is a lawyer of ability, and has every qualification necessary to make him an influential member of the legislature. He is and always has been a democrat in all that the word implies, conservative but positive, cautious but courageous in his convictions. His candidacy is an augury of victory.

THE PLAIN DUTY OF DEMOCRATS.

It is now only a short time until a democratic ticket will be selected at the primary on June 16th. The prospect for the election of our entire ticket has not been brighter in ten years, and all the indications are encouraging—flattering as the situation stands today. Our political enemies are divided, split up into factions, and all of them realize that populism will soon be numbered with the things that were, and that too in the near future. We are not coloring the facts in the least. It is not only true that the populite leaders are alarmed at the situation, but it is equally true that the rank and file, the boys in the trenches, are fully aware of their fate and are rapidly leaving the doomed party. They will fight their last battle next August.

While we are an optimist in every sense of the term, we do not think we have a walk-over ahead of us. On the contrary we know that in order to win we shall have to put out a clean ticket, composed of the best material we have, and then if every member of the party will do his duty success is assured. The battle is more than half won if we can nominate the right man for each office, and if we fail in this the error will prove fatal. In the first place the nominees should be scattered in order that each individual candidate may add the weight of his influence, and that of his personal friends to the ticket. A ticket selected in this way with that object in view, composed of clean, pure men, would simply be invincible; all the combinations of our enemies could not defeat it.

In view of these facts, and they are self-evident, no democrat need hesitate a moment as to his plain duty. He should lay aside personal friendship, beat pride, likes or dislikes and vote in the primary for the candidate for each office who will poll the largest vote in August. And right here the interesting question arises how is each voter to know who the strong man is in each case. That is easily answered if all will avail themselves of the opportunities afforded. In unity there is strength, and the verdict of a majority of the people is a safe guide. If the people in each beat would hold a meeting and discuss the chances of each candidate they could arrive at correct conclusions as a rule, and having made their selections the minority should gracefully acquiesce.

Other plans might be suggested as to the best way of ascertaining the strength of the different candidates, but the one we offer will accomplish the purpose effectively, and we desire to urge its speedy adoption in every beat. The candidates all concede that the strongest man should receive the nomination, and we are glad that they take that view of it, but whether they do or not cuts little figure. The success of the ticket should not be imperiled in order to gratify any man's ambition. Democracy means the will of the majority, and no man is worthy the name of democrat who is not willing to get out of the race if necessary to insure the election of the ticket. We have no fears as to the outcome if our people will go about the nomination of our candidates in a business way. Get good, true men and scatter the ticket and you have a dead sure winner.

Mr. James McGowen, of this beat, announces this week as a candidate for commissioner for the First District. Mr. McGowen was a member of the board of revenue for four years and made a most excellent record. Honorable, just and fair in all his dealings, generous, kind and conscientious, big-hearted and true, he is loved and esteemed by all who know his many noble qualities. The finances of the county could not be placed in safer hands. It will be remembered that during his term as commissioner our tax rate was less than $1 per $100; now it is $1.25. Comment is unnecessary.

It is frequently the case that a man has to go away from home to get the news, as the following from yesterday's Age-Herald goes to prove:

Mr. B. W. Brand, of Columbiana, is endeavoring to build and establish a home for disabled Confederate soldiers. In this effort he should have the support of every citizen, as he will assuredly have the support of the Age-Herald. Mr. Brand is confident that he can accomplish the work within a year's time. Give him all possible support in this much-needed enterprise.

"The defeated crew claim they would have beaten you if they hadn't caught so many crabs," said the rooter.

"What!" cried the captain of the winning eight, "I don't believe there ever was a crab slow enough for them to catch."—Philadelphia Press.

McKINLEY.

From the Baltimore Sun.

Under the editorial caption "Rivalry in Weakness," the New York Evening Post warns both political parties, and particularly the republican party, against the danger of relying too much "upon the weak candidate and bad platform" of the other side. It quotes with approbation Mr. Cleveland's warning to his own party in his letter to the Brooklyn Democratic Club, not to base hope for success upon "the shortcomings of our adversaries." "Yet this," proceeds The Post, "is precisely what both parties are now doing. What is the greatest argument for the re-election of President McKinley? The control of the democratic party by W. J. Bryan. What alone gives the democrats a chance of winning with Bryan? The renomination of McKinley. Thus each party finds its strength in the weakness of the other. Each appeals to the voters, not to elect its candidate, but to prevent the calamity of the election of the other. The competition is one in feebleness. McKinley may not be all we could wish—but look at Bryan! Bryan is not exactly the ideal of a president—but think of four years more of McKinley, Hanna & Co.!"

There is truth—too much truth, unfortunately—in these observations of our contemporary. But what The Post apparently overlooks or at least fails to give sufficient weight to in the comparison which it institutes between the two candidates is that the coming contest is much more than a struggle between rival aspirants for the presidency. It is a mighty struggle in which the issues to be decided are not simply who is to administer the highest office in the government for the next four years, but what that office is to be, and upon what principles it is to be administered. Is the president to be the servant of the people or their master? Is he to be a constitutional president, controlled in all respects by the rules and limitations of the constitution, or is he to be, so far as relates to extensive and widely spread territories belonging to the United States and more than 10,000,000 of human beings proclaimed to be subject to our sovereignty and jurisdiction, as Oriental despots, fettered by no rules of the constitution (since they are held to have no application) governing like the Shah of Persia or the Negus of Abysinia, according to his own sweet will and pleasure? It is the question between republic and empire—between the republic founded by the fathers and under which we have grown great and prosperous, and the empire inaugurated by the treaty of Paris, and under which we have reaped only sorrow and trouble, bloodshed and taxes.

Before such tremendous issues as are involved in the coming election, the magnitude and importance of the principles at stake, the mere personality of the candidates, even for the highest place, becomes of secondary importance, except so far as those candidates can be considered exponents of the two opposite tendencies—the one in favor of a return to the republic, the other pursuing the downward path of imperialism. The Post, pursuing its theme and comparing the relative weakness of McKinley and Bryan personally considered, does not hesitate to warn its republican friends that they stand to lose more than the democrats in the pitting of weakness against weakness. It reminds them of what the Sun has already pointed out and what, indeed, should be apparent to every man of ordinary intelligence. McKinley and McKinleyism, Bryan and Bryanism are by no means parallel cases. Mr. McKinley has been tried in the presidential office, and by the record of his acts, not opinions, he must now submit to be judged. Mr. Bryan is an untried man, with no acts to answer for. The one has to encounter the actual disappointment to which his actions have given rise; the other merely the sentiment of apprehension and distrust excited by his personal opinions which wrought his defeat four years ago, and which to a certain extent will militate against his success next November.

DECLARATION OF PLATFORM.

An honest and economical government.

A scrupulous regard for the American constitution.

The construction of the Nicaraugua Canal.

Denunciation of unjust treatment of Porto Ricans.

The legitimate expansion of home and foreign trade.

The furtherance of public education.

Another Victim.

"Great excitement up my way this morning."

"You don't say?"

"Yes, indeed; a man was seen rushing wildly around the roof. Everybody thought he was going to dash himself below. Finally an officer lassoed him from an adjoining building."

"Did he give any explanation?"

"Yes: said he was merely up there trying to get the dust out of his eyes and hair. Said he had been assisting in house cleaning."

THE FUTURE OF THE SOUTH.

The part to be played by the South in the history of the world during the next generation is strongly set forth in an article in last week's Manufacturer's Record, dealing with the sway of coal, iron, corn and cotton, whose principal seat of authority is in the United States. It is pointed out that coal holds its position in a tier of states between the Alleghanies and the Mississippi, and iron has its kingdom at present in the same region with an outlying colony for ore supply around Lake Superior, that are mere temporary quarters and that another generation will find its centre of production both in coal and iron as far below the southern line of Pennsylvania as it is now north of it, and probably at its natural situs, the South. The writer of the article, who has given years of personal investigation of Southern ores, continues:

"We have been told from time to time that the South had no coal that was good for anything. Then it was a poor steam coal, and would not coke; that Southern iron was inferior, and that attempts to develop the trade in the South would only result in failure. Each foolish lie has been outworn and disproved. As a matter of fact the South has far more Clinton ore, the kind mined at Birmingham; far more brown ore which makes the toughest and most ductile mill iron known, and far more Bessemer ore, each counted separately, than the total ore supply around Lake Superior on all sides, and that ore is the basis of the iron trade of the country today. It is about a thousand miles away from the coal fields and coke ovens which supply the fuel to smelt it.

"The Clinton ores of the South lie alongside the coal; the brown ores twenty to sixty miles away, on either side of the coal fields; the Bessemer ores, the highest grade of magnetic and specular iron, sixty to one hundred miles distant, and easily accessible, and this along a distance measured by hundreds of miles. With the pressure now on the iron trade this wealth will be developed, because the cost of production ought not to exceed half the cost elsewhere in the world.

Pointing to the needs of other nations the article continues: "In iron, coal, cotton and corn production the increase must be steady to meet increasing demand. In another generation iron production will have more than doubled, the increase almost wholly coming from the United States—that is, we shall be making 40,000,000 tons of pig iron annually; raising 5,000,000,000 to 6,000,000,000 bushels of corn, or even more, for wheat will not keep pace, and turning out perhaps 30,000,000 bales of cotton each year.

That is to say, development in the South for the next three or four decades will greatly exceed anything known in the history of the world. The gain in coal and iron will be there, because coal can be mined more cheaply and iron produced at half the cost there that it can elsewhere in the world.

This fact alone goes to show that our goods are attractive, up-to-date, and at prices the people can afford to pay. We are constantly adding to our stock, receiving goods every week, and all we ask is an inspection of our stock before you purchase elsewhere. We have anything and everything in the millinery line.

LADIES' FANS

The prettiest, catchiest line you ever inspected. No matter what your taste, we have the very fan you want, or a better one at the same price.

MEN'S AND BOYS' CLOTHING.

In this line we outstrip all our competitors. There are few city stores that carry any better assortment. We have all the new styles in the latest fabrics, and we defy the defiers to fit you better, in better style, or better goods, or at better prices. If skeptical call and see that all we claim is true, and a great deal more that we haven't time to mention. Our line of serges, especially double-breasted coats, is all that you could ask. Crash suits in abundance.

BUGGIES BY THE CAR LOAD.

To those who have owned a James & Mayer buggy it is not necessary to say a word in its praise, for it is A 1 in every particular, neat, substantial and well made. Buying them, as we do, in large quantities, we can sell them at bottom figures. Save a few dollars by investigating this statement. Buggy harness, all you want, in good, better and best qualities—none better for the money. Rest assured we can suit you in quality and price.

CLAYFURNACE

Indispensable in every well regulated household. Handy and economical for heating irons and other purposes. You can't do without it.

SORGHUM SEED

Having devoted the best years of my life to the mercantile business, and having built up from a very small beginning, I think I can say modestly that indomitable pluck, energy and a determination to supply every demand has been the bed-rock of my success. Of course a wealth of experience has been gained in all these years, and I come very near knowing what my people want, and it is my intention to supply their every need. If you are not a regular patron call and let's talk the matter over. I am in a position to help you if you need it.

Rush of job work has prevented us from getting out and hustling for news, and the local matter for the paper this week seems rather lonesome.

Law sakes, Bill, where did you get this flour? Why did you not go to Hammond's and get a sack of Ocoee flour? That is the best and you can get it at 55 cents—and have you paid 60 cents for this stuff?

The ladies of the Baptist church at Shelby will give an ice cream supper next Friday night, May 25, for the benefit of their church. The people of Columbiana have a pressing invitation to attend the supper.

The public school comes to a close tomorrow night. An appropriate programme has been prepared and will be observed by the entire school. A fine crowd should greet the students and teachers tomorrow night.

There were no services at either of the churches Sunday morning, Rev. A. E. Burns, whose appointment was for that hour, being at Wilsonville. He delivered the commencement sermon for the Wilsonville school that morning.

Columbiana will be honored next week by the presence in her midst of the members of the democratic congressional executive committee of this district. The meeting is called for Thursday, as will be seen by reference to notice elsewhere.

The ball game at Shelby last Friday between our boys and the team at that place resulted in a score of 19 to 20 in favor of Shelby. The batteries for Columbiana were George Mason and Harry Roberts, and for Shelby Harrell, Smith and Avery.

Several of our talented young people have gone to work energetically to get up a theatrical entertainment, which they hope to produce in the near future. Their object is to raise funds to seat the hall in the school house, and we feel sure they will have hearty encouragement.

A. O. Harwell, who secured the contract for the manufacture of the factory brick, began molding the brick on Monday, and everything is under very good headway now. Four pits for mud have been completed, though only one wheel is as yet in operation. The ball ground has been cleaned off, and is an excellent spot for the yard.

County court convenes in this city on the fourth Monday in the present month. The following are the petit jurors for that week: J. W. Dykes, J. A. Davis, J. D. Striplin, J. M. Allen, A. J. Embry, B. Killingworth, A. J. Taylor, E. R. Harper, John J. Tyler.

An ice cream supper was given at the residence of Hon. D. R. McMillan on East College street last Tuesday night by members of the Presbyterian church. The proceeds of the supper go toward the purchase of new seats for their church. The receipts were $23.80. A large number were present and a pleasant and enjoyable evening was spent.

Since the old ball ground is being utilized as a brick yard the "baseballists" have secured the large field between their former ground and the Southern depot. The road plow has been at work on it this week leveling the ground and removing the brush. The field is a large and fine one for the boys, and it will take a tremendous blow to lose the ball in this spot.

A Card from Mr. Cross.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:

Having been informed that some persons have inquired as to whether I was in the race for sheriff of Shelby county, subject to the action of the democratic primary, I desire to refer them to my annnouncements in all the county papers, which were made at the solicitation of many good citizens of Montevallo, where I am well known. It is not my intention at present to canvass the county, but will rely for support upon the generous endorsement which I have received without solicitation and to which it affords me pleasure to refer.

Very truly,
ALONZO M. CROSS.

Shelby.

It has been announced that a mass meeting is to be held next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Bethlehem church, in beat 2, to organize the beat in the interest of Sunday school work. Judge McMillan, W. F. Thetford, Esq., and Secretary J. R. White of the county association are expected to deliver addresses. Of course there will be a general rally of the people in beat two.

I am happy to report improvement in the condition of several persons who have recently been seriously sick. Tommy Francis is out again. Will Francis is still extremely weak, but is in a hopeful condition, and their brother, Dick, has returned to Chicago. Mrs. J. F. McLane is also convalesent.

Miss Miller, a relative of Mr. and Mrs. Craig, is visiting with them.

S. Stark, of New York, is in town this week. It is understood that he is here to close his business in Shelby.

The Shelby Iron Co. is now mining ore at four different points and producing about five hundred tons daily.

S. Q. Y.

Dry Creek.

Wheat is looking fine in these parts.

We had a fine rain Saturday.

D. S. Shaw is all smiles. He says it is a boy and is just like his papa.

W. J. Wheeler was in our parts Sunday to the delight of his best girl. Come again, Joe, we are always glad to see you.

John W. Shaw killed a fine hawk last Saturday, and of course he is looking for a chicken pie.

Next third Sunday is the day appointed for holding a memorial service at Union church. Everybody is invited to come.

A. B. McDonald is a candidate for matrimony, subject to the decision of the female sex.

The people of beat 11 would be glad to announce J. E. Adams for sheriff, as he has had considerable experience, but he declines.

Rev. A. J. Johnson filled his regular appointment at Union last Sunday. His theme was Duty and he discussed the subject ably, holding his audience spellbound for an hour.

Rev. B. C. Hughes was on the sick list last week.

Don't forget the Shelby county singing convention to be held at Pleasant Valley church, in beat 8. All invited.

Boys, don't forget the primary.

STUB.

Harpersville.

Candidate Russell is out among the dear people this week.

Candidate Millstead was here last week handshaking.

Other candidates are expected this week and more later on.

Quite a number of our people attended preaching at Vincent last Sunday.

Thomas Borum is rigging him up a threshing machine, and wants to thresh all the wheat and oats.

M. W. Borum has actually had him a new pair of pants made, and it is needless to say that it dished into a bolt of cloth considerably.

Henry Kendrick, Esq., of St. Clair county, was down Sunday to see his son, James.

We had much rather have the five dollars that the candidates are paying for their announcements than to have some of their chances of being nominated and elected.

While the rest of the boys were at work last week Frank Cater slipped off and went up to Lincoln and was married and back home before we knew anything about it; and now his elder brother, Edward, is consoling himself with that passage of scripture which says, "And the first shall be last."

Candidate Taylor is around today, Tuesday.

JAKE.

W. S. Taylor and family, of Wilsonville, visited relatives here Sunday.

Remember beat nine's candidate June 16.

Prof. L. B. Riddle, of East Saginaw, was in our town Saturday.

We are sorry to state that Mrs. Weaver is quite sick at this writing, but we wish for her a speedy recovery.

J. W. Spearman celebrated his 24th birthday last Thursday with a host of relatives and friends at his brother, James', who gave the dinner. John is one of our most refined, high-toned christian young men, and we wish for him a long and happy life and much success, as he is yet young in years. But he has already accomplished a great deal for our community, as he is a school teacher, and by his moral walk in leading others aright we hope he will continue in the good work, so we bid him Godspeed.

Few regions have been more richly endowed by nature than that famous section of western North Carolina poetically termed the Land of the Sky. It has a climate so dry and health-giving that it has become known the world over as a natural sanitarium for the cure of all troubles of a pulmonary or bronchial nature.

Asheville, the centre of this beautiful mountain-hemmed plateau, is the highest city east of Denver, and is a busy, thriving place of 12,000 inhabitants, with all the modernisms of city life. The city lies just at the point where the beautiful French Broad and Swannanoa Rivers join their crystal waters.

Within the city or in its suburbs many people of wealth have built beautiful and expensive homes, and most notable among them being the chateau of George W. Vanderbilt, which with its great estate, has cost upwards of four million dollars.

Asheville is an all-the-year resort, for its great mountains protect it in the winter from the cold winds and its summer climate is made delightful because of its altitude.

For descriptive matter of Asheville and vicinity call on any Southern Railway agent, or write C. A. Benscoter, A. G. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Summer Resorts.

Many delightful summer resorts are situated on and reached via Southern Railway. Whether one desires the seaside or the mountain, the fashionable hotels or country homes, they can be reached via this magnificent highway of travel.

Asheville, N C.; Hot Springs, N. C.; Hale Springs, Tenn.; Roan Mountan, Tenn., and the mountain resorts of East Tennessee and Western North Carolina—The Land of the Sky—Tate Springs, Tenn.; Oliver Springs, Tenn.; Lookout Mountain, Tenn.; Monte Sano; Huntsville, Ala.; Lithia Springs, Ga., and various Virginia springs; also the seashore resorts, are reached by the Southern Railway on convenient schedules and very low rates.

The Southern Railway has issued a handsome folder entitled Summer Homes and Resorts, descriptive of nearly one thousand summer resorts, hotels and boarding houses, including information regarding rates for board at the different places. Write to C. A. Benscoter, A. G. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn., for a copy of this folder.

Land of the Sky.

In western North Carolina, between the Blue Ridge on the east and the Alleghanies on the west, in the beautiful valley of the French Broad, two thousand feet above the sea, lies Asheville, beautiful, picturesque, and world-famed as one of the most pleasant resorts in America. It is a land of bright skies and incomparable climate, whose praises have been sung by poets and whose beauties of stream, valley and mountain height have furnished subject and inspiration for the painter's brush. This is truly the Land of the Sky," and there is perhaps no more beautiful region on the continent to attract pleasure tourists or health seekers. Convenient schedules and very low rates to Asheville via Southern Railway.

Reduced Rates via Southern Railway.

For the occasion of the Southern Students' Conference of the Y. M. C. A. Conference of the City Y. M. C. A. workers and Conference of the Young Women's Christian Association at Asheville, N. C., June 15-25, 1900, the Southern Railway will sell tickets from all points on its lines to Asheville and return at rate of one fare for the round trip. MORNING TIREDNESS

Is a serious complaint. It's a warning that should be heeded. It is different from an honest tired feeling. It is a sure sign of poor blood. You can cure it by making your blood rich and pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla. That is what other people do—thousands of them. Take a few bottles of this good medicine now and you will not only get rid of that weak, languid, exhausted feeling, but it will make you feel well all through the summer.

Tired Feeling—"For that tired and worn out feeling in the spring, and as a strength builder and appetite creator, I have found Hood's Sarsaparilla without an equal." Mrs. L. B. Woodard, 285 Ballou Street, Woonsocket, R. I.

The Australian Rabbit Pest.

Eva Gordon, a school girl, daughter of the chief inspector of stock of Queensland, in writing to some Kansas school children from Brisbane, the capital of that country, has this to say of the rabbit pest of Queensland: "About twenty or thirty years ago two or three pairs of rabbits were imported into Queensland. Now they go about in millions, eating as they go, and leaving the ground without a blade of grass. In this country they also climb trees and eat the bark, so that there is no vegetation at all left for the sheep and cattle where the rabbits have been. The squatters must have wire-netting fences all around their 'runs;' that is what you would call ranches. Men have also been sent out by the government to poison rabbits, and hundreds of dead ones are to be seen often on a small area. The rabbits burrow in the ground, so the fences have to be put sufficiently under the ground to prevent their getting underneath."—Kansas City Journal.

SCIENTIFIC FORESTRY.

A MILLIONAIRE'S NOTEWORTHY OBJECT IN TREE CULTURE.

George W. Vanderbilt Has Four Thousand Acres of Forest Under Care on His Biltmore Estate in North Carolina—Valuable Results.

In an article on the Biltmore Estate in Ainslee's Magazine, Phillip Poindexter describes interestingly Mr. Vanderbilt's lesson in scientific forest culture.

"We have been criminally wasteful in our treatment of the forests in America. Our great-grandfathers looked upon the forest as the great enemy of man, and so vast areas were destroyed to get arable land, and the wood wantonly burned to get it out of the way. Later, the lumber and the tanning interests have been just as wanton in their destruction, and now the paper makers are destroying in most wholesale fashion. As a matter of fact, all the good that has come from this forest destruction might have been achieved, and a very much larger area of woodland preserved. But we have been a 'slap-dash' people, with a disposition to hustle rapidly to whatever end in view. We are suffering now by reason of previous improvidence, and posterity will not bless us for our present recklessness. It is true the Government has taken up the subject, through the Department of Agriculture, and several of the States have taken action to preserve some public forests. Mr. Vanderbilt is the first private owner to take up this matter of scientific forest administration on a large scale. Scientific forest administration does not, it must be borne in mind, contemplate the non-use of the trees, but the rational use, so that the forests will not go out of existence, but, on the contrary, so that new growths will always be maturing to take the place of the old. Such administration should always be a source of income, and not one of outlay, more income, indeed, in even so short a time as a generation, than would be obtained by cutting down all the trees and marketing the various kinds of wood. It was such administration that Mr. Vanderbilt wished to inaugurate when he asked Mr. Clifford Pinchot to make a survey of the Biltmore forests and develop a plan of management.

ALL SORTS OF TREES.

Lying near the centre of the distribution of the flora of Eastern North America, the supply of native trees at Biltmore is naturally large and varied. Deciduous trees are in the majority, and the white oak is the most common. Then follow in the order of frequency in the forest the black oak, scarlet oak and Spanish oak. There are also a few specimens of other members of the family, like the chestnut of the red, water and shingle varieties. But more numerous than these infrequent members of the family, save the chestnut oak, are the short-leaf pine, chestnut, hickory, black gum, maple and tulip tree, the latter sometimes called the yellow poplar. The black locust and the sassafras have increased of late years, while the black walnut has about died out as a forest tree.

"In addition to those mentioned, there are distributed in various parts of the estate, all of them being of natural growth, this list of trees: Cucumber, papaw, basswood and white basswood, holly, sweet buckeye, sugar maple, black maple, soft maple, red maple, box elder, staghorn sumac and poison sumac, both the black and honey locust, wild plum, wild cherry of both the black and red varieties, crab apple, haw, scarlet haw and summer haw, shadbush, witch hazel, flowering dogwood, stagbush, sourwood, laurel and great laurel or rhododendron, persimmon, rattlebox, white ash, fringe tree, red elm, hackberry, red mulberry, sycamore, hickories of the bigbud, shellbark, pignut and bitternut varieties, chincapin, beech, hornbeam or ironwood, both river and black birch, black alder, black willow, poplar, balsam, cottonwood, red cedar, hemlock and pines of the white, pitch, scrub, table mountain and short-leaf varieties.

"Not all of these have a mercantile value, and before the estate was purchased by Mr. Vanderbilt they were allowed to grow indiscriminately and in the most promiscuous fashion by the number of small farmers who owned the properties of which the estate is made up. That so many varieties of trees and shrubs will thus grow naturally is of advantage in view of the fact that Mr. Vanderbilt is establishing here one of the most complete arboretums in the world.

VALUABLE HINTS.

"The forest comprises a little over one-half of the estate, which stretches along the banks of the French Broad for about six miles. In all, there are 3,891 acres of woodland. The forest is very irregular, as a result of the clearing operations of the many previous owners, all of whom had their own necessities and their own ideas of how land should be cleared. The axe has in some parts entirely denuded the land of trees, and fire has served a similar purpose in other portions. Density of growth, therefore, varies considerably both as to the young and the mature trees. Two things have at least been proved by the work that has been done at the forest. These are that large trees, surrounded by a dense growth of smaller ones, may be felled and removed with comparatively very unimportant injury to the young crop, and that the additonal cost of the necessary care beyond that of ordinary destructive lumbering is so small as to be out of all proportion to the result. If this latter fact should be established later on in other parts of the United States, it importance to the future success of intelligent forestry will be of inestimable value to owners of woodlands.

"This selection system will be carried on over the two-thirds of the estate that is situated on the west side of the French Broad. On the other side of the river the regular High Forest system is to be adopted. There the land has been divided into ninety-two sections, and there, in a theoretically perfect forest, the trees will be cut in one section after another in rotation until the whole ninety-two sections have been gone over with, when the rotation work will begin again. Mr. Vanderbilt, young man though he still is, can hardly expect to see this plan carried out and the theory of a perfect forest growth proved. That will be left to his heirs."

The leading article in Ainslee's Magazine describes the University of Pennsylvania's excavations at Nippur. The article reads in part:

"The mounds which ahe being excavated at Nippur cover several distinct cities, each one apparently having been founded on the ruins of the city which preceded it. It would seem that when a temple had crumbled away a new dynasty would level the ruins by building a platform over them. On this the new temple would be built. Five or more such platforms have been discovered in Nippur, and each one represents an interval of centuries. Each city in a manner became the cellar of its successor, and one can imagine in the millenniums that passed some inhabitant discovering a strange passageway beneath his house winding down to wonderful caverns. Yet the platforms sem to have kept the periods quite separate. Of course, those objects which are comparatively recent were found not far below the surface of the mounds. Such, for instance, were the business records of the firm of Murashu sons of Nippur, a concern which thrived in the time of Artaxerxes I., 464 years before Christ. These tablets are, in a sense, the oldest book-keping records in the world. Professor Hilprecht, in telling how he found them, says:

"'While exploring the central part of the northwestern ridge of the ruins of Nippur we discovered a room (5.5 x 2.75 metres wide) about six metres below the surface. Its ceiling had collapsed long ago; its side walls, for the greater part, were in ruins, and the clay floor was covered with earth and rubbish from above. A gang of trained Affej workmen was ordered to remove the debris that filled the room, when suddenly they noticed numerous clay tablets lying upon the floor. A few hours later, the whole room had been carefully searched and cleaned. Seven hundred and thirty tablets were gathered and safely stored in the castle of our fortified camp.

"'After a critical examination of the building itself, and of the condition, position and contents found therein, it became evident aht the excavated room had been once used as a business archive of the apparently wealthy and influential firm of Murashu sons of Nippur, who lived in the time of Artaxerxes I. and Darius II., in whose reigns the documents are dated.'

"'These tablets are mortgages, notes, legal contracts and agreements of all kinds, and to read them as they have been translated by Professor Hilprecht one would almost believe them to be the work of a modern notary. Perhaps the most remarkable record is the first one translated. It is a guarantee that an emerald set in a gold ring will not fall out for twenty years. It reads as follows:

"'Bel-ad-iddina and Belshuna, sons of Bel and Hatin of Bazuzu, spoke unto Bel-nadinshumu, son of Murashu, thus: As concerns the gold ring set with an emerald, we guarantee that for twenty years the emerald will not fall out of the gold ring. If the emerald should fall out of the gold ring before the end of twenty years, Bel-ad-iddina, Belshuna and Hatin shall pay unto Bel-nadin-sumu an indemnity of ten mana of silver.'

"This is a sample of the remarkable documents found in the archive room, which in our day would have ben a vault or an iron safe. Murashu sons must have carried on an extensive business, which lasted over fifty years, during which time they acted as agents for the wealthy Persians who did not care to attend in person to their large estates in the hot and malarious Babylonian country, but leased their fields and other property to the firm, and lived from their revenues in the cities with their manifold luxuries and attractions. All this is quite evident from the many contracts, leases, bills of sale of land, orchards, slaves, oxen, etc., taken from the debris of that ancient room."

Horses In South Africa.

Sickness and mortality among the horses and mules used by the British in the war in South Africa have been exceedingly heavy. It must be remembered that many if not most of these animals were sent from England and the United States direct to the seat of war, and were, of course, unacclimated and unaccustomed to the parched veldts of South Africa. Moreover, they were called into action before they had recovered from their long sea journey. Glanders and kindred diseases, due to exposure, bad water and exhaustion, probably carried off thousands of these brutes, and undoubtedly many more would have succumbed had it not been for the splendid arrangements made by Lord Roberts and his generals in bringing up the supplies. Inferior and sometimes insufficient and irregular food also caused much disease. The horses and mules which were with the beleagured garrisons in Ladysmith and Kimberly were much emaciated, and many of them were eaten by the soldiers and civilians

ANIMALS AFRAID OF GHOSTS.

There is a widespread belief in south Germany, in Ireland, in Scotland, and I know not how many countries, that horses and dogs have "an instinct" for uncanny realities. In Germany the popular notion is that no horse will pass by the place where the body of a suicide lies, or even by the spot where someone has committed suicide, or where an execution has taken place. This is something different from the repugnance that all horses have to the neighborhood of a slaughter-house. Only two days ago a Tyrolese horse of very docile disposition, driven carefully by his Italian owner, was greatly upset at having to pass two widely separated government shambles, used for supplying meats to the crews of Italian warships. He was also greatly disgusted at having to go near a scavenger's cart. His protests, however, were mild compared with the behavior of horses under "uncanny" influences. The Moro's owner said: "A horse has a keener nose than any dog," and he talked soothingly to him; "didn't know why that dirt cart was always in the same place," "well-welled" him and told him "the slaughter-house was fifty yards off his road," and so forth. In "haunted" quarters, on the other hand, the horse refuses with determination; he trembles, snorts, is covered from head to heels, in time, with a white foam, his eyes roll and shoot fire and the end is sometimes a bad accident, sometimes a hard-fought victory for the driver, sometimes his ignominious defeat. I could name Irish cross roads past which almost every horse in the county refused to go quietly after dark. The last purchase from, maybe, the other end of the island might be taken to the spot without any (possibly indoctrinated) equine companion to frighten him, but he unfailingly "turned rusty" as soon as he tried the unhallowed ground. The local explanations were various; that the land on one side was "cursed," that formerly criminals were executed and then buried at many cross roads, and possibly here, and that the fir trees and a castellated lodge in one angle of the intersecting ways made the spot terribly dark, and so on.—London News.

SEASON OF REST.

Lent Is a Time for Gaining Flesh and Beauty.

Lent, in the eyes of the society girl, isn't only a time for fasting and prayer, but it is a very important period of semi-rest, during which the ravages wrought in face and form by the dissipations of the season may be repaired so that Easter will find her fresh and lovely again. Candy is entirely tabooed during this period. The money that she herself would spend for the sweets goes—well, it may go to the heathen or it may not; there's no use assuming that it's put aside to buy a parasol next summer, unless it really is. Percival's instructions on this point are very explicit—violets, and nothing else, will be graciously received during the penitential season, their purple chimes in so well with the general somber color scheme that it doesn't seem out of place to spend money for them. But candy is not the only thing abjured for the sake of abstinence and complexion. All sweets are given up, plain food and little of it eaten, and hot water in copious quantities takes the place of chocolate between meals, or other drinks which may have a deleterious effect on the roses and lilies of the skin. Even now the hours kept are not particularly early ones, but there's much more time to rest during the day—all the afternoon, in fact, until it is time for the 5 o'clock service, whither the maid goes wearing a dreamy look and where she assumes a prayerful pose that makes the men in the back pews wonder if this is indeed the butterfly girl who has seemed so frivolous all winter. Rest is the greatest of beautifiers, and to tell the truth, milady is something too tired-looking now to be at her best, but she'll be fresh enough by Easter, with her dieting, her naps during the day, her long walks and the gymnastic exercises with which she rounds her arms and covers the harsh outlines of her angles with soft, curving, firm flesh. Indeed, if she adheres to the strict rules she has set to follow, she'll look like a lily herself before the 15th of April rolls around; a particularly healthy and attractive lily, too; but will she keep the rules, that's the question?—Baltimore News.

WHO ARE IN "WHO'S WHO?"

A Good Thing to Be Born an English Peer.

Nearly thirty years ago Dr. Galton, in his "Hereditary Genius," pointed out how rarely a man got into the dictionaries of contemporary biography before the age of 50, and his statement is true, even to the present day, says the Fortnightly Review; the mean age of the persons mentioned in "Who's Who" is no less than 55, even though several names are included of persons who have had greatness thrust upon them in the first decade of their lives. "It is better to be born lucky than rich," says the proverb, "but," adds a distinguished humorist, "if you can't be either, the next best thing is to be born a British peer," and this seems at any rate justified by the large amount of attention paid to the hereditary house and the baronetcy by "Who's Who," no less than 11 per cent of its entries being devoted to merely titular distinctions. If these had been omitted, the mean age of distinction would probably rise even higher than 55, and, at any rate, Dr. Galton's threshold limit of 50 for entry into the biographical dictionaries is thoroughly well justified. Now there are only about 4,000,000 Englishmen over 50 in the British empire and the proportion of those that reach eminence in the various collections I have mentioned would, consequently, be 2,664 per million for "Who's Who," 1,600 for the Dictionary of National Biography, and 1,332 for "The Men of the Time." This latter publication seems to have lowered its standard in the last thirty years, as Dr. Galton, in 1869, reckoned that 425 of every million Englishmen over 50 attained sufficient reputation to earn a place in that receptacle. It must, besides, be remembered that we have taken colonies into our calculation, and, as the colonial contingent is naturally small, this would tend to magnify the seeming increase of distinction in "Men of the Time."

AN AWE-INSPIRING SIGHT

Total Eclipse of the Sun Viewed With Favorable Weather Conditions.

SOME IMPORTANT DISCOVERIES MADE

In every section of the southern states Monday over which the belt of totality of the sun's eclipse extended the weather was ideal for the observation of this remarkable phenomenon.

In the southern portion of Alabama there was some haziness, but other than this the astronomers and scientists who located their observatories in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana report that the weather could not have been more auspicious for the study of the sun's eclipse and to secure splendid photographs of the details attending the passage of the great orbs.

From the many stations of observation established by universities and scientific and private parties the reports indicate that the taking of scientific data was entirely successful and no incidents occurred to mar in the smallest degree the full benefit that was expected to be derived from the event by the scientists, many of whom made long journeys to view the eclipse for 85 seconds.

The two most notable features of the day was the discovery by Prof. Lord of the Ohio State university, who believes he obtained results that tend to prove that the mysterious matter which forms the corona is to be found also in the solar prominences and the existence of protuberances on the sun as reported by Prof Pickering of Harvard.

What constitutes the gaseous element surrounding the sun, however, has not been determined and if any astronomer has solved this problem he has not committed himself.

The United States naval observatory achieved splendid success at both Barnesville and Griffin. Following is part of a statement given out by Prof. Updegraf, who directed the work at the government station at Barnesville:

"The weather was very favorable, and the conditions good. Our programme was carried out without interruption, without accident or delay. We secured 20 protographs on the five cameras mounted on the polar axis and four photographs with the large photo-heliograph. The transparency of the sky was good and the steadiness of the air excellent. We feel as far as we can tell at this time that the observations were entirely successful."

The force of the word "totality" when applied to the temporary extinction of the sun's rays was fully appreciated. The eclipse came with startling precision, in spite of a miscalculation of seven seconds, and while the period of totality lasted, nature seemed to stand still, in awe, if not in fear, of the manifestation.

The first perception of something beyond the ordinary came to Barnesville and vicinity in the shape of a gray, pearly light that streamed down when the sun's sphere was half obscured, diminishing gradually as the crescent of the visible surface narrowed. The shadow bands, denoting the coming of the total eclipse, were clearly perceptible against a white surface in the increasing gloom for fully three minutes before the rays were entirely obscured. These shadow bands, strangely coming from the northwest, were watched with peculiar interest, and first were seen a series of small, wavy shadows falling against the white surface, quickly growing larger and more dense and coming in rapid succession, until, as the moment of totality arrived, a great wave of gloom, enveloping everything in nature, shot by the southeast.

It was noted by many that the birds in the trees, chirping merrily only a moment before ceased their singing. The intense stillness was broken at once by a breeze that seemed to spring up from nowhere and which none of the local weather prophets could explain. The time of darkness in which everything was obscured to such a degree that a man would fail to distinguish his friend across the street, seemed long to the ordinary observer, but to science, unreasonably short.

From all points comes the news of a perfect day for the eclipse with no cloud to obscure the phenomenon.

Generally speaking, the observations taken by the astronomers were confined to three separate lines of work:

The old method of telescopic observations; viewing of the eclipse with the naked eye, and the photographing of the phenomena of the eclipse. The path of totality today began in the Pacific ocean, just west of Mexico. It passed eastward across Mexico, and entering the United States near New Orleans, proceeded in a northeasterly direction until it left the continent close to Norfolk, Va. Then it crossed the Atlantic, touched Portugal and afterward passed across northern Africa, leaving the earth finally near the northern end of the Red sea.

In this country the cities of New Orleans, Mobile, Montgomery, Raleigh and Norfolk were in the totality path.

Besides these cities the path of darkness, including thirty other town which are large enough to have their names on the map. Few, if any, observatory parties were located at the large cities for the reason that they lacked the altitude, and an unobstructed view for any distance was not to be found. The higher altitude gave reasonable assurance also of clearer atmosphere, and at this season of year less clouds are generally found, especially in Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina.

While the eclipse was visible all over the country, it was only within a path of fifty-five miles in width, extending from New Orleans to Norfolk that the obscuration was complete. It will be readily seen, therefore, that a difference of five miles in this belt makes a difference of one fifth in the matter of time in which the obscuration may be witnessed, and a position near the central line of totality increased in geometrical proportion to the stupendous grandeur of the phenomenon.

The United States government appropriated liberally for the great work, and observation parties were established at three places in the south and at Tripoli, in Africa, by the naval observatory. Professor Smithson J. Brown, United States astronomical director, is in charge of the naval parties in the south, which number sixty persons. Professor Brown's headquarters was at Barnesville, Ga. The preliminary work, such as selecting a site, erecting tents and installing the instruments, was in charge of Prof. Milton Updegraff.

At Union Springs, Ala., the solar eclipse was observed by a party of fourteen astronomers, using an outfit from the Allegheny observatory of Allegheny, Pa. The sky was clear, a slight haziness preventing in a slight degree a perfect vision of the corona. During the approach the astronomers succeeded in obtaining twenty-six photographs which are to be used in ascertaining the times of the approach. Fifty beautiful views were obtained during the totality.

The corona and chromosphere came out with great beauty, and although the sky was a little hazy around the sun, it is believed that a good extent of the corona has been secured on plates.

At Opelika, Ala., the eclipse was a sublime spectacle and the totality lasted nearly two minutes. The sky was cloudless. Thousands viewed the phenomenon through smoked or colored glasses. Chickens went to roost, and many persons were badly frightened. Numerous negroes and some whites thought judgment day had come.

At Montgomery the eclipse began at 6:30 and was very near totality at 7:36 central time. The effect was so near totality that the solar corona was visible to the naked eye. Several stars were seen. The daylight softly faded to nearly dusk-like darkness, and for a few seconds an almost entire silence prevailed.

Dewey's Claim Not Allowed.

The United States supreme court Monday, decided Admiral Dewey's bounty claim against the Admiral's contention. The effect is to deprive the Admiral and the men engaged with him at Manila of half the amount claimed by them.

Justice Harlan rendered the opinion of the court, which turned on whether the words "superiority" or "inferiority" in the statute had reference to support of the enemy's vessels by land batteries, mines and torpedoes.

The original claims of Admiral Dewey and his sailors was about $100,000. The court of claims reduced it to $200,000. That decision is sustained by the decision. The Admiral's personal claim is reduced from about $20,000 to $10,000.

ON BOER SOIL BRITONS MARCH

Roberts Leads His Army Into the Transvaal.

CLIMAX NEARLY REACHED

When Lord Roberts wrote his first dispatch on Transvaal territory Sunday, shortly before 2 o'clock in the afternoon, he was fifty-one miles from Johannesburg and seventy-seven from Pretoria. His immensely superior forces had passed the Vaal river, their last great obstacle, at three points.

The Vaal forms a curve of eighty miles from Pary's on the west to Zand Drift on the east. The concave of the curve is toward the Free State. Thus Lord Roberts, advancing along the railway, as in a position to strike any part of the crescent by shorter line than those by which the Boers could re-enforce the threatened points. The Boers retreated almost without a show of defense.

Of Lord Roberts' immediate force eleven men, belonging to the Eighth mounted infantry, were the first to ford the river. They came upon a Boer patrol looting at Viljoen's Drift and skirmish lasting ten minutes followed. Two hundred Boers tried feebly to hold the Veredeniging colliery, but they were dislodged.

The Boer rear guard is at Meyerton, ten miles south of Veredeniging Their main body is moving toward the Klip river hills, that cover the south side of Johannesburg.

While Lord Roberts' 30,000 infantry, 20,000 horses and 150 guns are moving on Johannesburg and Pretoria, through a parched and deserted country, the situation at the Transvaal capital as it was last Friday, is thus described by an observer, who sent his message by private hand to Lourenzo Marques Saturday:

"The situation, both from a military and a political point of view, has become very critical. President Kruger Thurssday admitted that matters are very grave. The Boer determination is to trust everything to a last stand on the Gats Rabd mountains, to the north of Potchefstroom, where 3,000 kaffirs are digging trenches. To that point every available man and gun have been sent.

"The whole of the western border of the Transvaal from end to end is defenseless and General Baden-Powell can march in when he likes. Lord Roberts, on the other hand, will encounter the greatest resistance. The Boer endeavor is to lure the British into appearing to threaten Johannesburg with attack, an excuse thus being given them for the destruction of property. The Transvaal government will not dare destroy the mines and property without an excuse. Much dynamite has been sent down the line and 160,000 cases lie ready at Zuurfontein, near Johannesburg.

"General Louis Botha and General Lucas Meyer have pleaded for the preservation of property. Both are large landed proprietors and fear confiscation, but they have not received satisfactory replies from President Kruger.

"Meanwhile many French and German adventurers have come forward with schemes and inventions for blowing up the British troops. Some of these have received a tacit permission to experiment. One German invention is for use on a railway, where it lies perfectly concealed until the weight of a passing train explodes the charge.

President Kruger's proclamation to the burghers asking their vote for and against continuing the war is understood to say that they can quit now with the prospect of retaining their farms or continue to the bitter end. Rumors are current in Lord Roberts' army that the Boers intend to surrender.

MAY RETURN FLAGS.

G. A. R. Men Willing To Give Up Their Confederate Trophies.

A special to The Chicago Times-Herald from Washington says:

"During the G. A. R. encampment in Chicago President McKinley may have the pleasure of returning to the southern states the Confederate battle flags now in the war department."

"Prominent members of the Grand Army of the Republic have in hand a plan to secure the authorization of congress for the return of these flags, and it is hoped both houses will pass the necessary joint resolution before adjournment."

River and Harbor Bill Reported.

The senate committee on commerce, through Senator McMillan, reported the emergency river and harbor bill Friday. The general appropriation made by the bill was increased from $200,000 to $250,000.

Meeting of Anti-Imperialists.

New York anti-imperialists held an enthusiastic meeting at Cooper Union Thursday night to advocate "an American policy in the Philippines."

CENTURY FUND

Of One Million Dollars To Be Raised By the Southern Presbyterians.

The assembly of the southern Presbyterian church has decided unanimously to raise a fund of $1,000,000—a twentieth century fund—with which to endow the educational institutions of the church.

The decision was reached Friday evening at the conclusion of perhaps the most enthusiastic session the assembly has held since it convened in Atlanta, Ga., and as an aftermath to an appeal by Dr. J. F. Cannon, of St. Louis.

The address of the former moderator, Dr. Cannon, was powerful and clear cut; decisive in its demand for progress; caustic in its reply to timid questioning, and sternly denunciatory in its arraignment of institutions of learning which are "colorless" when it comes to religion. The address of Dr. Cannon made in reply to a criticism of the twentieth century movement, and coming extemporaneously as the occasion demanded it, may be regarded in its logic, power and appeal as the distinct feature of the assembly.

The Presbyterian church of the south is pledged to the rasing of $1,000,000 for education, and with its accustomed conservatism the assembly has allowed five years for the work to be completed. Before adjournment was taken a committee of pastors to take control of the fund was appointed and everything necessary to undertaking the big task has been arranged.

The central committee consists of a chairman, Dr. W. W. Moore, of Union seminary, and a vice chairman, Dr. Charles R. Hemphill, of Kentucky, with one minister and one elder or deacon from each synod of the church. The representation of each synod on the committee was settled previously by each synodical delegation retiring and choosing its minister and elder or deacon.

ENVOYS ISSUE STATEMENT.

Transvaal Representatives Promise to Visit Various Cities.

"Messrs. Fischer, Wessels and Wolmarans, who are representing the South African republics in this country, have received many pressing invitations from most of the large cities of the United States to visit them, but owing to the short time they have to spend in this country it will not be possible to accept all of the invitations received. It is their intention to return as soon as circumstances permit to their country, staying in Europe sufficient time to carry out their instructions, but before leaving they have concluded to yield to the great demand on the part of the American people to spend a few more days in America, and they have concluded first of all to visit Baltimore, Philadelphia, Providence and Boston during next week.

"After visiting these cities they are in hopes of being able to spare the time to extend their visit to several cities in the middle states, timely notification of which will be given to the committees who have honored them with invitations. The common councils and mayors of a number of cities are urging them by resolutions to make them a visit, and it may be possible that their stay in this country may be prolonged a few days in order to meet their wishes.

"The envoys regret exceedingly that they cannot meet the great numbers of people who are so anxious to greet them, as they would like to do. They express themselves as grateful for the many expressions of sympathy heard upon all sides for the cause that is so dear to them, and they trust that the fact that they cannot visit all who wish them to do so will in no way interfere with the full and free expression of sympathy and good will on their part."

Pleases the Cubans.

President McKinley has received the following dispatch dated Manzanillo, Cuba, May 24, 1900: "The city council applauds the noble course taken by your government in hoisting the Cuban flag at Paris. CESPEDES."

McKinley Congratulates Victoria.

President McKinley, through Secretary Hay, sent a message of congratulations to Queen Victoria on the occasion of her birthday Thursday.

EVIDENCE OF CONCILIATION.

Pictures of Davis and Lee Adorn the Louisville Federal Building.

As an evidence of the extent to which sectional lines have been extinguished between the north and the south, it was announced at reunion headquarters at Louisville Saturday evening that several thousand Indianians would attend the great meeting. The most unusual bit of evidence, however, is found in the fact that the Louisville custom house and postoffice is decorated with confederate flags and colors and pictures of Robert E. Lee and Jefferson Davis adorn its walls.

Friday, Senator Carter, of Montana, presented in the senate the certificate of Governor Smith appointing Hon. Martin Maginnis senator to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Senator Clark and to which Mr. Clark also had been appointed by Lieutenant Governor Spriggs in the absence of the governor. In accordance with a request made by Senator Carter the certificate was laid on the table

HAMILTON JOINS ROBERTS' FORCES

Two Sections of British Army Now Combined.

ADVANCE ON TRANSVAAL.

Boers Retreating and Burning Bridges Behind Them.

A London special says: The latest intelligence from Lord Roberts' headquarters at Vredefort station, filed Thursday at 5:45 p. m., was that the British were rapidly advancing. General Hamilton had effected a junction with Lord Roberts. The country in from of them was clear of Boers to Viljoen's drift. The Boers were evacuating all their positions south of the Vaal river and 5,000 had already crossed to the north bank. Probably General French's cavalry is already reconnoitering the fords of the Vaal.

War office observers expect that the next dispatch from the field marshal will be dated in sight of the Transvaal frontier.

Mr. Bennett Burleigh, wiring to the Daily Telegraph from Vredefort Thursday morning, said Lord Roberts would doubtless cross the Vaal river Saturday or Sunday. The British outposts were then at Erste Goluk, nine miles north of Vredefort and twenty-six miles south of the Vaal river. The railway is much damaged. While the British in overwhelming force are approaching the Transvaal the movement of the Boers are enveloped in mystery. The last Pretoria news to reach Lourenzo Marques was a week old. Everybody seeking to cross the Portuguese border from the Tranvaal is searched for newspapers and letters. Dispatches and mail letters containing even harmless references to the war are suppressed; the only news that has emerged from the Transvaal during the last ten days has come by word of mouth.

According to these oral reports the Boers were quarreling among themselves. Transvaal paper money was circulating at 80 per cent discount. Beckets' firm was giving one pound in gold for five pounds in paper. Krouz and Klinke, the engineers who opposed the blowing up of ~~the~~ mines, have been dismissed. Commandant Schutte had been appointed to defend Johannesburg, and all the British subjects had been turned out. The Transvaalers fear that the British will blow up the bridge at Komati poort, thus cutting off their supplies from Delagoa, and a commando of 500 is guarding the bridge.

It is reasserted that President Kruger will retire to Lydenburg when fighting is imminent at Johannesburg and Pretoria. Concern is expressed at Pretoria with reference to the possibility that General Carrington may come down from Rhodesia with 5,000 men to co-operate with as many more entering the Transvaal by way of Mafeking. Horse sickness is said to have broken out among General Carrington's brigade.

Cecil Rhodes is at Bier, Portuguese East Africa. Mr. Fuller, a member of the Cape parliament, who is supposed to be a confidant of Mr. Rhodes, said in the course of a speech at Cape Town Wednesday, when proposing the health of Mr. Rhodes, that the latter "was working to consolidate South Africa from the Zambesi to Table Bay."

Major Baden-Powell declines to act on the suggestions of his friends that he should return to England for rest. He is determined to retain his active command at the front. Advices from Mafeking dated May 20th, say:

"The Boers are intrenching at Polfontein, ten miles east of Mafeking. The northern railway is now repaired to a point within four miles of the town. Ample supplies of plain food are coming in.

"Colonel Baden-Powell voluntarily gave up fifty-three Boers and eleven wounded to the Boer commandant, who thanked him for his kindness."

The Barantongs, stimulated by the British success, attacked the rebel natives at Belfontein May 19th, and took much loot. They released Sani, the old chief, who rendered good service to the British in keeping Mafeking with news of the Boer operations.

DUELISTS EXTINCT.

Captain Page, "Last of the Line," Dies In Richmond, Va.

Captain Page McCarty was the last of the famous southern duelists. He was in May, 1873, one of the principals in an affair that was romantic as well as fatal. He killed John Mordecai, a prominent lawyer, and was himself terribly wounded. The lady who was at that time the belle of the south was the innocent cause of this duel.

MORGAN OBJECTS.

Declares Spooner Bill Confers Arbitrary Power Upon the President.

Discussion of the Spooner Philippine bill was continued in the senate Friday by Mr. Morgan, of Alabama. On the general question of the ownership and government by the United States of the Philippine Islands he was in accord with Senator Lodge, but he regarded the pending bill as unwise and dangerous legislation because of the great power it placed in the hands of the president. He was satisfied, however, that the measure would not be passed by this congress, and declared that it was being used as a foil to thrust aside the Nicaragua canal bill.

Much of Senator Morgan's speech was devoted to the canal bill and to denunciation of the efforts to prevent its enactment at this session. Mr. Morgan attacked the Spooner measure as concentrating all the power over the Philippines in the president of the United States. It was legalizing absolutism and took away from the senate the power to confirm the appointments of the president.

MOB BLOCKS JUSTICE.

Negro Returned to Jail In Order to Save His Life.

John Moran, a negro charged with assaulting a white woman in Floyd county, Ga., was taken from the Tower in Atlanta Friday morning and started on the way to Rome for trial.

Had Deputy Sheriff W. G. Dunehoo not been stopped at Cartersville a lynching would have undoubtedly occurred at Freeman's, on the Rome railway.

A band of 100 to 150 determined men, grimley silent and thoroughly masked, flagged the train and searched it thoroughly, but were foiled by quick work of the officers.

Moran is charged with having attempted to assault Mrs. Abner Camp, of Floyd county, a member of a prominent and highly connected family. Her heroic defense and cries frightened her assailant and he fled. He was hotly pursued but escaped, not being captured for several days.

All this, of course, came to the knowledge of Sheriff Camp and the other officers. Deputy Dunehoo was wired to leave the train at Cartersville with his prisoner and proceed in a buggy toward Atlanta until he caught a return train. This he did and thus saved Moran from mob vengeance.

PRESIDENT VISITS BATTLEFIELD.

Witnesses Laying Corner Stone of Memorial Shaft.

On the ground over which the old Fifth corps charged at Fredericksburg, Va., President McKinley, his cabinet and General Miles Friday witnessed the laying of the corner-stone in a shaft which will perpetuate in bronze and granite the heroism of the Army of the Potomac.

It was an impressive ceremony and rendered the more so by the fact that among the hundreds who witnessed the event were noted leaders of both the Federal and Confederate forces. The monument was the personal gift of General Daniel Butterfield to the National Memorial Association.

SOME MEMBER SPECULATED.

Partner In McCormick Firm Tells How It Happened.

George Crocker, of the firm of Price, McCormick & Co., of New York, who is in Rome, Italy, informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that he was the chief partner of the firm and that the failure was a great surprise to him.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Crocker, "the failure was probably caused by private speculations in cotton of a member of the firm, unknown to the other partners and contrary to the rules of the firm, which absolutely forbid speculation.

REQUISITION NOT HONORED.

Counsel for Hugh A. Bell, of Atlanta, Ga., a contractor who is wanted in South Carolina on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, and for the sheriff of Pickens county, South Carolina, appeared before Governor Candler Saturday to argue the right of requisition from Governor McSweeney, of the neighboring state.

Governor Candler announced immediately after the hearing that he would not recognize the requisition for Hugh A. Bell, and gave as his reason that the law does not admit of requisition as a means of collecting debt—only as a means of punishing crime and that the proof of crime on Bell's part had not been established.

It is seldom that one governor refuses a requisition asked for by the chief executive of another state, but in this case Governor Candler has notified Governor McSweeney of his position and asked him if he does not concur therein. Bell will not be surrendered to the South Carolina authorities, and this much was made known as a result of the hearing.

FAVOR DAY OF EIGHT HOURS.

The Industrial Commission Sends In Its Report to Congress.

The industrial commission, in its report to congress on labor legislation, recommends improved legislation to the state legislatures rather than to congress directly.

"The subject of greatest public interest today," says the report, "is perhaps that of the regulation of the hours of labor permitted in industrial occupations, and especially in factories."

A Peculiar Death.

Near Warrior, Will Washington, an old and respected negro of that place, met a peculiar death a few days ago. He was returning from the Warrior river, where he had been fishing and had reached a point about 100 yards from the railroad bridge. At this point a train came along and a big rock, weighing about forty pounds, was hurled from a dump car in the train and struck the negro a terrific blow in the side. Those with him carried him to his home and he died in about three hours.

Developing Manganese Ore.

An extensive deposit of manganese ore near Piedmont is being developed and the ore shipped to furnaces in the Birmingham district. The mines are located on the East & West railroad in Cleburne county, about eight miles east of Piedmont and are operated by J. H. Mountain. Ten cuts varying in length from 10 to 20 feet have been run into the mountain side in all of which has been found large deposits of ore. Samples taken from these cuts have been analyzed and assay from 42.01 to 53.61 pure manganese. Two of the openings which are 300 feet apart show solid manganese. Ore from one of these cuts with a 15-foot face assays at the top 76.75 and at the bottom 43.12.

FOR COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE,

FOR SENATOR 15TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT,
W. R. OLIVER, of SHELBY.

THE General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church in session at Atlanta decided to raise a twentieth century fund of $1,000,000 with which to endow the educational institutions of the Church.

ATTORNEY B. W. BRAND has inaugurated a movement to build and equip a home at this place for indigent and disabled Confederate veterans. He hopes to raise the funds by popular subscription, and, come to think of it, one dollar given by each voter in Alabama, would build and maintain a magnificent refuge for these worthy people, who richly merit all we can possibly do for them in their old age. No worthier cause ever appealed to the generosity of our people.

THE Northern Methodists have abandoned the time limit, and this distinctive feature of Methodism is now a thing of the past. Ere long the circuit-rider will follow in its wake. We do not wish to judge harshly, but it does seem as though nothing short of pure unadulterated selfishness is at the bottom of this innovation. The best talent among the ministry will soon settle down for life in the pulpits of the wealthy churches, while the congregations composed of members of modest means will have to content themselves with the best that is left after the rich churches have had the pick, and the poor country churches, Oh, my! what will they get? But the world moves, and the Northern Methodists we suppose are trying to keep up with the procession. Should Wesley wake up he would not recognize his offspring.

THE editor of the Guntersville Democrat is evidently well acquainted with our candidate for the legislature Hon. J. L. Peters, and with the conditions existing in Shelby county, for the following extract is a perfect description of both: "At this particular time, when the people of Alabama have turned aside from the hateful bickerings and strife of recent years, and have resolutely set their faces toward a higher plane of living, toward an awakening along the line of industrial and educational and financial improvement, toward the betterment of state and county and individual conditions, and toward a higher citizenship; at this time in the history of Marshall county when her citizens have laid the olive branch of peace upon the grave of partisan bitterness, at this time it has come to pass that the people are seeking a man who is worthy to go to the state capital and take his seat as a representative from Marshall next fall with a clean record of personal integrity and a clear brain of unbiased judgement. A man whose vote is not purchasable and whose character is above reproach. A man who has the courage to say no and the manhood to stick to it. A man who is too honorable to seek an office by appealing to local prejudice or animal passion. If Marshall county will seek out from among her citizens a man who can fill these requirements, and will send him to the legislature, the good old county will have taken a great stride forward which will shed a halo of honor upon her name and place her alongside more highly favored counties in our good state of Alabama." Well, brother, Shelby county has been fortunate enough to find just such a man as you describe, and she proposes to redeem herself from past misrepresentation.

SUCCESS OR SUICIDE?

The New York World takes a bright view of our chances for success in November, but adds a word of timely warning that should best be heeded:

Events are so plainly making for democratic success this year that apparently only the wilful choice of a second campaign of suicide can prevent that party's triumph in the election.

Look at the situation.

A conspiracy for looting the postal revenues of Cuba by the chosen agents of the administration—the greatest scandal since the star-route frauds—is disclosed within less than a month after Porto Rico was put under a vicegerent of McKinley, "outside the constitution."

The Philippine war is no nearer an end than it was a year ago. There have been more losses of American soldiers and property and greater slaughter of the natives since March 1 than in any previous equal period of the war of subjugation. Another rainy season is approaching, with the natives everywhere implacably hostile.

McKinley's policy of militarism has increased the standing army threefold and trebled the cost of the navy.

Not a single war tax has been abated or will be by this congress. The republicans must go into the campaign exposed to the charge of maintaining taxation for a surplus and protection for trusts.

Organized monopoly has increased manyfold since McKinley was inaugurated, and his party has done nothing to prevent or punish its criminal exactions.

By adopting England's imperial policy and refusing even a word of sympathy with the Boer republics that are fighting for freedom and independence the administration has alienated large bodies of voters.

As Dr. William Everett, a representative reformer, says, the president "has allowed the war office to be dragged through the mire of nepotism and jobbery, and given the merit system the heaviest blows, to the encouragement of the spoilsmen, that have been dealt since Garfield's murder."

With all these issues and advantages in their favor, what is the program which the controlling democratic leaders have in mind?

To drag to the front again the dead and four times condemned fallacy of 16 to 1, which even success at the polls could not establish.

To shout the shibboleth of a calamity campaign in a year of abounding prosperity.

To cry for "more money," when in the last four years our money supply has increased fully $500,000,000.

To talk of low prices and inability to pay debts, when prices have advanced along the whole line and mortgages have been discharged by the car load—in good money.

Is this rational? Is it right? Is it even fanaticism that can be respected?

With the integrity of republican institutions involved in the election—with the constitution set aside and the declaration of independence repudiated—the democrats ought to win on the issues of imperialism, militarism and monoply. When to these are added the scandals and failures of the administration, the chance is greatly improved.

The campaign cry "Turn the rascals out!" is as natural and should be as effective as it was in 1876 or 1884. But will it be effective if conservative voters, perhaps unduly alarmed at what they regard as a menace to prosperity and property, shall ask: "Why turn the rascals out to let the lunatics in?"

Too Late—"We want a shorter day, sir," said the spokesman of dissatisfied workman.

"You should have spoken sooner," replied the proprietor. "The days are getting longer now."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

OUR SENATORS ARE EXPENSIVE.

The United States senate has been popularly dubbed "The Millionaires' Club."

It is the cheapest club in the world for the poor man to join. Its perquisites, daily increasing, are too enormous for reckoning. The newly prepared report of the secretary of that dignified body reveals some amusing facts. It shows, for instance, that a local drug firm received in the last fiscal year more than $1,700 for medicines and toilet articles. These were supplied to the senators for their individual use and paid for out of the generous pocket of Uncle Sam. No small item of this expenditure was 1,000 doses of bromo seltzer and bromo caffeine. Three dozens of caffeine powders, four cases of lithia water, two bottles of bromo lithia, and $2.70 worth of lithia tablets further contributed to keep the senatorial system in good repair. Twelve pounds of soda mint tablets were purchased for the alleviation of "that dark brown taste" and the extravagant sum of 80 cents was exchanged for tablets for indigestion.

To each senator there are four employees in various capacities. The smaller body of congress has come to cost Uncle Sam twice as much per member per annum as the house. Almost all of the sixty messengers receive $1,400 a year each, whereas the old blind chaplain is considered to be worth only $900. Yet he is dependent upon some one to lead him daily to and from the capitol. Laborers in the folding room get $1,000, and those who run the elevators enjoy still more—$1,200. The man in charge of the stationery room draws $2,102.40 annually; his assistants $1,800 and $1,200 respectively. The little pages who wait upon senators get $75 a month, the postmaster of the senate $2,250 annually, firemen $1,095, and the upholsterer and locksmith $1,440.

By far the greatest proportion of expense incurred each year for toilet articles is demanded by the senate barber shops and bath rooms. It is not generally known that each member of this distinguished body is barberized gratis as many times a day as he wishes. In conjunction are all the appurtenances to Turkish and Russian baths. Skilled masseurs are always in readiness to hasten the course of slothful blood.

Only a few people appreciate the value of good papers to a town, but these keep the presses going and hope sustained. Week after week, years in and out, the faithful papers hammer away, every issue taking to the world an advertisement of the place. Everything of local public moment appears in their columns and the reading public is constantly talking of what it saw in the papers. The press is the starting point for nearly every matter of interest and use to the public and even things that do not start with it are pushed along with increasing force by its constant, faithful exploitation. These are facts which the most callous will admit. The very worst old fossil confesses that if the printing presses of the land were shut down for a year it would paralyze business interests more than an internal war or the loss of a full crop. Yet how few business men, even though depending day by day on the gratuitous work of the papers in their community, ever help the papers for the help's sake? It must always promise them more than they give or they will not patronize it. They expect the press to work early and late from public-spirited motives only while for themselves there must be prospects of gain in plain view or they let us alone. This is due to false education and a too ready desire on the part of the paper man to be everybody's pack horse. But because it is a free horse is it really good policy to ride it to death? May it not be killing the hen that lays the golden egg? Say a good word for your home papers. Fill their columns with advertising even though you do not get a big direct profit on the investment. When an advertisement is solicited don't insult the man as a common beggar, and if you want his space don't cry him down—down from his rates until he must work for nothing as your slave. Hold up his hands, he will do you and yours good; he is already public spirited by nature and has his load of this sort to carry—don't pile more on him simply because you can. Keep him strong and brave and true and he will help you in many a place where you can not help yourself.—Talladega News Reporter.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

By F. W. GIST.

I am glad to see Hon. Joseph L. Peters announced as a candidate for the legislature. I have known him a long time, and his high moral character, his untarnished record as a democrat, his conservatism, his unquestioned ability, and his wide acquaintance over the county make him an ideal representative of the best thought, the highest interest, the purest sentiment of the county. If the democrats can not win with him at the head of the ticket there is nothing in the personality of candidates.

From those already announced the strongest and best ticket ever nominated can be named, and with the issues made by conditions already in existence success is a strong probability.

National issues are rapidly forming. The imperial policy of the administration, the open and high-handed frauds in the postal and other branches of the government, the mighty and fast increasing power of the trusts, are opening the eyes of the people and bringing the democrats together for a supreme effort to put the reign of the thief to flight and to give control of affairs back into the hands of the people. It is the time for sober thought and wisdom in the selection of candidates for congress. Let us hope that our district will be wise.

Senator Pettus will not say whether he will stand for reelection or not. He does say that if his health fails in the least he will not be in the race. There seems little prospect of failure, and it is to be hoped that he will be here for many a day. He has worked every day since he came here, and has made a wonderful record. He is the only senator who ever went on the judiciary committee during so short a service, and it is a high compliment to his ability and industry.

‡—†

I heard a story of local interest the other day. An important case was being tried in Columbiana. Several distinguished lawyers from abroad were in the case, and one home lawyer The home lawyer took no active part in the trial in the court room, but that night he went into a certain boarding house with three of the jurors and a bottle of corn juice, when a social chat of some hours ensued. The next day the case went in the direction of the corn juice. The only moral I could see to the story was that a wild-cat still sometimes produces better argument than a foreign lawyer.

LOOKING SOUTHWARD.

From the Toledo Journal.

There are countless inhabitants of the great basin drained by the Ohio and adjacent to the lakes who find the severity of our Northern winters a serious strain on their vitality. Farmers in Pennsylvania, in Ohio, in Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota labor and strive with the prodigal soil for sufficient food and raiment to carry them through our long, severe winters. Some of those gain in that hardy development which has always kept the people above the frost line the most sufficient of the race. Others, either themselves, their wives or their children, find this severity of winter a severe tax on their vitality. To these the South must always offer alluring inducements. To live under skies where the sun shines benignly all the 365 days of the year, and where the soil gives quite as liberal reward as that of any section of the world must always remain attractive, particularly to those whose throats and lungs tingle when the mercury dips low. These will find pleasant homes in the South, homes near to good markets (made constantly better by the increase of manufacturing in that section) and where food can be grown the entire year through.

And as a nation develops and strengthens exactly as the citizens thrive and prosper, so every Northern family which finds in the South relief from sickness, better health and finer, better conditions must tend to make the nation richer and stronger.

Conditions are rapidly making it possible for Northern reared men and women to contemplate a home under the sunny skies of that charming section without fear of finding unsatifactory surroundings.

Each Northern family will carry with it added advantages for those who follow.

And with the enormous increase of substantial manufacturing now assured and constantly increasing; with the utter effacement of those stings but natural with a great war: with the mighty stream of commerce finding outlet through the delta of the Mississippi to the water of the gulf and to the Orient; with Mexico developing and growing to the farther South, and with the great impetus which logically follows increasing material development the pending revolution lies doubtless toward the tropics rather than in the direction toward which the world has turned its eyes for the past fifty years, the teeming West.

Mabel (apropos of a new evening dress, which has just arrived from the dressmaker)—O mother, how lovely! Do wear it to-night.

Mother—No, dear, not to-night. This is for when ladies and gentlemen come to dinner.

"O mother," let's pretend, just for once, that father's a gentleman!"—Punch.

A nice gravel walk from the gate to the church steps has been laid in the Methodist church yard. It is wide and adds greatly to the yard, as well as being a great convenience.

Columbiana's fire department is minus everything but water and willing hands, but notwithstanding this fact it is all right, correct and strictly up-to-date in every particular and can't be beat nor approximated.

People with old iron, brass and such rubbish have found a market for their goods, and are disposing of it as fast as it can be gotten to the scales. As a consequence not much iron or wire is to be found on the streets.

The brick yard at this place is a regular bee-hive of industry, and brick are rapidly being laid on the ground. The dirt is being obtained from the opposite side of the hill to the old yard, and furnishes a tough and excellent quality of brick.

The democratic executive committee for this congressional district will meet in this city this afternoon. The committee meets to decide upon a plan for the nomination of a congressional candidate. It is likely a good attendance will be had.

Since being unseated by the supreme court, Taylor, of Kentucky, has gone into the life insurance business. He will doubtless be relieved from all embarassing situations hereafter by a prompt payment of claims to all relatives of deceased governors in his state.

Mrs. J. W. Fowler died very suddenly at her home in Wilsonville last Friday night of heart trouble, and was buried in the cemetery at that place on Sunday. She was a Miss Jane McGiboney before her marriage to Captain Fowler something over a year ago, and lived near this city. She was well known throughout the county as an exemplary christian lady and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She was about 60 years of age, and had lived here practically her entire life, the family being one of our earliest residents. The news of her death will cause universal regret.

The sun's eclipse was pulled off on schedule time last Monday morning, and was observed by many people of this city. The man with a smoked glass was more eagerly sought for than any other. Everybody was trying to explain it, and their ignorance of the subject was made more apparent the deeper they went. The next total eclipse of the sun, visible in this country, will be in 1916.

This paper would like to publish local news of interest from every postoffice in the county to which it goes. The paper goes each week to numerous subscribers who once lived in the county and who are always anxious to know what is going on in their old home. This style of reading makes the paper to some more newsy, more spicy and more thoroughly enjoyed. A little cooperation on the part of a few subscribers who have an interest in the paper can not fail to bring good results.

The ball game at this place last Friday between the Shelby nine and the local team resulted in a victory for Columbiana, the score standing, at the close of the game, 17 to 10. Some excellent hits and plays were made, and errors of no small magnitude were also indulged in. Shelby's greatest strength was displayed in the last innings, she having only four scores to her credit up to the sixth or seventh inning. Roberts and Mason were the batteries for Columbiana, and for Shelby Harrell, Smith and Averyt. Another game must necessarily be played to decide the championship.

Had it not been for the prompt response of our citizens on last Sunday afternoon the residence of Major J. W. Pitts on Main street would doubtless have been destroyed by fire. As it was, only slight damage was done. The fire was in the kitchen, near a window, and originated from a hot ash box which had been placed among the wood. The doors and windows leading into the kitchen had been fastened by the cook when she left the house, and one window had to be broken in to effect an entrance. This is the second time the house has been threatened since the Major purchased the place.

The closing exercises of the public school last Friday night was attended by one of the largest crowds that has ever greeted a similar entertainment in this city. The entire school participated in the exercises and furnished a long programme, which frequently elicited genuine applause from the large crowd. The garland drill by the smaller girls was indeed pretty, and gave evidence of thorough training on the part of those who had this difficult task in hand. The recitations and characters of the students of the primary department on the stage were the general favorites, many of the little tots acting their parts with the greatest freedom and showing little or no embarassment. The past session of the school has been a very successful one and has given general satisfaction to both public and patron alike.

A Card from Mr. Millstead.

MR. EDITOR—Kindly allow me space in your columns to correct a rumor which is being circulated to the effect that I have withdrawn from the race for sheriff. I have never authorized any such statement; on the contrary I am in the race to win, and shall continue in the race until the people select their candidates at the primary.

Respectfully,
H. M. MILLSTEAD.

A Card from Mr. Thompson.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:

Will you please allow me, through the columns of your valuable paper, a few words to the democrats of Shelby, as I will be unable to get out to see them before the primary election comes off, on account of bad health, that I earnestly desire their support for the nomination. If they feel that they can honor me with the nomination it will be appreciated.

Respectfully,
W. A. THOMPSON.

Withdraws from the Race.

Montevallo, Ala., May 29, 1900.

EDITOR CHRONICLE—It may be possible that my candidacy for sheriff of Shelby county will result to some extent in discord, and preferring not to be elected with this possibility in view I hereby withdraw from the race.

Having known Mr. John Ingram, of Calera, for a number of years it affords me pleasure to commend him to my friends as an upright and worthy citizen and to kindly ask their support in his behalf as a candidate for sheriff.

Thanking my many friends for their generous support and endorsement,

I am, very truly,
ALONZO M. CROSS.

CALL FOR DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY.

In accordance with the resolutions of the democratic executive committee of Shelby county passed at a meeting held in Columbiana on the 9th day of May, 1900, a primary election is hereby called to be held on Saturday, the 16th day of June, 1900, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for representative in the legislature, sheriff, treasurer, superintendent of education, tax assessor, tax collector, commissioner for the first and second districts, two justices of the peace for each beat, constable for each beat, and three from each beat as members of the democratic executive committee of Shelby county.

"All conservative white voters, irrespective of past political differences or associations who can unite with us in the effort for pure and economical government and who will support the nominees and principles of the democratic party," are cordially invited to participate in said primary.

Said primary shall be held under the supervision of the beat committeemen of each beat, who shall make up the returns and forward the same, properly sealed, to the secretary of this committee.

The tickets to be used in said primary will be printed on June 1; therefore, all persons desiring to become candidates should notify the chairman of this committee of their intention by that date so as to insure having their names appear on said ticket.

Give Us Good Men For Office.

Calvary, May 28.—It has been a long time since I have had anything to say to the public, though I think I have the right of speech, as I am old and have voted the democratic ticket 49 years, and hope I will live to do it again. We have the best men in the field I ever saw in the race before, except one man—he hatched too late out of a populite camp for me. I want tried men. I don't swap horses in plow time; I might get one that would kick, and then I would want to swap again and no one would want him, so it is best not to trade till he is broke and works one year, and then if the collar don't fit he will kick out of gear; and, O me, the bad words we might say. For God and man's sake, let us have men of sense for county commissioners. We all know our money is wasted. Better let it be in bank and the bank broke than to have it used for plows that can not be got along half the roads.

Crops doing well now; rain plenty here and candidates many. O me, they are so glad to meet with their fellow man, and shake his hand so hard old Reb can't hold his plow right for awhile.

A bad accident near Pleasant Valley church last Sunday. Mrs. Blackerby was thrown from a buggy against a tree. Not known whether fatal or not.

Proposed Soldiers' Home.

To the People and Press of Alabama:

Actuated from what I conceive to be a long-neglected duty which we owe to disabled confederate soldiers of our state, I have matured in my mind a scheme to build a home at Columbiana, Shelby county, for maimed Confederate veterans who are not able to support themselves on account of wounds received or disease contracted during service in the Confederate army. My plan is to raise funds by popular subscription to build this home, and I honestly believe every man, woman and child who are patriotic will cheerfully contribute to this noble cause. This home can be made ready for occupancy in twelve months. I have options on lands in the corporate limits of Columbiana to build said house upon. I ask every white citizen of the state to join me in this effort; just a small portion from each one will make a sufficiency. A. P. Longshore, judge of probate, has consented to act as treasurer, without pay, and all funds intended for the home should be sent to him. My idea is to organize capable, industrious committees in each county in the state to solicit funds to build said home. I humbly ask the energetic cooperation of every patriot in Alabama to assist in this work to lighten the burden of our disabled Confederate veterans, and thereby make glad their hearts by this evidence of appreciation for their valorous deeds enacted amid blood and carnage from 1861 to 1865. In this life I crave no greater honor than to realize that I was instrumental in building the home.

Respectfully,
B. W. BRAND.

The fishing party which went to Florida last week have all returned, and report a good time and a quantity of fish.

After appointing several committees—arrangements, contributions, invitations, advertising, transportation—adjourned to meet again Friday night. Every democratic voter in Shelby county is invited to be here and take an interest in the matter. Mrs. Hugh Shaw is very sick at this writing, but we wish her a speedy recovery.

There must not have been any services anywhere on Fourmile Sunday, judging by the number of young men who attended services at Union.

Quite a number of young people of this community attended the singing convention at Pleasant Valley Sunday and report a pleasant time.

Rev. A. J. Johnson filled his appointment at Creswell Sunday.

If the season holds out the wheat and oat crop is going to be much better in this part of the county than was thought for awhile it would be.

J. A. Jackson, of Birmingham, was in our community a few days of last week.

Quite an accident occurred a few miles east of here Sunday. Mrs. C. W. Blackerby and sister, Miss Nora Holcombe, were out riding when the mule became frightened and ran away, throwing them both out of the buggy and hurting them very bad, though not serious, we hope.

J. E. Adams made a business trip to Vandiver and Sterrett the latter part of last week and reports an abundance of politics in that part of the county.

Our friend, Rufus Walton, has recently purchased him a bicycle, and we would advise him to be very careful with it until he gets it well broken for they are almost as hard to ride as a Texas pony at the start.

We heartily endorse Birt McDonald's announcement as a candidate for matrimony, and we wish him success and a pleasant time during his canvass.

SUNFLOWER.

The Presbyterians and the Methodists are not of the same mind evidently as regards the station of women. The Southern Assembly of Presbyterians at Atlanta yesterday passed over contemptuously an appeal from Susan B. Anthony that they indorse woman suffrage. The Methodist Conference at Chicago, but a few days previous, had authorized the admission of women delegates to its future sessions. The differing view would furnish a text for an interesting discourse by the Apostle Paul.—Charleston Post.

Neither Gets Them—"You seem to have a great taste for poetry," remarked the copyhook, observing the office goat sniffing around the editor's waste-basket. "Yes," replied the goat, "but I like my poems well done, and I seldom find that sort here." "Huh!" exclaimed the copy hook, "the well done poem that comes to me is very rare."—Philadelphia Press.

Asheville, N. C.

Few regions have been more richly endowed by nature than that famous section of western North Carolina poetically termed the Land of the Sky. It has a climate so dry and health-giving that it has become known the world over as a natural sanitarium for the cure of all troubles of a pulmonary or bronchial nature.

Asheville, the centre of this beautiful mountain-hemmed plateau, is the highest city east of Denver, and is a busy, thriving place of 12,000 inhabitants, with all the modernisms of city life. The city lies just at the point where the beautiful French Broad and Swannanoa Rivers join their crystal waters.

Within the city or in its suburbs many people of wealth have built beautiful and expensive homes, and most notable among them being the chateau of George W. Vanderbilt, which with its great estate, has cost upwards of four million dollars.

Asheville is an all-the-year resort, for its great mountains protect it in the winter from the cold winds and its summer climate is made delightful because of its altitude.

For descriptive matter of Asheville and vicinity call on any Southern Railway agent, or write C. A. Benscoter, A. G. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.

In western North Carolina, between the Blue Ridge on the east and the Alleghanies on the west, in the beautiful valley of the French Broad, two thousand feet above the sea, lies Asheville, beautiful, picturesque, and world-famed as one of the most pleasant resorts in America. It is a land of bright skies and incomparable climate, whose praises have been sung by poets and whose beauties of stream, valley and mountain height have furnished subject and inspiration for the painter's brush. This is truly the Land of the Sky," and there is perhaps no more beautiful region on the continent to attract pleasure tourists or health seekers. Convenient schedules and very low rates to Asheville via Southern Railway.

Reduced Rates via Southern Railway.

HOW MUCH YOU EAT

Is not the question, but, how much you digest, because food does good only when it is digested and assimilated, taken up by the blood and made into muscle, nerve, bone and tissue. Hood's Sarsaparilla restores to the stomach its powers of digestion. Then appetite is natural and healthy. Then dyspepsia is gone, and strength, elasticity and endurance return.

Stomach Trouble—"I have had trouble with my stomach and at times would be very dizzy. I also had severe headaches and that tired feeling. When I had taken three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla I was relieved." MRS. ANGELINA JARVIS, 5 Appleton St., Holyoke, Mass.

A START IN THE LAW.

What Hitting a Mule Over the Head Had to Do With Making a Lawyer.

Illustrating what a trifling incident can influence a man's whole career, it is told of Judge William Lindsay, who is now United States senator from Kentucky, that when a young man still in his teens he was plowing in his father's field, which was near a cross roads store where a dozen or more men usually congregated. Young Lindsay and the mule he was working to the plow did not "gee" well, and finally in trying to turn the mule around at the far side of the field a worse misunderstanding than usual occurred. The mule turned square around and started back over the plow right at Lindsay, who grabbed a piece of fence rail and hit his big-eared servant a terrific jolt above the eye. The mule fell dead. Lindsay looked at the dead mule and then at the crowd across the field at the store. He saw the men had witnessed his killing of the mule and he started at full run to the store. When he reached there, almost out of breath, he exclaimed: "Gentlemen, I killed the mule, but I did it in self-defense." "By jingo, Bill, you ought to be a lawyer," said one of the men, "for anybody who can think of a plea of that sort on the spur of the moment would make a good one." That suggestion stuck in young Lindsay's mind—he did study law, became chief justice of Kentucky and one of the greatest lawyers they ever had. In 1896, when Lindsay, as senator, deserted his party on the silver issue, one of his old friends who knew of the mule incident, and who was angry at Lindsay for his course, said: "Say, boys, ain't it a pity that Lindsay killed that mule?"

A Murderous Game.

Prof. Charles Oman of Oxford, the English historian and military critic, enjoys playing the German martial game known as "kriegspiel." The game involves the use of a regular map with counters, representing infantry, cavalry and artillery, and is supposed to have great educational value in the learning of tactics and strategy. The doctor played with great regularity, sometimes alone and sometimes with friends. In both cases he would use sanguinary terms commenting upon the various movements. It seems he was overheard by a housemaid, who, after listening a number of times, went in fear and trembling to the doorkeeper. "Lor', ma'am," she said, "the gentleman is mad with too many books, and is contemplating murder or suicide. He sits at the table all day long sticking blackhead pins into a sheet of paper, saying to himself in a cold-blooded way, 'Here I'll have to kill a hundred, and there I'll drown fifty. I'll do some shooting there, and I'll cut them all to pieces with horses over yonder.' I think it is your duty, ma'am to send for a stright-jacket or the police."

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Happiness does not depend on money, but it certainly prospers on it.

An air of superiority and condescension is the raw material of revolution.

When a clock or a conscience is audible at midnight there is something wrong.

Where there is emulation, there will be vanity; where there is vanity there will be folly.

Envy is a passion so full of cowardice and shame, that nobody ever had the confidence to own it.

There is no dispute managed without a passion, and yet there is scarce a dispute worth a passion.

Failure to the man who learns, means experience, and experience is equipment, and equipment is wealth.

He is incapable of a truly good action who finds not a pleasure in contemplating the good actions of others.

Nothing is so wretched or foolish as to anticipate misfortunes. What madness it is to be expecting evil before it comes.

Amiable people, though often subject to imposition in their contact with the world, yet radiate so much of sunshine that they are reflected in all appreciative hearts.

THIRST IN THE VELDT.

The Nauseating Draughts Which British Soldiers Must Drink.

A correspondent of the London Morning Post tells us that though the British soldier "has thirsted in the thirstiest corners of the globe, he admits the veldt to be a fresh experience. Aden, India, Egypt, the Soudan! But here is something, not hotter, not drier, not dustier, but less endurable for some reason. It is the army and South Africa together, no doubt, which is the cause for men who have lived in Kimberley, Johannesburg, Bloemfontein, and Natal are only now, while campaigning, acquiring the experience: the army with its incessant tramping and the ceaseless fog of dust that hangs about its camps. And to that must be added the compulsory life in the sun, the sun at its hottest and driest hours, the entire absence of shade, the parching suction of the sand, which is bed, chair, and table.

"It will be quite curious to live without a water bottle slung about one's shoulder. One can scarcely remember the day when water was not regarded with reverence and jealous envy, when it could be made to run clear, continuous, and unvalued, by a turn of the finger. Here, where one knows by tired limbs the weight of what one drinks, the thought of water flowing through pipes seems a dream of paradise. And such water! Water through which one could see, which left no mud at the bottom of the mug, and did not stain what it was spilled on. One remembers that in England they analyze that kind of water. Why, the water we drink here is often too thick even to filter.

"At Ramdam there was a big pond—what was left of moisture in the dam. One bathed in it only under the most pressing compulsion of cleanliness. The water was very shallow, but the mud was black and deep. One sank to the knees if one tried to walk, and so sat gently half in mud and half in brown syrup, and thanked God for water. One rose from it with the green leches hanging about one's body like bits of seaweed and with a sprinkling of other less-known insects.

"Horses looked askance at that pool, but the men drank of it greedily, and drank of it, where alone they could reach it, where the horses' hoofs had churned it into a blackish-green liquor thick as soup.

"Let every one who turns today a water tap in England give a thought to those who are dipping buckets in South Africa and be grateful for an exceeding privilege."

A Message to Manila.

"To pay practically $25 for a brief ten word message to the Philippines may seem extravagant, but when one reflects that it travels three-fifths of the distance around the globe in completing the journey, passing under the direction of half a dozen different companies the cost seems far from exorbitant.

"The ordinary course of such a message would be from New York to Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, thence to Heart's Content, Newfoundland, where it dives under the Atlantic, to reappear on the coast of Ireland. From here it is forwarded to London, which is the great centre and clearing house for the cable business of the whole world. From London the message will be forwarded either across the English channel and overland to Marseilles, or by the Eastern Telegraph company's lines around the Spanish peninsula, stopping at Lisbon, through the Mediterranean, thence to Alexandria, across Egypt by land, down the Red sea to Aden, through the Arabian sea to Bombay, over India by land, across the Bay of Bengal to Sinapore, along the coast to Hong Kong, and across the China sea to Manila. Notwithstanding the many lands and many hands through which it passes, the message is forwarded with reasonable promptness, with perfect secrecy, and all the way in English.—Ainslee's Magazine.

Chinese Criminal Laws.

Hsii was guilty of hushing up for money the murder of one of his sons. Another son brought the case to light, and it was held that the father might benefit, and be excused, while the son, on the other hand, was sentenced to 100 blows and three years' transportation for denouncing his brother's murder, because in doing so he had brought his father into danger of the law.—Notes and Commentaries of Chinese Law.

Propelling Mechanism for Boats.

A new hand propelling mechanism for boats can be attached to any rowboat with little trouble, consisting of long rods mounted in brackets on the outside of the boat, with propeller blades on one end and geer wheels on the other, the latter being connected with handled gear wheels.

IT CURED "PRACTICAL" JOKING.

A Hunting Experience Near the Sac River That Points a Moral.

"Gentlemen," remarked John Rannells of New York, to a party of friends in the lobby of the Midland Hotel who where talking of "practical" jokes, "I was something of a practical joker myself once, but an experience I had in southern Missouri effectually cured me.

"I had accepted an invitation to be one of a crowd of congenial spirits who were going to the Sac river for a two weeks' fishing. In the party were doctors, lawyers, merchants and a contractor whom I shall call Stevens. Stevens was a man about 40 years old, young for his age and experience, a good story teller, brave and fearless, save in this one thing—he had a natural abhorrence for snakes. 'I'll never make a good hunter,' he said to me while on the jouney to camp, 'because I'm always looking for snakes instead of birds.'

"His fear of snakes was known to several of the party, and they determined to have some fun at his expense. We had been in camp about three days when one of us caught a garter snake. That night they determined on the joke to be played on Stevens. They were to put the snake in his coat pocket and then ask him for some article which would make him put his hand in his pocket.

"The snake had been duly installed in the pocket of Stevens' coat. There was a smile on the face of every man. Now for the sport.

"'Say, Stevens,' cried the doctor, 'you have my flask in your coat haven't you?'

"'No,' replied Stevens.

"'Oh, but you must have. I let you have it yesterday,' said the doctor.

"'You are mistaken,' replied Stevens. 'I have but one flask, and that's mine.'

"'Let me see it,' said the doctor.

"Annoyed, though not angry, Stevens put his hand in the back pocket of his coat and drew out the flask which the doctor admitted was not his.

"The snake had meanwhile wriggled out of the coat pocket and dropped to the ground, and being somewhat stunned by the fall, crawled away. 'A snake! Look at the snake cried one of the men. Stevens turned and when he saw the snake his face took an ashen hue and he trembled like a leaf. The doctor, in a spirit of deviltay, caught the snake by the tail, and swinging it to and fro, advanced toward Stevens laughing.

"Stevens evidently divined his intention. His face wore a determined look and his eyes fairly blazed with fire. Slowly drawing his 45 he rested it on his hip. Then came the 'click,' 'click,' of the hammer as it was thrown back, and in a cool way he said: 'Doctor, if you attempt to throw that snake in my face I'll kill you as sure as there is a God in heaven.

"The doctor stopped short. He knew every word was meant. He dropped the snake and, turning, walked away. The snake was quickly despatched and we walked away, leaving Stevens standing in the middle of the road staring at it.

"I felt we had gone too far and, going to where he stood, I apologized for the part I had taken. Taking his arm I led him away. I do not know what prompted me, but I put this question to him: 'Stevens, if when you put your hand in your pocket you had felt the snake, what would you have done?'

"The perspiration stood out in large beads on his forehead as he replied, 'My God, I believe I would have dropped dead.'

"And I believe he would."—Kansas City Star.

ACRES OF VIOLETS.

California Gives Flower Lovers Two New Varieties.

To California belongs the honor of giving the world two new varieties of violets, which have been developed by Thomas H. Stevenson at his nursery in Mill Valley. Each of the new varieties is distinctly Californian in origin and culture, and they are besides remarkably rich in coloring and beauty.

The two new varieties are both offshoots from the Princess of Wales violet, which was brought over here from London several years ago. One is a deep blue, darker in color and of larger size than the Princess of Wales, and has been named the Duchess of Marlborough. It is a magnificent flower as regards size and coloring and should take precedence over its parent, the Princess of Wales, which has been heretofore the most favored of all the violets.

The other new specimen is indeed a novelty, for its color is a deep magenta, almost red. It is much smaller than the Princess of Wales, but Mr. Stevenson believes that another year of culture will add to its size and the richness of its coloring. It has been named the Admiral Avellan.

The two varieties have been isolated to plots by themselves in the nursery, where particular care will be given to their development.

The violet craze is now at its height, and no flower enjoys such popularity as that bestowed on the violet. Perin no other city in the world would such a sight be witnessed as the daily procession of violet buyers along the street to the florist shops and the corners where men and women, boys and girls, are earning many an honest penny in pandering to the popular demand for violets. Hundreds of acres adjacent to San Francisco are devoted to the culture of the flower, and the daily shipment to the floral market of the city is something stupendous.—San Francisco Post.

Manila in the Evening.

Manila is as gay as the climate permits. Every one likes to look at his best, especially during the late afternoon and evening. The drive along the Luenta during the hours around sundown is a scene kaleidoscopic in color. Circumstances permitting, there is plenty of social life in the evening.

GEN. JACOB S. COXEY.

FAMOUS LEADER OF THE COMMONWEAL.

Is Now a Quarry Operator and Is Rapidly Piling Up a Fortune—Food for Every Tramp but He Must Work for It.

A notable change has come over Gen. Jacob S. Coxey of commonweal fame. From the day that he was ordered off the grass at the national capital he became a new man. He turned his attention from politics to finance, and is now making money at the rate of four figures a day. He is operating a stone quarry five miles from Massillon, Ohio, which is as profitable as a small gold mine. Setting up as a large employer of unskilled labor, Gen. Coxey has had a chance to demonstrate the practicability of his commonweal theories. His son, Jesse Coxey, a stalwart young fellow, has also figured extensively in the solution of the great "hobo problem."

It is the policy of Coxey not to turn away any man who wants work. There is a steady run of men who come and go from the quarry property. At present there are fifty employes at the plant, and among these are only two of the "hoboes" of the original commonweal army, but there are plenty of recruits from the ends of the earth. The story of Coxey's quarry has been circulated among tramps all over the country. They are sure of a welcome, a day's rations, and a chance to leave when work becomes too onerous. "De ole man's easy, but keep yer eyes peeled fer Jesse," is the word lately passed around. Some time ago three stout tramps arrived on Saturday evening late and applied for work. They were so hungry, they said, they didn't know where to stay all night.

"You know me; my name's Coxey, Gen. Coxey of the commonweal army," said the old man, heartily. "Make yourselves at home, eat all you want, and do a day's work Monday."

So on Saturday night and all day Sunday the tramps feasted and rested from their roadside wanderings. Monday morning, after a phenomenal breakfast, they took the highway promptly in a direction opposite to the general's quarry. This was the last straw. The thing had happened so often that young Jesse Coxey took matters in his own hands, commonweal or no commonweal. He struck the trail, and, single-handed, started in pursuit. Four miles away he came upon the three commonwealers resting on the ties of a railroad track.

"Walk," said Jesse Coxey, briefly, as he leveled a gun on the trio. He marched them back to the quarry and compelled them to do a day's work for their Sunday lodgings, when they were allowed to depart in peace.

Coxey claims a part in making the good armor of American ships. He says he furnishes sand for the big armor-plate plants of the land, and adds that his has been found to be the best. So the "general" has taken credit unto himself for recent American naval victories, and announces in flaming colors on posters pasted on the cars that American naval supremacy is due to Coxey's good sand. The "general" has found there are dollars in the sand, and he is not anything if he is not a good advertiser of his wares. His commonweal fame attracts the public to him wherever he goes. He does no especially court conversation on the march he made for the lost cause, neither does he shrink when the matter is brought before him. At present he evidently does not care to risk any more army trips, even for the sake of the principles which he has long advocated. He is too busy. His wealth is piling up in conical form like a little pile of sand from his crushers. Besides the quarry he owns lead mines in Missouri and is preparing to put up a steel plant soon.

But Coxey has with him relics of his political canvass. On the switch near his profitable quarry stand four coaches. The one, a Pullman palace car, is used by Jesse Coxey, wife, and little daughter, as a dwelling place. A second car is used as kitchen and store-room for workmen at the quarry. The dining room is in a third car, the one used by Coxey in his political tour over the United States. The sides of the car are decorated with attractive printing, telling of the principles advocated by Coxey on non-interest-bearing bonds, good roads and other questions. But the interior of the car has been changed.

A long table of plain boards in in the center of the coach. This is to seat the hungry men as they come to their meals. Tin cups and plates are always spread ready for meal time. There is little style when the hoboes and other workmen eat, but they seem withal to be a happy set and fairly well contented with their lot. This non-interesting-bearing car is also used as a sleeper. Every man has his bunk. There are lower and upper berths, plain, but warm, and, no doubt, comfortable to the man who has swung a big sledge for 8 hours in crushing stone. The clothing on these beds is of plain grade, but the beds are kept in cleanly condition, and the men express themselves satisfied with their sleeping quarters. Coxey's home, at present, is near the quarry. He has a combination frame and log dwelling house.

Wearing Out Needlessly.

Many people wear themselves out needlessly; their conscience is a tyrant. An exaggerated sense of duty leads a person to anxious, ceaseless activity, to be constantly doing something, over-punctual, never idle a second of time, scorn to rest; such are in unconscious nerve tension. They say they have no time to rest, they have so much to do, not thinking they are rapidly unfitting themselves for probably what would have been their best and greatest work in after years.

A private telephone wire from the war office to Windsor Castle conveys to the queen news from the front.

DEGENERATE DOG.

Many Diabolical Tricks Played by the Viciously Aberrant Animal.

Now and then there is a degenerate dog, just as there are degenerate men. I once knew a dog of that kind. He was a handsome fellow, a Scotch collie, black, with white breast, and lower forelegs and tip of tail also white. His father was a gentlemanly dog, and his mother was also reputable. At an early age this dog took to killing chickens, and would mouth and kill a whole brood of downy chickens in less than a minute from the first alarmed screech of the mother hen. A little later he killed, as a daily recreation, chickens of all sorts and conditions. Many attempts were made to shoot him, but he seemed bullet-proof. He would run into the street, seize a horse by the nose, and, swinging clear of the pavement, would hang there, while the terrified horse would vainly try to dislodge him. When a man on horseback came along, he would proceed to have fun with him by seizing his horse's tail. No whip could reach him, and when the rider would dismount the dog would beat a successful retreat. He killed all the cats in the neighborhood. When a peddler with samples of potatoes or apples entered the yard of his owner he would greet him with a friendly wagging tail and escort him to the door, but when the same peddler turned his back to go he never failed to take a bite at the calf of his leg. The dog's conduct finally raised the neighbors against him, and the owner was informed that if he did not get rid of him the dog would be shot. To save his life the owner gave him to a butcher. In his new environment he lasted but one day. He bit the butcher's daughter and the butcher killed him

QUAIL HUNTING IN EGYPT.

A Million a Year Are Ensnared by the Natives by Ingenious Methods.

Much has been said lately of the capture of quail in Egypt, touching the protest made by Frenchmen against carrying the birds across French territory for English use. Until this matter rose nobody seemed to know that quail existed in Egypt; but they do—by the million. The passage of bands of quail over the coast of the delta of the Nile, from Port Said to Alexandria, begins in September and last a month and a half, the birds arriving in little groups and alighting on the dunes. Generally, the chase is made by means of nets of five meters high, which the natives extend on cords fastened to poles, in the fashion of curtains gliding on their rods. In reality the net is double. The first near the side of the sea is of meshes very large and loose, but on the back is another net where the bird will really come and perch itself in the folds formed by this second net of small meshes. There is another method of capture which is more picturesque. Rows of dried branches are placed on the shore. At the foot of each branch is disposed a tuft of fresh herbs in the middle of which is arranged an opening which ends in a snare. The quail, tired by its journey, takes refuge in the branch, then in the bunch of herbs, naturally, without figuring to itself that it is going to put itself into a trap where a native will surprise it and kill it. With these perfected means of destruction, it is not astonishing that each year more than half a million of these poor little birds are taken.

Distinguished Book Agents.

Napoleon Bonaparte, when a poor lieutenant, took the agency for a work entitled "L'Histoire de la Revolution." In the foyer of the great Palace of the Louvre can be seen today the emperor's canvassing outfit, with the long list of subscribers he secured. George Washington, when young, canvassed around Alexandria, Va., and sold over 200 copies of a work entitled "Bydell's American Savage." Mark Twain was a book agent. Longfellow sold books by subscription. Jay Gould, when starting in life, was a canvasser. Daniel Webster paid his second term's tuition at Dartmouth by handling "De Tocqueville's America" in Merrimac county, New Hampshire. Gen. U. S. Grant canvassed for Irving's "Columbus." James G. Blaine began life as a canvasser for a "Life of Henry Clay." Bismarck, when at Heidelberg, spent a vacation in canvassing for one of Blumenbach's handbooks.

Discontented Women.

Discontented women are always egotists. They view everything with regard to themselves, and have therefore the defective sympathies that belong to low organizations. They never win confidence, for their discontent breeds distrust and doubt, and, however clever they may naturally be, an obtrusive self, with its train of likings and dislikings, obscures their judgment and they take false views of people and things. For this reason it is almost a hopeless effort to show them how little people generally care about their grievances, for they have thought about themselves so long and so much that they cannot conceive of any other subject interesting the rest of the world.

VOL. XV. COLUMBIANA, SHELBY COUNTY, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, JUNE 7, 1900. NO. 31.

TRUST LEGISLATION FAILS IN HOUSE

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution Is Turned Down.

A Washington special says: The house of representatives Friday, after a lively debate extending over two days, defeated the joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment empowering congress to regulate trusts.

It requires a two-thirds vote under the constitution to adopt an amendment to the constitution. The vote stood ayes 154, nays 131. The affirmative vote, therefore, was 38 short of the requisite two-thirds—192.

Five Democrats—Messrs. Campbell, of Montana; Naphen, of Massachusetts; Scudder, of New York; Sibley, of Pennsylvania, and Thayer, of Massachusetts—and one silverite—Mr. Newlands, of Nevada—voted with the Republicans for the resolutions, and two Republicans—Mr. Loud, of California, and Mr. McCall, of Massachusetts—with the Democratic members against it. These were the only breaks from party lines. The Populists voted solidly against the resolution.

The debate preceding the vote had a strong political flavor throughout and was at times very personal. The features were the closing speeches of Mr. De Armond, of Missouri, and Mr. Littlefield, of Maine, for the respective sides, and the short speech of Mr. McCall against the resolution. Mr. McCall has distinguished himself before during this session in opposing the action of his colleagues on the Porto Rican bill and in his speech in the Roberts case. His action on this occasion was unheralded and therefore attracted the more attention.

Mr. Boreing, of Kentucky, was the first speaker. He advocated the adoption of the amendment.

Mr. Fleming, of Georgia, reiterated the charge that the Republicans had no intention of putting through both houses either the resolution or the Littlefield bill.

Mr. Newlands, of Nevada, said he concurred with the minority that the proposed constitutional amendment was a political makeshift, but he would vote for it because he believed the federal government should have enlarged powers rather than that it should not exercise power at all.

Mr. Thayer, of Massachusetts, defined a trust as a "business bastard," which Mr. Hanna could not palm off as the result of the thrift, push and fair dealing of the American people.

Mr. Lentz, of Ohio, said this constitutional amendment was a fraud and the Democrats would prove the hypocrisy of the Republicans before Saturday night.

"Elect William Jennings Bryan (Democratic applause) and he will place at the head of the department of justice an attorney general, not from the trust ridden state of New Jersey, who will keep the trusts so busy they will not have time to pursue their rapacious vocation." (Democratic applause.)

Mr. Grosvenor replied that should trusts be destroyed it must take place under Republican law placed on the statute books against Democratic opposition.

Mr. Grosvenor and Mr. Lentz exchanged personalities again and again. Mr. Grosvenor finally concluded with the statement that the favorite Democratic weapon used for fighting trusts was the vocabulary. He characterized Mr. Lentz's remarks as "slush."

Mr. Littlefield, of Maine, closed the debate for the resolution. Indiscriminate denunciation of combinations of capital, he declared, was unwise. Mr. Littlefield contrasted the records of the two parties on the trust question to show that such legislation as had been enacted against trusts had been placed upon the statute books under the auspices of the Republican party.

Both sides rose en masse to second the demand for a roll call. Speaker Henderson had his name called when the roll call was concluded and voted for the resolution. It was defeated 154 to 231, the requisite two-thirds not having voted for it.

WORK OF SCHEMERS?

Lawlessness In China May Be Result of a Dark Plot.

Minister Conger at Pekin reports to the state department that the arrival of 359 guards from the legations of Russia, France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan and the United States has had the effect of improving the situation.

It is hinted in diplomatic circles here that the sudden increase of activity on the part of the "boxers" is nothing more than part of a well-conceived plan by one of the great European powers to secure a permanent lodgement in Peking and to seize a position giving it full control of the great Peicho river, the approach to the Chinese capital.

RUSSIA WELL REPRESENTED.

Czar Seems to Be the Most Active In Chinese Affair.

The Vienna correspondent of The Lady Daily Telegraph, says:

"An active exchange of dispatches is going forward among the powers relative to China. The colonial superiority of Russia's representation at Taku is regarded as significant.

VETERANS ADJOURN.

Next Reunion of Battle-Scarred Confederate Heroes Will Be Held In Memphis.

The Confederate reunion was brought to a close at Louisville Friday night. The next gathering of the old veterans will be at Memphis, Tenn. The struggle for the reunion by the Tennessee city was not a very hard one because it had been conceded that the reunion would go there next year if New Orleans did not ask for it. The candidates were Memphis, Jacksonville and Buffalo.

Friday was to have been the biggest day of the reunion, but an almost continual downpour of rain precluded the possibility of the grand parade, which caused a feeling of distinct disappointment in Louisville.

Briscoe Hindman, of Louisville, was elected commander-in-chief of the United Sons of Veterans by acclamation Friday morning after Walter Colquitt, of Atlanta, the retiring commander, had refused to accept a re-election.

An interesting incident occurred when the report of the committee on resolutions was read. Among the recommendations was one that "the Confederate veterans recognize with appriciation the language of General Daniel Sickles at the recent reunion of the army of the Potomac at Fredericksburg, and reciprocated the feeling shown; that the reunion of Union soldiers or Confederate soldiers attended by the president of the United States and his cabinet showed that that there is no sectionalism in recognition of valor of the American soldier; that a copy of these resolution be forwarded to the Society of the Army of the Potomac."

When the vote was called on this there were cries of "No."

General Gordon declared the resolutions adopted, but hearing the "noes," resubmitted the question.

W. H. Burgynn, of North Carolina, who presented the resolutions, made a strong speech urging the adoption of the resolutions. J. H. Shepherd, of Virginia, secured the floor and announced that he was opposed to the resolution and asked that it be voted down. He said:

"I want no coquetting with those Yankees who defeated us. For God's sake don't accept anything from Union soldiers. Vote it down, my comrades, vote it down."

The hall was instantly in an uproar, men calling "vote," "question," "no," "yes" and yelling indiscriminately. There were loud calls of "Gordon!" "Gordon!" The commander came to the front and was greeted by frantic cheers that for several minutes prevented his voice from being heard. When silence was partially restored he said:

"I trust the day will never come while I stand on southern soil among the chivalrous men of the south when I will refuse to send a message of cordial greeting to an enemy. (Cheers.) I know the sender of this message. On the heights of Gettysburg he stood gallantly in my front and it was my bullets that sent him to the rear with a leg off, and, for me, I am going to reciprocate the kindly message of the northern soldiers."

Wild cheers greeted this speech, and on a vote the resolution went through with a rush.

CARPENTERS QUIT WORK.

Atlanta Contractors and Employes Have a Strike on Hand.

The carpenters and joiners in Atlanta, Ga., went on a strike Friday. Six hundred men walked away from their jobs to return no more, they say, until their organization is recognized by employers and their demands complied with. These demands are for a day of eight hours work; a uniform price of 25 cents per hour for their work, as a minimum wage, or $2 per day, with half price of minimum wage for overtime and double time for legal holidays and Sundays; recognition of their organization by the employment of none but union men by contractors, builders and planing mill managers.

Decrease of Public Debt.

The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business, May 30, 1900, the debt less cash in the treasury amounted to $1,122,608,811, a decrease for the month of $2,193,774, which is accounted for by the redemption of bonds.

TO PLEAD HIS CASE.

Convict Gives Unique Excuse For Taking "Leg Bail."

Julius Bone, the young convict who escaped from the Dade county, Ga., convict camp, May 29th, is in jail in Atlanta.

The apprehension of young Bone is not due to the skill of the detectives nor the vigilance of the police. He is a voluntary prisoner.

He visited Atlanta Friday morning for the purpose, as he says, of personally going before the state pardon board to tell the prison commission that he is the victim of a judicial error. This, he asserts, was the only motive of his escape from the stockade.

BRITISH ENTER JOHANNESBURG

The Boer City Capitulated Without Resistance.

ROBERTS WAS WELCOMED

Burgher Officials Were Requested To Retain Their Places---British Flag Hoisted With Great Ceremony.

A cablegram was received in London Saturday from Lord Roberts dated Johannesburg May 31st, but which was not dispatched from there until 8:30 a. m. of June 1st, which says:

"The occupation of Johannesburg passed off quite satisfactorily, thanks to the excellent arrangements made by Dr. Kraus, the Transvaal commandant here, and order prevailed throughout the town.

"Dr. Kraus met me on my entrance to Johannesburg and rode by my side to the government offices, where he introduced me to the heads of several departments, all of whom acceded to my request that they would continue to carry on their respective duties until they could be relieved of them.

"Johannesburg is very empty, but a good crowd of people assembled in the main square by the time the British flag was being hoisted. A royal salute was fired and three cheers for the queen were given.

"At the end of the ceremonies the Seventh and Eleventh divisions marched past with the naval brigade, the heavy artillery and two brigade divisions of the royal field artillery.

"General Ian Hamilton's column and the cavalry division and mounted infantry were too far away to take part in the ceremony. The troops looked very workmanlike and evidently took keen interest in the proceedings."

According to delayed dispatches reaching Pretoria, Johannesburg was formally handed over to the British at 11 o'clock on the morning of May 31st, in an orderly manner. Lord Roberts was accompanied by a small force. The banks are being guarded. There was a slight engagement outside Johannesburg, and some Australian scouts were shot in street fighting.

After this a message was sent to the nearest British general notifying him that the town would not be defended.

Lord Lansdowne, secretary of state for war, has received the following from Lord Roberts, dated Orange Grove, June 2d:

"Johannesburg is quiet. The people are surrendering arms and ponies. Only three Boer guns were left in the fort. The Queenslanders shipped May 30th, a Cruesot, with eleven wagons of stores and ammunition. Commandant Botha, of Zoutpanberg, his field cornet and one hundred prisoners were taken in the fighting around Johannesburg, some belonging to the foreign contingents and the Irish brigade. The Thirteenth Yoemanry were attacked May 29th between Kroonstad and Lindley. There were some casualties."

FRENCH NEAR PRETORIA.

A London special of June 4 says: There is no direct news from Pretoria of later date than Thursday evening. General French's cavalry were then at Irene, eight miles south of Pretoria, and firing was heard there. Lord Roberts' messages about secondary operations elsewhere and the situation at Johannesburg, dated at Orange Grove, a farm four miles northeast of Johannesburg, show that on Saturday, at 5:10 p. m., he was twenty-five miles from Pretoria.

As amended the bill provides that the alleged criminal shall be punished under the laws of Cuba as administered by Cuban courts.

EDITOR MENACED.

Augusta, Ga., narrowly escaped more violence last Saturday night, growing out of a publication concerning the recent killing of Alex Whitney and the lynching of his murderer, William Wilson. Saturday afternoon more than 200 white men marched from an indignation meeting on the river bank a mile across town to The Georgia Baptist office on Campbell street, near Gwinnett, to demand a retraction from the editor, and at night another party was organized to force Editor White to leave town and to wreck his printing office.

The indignation in the community arose over a paragraph published in The Georgia Baptist, a denominational negro paper, published for years past by Rev. W. J. White. It purported to have been copied from another paper, "The Bee," said to be published Washington city. It was as follows:

> "The lynching of William Wilson, a popular young mechanic, in Augusta, Ga., a few days ago, is another one of those damnable sins for which the south must be held responsible. Mr. Wilson died upholding the virtue of one of Georgia's most refined and highly respected young ladies. The white wretch who offered the insult fell at the hands of this young martyr and the unpleasant thought that such a brilliant career had to be sacrificed for one portraying the worst type of criminality is not only unfortunate, but sad to the very extreme."

The entire statement was so palpably false that it filled the friends of young Whitney with indignation.

An indignation meeting was called and the publication denounced and it was proposed to run Editor White out of town, to wreck his newspaper office, while some even wanted to tar and feather him, or do him other violence. The meeting decided upon the appointment of a committee to wait upon White and demand that he sign an apology and a repudiation of the article.

In the meantime White had gone to The Herald and Chronicle offices and stated that he did not know the paragraph was in his paper; that it was published without his knowledge or consent; that it was absolutely false and he was anxious to put a card in both papers repudiating it and apologizing for its publication in his paper.

"The infamous article that appeared in The Georgia Baptist on May 31st as a clipping from The Bee, was inserted without the knowledge or approval of the editor of this paper, who hereby emphatically disclaims connection with its publication.

"I cannot sufficiently deplore the fact that this disgraceful article appeared in our paper, apparently as the expression of the opinion and sentiment of the editor of this paper. And further I deprecate, repudiate and denounce the article and all the sentiments it contains, and further guarantee to the white people of Augusta that it is not the intention of The Georgia Baptist to offend by upholding any such dastardly acts as that referred to in the article in question. I further guarantee to the white citizens that no such offense will again occur in the columns of this paper. I respectfully ask the morning papers to publish this denial and promise to print it in large type in The Georgia Baptist.

"WILLIAM J. WHITE,

"Publisher of The Georgia Baptist."

KICK ON RATES.

Democratic Delegates Make Charges Against Kansas City Hotels.

As the time for the convention draws near Senator Jones, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is in receipt of a number of vigorous complaints from the members of the national committee throughout the country over the action of the hotels in Kansas City in the matter of rates.

Many of the committee have written Senator Jones on this subject, requesting that a meeting be called with a view to reconsidering its action in deciding to hold the convention in that city. Senator Jones has taken the matter under serious consideration.

CONFLICTING REPORTS

The London Times has the following from Lourenzo Marques, dated June 1st.

"Reports of the most conflicting character are current here due to the activity of the Boer agents. While one section declares that President Kruger has returned to Pretoria for the purpose of arranging term of surrender, another asserts that the British have been repulsed outside of Pretoria. Nothing authentic is known here regarding Mr. Kruger's whereabouts or the situation in the Transvaal."

WILL IGNORE PROTEST.

Daughters of Confederacy Determined to Build Monuments.

The Daughters of the Confederacy of Richmond, Va., are very much wrought up over the action of General Wagner and other Grand Army of the Republic men of Pennsylvania in opposing the erection of a monument to the 200 or more Confederates buried in Germantown cemetery near Philadelphia. They will appeal to the secretary of war.

ST. LOUIS CAR STRIKE.

Prominent Citizens Sworn in to Subdue the Rioters.

LOSSES RUN INTO MILLIONS.

Posse Comitatus Composed of 2500 Citizens Will Disarm Rioters With Shotguns — Residents in District Where Fighting Has Occurred Band Together to Stop Recklessness.

St. Louis, Mo. (Special).—Citizens of St. Louis are determined to suppress the lawless mobs that have caused a reign of terror here since the beginning of the great street railway strike a month ago. With a loss of almost $20,000,000 in cost of police, loss of wages and business, with the strikers' sympathizers rioting constantly and with the company keeping an armed force in defiance of the Mayor's order vigorous action is indeed needed.

On the posse comitatus of 2,500 men summoned by the Sheriff to aid the police are millionaires, merchants, bankers, lawyers and other prominent men. Many of them have never shouldered a gun, but they will be organized in military fashion.

A party of sixty prominent merchants of this city, headed by E. Lacey Crawford, the millionaire stock broker, have gone to Cincinnati to escape serving as deputies under the Sheriff of St. Louis County against the striking street car employes. They decided that it would be far more pleasant to take a little vacation than to carry a gun about the streets of the city.

The Police Board decided to arm the posse with riot guns. The weapon is a short-barreled repeating shotgun about three and a half feet long. The magazine has a capacity for six shells, which may be loaded with buckshot or small shot. The purpose of the arm is to do as much execution as possible.

With the 2,500 deputy sheriffs at the disposal of the Police Department the total force of the city is increased to 4,000 men. The cost of providing for the protection of the city is assuming enormous proportions—enough almost to strain the municipal finances.

When the citizens' posse is ready the employees of the transit company who have been shooting into crowds near the various car sheds are to be disarmed. These men, it is charged, have fired on occasions when it was not necessary, killing and wounding innocent persons. The most recent instance of the kind has provoked such a storm of indignation from citizens in the south side in the vicinity of the Southern Electric car sheds that the Mayor promised to take vigorous measures.

Despite the federal injunction, the menace of a citizens' posse of 2,500 men, armed with "riot" guns, and 1000 regular and 500 special police, the unruly element continues to obstruct street railway tracks at night, cut wires, assault persons who ride in the cars during the day, jeer and hoot at the non-union employes, and, when occasion offers, stone cars and assault the crews and their police guards.

Former Governor William J. Stone has filed an answer in the case, in which a temporary injunction has been issued restraining the leaders of the strike from interfering with the United States mail cars. The answer denies that the strikers have interfered with the running of the mail cars and requests that the injunction be dissolved.

Postmaster Baumhoff, on the other hand, has filed supplementary evidence that wires have been cut, and prays that the injunction be made permanent and applicable not only to the fifty men named in the original petition ,but to all the members of the Street Railway Union.

Disturbances have been of almost daily occurrence since the strike began. The mobs in most instances included women and children. They have been vindictive, destructive and careless of life and property. On every car sent out during the troubled times there have been police guards, but oftentimes the bluecoats have been powerless against the determination of the unruly crowds.

Six men have been killed, forty-five more or less seriously wounded by bullets and a hundred others crippled or cut by sabres or badly hurt by flying missiles. It is likely that fifty or more have been injured of whom there is no record, swelling the casualty total to fully two hundred persons.

It is estimated that the merchants lose in receipts $750,000 daily, or a total since the strike began of $18,750,000. Loss to the company in fares is about $500,000. Loss to the men in wages is $175,000. Loss to the city for extra protection is $50,000.

The street railway strikers have receded from their original demands and now insist on only one point—recognition of the union and reinstatement of the old employes. The company says it will not discriminate against any man because he belongs to the union, if he returns to work, but that it will not discharge the men who have taken the strikers' places, and that they must take their chances of getting employment.

There are eight hundred cars on the thirteen systems of the Transit Company. About three hundred of these are now operated irregularly under heavy police protection during the day, but at night all the cars are withdrawn to the sheds. It is feared that the small amounts of dynamite exploded during the day to frighten passengers will assume dangerous proportions during darkness.

Cycling Notes.

The decided advantage of the toe clip is that it keeps the foot firm, affording a steady hold.

Many riders have overcome their horror of toe clips, as more are seen on the wheels than ever before.

The cycle racing that will be given at the National meet of the L. A. W. at Milwaukee this summer will include several of the National Cycling Association championship events.

A few riders who have become attached to their wheels have gone to much expense in having them repaired, when for the money thus expended they could have purchased new machines.

JOHANNESBURG TAKEN.

General Roberts Reports the Occupation of the Gold City.

ORANGE FREE STATE ANNEXED.

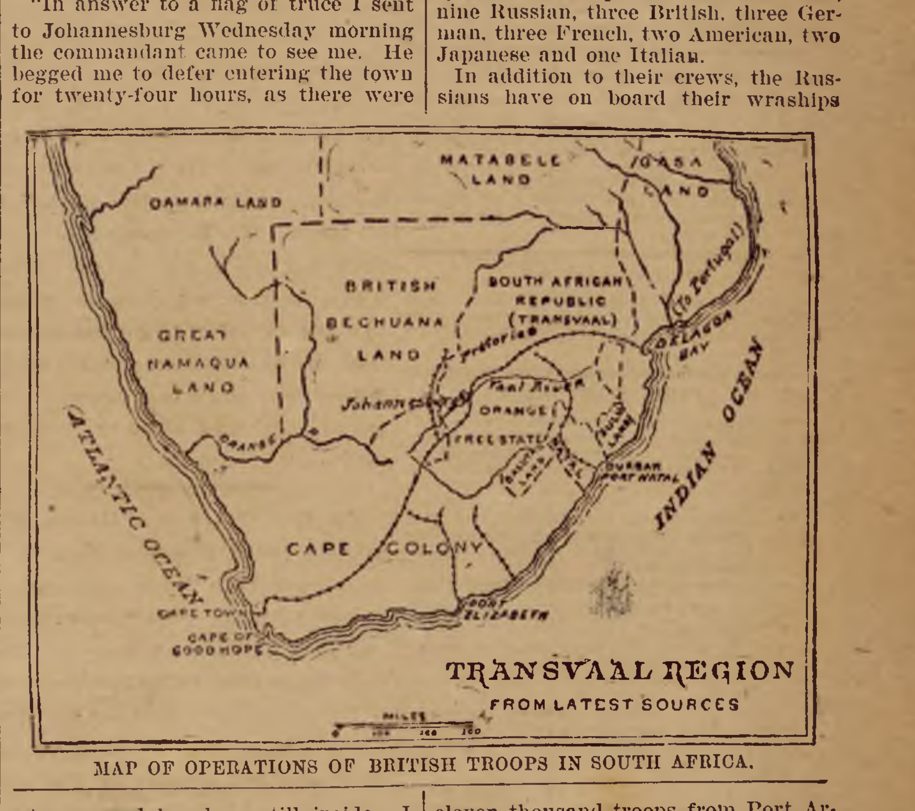
British Flag Now Flying Over the Government Buildings in Johannesburg—Boers Surrendered the City to General Roberts Without Offering Any Resistance—Gold Mines Unharmed.

London (By Cable).—General Roberts sent a dispatch to the War Office stating that he had taken possession of Johannesburg. General Roberts's dispatch follows:

"Johannesburg. — Her Majesty's forces are now in possession of Johannesburg, and the British flag floats over the Government buildings."

General Roberts also sent the following dispatch:

"In answer to a flag of truce I sent to Johannesburg Wednesday morning the commandant came to see me. He begged me to defer entering the town for twenty-four hours, as there were many armed burghers still inside. I agreed to this, as I am most anxious to avert the possibility of anything like disturbance inside the town and as bodies of the enemy are still holding the hills in the immediate neighborhood, from which they will have to be cleared off beforehand.



MAP OF OPERATIONS OF BRITISH TROOPS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

"Rundle reports that he attacked a large party of Boers near Senekal (Orange Free State). He said his casualties were not heavy.

"Brabant reports that two of his patrols, consisting of two officers and forty men, were cut off by the enemy and taken prisoners."

WILL NOT DESERT AFRICA.

Boers Cannot, Says Mr. Fischer, Accept Any Offer of Land in America.

Boston (Special).—Mr. Fischer of the Boer delegation was asked about the reported offer of a Western railway of 1,000,000 acres of land for the Boers to settle on. He replied:

"I have heard that some such offer is to be made, but know nothing of it officially. While we would thank the American people and the railroad officials for their generosity and kindly spirit, we would have to decline it. I think our people would prefer to remain and work out their own salvation, even though they were forced to do this under the English flag. If we should be crushed this time, it will only be for a brief time, for liberty must and shall prevail in South Africa. Patriotism never dies out."

ORANGE RIVER COLONY NOW.

Annexation Proclamation Read in the Market Square at Bloemfontein.

Bloemfontein (By Cable). — The annexation of the Orange Free State to Great Britain was formally proclaimed in the market square. General Pretyman, the Military Governor of Bloemfontein, read the proclamation of General Lord Roberts, annexing the Free State and renaming it the Orange River Colony. The proclamation, in announcing the annexation, referred to the Orange Free State as "having been conquered by her Majesty's forces."

There were tremendous cheers when this portion was read. The people sang the British national anthem and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

Pro-Boer Resolution Shelved.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—In the Senate Mr. Bacon, of Georgia. spoke at length on the Teller resolution expressing sympathy for the Boers, after which, on motion of Senator Davis, the resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations by a vote of 40 to 26.

Mob Attacks a Dispensary.

A free dispensary in Chicago was attacked by a crowd of infuriated Bohemians and Lithuanians. Stories of bodies being dissected in the dispensary had created terror among the foreigners, who gave the place a wide berth. When a boy disappeared a companion started a story that he had been killed by the doctors. It was not long before a mob was demolishing the building. Later the boy was found unharmed.

FOREIGN TROOPS IN PEKIN

Powers Land Marines For the Protection of Their Legations.

Preponderance of Russian Forces at Taku Excites European Chancelleries and United Action is Urged.

Pekin, China (By Cable).—The first of the foreign guards for the legations entered the city at eight o'clock Friday evening, the Americans marching ahead, followed by the Russians, Japanese, French, Italians and English, in the order named. The entire force numbered 360.

The American force, commanded by Captain McCalla, of the cruiser Newark, consisted of six officers and fifty marines. The men arrived at the legation of the United States covered with dust.

RUSSIA'S SHOW OF FORCE.

Nine Warships and Eleven Thousand Troops at Taku.

Shanghai, China (By Cable).—Twenty-three warships are now at Taku, nine Russian, three British, three German, three French, two American, two Japanese and one Italian.

In addition to their crews, the Russians have on board their wraships eleven thousand troops from Port Arthur, with field equipment. Fourteen thousand Russian troops are held in readiness at Port Arthur.

The Powers Seem Alarmed.

London (By Cable).—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says:

An active exchange of dispatches is going forward among the Great Powers relative to China. The colossal superiority of Russia's representation at Taku is regarded as significant. The Triple Alliance advocates united action by Europe to protect common interests.

NEW JERSEY DEMOCRATS MEET.

Trenton, N. J. (Special).—The Democratic State Convention to elect delegates to the Kansas City Convention on July 4 was held in the Taylor Opera House here.

Colonel C. Meyer Zulick, once Governor of Arizona Territory, was temporary and permanent chairman. Efforts were made to have tthe delegates instructed to vote for Bryan as the nominee for President, but they were unsuccessful.

The resolutions avoided any reference to the Chicago platform or any declaration about Mr. Bryan as a candidate. Mr. Bryan was, however, eulogized as a great Democrat, worthy of the highest confidence of the Democrats of the nation.

The platform declares for bi-metallism and against imperialism. It denounces the postal frauds in Cuba, asks for freedom from oppression for the Cubans and Filipinos, expresses sympathy with the Boers and severely arraigns the Republican Administration for its attitude toward trusts.

CAPTAIN ROBERTS'S CAPTURE.

Filipinos Promise to Treat Their Prisoners Well—Funston in Pursuit.

Manila (Special).—Later reports show that the rebels who captured Captain Roberts and six men of the Thirty-fifth Volunteer Infantry attacked them while they were lunching outside of San Miguel. The insurgents sent one of the wounded Americans back on a sled to an outpost where he was left. He had a letter addressed to the Provost Marshal from the rebel commander promising that the prisoners would receive good treatment.

A woman brought a letter written at San Miguel by Captain Roberts to his wife. In the letter the American officer said that the prisoners were being kindly treated and would possibly be exchanged.

General Funston is chasing the band that captured Captain Roberts, and has routed seventy of them from the summits of rocky hills. He has failed to find any trace of Captain Roberts, however.

Bull Routs Ohio Troops.

A mad bull chased Company C of the Seventh Regiment National Guard out of a twenty-acre field as they were marching home from a funeral. Captain V. M. Bovie rallied his troops, and ordering a bayonet charge put the bull to flight.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR CONGRESS.

The Chronicle is authorized to announce that Hon. Gaston A. Robbins is a candidate for re-election to congress from the Fourth district of Alabama, subject to the action of the democrats in the primary election.

That wretched farce they call "congress" adjourned yesterday. Thanks to a kind Providence there is one evil we will not be troubled with during the heated term.

General Joseph Wheeler is now a brigadier general in the regular army. He is the first ex-Confederate to receive that rank. "Fighting Joe" has a snug berth for his old age.

Burn-His-Arm-Off Adams lost no time in declining the populist nomination for governor. He was shrewd enough to know that a party which could not get together in a state convention as many delegates as there were counties in the state, including a number who attended merely as spectators and all told could only muster forty-five, was doomed beyond any hopes of repair, and he did not care to be forced to head the funeral procession. The Rev. Sam has monkeyed with politics long enough to learn something.

As will be seen by reference to the proceedings of the congressional district executive committee, published elsewhere, a primary election was ordered to be held in this district on August 20th. The committee endeavored to throw every possible safeguard around this primary in order to insure absolute fairness. Nothing short of this will come up to the high standard demanded by the people. There are now five candidates in the field, and perhaps others may enter the race. Let the people pick their man and all is well.

We are glad to learn that Col. Samford will fire the first gun in the campaign in our county, Calera having been honored with that distinction. It is the intention of the committee having the matter in charge to invite, in addition to our distinguished candidate for governor, all of the congressional candidates in the district, and other popular speakers, and give the people of the district a magnificent feast of eloquence. The Chronicle heartily congratulates Calera upon her good fortune and hopes that a large crowd will be there on the 29th.

The New York World quotes figures to show that the ordinary expenses of the government have increased $151,000,000 a year since Mr. McKinley became president. No war expenses are included in the figures. The war is a separate matter, which has caused an increase of the public debt of $200,000,000 since Mr. McKinley was inaugurated. The ordinary expenses under President Harrison averaged $361,291,323 per annum; during President Cleveland's second term the average was $360,418,546, while the average under President McKinley has been $514,480,254.

Mr. Irvin Wingard, of beat 9, is a candidate for commissioner from the first district. Mr. Wingard is a farmer, considerably above the average in intelligence. He was for several years a school teacher. He enjoys the entire confidence of the community in which he resides, and is known as a safe, level-headed, conservative man. He is a democrat and has always been an active worker for his party. Mr. Wingard is not an officeseeker and had no intention of entering the race, nor does he propose to make any effort to get the nomination. He has come out simply through deference to the urgent request of his friends, and they alone are responsible for his candidacy.

Mr. R. J. Griffin, of Helena, is before the people this week as a candidate for sheriff. He is now serving his second term as a commissioner, and The Chronicle does not hesitate to say that within the knowledge of the editor the county has never had a more competent, energetic or efficient man as a member of the board of revenue. He is the personification of energy, attends strictly to business, watches closely the interests of his constituents and is painstaking and thorough. No better recommendation than these could any man ask. Having proven faithful in a minor office is a sufficient guarantee that he would prove equally zealous and faithful in one of more importance and greater responsibility.

Hon. Gaston A. Robbins, of Dallas county, authorizes his announcement as a candidate for congress from this district. It is known of all men that Mr. Robbins was fairly elected to a seat in the present congress. We have never heard this denied by the bitterest partisan who opposed him, and but for three or four democrats of the Jesse Stallings pattern he would be in his seat today. Mr. Robbins enters the race knowing that the primary plan will cut down his strength in his home county, but he is willing to go before the people of the Fourth district and let them decide whether or not his wrongs should be vindicated. Mr. Robbins is a clean man, uses none but clean methods, and will not descend to trickery. No stronger proof of this assertion need be given than his entire willingness to let the people of the district decide the matter as to whether or not he is worthy of vindication.

THE PRIMARY PLAN.

The following are the resolutions adopted at the meeting of the district committee held in this city Thursday, May 31, 1900:

Be it resolved by the democratic ex-executive committee of the Fourth congressional district of Alabama,

First, That a primary election is hereby called for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Fifty-seventh congress from the Fourth congressional district of Alabama, and for the further purpose of electing two members of the congressional executive committee from each of the counties in said district, to be held in each precinct of the counties composing said district, on the 20th day of August, 1900.

Second, That the polls in each precinct of the district shall be opened at the usual voting place at 9 o'clock in the morning and shall be kept continuously open until 5 o'clock in the afternoon on the day above named.

Third, That all white voters, who will pledge themselves to support the nominee elected in said primary election and the principles of the democratic party, are invited to participate in such primary election.

Fourth, That for the purpose of holding said primary election each candidate shall have the privilege of appointing one inspector and one clerk of the primary election in each beat of the several counties of the district; that such primary election shall be held under the supervision of the beat committeemen of the county democratic executive committee of the several counties of the district; and that if any inspector or clerk shall fail to be present at the polling place at the time appointed for opening the polls the supporters of the candidate, who is not represented, may appoint one inspector and one clerk of said election; and that it is understood that all persons who may accept any appointment in connection with said primary is bound, upon honor, to faithfully and honestly conduct said election.

The names and addresses of the inspectors and clerks selected by the candidates for congress shall be forwarded to the secretary of this committee not later than 15 days prior to such election, who shall immediately notify said inspectors and clerks of their appointment.

Fifth, That the candidate receiving the highest number of votes in the district shall be declared the nominee of the democrats in said district for a member in the Fifty-seventh congress; and the two persons receiving the highest vote for members of the district executive committee from the county in which they may be voted for shall be the members of said committee from their respective counties, for the ensuing two years, or until their successors are elected.

Sixth, That at the close of the polls the beat committeemen, inspectors and clerks shall proceed at once to ascertain the result of the primary election in their respective precincts and immediately upon the completion of the count shall announce publicly the number of votes received by each candidate, and shall sign, in triplicate, certificates stating upon honor the number of votes received by each candidate in their respective precincts; one of these certificates with the poll lists containing the names of the voters participating in said primary shall be delivered within two days after such election to the following members of this committee in their respective counties, viz: Cleburne, Thos. Caruth; Calhoun, M. W. McCraw; Talladega, J. H. Donahoo; Shelby, C. C. DuBose; Chilton, J. F. Gregory; Dallas, J. B. Evans. One of these certificates shall be mailed immediately upon the completion of the count to the secretary of this committee in an envelope provided for that purpose, and the other certificate with the ballots cast at such election shall be retained by one of the managers of said election until after the declaration of the result of said primary by the committee.

Seventh, That a meeting of this committee is hereby called for the 25th day of August, 1900, at Calera; at said meeting this committee will in open session canvass the returns of said primary election, investigate and determine all objections that may be made and declare the result as to the nominee for congress and members of the congressional executive committee from the Fourth district of Alabama.

Eighth, That for the expenses of said primary election each candidate shall pay to the secretary of this committee fifty dollars not later than twenty days prior to holding the election and any surplus remaining shall be refunded pro rata among the payees.

Ninth, That any person who participated in said primary election shall be permitted to be present and witness the count of the ballots at the close of the polls.

Tenth, The tickets for the primary election shall be prepared by the secretary of this committee and shall be printed at least twenty days before said election; said tickets shall contain the names of all candidates alphabetically arranged, including the names of the candidates for members of the district executive committee in their respective counties, and said ticket or ballot shall be the official ballot for such primary election and the name of no candidate for congress who has not paid the assessment heretofore provided for within the stipulated time shall appear upon such ballot, or shall be voted for, and no vote shall be counted except for those whose names appear on the official ballot.

Eleventh, The ticket or ballots above provided for shall be furnished by the secretary of this committee to the following members of this committee in their respective counties, viz: Cleburne, Thos. Caruth; Calhoun, M. W. McCraw; Talladega, J. H. Donahoo; Shelby, C. C. DuBose; Chilton, J. F. Gregory; Dallas, J. B. Evans, and said named members of this committee shall forward by registered mail said tickets together with such other necessary stationery for holding the election to the members of the county executive committee in their respective precincts, retaining the receipt for the same.

ROBBINS WILL ASK A RENOMINATION.

Will Rely on the People to Right the Wrong Which Congress Has Done.

A Selma special to Sunday's Age-Herald says:

Hon. Gaston A. Robbins was seen by a representative of the Age-Herald this morning and asked whether he would be a candidate for congress and what he thought of the action of the committee yesterday in ordering a primary election. Mr. Robbins said:

"You may publish that I am a candidate for reelection to congress, subject to the nomination to be made in the democratic primary election. The change from the convention plan to the primary system, adopted by the committee, reduces the strength of my home county in making a nomination; nevertheless, I am perfectly willing to submit my candidacy to the democrats of the entire district. The rules and safeguards adopted by the committee appear to have been well and wisely considered.

"The vote of the republican members of the house of representatives, whereby the democrats of this district were deprived of a representative in the present congress, was a partisan decision. Both the law and the facts of the case were ignored, and there is no court that has jurisdiction to reverse such rulings. Therefore, I shall appeal to the people, a court which can and will revise such unfair proceedings.

"I submit, and will demonstrate during the campaign that this is a 'party affair,' and that vindication can only come to the party and its duly elected representative by another election. I will always fight, whether the standard bearer or in the ranks, such wrong and injustice. I shall refer my case to the democrats in every precinct of the district, and shall expect all who may be candidates to ask for votes in my home county."

At a meeting of the mayor and board of councilmen on Monday afternoon last three teachers for the public school next year were elected. Prof. F. Mynatt is principal, with Misses Sue McGehee and Ruby Looney assistants. Professor Mynatt has had charge of the school for the past few years, and has in every way demonstrated his fitness. Misses McGehee and Looney are both experienced instructors and will no doubt give universal satisfaction.

Miss Myrtle Clyde Brand, of this place, will recite a very pathetic piece on Friday evening at the meeting of citizens to be held at the court house to organize and put on foot a movement to build a soldiers home here. She possesses no little talent as an elocutionist and will doubtless prove very entertaining.

The census enumerators of the entire country began their rounds last Friday. In large cities their work must be completed in two weeks, but elsewhere one month is the time limit. J. S. Falkner is the enumerator for the northern portion of this beat, which includes this city, and P. J. Gilbert is taking in the southern part.

A negro over in Jefferson county this week was given the death penalty for the murder of a fellow-convict in the coal mines. He was serving a sentence in the mines, killed a convict, had his time extended, killed another and had his time further extended; now he has killed another convict and as a result will have himself suspended.

It is only one more week now until the democratic primary, if you hadn't thought about it. The material in the field affords a splendid opportunity to get a good ticket, and with the lights before us there is no apparent reason why success should not be ours this year. The time to name the men is Saturday of next week, and democrats should not forget.

A dozen or more subscriptions were left off the list last week because the regular quantity of our paper was not sufficient to send to all. The subscription list is growing in a most gratifying manner, and new names are being added almost daily. More paper has been ordered for this issue and all subscribers will receive their papers from now on without fail.

S. H. Gist and Dr. A. T. Rowe, constituting the board of pension examiners for this county, are at the court house this week and will remain in session eighteen days. Applicants for pensions who were refused last year, unless turned down on account of fraud, can again make application at the present session of the board. Those accepted last year need make no further application, as their names are already on the roll.

A union picnic of the various Sunday schools of the city will be enjoyed at Shelby Springs tomorrow. A special coach has been secured which will be attached to the morning local and will be left at the Springs until the local for the afternoon. The train leaves this place about 9 o'clock and returns at something after 4 in the afternoon. It is expected that a good crowd will attend, and a pleasant day is likewise anticipated.

A counterfeit five dollar bill was seen on our streets one day last week, which had been raised from the one dollar series. The work was a clever representation of the larger denomination and was so neatly executed that a detection of its worthlessness was a hard matter. It is stated that there were only three such bogus bills in circulation and that the other two were caught up with in Selma a few weeks ago. An artist with such skill could make more money were his talents turned into more honest channels.

Our boys went down to Shelby yesterday afternoon and crossed bats with the nine at that place. The score resulted in favor of Shelby—15 to 10. Owing to the heavy rains only seven innings could be played, and these between showers. The boys from this place were handicapped at the start by one of the team leaving the ground and carrying with him the mask and other paraphernalia. Another game will be played at this place Monday afternoon, when the strength of the local nine will be reasserted.

The family of J. T. Barnett, who lives in East Columbiana, had a narrow escape yesterday afternoon. During a thunder storm lightning struck the stack chimney between the two front rooms, and threw the brick in every direction, completely demolishing that portion of the chimney above the roof. The front door was closed, but was thrown violently open, the lightning tearing off the facing and reducing the 4x4 post underneath into kindling. The family fortunately were in the rear of the building and were unharmed.

A specimen of human nature claiming to be a deputy sheriff of Jefferson county and in embarassing circumstances was in our city last week. He presented his credentials to Sheriff Walthall and was tenderly cared for as a brother officer, and likewise worked upon the sympathies of our sheriff to the tune of 50 cents, in cold cash. A young gentleman of this city who knew the real and impersonated officer of Jefferson, and expressed his opinions plainly, was not embraced so warmly by ye tourist. The same traveler secured his board and lodging gratis at Montevallo and intermediate points, but report says his "bogusness" was detected near Anniston and that it will probably be some time before he is heard of again as a traveling deputy.

A large number of the citizens of beat 10 were in the city Monday, appearing before the judge of probate to determine whether or not they were enjoying the stock law in their beat or whether it was simply a joke. According to an enactment of the last legislature any part of the county may have a stock law at its pleasure. The first election in the Harpersville district declared against the law, but a subsequent election said a stock law was all that was needed to make the people up there happy. Now the anti stock law people are attempting to contest the legality of the second election, declaring that the will of the people was made manifest at the first election. The hearing was postponed two weeks hence, when the stock law belligerents can come down and talk the matter over again.

Confederate Veterans' Home.

At a meeting of Confederate veterans and sons of veterans held in the office of the judge of probate last Saturday evening for the purpose of considering plans for the organization of an association looking to the building of a Confederate home at this place, the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That the chairman of this committee be requested to publish in the two papers a call inviting everybody in sympathy with this movement, and especially all Confederate veterans in and around Columbiana, to meet at the court house Friday evening at 8 o'clock sharp for the purpose of effecting an organization and transacting any other business that may come before the meeting."

From the above it will be seen that everybody who are in sympathy with this movement are invited to meet us at the court house next Friday night, especially do we want all Confederate veterans to meet with us. We want their advice and assistance in perfecting the plans for carrying out the objects of the movement.

In our own county and, I dare say, in every county of the state, there are old veterans who are not able to support themselves. They should in their old age be taken care of by the people for whom they fought during four long years, and we believe that the good women of our state alone would maintain the home if they had the chance. They are doing it in Georgia, they are doing it in Tennessee, and they will do it in Alabama if the men will provide the home.

Come out, veterans, sons of veterans, wives of veterans and daughters of veterans, and let us put our heads together and see what can be done.

JOHN W. PITTS, Chairman.

News has just reached us of a singing at the residence of G. W. Dye Sunday evening, but as usual Boss did not go and he can not report how it was.

The death angel has again visited our community, this time taking for its victims two dear infants of Asa Goodwin and Levi Griffin. Weep not, dear parents, we know it is hard to give them up, but while it is our loss it is their gain. Let us so live that we can meet them in the land of immortality and love, where death and farewells never come. They are like a flower that groweth up in the morning and fadeth in the noonday sun.

Asheville, N. C.

Few regions have been more richly endowed by nature than that famous section of western North Carolina poetically termed the Land of the Sky. It has a climate so dry and health-giving that it has become known the world over as a natural sanitarium for the cure of all troubles of a pulmonary or bronchial nature.

Asheville, the centre of this beautiful mountain-hemmed plateau, is the highest city east of Denver, and is a busy, thriving place of 12,000 inhabitants, with all the modernisms of city life. The city lies just at the point where the beautiful French Broad and Swannanoa Rivers join their crystal waters.

Within the city or in its suburbs many people of wealth have built beautiful and expensive homes, and most notable among them being the chateau of George W. Vanderbilt, which with its great estate, has cost upwards of four million dollars.

Asheville is an all-the-year resort, for its great mountains protect it in the winter from the cold winds and its summer climate is made delightful because of its altitude.

For descriptive matter of Asheville and vicinity call on any Southern Railway agent, or write C. A. Benscoter, A. G. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Land of the Sky.

In western North Carolina, between the Blue Ridge on the east and the Alleghanies on the west, in the beautiful valley of the French Broad, two thousand feet above the sea, lies Asheville, beautiful, picturesque, and world-famed as one of the most pleasant resorts in America. It is a land of bright skies and incomparable climate, whose praises have been sung by poets and whose beauties of stream, valley and mountain height have furnished subject and inspiration for the painter's brush. This is truly the Land of the Sky," and there is perhaps no more beautiful region on the continent to attract pleasure tourists or health seekers. Convenient schedules and very low rates to Asheville via Southern Railway.

Communion Wine.

It has always been our opinion that we should not use fermented wine for communion purposes if the pure juice of the grape could be procured. We should use such as has no alcohol in it. Recently in this state—Cleburne county—a company has been organized known as the Fruithurst Grape Juice company. This company presses the grape, gets the pure juice, and immediately bottles it, making the bottles air tight, and so long as the bottle is kept tightly stopped the contents will keep pure and sweet.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of our preachers and deacons to this grape juice that they may secure it for communion purposes. Let us not put any strong drink to the mouth of our brother, for we know not to what it may lead. Let us not tempt him by using fermented wine. This grape juice can be purchased from the above named company. Let us suggest that you write a postal card to E. B. Hammitt, manager, Fruithurst, Cleburne county, Ala., for prices and circular. If you do this we feel sure that your church will use the juice instead of the saloon wine, which intoxicates.—Alabama Baptist.

Reflections.

"Well," said the boy, reflectively, chewing some home made taffy as he looked into the face of the policeman, "yeh spoilt me fishin' trip fer me, wen yeh pulled dat 'ere string last night, dat was hangin' fr'm me winder. Yeh see, I tol' me fr'ends I would let a string hang fr'm me winder so w'en he woke early 'n de mornin' he could kum to me house, pull de string, wake me up an' I would go a-fishin' on the ice wid him. Up 'n bed I tied de string to me right hand an' hung de string out er de winder an' went ter sleep. Me little brudder Louie, who I sleep wid, got mixed with de string on me hand an' putty soon he had it curled 'bout tree times 'round his neck. Well, 'bout hav past four 'n de mornin' me fr'end kim t' me house an' pulled de string, an' soon was chokin' littel Louie. Louie kinder woke up an' kicked me so dat I thot it was a robber an' called fer me Maw. W'en Maw kim up she saw little Louie chokin'. Maw den cut de string an' saved littel Louie's life. Den yeh pulled me fr'end who was pullin' de rope, fer a robber, 'cause yeh thot he was robbin' our house. In de mornin' me Maw saw de string 'round me hand an' warmed me up fer de day, I'll bet I'll never hang 'nother string out de winder. But anyway yew policemen is always 'round when yer not wanted."—Detroit Free Press.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have seen so many letters from ladies who were cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies that I thought I would ask your advice in regard to my condition. I have been doctoring for four years and have taken different patent medicines, but received very little benefit. I am troubled with backache, in fact my whole body aches, stomach feels sore, by spells get short of breath and am very nervous. Menstruation is very irregular with severe bearing down pains, cramps and backache. I hope to hear from you at once."—CLARA KOPP, Rockport, Ind., Sept. 27, 1898.

"I think it is my duty to write a letter to you in regard to what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I wrote you some time ago, describing my symptoms and asking your advice, which you very kindly gave. I am now healthy and cannot begin to praise your remedy enough. I would say to all suffering women, 'Take Mrs. Pinkham's advice, for a woman best understands a woman's sufferings, and Mrs. Pinkham, from her vast experience in treating female ills, can give you advice that you can get from no other source.' BLOODY TRAGEDY IN TEXAS.

At San Augustine, San Augustine county, Texas, Monday, a pitched battle between the Wall faction on the one side and the Brooks on the other, resulted in the death of Felix G. Roberts, his brother Sidney Roberts and the fatal wounding of Noel Roberts, sheriff of the county and brother to the dead men.

The feud grew out of politics and has been brewing for some years. A few weeks ago Ned Wall, the sheriff, was shot and killed by King Borden, at San Augustine. Borden fled, but afterward surrendered and was admitted to bail. Noel Roberts was appointed sheriff. Last Saturday Eugene Wall, brother to the dead sheriff, shot to death Ben Brock, a kinsman of Borden. Monday the factions met when the examining trial of Wall was to be held, and every man came to the court house armed.

Hostilities began with the appearance of Sheriff Roberts and his brother, who fell at the first volley from a score of guns.

Application was at once made to the governor for troops, and the Stone Fort Rifles were ordered from Nacogdoches. The is much excitement and more trouble is feared.

CLAYTON-BULWER TREATY.

Morgan Says It Must Go if It Blocks Government's Way.

Congress is in the last gasps of the long session, and its expiration, apparently, is to be quite perfunctory. Unless something extraordinary occurs, no further general legislation of national importance will be enacted before adjournment.

Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, reported from the committee on inter-oceanic canals a resolution declaring the Clayton-Bulwer treaty abrogated. The resolution as reported reads:

"That the treaty known as the Clayton-Bulwer treaty between Great Britain and the United States, which was concluded on the 5th of April, 1850, is abrogated."

In presenting the resolution Mr. Morgan made a written report traversing the grounds for the abrogation of the treaty in detail.

The report is practically a plea for the Nicaragua canal. In it Senator Morgan says "that if the Clayton-Bulwer treaty stands in the way of our government it must give way to the paramount law" if the house bill is enacted into a statute of the United States.

Republicans Carry Oregon.

Meagre returns from Monday's election in Oregon indicate that the republicans have carried the state by from 5,000 to 8,000 plurality. It is estimated that C. W. Wolverton, republican for justice of the supreme court, will have a plurality of 8,000, and J. W. Bailey, republican, for food and dairy commissioner, is elected by 6,000. In the Second Congressional district the plurality for Moody, republican, is estimated at from 5,000 to 7,000. According to the returns the fusionists have gained in the legislature.

Gen. Wheeler to Be Brigadier-General.

A Washington dispatch says: General Wheeler's friends rejoice at the president's intention to appoint him a brigadier-general in the regular army. The appointment will probably go in Wednesday. General Wheeler serves as a regular only until September 10, when he becomes 64 years of age.

The appointment will without doubt be promply confirmed. It seems to mean General Wheeler's retirement from active politics.

Gomez Will Be Honored.

On arriving at his house in Havana Monday General Gomez made a brief address, in the course of which he said he had kept his promise to return to Cuba, and that he had never intended to turn his back upon her people. A large demonstration in his honor will be given.

Gen. Hastings Dead.

Silas Wright Hastings, late colonel of the One Hundred and Forty-second New York volunteer infantry and brigadier general United States volunteers by brevet, died in Washington Monday.

Killed His Manager.

As a result of a dispute over the settlement of certain business accounts, John a Graham, of Savannah, Ga., capitalist and senior partner of the Graham Lumber company at St. Marks, twenty miles south of Tallahassee, Fla., shot and killed City Councilman John Bradford, of Tallahassee, who was manager of Graham's large saw mill at St. Marks.

Steamship Deal at Mobile.

The Munson steamship line, one of the largest of American steamship companies, has contracted with the Mobile & Ohio railroad company to absorb the Mobile & Cuban steamship company, which, since the Spanish war, has done a successful trade out of Mobile port. The Munson company will take charge July 2. It agrees to increase the facilities and also to do business out of Mobile to a number of other ports in the islands and in South America and Mexico.

Crushed by Machinery.

A young man named Burton, aged about 20 years, was accidentally killed at Blossburg Sunday, while working at the coke ovens of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company, at that place. Burton had charge of the stationary engine used at the coke ovens, and, while working with some of the machinery, was caught by the fly wheel and his body badly crushed and mangled. Burton was the son of T. J. Burton, former probate judge of Cleburn county.

Shot Through the Heart.

Nat Hammond was shot and almost instantly killed by Mack Morton at Ashville over a trivial difference Saturday night. Both of the men were prominent citizens of the community, and had previous to the shooting been friends. Hammond and Morton met and soon became engaged in a quarrel. Morton suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and advanced on Hammond. The weapon snapped twice, but on the third attempt fired, the ball penetrating Hammond's heart. He walked away a few feet and fell dead.

Twenty miles of the right of way of the Florida, Alabama and Northern railroad have been surveyed and located, and the contract for the construction of that portion of the road will probably be let within the next four or five weeks. LOOKS JUST LIKE "CHAUNCEY."

Drummer Who Travels in the South and Passes as Depew.

A tall, thin, elderly man with a large nose, bright eyes and small patches of gray side-whiskers in front of his ears came into one of the prominent hotels and wrote his name on the register, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat. There was a dense crowd at the desk at the time and nobody beyond the front line saw the signature. The elderly man pushed his way through the compact body of waiting tourists and was standing in the open, leisurely surveying the lobby, when somebody started the whisper: "That's Chauncey Depew!" The moment the words were uttered that species of telepathy which is usually in evidence on such occasions seemed to flash the information from one end of the corridor to the other, and all eyes were turned instinctively on the stranger. The likeness was nothing short of startling and "That's him!" "It's Depew, sure!" "Yes, that's Chauncey; ain't he a peach?" echoed in excited undertones from every nook and corner. The tall, thin gentleman with the capitalistic side-whiskers and the duke of Wellington nose must have been aware of the sensation he was creating, but he betrayed no surprise. On the contrary, he looked a trifle bored. At that moment two reporters rushed up. "Excuse me, sir," began the foremost, "but are——" "No, sir, I'm not," interrupted the tall man, calmly. "But I—I was——" stammered the reporter, in some confusion. "Yes, I know what you were going to ask me," said the stranger, "and I am sorry to say that I'm not. Good evening." The interview thereupon closed. The name of Dr. Depew's double is Mr. Peter Lance. He is a wholesale drug drummer and was in New Orleans for Mardi Gras. Mr. Lance says, in confidence, that he is used to it by this time.

Concrete Took Fire.

Concrete is not usually classed among the combustibles, so that the recently reported taking fire of a mass of that compound in the boiler room of an electric power station is particularly interesting. A simple enough explanation for the occurrence was, however, found in the fact that the concrete consisted of one part in seven of boiler furnace ashes, and that the brick lining under the boilers was omitted in one place, so that the furnace temperature was readily transmitted to the concrete. The latter, as the Electrical Review of London tells it, became ignited, and the whole block, eight feet deep, disintegrated; in consequence it was found necessary to pull down the brickwork of the boilers and remove the whole of the concrete block. In the present scarcity of coal, the Review facetiously adds, engineers may find it worth their while to stoke with concrete!

AT THE MERCY OF "BOXERS"

Chinese Soldiers are Surrounded By Outlaws.

DESPERATE FIGHT OCCURS

Admiral Kempf Wires Washington That More American Troops are Needed. The Situation Becomes Grave.

Advices of Friday from Tien Tsin, stated that 4,000 Boxers surrounded 1,500 Chinese troops between Lofa and Yong Tsung last Thursday, and according to the latest news, fighting was still going on Friday morning.

Chinese officials say that 500 Boxers were killed, but give no account of the Chinese casualities.

TONG KU, June 8.—"Landed forces to protect American interests with consent of China; fifty-six to Pekin, rest to Tien Tsin. Nations sent force to both cities; no injury so far. British, Russian and Chinese admirals and twenty warships here. Our landing forces under McCalla June 5. Situation most critical. Russian force has begun fighting; landed fifty more men; have requested Helena to be sent immediately to protect interests, or vessel like her. Consider battalion marines necessary. Need gunboat as a base inside. Tien Tsin Pekin railway cut. Will act in concert with other powers to protect if necessary. Meeting of senior naval officers today, present English, French, German, Austrian, Japanese, Russian and American. Arranged for combined action to protect life and property if required. "KEMPFF."

A New York Herald dispatch from London says:

"The anxiety regarding events in the far east has spread still further.

"Over and over again one hears the opinion expressed that nothing can prevent war between Japan and Russia. In diplomatic circles nothing else is talked about. There exists now an excitement among diplomats such as has not been known for years and which has entirely eclipsed all the attention hitherto given to the war in South Africa.

"A visit to the city revealed the increase in anxiety.

"There exists in financial circles all the preliminaries of a panic, which sentiment has affected all the markets and quite neutralized the anticipated effect of the good news from South Africa."

DISCUSSED BY CABINET.

The crisis of the orient was the subject discussed to the exclusion of all others by the cabinet at Friday's meeting. There were messages from Minister Conger and Admiral Kempff, both indicating that instead of improvement the conditions are worse than at any time since the boxer outbreak. Conger asked for additional instructions, presumably upon the extent to which he should go toward joint action with the representatives of other powers.

After the cabinet meeting Secretary Hay stated that there would be no change in instructions to the minister, who is left to act largely on his own discretion, the government policy of independent action so far as it is possible being impressed upon him again. It is understood in official circles, however, that he is given practically free hand to do what he thinks best in any extreme crisis.

CHINA IS IMPOTENT.

At the Chinese embassy it is estimated that China's total land army on a peace footing amounts to 300,000 men and 1,000,000 men on a war footing. It is estimated that the army as a whole has no unity or cohesion; there is no proper discipline, the weapons are long since obsolete, and there is no transport, commissariat or medical service.

At the end of the war with Japan the Chen Hai and the Kang Chi alone remained to China of her boasted Pelyang squadron.

MANY AMERICANS IN THE EMPIRE.

At the state department it is estimated that there are 12,000 American citizens living in the empire of China. More than one-third are missionaries. Those not in the missionary field are engaged in mercantile pursuits, shipping, mining and railway construction.

The missionaries are scattered. About three hundred are in the Tien Tsin district, where the Boxers are concentrating. Unless the missionaries in the country reach Tien Tsin City, where marines and blue jackets from the Newark are, their lives are in peril.

ORDERS TO SIXTH CAVALRY.

Troops Go to San Francisco to Embark For Philippines.

Orders were issued at the war department Saturday for the first squadron of the Sixth cavalry, consisting of headquarters and companies A, B, C, D and the Third squadron of the same regiment, consisting of companies I, K, L and M, to proceed without delay to San Francisco for transportation to the Philippines on the first available transports.

COMMITTEE PROBE

The official investigation by the Atlanta, Ga., city council's committee into the alleged reprehensible acts of Mayor James G. Woodward commenced Friday.

A number of witnesses, among them prominent citizens, were called upon to tell what they knew concerning the alleged conduct of Atlanta's chief executive.

Neither Mayor Woodward nor his representatives were present, being barred from the deliberations of the committee. The investigation was conducted much in the manner of the sessions of the county grand jury, the object of the committee being to ascertain if there is sufficient evidence among the witnesses for the prosecution to warrant the holding of an impeachment trial, in which event the mayor will have an opportunity to defend himself.

The testimony of the witnesses examined at the first session of the committee was in effect that Mayor James G. Woodward was so drunk at a recent meeting of the board of education as to interfere with the transaction of business; that it was necessary upon one occasion to detain the mayor at the pumping station of the waterworks because of his intoxicated condition; that the mayor had telephoned for a policeman to meet him at the house of Eva Clark, a white woman, and had stated to the officer upon his arrival that Eva Clark had taken $100 from his clothes while the clothes were hanging upon the back of a chair; that the mayor had interfered with the workings of the police department in reference to the place of residence of a house of ill fame; that the mayor had been seen in an intoxicated condition at the city hall.

GEN. OTIS TALKS.

Tells Chicago Papers That War In Philippines "Is Over."

Major General E. S. Otis, of the United States army, arrived in Chicago at 7:20 o'clock Friday morning from San Francisco and Manila, and left at 1:30 for Washington. Mrs. Otis and daughter arrived in Chicago Thursday night from New York, and the general and his wife and daughter spent the hours between trains together—the ending of a separation of two years. General Otis said, among other things:

"The war is over. The guerrilla warfare can't last long. To be sure we will have to repress those people for a number of years, but there is no organized force of Filipinos. The depredations that are going on are conducted by robbers and drones. The United States troops are now engaged in defending the inhabitants of the Philippines against the robbery and murder committed by their own people. But the conditions are generally improving, and in some parts are better than they have ever been.

"We have 55,000 effective troops under arms in the Philippines. Estimates regarding the number of inhabitants in the islands are all wild, but the number is between six and seven millions. The great majority of the people desire peace and wish to again take up their business pursuits. Business in Manila has again resumed activity and the inhabitants are peacefully pursuing their avocations.

"I cannot see that the administration of our distinguished secretary of war has made any mistake in this campaign. We may have made a mistake over there, but, if so, they have been the result of human liability to commit error."

BRITISH OFEICERS WELCOMED.

A special dispatch from Pretoria describes the visit made by officers of Lord Roberts' staff to the Kruger residence in Pretoria. It says:

"We were received by a Dutch pastor, and shortly joined by Mrs. Kruger. The burghers thereupon laid down their arms on the asphalted porch of the building."

REMEY SENDS THE NASHVILLE

MARINE FORCE IS ABOARD

Dowager Empress Rebukes Chinese General For Killing Boxers, Which Is Evidence That She Abets Crimes.

Admiral Remey informs the navy department that the gunboat Nashville with a force of marines aboard left Cavite Friday for Taku. She is a light draught gunboat of the same type as the Helena, and it is presumed that she is sent in place of the latter. The Monocacy, at Shanghai, has also been ordered to join Admiral Kempff at Taku.

It is understood at the navy department that the Nashville was despatched to Taku, in place of the Helena, which was originally selected for that purpose but was probably unavailable or absent from Manilla.

The navy department has sent instructions to the commander of the Monocacy at Shanghia to report to Admiral Kempff at Taku, and that vessel is already on her way. Though an old ship, the Monocacy is admirably adapted to this kind of service, drawing only nine feet of water and carrying a very good secondary battery. Her personnel is twelve officers 146 men.

The Castine and Yorktown also are at Shanghai and can be drawn upon, according to Admiral Remey's dispach by Admiral Kempff, if he wants more men. These vessels are of 1.000 to 1,700 tons displacement, respectively, with batteries about the same as the Nashville. The Castine's personnel is eleven officers, 142 men; the Yorktown's is fourteen officers and 181 men.

BOXERS ENCOURAGED.

Dispatches from Tien Tsin, of Friday, state that in view of the conclusive confirmation of imperial connivance in the boxer movement, furnished by a published edict denouncing General Nieh Si Chong for killing some rioters, the strong possible action of the powers, it is asserted, can alone remedy the situation, which has assumed the gravest aspect.

The edict is couched in such terms that it leaves no doubt of the deep sympathy of the throne with the boxers, who are described as "good citizens." Besides denouncing General Nieh for killing the boxers, the edict orders him to return with his troops to Loopai, eighty miles from the scene of the disturbances.

The special train that went out from Tien Tsin to examine the line and reconnoiter returned Saturday night. The railway was found clear two miles beyond Yang Tsu. The engineers with the guards walked a mile and a half further. They found the ties and two bridges burned and the railway torn up.

The first repair train, with Admiral Seymour and staff, 650 British, Captain McCalla's 100 Americans, forty Italians and twenty-five Austrians, left Sunday morning at half past 9. A hotchkiss and other guns were mounted on a car in front of the engine. The rest of the guns were mounted in the center of the train. A second train left at 11 with 600 British, Japanese, Russian and French troops. Repairing material and new rails were taken along.

ONLY ONE WAS GUILTY.

But Mob Hung Both to Make Sure of Victim.

At 3 o'clock Sunday morning on the same tree in a thicket behind the railway station at Mississippi City, Askew and Russ were swung up as a warning to the negroes of the state that the lives of women and children are to be protected.

Both were hung, bound together, back to back. No confession was made, but one of the men was guilty and the crowd was not going to let him escape.

ENVOY WELCOMED.

Envoy Wessels, of the Orange Free State, was given a big official reception by Omaha, Neb., Saturday. It was marked as being of a wholly nonpartisan character. Governor Poynter, Populist, presided over the mass meeting; Mayor Moores, Republican, welcomed the envoy for the city; Captain H. E. Palmer, chairman of the Republican state central committee, was secretary of the meeting and read a number of communications; T. J. Mahoney, a Cleveland gold Democrat, made a stirring speech, and William J. Bryan was present and on call from the audience expressed his sympathy for the struggling republics. At the Creighton theater a crowd of several thousand greeted Mr. Wessels.

"You don't hear the truth about us," said he. "England has all the cables and holds the ear of the world. You know the history of the Boers, for the Americans, I find, have read more than any other people on earth. You know how Kruger went to Europe twice and begged and entreated for liberty; you have read how Steyn has studied about the free nations of the world; he knows all about the American government, and when the English people say that we were the aggressors and threatened to drive the English people into the sea, do you think that those two men would think for a moment that they could do such a thing? Why, there are only 250,000 people in both our republics, from the smallest infant to the men bigger than I am."

Calls were heard for Mr. Bryan and he finally responded in an impassioned address. He spoke in part as follows:

"I came as a citizen, an American citizen, to be present with other American citizens to meet the representatives of the Boer republics; to join with you in expressing to them our sympathy for their cause and, as I earnestly believe, the sympathy of a great majority of the American people. I trust that the day will never come when a nation fighting for liberty will look in vain to the American people for sympathy and aid."

REPORT OF AUDITOR

An Atlanta dispatch says: Four large volumes of closely printed typewritten pages constituted the report in the Southern Mutual Building and Loan Association, which was filed by Auditor T. A. Hammond in the superior court Friday.

As there are several hundred persons directly and others indirectly affected by the finding of the auditor, the report is more than ordinary interest.

The auditor decides that stockholders who had filed notices of withdrawal should not be allowed any preference over other stockholders.

Another interesting point decided was that the withdrawing members were not entitled to be classed as creditors. He held further that if directors and officers of the association were receiving salaries from the association not warranted by its assets, the conduct of these directors in receiving the salaries was not such a wrong to the stockholder as would warrant a judgment being entered against the various directors to recover back the salaries paid.

In his report Auditor Hammond also makes an important decision in fixing the liability of the borrowers. He reports $16,000 against the Bates-Farley Savings bank in favor of the association.

The Southern Mutual case is one of considerable magnitude. It is believed to be the largest of its kind in the country, and has attracted more than local attention ever since the collapse of the association several years ago. The amount of money that the stockholders will get will depend largely upon the sum collected by the receivers. Auditor Hammond has listed the amounts standing to the credit of all.

According to the report, between the time of its organization and until the appointment of receivers some three years ago, the association lost about $350,000.

MAY RETIRE HOBSON.

Owing to Bad Health the Hero of Merrimac Is Coming Home.

Naval Constructor Richmond Pearson Hobson, who became famous through the sinking of the Merrimac at Santiago, has been condemned by a medical survey board on the Asiatic station and recommended to be relieved from his present duties and ordered home at once.

It is not believed that his health is necessarily undermined, but he is suffering from long service in tropical climates. It may not be necessary to order his retirement.

BOERS CHECKMATED.

Buller Secures a Good Position West of Laings Nek.

A London special of Friday says: General Buller has at length taken the offensive and by maneuvering he has secured a position west of Laings neck, by which he believes he can make the Boer positions untenable. Presumably he will immediately follow up his success.

ARMED DEPUTIES SLAY STRIKERS

CLASH WAS UNEXPECTED

Row Started When Strikers Attempted to Board a Car.

Last Sunday, in St. Louis, was one of the most eventful and bloody since the great strike of the Transit company began, more than one month ago. There were numerous encounters between strikers and other riotous persons and the constituted authorities, resulting in three deaths and wounding of five or more persons, mostly strikers. One of the latter will die.

The day was quiet until the afternoon, when the police were taken off a number of street car lines for the purpose of giving them a rest, and to test the ability of the Transit company to operate without friction. Cars were in operation during the daytime on all the lines of the Transit company except the southwestern. At night cars were run under police protection until midnight on the Park avenue, Olive street, Lindell division and La Clede avenue line.

The most serious trouble broke out at 7 o'clock p. m. in front of the six-story store building on Washington avenue occupied by the sheriff's posse comitatus as a barracks and headquarters. Several hundred striking street car men had gone to East St. Louis earlier in the day to attend a picnic given for their benefit at Wolff's grove. Toward evening they began returning home singly, in groups of two or three, or in companies of a hundred or more.

No serious trouble occurred until one of these companies, composed of nearly 150 street car men in uniform and headed by a drum corps, came west on Washington avenue. In their caps some of them had cards bearing these words:

"Union or nothing; liberty or death."

The men were marching along the sidewalk on the south side of Washington avenue opposite the posse barracks. They were in a jocular mood, and as near as can be learned, had no intention of making any trouble.

Just as they were passing the barracks a car at the Park avenue division was going west. A number of the men broke from the line and rushed toward the car, with the intention, it is said, of boarding it and taking a ride. Another statement was made that it was the intention of the strikers to assault the motorman and conductor, whose car was without the usual police guard. A brick was thrown through the car window and a shot was fired. Members of the sheriff's posse swarmed from the building and surrounded the crowd of strikers about the car, calling upon them to disperse.

Other shots were fired and then some of the deputies turned loose their repeating shotguns loaded with buckshot. As far as can be learned only four of the men in the strikers' ranks were hit. Not a deputy was wounded.

LOOKS BAD FOR MAYOR.

Their testimony was in effect that the mayor, James G. Woodward, had announced upon one occasion that the Atlanta Railway and Power Company could not get anything through the executive office while he was mayor of Atlanta; that he used oaths unfit for print in connectian with this statement; that he had disturbed a meeting of the board of education recently by attending the session while in an intoxicated condition; that he visited a certain Mrs. McCraney on Garnett street frequently; that he had become intoxicated while upon an official visit to Washington, D. C., and that it was common talk that he took a woman to that city with him.

Order to Adjutant General.

General order No. 76 has been received by the adjutant general. These orders embrace the provisions of the recent military bill passed by congress. The item which is of vital interest to the citizen soldiery of Alabama, reads as follows:

"On the application of the governor of any state or territory the secretary of war is authorized to replace the quartermaster supplies, which the volunteers from said state or territory carried into the service of the United States army during the recent war with Spain, and which have been retained by the United States exclusive of such supplies as have been allowed for in the office of the war department, and such award accepted by the state."

This means that the large claim by Alabama for quartermaster's supplies will be allowed. It also means that every military company in the state will be fully and amply equipped with quartermaster stores. It will not, however, be available until after June 30.

BOERS CAPTURE BATTALION

Loss of Derbyshires Estimated at From 600 to 700 Men.

MANY BRITISH KILLED AND WOUNDED

Machadodorp Proclaimed the Capital of the Transvaal--British Defeated in Southern Extremity of Free State.

Lieutenant General Sir Frederick Forestier-Walker, in command of the lines of communication in South Africa, reports that in the disaster to the British troops June 7, at Roodeval where the Boers cut Lord Roberts' line of communications, the Fourth Battalion of the Derbyshire Regiment were all killed, wounded or made prisoners except six enlisted men. Two officers and fifteen men were killed and five officers and seventy-two men were wounded, many of them severely.

The Boers returned the wounded to the British. The officers were Lieutenant Colonel Baird-Douglas and Lieutenant Hawley.

The wounded include Colonel Wilkinson and Lieutenant Blanchard, of the Canadian Infantry. The loss of the Derbyshire is estimated at from 600 to 700 men.

A Reuter dispatch from Maseru, says:

Machadodorp has been officially proclaimed the capital of the Transvaal. A Lourenzo Marques dispatch says that the village has swollen into a small city, the majority of the new inhabitants living in tents.

An official Boer telegram asserts that the British have been defeated with considerable loss on Donkerspoort, in the southern extremity of the Free State, or Orange River colony, ten miles from Norvaispont. It was thought that this district had been cleared of Boers and rebels long ago.

Gold Democrats.

George Foster Peabody, chairman of the national committee of the gold democrats, said Monday that the question of a third ticket must stand in abeyance until after the two conventions. Whether a third candidate would be run would depend upon whether the constituencies represented by the various delegates regard it as expedient. If the committee decides to call a convention the party platform will be the same as represented by Palmer and Buckner four years ago, except that the imperialistic issue will play an important part.

Young Couple Drowned.

Miss Lillie McAlle and Sherman Morris, of Louisville, Ky., each 18 years of age, were drowned in the Ohio river Monday at Fern Grove, fifteen miles above Louisville. They were attending a big picnic and with another couple took a boat ride. While the couples were trying to exchange seats in the boat, Miss McAlle fell overboard. Morris, who attempted to save her, seized her by one foot, but Miss McAlle pulled him down with her and both were drowned.

The understanding at the war department is that Wheeler retires almost immediately, General Schwan being promoted before retiring, and Wheaton being advanced.

Bank Cashier Suicides.

A special from Bastrop, La., states that Alexander Marks, cashier of the Bastrop State bank, committed suicide in the bank by shooting himself through the head. Double Tragedy.

THE DUTY OF DEMOCRATS.

As is generally known that the democratic party of Shelby county will hold a primary election on Saturday next to name candidates for the following offices, to be voted for in the August election, representative, sheriff, superintendent of education, treasurer, tax collector, two justices of the peace, one constable and three committeemen for each beat.

For each of these offices, except for representative and tax assessor, Mr. Peters and Mr. Ruffin seem to have no opposition—there are several candidates, and, doubtless, each and every one of them are good men in the generally accepted meaning of that term—that is to say, they are kind neighbors, successful business men and good fellows generally. It occurs to us that there are other essential qualities that every man who offers for an office should possess to entitle him to due consideration. The first requisite in an official is competency. A man may be ever so good a neighbor, business man and friend, and yet be totally deficient in those essential qualities that go to make up the character of a good officer. Political parties are, and shall be, held responsible for the men they put up for all offices, and personal considerations should be left out of sight. The voter who casts his ballot for a man simply because he is his personal friend and is an all-around good fellow, without regard to his qualifications to fill the office he aspires to, does himself, his party and his community an injustice. Furthermore, it is the height of folly for democrats to vote for a man in the approaching primary who has no reasonable chance to be elected in August. Let every democratic voter in the county make careful and diligent inquiry into the character and qualifications of the candidates who are offering for any office, and when he is convinced—first, that the candidate is honest, sober, and qualified by education to fill the office, and has a reasonable showing, should he obtain the nomination, to be elected in August, go ahead and vote for that man.

Let us nominate clean and competent men—men against whom no charge of incompetence can be made.

The chairman of the National committee of the National democratic party has called a meeting of the committee at Indianapolis on July 25, and according to a recent telegram "the concensus of opinion is that the party should again put a National ticket in the field." So the McKinley aid society is to be resurrected. The editor of The Chronicle is a gold bug, but he is a democrat without any "national" in it. We do not believe in whipping the devil around a stump. Any man has a perfect right to support McKinley if he sees proper, but why not do it openly?

The street car strikers in St. Louis are claiming that they were "shot down like dogs" last Sunday while they were returning from a picnic. People who act like dogs usually are treated like dogs. We have little patience with the methods they adopt.

OUR WAR WITH CHINA.

From the Talladega News-Reporter.

It looks likes a gigantic plan had been entered into by the stronger nations of the earth to wipe out the weaker ones. That a general division of the earth's surface has been agreed upon by which the rights and wishes of the helpless states are to be disregarded and their territory and people confiscated and subjugated to suit the wills of the masters. We have seen the part the United States has taken in this, in her attitude towards Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines. Likewise that which Great Britain has taken toward the Boer Republic. The next step now is to divide up China. England wasn't quite ready for this grab until she had the Boers down and shackled. Feeling that they are now safe from harm and Mr. McKinley being sure that Aguinaldo's fight for liberty is crushed the scheme now seems to pick a fuss with China, take her land and subjugate her people. The "Boxers" is the cry now. They have lived and done devilment for many years, and nobody but China noticed them. But now they are made to furnish the pretext which the "christian" nations are ready for, to steal the country of China and to make slaves of her people. Any other pretext would have answered as well since when a bully wants to impose on the weak he never lacks for an excuse from his standpoint. The lion always eats the lamb to keep it safe from the cruel claws of the tiger. And so with our new policy of imperialism; with our new desire to shine as a conquering nation we are to set forth again on our work of "destiny" and benevolently assimilate the almond eyed oriental and shoot our gospel of might makes right into the despised Confucianist. What matters if New York city has more crime in a day than all China's four hundred millions. Ours is the best way and we must "civilize" them. And thus will we probably soon find ourselves in the midst of a league war with England to partition China and add a part of her domain and people to our string of "dependencies." This is McKinley's great dream and all no doubt because some crack brain cartoonist said he looked like Napoleon. Soon shall we hear all our little aping courtiers echoing forth: "vive la Emperor, vive McKinley!"

Determining Water.

The work of stream measurements by the United States Geological Survey is an important element in building up the manufacturing industries of the South, more especially since it has been found practicable by electrical transmission to concentrate the power furnished by small streams, at a central point suitable for a factory site. Capital, however, is slow to venture until it knows from indisputable authority what the capacities of the streams are, and that they are not liable to run dry or low at the critical time when power may be most needed. In this way the stream measurements of the government, covering a period of years, are extremely valuable, furnishing an accurate basis upon which to estimate power. An appropriation of $20,000 was secured early in the session for the carrying on of this work up to July 1st, and just prior to the adjournment of congress an additional appropriation of $100,000 was obtained, very largely through the vigorous efforts and cooperation of Southern representatives and senators.

Subscriptions are being raised to provide a home for sick and indigent actors and actresses. We suggest that it be located somewhere near the geographical centre of the country, so that the walking distance to it may be about the same from all sides.—Chicago Times-Herald.

"Have you ever loved before?" she asked, gazing at him tenderly.

"Oh, yes," replied the racing young man. "I've had four false starts. But this is a sure go now."—Philadelphia North American.

Wedding Bells in Soochow.

The largest wedding among foreigners in the history of Soochow was celebrated April 3 at the residence of Rev. H. C. DuBose, D. D., when his accomplished daughter, Nellie Lambuth, was united in marriage to the Rev. W. F. Junkin, of Hsu-ch'ien, North Kiangsu. The American, British and Japanese Consuls were present, also H. E. the Taotai, formerly Consul-General at Yokohama, and the three district magistrates in full regalia. Guests were present also from Japan, Shanghai, Kashing, Hangchow, Sinchang and Kiang-yin, and as for the Soochow community it turned out en masse; the total number of foreigners and Chinese present being 120, including 24 children. Interest was added to the occasion by the announcement that this was the 28th anniversary of the wedding of the bride's parents, and another interesting feature was the presence from Japan of the loved and venerated lady, Mrs. Lambuth, after whom the bride was named.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. L. Little, brother-in-law of the bride, assisted by her uncle, the Rev. R. E. McAlpine, of Japan. These gentlemen stood in the bay window of the parlor under an arch of green, across which were stretched white satin ribbons. Mrs. C. C. Clarke, the wife of the Commissioner of Customs, presided at the piano, and when the first strains of the Wedding March were played the bridal procession came slowly in from the verandah, led by the two pages—Pierre DuBose and Clisby McAlpine—who united and removed the ribbons. Next came the two ushers—George A. Fitch and Theodore Davis—who took the ribbons down the centre of the room, forming a lane up which came four flower girls dressed in white. These were Evelyn McAlpine, Margarita Park, Nettie Craig Lambuth and Annie Wilkinson. They wore blue and pink sashes and carried white and pink flower-baskets full of flowers, which they scattered as they came. Following them came five bridesmaids and five groomsmen—Misses Wilson, Sloan, McKnight, Williams and Fitch, with Drs. Bradley and Lincoln and Rev. Messrs. Rice, Pilley and Shipley. The ladies wore blue and pink, and each couple carried peach blossom wands, which, as they took their places—ladies on one side of the flowery lane and the gentlemen on the other—were held aloft and united in making an avenue.

The father and mother of the bride came next, and stood at the beginning of the lane, up which the groom led his bride, and thus they went up a path lined with youth and beauty and strewn with flowers, to the goal of many of their hopes and joys—the bridal altar. After the ceremony and congratulations a bountiful repast was served to all. Everything went off well, and no young couple ever started on the sea of matrimony with more hearty good wishes for a prosperous voyage.

The bride's dress was of a soft, white silk daintily made, and over her dress fell a full length tulle veil kept in place with clusters of orange blossoms. The bridegroom looked the happy man he is. The decorations were unique and beautiful and the presents numerous, useful and elegant.

The next afternoon quite a number of relatives and friends were at the Customs jetty on the Bund to see the bridal couple off. Mr. Walter Wood, of the Su Loong Cotton Mill, furnished a most completely fitted up houseboat. Every comfort had been thought of for them, even to the menus for dinner in the evening and for breakfast the next morning. Flowers were in place for decoration, and the pantry was well supplied with substantials and delicacies. An American flag waved from the stem of the boat, and more than that, a string of old shoes hung aft in the breeze. As the bride and groom stepped upon the deck of the boat they were showered with rice and violets, and then as the launch towed them down the stream and under the Mitu bridge, handkerchiefs waved the final good-byes and best wishes.—Dr. Park, in the North China Daily News.

Otis Horton, who has been attending school in Birmingham, was among his many friends here Sunday, and of course he did not forget to call to see his best girl.

John W. Shaw was thrown from his mule last Sunday and was caught in the harness and dragged about two hundred yards by the frightened animal before it was stopped. He was bruised up very badly, one or two ribs being broken, but not seriously hurt, and we think he will be alright in a few days.

We were truly glad to see the announcement of Irvin Wingard for commissioner for the first district, and we hope that the good people of his district will see proper to elect him, for he is competent and well qualified to fill the office, and is an honest and upright gentleman; for we have known him for a number of years and have always found him true in every respect, and we feel safe in saying that if he is elected he will make as good a commissioner as the county has ever had.

Mrs. M. Farr, of Brighton, died last Thursday morning and her remains were interred at Mt. Tabor cemetery Friday evening. She was about 75 years old. She moved from this community about two years ago to Brighton, where she lived till she died, and it caused many to weep when the news came that she had passed away, for she was a faithful, devout christian woman and loved by all who knew her. She leaves five children and an innumerable host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. Her husband died just 12 months and 11 days before she did, and was buried at the same place. While it is our loss we feel that it is heaven's gain. Weep not, dear friends, for she has gone to join the angel band, where there is no sickness, sorrow, pain, nor death and partings ever come, but where it is everlasting joy, peace and happiness in that land of bliss. To the bereaved we extend our sympathies.

The longest day in the year comes next week, but the anxious candidate thinks the general order of things is going to be reversed and that Saturday is the day.

District Census Supervisor Sims, of Talladega, came down yesterday to see that his agents were properly performing their duties in this part of his territory.

With plums and peaches ripening and with mulberries and other fruits on the trees, and berries galore, who could dare dispute the glorification of young America?

That golden spike which Governor Johnston drove home at the opening of a great railway some days since should be a clincher for his anti-silverite friends' arguments.

Another shipment of stationery was received by the job department of our office Tuesday. Any kind of work in the printing line is done on short notice and with a guarantee to please.

The "glad acclaim" which we shall hear in August will be much louder than the one which ascended the hilltops of Shelby county a few weeks since, rattling the windows as it journeyed and disturbing the peaceful slumbers of innocent children. Different people will sound the chorus.

On account of illness in the editor's family this week we have been both cook, housekeeper, chamber-maid, nurse, and have also looked after the poultry, the garden and the paper. Those whose subscriptions are paid in advance are not supposed to reflect upon this paragraph.

Up in St. Louis white men and women stop young ladies on the streets, strip them of all clothing and apply green paint to the body, yet the self-same rascals think the South should be given a reprimand every time the black despoiler of a happy home is shown the courtesy of jumping from the limb himself.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist church will hold memorial services in their church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Missionary workers in the other local societies have a cordial invitation to be present. The services will be held in memory of the late missionary to China, Miss Laura Haygood.

The city calaboose still stands where it was first erected and is without an occupant; in fact nothing but the music of the dirt dauber and the indefatigable energy of the spider are there to relieve the monotony of the beetles, which have so long inhabited and enjoyed the solitude of the place. It is not likely a stockade will ever be necessary for this city.

The Confederate veterans' meeting at the court house last Friday night was largely attended by the citizens of this city, the ladies furnishing a large part of the crowd. Several addresses were made by parties interested in the movement, while the recitation of Miss Clyde Brand was very much enjoyed. Constitution and by-laws were adopted and a board of directors and several committees were appointed. The incorporated name of the proposed movement will be known as the Confederate Veterans' Home of Alabama. LATER—Since the above was written the board of directors named at the meeting have met and decided that the plan was impracticable, and declined to qualify.

The ball game at this place last Monday afternoon between Shelby and the local team resulted in a complete and overwhelming victory for Columbiana. Shelby was not in it one little bit from start to finish. The game was fairly and squarely won, and the visiting team nor any one could make complaint. Up to the seventh inning Shelby had but two scores to her credit, but in the first half of the eighth inning three runs were made by her men. When Shelby left the plate the game was called off on account of approaching darkness and nothing but the scores up through the seventh inning were allowed her, she having one inning the advantage of Columbiana and the rules of the game permitting no other action. Her greatest strength, as heretofore, was displayed toward the close of the game. Columbiana played nicely and piled up 13 scores to her credit. The score stands, 13 to 2.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:—

Much has been said, and is being said, in regard to the stock law in beat 10 and many false reports have gone abroad. So, if you will allow me space in your valuable paper, I will give you and your many readers the facts as they really exist and then all can draw conclusions for themselves as to who is right and who is wrong.

Four years ago this fall there appeared an article in the People's Advocate while the legislature was in session, signed by four of our citizens, asking the legislature to pass a stock law for beat 10, or, in other words, to prohibit stock of all kinds from running at large in said beat. Mr. Longshore was then representative, and we being opposed to the stock law wrote Mr. Longshore asking him to ignore the said petition, which he kindly did. Well, then another effort was made by the stock law men to have an act passed just allowing the land holders to vote on it. This we opposed and contended that there were just as good men in beat 10 who did not own any land as there were who owned land, and that they ought to be allowed a vote. And I suppose Mr. Longshore agreed with me on that point, for he had an act passed that whenever twenty freeholders of beat 10 presented the probate judge with a petition asking for an election on the stock law that the probate judge was to order an election and all voters should be allowed to vote. Those against the stock law were perfectly willing to this—and are yet—but the other side, seeing that they would be defeated two to one, did not have the election.

So at the next meeting of the legislature the stock law men sent Captain Walthall to Montgomery while the legislature was in session to have a law passed like the one for Wilsonville beat, but the Captain got there a day too late to join in with Wilsonville. But he, Deans, Sturdevant, or Col. Smith—or probably all of them—had the act passed, that whenever a majority of the freeholders of any beat in Shelby county presented the probate judge with a petition asking for stock to be prohibited from running at large that the judge was to so declare. I believe that it was in October last that both sides armed themselves with petitions and went before Judge Longshore for a trial. The anti's came out thirty or forty names ahead, and of course the judge ruled in their favor. So the stock law men, not being satisfied with that, went to work for another trial, and it was had in December, and this time they came out a few names ahead, and then a stock law was declared.

Well, now, those who opposed the stock law were not satisfied. They felt that the first trial was enough, that the thing was exhausted then, and that Judge Longshore did not have any right to have a second hearing; and also the act for an election had never been repealed, nor had they ever had an election, which should have come first, or before this last act; and they also thought it unconstitutional and, in fact, they were terribly wrought up, and a meeting was called to see what step if any would be taken in the matter. At this meeting it was decided to employ an attorney to investigate the matter. McMillan & Thetford were employed, and they went to work and filed a motion asking Judge Longshore to set aside his decision at the second trial, and the hearing was had on the 16th of April, but by some technicalities of law it was continued until the 4th of June. Both sides were well represented, but as usual the case was continued again until the 18th of this month, and I venture to say that if the stock law men can do so they will have it continued again. The anti's don't feel at least discouraged, but on the other hand they feel like they have the law and people on their side and that Judge Longshore will render the decision in their favor.

Mind you, they have three points to base their hopes on—first, unconstitutional; second, should have been voted on, or law repealed, before another was passed; third, at the first trial there the thing should have ended. These are the facts as they exist, and what the outcome may prove we don't know, but if the law and courts say that we are not right we are at the end of the row, so to speak, and will have to submit to a few who seem to want the earth and the fullness thereof—and some don't seem to care how they get it, so their ambitions are pacified.

This article is not written to arouse the sympathy or prejudice of any one, and while we bitterly oppose a stock law if the majority say that it is right and just for us to have it and get it fair and square, I will cheerfully abide by its decision, and it wont have a warmer friend in beat 10 than

Mr. Dowell closed his school last Friday night with exercises to which the people listened with interest and applause for more than three hours. Mrs. Dowell added to the interest of the program by the performance of some of her class of beginners on the piano. Asheville, N. C.

Few regions have been more richly endowed by nature than that famous section of western North Carolina poetically termed the Land of the Sky. It has a climate so dry and health-giving that it has become known the world over as a natural sanitarium for the cure of all troubles of a pulmonary or bronchial nature.

Asheville, the centre of this beautiful mountain-hemmed plateau, is the highest city east of Denver, and is a busy, thriving place of 12,000 inhabitants, with all the modernisms of city life. The city lies just at the point where the beautiful French Broad and Swannanoa Rivers join their crystal waters.

Within the city or in its suburbs many people of wealth have built beautiful and expensive homes, and most notable among them being the chateau of George W. Vanderbilt, which with its great estate, has cost upwards of four million dollars.

Asheville is an all-the-year resort, for its great mountains protect it in the winter from the cold winds and its summer climate is made delightful because of its altitude.

For descriptive matter of Asheville and vicinity call on any Southern Railway agent, or write C. A. Benscoter, A. G. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.

In western North Carolina, between the Blue Ridge on the east and the Alleghanies on the west, in the beautiful valley of the French Broad, two thousand feet above the sea, lies Asheville, beautiful, picturesque, and world-famed as one of the most pleasant resorts in America. It is a land of bright skies and incomparable climate, whose praises have been sung by poets and whose beauties of stream, valley and mountain height have furnished subject and inspiration for the painter's brush. This is truly the Land of the Sky," and there is perhaps no more beautiful region on the continent to attract pleasure tourists or health seekers. Convenient schedules and very low rates to Asheville via Southern Railway.

MOVABLE BOER CAPITAL.

President Kruger Lives and Works in a Railway Car.

HE SAYS THE WAR IS NOT OVER.

Boers Will Urge Guerilla Warfare Over a Large Area — Oom Paul Declares That He is Not Yet Beaten—He Says That There is Nothing Left But to Fight—Government is Still Effective.

London (By Cable).—The Daily Express prints an interview that its Lorenzo Marques correspondent obtained with President Kruger at Machadodorp, 107 miles east of Pretoria. The President and State Secretary Reitz were found in a private railway car, which President Kruger lately ordered constructed in anticipation of the present contingency. The car, which is comfortably but not luxuriously furnished, was side-tracked at the station.

The President was smoking when the correspondent met him. He appeared depressed and worried, but was in a quiet, determined mood. He did not make the slightest objection to being interviewed. After admitting that it was true that the British were in Pretoria, he said:

"That, however, does not mean the end of the war. The burghers are fully determined to fight to the last. They will never surrender so long as there are 500 armed men in the country. I am deeply encouraged by the work De Wet and Steyn have been doing in the Orange Free State."

The correspondent here interjected: "But surely the war is over now the capital is taken."

President Kruger exclaimed with energy: "Capital? What is a capital? It does not consist of any particular collections of brick and mortar. The republican capital, the seat of government, it is here in this car. There is no magic about any special site. Our country is invaded, it is true, but it is not conquered. The government is still effective."

Smiling feebly, the President said: "I was not so foolish as to be taken prisoner. I provided this means of locomotion with precisely the same purpose that the burghers supply themselves with horses in the field. It is necessary that I be able to move quickly from place to place. That's all. By and by this car will take me back to Pretoria. At present it enables me to keep away from Pretoria, where I could be of no service and should only play into the enemy's hands."

The correspondent asked whether it was true that he had brought $10,000,000 in gold with him.

President Kruger declared that the report is untrue and added: "Whatever monetary resources we have are simply those we require for State purposes. At the same time, I am not going to tell you where our treasure is. Let Roberts find it if he can."

The correspondent mentioned the rumor that the President intended to take refuge on a Dutch war ship, to which Kruger replied: "That again is a lie," adding: "I know nothing about a Dutch war ship, and I do not contemplate taking refuge anywhere. I shall not leave my country. There will be no need to do anything of the kind."

The correspondent expressed surprise that Mrs. Kruger had left her husband, whereupon the President said: "Why, she is quite safe in Pretoria. She would only suffer personal inconvenience here. She will await my return with calmness and courage. She is a brave woman. I am here awaiting further information. We are surrounded by faithful burghers and are quite safe."

Here State Secretary Reitz interpolated: "You may depend upon it that the war is not over yet. There will be guerilla warfare over an enormous area. We will fight to the end. We will probably retire to Lydenburg, where we can hold out for many months."

"Yes," added President Kruger, "the real struggle has only now begun. I fear there will be much bloodshed, but the fault is the British Government's."

Then in a high voice, full of passion, he concluded: "The time for talking is past. We have done plenty of talking. It did no good. Nothing is left for us now but to keep on fighting."

General Miles said he would make no change in his staff in consequence of the new legislation, the principal effect of which will be to give Major Michler, Fifth Cavalry; Major Bailey and Major Whitney, General Miles's aids, the rank, pay and allowances of colonels of cavalry.

THE CONGRESS ADJOURNS

Lively Scenes Mark the End of the First Session

Washington, D. C. (Special). — The first session of the Fifty-sixth Congress has adjourned sine die. The end was marked by a complete surrender on the part of the House to the Senate on the questions in dispute in connection with the Naval Appropriation bill, which tied up the two houses and prevented adjournment at the time originally set. The President left the White House for the Capitol about 3 o'clock. He sat in the President's room with most of his Cabinet about him, and at 4:30 p. m. signed the Naval Appropriation bill and various private bills.

The House adjournment scenes were lively. When Speaker Henderson took the chair at the end of the recess the members were in the midst of a song. The rap of the gavel interrupted it, but his words "The House will be in order," were drowned by the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," which the singers insisted on finishing before they came to order.

After the announcement of the Presidential approval of a large number of bills, including the Naval Appropriation bill, Speaker Henderson made the usual parting address.

As he finished the Speaker brought down his gavel and declared the House adjourned without day. Newspaper correspondents in the press gallery immediately started the "Doxology," and many members and spectators waited until its conclusion before leaving the chamber.

The session of the Senate from 11 o'clock a. m. to 5 o'clock p. m. was a succession of recesses awaiting the pleasure of the House. As the big clock over the main entrance indicated the hour of 5 the President's gavel fell. Mr. Cockrell offered the usual resolution extending the thanks of the Senate to the presiding officer, and Mr. Frye in return made a complimentary speech, and the Senate then solemnly adjourned for the session.

As the people were streaming from the galleries a fine-looking, gray-haired man rose in the men's gallery, and, raising his hat high above his head and looking upward, shouted:

$709,729,476 Appropriated This Session.

Washington, D. C. (Special). — A statement on the appropriations of the session shows that they amounted to $709,729,476. This includes $131,247,155 estimated to be incident to the war with Spain, and deducting that amount the remainder, $578,482,321, represents the ordinary appropriations for the support of the Government.

WOMEN ASSAULTED IN ST. LOUIS.

Three Denuded of Clothes and Daubed With Green Paint.

St. Louis, Mo. (Special).—A mob of furious women and boys denuded and daubed with green paint Lena Kaenter, a young woman who makes a living by peddling lunches among employes of the California avenue street car line. Two shop girls were attacked by the same mob an hour later, and they also were partly denuded before they escaped.

An organized "committee" of women visited the public schools, entering the schoolrooms, accusing the teachers of riding on the tabooed cars, and threatening them with bodily harm if they did so again.

The three girls who assaulted Miss Hessler because she rode in a car were sent to the Girls' Industrial Home at Chillicothe, where they will remain until the girls are of age. They are: Annie Swez, aged fourteen; Mary Trantine, aged fifteen, and Annie Klasseck, aged fourteen.

Negotiations looking to a settlement of the street car strike were broken off, neither side seeming willing to recede from its position. The strikers are preparing for a long struggle, while the railway company's officers say they are in a position to man all their cars.

THREE OHIO MINERS KILLED.

Two Hundred Imprisoned But Energetic Work Saved Them.

Glouster, Ohio (Special).—Two hundred miners were imprisoned by an explosion of gas in Mine No. 2. It was thought at first that the loss of life would be very large, but the work of the rescuers was carried on so energetically and successfully that all were rescued and saved except three.

Evan Joseph, John McClelland and Aaron Swanson were killed. These men were engaged to watch the large mine at night and see that it was in condition for the miners to enter in the morning. They were cut off from all means of escape at the time of the explosion.

FUN FOR THE BOYS.

The department of state is informed that the Persian government has decided to send another diplomatic representative to Washington. It has had no minister in this country since 1888, when Hodij Hossein Ghooli Khan fled from the city in indignation and dismay because of the treatment he received from the curious public. Mr. Ghooli Khan, says a Washington correspondent, was a proud and haughty person; he dressed in Persian costume, and whenever he appeared upon the street was attended by his dragoman or chasseur, Mirza Mahmoud, who wore an even more gorgeous costume, and walked in front of his master, carrying a naked cimeter, such as you see in the comic operas. The spectacle very naturally attracted public attention, and, much to his annoyance, Ghooli Khan was usually followed by a large crowd wherever he went. Most of his retinue was composed of unruly and ragged negro urchins, who did not consider his feelings in making comments upon his appearance. The chasseur, who ostensibly came out for the protection of his gorgeous master, used to brandish his sword and make desperate charges into the ranks of his followers, but it only aggravated them, and the greater the demonstration the faster the crowd would grow. Prince Ghooli (for khan means prince) appealed to the department of state; the police were notified, and officers were sent to guard the legation, but that only attracted attention and made matters worse. Finally the poor man, driven to distraction by the attentions he received from the populace, returned to his own country, and the Persian legation has been vacant since. The Persian government now proposes to try it again, but if the new man makes as much of a parade as his predecessor, he is likely to suffer from the same annoyances.

Women Not Money Makers.

In Harper's Bazar, Hetty Green, the famous woman financier, tells why women are not money-makers. She says: "In the first place, woman is entirely too impulsive for business. She sails gayly into the world of commerce, believing in everything, and in herself most of all. A certain stock may be increased temporarily in value, owing to the enterprise of its owners, who are themselves advancing the market. The woman speculator, with her usual impetuosity, thinks: 'I must have some of that. If it is this high, I can sell it for more.' She does not stop to look over the market; she has not trained her judgment, but, with both hands outstretched, offering her little all, she plunges headlong into the grasp of cunning speculators. The next day—or the next hour, perhaps—the stock falls in value. She is just the prey the sharpers are looking for. More money is made in the end by an oversupply of caution than by indiscriminate recklessness. I am not advising timidity. Quite the contrary. Be sure that you are right first, then go ahead."

Winter Ocean Baths.

The fad of taking a plunge in the waters of the ocean and bay during the winter has, it seems, taken a firm hold on some of the residents in the suburban sections of Brooklyn, especially those along the shores of Gravesend Bay, at Bath Beach and Bensonhurst. These two hamlets now boast of three residents who never fail to take a cool dip in the bay every day in the year. All those who would doubt it can go down to Bensonhurst and make inquiries for John Richmond, a good natured Englishman, who owns a little place on Bath avenue, near Thirty-fifth street, where he conducts a florist's business. His wife prides herself on being the only woman in the city who takes the icy plunge. It has been said that a mysterious woman did make her appearance a short time ago at Bath Beach, and, after promenading the beach for a time, she plunged into the water. The woman, however, was apparently satisfied with that one dip and has not been seen along the shore since, while Mrs. Richmond is there every day.

President Eliot of Harvard University recently celebrated his sixty-sixth birthday. "I can not acknowledge that as the years go by I am growing old," he says. "I have evidence to the contrary. When I was a proctor at Cambridge a few years after my graduation, I learned that the students spoke of me habitually as 'Old Eliot.' A few nights ago, on the other hand, I met a group of students in the street, and when I had passed them I heard one say to the others: 'I wonder where Charlie has been so late.'"

CHINESE FOOT BINDING.

Opposition Developing to That Ancient and Torturing Custom.

Some influential Chinamen are now advocating the abolition of that shocking and cruel custom of foot binding so prevalent in the celestial empire. How common this custom is in China and how fatal to the welfare of the women is little appreciated in America. Some Chinese girls are permitted to go with unbound feet until they are 6 years old, when the time arrives for the bandaging process to begin, and the "golden lilies," as these deformed feet are called, must be molded. The bandage used for this purpose is made of substantial webbing two and one-half inches wide. The process consists practically in doubling the toes and heels together, with the toes, except the big one, bent under. The women, when the object has been accomplished, and the foot is encased in the tiny shoe, stand upon the tip of the heel and the tip of the big toe. This, of course, cannot be accomplished at once, but it is the product of a long and torturing ordeal. At first the bandages are applied rather loose, but periodically they are drawn tighter and tighter, as the feet yield to the pressure of the webbing. The heel, when the foot is encased in the shoe, rests on a tiny platform of wood fitted above and behind the heel for that purpose. The suffering endured by the victim during the process is beyond description, and it is not an uncommon occurrence for outraged nature to protest, and such a diseased condition of the feet to ensue as to render necessary their amputation. Sometimes the children will not submit to the operation, and their obstinacy results in saving the feet. Many children cry through the long hours of the night and bring on various nerve troubles. The New York Tribune states that feet are bound to a smaller size in Foochow than in any other part of China, for the fashionable shoe is only two and a half inches long, and the consequent fissure where the sole of the foot should be is about three inches deep. The feet of a Chinese woman wield an important influence over her life. When she is to be betrothed the size of her feet must be ascertained for the suitor, and great is the disappointment if the bride's feet prove larger than anticipated. When the wedding day arrives the bride draws the bandages as snugly as possible. The soles of the tiny shoes are purchased with holes ready made in the wood near the border, in order that the wearer may embroider the shoes and stitch them to the wooden soles, for the women make their own shoes.

Must Furnish Clean Cars.

A railroad company which undertakes to carry cattle is bound to provide cars that are not infected with contagious cattle diseases, and if it furnishes cars in which cattle that had "Texas fever" have been hauled, without properly disinfecting them, it is liable for the value of any cattle which the shipper may lose by reason of that fact. The Supreme Court of Illinois so declared in the case of the Illinois Central Railroad company vs. Harris.

MAY DRAW ON MILITARY ARM

To Help Navy Contingent Now In China.

CABINET CONSIDERS MOVE

Investigation May Reveal Necessity of More Protection For Our Interests In China.

A Washington special says: It seems probable that, after all, the United States troops in the Philippines will be called upon to furnish a contingent to assist in the rescue of the foreign missionaries in China and in the protection of the foreign embassies and legations.

A great change has come over the administration in this regard, for as late as Thursday there was a firm determination not to go beyond the employment of marines and sailors.

There was still such a purpose when the cabinet met Friday morning, and there is even now a disposition to limit the United States forces employed to the navy, if sufficient force can be secured from that branch of the service. So inquiries are being made of the legation bureau and in turn of Admiral Remey to see to what extent the United States forces in China can be augmented. It is realized that the small force now engaged is entirely disproportionate when compared with the foreign contingents, to the interests and duty of the United States.

There is reason to believe that the navy has done all it can do with safety in China at this stage and that recourse must be had to the army. Already Admiral Remey has indicated that he cannot spare any more marines, and he is looking to the navy department for another battalion to replace the men he has been obliged to withdraw from the naval station at Cavite to assist Admiral Kempff. It is admitted that the cabinet is seriously considertng the dispatch of troops to Tien Tsin, and it is understood that inquiries are being made, probably directed to General MacArthur, as to the number of troops that can be spared for this emergency, and the possibility of securing transportation for them.

The troops could not be gotten to Tien Tsin in less than a week, even if the order for their employment should go forward at once. That the crisis is by no means past, but that it is on the contrary rather more acute, is evidenced by a cablegram received by the state department Friday morning from the United States consul at Tien Tsin, Mr. Ragsdale. He says that the mobs are in control of the native city of Tien Tsin, and the authorities do not seem to be able to do anything with them. He adds that the foreigners at Tien Tsin are still safe.

Owing to their natural reluctance to employ troops save as a last resort and the disinclination of the war department to supply such troops except under pressure the officials Friday afternoon were considering an alternative proposition. This contemplated the putting out of commission several of the big ships attached to Admiral Remey's fleet, notably the Oregon, and the addition of the sailors and marines so released to Admiral Kempff's landing force. The big ships carry, on an average, more than 300 men each.

Secretary Root declines to discuss the military aspect of the situation. To the newspaper men he admitted that the general Chinese situation was discussed at the regular meeting of the cabinet and that Secretary Hay furnished all the information he had on the subject. The secretary was asked whether it had been finally decided to send any troops to China from the Philippines, and replied that it had not.

To a further question as to whether there was any prospects of such action, he said he would not undertake to talk about it. He was willing, however, to make the broad, general assertion that troops would be sent to China in case it were found that there was greater necessity for them there than in the Philippines. To another leading question he said positively that so far as he was advised there was nothing in the present situation in China to call for the immediate dispatch of troops from the Philippines.

The Chinese minister showed the deepest interest in the course of the United States relative to the dispatch of troops, but in the absence of advice from his government indicating the policy on such movements he did not wish to discuss the effect of the action.

Native Hawaiians to Organize.

Native Hawaiians have decided to organize an independent party to oppose the Republicans and Democrats.

WILL ACT INDEPENDENTLY.

Czar's Program in China Similar to That of United States.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The London Times, telegraphing Thursday, says:

"In competent political circles there is no wish or trace of intention to act in China other than with the great powers. At the same time there is no desire to establish a European concert, Russia, like the United States, reserves to herself independence of action."

ELECTIONS IN CUBA

General Alejandro Rodriguez, nationalist, was elected mayor of Havana in Saturday's election, polling 13,073 votes, against 6,034 cast for Senor Estrada Mora, independent. The total vote fell about 4,500 below the registration.

The national party elected its entire ticket—eighteen councilmen, the treasurer, one correctional judge and three municipal judges. The other correctional judgeship fell to an independent candidate, as did also the fourth municipal judgeship. Of the six other councilmen four are republicans and two nationalists; the latter ran independently.

To an American observer of the election, it seems as if the people regarded the whole matter with absolute indifference. There was not even a crowd in waiting to hear the result declared. Not a cheer was raised, nor were there any of the ordinary indications of election excitement, although a demonstration in honor of the successful candidate took place Saturday night.

The victory of the nationalists is chiefly due to the fact that they were first in the field, and had the benefit of a well-disciplined organization.

The Associated Press correspondent visited many booths which were clean and orderly. There was no confusion, and voters were lined up awaiting their turn. The Cubans, members of the boards said, were conducting the elections in an exemplary manner, being anxious to show their fitness for independence.

General Wood received nothing but satisfactory accounts from all parts of the island concerning the behavior of the people during the elections. General Lee, General Wilson and Colonel Whiteside, all make similar statements to the effect that everything was a model of quietness and order.

TELEGRAPH WIRES CUT.

Commercial Cable Company Sends Out Significant Notice.

"The Siberian land lines are restored and messages for Japan, routed via Northern, are now accepted without restriction. The lines between Maimatchim and Kagan, China, are interrupted.

"We are advised that telegraphic communication with Tien Tsin is totally interrupted.

The Western Union Cable Company issues the following:

"Telegraphic communication with Tien Tsin is interrupted."

"In making connection with this morning's bulletin reporting the interruption of the Tien Tsin telegraph line we have been advised by the Great Northern company that there is no prospect of restoration of Pekin-Tien Tsin lines. The Shanghai-Tien Tsin line is totally interrupted beyond Baudau, near Tien Tsin, cutting off communication to Tien Tsin, Tako and other stations in the north. The above mentioned places are entirely cut off telegraphically and messages can only be forwarded at sender's risk."

ENVOYS IN PHILADELPHIA.

Boers Wil Observe How Presidential Candidate Is Named.

While the convention delegates were arriving by every train in Philadelphia the three representatives of the South African republics, Messrs. Fischer, of the Orange Free State, and C. H. Wessels and A. D. Wolmarans, of the Transvaal, also put in their appearance.

Mr. Wessels, when asked if there was any significance in the visit at the time of the convention, said:

"Not in the least. We had expected to have a meeting here, but owing to the convention have given it up. We are here simply as observers—to see the manner in which your nominations for the presidency are made."

TO PLEASE PRESIDENT.

The Republicans Will Defer to His Wishes In Convention.

A Philadelphia special says: The feature of the situation which confronts the Republican hosts at the close of the week's proceedings prior to the assembling of the convention is the absolutely unanimous disposition to carry out fully the wishes of the president in everything.

The overwhelming sentiment is that having served one good term, McKinley deserves another, and that good faith and good politics demand that the wishes of the candidate as nearly as can be ascertained, shall be respected.

WHOLE CROWD INDICTED.

Seven Men Are Jailed For Assaulting Mrs. Fuller.

The grand jury at Bangor, Blount county, Ala., has returned indictments against Jack Webb, Charley Webb, Henry Webb, Robert Webb, A. Abercrombie, Mose Helm and John Barrett, charging them with criminally assaulting Mrs. Fronnie Fuller.

The men are in jail at Cullman and will be given a trial in a few days.

GOMPERS' PLAN TURNED DOWN

St. Louis Rapid Transit Company Refuses to Accept Arbitration.

STRIKERS ARE DETERMINED

Will Resort to the Boycott and Fight to Bitter End.

War to the knife was the slogan adopted by the striking employes of the St. Louis Transit Company Saturday. This extreme action was decided when the proposition adopted by the striking street car men looking to a settlement of the strike was turned down by the transit company.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, announced that negotiations between the St. Louis Transit Company and the union looking to a settlement of the strike on the basis proposed by the union in mass meeting Friday were off. This announcement was made at the conclusion of a conference between Gombers, representing the union, and President Whitaker and Director McClure, representing the Transit company. Mr. Whitaker said at the conclusion of the conference that he had no statement to make.

President Gompers made this statement regarding the failure to reach an agreement:

"After three hours and a half discussion with President Whitaker, I am sorry to have to announce that the company has declined to submit the question of re-instatement of the men to arbitration."

President Mahon, of the International Association of Amalgamated Street Railway Employes, when asked what his association would do in the premises, said:

"This is now a fight to the finish. President Gompers told me this afternoon that he proposed to turn the entire power of the American Federation of Labor, with its membership of 2,000,000 against the Transit company as a direct stab at the vital principles of unionism.

"The boycott to be declared will apply not only to the St. Louis Transit Company, but to every person, every business man, every association, and in fact, every corporation or individual favoring them in any way."

MOB CHASES A WOMAN.

Mrs. Eva Doman was roughly handled by a mob at Marion street and Broadway Sunday. As she alighted from a Transit car she was quickly surrounded by a crowd of girls who shouted "scab" at her. A large throng soon joined the girls. Mrs. Doman ran down several streets with the mob in hot pursuit and sought refuge in one Joseph Bene's saloon, but Bene pushed the woman back into the street.

A woman living over the saloon succeeded in getting Mrs. Doman to her apartments, but not before both had been pelted with mud and stones. Mrs. Doman was escorted home by a police officer. The police arrested Bene, charging him with assault and battery. The chief of detectives sent a cozen of his men to the neighborhood of Broadway and Marion streets later in the day to lie in wait for other crowds that might attack women. Two detectives employed a woman as a decoy. As soon as the woman stepped off the car she was surrounded by a crowd. The detectives used their clubs, doing much damage to the heads of those in the mob. The crowd soon broke and ran.

ROBERTS DISMISSES TROOPS.

Considers End of South African War Not Far Distant.

A London special says: There are some indications that Lord Roberts considers the war's end in South Africa not far distant. One of these is the fact that the Natal volunteers, who had seen hard service, were dismissed by Sir Redvers Buller Saturday. They were cheered as they left camp.

Another indication is the report current in authoritatively-informed military circles in London that a complete division of regulars is to be withdrawn from General Buller's army and embarked at Durban for China. The troops drawn from India will probably go next.

COTTON ACREAGE REDUCED.

Crop In Texas Will Be 2.8 Per Cent Shorter Than Last Year.

The Galveston-Dallas News has published the first of its 1900 series of crop reports, compiled from replies from 449 correspondents covering 172 counties in Texas. The report shows a decrease in the cotton acreage of 2.8 per cent from last year, due to heavy rains.

Strike Stops Furnaces.

Three furnaces of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company at Bessemer, Ala., are banked as the result of a strike among employees, who demand an increase in wages. The strike affects about 600 men, mostly negroes, who earn from $1.25 to $1.50 per day.

Fire Destroys Lumber Plant.

The plant of the Tiffin (Ohio) Lumber Company was burned Friday morning. Loss $80,000.

A HOLOCAUST IN TENEMENT

THE SCENE ONE OF HORROR

Ten lives were lost and several people were badly injured during a fire which almost totally destroyed the old five story tenement, 34 Jackson street, in New York, at 3 o'clock Friday morning. The following is a list of the dead:

Louis Marion, 40 years old; Albert Marion, 14; Jessie Marion, 6; Emma Marion, 3; William Cotter, Emma Cotter, his wife, Mamie Cotter, 13; Jacob Cotter, 11; Kate Cotter, 13; John Cotter, 5. The injured: Mary Marion, 17; Frank Marion, 12; Margaret Marion 9; George Cotter, 4 months; Patrick Burns, 23.

The fire appears to have started in the rear of the hallway on the second floor. It had gained great headway before the people in the house were awakened by their peril.

Patrick Burns appears to have been the first person in the house who was apprised of the fire. He was awakened by smoke and gave the alarm to the others in Miss Mary Jordan's apartments, where he boarded. All escaped except Burns, who was severely injured by flames.

Policeman Knowles, after assisting a family to escape from the third floor of the building, mounted one flight higher. Flames shot out of the windows and set fire to his coat. He looked into the windows of the Cotter apartments but could see no signs of life there. The brave policeman, half suffocated by the smoke, continued to climb the fire escape until he reached the top floor. He heard screams coming from the Mulhearn apartments and locating them assisted the dazed people down the fire escape.

Louis Marcus was killed by jumping from a window. When the firemen reached the apartments of the family three of the family were dead on the floor and the others unconscious.

In the Cotter room were found Mrs. Cotter, while a few feet away lay the body of Mr. Cotter, with a dead child under him. In other parts of the room were found the remaining members of the family. Only two of them—Mamie and George, the latter four months old—were alive. When Knowles reached the Marcus apartments flames and smoke burst into his face. In the midst of it all, with night gowns ablaze and their hair burning, four of the children were rushing about the room shrieking in terrible agony.

Mrs. Marcus huddled near the window. With her bare arms wrapped about her baby she was gasping for air.

Three rushes were made into the flames by the terified women and Margary, Frank and Mamie were brought to Knowles after he had taken the baby. The blisters and scars were swelling on his hands and arms, but he conquered his agony and finished his work on the floor by finally carrying the fainting form of the couragous mother down the fire escape. A few moments afterwards the woman died. She had literally sacrificed herself for her babies.

The monetary loss caused by the fire was insignificant, being estimated at from $500 to $700.

DECIDED FOR BROWNLOW.

Republican National Committee Settles Tennessee Muddle.

The contest over the delegation at large from Tennessee was taken up Friday by the Republican national committee in session at Philadelphia. R. S. Sharp, chairman of the state executive committee, being recognized to speak for the contestants bearing the name of Pension Commissioner Evans.

Both sides were given time for arguments, and a bitter wrangle ensued, which necessitated interference by the sergeant-at-arms.

The national committee decided in favor of Brownlow's delegation in the contest by a unanimous vote.

BLISS WON'T OBJECT.

New Yorker Is Willing to Go On Ticket With McKinley.

Cornelius N. Bliss, of New York, whom the administration desires to make the race for vice president, has at last consented to do so, provided the New York state delegation presents his name as a unit. This cannot be done on the first ballot, as several of the district delegates have been instructed for Woodruff, but if Senator Platt will yield to the program the second ballot will be cast solidly for the ex-secretary. He would accept even under those circumstrnces.

Uniform One-Fare Rate.

The Southwestern Passenger Bureau has made a one-fare rate from points in Texas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory to the Democratic National Convention in July. The rate granted leaves a uniform one-fare rate to Kansas City from coast to coast.

Yellow Fever In Cuba.

According to dispatches yellow fever has broken out at Quemados, eight miles from Havana, where United States troops are stationed. Thus far there have been fourteen cases, three of which proved fatal.

CHINA OPENS THE WAR

Taku Forts Fire Upon the International Fleet.

BOMBARDMENT LASTED SEVEN HOURS

Forts on Both Sides of Taku Now Occupied—Heavy Casualty List—The Powers Taking Prompt Action in the Crisis.

A Tuesday's cable dispatch from London says; China declared war against the world when the Taku forts opened fire upon the international fleet. The accounts of what took place are still unsatisfactory, the best semi-official information being the dispatch received at Berlin from Che Foo, which says:

"The Chinese laid torpedoes in the Taku river and collected troops from Shan Hei Kwan. The foreign commanders assembled on the Russian flagship and addressed an ultimatum to the commanders of the Taku forts, summoning them to withdraw their troops before 2 o'clock June 17. At 1 a. m., June 17, the guns of the forts opened fire, to which the Russian, British, French and Japanese warships replied. The bombardment lasted seven hours. Two British ships in the river before the forts are reported to have been sunk. The telegraph lines and railroad between Tien Tsin and Taku were destroyed. Communication by water is also threatened."

One dispatch says that the Yorktown participated in the bombardment. Another asserts that American marines formed half of the storming force of 2,000.

A dispatch from Che Foo, says:

The forts on both sides of Taku are now occupied. The Chinese opened fire unexpectedly. The casualties to the mixed force were as follows: Killed—British, 1. German, 3; Russian, 1; French, 1; Wounded: British, 4; German, 7; Russian, 45; French, 1. Chinese torpedo boats were seized. Four hundred Chinese are reported to have been killed.

The failure of Admiral Seymour's column and its retreat to Tien Tsin increased, it is presumed, the peril of the legations in Pekin, which is still isolated, although Shanghai forwards Chinese rumors that the legations were attacked by mobs, who were mowed down by machine guns, and also that the members of the legations were massacred.

The powers are taking prompt action. Four thousand German troops have been ordered to China; 10,000 French troops are waiting to embark at Saigon, the capital of French Cochin China, and from 3,000 to 5,000 more Russians have been ordered from Port Arthur to Taku.

CLAIMS HE KILLED GOEBEL.

William Culton Receives a Mysterious Letter From Texas.

William Culton, who is in jail at Frankfort, Ky., under indictment as an accessory to the murder of William Goebel, has received an anonymous letter, postmarked Fort Worth, Texas, in which the writer says: "I am sorry you are in trouble. I killed Goebel He knew I would do it. Ten minutes after the shooting I watched the crowd in the state house yard from the fort hill. I went to Georgetown and took a train, landing at Cincinnati next day. At Kansas City I got scared and went to Oklahoma before coming here. I am on a ranch out here, and those who know me in Kentucky would not know me in Texas."

SUGGESTED SURRENDER.

Lord Roberts Sent Message to General Botha Proposing Disarmament.

Lord Roberts, according to a Boer dispatch from Machadodorp, sent a message to Commandant General Louis Botha on June 13 suggesting disarmament and complimenting the bravery of the burghers. It was pointed out that the surrender would be without dishonor to the burghers and would prevent much suffering. General Botha asked for a six days' armistice in order to confer and consider. Lord Roberts consented to five days. Finally General Botha declined to accept the proposal and hostilities were renewed.

Kentucky Tragedies.

Mead Cottrell was shot seven times at Middlesboro, Ky., Monday and fatally wounded. Cottrell's dying statement is that Ball shot him. A report just received from Pineville says that at a picnic there in a row between Charley Pursifal and James Bullard the latter was shot and mortally wounded, and later a young son of Bullard shot and killed Pursifal.

SOUVENIRS OF THE WAR.

Lieut. Hobson Sends Gun Mounts and Conning Towers Home.

A letter from Lieutenant Hobson, written in Hong Kong on April 20, and addressed to T. R. Ward, of Selma, states that, seeing no reason why the cities of Alabama should not have a number of the souvenirs of the late war, he had shipped on the United States cruiser Collier Scinda, which left that day for Norfolk, two gun mounts and two conning towers from the Isla De Luzon, one of the vessels sunk in the memorable battle of Manila bay. One each of the gun mounts is for Selma and Greensboro, and one of the conning towers is for Birmingham and one is for Mobile. The lieutenant states that he will, as soon as he returns home, find out what became of two of the pieces taken from the Merrimac when she was stripped preparatory to sending her into Santiago harbor, and send them to be placed upon the mounts in Selma and Greensboro, thus making a joint souvenir of Manila and Santiago.

Alabama Contest.

A Philadelphia special says: The contesting delegations from Alabama to the republican convention at Philadelphia spent most of Monday in an effort to bring about a reconciliation between Vaughan and Bingham delegates, whose names were not placed on the temporary roll. The national committee failed to seat four delegates, referring the contest to the convention. Of the fourteen seated, the Bingham faction has a majority of two. J. H. Bingham stated that an amicable adjustment of the difficulty would be effected.

John Comer, a negro without relatives or friends, died a few days ago at his home in Girard. Girard has no burial fund, and the question of his interment proved somewhat of a problem. Finally one of Comer's white acquaintances raised a subscription and bought a coffin. A charitable man loaned him a wagon, and they went out to the negro's house. They found it closely locked, and, breaking in, the body was discovered utterly deserted and in possession of the ants, who were climbing over it in swarms. The negro was given a decent burial.

Farmers Behind.

The farmers of Limestone county continue to grow more and more behind with their crops on account of the continued rains that have fallen daily for more than three weeks, and the crops are in a very bad condition. Corn has suffered for work and cotton is completely hid in some places by weeds and grass. Wheat is needing cutting and oats are falling down, but the farmers are afraid to harvest in the rain and are taking chances.

Populist State Committee to Meet.

The state populist committee will meet in Birmingham on Saturday, the 23rd, to consider the question of filling the vacancies on the state ticket made by the withdrawal of S. M. Adams, A. G. Dake and J. H. Porter, candidates for governor, treasurer and superintendent of education respectively.

Wheeler Assigned.

By direction of the President, General Joseph Wheeler Monday was assigned to the command of the depart of the lakes with headquarters at Chicago. He relieves Brigadier General James F. Wade, who has held that command temporarily in conjunction with his regular command, the department of the Dakotas.

Mrs. Gardner Held.

The preliminary trial of Festus Caddell and Mrs. Lillie Gardner, charged with the murder of Mrs. Festus Caddell at Blocton, about two weeks ago was held at Centreville, Monday, before Judges Pratt and Holmes. After hearing the evidence both prisoners were committed to jail without bail.

The board of trustees of the University of Alabama, by a vote of 11 to 1, conferred the degree of doctor of divinity upon Rev. R. W. Barnwell, of Selma, at its meeting last Friday.

Mississippi Populists Active.

Chairman Pruitt called a populist state convention to meet in Jackson, Miss., August 15 to nominate a populist electorial ticket. He announces a complete divorce from the Butler-Weaver-Allen fusion gang, and states that those for whom he speaks are strictly in the middle of the road.

Senator A. O. Bacon, of Georgia, is just recovering from eating toadstools, which he mistook for mushrooms.

CHINA CUT OFF FROM WORLD

Last Report Said Legations Were Destroyed.

GERMAN MINISTER KILLED

Silence of Conger and Kempff Causes Great Apprehension, Though News Is Not Believed.

A dispatch received in London Saturday from Hong Kong, China, was to the effect that the Pekin legations have been destroyed and the German minister, Baron Von Ketteler, has been killed.

A New York Journal and Advertiser special of the same date from Tien Tsin says:

> Boxers control at Tien Tsin and the city officials have been burned at the stake. A great panic has arisen among the Chinese.

CONFIRMATION LACKING.

The unconfirmed and unofficial rumor that Baron Von Ketteler, the German minister at Pekin, had been killed soon spread to the diplomatic circles in Washington, and caused great uneasiness, as the erroneous statement got abroad that the state department had received confirmation of the report. As a matter of fact, neither the state department nor the German embassy knew anything of it. The rumor was none the less disquieting, for aside from the grave international aspect of such an act, Baron Von Ketteler is intimately known in Washington, having been first secretary of the German embassy a few years ago.

Minister Wu, of the Chinese legation there, called at the state department Friday, but he declared that he was without any advice from his own governmen.

Some of these came from Iowa, the home of Minister Conger, and some of them from friends and relatives of other persons connected with the United States legation at Pekin. Mrs. Baldwin, sister of Minister Conger, called in person at the department to inquire into the truth of the story. The department was obliged to make answer in each case that it had no news and that it could not confirm the report. It was apparent that the officials did not believe that the United States legation had been burned, and they were only sorry that they could not make a denial upon authority.

It is said at the state department that according to the last report there was at the United States legation besides Minister Conger his wife, daughter, at least one lady visitor, Secretary of Legation Herbert C. Squires, of New York; William E. Bainbridge of Iowa, the second secretary: Lieutenant Albert Key, naval secretary, and F. V. Cheshire, interpreter.

DEPARTMENT GROWS ANXIOUS.

Not a word of news came to the state department from Minister Conger, who has now been cut off from communication. Even the United States consuls in north China ports were silent. Admiral Kempff has not been heard from since Thursday. This absence of official reports has given rise to grave apprehensions.

It was expected that there might be delay in hearing from Mr. Conger, but in the case of Admiral Kempff an early report was looked for, and it is feared that the officers of the foreign fleet at Taku have been prevented from reaching the cable station there either by the open hostility of the boxers or by the sinister orders of the Chinese government.

Admiral Kempff has been called upon by direction of the president for an explicit statement of the situation and his needs. It was for him to say whether he required re-enforcements. If he is cut off from communication the government must then act without waiting much longer. Of course in that case it would have to proceed upon the theory that additional forces, both ships and troops, perhaps is needed.

BRYAN HAS "CINCH."

Thirty-Four States Have Pledged to Him 650 Democratic Votes.

To nominate a candidate for the presidency requires two-thirds of the votes of the Democratic convention, or 621. Mr. Bryan, by the favorable action of the convention in Ohio Thursday, has 650 votes. He has carried everything before him since Massachusetts and Rhode Island led off in the procession of states.

The delegates to select him are chosen by thirty-four states. They are the choice of free and open conventions and have instructions that bind themselves steadfastly to stand for him.

DEWEY WON'T SAY.

Non-Committal as Regards Vice Presidential Nomination.

Admiral Dewey was seen in Washington Friday by an Associated Press representative and asked whether or not he would define his position relative to the vice presidential nomination. He replied that inasmuch as he had not been offered the nomination, it would perhaps be presumptious in him to say that he would or would not accept.

W. R. A. MILNER.

FOR TAX ASSESSOR,
J. E. RUFFIN.

FOR TREASURER,
JOHN RUSSELL.

FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION,
J. B. KILPATRICK.

FOR COMMISSIONER FIRST DISTRICT,
JAMES McGOWEN.

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES.

Peters, Ingram, Milner, Ruffin, Russell, Kilpatrick, McGowen and Weaver—all of them clean men and sound democrats. A better ticket we have never before had the privilege of endorsing, and it affords us keen pleasure to place it at our mast-head and give it our unqualified support. If the white people of Shelby county can not unite and support this ticket from start to finish it would seem there is little use in putting up clean men. Let's look at the gentlemen who compose the ticket.

Hon. J. L. Peters, who has been honored by being placed at the head of the ticket, is not a politician in any sense of the word, but is a modest, unassuming, christian gentleman of the old ante-bellum type, loved and honored of all men without exception, including many of his bitterest political enemies who are his warmest personal admirers. However, he has strong political convictions, and never hesitates to take a bold stand for the principles of democracy. Mr. Peters did not seek the office for which he has been nominated. He has never wanted an office. On the contrary he tried to dissuade his friends from urging his candidacy, and only consented to run when the pressure became so great he could not afford longer to ignore the demands of his party. He is one of the few men of whom it can be truthfully said his character is spotless; not a blot mars its beauty. With him as our leader defeat is impossible, if purity of character is given the weight it deserves.

John W. Ingram, of Calera, the nominee for sheriff, is one of the few men who have positive political convictions. On one occasion he stood firm by his party when he knew it would cost him a good job. Mr. Ingram has forged his way up by hard licks, energy, determination and force of character, and well deserves the confidence reposed in him by the democracy of the county, whose banner he carried with equally as much pride when a private as he will now that he is a color-bearer. No man can say aught against the character of John Ingram.

Of W. R. A. Milner, nominee for tax collector, little need be said, because no man can need a higher recommendation than that he has made a faithful, honest and efficient official in the past. He has been tried and never in a single instance found wanting. Every voter in the county knows this to be true, and he can well afford to go before the people with his long and honorable record as the best of guarantees that he will prove as zealous in the future as in former years.

J. E. Ruffin, of Helena, the nominee for tax assessor, is well and favorably known all over the county. He served our people once before as superintendent of education, and it is generally admitted that he made an enviable record. He was particularly active and energetic, so much so indeed, that he enthused the teachers and thereby obtained the very best results under his administration. He is splendidly qualified for the office he seeks.

John Russell, of Harpersville, nominee for treasurer, is a democrat of the true blue variety. He is an old Confederate veteran, rounding out the latter half of a life a portion of which was spent in defense of his country, for which service the people will reward him in his old age. He is a fine specimen of the old-time Southern gentleman and enjoys universal respect and esteem.

J. B. Kilpatrick, of Montevallo, nominated for county superintendent of education, is one of the foremost educators in the state, having spent his entire life in the school room. He possesses rare traits of character peculiarly suited to his profession, and is active, energetic and always wide-awake. No better qualified man for the position can be found in the county.

Messrs. McGowen and Weaver, nominees for commissioner from the first and second districts, are both sound democrats, capable men and amply qualified. They are both well known, and are gentleman of superior character and high integrity.

With such a ticket as the above the democracy of Shelby county goes before the people. If these gentlemen can not win their character and competency count for nothing.

HON. S. J. BOWIE, of Anniston, is before the people as a candidate for congress, his announcement appearing in this issue. Mr. Bowie was for a number of years a resident of Talladega county, where he began the practice of law. During the recent senatorial contest he was one of the Flying Squadron and did splendid work for the grand old senator. Mr. Bowie stands at the head of his profession in his home county, and has won his spurs by hard work and indomitable energy. He possesses every qualification requisite to make a congressman, and will no doubt have strong support in his race.

HON. JOHN F. BURNS will ask for the vote of Shelby in the convention, or anywhere else the democrats speak. He stands on his record for twenty-five years and claims to be the most available candidate in the field, and will not fear a contest.

OUR NATIONAL DISGRACE.

Mr. McKinley's administration has disgraced the country before the world. Every patriotic American, whether he is a republican or a democrat must blush on account of it. The Cuban scandal is almost as extensive as the postal service of the island. We have known our spoils system at home. Now it is revealed to the world—to jeering Spain first of all—in all its rottenness. The Cuban disgrace is a revelation of the politics which made McKinley president, Hanna senator, Alger secretary of war, Quay and Platt dispensers of patronage, Perry S. Heath assistant post-master-general, Rathbone director of post in Cuba, and Neely his financial agent.

This outrage is the latest of the blots which Mr. McKinley has put upon our escutcheon. He has turned a war of humanity into a war of conquest. In doing so he has broken the promise of the country given through him and congress more than once. He has violated the declaration of independence and the constitution. He has pretended to be a trustee for the Filipinos and the Porto Ricans, mysteriously appointed for the former by Providence in order that he might elevate and civilize them. He has promised these wards of ours constitutional liberty and free trade with the United States.

His deeds have belied his words. He has proven that Grosvenor spoke the truth, that we are in the new possessions for "the money we can make out of the transaction." He is favoring the exploitation of the islands and their people for the profit of the men who now dominate his party.

There is an atmosphere of greedy commercialism and of corruption about the whole business of colonization. We are ashamed before the world because the villainy which has been hiding behind the smug face of hypocricy has been discovered and revealed.—New York World.

A SHORT STORY IN FIGURES.

They have averaged in President McKinley's term $514,480,254.

The cost of running the government thus seems to have been increased by nearly $154,000,000 a year ever since Mr. McKinley was inaugurated. And this is not accounted for by the extraordinary disbursements of the war, which are not included in these "ordinary expenditures."

The outlay for war is a separate matter, and it accounts for the increase of the public debt by $200,000,000 since Mr. McKinley's inauguration.

The financial record of the administration may be summed up in one sentence. It has added nearly $130,000,000 a month to the regular running expenses of the government and added $1.79 per capita to the national burden of debt.—New York World.

Is There Any Incentive to Live?

Not if you are going to waste your time in superficial work, or study, or reading works of fiction. Not if you look upon the theatrical side of life only. Not if you expect to live and grow on the dead thoughts of the dead past. Not if you think that the world owes you a living. Not if you are waiting and wishing for a relative to die and leave you a fortune. Not if you are living off your friends, or expect them to keep you in idleness. Not if you expect to be a political boss or a saloon keeper, or both. Not if you expect to marry a rich young lady just for her money. Not if you are a libertine seeking to destroy the virtue of every young lady you meet. Not if you are a dude who parts his hair and name in the middle, wears toothpick shoes, eye glasses and cane, stands on street corners and insults young ladies. Not if your thoughts do not rise higher than yourself, and your world is self. For any or all the above there is no incentive to live, no necessity in fact.—Alabama Christian Advocate.

A Life's Lesson.

The death of Mr. C. P. Atmore, the efficient and popular general passenger agent of the Louisville and Nashville railway system, came as a shock to a great many men in all parts of the South. Mr. Atmore was emphatically self-made. He began in the service of the old Louisville and Nashville, during the civil war, as a clerk; was a traveling passenger man—a member of what was known thirty-five years ago as the "tack-hammer brigade"—for several years; became assistant in the general passenger department, and finally, twenty-six years ago, rose to the head of that department.

Of course he succeeded on his merits. There could be no other road open to him. He was faithful. He studied the work he was appointed to do in every grade. He did the task so well that the doing marked him as fit for promotion and promotion came, not as a gift, not because of influence exerted by powerful friends, but as reward for faithful and useful service rendered in the lower stations. He earned all he received. He owed no thanks or other form of debt to anybody for his success. There must be great gratification in this for a proud soul.

The lesson of such a life is of immeasurable value, as teaching the youth of our country the way to honorable success, which is likewise the way of happiness and high moral, as well as material, happiness.—Chattanooga Times.

You Will Stay Dead a Long Time!

Therefore it pays you to enjoy this life while you can. You do not buy a Season Ticket to Alabama Chautauqua, Talladega, June 28, because you say you can not afford it. When you have died will you carry any money with you? How will that which you leave behind be used? Oftentimes it will be squandered by some one for whom you care nothing, and who thinks less of you. Enjoy the present moment, for it comes but once. The opening of the Chautauqua will be brilliant, the first three days costing the management $600.

Luther Manship, the artist, singer and entertainer, starts the assembly. He is followed by the Mendelsohn Quartette and Dr. A. A. Willitts, the veteran Apostle of Sunshine. A sermon on Sunday at 11 o'clock from Dr. Willitts and a beautiful song service conducted by Prof. Allius Williams at 4 p. m. will make an enjoyable day of July 1st. Polk Miller with his banjo, holds the boards Monday evening. Everybody knows Polk Miller—he is the only man in America who can beat a negro playing the banjo. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, two bright, clever people from Cleveland, Ohio, will give a morning entertainment Monday, July 1. Their work is unique in song, dialogue and impersonations. Every day of the assembly is full of good cheer, helpful ideas, clean fun and education. It is the cheapest holiday you can give yourself.

Little Enoch—Paw, what are fools good for, anyhow? Farmer Flintrock—To teach us the results of blowin' into unloaded shotguns, buyin' gold bricks, guzzlin' patent medicines, lightin' the fire with coal oil, goin' up in balloons, skatin' on thin ice, tryin' to beat other people at their own games, endorsin' our friends' notes, thinkin' we know it all, flirtin' with grasswidows, and so on and so forth, my son.—Puck.

The Price of Success—The final election returns had been received. The Hon. Joshua Hayrick wore an expression of great sadness. "What's the matter?" they said to him; "your election is conceded." "That's true, boys," he replied gloomily, "and nothing under heaven will keep the village band from serenading me."—Philadelphia Press.

Court (to prosecutor)—Then you recognize this handkerchief as the one that was stolen from you?

Prosecutor—Yes, your honor.

Court—And yet it isn't the only handkerchief of the sort in the world. See, this one I have in my pocket is precisely like it.

Prosecutor—Very likely, your honor; I had two stolen.

The Soft Answer—"I don't think you will find that the angels ever smoke," said she, with mild reproach in her voice. "I guess not," said he. "I am sure you never do. Run and get me a match, will you?" And the foolish woman went for the match.—Indianapolis Journal.

In western North Carolina, between the Blue Ridge on the east and the Alleghanies on the west, in the beautiful valley of the French Broad, two thousand feet above the sea, lies Asheville, beautiful, picturesque, and world-famed as one of the most pleasant resorts in America. It is a land of bright skies and incomparable climate, whose praises have been sung by poets and whose beauties of stream, valley and mountain height have furnished subject and inspiration for the painter's brush. This is truly the Land of the Sky," and there is perhaps no more beautiful region on the continent to attract pleasure tourists or health seekers. Convenient schedules and very low rates to Asheville via Southern Railway.

The Alabama Chautauqua opens at Talladega next Thursday, and will afford amusement and instruction for the people for two weeks. In our report of the ball game at this place last week between Shelby and Columbiana our statement that the visiting team was only given two scores was made upon what we considered as good authority. Since issuing the paper, however, we learn that Shelby was given the entire number of runs she scored. The score, therefore, stands: Columbiana, 13; Shelby 5.

A prominent young man from the neighboring country came into the store of one of the merchants who advertises in this issue, some days ago, and called for a box of that "pulverized perfume" which he saw displayed in the show windows. The stock law contest case which has been going on before the judge of probate since Monday came to a close this morning and resulted in Judge Longshore rescinding his former decision. This means that the stock law in beat 10 is now a thing of the past and that cattle and stock can roam at will over any foot of land they see fit. The contest had able representation on both sides, and quite a crowd of citizens from the beat in question were in attendance, both as petitioners and spectators.

There is a certain element of young people in this city who make a practice of remaining on the church steps or sitting around the yard during the preliminary services of religious meetings, talking, whistling, laughing and raising sand in a diversity of ways. Their carousals on some occasions would cause a blush of shame to mantle the cheeks of the most depraved fool, and is ungentlemanly and not nice one bit—gentlemen and really nice people, in fact, do not engage in such capers. A few thrashings and even a small per cent of restraint on the part of parents might have a material effect upon the conduct of these youngsters.

Hurrah for Low Prices

Those other fellows say that I don't know what goods cost, that I am selling sugar, coffee, flour, meat, lard and tobacco at less than cost. It may be so; you come and see.

Yours respt'ly,
J. H. Hammond.

County politics is running high in this part of the county. A strong effort will be made to poll the largest democratic vote Calera has sent up in eight years.

The committee of arrangements of the democratic rally at this place on the 29th are counting on a large crowd and many well-filled baskets from Columbiana and Shelby, and the entire county ticket are invited to be present with their full quota of provisions.

Public Speaking and Basket Dinner.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:

In answer to your request for information about the basket dinner and speaking billed for this place on the 29th instant, will say Col. W. J. Samford has accepted an invitation to be present and open the campaign on that day, and he will be introduced by his former classmate and friend at Auburn College, Dr. C. C. Oliver, who by the way competed with Col. Samford for the oratorical prize at that college, coming off with second prize, Col. Samford receiving the first.

All candidates for congress in the Fourth district have accepted invitations to be present, and an opportunity will be allowed each one a few minutes in which to make himself known to the public.

We also invite all candidates for office in Chilton and Shelby counties to be present. These invitations are not limited to any party, but embraces all.

Arrangements are now under way to get the Southern and Alabama Mineral railroads to give us additional accommodations and all the roads to give reduced rates.

Tell everybody to come and bring their baskets, and let all the candidates bring their friends along.

Very truly,
J. H. GUNN.

HAIR HELP

So many persons have hair that is stubborn and dull. It won't grow. What's the reason? Hair needs help just as anything else does at times. The roots require feeding. When hair stops growing it loses its luster. It looks dead.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

acts almost instantly on such hair. It awakens new life in the hair bulbs. The effect is astonishing. Your hair grows, becomes thicker, and all dandruff is removed.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor, and am really astonished at the good it has done in keeping my hair from coming out. It is the best tonic I have tried, and I shall continue to recommend it to my friends."
MATTIE HOLT,
Sept. 24, 1898. Burlington, N. C.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Hair Vigor, write the Doctor about it.

OSTRICH AS A WATCHMAN.

Sagacious Bird, Named Napoleon, Keeps Guard.

An ostrich watchman is the latest trained wonder in Florida. He can be seen every night making his rounds through the pens of an ostrich farm near Jacksonville, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Times. About a week ago the sagacious bird, which has been named Napoleon, proved his capacity for the appointment. About eight months ago the owners of this herd of ostriches established the farm at this place. Previous to this time and since 1885, when they made their first importations of birds into this country, they carried on their extensive farm in California. Attracted by the salubrious climate and the shorter distance to their markets, they determined upon this step. When they established their farm at Jacksonville, they added as an especial attraction specimens of many rare birds and animals capable of easy domestication. Among the former was a flock of over 200 golden and other varieties of pheasants. In the course of events this fact became known to the many colored gentry, and knowing the darky's natural penchant for "chickin'," the owners feared for their latest purchases. The pheasants, they knew, would be tempting, because all birds look alike to coons, and these resembled more than anything else, nice, fat yellow-legged roosters, and so would become doubly tempting. Nor were the fears of the owners groundless. The "cullod" population rapidly passed through the stages of hearing, investigating and finally seeing. At this stage of the game the owners of the ostrich herd took steps to prevent the loss of their property, and Napoleon was called into requisition.

Harvests for Dentists.

If a child would eat candy once a day and then wash out his mouth thoroughly he might keep up the practice for fifty years without harm to his teeth, but it is the constant sucking of candy, always having something sweet in the mouth, that eats away the enamel and reaps mighty harvests for the dentists.

Mrs. Pinkham

The one thing that qualifies a person to give advice on any subject is experience — experience creates knowledge.

No other person has so wide an experience with female ills nor such a record of success as Mrs. Pinkham has had.

Over a hundred thousand cases come before her each year. Some personally, others by mail. And this has been going on for 20 years, day after day and day after day.

Twenty years of constant success — think of the knowledge thus gained! Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman with such an experience, especially when it is free.

If you are ill get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once—then write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

DEMOCRATIC LETTER.

THE REIGN OF CORRUPTION TAKES A RECESS.

Shameless Profligacy of the Republican Administration — Starving the People to Fatten the Purses of Political Heelers of High and Low Degree.

Congress has adjourned, and the issues upon which the presidential election is to be fought in November have been joined. Three years of McKinley's administration have proven that the Republican leaders are drunk with imperialism, mad with militarism, profligate with government funds, reckless in foreign relations, and corrupt in their dealings with corporations. True only to the trusts, the Republican party has abandoned the constitution and the principles on which this government was founded.

The Democratic party will appeal to the country to bring the government back to the paths of truth and soberness, to stop the radical and reckless expenditure of public funds, to give an honest and impartial enforcement of the law, to bring the nation out of its entangling foreign alliances and wars of conquest into a condition of peace and open-handed friendship with all the world, to take steps toward removing the dangerous control of the nation's finances from the national banks, to pass laws that will curb the trusts and take from them the special privileges whereby they have grown so great, and last, but not least, to "turn the rascals out." On such a platform, and under the leadership of Bryan, the Republican party can be swept from power in every branch of the government by a combined, united and harmonious opposition.

The most important and patriotic duty of the Democratic party will be to defeat the Republican ticket next November. The details of reform in administration can safely be trusted to Bryan and of reform in the laws of the congress which shall be elected with him.

The country is more concerned in bringing the government back to safe and sound principles of administration than in any single law which might be enacted, however important such law may be to the welfare of the country. Honest administration of the government on constitutional lines is the foundation upon which reform of the law must be erected. No law, however good and salutary, can be of avail unless it is honestly administered. There are good laws on the statute books now which have become dead letters at the hands of the present administration. The Kansas City convention will give earnest of its purpose to meet the demands of the country.

Every honest and patriotic citizen wants a clean government, whether he be a Republican, Democrat or Populist. He wants an impartial application of the law. He wants an economical expenditure of public funds. He wants the public service to be free from scandal and corruption. He wants an equitable adjustment of taxation. He still believes in the constitution. He is opposed to a huge standing army and to entangling foreign alliances. He is opposed to trusts and the special privileges which have created them.

McKinley has not given a clean administration. Hanna's political henchmen have filled the public offices, have openly and flagrantly violated the civil service law and have stolen public funds. The Cuban scandals in the postal service, in the customs service and in the army are merely the surface indications of a corruption as widespread as the government itself.

Millions have been taken from the public treasury under the flimsiest gloss of regularity and legal form. No one who knows will attempt to deny that political favorites were permitted to make contracts for army and navy supplies at prices out of all proportion to the value of the articles furnished. Scores of vessels were sold to the government at three times their actual value, with commissions to political favorites quite equal to the price which went to the actual owners of the vessels. Worse yet, legislation was forced through congress, like the armor trust grab, for the sole purpose of furnishing Mark Hanna with a Republican campaign corruption fund of millions. This notorious and flagrant misuse of legislative power is alone enough to condemn to political destruction the party which has permitted it.

Taxation has been so adjusted as to fall almost entirely upon the shoulders of the laboring and producing masses of the country, while wealth is practically exempt from sharing in the burden of government.

A general demand that taxation should be reduced to a safe and conservative basis has been refused, and all signs indicate that expenditures even in a time of peace will equal the enormously heavy revenue now produced. The appropriations for the coming fiscal year are more than $709,000,000. Had not certain important appropriations been deferred, and had not even the heavy appropriations made been pared so much below the actual requirements of the Republican program that a heavy deficiency bill will be necessary next winter, the appropriations would have been over $800,000,000. Did these huge appropriations return to the people in public benefits some fair share of the money taken from them in the form of taxes there might be less reason for complaint, but the unfortunate fact remains that not one dollar in five is so expended as to actually benefit the taxpayer who contributed it.

Take for instance the $90,000,000 increase in army appropriations over the figures for 1896. That is all to be thrown into the Philippine rat hole, where the entire trade of the United States for the current fiscal year is less than $3,000,000. The $35,000,000 in the naval expenditure will benefit a few ship-building firms, who will divide with the armor plate trust enormous profits on their political contracts. There is a $32,000,000 increase in the sundry civil bill. That goes entirely to feed taxeaters of high and low degree.

A smaller indication, but a characteristic one, is found in the bill now reposing on the Senate calendar with a favorable report from the Republican majority of the judiciary committee to increase the pay of all federal judges from the chief justice of the Supreme Court down. The chief justice now gets $10,500. It is proposed to give him $21,000 a year. The other justices of the Supreme Court are to have their pay doubled. Taking the whole list, an increase of salary amounting to half a million dollars annually is to be put through.

The army reorganization bill, which is hung up to see whether McKinley is to be re-elected or not, involves an increase of the standing army to 65,000, with a trebling of the expense of its maintenance. These are a few brief samples of what a continuation of Republican control means to the taxpayers. The Democratic party will put the issue squarely before the people.

JACKSON DAY.

DEMOCRATIC EXPANSION.

The Republican newspapers have been doing the people a real service by publication of a map sent out by some one of the imperialist committees—very likely the Cuban annexation junta of Washington—which map shows how the United States has grown and enlarged by Democratic expansion. Louisiana is marked 'Democratic expansion," and so is all of California, Texas, Oregon, the Gadsden purchase and Florida.

Cuba is also included in the list. It is an instructive map. If we had one of them we would publish it. Every voter ought to see a copy and study it carefully. By this map it is shown that the present great area of the United States of America is due entirely to "Democratic expansion" save and alone the original thirteen states and Alaska. This is a record which the Republican party dare not "point to with pride." There was no "Republican expansion" known until McKinley got in his work. The growth of the United States so as to cover a large part of the continent and include homogeneous states working together in harmony has been due to the Democratic party.

We are glad that the Republicans have called attention to the fact that the expansion we have known before has practically all been "Democratic expansion." This is a point we have been making all along, but the Republicans refuse to acknowledge it. President Schurman of the first Philippine peace commission, acknowledged it. He was among the first Republicans to declare that the expansion under this administration differs in every essential from the expansion of the Louisiana purchase. Then Secretary Root stated the distinction plainly.

Since then the administration has acted entirely upon the theory that expansion which includes islands in distant seas is entirely unlike the expansion which the Democratic party brought about. In fact, every thing has been done to make it evident to all that the "Republican expansion" of 1899 is entirely different from the "Democratic expansion" which has made ours a great and glorious nation.

The truth is that "Democratic expansion" is in accord with the spirit of our institutions, while "Republican expansion," or imperialism, is along the lines of European colonization.—Sioux Falls Press.

"There's the Rub."

The war in the Philippines, again says Gen. Otis, "is practically ended," and, "as soon as the natives in general gain confidence in the friendly offices of the Americans, there will be little difficulty in bringing them to terms." Aye, there's the rub. The experiment of shooting "confidence" into the Filipinos, however, has not proved and will not prove a success. Human nature is not constituted that way.

Men must reap the deeds they sow,
Force from force must ever flow;
And deeds of blood, though done beneath
Pretense of good, are Dragon's teeth
From which must spring, as fixed by Fate,
Their harvest—death, revenge and hate.

—Grand Rapids Democrat.

The March of Empire.

The Rev. Rockwell Clancey, a missionary who has just returned from India, says that he "saw girls in one town sold for thirty cents apiece. They were bought up by the Mohammedans. Boys were unsaleable." This traffic in human flesh is due to the great famine in gold-ridden India. This is but one phase of the terrible condition that the people of the United States, as well as the people of other countries, are called upon to relieve. And can the rest of the world escape its responsibility because Great Britain is not doing her full duty?—Milwaukee News.

According to a German publication, a chemist of that country has prepared a fluid that has the power when injected into the tissue of a plant, near its roots, of anaesthetizing the plant—not destroying it, but temporarily suspending its vitality.

The National Game.

The Cincinnatis are using black bats.

Forty-eight pitchers have been worked in the League this year.

Nine errorless games have been played by the Brooklyns this season.

Boston is playing the best all-round game just now of any of the League teams.

Sixteen Kerosene Oil Victims.

Within seven days no less than sixteen women and children have been burned to death in the vicinity of Houston, Texas, as a result of attempting to kindle fires with kerosene oil. Not a day passes without one or more victims.

Two Drowned in the Ohio River.

Lilly McAfee and Sherman Morris, of Louisville, Ky., both seventeen years old, were drowned in the Ohio River at Fern Grove, fifteen miles from Louisville.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS:

To Wash Hair-Brushes.

Hair-brushes should be washed in hot or tepid water, to which soda or ammonia has been added. The brushes should be dipped in and out of the water till clean, taking care that the backs and handles do not get wet. After rinsing in clear cold water, put them in the air to dry; they should never be dried close to the fire, or the bristles will become discolored.

A Test For the Oven.

It is the wise cook who sets herself to master all the moods and tenses of her oven, since on the proper degree of heat depends the success of more than one dish. The paper test is old but dependable. If a sheet of thin white paper, put into the oven, turns black and blazes up, the oven is too hot. To reduce its temperature place a basin of cold water inside. If, on the other hand, the sheet of paper quickly turns yellow and burns in a few minutes, the heat is right for roast meats. Puff paste comes in for this sort of an oven also. When the paper colors a trifle more slowly, the heat is right for bread and all yeast mixtures. Pound cakes and all rich cakes containing much butter take a moderate oven while rich fruit cake requires still a degree less heat. Never on any account slam the oven door while baking, for you are only too liable to ruin the most carefully made dishes by so doing.

Dust Should Be Destroyed.

The modern housewife has learned that feather dusters and other flirting brooms and brushes merely scatter the dust and germs in her house, instead of removing them. She is now being told by scientists that to shake her rugs and carpets, beat her draperies, etc., is undesirable. The dust flies in near-by windows, her own perhaps, and is again disseminated. The idea of housekeeping to-day is to destroy dust. Carpet-sweepers, covered dust-pans, and cloths are the implements to be made use of, and the dust thus gathered should be burned, or, in the case of cloths, washed out. Back of this care, however, should come a wise choice of houshold belongings. Simplicity should be the fundamental law of their selection. Have the things needed for comfort and use in simple, easily cared for designs; for pure decoration, only a few very satisfying things. Gewgaws as a rule are useless, and may be dispensed with.

The Best Disinfectants.

The best disinfectants are pure air and sunshine. Without the aid of these disinfectants the most powerful chemicals used to purify a pest place may prove of no avail. It is more necessary that a house should be ventilated than that the waste pipes that lead into it be trapped. A strong solution of potash and boiling water poured down the sink and into waste pipes will disinfect them sufficiently for the season. If about four quarts of boiling water are poured over five cents' worth of copperas, and the solution scattered over the ground where the garbage pail has sat during the winter, and into cesspools or any similar spot that needs disinfection, it will be usually all that is necessary, provided air and sunshine can also reach the place. It is not safe to trust the eyes; that which looks clean may be very unclean, but there is usually a foul odor to any spot needing disinfection.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES:

Sausage and Macaroni Pie—Cook twelve sticks of macaroni in boiling salted water until tender, drain and pour over a little cold water. Fill a small, deep buttered dish with alternate layers of macaroni and sausage meat, seasoning each layer with salt, pepper and chopped parsley. Moisten with good stock, cover with puff paste and bake for about half an hour.

Cream of Peas Soup—Cover two cupfuls of peas with cold water, cook until tender. Rub half the peas through a sieve. Scald one-half pint of milk. Rub one tablespoonful of butter and one of flour together. Add the floured butter and milk to the strained peas. When the soup thickens add a cupful of cream, the remainder of the peas, pepper and salt.

Restless Americanos.

All winter long, and into this, the second month of the violet-scented springtime of Mexico, we have heard two distinctive sounds—the click of the kodak and the "taconeo," or ticktack of the little heels of the American girl, marching through San Francisco, Profesa and Plateros streets. And still they come, this flitting army of restless Americanos, male and female, as the Lord created them, and instinct with the hereditary nomadism of our race, for no one stays close at home except for financial reasons. That is also why many of us here in the tropics will not go to the Paris exposition. It is well to be "franc" about it.—Boston Herald's letter from City of Mexico.

Vaudeville During Lunch Time.

There is a prospect that Currier's restaurant, on Fulton street, New York, may be converted into a playhouse, where continuous vaudeville will hold forth. Merchants in the neighborhood and their clerks are having heated discussions over the probabilities of success or failure of the enterprise. The idea is to give performances during the day, with especial attention to the lunching hour—say from 12 to 2:30—when tables will be plentifully supplied with the best that the market affords. A citizen can pay $1 at the door and not only obtain an excellent meal, but see a good show while eating.

A New Mineral.

Mohawkite is the name given to a new mineral discovered in the copper mines at Houghton, Mich. It is an arsenide of copper in connection with an arsenide of nickel, united chemically, not mechanically. An alloy of copper and nickel is in good demand, and the new ore, it is said can be turned into copper, nickel, arsenic and cobalt with less than 1 per cent of waste. Cobalt is the base of the deepest blue dye. Arsenic is worth five cents a pound, copper 17 cents and nickel more than twice as much as copper.

M'KINLEY AND ROOSEVELT

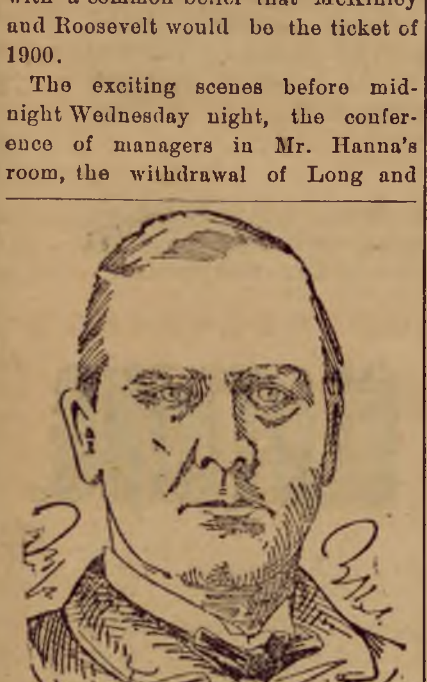
PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—(Special.)—The Republican National Convention Thursday nominated William McKinley for President and Theodore Roosevelt for Vice-President of the United States, and at 2:14 o'clock in the afternoon adjourned sine die. The nominations were made unanimously and amid scenes of the wildest enthusiasm. Roosevelt's was the only name presented to the convention for vice-president and it swept the vast assemblage like wild fire.

A bright and cloudless sky, with a cool and bracing northeasterly breeze, gave ideal conditions for the third and closing day of the Republican National Convention. After all the smoke of the skirmish of the last few days, the conventioners awoke in the morning with a common belief that McKinley and Roosevelt would be the ticket of 1900.

The exciting scenes before midnight Wednesday night, the conference of managers in Mr. Hanna's room, the withdrawal of Long and Dollivar and the disappearance of every other obstacle in the path of Roosevelt's triumphant nomination, and finally the formal, measured announcement of Senator Hanna that in his judgment, after a complete review of the conditions, Governor Roosevelt should be nominated by acclamation—these series of events dispelled the very last vestige of doubt as to the ticket.



WILLIAM MC'KINLEY.

As delegates and leaders appeared in the hotel lobbies Thursday they shook hands and congratulated each other as gladiators after a hard fought battle, and all agreed that nothing remained but for the convention formally to carry out what had already been registered as its unmistakable will.

The programme was the most attractive one of the session, with the nominating speeches and the two nominations by acclamation.

At 10:36 Chairman Lodge glanced at his watch and then, with three raps of the historic gavel, stilled the tumult on the floor while the band played, the entire audience rising as the inspiring strains reverberated through the building. As the anthem closed, the chairman announced the opening invocation by Archbishop Ryan.

When the striking figure of the Archbishop at the finish of the prayer disappeared from the throng on the stage, the vast assemblage sank to its seats and the gavel fell to make quiet for the practical work of the convention.

Mr. Lodge advanced to the front of the platform and a thrill went through the vast audience as he announced:

"Under the rules, nominations for the office of president of the United States are now in order."

There was a momentary shout, which the chairman punctured by the announcement:

"The state of Alabama is recognized."

This was the signal for the recognition of Senator Foraker, who was to make the speech nominating Mr. McKinley as the republican candidate for president. Then the cheers begun and a wild scene ensued. Amidst a tumult of of applause Senator Foraker went to the platform, and when quiet was restored began to speak.

Briefly Senator Foraker adverted to the record of the president in peace and war as one of the most remarkable in American history.

The reference to the great leader of the party, the successes already achieved by him and the grave responsibilities now being carried forward by him, made applause frequent and long continued, but it remained for his closing sentence, for the first time mentioning William McKinley by name as the nominee, to electrify the great multitude.

Pandemonium broke loose. Former tempests of enthusiasm paled before this cyclone of sound and movement. Every one stood and waved and yelled. State standards were wrenched from their places and borne aloft with umbrellas, great plumes of red, white and blue forming a perfectly tempestuous sea of color.

Senator Hanna sprang to the front of the stage, a flag in one hand and a plume in the other, and led in the tremendous demonstration.

Senator Foraker's nominating speech was followed by those of Governor Roosevelt, Senator Thurston, Yerkes, of Kentucky, and Gov. Mount of Indiana. As Governor Mount closed his speech the convention again demanded a vote and the chair announced that the roll of states would be called for to vote on nomination for President. At 12:37 the vote began.

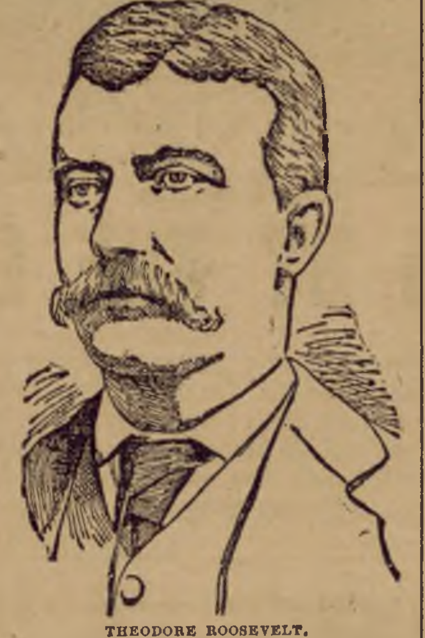
The tally clerks quickly made the official summary and handed it to the chairman. Mr. Lodge took the paper and, advancing to the front of the stage, said:

"The total vote cast is 930. William McKinley has received 930 votes It is an unanimous vote, and the chairman declares that William McKinley is your nominee for the Presidency beginning March 4, 1901."

Now again pandemonium broke loose in one swelling chorus of enthusiasm for the candidate.

The demonstration in honor of the president's nomination lasted five minutes, and the chairman called for order for further events in store.

Mr. Lodge announced that the call of states would proceed for nominations for the vice-presidency. As the name of Alabama was called on the roll of states for the nomination of candidates for vice-president the announcement was made by the chairman of the delegation that Alabama would yield to Iowa to present a candidate. Chairman Lodge then recognized Colonel Young, one of the Iowa delegates at large, who withdrew the name of Dolliver and offered that of Roosevelt.



THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

The demonstration which followed the announcement of Colonel Young of Governor Roosevelt as the candidate of the young men of the country who represented their ambitions and embodied their patriotism and Americanism was not second to that accorded the president's name.

"Roosevelt," "Teddy" Roosevelt came from all quarters of the hall. The Governor sat unmoved, fanning himself desperately and shaking his head negatively at the calls for his appearance.

The impatient audience called for a vote, assuming that there would be no other candidates.

At the conclusion of the call, chairman Lodge announced that Governor Roosevelt had received 925 votes, one delegate in the convention not voting. This delegate was Governor Roosevelt himself.

MORE BODIES RECOVERED.

The Death List in the Georgia Wreck May Reach Forty.

Thirty-seven bodies have been recovered from the wreckage of the Southern train which went into a washout, one mile and a half from McDonough, Saturday night. Three bodies were found Monday. They were D. Y. Griffith, supervisor; W. L. Morrisette, superintendent pumping station; J. H. Hunnicutt, freight conductor, and the charred pieces of two other bodies.

Many bodies of the dead have not been identified, and these remain at the undertaking establishments, waiting to be claimed by relatives or friends. The latter are principally bodies of negro section hands who were killed.

The number of the gang which was making its way to do repair work on the Georgia Midland & Gulf railroad is not known. All of them perished. It is supposed to have numbered about fifteen, which will make the total casualties about forty.

According to Japanese reports Admiral Seymour has been captured and the ministers have left Pekin guarded by Chinese soldiers. Their whereabouts is unknown.

BOXERS KILL FOREIGNERS

Fifteen Hundred Are Said to Have Been Massacred.

REPORT IS UNCONFIRMED

Advices From Shanghai State That Americans Are Engaged In the Fighting at Tien Tsin.

"Eight hundred Americans are taking part in the fight at Tien Tsin," says the Shanghai correspondent of the London Daily Express, cabling Friday evening, "and they apparently form a part of a supplementary force, arriving with Germans and British after the conflict started. It is impossible to estimate the number of Chinese, but they had a surprising number of guns."

This information appears to have been brought by the United States gunboat Nashville to Che Foo and telegraphed thence to Shanghai. The Chinese are deserting Shanghai in large numbers and going into the interior. Reports from native sources continue to reach Shanghai of anarchy in Pekin. According to these tales the streets are filled day and night with Boxers, who are wholly beyond the control of the Chinese troops, and who are working themselves up to a frenzy and clamoring for the death of all foreigners.

A special dispatch from Shanghai received in London Friday saying it was reported from Japanese sources that 1,500 foreigners have been massacred at Tien Tsin caused great comment, but the statement lacked official confirmation.

On June 17 the Chinese shelled the foreign settlement and the Chinese military college was attacked by a mixed force of 175 Austrians, British, German and Italians. They destroyed the guns and burned the college which contained a considerable store of ammunition and killed its defenders. The Russians, with their four heavy guns, did excellent service. The British loss was one man killed and five men wounded. The Germans had one killed, the Italians had five men wounded, and the Russians had seven men killed and five wounded.

The consuls at Shanghai still believe the foreign ministers at Pekin safe, although Japanese reports received at Shanghai allege that up to June 15th 100 foreigners had been killed in Pekin.

It is reported that the British government will immediately send 1,500 marines to China and possibly, according to some of the morning papers, 10,000 of the regulars now with Lord Roberts.

WILL SEND TROOPS TO CHINA.

A Washington special says: The only news from China laid before the cabinet meeting Friday was a telegram to the secretary of the navy, giving the movements of vessels in Chinese waters. The text of the message, however, was not made public.

That the president and the members of the cabinet regard the situation in China as extremely critical is shown by the fact that preliminary preparations are being made to send forward additional troops in case of need.

A telegram was sent to General MacArthur Friday afternoon asking him how large a force he can spare should it become necessary to send them to China.

The administration is endeavoring to stimulate the dispatch of troops and naval re-enforcements to China to meet the emergensy at Tien Tsin. The emergency described in Admiral Kempff's dispatches has led the war department to make an extra effort to hurry forward the Ninth regiment from Luzon to Taku. The war department is now determined that this movement shall be hastened.

There is also good reason to believe that the authorities will dispatch at least one other regiment from Manila to China with the least possible delay.

The United States consulate at Tien Tsin, which late news advices report to have been destroyed, is situated far up on the Meadows road, which runs up from the Pei Ho river directly through the center of the town. It is far removed from any of the other consulates and practically isolated from all other foreign buildings.

A recent census of Tien Tsin shows the foreign population to be about 1,000 persons, including 110 Americans. Thus the report from Japanese sources that 1,500 foreigners at Tien Tsin had been massacred would seem to be untrue or grossly exaggerated in point of numbers.

COMMISSIONERS RECEIVED

By President Loubet, of France, at Paris Exposition.

President Loubet, at Paris, Friday, received the national commissioners at Elysee palace. They assembled there, and when the entire party had arrived they proceeded to the audience room led by United States Ambassador Palmer. President Loubet addressed the commissioners, expressing his pleasure in meeting them and his gratitude to President McKinley.

LATE STATE NEWS.

Movement of Alabama Democrats on Kansas City Begun.

The movement of Alabama democrats on Kansas City has begun, says a Birmingham dispatch, and by Sunday night all Alabamians who purpose attending the National Democratic convention will have begun the journey westward. It is expected that most of the delegates and alternate delegates, as well as many visitors, will gather in Birmingham on Saturday and Sunday, and will travel to the convention over the Kansas City and Louisville and Nashville routes.

While there has been apparently no concert of action and comparatively little discussion regarding the democratic vice-presidential nomination, the sentiment of the delegates and of the public seems to favor David Bennett Hill. Party leaders do not appear to be anxious to hazard guesses, but the trend of opinion is towards Mr. Hill—"if he will accept," as everybody adds. The Alabamians appear to prefer to wait until they reach Kansas City before determining on their course.

Selma Agency Abolished.

The Selma division freight agency, established at Selma by the Southern railway, when that system bought the Mobile and Birmingham, of which Mr. Frank G. Bowder has been the head, will be abolished on the 1st of July. Mr. J. W. Hunter will be named as commercial agent and the division tacked on to that now supervised by Division Freight Agent George Browder, of Birmingham.

Alabamian Killed in Philippines.

Gloomy Reports at Nontgomery.

Reports received at the state agricultural department are the gloomiest ever received at this season of the year. Planters are twenty days behind with work, and continuous rains and cool nights are destructive to crops, especially cotton.

Drowned in Tennessee River.

An orphan boy about 12 years of age who lived with Sam Clemons, while out in a skiff on the Tennessee river near Scottsboro, fell overboard and was drowned. Mr. Clemons, who was with him at the time, made every effort to rescue him, but failed.

Cyclone at Eutaw.

A cyclone passed over Eutaw Sunday and did a great deal of damage. The Baptist church was demolished and the Presbyterian church and female academy badly wrecked. Several residences were damaged and trees and fences blown down.

Campaign Opens This Week.

THIRTY DEAD IN BAD WRECK

Fast Southern Train Goes Headlong Into Washout.

SCENE A HORRIBLE ONE

Whole Train Completely Demolished, and of Forty Passengers and Crew Only Nine Escaped Death.

Passenger train No. 7, on the Southern road, due in Atlanta at 9:45 p. m., ran into a washout over Camp creek Saturday night at 9:30 o'clock one mile and a half north of McDonough, Ga., which is twenty miles south of Atlanta, and thirty-one people were killed outright.

The train left Macon on schedule time. It was made up of an engine, No. 864, and three cars. The car next to the engine was a combination affair, part of it being used for baggage and part of it for passengers. The next coach was a first-class passenger coach, while the third one was a Pullman car.

The run from Macon to McDonough was made in a heavy storm which had been prevailing for many hours. At McDonough the usual stop was made, and the train pulled out for Atlanta. One mile and a half north of McDonough was a culvert over Camp creek, which had stood the storms for many years. Either a cloudburst or the heavy rush of the waters after dark Saturday night washed away quite a section, leaving an immense gap.

The train rushing along plunged wildly into this gap, and in a second the tender was piled upon the engine and the cars upon cars in an extricable mass.

Immediately after the cars went down fire began to spread among them, and what destruction the fall did not accomplish, the flames about completed.

Of the thirty-one killed, all except two were lifeless bodies when rescued from the flames, the scalding steam, and the raging waters of the creek, swollen by heavy rains into a torrent. Only nine persons were rescued. None of them are seriously injured.

The wreck is said by railroad officials who visited the scene to the most disastrous in the history of the state.

Only a few moments were required to arouse the people of McDonough to the fact that the most horrible railroad wreck the state had ever known had occurred within two miles of their town.

The scene when they reached the place where the accident occurred beggared description. All that remained of the train was a mass of ruins that in the dim light appeared to be only a mass of splinters.

A number of thrilling rescues were made. The manner in which the only two women were rescued was remarkable. Miss Mary B. Merritt is of Boston, where she is a teacher in a school of oratory. She and her pupil, Miss Clara Alden, also of Boston, had been visiting in Macon and were en route to Boston. Both occupied berths in the Pullman. When the plunge was made they found their end of the car almost entirely submerged. Going upon the platform, which was an exhibition of nerve since the water was almost to their chins, they climbed to the roof of the Pullman and walked up the inclined car to the further end, where they stood calling for help. They were the first to be rescued. A rope was thrown, which each in turn grasped and in that manner were carried safely to the point from which the cars had fallen.

The list of those killed is as follows:

Passengers—W. W. Iparks, W. F. Maddox, George W. Flournoy, W. J. Pate, Jesse Pate, aged 13, son of W. J. Pate—all of Atlanta, Ga.

D. C. Hightower, Stockbridge, Ga.

J. L. Florida, Nashville, Tenn.

The crew—J. Sullivan, engineer of the wrecked train, Atlanta; W. A. Barclay, conductor; H. R. Cressman, conductor of Pullman on the wrecked train; W. H. Green, fireman; W. W. Bennett, baggage master.

Employees of the road who were on fatal train—J. H. Hunnicut, conductor, Atlanta; J. E. Wood, conductor, Atlanta; G. Y. Griffith, supervisor, Flovilla, Ga.; W. R. Lawrence, foreman, Stockbridge, Ga.; W. O. Ellis, bridgeman, Stockbridge, Ga.; John Brantley, fireman, Atlanta; J. H. Rhodes, flagman; W. I. Morrissette, repairer, Pocahontas, Va.; Ed Byrd, negro fireman; Robert Spencer, negro porter.

Unidentified—Bodies of four white men; one supposed to be Robert Buchanan, of Atlanta, and one G. M. Seewall, of Chicago; bodies of five negro men.

CROKER BACK FROM EUROPE.

Tammany Chieftan Acknowledges Owning American Ice Stock.

Richard Croker arrived at New York from England Saturday on board the Cunard line steamer Lucania. He said that he is ready to take a very active part in the coming national campaign.

Mr. Croker acknowledged he owned American Ice stock, but said it was bought before the company became a trust and would not say if he was now a stockholder.

FREE STATERS

Are Now Diviriting Lord Roberts' Attention From Transvaal Forces.

A London special of Friday says: General Steyn's forces in the Orange River colony are for the time drawing most of the attention of Lord Roberts, rather to the neglect of Commandant General Louis Botha and President Kruger.

The severance between the Transvaal and Orange River colony was completed Thursday, as Lord Roberts said it would be, by the arrival of General Buller's advance guard, under Lord Dundonald, at Standerson.

The wide net around the 6,000 or 8,000 men under General Steyn will now contract. Adroit maneuvering and brisk fighting are likely to take place, because until all resistance south of the Vaal is at an end the British line of communication will not be safe.

President Kruger's sons, who surrendered to General Baden-Powell, are back on their farms working peacefully. General Baden-Powell rode with only 300 men from Mafeking, and he made the last section of this ride to Pretoria with only thirty-five. Lord Roberts met him in the outskirts of the town and escorted him to the presidency.

The Netherlands Railroad Company of South Africa has received official notification of the expulsion from the Transvaal of 100 of its employees with their families. The Dutch consul at Lourenzo Marques telegraphs that a proclamation has been issued to the effect that the company's officials who refuse to do British military work will be sent back to Europe via east London, Cape Colony.

Advices from Lourenzo Marques state that President Kruger's principal condition for immediate peace is that he be allowed to stay in the country. There are 50,000 British sick and wounded at Pretoria. Mrs. Reitz, wife of the Transvaal state secretary, and her family, who arrived at Lourenzo Marques en route for Europe, had so little money that the Dutch consul purchased second class steamship tickets for them.

RUSSIA APPLIES CENSORSHIP.

Newspaper Correspondents Are Put Under Strict Rule.

The Vienna correspondent of The London Daily Express says that the Russian minister of the interior, M. Sipaguine, has issued the following instructions for the guidance of newspapers in dealing with the far eastern situation:

"1. No reference to the movement of Russian troops or warships.

"2. Papers must bear in mind that the czar is actuated only by a desire to maintain peace and a good will among the nations.

"3. No gossip about differences among the powers that would be displeasing to the government.

"4. No criticism of Russian diplomacy or of military or naval strategy.

"Fifth, editorial writers should recollect that Russia is predestined to predominate in Asia.

"6. Comparisons may be made between Russian and foreign troops and seamen when unfavorable to foreigners."

FOR HAWAIIAN BANK.

United States Coin Shipped to Honolulu Per Steamer.

The steamer China sailed from San Francisco Friday for the Orient with a large number of passengers, among them Macfarlen and Brenner, of the treasury department, who have $750,000 in United States coin to deposit in the American bank at Honolulu. The institution will become the first national bank of Hawaii. The funds are to be used in paying outstanding bonds of Hawaiians.

Big Blaze In Pittsburg.

Fire in Pittsburg, Pa., Friday, destroyed eight buildings in the principal business block of the city causing a loss aggregating $250,000.

ACT OF PROVIDENCE.

Southern Railroad Officials Have No Other Explanation of Wreck.

Southern railway officials who could be induced to talk about the wreck near McDonough, Ga., Saturday night, were very guarded in their statements. They claim that the washout was due to no inherent weakness in the solidity of the roadbed or the trestle spanning the creek into which the train was plunged. Superintendent Jones, of the Macon division, on which the wreck occurred, refers to the affair as "one of the inevitable acts of God."

Taylor to Stump State.

The Kentucky Republican leaders are talking of bringing ex-Governor Taylor to the state to make speeches this fall. It is thought he would make a canvass in the eastern part of the state, where it is certain no attempt would be made to arrest him.

More Allied Troops.

COMMITTEE MEETING POSTPONED.

COLUMBIANA, ALA., June 25, 1900.

The meeting of the democratic executive committee of the Fourth Congressional district is postponed until the 3rd day of July, 1900, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon The committee will meet at Shelby Springs.

C. C. DUBOSE, Secretary. F. W. GIST, Chairman.

BILLY and Teddy. Both are "rough riders" as far as the interests of the people are concerned.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY, the father of trusts, and Roosevelt, the daring "rough rider," is the ticket named at Philadelphia. A good pair—to beat.

IF YOU want a striking illustration of what a woman can do in politics turn your eyes to the far East and see what a rumpus the Chinese Empress has kicked up. We don't care to see any further experiments in this line.

MASTER SIMMONS, a thirteen-year-old boy of Atlanta, is vice-president of one of the principal street railway companies of the United States. Of course he had a "pull," but he learned early in life how to use it, and he evidently pulled it for all it was worth.

LAST week in our rush to get the election returns and the ticket in the paper we overlooked the coroner. Mr. Geo. R. Vasser, of this place, received the nomination, and his name has been added to the ticket. He is a life-long democrat and is well qualified to fill the position.

THE meeting of the congressional executive committee has been postponed until next Tuesday. The committee has never received any official notification of the recent action of the state executive committee reversing its action in calling a primary and commanding it to order a convention. For that reason the meeting was put off until such official notification should be received.

THE Chinese situation is critical in the extreme. Unless the present uprising is promptly checked and effectually put down by the Chinese government, there is no predicting the final outcome. If war should be declared as now seems likely it will be a long and costly one, for it is no small matter to conquor four hundred million people. Let us hope that wise counsel may prevail and the horrible butchery called war may be averted.

SOME of the leading populists of Shelby county claim to be dreadfully opposed to the disfranchisement of the negro, and yet they know that the poor white men of the county are already disfranchised, and not a murmur of disapproval have we heard. Isn't this patriotism with a whoop? It is a fact known of all men that in order to vote on the stock law question a man must be a property holder. If he is poor he can not vote. Is he not disfranchised and his mouth closed when his financial interests are at stake? Who gave us this magnificent law? Deans and Sturdivant, the friends of the poor man.

CHAIRMAN WHITE publishes a letter in this issue addressed to J. P. Pearson, chairman of the populist committee, inviting a full and free discussion of all political issues in joint debate. A letter of similar import was also sent to W. W. Walls, chairman of the republican committee. What the democrats want is a calm, dispassionate discussion, participated in by representatives of all parties, and allow the people to decide for themselves as to how they will cast their votes. We hope the invitation will be accepted in the spirit it is offered.

TWICE have a handful of populists met in what they called a state convention and nominated S. M. Adams, of Chilton, for governor, and twice has the Hon. Burn-His-Arm-Off declined the nomination. In each of the two conventions there were not as many delegates in attendance as there are counties in the state. It is plainly evident that the populist party of Alabama is dead, and the coroner had as well hold the inquest. Now will some one please tell us what it has accomplished for the farmers of the state during its brief existence? We can answer the question so far as Shelby county is concerned. It is a fact that no one is silly enough to deny that the people of this county are paying the highest taxes ever known in the history of the county. Are not the populist officials now holding office responsible? We have a road law in this county which is worse than a farce, and notwithstanding the large expenditure of money already made, the roads are in a worse condition today than they have been in years. Even now in mid-summer in some places they are almost impassable. Was not the gifted (?) Sturdivant the man who gave us this law? And what about the stock law? Are not Deans and Sturdivant responsible for its enactment? We might mention numerous other things the populists have done for us, but these are fair samples. May the good Lord deliver us from any more "reform" parties.

BE UP AND DOING.

From the Talladega News-Reporter.

It is a notable fact plain to close observers of mankind, that opportunities come to all to succeed and that the reason that all do not, is because these opportunities are neglected. The farmer who will keep each day's work done promptly as its duties come to him, will always be ready for rain or shine, drench or drought, as it comes. We do not mean that such will not bring him loss in some direction—what we do mean is that such loss will be met with equal or greater gain in some other direction. The same is true of the merchant, the professional man, the student and all sorts and classes of people. There is appointed but one time and place for every act in our lives. These times and places are all within our easy and reasonable reach. To perform each duty as it comes is not difficult. The Allwise has fitted our backs to the burden and he asks nothing near the impossible. On the contrary he asks us to do exactly that which is best for us. When we fill each task faithfully as it comes to us we are ready for the next one and no opportunity is lost. When we defer until tomorrow the work which belongs to today, we are not ready for the chances which tomorrow will bring, and the chance, not waiting for our pleasure, goes by and is gone forever. Therefore do not complain of your "luck" for there is no such thing as luck. If you aren't ready for the train (of circumstances) coming in on time, it is your fault and not the train's and when it goes off and leaves you in your slothful habits you have none to blame but yourself. Opportunities come and go with the swiftness of time. Each second brings one, each minute brings sixty, each hour brings thirty-six hundred. If you would catch them you must be awake and alert, for when they pass they are beyond your reach. Even could you call them back, you would not be safe in doing so, for fear of losing better ones that might come while you were chasing these. When you lose or waste time you are wasting opportunities. Horace Mann puts it beautifully thus: "Lost, yesterday, somewhere between sunrise and sunset, two golden hours, each set with sixty diamond minutes. No reward is offered for they are gone forever."

> "There is a time, we know not when,
> A place, we know not where,
> Which marks the destiny of men
> For Glory or Despair."

THUS FAR—NO FURTHER.

From the Atlanta Journal.

Some European newspaper and many of our own are talking about our interest in the prospective partition of China as if it was a foregone conclusion that we are to take a hand in the business.

He is a rash man who would predict what the McKinley administration, drunk with the new wine of imperialism, may do or at least attempt.

The uncertainty as to what extreme of innovation it may go in its foreign policy will be immensely increased if this administration shall be endorsed at the polls next November and commissioned for four more years' service.

If such a misfortune should befall the country we shall see the hand of imperialism show itself more clearly than it dare do now.

We need not waste time either in prognosticating what the dynasty now in power over us will do; in pleading with it to regard the old standards of our government or its own proclaimed faith and principles. If a great international strife, a world-war, should be brought on by the schemes of grasping and insatiate monarchies against China we shall not be surprised to see our government dragged into the conflict if those who now direct it continue to be dominant.

It is said that we have duties and obligations touching the Chinese question. So we have, but they are simple and involve only the assertion of our honor and self-respect. We are bound to protect the lives of our citizens in China and to prevent any restrictions upon our commerce in that quarter.

When we have done these two things we will have done our whole duty and will have cleaner hands and a brighter national escutcheon than we could show after participation in the conquest of China and the division of the spoils of a rapacious war.

MAKING CIRCUMSTANCES.

From the Talladega News-Reporter.

The course of affairs in China are so in line with President McKinley's policy of imperialism and militarism that one most naturally asks whether he has not had a hand in shaping them. Everybody remembers how bitterly he fought for a standing army of 150,000 men, and how congress consented only to 100,000 and that during the Philippine war. Now having gone hand in glove with the monarchies of Europe to crush out China and divide it up as so much booty, he knows soldiers will be needed and his favorite hobby of a great standing army will be a necessity. He knows that while the American people would rebel at the un-American practice of openly joining hands with kings to overthrow republics and inferior peoples; that we would sacrafice no soldiers in such an unholy warfare, yet he knows if he can hide the red hand in it and leaving the impression of right and justice, do these things inch by inch, that ultimately his object would be accomplished. "Vice is a monster of such frightful mien, that to be hated needs but to be seen. But seen too oft, familiar with her face, we first endure, then pity, then embrace." During the war between the states a "temporary" tariff "for emergency" was placed on imports. The people were promised that it would be removed immediately at the close of hostilities. Instead, when they had grown used to the burden it was increased and increased until all manner of pension, public building, subsidising, salary grabbing outrages had to be resorted to to keep down that surplus, unjustly taken from the working classes. The same has been true of the stamp act in the late war with Spain—it has piled up nearly a hundred millions, yet does anyone hear of its repeal? On the contrary new and ingenious schemes are being studied out by Hanna and his crowd to dissipate it and if possible increase the rate. This is the theory of imperialists—tax the common herd all it will stand—but by degrees—never releasing it from a former burden without having a heavier one to impose on it. This is the history of the republican party since its inception—every year has found its burdens to the citizen increasing. Mr. McKinley is in full line of action with his party, having out-heroded Herod in his term. Under his three years' reign combines of over six hundred lines and embracing billions of dollars in power have been organized to tax the people to penury and ultimately to slavery. During this time his administration has followed the same tactics of increasing the taxes of the individual and of turning his impoverished manhood to the field of conquest as a remedy. Paternalism in all its hydra-headed forms has been at work displacing liberty, individuality, honest enterprise and wholesome growth. And this last step of placing us as a nation in the nefarious work of riding down and butchering defenseless Chinamen, taking from them their lands, their government and their religion to satisfy an insatiable lust for power and territory is despicable beyond description. And to this under the guise of civilization and the cloak of christianity is unpardonable. We greatly fear our country as a nation has passed its zenith of usefulness and beauty and is now madly dashing down the path blazed out by Babylon and Rome, when all that is high and noble is sacrificed to greed, debauchery and national death. There is one hope which we trust in and that is the revolutionary spirit of our people who, once aware of their danger, will come to the rescue and overthrow the forces that are now most certainly leading them to destruction.

THE INCIDENT IS CLOSED.

From the New York Post.

There seems no reason to doubt the truth of the reports that Admiral Dewey has abandoned his presidential ambition. He is quoted as saying that he announced, some weeks ago, that he would serve the people if they wanted to have him, but that he now thanks God that they do not appear to want him. It has been suggested that he might accept a nomination for the second place, but his friends are sure that he would not. Even if he were willing, there are as yet no signs of much desire among the Bryanites to have his name on their ticket. The incident may, therefore, be considered closed. It was a surprising thing that a sailor who had appeared to be perfectly sincere in realizing his own unfitness for the presidency, and in disclaiming any desire for the office, should suddenly show that he wanted the place, and argue that he could fill it easily because the job was not a hard one. It is a thousand pities that he lacked advisers who could have restrained him from the folly which he committed in announcing his candidacy. The best thing now is to let the unhappy incident be forgotten as soon as may be.

Redlawn.

E. B. Teague, Jr., spent Sunday in Columbiana.

The rain is making the grass grow, and the farmers are heard early and late going to slay it.

Rev. E. B. Teague, D. D., was at Harpersville with relatives last week and this.

We are requested to announce that there will be an all-day singing at Fourmile the Fourth Sunday in July. All are cordially invited to come and bring well-filled baskets.

Honest Abe, of the Advocate, was blowing his horn rather loud last week. We would like to give him a little advice—not to blow so hard next time, for fear he might blow his brains out, and O how sorry one would be. He spoke of some one being touched. We do not care to touch him, for fear we would get our hands soiled; for he may be as filthy as he writes.

No preaching or Sunday school Sunday on account of the inclemency of the weather.

Mrs. J. H. Smith, of Wilsonville, was visiting here Saturday and Sunday last.

Our friend, W. T. Taylor, met with defeat in the primary, but it did not set him back an inch. He will carry the democratic flag on to victory. He is a true democrat and will stand to the party. He heartily endorses all the nominations made, and will be Charlie at the wheel in August.

Using printing office terms and entertaining no evil thoughts whatever, nor caring to offend our gentler readers, we would like to remark that when the "devil" writes anything the whole force catches "———."

An appeal has been taken from the decision of Judge Longshore in the stock law case of beat 10, and the trial will now be had in the circuit court before Judge Pelham. Pending its decision the law remains in full force and stock must be kept up as formerly.

Inclement weather prevented Montevallo's ball team from coming to this place Thursday last, and likewise on Monday of this week, the latter date being second choice. Both nines are anxious for the game, and will no doubt give us good ball when they meet.

We hope to see a big crowd at Calera tomorrow. The people of that town have been actively at work making preparations to entertain all who go. If the weather will permit no doubt a great many will take advantage of the opportunity to hear our gifted candidate and sure-to-be-elected governor.

Quite a nice crowd attended the Children's Day exercises at the Baptist church last Sunday night and thoroughly enjoyed the program presented by the children. All acted the parts assigned them in a most creditable manner. The singing by the choir was excellent, and especially the solos by Mr. Walthall and Miss Clyde Brand. A nice contribution for the Bible cause was given by the audience.

The democratic executive committee of Shelby county met in this place yesterday at noon. This being the new committee recently elected at the primary, the organization was perfected by the election of J. R. White as chairman and C. C. DuBose, secretary. A campaign committee was elected by this committee which is to conduct the campaign under its supervision and direction, after which an adjournment was taken until July 16, 1900.

The Children's Day exercises at the Methodist church on last Sunday morning was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience. The program consumed something over an hour and proved quite interesting. The children and others participating in the exercises acquitted themselves admirably and gave evidence of thorough training, as well as showing a proper conception of their parts. A neat sum for mission work was contributed by the audience.

That rain of yesterday which fell at this place was the heaviest experienced here in some time. It was a regular cloudburst, freshet, or something after that style, moved trash, caused houses to leak, made pigs and other quadrupeds to sing mournfully, and in fact dampened things generally and in short order. The sun tried to shine when the rain had suspended operations for awhile and the creeks were swollen, but its efforts culminated miserably. The dampness of this rain was not unlike the wetness of other water, but everybody save the printer had the privilege of resting from their labors, and that's why we have given so much space to an every-day occurence and endeavored to be so precise.

Last week THE CHRONICLE inadvertently made an error, which though entirely unintentional is misleading and might result in harm. We refer to the statement that the stock law of beat 10 was a thing of the past, and that cattle could now roam at will. While this is true looked at from one standpoint, it would result in great damage if people opposed to the law should turn out their stock before their neighbors were given an opportunity to rebuild their fences. These people took down their fences thinking the stock law was an established fact, and they could not place them back at this busy season when their entire time must be given to their crops. We know that considerable bitterness has been engendered over this stock law fight, but we advise the people to take a calm view of the situation, treat their neighbors as they would like to be treated, and in a short time this vexed problem will be amicably adjusted.

Sterrett Dots.

It has been quite awhile since we have seen any items from this place in your valuable paper, and by your consent I will try to give you a few of the happenings in this community.

T. M. Goodwin, of Oxmoor, visited his father and mother last Saturday and Sunday. His mother is quite old and has been sick and helpless for a long time.

Messrs. John Falkner, John Harding and Charlie Elliott, of Leeds, visited our town last Sunday.

Mrs. Hattie Stewart, who has been visiting her father, J. M. Payton, for several weeks, returned to her home at Brighton last Sunday.

J. A. Stewart and John W. Goodwin, of Brighton, came over to our town last Sunday. Mr. Stewart returned home Sunday evening.

We are sorry to state that little Nora, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Goodwin, is quite siok. We hope that it may soon recover its wanted health.

We are informed that Mrs. C. W. Baker is very low at this writing, and is not expected to recover.

Some measles and whooping cough in this community. All reported to be getting along tolerable well.

Since the primary thinned out the candidates 'tis not so dangerous to cut down timber, and the saw mill men are preparing to go to making lumber.

The ticket nominated by the democratic primary is the very medicine the doctor ordered, and the democrats will all take it, and if the sick populists and republicans will take the medicine it will surely cure them.

Rev. J. A. Butts filled his appointment here last Sunday, but on account of a washout on Central railway between the two tunnels the passenger train from Birmingham Saturday was some five hours late, and he did not get here in time for services on Saturday.

The heavy rains last Saturday did a lot of damage to crops and farms, washed away a lot of wheat, corn and cotton, and oats under water in Bear Creek bottoms, and washed away and tore up a lot of Sterrett Lumber Co's. tram road, also some for the Allen Lumber Co.

There is to be an all-day, old-time singing here at Beulah church on the fourth day of July by William Bradshaw, the blind singer, and all are invited to come and bring the old folks, young folks and little folks, and especially bring big baskets full of eatables. Other leaders of vocal music are invited to come and help on the good work.

S. M. Goodwin, of saw mill fame, is contemplating the manufacture of charcoal for the Shelby Iron Co. S. M. G. is a hustler, and when he gets started in the business he will move things.

Miss Lillie Parker, of near Birmingham, is visiting in the community.

J. F. Bates has been on the sick list several days, but is improving.

Mrs. H. M. Judge, of Birmingham, daughter of our clever Geo. W. Green, is visiting her father's family.

George Stewart, of Georgia, is visiting his sister, Mrs. B. H. Green.

Rev. Burns, of the Methodist church, delivered a very able sermon from the Baptist pulpit here last Sunday afternoon from James 1:25: "But whoso looketh unto the perfect love of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the word, this man shall be blessed in his deed." Brother Burns was accompanied by Rev. W. J. Simmons, of Harpersville. They will begin a protracted meeting here on the fourth Sunday night in July, and propose to organize a Methodist church at this place.

Rev. John Johnson, of the Protestant Methodist church, failed to fill his appointment here last Saturday and Sunday.

There will be an all-day singing at the Baptist church here on the first Sunday in July, which is the first day. Let everybody come who will behave themselves. We want no one who can't behave himself like a gentleman.

A washout on the railroad between here and Birmingham last Saturday caused the eastbound passenger train, which is due here at 10:26, to be about five hours late.

Shelby.

A unique church and social event was the Measure Party given by Mrs. Frank Finch on the night of the 21st. Forty dollars was realized, which we understand is to be added to a fund to buy a bell for the Methodist church. The Baptists have started a fund to procure a bell for their church.

Miss Nellie Hopkins, of Anniston, is visiting with Mrs. Sparks.

Mrs. Lanning and her two children, with Miss Sherrell are visiting with Mrs. Keifer.

A. T. Clarke, Jr., who has been ill, was able to be out and play his clarinet last Sunday at the Congregational church. As there were no other church services in town the congregations were large. Rev. A. T. Clarke spoke morning and night on Christian Joy—in the morning on its relation to duty.

Fourmile Items.

Politics is slipping over these parts very quite.

Our genial correspondent of the Advocate, Honest Abe, says there is but one place in the community where he would go. We are sorry to say that he will have to get a hump to get there more samer than he did when he ran the soles off his slippers and had to half-sole them.

We are glad to know there will be an all-day singing at Fourmile the fourth Sunday in July. Let us all attend with the purpose of singing, and also eating. May we all call upon Fourmile friends that day from far and near and make the singing worth going to hear.

We are glad to know that Henry Taylor and E. B. Lyon are dudes enough to go to church at Wilsonville and beat the boys there.

The people are living fat on blackberries and other fruits, but prospects for the future are cornbread and water, very little bread and plenty of water.

Some of our boys looked badly defeated Sunday after going to the Teague bridge on Yellow Leaf and could not cross.

We are glad to know that Willie Wingard found him a girl at Archer's town Sunday. We don't know her name, but the girl described by Willie was a handsome little lady, weight about 100 lbs, had curly hair, wore a blue dress, and is the prettiest girl in Shelby.

AMERICAN MARINES KILLED IN CHINA

State Department Receives Alarming News From Kempff.

ALLIES ARE BEATEN BACK

Combined Assault On Tien Tsin Was Unsuccessful.

"Acting Secretary Hackett has this morning received a dispatch from Admiral Kempff, dated Che Foo, June 22, to the effect that the marines under Major Walter, together with 400 Russians, have had an engagement with the Chinese army near Tien Tsin. They could not break through the line. A force numbering 2,000, the admiral reports, is now ready to make another attempt."

The main importance of this dispatch is Admiral Kempff's disclosure that it is the Chinese army, and not the Boxers, who are fighting the foreign troops.

A SECOND CABLEGRAM.

"A cablegram from Admiral Kempff, dated Che Foo, June 24th, says:

"In ambuscade near Tien Tsin, on the 21st, four of Waller's command killed and seven wounded. Names will be furnished as soon as received. Force of 2,000 going to relieve Tien Tsin today. KEMPFF."

The secretary of the navy has ordered Admiral Remey to go with the Brooklyn to Taku and to tender General MacArthur conveyance of any army troops which the Brooklyn can carry.

Admiral Kempff's dispatch giving hte first definite news of the shedding of American blood on Chinese soil came early Sunday morning and was turned over to Secretary Long as soon as he arrived at the department.

With Admiral Crowningshield, the secretary carried the dispatch to the white house, where, on the president's return from church, it was laid before him. The determination thereupon was reached to order Admiral Remey, in command of the Asiatic squadron, from Manila to Taku, on board the armored cruiser Brooklyn.

The secretary and Admiral Crowinshield returned to the navy department, where the necessary orders were dispatched to Admiral Remey. The effect of this transfer is to make Taku the headquarters of the Asiatic squadron. The Brooklyn is expected to sail at once, if possible, as the orders sent contemplate getting the admiral on the scene at the earliest moment.

PEKIN WHOLLY ISOLATED.

Advices of Monday from London state that the position of the international forces in the section of northern China, where 10,000 men are striving to keep a footing and succor the legations in Pekin, appears to increase in peril with every fresh dispatch. Pekin has not been heard from direct for fourteen days.

The last dispatch was one imploring aid. Admiral Seymour's column of 2,000 was last heard from twelve days ago. At that time it was surrounded midway between Pekin and Tien Tsin. Possibly now it has reached Pekin. The 3,000 internationals at Tien Tsin were hard pressed and fighting for their lives on Thursday and a relieving force of less than a thousand had been beaten back to Taku Friday. Observers on the spot think that 100,000 men would not be too many to grasp China firmly.

A message from Shanghai dated Sunday at 4 p. m. embodies some later information. It says:

"Official Japanese telegrams confirm the reports of a defeat of the allied forces at Tien Tsin. The foreigners there are placed in a most desperate situation.

"Among those killed of the relief force Friday was the commander of her majesty's ship Barfleur. The foreign casualities were 300.

Captain Beatty and Lieutenant Wright, British, have been severely wounded at Tien Tsin, according to a Shanghai dispatch to The London Daily Express, dated Saturday.

WAR IS SURELY ON.

Purpose of Empress Dowager Is No Longer Matter of Conjecture.

A London dispatch says: Matters in China appear to have reached the climax of seriousness, judging from the latest news. The announcement that Prince Tuan has assumed active command of the Chinese troops and the bombarding of Tien Tsin seems conclusive evidence that the dowager empress has declared war on the combined European powers and that the whole military strength of China is to be employed in behalf of "Boxers."

GERMAN MINISTER SAFE.

Report of Von Ketteler's Massacre Proves To Be Unfounded.

The Chinese minister at Berlin, Germany, Lu-Hai-Houan, has informed the foreign office that the German minister at Pekin, Baron Von Ketteler, who, it was reported, had been killed by the "Boxers," was safe and well.

Permitted To Carry Telegrams.

The British government has given permission to all British warships between Taku and Che Foo, China, to carry telegram.s

WILL DISCHARGE POSSE.

The Situation at St. Louis Seems To Be Quieting Down.

In accordance with instructions issued by the St. Louis board of police commissioners to Sheriff Pohlman Friday afternoon, the posse comitatatus will be reduced to 500 men.

Unless the situation grows worse the men will not be recalled until the Fourth of July, when it is expected about 1,500 men will be on duty.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

The Republicans of the United States, through their chosen representatives, met in National Convention, looking back upon an unsurpassed record of achievement, and looking forward into a great field of duty and opportunity, and appealing to the judgment of their countrymen, make these declarations:

The commission issued by the people in the last national election to the Republican party to restore prosperity by means of two legislative measures, a protective tariff and a law making gold the standard of value, has been faithfully executed. There is no longer controversy as to the value of any Government obligations. Every American dollar is a gold dollar or its assured equivalent, and American credit stands higher than that of any nation. Capital is fully employed and labor everywhere is profitably occupied.

The American people, sustained by the Republican administration, have conducted and in victory concluded a war for liberty and human rights. No thought of National aggrandizement tarnished the high purpose with which American standards were unfurled. It was a war unsought and patiently resisted, but when it came the American Government was ready. The quick and signal triumph of our forces on land and sea bore tribute to the courage of American soldiers and sailors and to the skill and foresight of Republican statesmanship. To ten millions of the human race there was given "A New Birth of Freedom," and to the American people a new and noble responsibility.

The administration of William McKinley is indorsed. President McKinley has been in every situation the true American patriot and the upright statesman, clear in vision, strong in judgment, firm in action, always inspiring and deserving the confidence of his countrymen.

Allegiance is renewed to the principle of the gold standard, and confidence is declared in the legislation establishing the gold basis by the Fifty-sixth Congress. Steadfast opposition to the free and unlimited coinage of silver is declared.

The necessity and propriety of honest co-operation of capital to meet new business conditions is recognized, but all conspiracies and combinations intended to create monopolies are condemned, and such legislation as will effectually restrain and prevent all such abuses is favored.

Faith in the policy of protection to American labor, by which industries have been established, diversified and maintained, is renewed. The associated policy of reciprocity is favored, as well as a more effective restriction of cheap labor from foreign lands.

The danger of our present dependence upon foreign shipping for nine-tenths of our foreign shipping is pointed out, and the necessity of national defence in the event of war is urged as a motive for legislation which will enable us to regain our former place among the trade-carrying fleets of the world.

Liberal pension laws and their liberal administration are favored.

Public improvements looking to the permanent improvement of the roads of the country are carefully approved.

Extension of the rural free delivery service wherever its extension may be justified is favored.

Home rule and the early admission to Statehood of the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma are indorsed.

The Dingley act, amended to provide sufficient revenue for the conduct of the war, has so well performed its work that it has been possible to reduce the war debt to the sum of $40,000,000. The country is now justified in expecting, and it will be the policy of the Republican party to bring about a reduction of the war taxes.

The efforts of the Administration to secure the open door in China are commended.

President McKinley's policy in regard to the Samoan difficulties, whereby every American interest was safeguarded, is especially commended.

The part taken by our Government in the Peace Conference at the Hague is approved, steadfast adherence to the policy announced in the Monroe Doctrine is asserted, and the hope that an honorable peace may soon prevail in South Africa is expressed.

In accepting, by the Treaty of Paris, the just responsibilities of our victories in the Spanish War, the President and the Senate won the undoubted approval of the American people. No other course was possible than to destroy Spain's sovereignty throughout the West Indies and in the Philippine Islands. The largest measure of self-government consistent with their welfare and our duties shall be secured to them by law. To Cuba independence and self-government were assured in the same voice by which war was declared, and to the letter this pledge shall be performed.

The Republican party upon its history and upon this declaration of its principles and policies confidently invokes the considerate and approving judgment of the American people.

The State Supreme Court of Missouri has released William B. Thayer from payment of a fine under conviction in Kansas City for violation of the Department Store License law. The court declared the law unconstitutional.

JENNINGS WINS THE NOMINATION

CONTEST WAS SPIRITED

On the thirtieth ballot a stampede was attempted for Mays, his vote being jumped up from 38 to 122½. His strength was drawn from Beggs, Myers and Milton, only 14 votes leaving Jennings in the stampede. Myers dropped out of the race after the thirtieth ballot, though no formal withdrawal was made.

On the forty-first ballot Mays withdrew in favor of Milton; on the forty-third ballot Beggs withdrew, and on the forty-fourth ballot William S. Jennings received the required two-thirds vote and his nomination was made unanimous amid a scene of wild enthusiasm.

The nominee is a first cousin of William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska. He is a native of Illinois, but removed to Florida in 1886. He is thirty-seven years old.

W. N. Sheats, superintendent of public instruction.

Hon. B. E. McLin, commissioner of agriculture.

John L. Morgan, railroad commissioner.

This is the last state Democratic convention that will be held in Florida for many years, probably, as the platform adopted provides for primaries for United States senator down.

BRYAN'S OPINION

Of the Republican Platform Adopted At Philadelphia.

When asked his opinion of the Philadelphia platform, Colonel Bryan said:

"The Philadelphia platform is the best evidence thus far given of the deception attempted by the Republican party. Taking in connection with the speeches made at the convention, it shows that the Republican party's platform of 1896 was a deliberate fraud as far as the promises of international bimettalism was concerned; that the party's attitude on the trust question is insincere and that the party is not willing to state its attitude on the Philippine question and invite the judgment of the people."

AMERICANS FORCED BACK.

Filipinos Successfully Resist Detachment of Forty Men.

The Americans' attempts to charge were frustrated by the Filipinos' pitfalls and troops. The advance line consequently was under a heavy fire in front and on its flanks, and fell back on Cagayan. The American loss was nine men killed and two officers and ten men wounded.

CUBAN TEACHERS EN ROUTE

To Visit Boston and Receive a Course of General Instruction.

Quartermaster General Ludington received word Saturday of the departure of the transport McPherson from Manzanillo, Cuba, with 250 Cuban teachers bound for Boston by way of the eastern ports of Cuba. This movement makes the beginning of the general movement of about 2,500 teachers from Cuban ports to Boston, where they are to receive a general course of instruction during the summer under the auspices of the Harvard university.

SAFE BLOWER EMPLOYED.

To Open Vaults of the Kentucky State Treasury.

A dispatch from Frankfort, Ky., says: The inside steel doors of the cash and bond boxes in the state treasurer's vaults, the combinations of which were lost when the new state treasurer took charge of the office, were opened Friday. Frankfort machinists had been at work on the doors for three days and made no progress. Friday morning a message was sent to the penitentiary for a convict that could blow open a safe. Frank Simmons was selected by the prison authorities as the best man to do the job. He opened the safe in thirty minutes.

Ex-Convicts Sent Back.

Joseph Mullet and James Fitzharris, the Irishmen, who served sentences in an English prison for complicity in the Phoenix Park murders and who arrived at New York on May 27th last, were deported Saturday on the Cunard steamship Servia.

Captured Chinese Ships.

A rumor is current in naval circles at Kiel that a German cruiser has forced one Chinese ship ashore and captured another, and that fifty Chinese were killed and seventy wounded.

COURT FINES ROBERTS.

Utah Man Must Pay $150 Or Serve 150 Days In Jail.

In the case at Salt Lake, Utah, of B. H. Roberts, found guilty of unlawful cohabitation, the judgment of the court was that he pay a fine in the sum of $150 or in lieu thereof that he be imprisoned in the county jail for a period of 150 days. A thirty days' stay was granted in order that the defendant might file a bill of exceptions.

HUNTING FOR PEARLS.

Two Stars in This Perilous Line of Work.

Two famous pearl divers recently visited San Francisco to buy a large quantity of air pumps, diving suits and like paraphernalia of the sea. Opu and Taipu are their names, and they are generally regarded as stars in their perilous line of work. They were born on one of the islands of the Dangerous archipelago group. They speak good English, however, and both are thoroughly familiar with the civilization of West Australia, where they have spent most of their lives as pearl hunters, says the New York Telegraph. Taipu is the principal native pearl merchant of the many hundreds who have embarked in the trade since the natives of the Paumotu islands first dabbled in that form of commerce. He owns a pearling dredger and a ship; both are engaged in the trade in southwestern waters. His ship, however, is a mere hulk that travels less than ninety miles along the coast. They depend principally upon pearl shells for income, since to stake earnings on the pearls alone would be to invite loss. Valuable pearls are not frequent enough to make it pay, but the commercial mother-of-pearl is made from the shells that they deal in. When it comes to hunting for the real pearl there is not any kind of a scoop or dredger than can take the place of men's eyes; diving and treading the deep is the only way to find valuable pearls. As a rule, these are some distance apart, scattered over the rocky bed of the ocean. Sometimes a man will pick up a fortune in a few weeks and sometimes he will hardly make expenses in a season. Pearling is still profitable, for the crude shells are sold at from $500 to $750 a ton, and there is always a chance that a diver may make enough in one day to quit for life. "We do not dive farther than sixty to 100 feet," said Opu, "for the pressure is too great. Even at these depths men cannot remain down over five or ten minutes, and the average life of the deep diver is short."

QUEER ORDER FOR SEAMEN.

English Jackies Obliged to Blacken Up on Certain Occasions.

A regular order on board certain of England's vessels of war, and one delivered by an officer with his own hands and face artistically blacked, is, "All hands black faces!" When, either during the maneuvers or in war time, it is determined that torpedo or gunboats shall attack at night, every living soul on board is ordered to black up of the same dingy color as is borne by the whole vessel or all its outward parts, for the single speck of light color afforded by one human face might spoil the whole plan of a desperate attack. All the officers of torpedo vessels and gunboats keep, as a part of their kit, a special pigment, of very much the same kind as that used by stage darkies, ever ready for emergencies, and one torpedo order book has special recommendations as to blacking up for the men. Then, again, all steam launch and boats' crews ordered off on mining, reconnoitering and other duties are compelled to blacken all parts of their skins that may show; and no man is exempt, however high his degree in the service. Military officers defending harbors and working torpedoes from the shore are also ordered on no account to show themselves at night near the defenses unless blackened up.

Queer Money.

Europeans trading in China are reduced to great straits for money. English gold will always pass; but is scarce. In large trading undertakings, bars of pure gold, weighing thirteen ounces are recognized as official exchange. Gold leaf is used by bankers for smaller amounts. Inland, where gold of any kind is rarely seen, horseshoe-shaped pieces of silver, weighing five to fifty ounces, are used. Some trading corporations have been forced to issue bank notes and tokens made of bamboo slips; but the mistrustful Chinaman is very chary of accepting these, so their circulation is limited to one town, sometimes to a single street. In the new colony of Urganda, west of the great African lakes, there was practically no coinage but shells. As these are bulky, and therefore inconvenient, Europeans have started a new system. Needles and cloth are now current everywhere. Three needles will purchase one chicken, one needle two eggs, whilst a cow cost fifty yards of cotton cloth. Shells, however, continue to do duty as small change, as many as a hundred going to one needle.

TO WOMEN WHO DOUBT.

Every Suffering Woman Should Read this Letter and be Convinced that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Does Cure Female Weakness.

"I have been troubled with female weakness in its worst form for about ten years. I had leucorrhœa and was so weak that I could not do my housework. I also had falling of the womb and inflammation of the womb and ovaries and at menstrual periods I suffered terribly. At times my back would ache very hard. I could not lift anything or do any heavy work; was not able to stand on my feet. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for doctors but they did me no good. After a time I concluded to try your medicine and I can truly say it does all that you claim for it to do.

Ten bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and seven packages of Sanative Wash have made a new woman of me. I have had no womb trouble since taking the fifth bottle. I weigh more than I have in years; can do all my own housework, sleep well, have a good appetite and now feel that life is worth living. I owe all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel that it has saved my life and would not be without it for anything. I am always glad to recommend your medicine to all my sex, for I know if they follow your directions, they will be cured."—MRS. ANNIE THOMPSON, South Hot Springs, Ark.

SAD STATE OF CAPTURED BOERS

Cronje Was a Beaten But Not a Crushed Foe.

The thing was gallantly done, and we may all well be proud of this achievement of the Canadians. An examination of the laager disclosed a state of affairs which it would be impossible to describe. The wreckage and confusion were bad enough, but the filth and stench were such as to make one feel sick, says a London News correspondent. Within a space of 100 yards lay over forty dead horses and a half dozen dead oxen. Men themselves were only buried six inches beneath the soil. No regard had been paid to sanitary arrangements at all. They drank the water within a few feet of a petrifying carcass. Wounded men lay about uncared for, their wounds undressed, left to look after themselves. In most cases gangrene had set in. Slight scratches, which with ordinary care would have entailed two days' rest only, had developed, into huge ulcerated cancerous sores. Our doctors, who took charge of over two hundred such cases, declare that nine-tenths must die. Compared to the horrible conditions under which the Boers had for the past ten days lived, our fire was mere child's play. It proves the indomitable pluck—call it obstinacy if you like—of Cronje. It was only the general who made the men hold out so long. The prisoners for most part seemed pleased when taken. Cronje was sullen; a beaten but not crushed foe. To us it felt like death to remain five minutes in the place where the Boers had spent ten days. One's stomach turned against the fetid stench of rotting bodies. For a day one could not get the smell out of one's nostrils. Yet the prisoners declare that had it not been for the Canadians getting so close to them they would have held out for some days yet; and with food it would have been weeks before they would have surrendered, it may be interesting to say that one prisoner told me that they knew that we were longing to wipe out Majuba, and that they thought that if they allowed us to charge with the bayonet none of them would be allowed to live, even had they shot our soldiers down by hundreds. The Boers, besides having a wholesome dread of cold steel, is capable of arguing with himself.

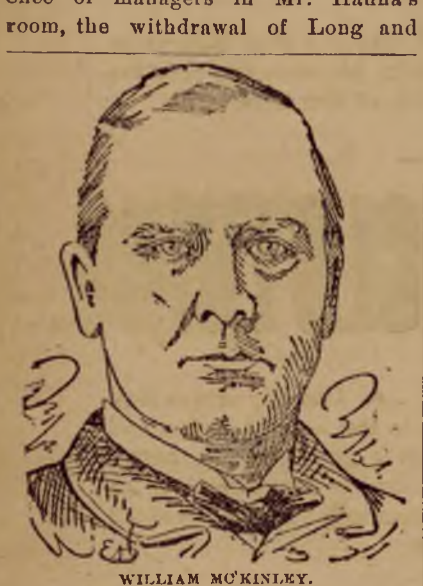
PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—(Special.)—The Republican National Convention Thursday nominated William McKinley for President and Theodore Roosevelt for Vice-President of the United States, and at 2:14 o'clock in the afternoon adjourned sine die. The nominations were made unanimously and amid scenes of the wildest enthusiasm. Roosevelt's was the only name presented to the convention for vice-president and it swept the vast assemblage like wild fire.

A bright and cloudless sky, with a cool and bracing northeasterly breeze, gave ideal conditions for the third and closing day of the Republican National Convention. After all the smoke of the skirmish of the last few days, the conventioners awoke in the morning with a common belief that McKinley and Roosevelt would be the ticket of 1900.

The exciting scenes before midnight Wednesday night, the conference of managers in Mr. Hanna's room, the withdrawal of Long and Dollivar and the disappearance of every other obstacle in the path of Roosevelt's triumphant nomination, and finally the formal, measured announcement of Senator Hanna that in his judgment, after a complete review of the conditions, Governor Roosevelt should be nominated by acclamation—these series of events dispelled the very last vestige of doubt as to the ticket.



WILLIAM MC'KINLEY.

As delegates and leaders appeared in the hotel lobbies Thursday they shook hands and congratulated each other as gladiators after a hard fought battle, and all agreed that nothing remained but for the convention formally to carry out what had already been registered as its unmistakable will.

The programme was the most attractive one of the session, with the nominating speeches and the two nominations by acclamation.

At 10:36 Chairman Lodge glanced at his watch and then, with three raps of the historic gavel, stilled the tumult on the floor while the band played, the entire audience rising as the inspiring strains reverberated through the building. As the anthem closed, the chairman announced the opening invocation by Archbishop Ryan.

When the striking figure of the Archbishop at the finish of the prayer disappeared from the throng on the stage, the vast assemblage sank to its seats and the gavel fell to make quiet for the practical work of the convention.

Mr. Lodge advanced to the front of the platform and a thrill went through the vast audience as he announced:

"Under the rules, nominations for the office of president of the United States are now in order."

There was a momentary shout, which the chairman punctured by the announcement:

This was the signal for the recognition of Senator Foraker, who was to make the speech nominating Mr. McKinley as the republican candidate for president. Then the cheers begun and a wild scene ensued. Amidst a tumult of of applause Senator Foraker went to the platform, and when quiet was restored began to speak.

Briefly Senator Foraker adverted to the record of the president in peace and war as one of the most remarkable in American history. The reference to the great leader of the party, the successes already achieved by him and the grave responsibilities now being carried forward by him, made applause frequent and long continued, but it remained for his closing sentence, for the first time mentioning William McKinley by name as the nominee, to electrify the great multitude.

Pandemonium broke loose. Former tempests of enthusiasm paled before this cyclone of sound and movement. Every one stood and waved and yelled. State standards were wrenched from their places and borne aloft with umbrellas, great plumes of red, white and blue forming a perfectly tempestuous sea of color.

Senator Hanna sprang to the front of the stage, a flag in one hand and a plume in the other, and led in the tremendous demonstration.

Senator Foraker's nominating speech was followed by those of Governor Roosevelt, Senator Thurston, Yerkes, of Kentucky, and Gov. Mount of Indiana. As Governor Mount closed his speech the convention again demanded a vote and the chair announced that the roll of states would be called for to vote on nomination for President. At 12:37 the vote began.

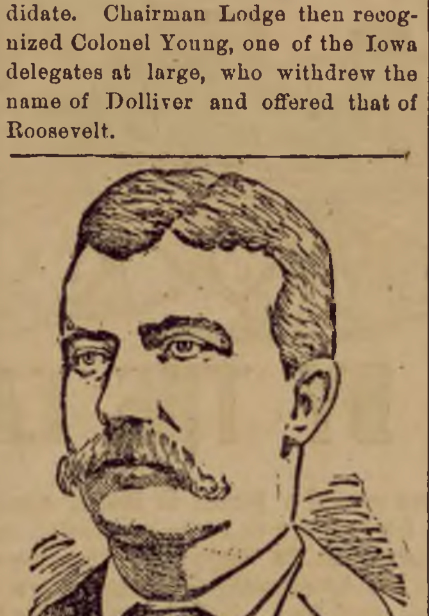
The tally clerks quickly made the official summary and handed it to the chairman. Mr. Lodge took the paper and, advancing to the front of the stage, said:

"The total vote cast is 930. William McKinley has received 930 votes. It is an unanimous vote, and the chairman declares that William McKinley is your nominee for the Presidency beginning March 4, 1901."

Now again pandemonium broke loose in one swelling chorus of enthusiasm for the candidate.

The demonstration in honor of the president's nomination lasted five minutes, and the chairman called for order for further events in store.

Mr. Lodge announced that the call of states would proceed for nominations for the vice-presidency. As the name of Alabama was called on the roll of states for the nomination of candidates for vice-president the announcement was made by the chairman of the delegation that Alabama would yield to Iowa to present a candidate. Chairman Lodge then recognized Colonel Young, one of the Iowa delegates at large, who withdrew the name of Dolliver and offered that of Roosevelt.



THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

The demonstration which followed the announcement of Colonel Young of Governor Roosevelt as the candidate of the young men of the country who represented their ambitions and embodied their patriotism and Americanism was not second to that accorded the president's name.

"Roosevelt," "Teddy" Roosevelt came from all quarters of the hall. The Governor sat unmoved, fanning himself desperately and shaking his head negatively at the calls for his appearance.

At the conclusion of the call, chairman Lodge announced that Governor Roosevelt had received 925 votes, one delegate in the convention not voting. This delegate was Governor Roosevelt himself.

Jones, Hearst and Cook Confer With Nebraskan In Chicago.

Three Former Bryan Supporters Subscribe to Republican Fund.

Governor Heber M. Wells, Thomas Kearns and Charles E. Loose, three of the six delegates from Utah, announce that they have each forwarded checks for $50,000 to Chairman Hanna as a contribution to the campaign fund. MORE BODIES RECOVERED.

The Death List in the Georgia Wreck May Reach Forty.

Thirty-seven bodies have been recovered from the wreckage of the Southern train which went into a washout, one mile and a half from McDonough, Saturday night. Three bodies were found Monday. They were D. Y. Griffith, supervisor; W. L. Morrisette, superintendent pumping station; J. H. Hunnicutt, freight conductor, and the charred pieces of two other bodies.

Many bodies of the dead have not been identified, and these remain at the undertaking establishments, waiting to be claimed by relatives or friends. The latter are principally bodies of negro section hands who were killed.

The number of the gang which was making its way to do repair work on the Georgia Midland & Gulf railroad is not known. All of them perished. It is supposed to have numbered about fifteen, which will make the total casualties about forty.

STORM IN TEXAS.

Two Lives Lost and Many Houses Were Wrecked in Beaver County.

A special from Guthrie, O. T., says: A local paper has the following account of a cyclone in Beaver county. Nothing further can be learned of it, nor any confirmation obtained.

Report says a terrific cyclone passed over Beaver county Sunday night, killing two men, injuring three and destroying much property. The dead are: Abe Wright, ranch manager; Henry Bradwell, a farmer.

William Hasberger, aged 15, and Mrs. Paul Rhodes were seriously injured. The county was swept for twenty miles, and twenty-five houses were blown over, trees uprooted and damaged to growing crops. Big herds of cattle were stampeded and many of them injured and killed.

FORCES ENTER TIEN TSIN.

Admiral Kempff Says Small Loss Was Sustained.

A cable message from Chee Foo says: Rear Admiral Kempff reported by a Japanese torpedo boat that the combined forces entered Tien Tsin on Saturday, June 23, sustaining small loss. They started on Sunday to relieve the force which left Tien Tsin on June 10, and which is believed to be surrounded near Pekin.

According to Japanese reports Admiral Seymour has been captured and the ministers have left Pekin guarded by Chinese soldiers. Their whereabouts is unknown.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow has been relieved from further work in Cuba and has sailed for home.

Kentucky Is Affected.

The troubles in China are beginning to affect the remote districts of Kentucky mountains in the ginseng trade, by which hundreds of people make a living. Ever since the Boxers began their outrages the price of ginseng has been dropping. A month ago it was quoted at $3.75; Monday it was down to $2.25 a pound for the Kentucky product—the lowest price in four years.

BOXERS KILL FOREIGNERS

Fifteen Hundred Are Said to Have Been Massacred.

"Eight hundred Americans are taking part in the fight at Tien Tsin," says the Shanghai correspondent of the London Daily Express, cabling Friday evening, "and they apparently form a part of a supplementary force, arriving with Germans and British after the conflict started. It is impossible to estimate the number of Chinese, but they had a surprising number of guns."

This information appears to have been brought by the United States gunboat Nashville to Che Foo and telegraphed thence to Shanghai. The Chinese are deserting Shanghai in large numbers and going into the interior. Reports from native sources continue to reach Shanghai of anarchy in Pekin. According to these tales the streets are filled day and night with Boxers, who are wholly beyond the control of the Chinese troops, and who are working themselves up to a frenzy and clamoring for the death of all foreigners.

A special dispatch from Shanghai received in London Friday saying it was reported from Japanese sources that 1,500 foreigners have been massacred at Tien Tsin caused great comment, but the statement lacked official confirmation.

On June 17 the Chinese shelled the foreign settlement and the Chinese military college was attacked by a mixed force of 175 Austrians, British, German and Italians. They destroyed the guns and burned the college which contained a considerable store of ammunition and killed its defenders. The Russians, with their four heavy guns, did excellent service. The British loss was one man killed and five men wounded. The Germans had one killed, the Italians had five men wounded, and the Russians had seven men killed and five wounded.

The consuls at Shanghai still believe the foreign ministers at Pekin safe, although Japanese reports received at Shanghai allege that up to June 15th 100 foreigners had been killed in Pekin.

A Washington special says: The only news from China laid before the cabinet meeting Friday was a telegram to the secretary of the navy, giving the movements of vessels in Chinese waters. The text of the message, however, was not made public.

That the president and the members of the cabinet regard the situation in China as extremely critical is shown by the fact that preliminary preparations are being made to send forward additional troops in case of need.

A telegram was sent to General MacArthur Friday afternoon asking him how large a force he can spare should it become necessary to send them to China.

The administration is endeavoring to stimulate the dispatch of troops and naval re-enforcements to China to meet the emergensy at Tien Tsin. The emergency described in Admiral Kempff's dispatches has led the war department to make an extra effort to hurry forward the Ninth regiment from Luzon to Taku. The war department is now determined that this movement shall be hastened.

There is also good reason to believe that the authorities will dispatch at least one other regiment from Manila to China with the least possible delay.

The United States consulate at Tien Tsin, which late news advices report to have been destroyed, is situated far up on the Meadows road, which runs up from the Pei Ho river directly through the center of the town. It is far removed from any of the other consulates and practically isolated from all other foreign buildings.

A recent census of Tien Tsin shows the foreign population to be about 1,000 persons, including 110 Americans. Thus the report from Japanese sources that 1,500 foreigners at Tien Tsin had been massacred would seem to be untrue or grossly exaggerated in point of numbers.

President Loubet, at Paris, Friday, received the national commissioners at Elysee palace. They assembled there, and when the entire party had arrived they proceeded to the audience room led by United States Ambassador Palmer. President Loubet addressed the commissioners, expressing his pleasure in meeting them and his gratitude to President McKinley.

LATE STATE NEWS.

Movement of Alabama Democrats on Kansas City Begun.

The movement of Alabama democrats on Kansas City has begun, says a Birmingham dispatch, and by Sunday night all Alabamians who purpose attending the National Democratic convention will have begun the journey westward. It is expected that most of the delegates and alternate delegates, as well as many visitors, will gather in Birmingham on Saturday and Sunday, and will travel to the convention over the Kansas City and Louisville and Nashville routes.

While there has been apparently no concert of action and comparatively little discussion regarding the democratic vice-presidential nomination, the sentiment of the delegates and of the public seems to favor David Bennett Hill. Party leaders do not appear to be anxious to hazard guesses, but the trend of opinion is towards Mr. Hill—"if he will accept," as everybody adds. The Alabamians appear to prefer to wait until they reach Kansas City before determining on their course.

Selma Agency Abolished.

The Selma division freight agency, established at Selma by the Southern railway, when that system bought the Mobile and Birmingham, of which Mr. Frank G. Bowder has been the head, will be abolished on the 1st of July. Mr. J. W. Hunter will be named as commercial agent and the division tacked on to that now supervised by Division Freight Agent George Browder, of Birmingham.

Solicitorship in Demand.

There are now seven applicants for the office of county solicitor of Bibb county. W. W. Shortridge, of Woodstock; T. S. Dark and W. H. Logan, of Blocton; J. T. Fuller, W. W. Lavender, Cato D. Glover and J. F. Thompson, of Centerville, have already applied for the appointment, and other applications are expected.

Alabamian Killed in Philippines.

Corporal Jesse Moody, of the Fortieth volunteer infantry, stationed in Manila, was killed near Tagayan by Filipino insurgents, June 20. Corporal Moody was born in Scottsboro and was the only son of Mrs. Captain W. J. Jackson. He was a splendid young man, wealthy and highly connected.

THIRTY DEAD IN BAD WRECK

Fast Southern Train Goes Headlong Into Washout.

SCENE A HORRIBLE ONE

Passenger train No. 7, on the Southern road, due in Atlanta at 9:45 p. m., ran into a washout over Camp creek Saturday night at 9:30 o'clock one mile and a half north of McDonough, Ga., which is twenty miles south of Atlanta, and thirty-one people were killed outright.

The train left Macon on schedule time. It was made up of an engine, No. 864, and three cars. The car next to the engine was a combination affair, part of it being used for baggage and part of it for passengers. The next coach was a first-class passenger coach, while the third one was a Pullman car.

The run from Macon to McDonough was made in a heavy storm which had been prevailing for many hours. At McDonough the usual stop was made, and the train pulled out for Atlanta. One mile and a half north of McDonough was a culvert over Camp creek, which had stood the storms for many years. Either a cloudburst or the heavy rush of the waters after dark Saturday night washed away quite a section, leaving an immense gap.

The train rushing along plunged wildly into this gap, and in a second the tender was piled upon the engine and the cars upon cars in an extricable mass.

Immediately after the cars went down fire began to spread among them, and what destruction the fall did not accomplish, the flames about completed.

Of the thirty-one killed, all except two were lifeless bodies when rescued from the flames, the scalding steam, and the raging waters of the creek, swollen by heavy rains into a torrent. Only nine persons were rescued. None of them are seriously injured.

The wreck is said by railroad officials who visited the scene to the most disastrous in the history of the state.

Only a few moments were required to arouse the people of McDonough to the fact that the most horrible railroad wreck the state had ever known had occurred within two miles of their town.

The scene when they reached the place where the accident occurred beggared description. All that remained of the train was a mass of ruins that in the dim light appeared to be only a mass of splinters.

A number of thrilling rescues were made. The manner in which the only two women were rescued was remarkable. Miss Mary B. Merritt is of Boston, where she is a teacher in a school of oratory. She and her pupil, Miss Clara Alden, also of Boston, had been visiting in Macon and were en route to Boston. Both occupied berths in the Pullman. When the plunge was made they found their end of the car almost entirely submerged. Going upon the platform, which was an exhibition of nerve since the water was almost to their chins, they climbed to the roof of the Pullman and walked up the inclined car to the further end, where they stood calling for help. They were the first to be rescued. A rope was thrown, which each in turn grasped and in that manner were carried safely to the point from which the cars had fallen.

The list of those killed is as follows:

Passengers—W. W. Iparks, W. F. Maddox, George W. Flournoy, W. J. Pate, Jesse Pate, aged 13, son of W. J. Pate—all of Atlanta, Ga.

D. C. Hightower, Stockbridge, Ga.

J. L. Florida, Nashville, Tenn.

The crew—J. Sullivan, engineer of the wrecked train, Atlanta; W. A. Barclay, conductor; H. R. Cressman, conductor of Pullman on the wrecked train; W. H. Green, fireman; W. W. Bennett, baggage master.

Employees of the road who were on fatal train—J. H. Hunnicut, conductor, Atlanta; J. E. Wood, conductor, Atlanta; G. Y. Griffith, supervisor, Flovilla, Ga.; W. R. Lawrence, foreman, Stockbridge, Ga.; W. O. Ellis, bridgeman, Stockbridge, Ga.; John Brantley, fireman, Atlanta; J. H. Rhodes, flagman; W. I. Morrissette, repairer, Pocahontas, Va.; Ed Byrd, negro fireman; Robert Spencer, negro porter.

Unidentified—Bodies of four white men; one supposed to be Robert Buchanan, of Atlanta, and one G. M. Seewall, of Chicago; bodies of five negro men.

FREE STATERS

A London special of Friday says: General Steyn's forces in the Orange River colony are for the time drawing most of the attention of Lord Roberts, rather to the neglect of Commandant General Louis Botha and President Kruger.

The severance between the Transvaal and Orange River colony was completed Thursday, as Lord Roberts said it would be, by the arrival of General Buller's advance guard, under Lord Dundonald, at Standerson.

The wide net around the 6,000 or 8,000 men under General Steyn will now contract. Adroit maneuvering and brisk fighting are likely to take place, because until all resistance south of the Vaal is at an end the British line of communication will not be safe.

President Kruger's sons, who surrendered to General Baden-Powell, are back on their farms working peacefully. General Baden-Powell rode with only 300 men from Mafeking, and he made the last section of this ride to Pretoria with only thirty-five. Lord Roberts met him in the outskirts of the town and escorted him to the presidency.

The Netherlands Railroad Company of South Africa has received official notification of the expulsion from the Transvaal of 100 of its employees with their families. The Dutch consul at Lourenzo Marques telegraphs that a proclamation has been issued to the effect that the company's officials who refuse to do British military work will be sent back to Europe via east London, Cape Colony.

Advices from Lourenzo Marques state that President Kruger's principal condition for immediate peace is that he be allowed to stay in the country. There are 50,000 British sick and wounded at Pretoria. Mrs. Reitz, wife of the Transvaal state secretary, and her family, who arrived at Lourenzo Marques en route for Europe, had so little money that the Dutch consul purchased second class steamship tickets for them.

RUSSIA APPLIES CENSORSHIP.

Newspaper Correspondents Are Put Under Strict Rule.

The Vienna correspondent of The London Daily Express says that the Russian minister of the interior, M. Sipaguine, has issued the following instructions for the guidance of newspapers in dealing with the far eastern situation:

"1. No reference to the movement of Russian troops or warships.

"2. Papers must bear in mind that the czar is actuated only by a desire to maintain peace and a good will among the nations.

"3. No gossip about differences among the powers that would be displeasing to the government.

"4. No criticism of Russian diplomacy or of military or naval strategy.

"6. Comparisons may be made between Russian and foreign troops and seamen when unfavorable to foreigners."

FOR HAWAIIAN BANK.

United States Coin Shipped to Honolulu Per Steamer.

The steamer China sailed from San Francisco Friday for the Orient with a large number of passengers, among them Macfarlen and Brenner, of the treasury department, who have $750,000 in United States coin to deposit in the American bank at Honolulu. The institution will become the first national bank of Hawaii. The funds are to be used in paying outstanding bonds of Hawaiians.

Big Blaze In Pittsburg.

Fire in Pittsburg, Pa., Friday, destroyed eight buildings in the principal business block of the city causing a loss aggregating $250,000.

ACT OF PROVIDENCE.

Southern Railroad Officials Have No Other Explanation of Wreck.

Southern railway officials who could be induced to talk about the wreck near McDonough, Ga., Saturday night, were very guarded in their statements. They claim that the washout was due to no inherent weakness in the solidity of the roadbed or the trestle spanning the creek into which the train was plunged. Superintendent Jones, of the Macon division, on which the wreck occurred, refers to the affair as "one of the inevitable acts of God."

Taylor to Stump State.

The Kentucky Republican leaders are talking of bringing ex-Governor Taylor to the state to make speeches this fall. It is thought he would make a canvass in the eastern part of the state, where it is certain no attempt would be made to arrest him.

More Allied Troops.

COMMITTEE MEETING POSTPONED.

COLUMBIANA, ALA, June 25, 1900.
The meeting of the democratic executive committee of the Fourth Congressional district is postponed until the 3rd day of July, 1900, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The committee will meet at Shelby Springs.

C. C. DuBOSE, Secretary.
F. W. GIST, Chairman.

BILLY and Teddy. Both are "rough riders" as far as the interests of the people are concerned.

WILLIAM McKINLEY, the father of trusts, and Roosevelt, the daring "rough rider," is the ticket named at Philadelphia. A good pair—to beat.

IF YOU want a striking illustration of what a woman can do in politics turn your eyes to the far East and see what a rumpus the Chinese Empress has kicked up. We don't care to see any further experiments in this line.

MASTER SIMMONS, a thirteen-year-old boy of Atlanta, is vice-president of one of the principal street railway companies of the United States. Of course he had a "pull," but he learned early in life how to use it, and he evidently pulled it for all it was worth.

LAST week in our rush to get the election returns and the ticket in the paper we overlooked the coroner. Mr. Geo. R. Vasser, of this place, received the nomination, and his name has been added to the ticket. He is a life-long democrat and is well qualified to fill the position.

THE meeting of the congressional executive committee has been postponed until next Tuesday. The committee has never received any official notification of the recent action of the state executive committee reversing its action in calling a primary and commanding it to order a convention. For that reason the meeting was put off until such official notification should be received.

THE Chinese situation is critical in the extreme. Unless the present uprising is promptly checked and effectually put down by the Chinese government, there is no predicting the final outcome. If war should be declared as now seems likely it will be a long and costly one, for it is no small matter to conquor four hundred million people. Let us hope that wise counsel may prevail and the horrible butchery called war may be averted.

SOME of the leading populists of Shelby county claim to be dreadfully opposed to the disfranchisement of the negro, and yet they know that the poor white men of the county are already disfranchised, and not a murmur of disapproval have we heard. Isn't this patriotism with a whoop? It is a fact known of all men that in order to vote on the stock law question a man must be a property holder. If he is poor he can not vote. Is he not disfranchised and his mouth closed when his financial interests are at stake? Who gave us this magnificent law? Deans and Sturdivant, the friends of the poor man.

CHAIRMAN WHITE publishes a letter in this issue addressed to J. P. Pearson, chairman of the populist committee, inviting a full and free discussion of all political issues in joint debate. A letter of similar import was also sent to W. W. Walls, chairman of the republican committee. What the democrats want is a calm, dispassionate discussion, participated in by representatives of all parties, and allow the people to decide for themselves as to how they will cast their votes. We hope the invitation will be accepted in the spirit it is offered.

TWICE have a handful of populists met in what they called a state convention and nominated S. M. Adams, of Chilton, for governor, and twice has the Hon. Burn-His-Arm-Off declined the nomination. In each of the two conventions there were not as many delegates in attendance as there are counties in the state. It is plainly evident that the populist party of Alabama is dead, and the coroner had as well hold the inquest. Now will some one please tell us what it has accomplished for the farmers of the state during its brief existence? We can answer the question so far as Shelby county is concerned. It is a fact that no one is silly enough to deny that the people of this county are paying the highest taxes ever known in the history of the county. Are not the populist officials now holding office responsible? We have a road law in this county which is worse than a farce, and notwithstanding the large expenditure of money already made, the roads are in a worse condition today than they have been in years. Even now in mid-summer in some places they are almost impassable. Was not the gifted (?) Sturdivant the man who gave us this law? And what about the stock law? Are not Deans and Sturdivant responsible for its enactment? We might mention numerous other things the populists have done for us, but these are fair samples. May the good Lord deliver us from any more "reform" parties.

BE UP AND DOING.

From the Talladega News-Reporter.

It is a notable fact plain to close observers of mankind, that opportunities come to all to succeed and that the reason that all do not, is because these opportunities are neglected. The farmer who will keep each day's work done promptly as its duties come to him, will always be ready for rain or shine, drench or drought, as it comes. We do not mean that such will not bring him loss in some direction—what we do mean is that such loss will be met with equal or greater gain in some other direction. The same is true of the merchant, the professional man, the student and all sorts and classes of people. There is appointed but one time and place for every act in our lives. These times and places are all within our easy and reasonable reach. To perform each duty as it comes is not difficult. The Allwise has fitted our backs to the burden and he asks nothing near the impossible. On the contrary he asks us to do exactly that which is best for us. When we fill each task faithfully as it comes to us we are ready for the next one and no opportunity is lost. When we defer until tomorrow the work which belongs to today, we are not ready for the chances which tomorrow will bring, and the chance, not waiting for our pleasure, goes by and is gone forever. Therefore do not complain of your "luck" for there is no such thing as luck. If you aren't ready for the train (of circumstances) coming in on time, it is your fault and not the train's and when it goes off and leaves you in your slothful habits you have none to blame but yourself. Opportunities come and go with the swiftness of time. Each second brings one, each minute brings sixty, each hour brings thirty-six hundred. If you would catch them you must be awake and alert, for when they pass they are beyond your reach. Even could you call them back, you would not be safe in doing so, for fear of losing better ones that might come while you were chasing these. When you lose or waste time you are wasting opportunities. Horace Mann puts it beautifully thus: "Lost, yesterday, somewhere between sunrise and sunset, two golden hours, each set with sixty diamond minutes. No reward is offered for they are gone forever."

"There is a time, we know not when,
A place, we know not where,
Which marks the destiny of men

THUS FAR—NO FURTHER.

From the Atlanta Journal.

Some European newspaper and many of our own are talking about our interest in the prospective partition of China as if it was a foregone conclusion that we are to take a hand in the business.

He is a rash man who would predict what the McKinley administration, drunk with the new wine of imperialism, may do or at least attempt.

The uncertainty as to what extreme of innovation it may go in its foreign policy will be immensely increased if this administration shall be endorsed at the polls next November and commissioned for four more years' service.

If such a misfortune should befall the country we shall see the hand of imperialism show itself more clearly than it dare do now.

We need not waste time either in prognosticating what the dynasty now in power over us will do; in pleading with it to regard the old standards of our government or its own proclaimed faith and principles. If a great international strife, a world-war, should be brought on by the schemes of grasping and insatiate monarchies against China we shall not be surprised to see our government dragged into the conflict if those who now direct it continue to be dominant.

It is said that we have duties and obligations touching the Chinese question. So we have, but they are simple and involve only the assertion of our honor and self-respect. We are bound to protect the lives of our citizens in China and to prevent any restrictions upon our commerce in that quarter.

When we have done these two things we will have done our whole duty and will have cleaner hands and a brighter national escutcheon than we could show after participation in the conquest of China and the division of the spoils of a rapacious war.

MAKING CIRCUMSTANCES.

From the Talladega News-Reporter.

The course of affairs in China are so in line with President McKinley's policy of imperialism and militarism that one most naturally asks whether he has not had a hand in shaping them. Everybody remembers how bitterly he fought for a standing army of 150,000 men, and how congress consented only to 100,000 and that during the Philippine war. Now having gone hand in glove with the monarchies of Europe to crush out China and divide it up as so much booty, he knows soldiers will be needed and his favorite hobby of a great standing army will be a necessity. He knows that while the American people would rebel at the un-American practice of openly joining hands with kings to overthrow republics and inferior peoples; that we would sacrafice no soldiers in such an unholy warfare, yet he knows if he can hide the red hand in it and leaving the impression of right and justice, do these things inch by inch, that ultimately his object would be accomplished. "Vice is a monster of such frightful mien, that to be hated needs but to be seen. But seen too oft, familiar with her face, we first endure, then pity, then embrace." During the war between the states a "temporary" tariff "for emergency" was placed on imports. The people were promised that it would be removed immediately at the close of hostilities. Instead, when they had grown used to the burden it was increased and increased until all manner of pension, public building, subsidising, salary grabbing outrages had to be resorted to to keep down that surplus, unjustly taken from the working classes. The same has been true of the stamp act in the late war with Spain—it has piled up nearly a hundred millions, yet does anyone hear of its repeal? On the contrary new and ingenious schemes are being studied out by Hanna and his crowd to dissipate it and if possible increase the rate. This is the theory of imperialists—tax the common herd all it will stand—but by degrees—never releasing it from a former burden without having a heavier one to impose on it. This is the history of the republican party since its inception—every year has found its burdens to the citizen increasing. Mr. McKinley is in full line of action with his party, having out-heroded Herod in his term. Under his three years' reign combines of over six hundred lines and embracing billions of dollars in power have been organized to tax the people to penury and ultimately to slavery. During this time his administration has followed the same tactics of increasing the taxes of the individual and of turning his impoverished manhood to the field of conquest as a remedy. Paternalism in all its hydra-headed forms has been at work displacing liberty, individuality, honest enterprise and wholesome growth. And this last step of placing us as a nation in the nefarious work of riding down and butchering defenseless Chinamen, taking from them their lands, their government and their religion to satisfy an insatiable lust for power and territory is despicable beyond description. And to this under the guise of civilization and the cloak of christianity is unpardonable. We greatly fear our country as a nation has passed its zenith of usefulness and beauty and is now madly dashing down the path blazed out by Babylon and Rome, when all that is high and noble is sacrificed to greed, debauchery and national death. There is one hope which we trust in and that is the revolutionary spirit of our people who, once aware of their danger, will come to the rescue and overthrow the forces that are now most certainly leading them to destruction.

THE INCIDENT IS CLOSED.

From the New York Post.

There seems no reason to doubt the truth of the reports that Admiral Dewey has abandoned his presidential ambition. He is quoted as saying that he announced, some weeks ago, that he would serve the people if they wanted to have him, but that he now thanks God that they do not appear to want him. It has been suggested that he might accept a nomination for the second place, but his friends are sure that he would not. Even if he were willing, there are as yet no signs of much desire among the Bryanites to have his name on their ticket. The incident may, therefore, be considered closed. It was a surprising thing that a sailor who had appeared to be perfectly sincere in realizing his own unfitness for the presidency, and in disclaiming any desire for the office, should suddenly show that he wanted the place, and argue that he could fill it easily because the job was not a hard one. It is a thousand pities that he lacked advisers who could have restrained him from the folly which he committed in announcing his candidacy. The best thing now is to let the unhappy incident be forgotten as soon as may be.

We are requested to announce that there will be an all-day singing at Fourmile the Fourth Sunday in July. All are cordially invited to come and bring well-filled baskets.

Honest Abe, of the Advocate, was blowing his horn rather loud last week. We would like to give him a little advice—not to blow so hard next time, for fear he might blow his brains out, and O how sorry one would be. He spoke of some one being touched. We do not care to touch him, for fear we would get our hands soiled; for he may be as filthy as he writes.

No preaching or Sunday school Sunday on account of the inclemency of the weather.

Mrs. J. H. Smith, of Wilsonville, was visiting here Saturday and Sunday last.

Our friend, W. T. Taylor, met with defeat in the primary, but it did not set him back an inch. He will carry the democratic flag on to victory. He is a true democrat and will stand to the party. He heartily endorses all the nominations made, and will be Charlie at the wheel in August.

People who know what attitude this government should maintain in relation to the trouble in China are quite numerous in our city.

One thousand and sixty-four absolute and guaranteed votes makes a tremendous fine showing for a primary election—now, don't it?

A match game of ball will be played tomorrow at Calera between our boys here and the team at Montevallo. We hope to see a splendid game.

The musical entertainment given by the Sunday school class of Miss Kate Huyett last Friday night at the White House was not only an unqualified success, but one of the most enjoyable social events of the season. A large crowd was in attendance.

It wont be much longer than a month before at least eight populists will have to make other plans for a livelihood during the ensuing four years.

Clay McClanahan, a negro well thought of and known throughout this community, died at his home near here Saturday last and was buried on Sunday.

The Rev. William, failing to get the populist endorsement for representative, assembled at the court house last Saturday and named himself for that office.

The mulberry trees on Main street should either be cut down or strengthened—they can't resist the temptation to fall down or come to pieces during heavy wind storms.

"I'll see that man white'rn a gander 'fore I'll vote for him again," a populist was heard to remark some days since, having reference to the republican's nominee for representative.

Using printing office terms and entertaining no evil thoughts whatever, nor caring to offend our gentler readers, we would like to remark that when the "devil" writes anything the whole force catches "———."

An appeal has been taken from the decision of Judge Longshore in the stock law case of beat 10, and the trial will now be had in the circuit court before Judge Pelham. Pending its decision the law remains in full force and stock must be kept up as formerly.

Inclement weather prevented Montevallo's ball team from coming to this place Thursday last, and likewise on Monday of this week, the latter date being second choice. Both nines are anxious for the game, and will no doubt give us good ball when they meet.

We hope to see a big crowd at Calera tomorrow. The people of that town have been actively at work making preparations to entertain all who go. If the weather will permit no doubt a great many will take advantage of the opportunity to hear our gifted candidate and sure-to-be-elected governor.

Quite a nice crowd attended the Children's Day exercises at the Baptist church last Sunday night and thoroughly enjoyed the program presented by the children. All acted the parts assigned them in a most creditable manner. The singing by the choir was excellent, and especially the solos by Mr. Walthall and Miss Clyde Brand. A nice contribution for the Bible cause was given by the audience.

The democratic executive committee of Shelby county met in this place yesterday at noon. This being the new committee recently elected at the primary, the organization was perfected by the election of J. R. White as chairman and C. C. DuBose, secretary. A campaign committee was elected by this committee which is to conduct the campaign under its supervision and direction, after which an adjournment was taken until July 16, 1900.

The Children's Day exercises at the Methodist church on last Sunday morning was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience. The program consumed something over an hour and proved quite interesting. The children and others participating in the exercises acquitted themselves admirably and gave evidence of thorough training, as well as showing a proper conception of their parts. A neat sum for mission work was contributed by the audience.

That rain of yesterday which fell at this place was the heaviest experienced here in some time. It was a regular cloudburst, freshet, or something after that style, moved trash, caused houses to leak, made pigs and other quadrupeds to sing mournfully, and in fact dampened things generally and in short order. The sun tried to shine when the rain had suspended operations for awhile and the creeks were swollen, but its efforts culminated miserably. The dampness of this rain was not unlike the wetness of other water, but everybody save the printer had the privilege of resting from their labors, and that's why we have given so much space to an everyday occurence and endeavored to be so precise.

Last week The Chronicle inadvertently made an error, which though entirely unintentional is misleading and might result in harm. We refer to the statement that the stock law of beat 10 was a thing of the past, and that cattle could now roam at will. While this is true looked at from one standpoint, it would result in great damage if people opposed to the law should turn out their stock before their neighbors were given an opportunity to rebuild their fences. These people took down their fences thinking the stock law was an established fact, and they could not place them back at this busy season when their entire time must be given to their crops. We know that considerable bitterness has been engendered over this stock law fight, but we advise the people to take a calm view of the situation, treat their neighbors as they would like to be treated, and in a short time this vexed problem will be amicably adjusted.

Sterrett Dots.

It has been quite awhile since we have seen any items from this place in your valuable paper, and by your consent I will try to give you a few of the happenings in this community.

T. M. Goodwin, of Oxmoor, visited his father and mother last Saturday and Sunday. His mother is quite old and has been sick and helpless for a long time.

Messrs. John Falkner, John Harding and Charlie Elliott, of Leeds, visited our town last Sunday.

Mrs. Hattie Stewart, who has been visiting her father, J. M. Payton, for several weeks, returned to her home at Brighton last Sunday.

J. A. Stewart and John W. Goodwin, of Brighton, came over to our town last Sunday. Mr. Stewart returned home Sunday evening.

We are sorry to state that little Nora, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Goodwin, is quite sick. We hope that it may soon recover its wanted health.

We are informed that Mrs. C. W. Baker is very low at this writing, and is not expected to recover.

Since the primary thinned out the candidates 'tis not so dangerous to cut down timber, and the saw mill men are preparing to go to making lumber.

The ticket nominated by the democratic primary is the very medicine the doctor ordered, and the democrats will all take it, and if the sick populists and republicans will take the medicine it will surely cure them.

Rev. J. A. Butts filled his appointment here last Sunday, but on account of a washout on Central railway between the two tunnels the passenger train from Birmingham Saturday was some five hours late, and he did not get here in time for services on Saturday.

The heavy rains last Saturday did a lot of damage to crops and farms, washed away a lot of wheat, corn and cotton, and oats under water in Bear Creek bottoms, and washed away and tore up a lot of Sterrett Lumber Co's. tram road, also some for the Allen Lumber Co.

There is to be an all-day, old-time singing here at Beulah church on the fourth day of July by William Bradshaw, the blind singer, and all are invited to come and bring the old folks, young folks and little folks, and especially bring big baskets full of eatables. Other leaders of vocal music are invited to come and help on the good work.

S. M. Goodwin, of saw mill fame, is contemplating the manufacture of charcoal for the Shelby Iron Co. S. M. G. is a hustler, and when he gets started in the business he will move things.

George Stewart, of Georgia, is visiting his sister, Mrs. B. H. Green.

Rev. Burns, of the Methodist church, delivered a very able sermon from the Baptist pulpit here last Sunday afternoon from James 1:25: "But whoso looketh unto the perfect love of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the word, this man shall be blessed in his deed." Brother Burns was accompanied by Rev. W. J. Simmons, of Harpersville. They will begin a protracted meeting here on the fourth Sunday night in July, and propose to organize a Methodist church at this place.

Rev. John Johnson, of the Protestant Methodist church, failed to fill his appointment here last Saturday and Sunday.

There will be an all-day singing at the Baptist church here on the first Sunday in July, which is the first day. Let everybody come who will behave themselves. We want no one who can't behave himself like a gentleman.

A washout on the railroad between here and Birmingham last Saturday caused the eastbound passenger train, which is due here at 10:26, to be about five hours late.

Shelby.

A unique church and social event was the Measure Party given by Mrs. Frank Finch on the night of the 21st. Forty dollars was realized, which we understand is to be added to a fund to buy a bell for the Methodist church. The Baptists have started a fund to procure a bell for their church.

Mrs. Launing and her two children, with Miss Sherrell are visiting with Mrs. Keifer.

A. T. Clarke, Jr., who has been ill, was able to be out and play his clarinet last Sunday at the Congregational church. As there were no other church services in town the congregations were large. Rev. A. T. Clarke spoke morning and night on Christian Joy—in the morning on its relation to duty.

Fourmile Items.

Politics is slipping over these parts very quite.

Our genial correspondent of the Advocate, Honest Abe, says there is but one place in the community where he would go. We are sorry to say that he will have to get a hump to get there more samer than he did when he ran the soles off his slippers and had to half-sole them.

We are glad to know there will be an all-day singing at Fourmile the fourth Sunday in July. Let us all attend with the purpose of singing, and also eating. May we all call upon Fourmile friends that day from far and near and make the singing worth going to hear.

We are glad to know that Henry Taylor and E. B. Lyon are dudes enough to go to church at Wilsonville and beat the boys there.

The people are living fat on blackberries and other fruits, but prospects for the future are cornbread and water, very little bread and plenty of water.

Some of our boys looked badly defeated Sunday after going to the Teague bridge on Yellow Leaf and could not cross.

We are glad to know that Willie Wingard found him a girl at Archer's town Sunday. We don't know her name, but the girl described by Willie was a handsome little lady, weight about 100 lbs, had curly hair, wore a blue dress, and is the prettiest girl in Shelby.

AMERICAN MARINES KILLED IN CHINA

State Department Receives Alarming News From Kempff.

ALLIES ARE BEATEN BACK

Combined Assault On Tien Tsin Was Unsuccessful.

"Acting Secretary Hackett has this morning received a dispatch from Admiral Kempff, dated Che Foo, June 22, to the effect that the marines under Major Walter, together with 400 Russians, have had an engagement with the Chinese army near Tien Tsin. They could not break through the line. A force numbering 2,000, the admiral reports, is now ready to make another attempt."

The main importance of this dispatch is Admiral Kempff's disclosure that it is the Chinese army, and not the Boxers, who are fighting the foreign troops.

A SECOND CABLEGRAM.

"A cablegram from Admiral Kempff, dated Che Foo, June 24th, says:

"In ambuscade near Tien Tsin, on the 21st, four of Waller's command killed and seven wounded. Names will be furnished as soon as received. Force of 2,000 going to relieve Tien Tsin today. KEMPFF."

The secretary of the navy has ordered Admiral Remey to go with the Brooklyn to Taku and to tender General MacArthur conveyance of any army troops which the Brooklyn can carry.

Admiral Kempff's dispatch giving hte first definite news of the shedding of American blood on Chinese soil came early Sunday morning and was turned over to Secretary Long as soon as he arrived at the department.

With Admiral Crowningshield, the secretary carried the dispatch to the white house, where, on the president's return from church, it was laid before him. The determination thereupon was reached to order Admiral Remey, in command of the Asiatic squadron, from Manila to Taku, on board the armored cruiser Brooklyn.

The secretary and Admiral Crowinshield returned to the navy department, where the necessary orders were dispatched to Admiral Remey. The effect of this transfer is to make Taku the headquarters of the Asiatic squadron. The Brooklyn is expected to sail at once, if possible, as the orders sent contemplate getting the admiral on the scene at the earliest moment.

PEKIN WHOLLY ISOLATED.

Advices of Monday from London state that the position of the international forces in the section of northern China, where 10,000 men are striving to keep a footing and succor the legations in Pekin, appears to increase in peril with every fresh dispatch. Pekin has not been heard from direct for fourteen days.

The last dispatch was one imploring aid. Admiral Seymour's column of 2,000 was last heard from twelve days ago. At that time it was surrounded midway between Pekin and Tien Tsin. Possibly now it has reached Pekin. The 3,000 internationals at Tien Tsin were hard pressed and fighting for their lives on Thursday and a relieving force of less than a thousand had been beaten back to Taku Friday. Observers on the spot think that 100,000 men would not be too many to grasp China firmly.

A message from Shanghai dated Sunday at 4 p. m. embodies some later information. It says:

"Official Japanese telegrams confirm the reports of a defeat of the allied forces at Tien Tsin. The foreigners there are placed in a most desperate situation.

"Among those killed of the relief force Friday was the commander of her majesty's ship Barfleur. The foreign casualities were 300.

Captain Beatty and Lieutenant Wright, British, have been severely wounded at Tien Tsin, according to a Shanghai dispatch to The London Daily Express, dated Saturday.

WAR IS SURELY ON.

A London dispatch says: Matters in China appear to have reached the climax of seriousness, judging from the latest news. The announcement that Prince Tuan has assumed active command of the Chinese troops and the bombarding of Tien Tsin seems conclusive evidence that the dowager empress has declared war on the combined European powers and that the whole military strength of China is to be employed in behalf of "Boxers."

GERMAN MINISTER SAFE.

Report of Von Ketteler's Massacre Proves To Be Unfounded.

The Chinese minister at Berlin, Germany, Lu-Hai-Houan, has informed the foreign office that the German minister at Pekin, Baron Von Ketteler, who, it was reported, had been killed by the "Boxers," was safe and well.

Permitted To Carry Telegrams.

The British government has given permission to all British warships between Taku and Che Foo, China, to carry telegrams.

WILL DISCHARGE POSSE.

The Situation at St. Louis Seems To Be Quieting Down.

In accordance with instructions issued by the St. Louis board of police commissioners to Sheriff Pohlman Friday afternoon, the posse comitatatus will be reduced to 500 men.

Unless the situation grows worse the men will not be recalled until the Fourth of July, when it is expected about 1,500 men will be on duty.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

The Republicans of the United States, through their chosen representatives, met in National Convention, looking back upon an unsurpassed record of achievement, and looking forward into a great field of duty and opportunity, and appealing to the judgment of their countrymen, make these declarations:

The commission issued by the people in the last national election to the Republican party to restore prosperity by means of two legislative measures, a protective tariff and a law making gold the standard of value, has been faithfully executed. There is no longer controversy as to the value of any Government obligations. Every American dollar is a gold dollar or its assured equivalent, and American credit stands higher than that of any nation. Capital is fully employed and labor everywhere is profitably occupied.

The American people, sustained by the Republican administration, have conducted and in victory concluded a war for liberty and human rights. No thought of National aggrandizement tarnished the high purpose with which American standards were unfurled. It was a war unsought and patiently resisted, but when it came the American Government was ready. The quick and signal triumph of our forces on land and sea bore tribute to the courage of American soldiers and sailors and to the skill and foresight of Republican statesmanship. To ten millions of the human race there was given "A New Birth of Freedom," and to the American people a new and noble responsibility.

The administration of William McKinley is indorsed. President McKinley has been in every situation the true American patriot and the upright statesman, clear in vision, strong in judgment, firm in action, always inspiring and deserving the confidence of his countrymen.

Allegiance is renewed to the principle of the gold standard, and confidence is declared in the legislation establishing the gold basis by the Fifty-sixth Congress. Steadfast opposition to the free and unlimited coinage of silver is declared.

The necessity and propriety of honest co-operation of capital to meet new business conditions is recognized, but all conspiracies and combinations intended to create monopolies are condemned, and such legislation as will effectually restrain and prevent all such abuses is favored.

Faith in the policy of protection to American labor, by which industries have been established, diversified and maintained, is renewed. The associated policy of reciprocity is favored, as well as a more effective restriction of cheap labor from foreign lands.

The danger of our present dependence upon foreign shipping for nine-tenths of our foreign shipping is pointed out, and the necessity of national defence in the event of war is urged as a motive for legislation which will enable us to regain our former place among the trade-carrying fleets of the world.

Liberal pension laws and their liberal administration are favored.

Public improvements looking to the permanent improvement of the roads of the country are carefully approved.

Extension of the rural free delivery service wherever its extension may be justified is favored.

Home rule and the early admission to Statehood of the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma are indorsed.

The Dingley act, amended to provide sufficient revenue for the conduct of the war, has so well performed its work that it has been possible to reduce the war debt to the sum of $40,000,000. The country is now justified in expecting, and it will be the policy of the Republican party to bring about a reduction of the war taxes.

The efforts of the Administration to secure the open door in China are commended.

President McKinley's policy in regard to the Samoan difficulties, whereby every American interest was safeguarded, is especially commended.

The part taken by our Government in the Peace Conference at the Hague is approved, steadfast adherence to the policy announced in the Monroe Doctrine is asserted, and the hope that an honorable peace may soon prevail in South Africa is expressed.

In accepting, by the Treaty of Paris, the just responsibilities of our victories in the Spanish War, the President and the Senate won the undoubted approval of the American people. No other course was possible than to destroy Spain's sovereignty throughout the West Indies and in the Philippine Islands. The largest measure of self-government consistent with their welfare and our duties shall be secured to them by law. To Cuba independence and self-government were assured in the same voice by which war was declared, and to the letter this pledge shall be performed.

The Republican party upon its history and upon this declaration of its principles and policies confidently invokes the considerate and approving judgment of the American people.

The State Supreme Court of Missouri has released William B. Thayer from payment of a fine under conviction in Kansas City for violation of the Department Store License law. The court declared the law unconstitutional.

JENNINGS WINS THE NOMINATION

CONTEST WAS SPIRITED

On the thirtieth ballot a stampede was attempted for Mays, his vote being jumped up from 38 to 122½. His strength was drawn from Beggs, Myers and Milton, only 14 votes leaving Jennings in the stampede. Myers dropped out of the race after the thirtieth ballot, though no formal withdrawal was made.

On the forty-first ballot Mays withdrew in favor of Milton; on the forty-third ballot Beggs withdrew, and on the forty-fourth ballot William S. Jennings received the required two-thirds vote and his nomination was made unanimous amid a scene of wild enthusiasm.

The nominee is a first cousin of William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska. He is a native of Illinois, but removed to Florida in 1886. He is thirty-seven years old.

W. N. Sheats, superintendent of public instruction.

Hon. B. E. McLin, commissioner of agriculture.

John L. Morgan, railroad commissioner.

This is the last state Democratic convention that will be held in Florida for many years, probably, as the platform adopted provides for primaries for United States senator down.

BRYAN'S OPINION

Of the Republican Platform Adopted At Philadelphia.

When asked his opinion of the Philadelphia platform, Colonel Bryan said:

"The Philadelphia platform is the best evidence thus far given of the deception attempted by the Republican party. Taking in connection with the speeches made at the convention, it shows that the Republican party's platform of 1896 was a deliberate fraud as far as the promises of international bimettalism was concerned; that the party's attitude on the trust question is insincere and that the party is not willing to state its attitude on the Philippine question and invite the judgment of the people."

AMERICANS FORCED BACK.

Filipinos Successfully Resist Detachment of Forty Men.

The Americans' attempts to charge were frustrated by the Filipinos' pitfalls and troops. The advance line consequently was under a heavy fire in front and on its flanks, and fell back on Cagayan. The American loss was nine men killed and two officers and ten men wounded.

CUBAN TEACHERS EN ROUTE

This movement makes the beginning of the general movement of about 2,500 teachers from Cuban ports to Boston, where they are to receive a general course of instruction during the summer under the auspices of the Harvard university.

SAFE BLOWER EMPLOYED.

A dispatch from Frankfort, Ky., says: The inside steel doors of the cash and bond boxes in the state treasurer's vaults, the combinations of which were lost when the new state treasurer took charge of the office, were opened Friday. Frankfort machinists had been at work on the doors for three days and made no progress. Friday morning a message was sent to the penitentiary for a convict that could blow open a safe. Frank Simmons was selected by the prison authorities as the best man to do the job. He opened the safe in thirty minutes.

Ex-Convicts Sent Back.

Joseph Mullet and James Fitzharris, the Irishmen, who served sentences in an English prison for complicity in the Phoenix Park murders and who arrived at New York on May 27th last, were deported Saturday on the Cunard steamship Servia.

COURT FINES ROBERTS.

Utah Man Must Pay $150 Or Serve 150 Days In Jail.

In the case at Salt Lake, Utah, of B. H. Roberts, found guilty of unlawful cohabitation, the judgment of the court was that he pay a fine in the sum of $150 or in lieu thereof that he be imprisoned in the county jail for a period of 150 days. A thirty days' stay was granted in order that the defendant might file a bill of exceptions.

HUNTING FOR PEARLS.

Two famous pearl divers recently visited San Francisco to buy a large quantity of air pumps, diving suits and like paraphernalia of the sea. Opu and Taipu are their names, and they are generally regarded as stars in their perilous line of work. They were born on one of the islands of the Dangerous archipelago group. They speak good English, however, and both are thoroughly familiar with the civilization of West Australia, where they have spent most of their lives as pearl hunters, says the New York Telegraph. Taipu is the principal native pearl merchant of the many hundreds who have embarked in the trade since the natives of the Paumotu islands first dabbled in that form of commerce. He owns a pearling dredger and a ship; both are engaged in the trade in southwestern waters. His ship, however, is a mere hulk that travels less than ninety miles along the coast. They depend principally upon pearl shells for income, since to stake earnings on the pearls alone would be to invite loss. Valuable pearls are not frequent enough to make it pay, but the commercial mother-of-pearl is made from the shells that they deal in. When it comes to hunting for the real pearl there is not any kind of a scoop or dredger than can take the place of men's eyes; diving and treading the deep is the only way to find valuable pearls. As a rule, these are some distance apart, scattered over the rocky bed of the ocean. Sometimes a man will pick up a fortune in a few weeks and sometimes he will hardly make expenses in a season. Pearling is still profitable, for the crude shells are sold at from $500 to $750 a ton, and there is always a chance that a diver may make enough in one day to quit for life. "We do not dive farther than sixty to 100 feet," said Opu, "for the pressure is too great. Even at these depths men cannot remain down over five or ten minutes, and the average life of the deep diver is short."

QUEER ORDER FOR SEAMEN.

English Jackies Obliged to Blacken Up on Certain Occasions.

A regular order on board certain of England's vessels of war, and one delivered by an officer with his own hands and face artistically blacked, is, "All hands black faces!" When, either during the maneuvers or in war time, it is determined that torpedo or gunboats shall attack at night, every living soul on board is ordered to black up of the same dingy color as is borne by the whole vessel or all its outward parts, for the single speck of light color afforded by one human face might spoil the whole plan of a desperate attack. All the officers of torpedo vessels and gunboats keep, as a part of their kit, a special pigment, of very much the same kind as that used by stage darkies, ever ready for emergencies, and one torpedo order book has special recommendations as to blacking up for the men. Then, again, all steam launch and boats' crews ordered off on mining, reconnoitering and other duties are compelled to blacken all parts of their skins that may show; and no man is exempt, however high his degree in the service. Military officers defending harbors and working torpedoes from the shore are also ordered on no account to show themselves at night near the defenses unless blackened up.

Queer Money.

Europeans trading in China are reduced to great straits for money. English gold will always pass; but is scarce. In large trading undertakings, bars of pure gold, weighing thirteen ounces are recognized as official exchange. Gold leaf is used by bankers for smaller amounts. Inland, where gold of any kind is rarely seen, horseshoe-shaped pieces of silver, weighing five to fifty ounces, are used. Some trading corporations have been forced to issue bank notes and tokens made of bamboo slips; but the mistrustful Chinaman is very chary of accepting these, so their circulation is limited to one town, sometimes to a single street. In the new colony of Urganda, west of the great African lakes, there was practically no coinage but shells. As these are bulky, and therefore inconvenient, Europeans have started a new system. Needles and cloth are now current everywhere. Three needles will purchase one chicken, one needle two eggs, whilst a cow cost fifty yards of cotton cloth. Shells, however, continue to do duty as small change, as many as a hundred going to one needle.

TO WOMEN WHO DOUBT.

"I have been troubled with female weakness in its worst form for about ten years. I had leucorrhœa and was so weak that I could not do my housework. I also had falling of the womb and inflammation of the womb and ovaries and at menstrual periods I suffered terribly. At times my back would ache very hard. I could not lift anything or do any heavy work; was not able to stand on my feet. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for doctors but they did me no good. After a time I concluded to try your medicine and I can truly say it does all that you claim for it to do.

Ten bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and seven packages of Sanative Wash have made a new woman of me. I have had no womb trouble since taking the fifth bottle. I weigh more than I have in years; can do all my own housework, sleep well, have a good appetite and now feel that life is worth living. I owe all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel that it has saved my life and would not be without it for anything. I am always glad to recommend your medicine to all my sex, for I know if they follow your directions, they will be cured."—MRS. ANNIE THOMPSON, South Hot Springs, Ark.

SAD STATE OF CAPTURED BOERS

Cronje Was a Beaten But Not a Crushed Foe.

The thing was gallantly done, and we may all well be proud of this achievement of the Canadians. An examination of the laager disclosed a state of affairs which it would be impossible to describe. The wreckage and confusion were bad enough, but the filth and stench were such as to make one feel sick, says a London News correspondent. Within a space of 100 yards lay over forty dead horses and a half dozen dead oxen. Men themselves were only buried six inches beneath the soil. No regard had been paid to sanitary arrangements at all. They drank the water within a few feet of a petrifying carcass. Wounded men lay about uncared for, their wounds undressed, left to look after themselves. In most cases gangrene had set in. Slight scratches, which with ordinary care would have entailed two days' rest only, had developed, into huge ulcerated cancerous sores. Our doctors, who took charge of over two hundred such cases, declare that nine-tenths must die. Compared to the horrible conditions under which the Boers had for the past ten days lived, our fire was mere child's play. It proves the indomitable pluck—call it obstinacy if you like—of Cronje. It was only the general who made the men hold out so long. The prisoners for most part seemed pleased when taken. Cronje was sullen; a beaten but not crushed foe. To us it felt like death to remain five minutes in the place where the Boers had spent ten days. One's stomach turned against the fetid stench of rotting bodies. For a day one could not get the smell out of one's nostrils. Yet the prisoners declare that had it not been for the Canadians getting so close to them they would have held out for some days yet; and with food it would have been weeks before they would have surrendered, it may be interesting to say that one prisoner told me that they knew that we were longing to wipe out Majuba, and that they thought that if they allowed us to charge with the bayonet none of them would be allowed to live, even had they shot our soldiers down by hundreds. The Boers, besides having a wholesome dread of cold steel, is capable of arguing with himself.

Strawberries on Trees.

At last M. Baltet, the great French specialist, has been enabled to grow strawberries on plants of a decidedly treelike nature. The method is simplicity itself. The runners are trained up vertically and tied to a stake, in the same way that a pot tomato plant is, and then the lateral buds are pinched out. Result—a strawberry tree on a small scale.—London Leader.

WAR STATUS IN SOUTH AFRICA

Roberts Reports Two Small Engagements With Enemy.

IN BOTH BOERS WERE BEATEN

Within the Last Few Days British Have Captured 5,000 Rifles Belonging to Burghers.

Lord Roberts has sent bulletins to London of two small fights occurring on June 26th and June 27th in which the Boers were discomfited. In a dispatch from Pretoria dated Thursday he says:

"A small force of mounted troops, with mounted guns, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Dreiper was attacked by the enemy under Prefers and Nel, on the morning of June 26th, seven miles north of Senekal. They beat off the enemy and burned their laagers. Our casualties were three wounded and ten killed.

"Hunter, temporarily commanding Ian Hamilton's, made a march yesterday from Heidelberg toward Frankfort without meeting any opposition.

"The enemy attacked our Roodeval spruit post on the railway yesterday, (Thursday), but were easily beaten off by a detachment of the Derbyshire light infantry, the West Australian mounted, a fifteen pounder and an armoured train.

"Baden-Powell reports the capture of an influential Boer named Ray, who was endeavoring to raise a commando in the Rustinburg district. A patrol brought in over a hundred rifles. More than 4,000 rifles and 1,000 inferior pieces have been taken during the last few days.

"He states that thirty Boers have arrived at Rustenburg, going to their homes from Delareys commando. They would have left before if they had seen the proclamation which was carefully withheld by the Boer authority."

Lord Roberts says that Wednesday, June 27th, was a record market day in Pretoria for Boer farmers selling produce.

On June 20th the war office cabled Lord Roberts that disquieting reports regarding the hospital were accumulating, and asked him if anything could be done, and particularly if more nurses were needed.

On June 25th Lord Roberts replied, saying that he did not wish to shirk responsibility or to screen the shortcomings of the medical corps, and he suggested a committee of inquiry. He said that there had been an abnormal number of sick at Bloemfontein due to the exhausting nature of the march and the terribly unsanitary condition of the camp at Paardeburg, where the only water available for drinking flowed from the Boer camp higher up, where the river was crowded with decomposing animals and also with a number of wounded after the fight on March 10th.

To improvise accommodations at Bloemfontein for such a number, which had become 2,000 before he left Bloemfontein, was no easy task, said Lord Roberts. No tents were carried, and the public buildings had to be turned into hospitals. In three months there had been 6,369 admissions to the hospitals of patients suffering from enteric fever, while the deaths numbered about 1,370—about 21 per cent. Lord Roberts observed that he did not know whether this would be an abnormal rate in civil hospitals in peace times, but if the rate was abnormal it was due to the exhausted state of the men, and not to the neglect of the medical corps.

KHEDIVE CALLS ON VICTORIA.

Egyptian Potentate Welcomed at Windsor Palace By the Queen.

A London dispatch says: The khedive of Egypt paid a state visit to Queen Victoria at Windsor castle Thursday afternoon. Accompanied by the Duke of York and the Turkish ambassador, he drove in state, escorted by household cavalry, to the Paddington railroad station, whence he took a train for Windsor. The Duke of Connaught there joined the party and accompanied his highness to the castle.

WOOLEY FOR PRESIDENT.

Prohibition National Convention Finishes Work at Chicago and Adjourns.

The prohibition national convention at Chicago adjourned sine die Thursday, after having placed in nomination for president John G. Woolley, of Illinois, and for vice president H. B. Metcalf, of Rhode Island. The nominations in each instance were made on the first ballot.

The candidates for the presidential nomination balloted for were Mr. Woolley and Rev. S. C. Swallow of Pennsylvania, Hale Johnson of Illinois withdrawing his name at the last moment and throwing his strength to Mr. Woolley. This undoubtedly had a great effect upon the result, as the convention earlier in the day had been nearly stampeded for Swallow by an eloquent speech of Homer Castle of Pittsburg, and had the friends of the Pennsylvania clergyman forced a ballot at that time the result might have been different.

For vice president three candidates were balloted for—H. B. Metcalf, Thomas R. Caskardon, of West Virginia, and Rev. L. Eaton, of Iowa, Mr. Metcalf receiving an overwhelming majority of the votes cast. Immediately after the announcement of the result of the ballot for the the presidential nomination Dr. Swallow was proposed as the vice presidential nominee. The convention went wild over the suggestion, but Dr. Swallow, after a hurried conference with the Pennsylvania delegation, refused to accept the nomination.

During the last day's session Chairman Stewart, of the national committee, called for contributions for the campaign and over $7,000 was realized in a few minutes.

John G. Woolley is descended in a direct line from Emanuel Woolley, an English Quaker and friend of George Fox, who came to New England in 1658 and later became a large land owner in New Jersey, which is still the family seat. Dr. Woolley was born at Collinsville, O., February 15, 1850. He was graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan university in 1871, practiced law in Paris, Ill., Minneapolis and New York until 1888, when he became a Prohibitionist, and from accepting occasional invitations to speak upon the liquor traffic, drifted out of the practice of his profession into the lecture field. He has resided in Chicago since 1892.

Henry B. Metcalf, of Rhode Island, prohibition nominee for vice president, was born seventy-one years ago. He is president of the Providence County Savings bank. Mr. Metcalf was formerly a Republican, but joined the Prohibition party several years ago, and has been prominently identified with that party since. He has been the candidate of his party for governor several times.

BLACK ROOT IN COTTON.

South Georgia Planters Threatened With Loss of Crop.

An Atlanta dispatch says; Commissioner of Agriculture O. B. Stevens says that black root, a very damaging disease, has been discovered in the cotton crop in South Georgia.

Reports have been coming in from the farmers telling him of a peculiar color the cotton has and describing the roots of the cotton plant to be black. Remedies for the disease were asked for. Mr. Stevens in speaking of the black root says:

"Black root is a terrible thing for cotton. It always destroys it and if the reports that I have been getting for the last two days are true, the cotton crop in this state has been greatly damaged and the loss will amount to thousands of dollars."

FROM LI HUNG CHANG.

Minister Wu at Washington Receives Cablegram From Canton, China.

Minister Wu called at the state department Thursday afternoon and exhibited the following cablegram to Secretary Hay:

"CANTON, June 28.—The legation ministers having left Pekin are now twelve miles from Tien Tsin with Admiral Seymour. LI HUNG CHANG."

The minister explained that the cablegram reached him from the Chinese minister in London. He believes the cablegram to be correct.

DOLE IS INAUGURATED

As Chief Executive of the Hawaiian Islands In Honolulu.

An Associated Press dispatch says: The last of the three great epoch-making events in the history of the annexation of the Hawaiian islands to the United States of America, took place Thursday morning when Governor S. B. Dole, first executive of the American territory, was inaugurated. The oath of office was taken and the inaugural address delivered on the spot that was the scene of the other two events—the reading of the all-important proclamation of 1893 and the flag-raising of 1898.

SHOULD REPORT AT TAKU.

Admiral Kempff Advises Department Regarding the Landing of Troops.

CHE FOO, June 28.—Secretary Navy, Washington: "About 2,000 foreign troops now ashore. Soldiers ordered should report at Taku instead of the Che Foo. Substituted Nashville for Yorktown at Che Foo. Yorktown used as dispatch boat, being more suitable. KEMPFF."

SNELL PAYS PENALTY

Former Georgian Hanged at the National Capital.

KILLED A THIRTEEN-YEAR OLD GIRL

Owing to Snell's Heavy Weight, the Rope Cut Through and Almost Decapitated Him,

Benjamin H. Snell, formerly of Georgia, paid the death penalty on the scaffold in the district jail at Washington Friday for one of the most fiendish murders ever committed within the confines of the District of Columbia.

His victim was Lizzie Weisenberger, a little white girl, thirteen years old. Snell was a clerk in the pension office, a giant in size, measuring six feet six inches and weighing nearly 200 pounds.

The drop fell at 12:07 and his neck was broken by the fall of 5 feet, and the rope cut through to the spinal column, almost decapitating him.

There were only a few present at the execution, but among them was Karl Wiesenberger, the father of the murdered girl.

The crime for which Snell paid the penalty was committed August 6th, 1899, at the residence of the victim's parents. The evidence on the part of the prosecution tended to show that Snell went to the house of Karl Weisenberger, father of little Lizzie, that morning and asked for a drink of water.

There being no water in the house, Mr. Weisenberger went to a hydrant, some distance away, to procure some. Thereupon Snell passed through the house and entered the kitchen, where Mrs. Mary Weisenberger, the wife of Karl and mother of Lizzie, was preparing the morning meal. Snell greeted her in his usual manner, to which she responded by ordering him out of the house and accusing him of having seduced her daughter Lizzie.

Snell thereupon went from the kitchen into the adjoining room, where Lizzie Weisenberger was sleeping, drew a razor from his pocket and cut her throat, inflicting five wounds and nearly severing her head from her body. When the mother, hearing the cries of her child, rushed into the bedroom to protect her, Snell assaulted the mother, cutting her twice.

Snell knocked the woman down and made a break for liberty and was chased several blocks before being captured and disarmed. He at once feigned insanity, and made that his plea in the trials that followed.

Predicts a Long and Bloody Struggle Before Boxers are Suppressed.

General Stahl, of the Imperial German army, who has been investigating conditions in the Orient under a special commission from the German government, arrived at Vancouver, B. C., Thursday on his way home. When asked if he thought the Boxers would be quickly suppressed, he said that in his opinion the powers had started in upon a long, bloody conflict. In the end, the Boxers would be disbanded, but the destruction of life would be appalling for the movement was spreading like wild fire, throughout China's vast territory.

SITUATION IS DISQUIETING.

Cabinet Is Anxious For More Reliable News of the Situation In China.

None of the members of the cabinet who were present at Friday's meeting could see the least change for the better in the Chinese situation. Secretary Hay was not present nor was Secretary Gage, but the other members said that nothing had been heard from the ministers stationed at Pekin, and this fact was causing the greatest alarm for their safety.

COL. TRAMMELL DEAD.

After an illness of six weeks Colonel Trammell, chairman of the railroad commission of Georgia, died at his home in Marietta early Friday morning.

All members of his family were at his bedside at the time of his death. They had been there all night, waiting and hoping for some signs of returning strength. The beginning of the end came at noon on Thursday. Previous to that time he had rallied considerably and it was believed by his family and friends that he would recover.

It was a complication of diseases that caused the death of Colonel Trammell. Chief among them was an acute stomach trouble. This, combined with extreme nervousness and a sluggish circulation, so enfeebled his constitution and sapped his strength that the restoratives of the physicians had but little effect.

Colonel Trammell has been a member of the Georgia railroad commission since 1881, and during the term of his service his headquarters have been in the capitol building. He was probably one of the best known men in the state, and being at the headquarters of the state government for so many years, was in touch with prominent men from all sections in Georgia, and being a member of the railroad commission, he was known also throughout the United States.

As soon as Governor Candler heard the news of Colonel Trammell's death he ordered the flag to float at half mast.

"Our casualties were ten killed and four officers and about fifty men wounded.

"The fight reported yesterday was under Lieutenant Colonel Grenfell, not Dreiper. Brabant came up during the engagement.

"Hunter continued his march yesterday toward the Vaal river unopposed. A few farmers along the route have surrendered. Springs, the terminus of the railway from Johannesburg, was attacked early yesterday morning. The Canadian regiment, which garrisons the place, beat off the enemy."

Boer official reports from Machododorp aver that a part of the British convoy was captured on June 23d, near Winburg.

CROP CONDITIONS

Throughout the United States as Given In Report of the Agricultural Department.

The crop bulletin issued by the department of agriculture at Washington gives a good general idea of the situation throughout the country, and shows the damage done by rain in the south. The report says in part:

The south Atlantic and the central eastern portions of the gulf states, including portions of the central Mississippi and lower Ohio valleys, have suffered much from heavy rains, while the severe drought over the northern portion of the spring wheat region continues unbroken, only light showers having fallen over limited areas. In the states of the lower Missouri valley and on the middle Atlantic coast the weather conditions were highly favorable, and generally favorable conditions prevailed on the Pacific coast, except in the upper Sacramento valley, where rains caused some damage.

Corn has made favorable progress in the great corn states of the central valleys and is in a good state of cultivation, except in portions of the central Mississippi and Ohio valleys, where many fields are weedy. In the southern states east of the Mississippi river corn has suffered seriously from excessive rains and is badly in need of cultivation.

In Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and portions of Missouri winter wheat harvest has continued under favorable conditions, but in the central Mississippi and Ohio valleys it has been interrupted by heavy rains, which have also caused much damage to wheat in shock. Harvesting has made good progress under favorable weather conditions in the middle Atlantic states. Throughout the south Atlantic and east gulf states there is also much complaint of injury to wheat in shock.

Except in Texas and Oklahoma, cotton has experienced very unfavorable weather conditions, and the crop is generally very grassy, rust and lice being extensively reported throughout the central and eastern portions of the cotton belt. Too rapid growth is also reported from the central portions of the belt, while growth has been checked by low temperatures in North Carolina. Some fields in bottom lands in Mississippi and Tennessee have been abandoned. In Texas the bulk of the crop is now clean and a general improvement is reported, except in some portions of the eastern and central portions of the state, where fields have been abandoned on account of the grass. Boll weevil is causing damage in southern Texas. In the uplands of Tennessee and portions of eastern South Carolina cotton is generally in good condition.

The week has been very favorable to tobacco, except over portions of western Kentucky and Tennessee, where it has suffered from heavy rains.

The statement that apples are falling continues to be a marked feature of the reports respecting this crop throughout the middle Atlantic states and central valleys, although in some portions of these districts there still remains an abundance of fruit on the trees. In Minnesota, Wisconsin, New York and New England a good crop is promised.

BAD NEWS IS CONFIRMED

Admiral Kempff Says all the Legations at Pekin Are Besieged

AND HIS SUPPLIES NEARLY EXHAUSTED.

A courier from Sir Robert Hart, inspector-general of customs at Pekin, has just arrived at Tien Tsin, says a Che Foo dispatch. He left Pekin on Monday, June 25, and reports the situation desperate. On June 18 he reports Baron Von Ketteler, the German minister, and his secretary attempted to visit the Tsung Li Yamen. He was shot four times and died at the rooms of the Tsung Li Yamen. His secretary succeeded in making his escape.

All the legations except the British, German and Italian have been destroyed. The diplomats and missionaries are in the British legation under rifle fire. Cannon command the legations, but they are not being used. It is impossible to start relief at present. Captain McCalla, commander of the Newark, estimates that 50,000 soldiers will be required to relieve the ministers at Pekin.

The navy department at Washington has received the following cablegram from Admiral Kempff without date:

"Chee Foo.

"Secretary of the Navy, Washington:

"Runners from Pekin reported legations are beseiged; provisions nearly exhausted; situation desperate; German minister going to Tsung Li Yamen murdered by Chinese soldiers; American, Italian and Duty Legations burned. Twenty thousand Chinese soldiers inside; 30,000 outside Pekin; 3,000 reported beyond Tien Tsin; still fighting at Tien Tsin. Communication with Tien Tsin by rail and river insecure. KEMPFF."

Bad news came to Washington Monday morning from Admiral Kempff, confirming the worst stories which have emanated from China relative to the condition at Pekin, and a feeling of disquiet was noticeable among administration officials and diplomats.

It was said at the state department that the only news was there seemed to be an unanimous agreement on the part of the powers to welcome the utmost cordiality of Japan's offer to furnish reinforcements for the forces now operating along the Pei Ho river in the effort to reach Pekin, as Japan alone of the powers is prepared to throw into China whatever number of troops may be needed. The news to that effect had come to the state department from all directions and particularly from England, Russia and France.

FIGHT WITH PRISONERS.

Sheriff Dawson, of Magnolia, Ark., Shot Down and Seriously Wounded.

Eight prisoners made a desperate effort to escape from jail at Magnolia, Ark., Monday night, and in a fight to prevent the escape Sheriff John Dawson was shot and seriously wounded. Before retiring Sheriff Dawson had opened the jail door to lock the prisoners in their cells for the night. The men attacked him and a struggle ensued. Dawson shot and fatally wounded L. McDuffy, colored, and Ed Warren. A Texarkana negro named Will Newton succeeded in getting the sheriff's pistol and with it shot the officer down. Six prisoners then made a dash for liberty. When they reached the street several armed citizens were encountered. Sam Garrett, a citizen, shot Lafayette Jones. A hard fight occurred between the citizens and the convicts, resulting in all the prisoners being recaptured except Newton, who, with the sheriff's pistol, continued firing until he got out of sight.

The seam of coal it carries is known as the Underwood or Thompson seam, and is from five to seven feet thick. The Louisville and Nashville and Southern will build a joint road to the proposed mines. Mr. Reynolds said he would organize under the name of the Bibb County Mining company, with temporary office at Blocton.

Contracts will be let for the erection of fifty houses, as soon as the lumber can be cut for that purpose. The proposed output of the mines is a thousand tons per day.

Head Almost Severed From Body.

William Walker cut to death Whit Thompson at the former's home, three miles north of Edwardsville, Cleburne county Sunday night. Walker immediately rode to town and surrendered to the sheriff. He is now in jail.

From reports at hand it seems that Thompson, considerably under the influence of liquor, went to the home of Walker and threatened to run Walker off. Walker protested and Thompson knocked him down twice. A third time Thompson threw him down, and while in this position Walker drew his knife and almost severed Thompson's head from his body, Thompson dying instantly.

A Young Hero.

Near Stevenson, one day last week, during a heavy rain, a lot of lumber was washed onto the track of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway and covered it up for several feet. Two boys of a teamster named James Dunn saw the danger, and one waded into the water above his waist and cleared the road just in time to save the passenger train. His foresight certainly saved a wreck.

STATE CAMPAIGN OPENED.

Colonel William J. Samford, democratic nominee for governor of Alabama, opened the campaign on Friday at Calera. The colonel made a very favorable impression. He spoke with ease and eloquence, without indulging in the claptrap of the political orator. To the men who went away from the party to support the Palmer and Buckner movement in 1896 he said that they must remember that there can be but two parties. There is not room for more in this country, and a man must make his choice. He purposed to show that in making the choice a true Alabamian must hold to the side of the democratic party. He did not feel called upon to denounce those who had for the time departed from their duty to the party. They were good citizens and conscientious, and they did not go out for their personal gain, but because of a sense of duty. Still, as there can not be more than two parties, the movement was a mistake. In Alabama the democratic party means, as it has always meant, economy in the public expenditures. Not one dollar more than is necessary should be taken from the people. The constitutional limitations upon taxation should be retained and taxes should be as low as is consistent with the proper conduct of the government. In the way of public roads he would advocate a special tax, and the abolition of road service for the making of roads. Public officers are to be held to strict accountability. He declared he favored better public schools, and especially text books based on common sense and that did not have to be changed each session. There should be uniformity in the text books, and a commission appointed to see that this is so. Holding his own views upon the dispensary question, he felt convinced that the people preferred to control the liquor traffic by local legislation, and it was his principle never to seek to force moral reforms down the throats of an unwilling people. The whole matter of regulating the traffic in liquor should be relegated to the legislative body. The people must settle that question for themselves.

Colonel Samford said a very good thing when he declared that he had no secrets to hide as to his own views. There is no position, he said, that he valued high enough to tell a falsehood to get. That, we take it, is the keynote of Samford's character. It is the basis of the people's confidence in him.

What he had to say of the constitutional convention proposition is, of course, of most interest. It is known that the colonel did not wish the question to be urged as a platform declaration by the party, but he expressed his intention to support whatever action the party should take on the subject. The party determined to pass a resolution simply that the question be submitted to the people. In his speech at Calera, which we quote from the Montgomery Advertiser of Saturday, we see how he redeemed his promise. His language is forceful and lucid, and ought to leave no doubt as to where he stands:

"Now, I am told that some objection has been raised against the resolution of the democratic convention about a constitutional convention. If there is any reason in desiring the ballot purified then the question with honest seekers after the truth is, how can the suffrage be reformed? Can it be by an amendment? The objection urged to that is, that an amendment must first have two-thirds of the legislature favoring it, and that is right, for changing the organic law is not a trivial thing, but the main objection urged by those who favor a convention is that an amendment must always be voted on at a general election, and at such general election candidates for office, in the wild desire for success, and their friends, will "swap" votes and trade and traffic, etc., and prevent an election on its merits. There is a great deal of force in that position.

"In a matter of as great importance as changing the fundamental law, it should be allowed to stand on its own merits, untrammelled by other issues, and other circumstances.

"Then there are those who say that a convention offers opportunities to destroy the exemption laws; to remove the tax limitation; to give to corporations some great advantages, and the like. Any reasonable man ought to know that any wild or reckless or selfish action would defeat itself by defeating the constitution. The people at the polls would never ratify it, but would smash it to pieces.

"If a convention should be had, its advocates insist, that the question will be before the people at a time when no other election other than the convention and delegates to it is to be held, and that, therefore, it will stand absolutely on its merits, and a moment's thought forces the conviction that there is great force in that contention.

"And again, the democratic convention did not declare in favor of a convention, but in favor of letting the people vote on it, and saying for themselves whether there should be one. Whether, in the judgment of all the people, the time had come when there should be a change in their organic law. Can there be any objection to that?

"Whoever objects to that would seem to be afraid of the people, and has no confidence in their judgment, or in their honesty. Read the resolution and you will see that it is simply a recommendation that the legislature submit the matter to the people, and if the people say no, that is an end of the matter. If they say yes, we wish to have a constitutional convention, they then select delegates, at the same time of voting for the convention. When those delegates prepare a constitution the people then, again, pass on their work. Does it not seem that the democratic party is willing to trust the people? At last, at last, the people are the masters, the source of all power and of all constitutions.

"Some also urge the objection that white men will be disfranchised. Surely such an objection is not honestly urged against the democratic party in the light of the resolution introduced by Judge Carmichael, of the convention, absolutely assuring to the contrary. No white man was to be disfranchised. The party was unalterably committed to that, and that ought to quiet the fears of the most timid and exacting."

The congressional executive committee of this district met Tuesday at Shelby Springs. After a thorough discussion of the action of the state committee in overruling the district committee in ordering a primary, a resolution was introduced in the nature of an appeal to the national committee. This resolution was defeated by a tie vote. After an adjournment of thirty minutes a resolution was unanimously adopted calling a convention to meet in Selma on August 15th, at 10 o'clock forenoon. It was left to the discretion of the several county committees to select delegates to the convention in any way they see proper. This amicable and satisfactory settlement of this question was secured without friction and the democracy of the old Fourth is united and harmonious, and presents an unbroken front to the enemy. The editor of The Chzonicle was an advocate of the primary plan, but we cheerfully acquiesce in the verdict reached, and there is not a scar or sore spot left to remind us that we were not successful, and we are glad to be able to say also that every member who thought as we did that the primary would be preferable, bowed just as gracefully as we did to the will of the majority and are just as ready and anxious today to do their full duty as they have ever been in the past. So the die is cast, we are to have a convention and we are all just as happy and contented as though it had been so ordered from the first. Now let's put up the best man in the district and defeat Aldrich by such a handsome majority that he will not have the gall to contest.

In response to the call of J. S. Jackson for a meeting of anti-stock-law men, quite a good crowd turned out here last Saturday. Messrs. Deans and Sturdivant being present were called upon to give an account of their stewardship. This they did to the best of their ability, but their explanation of how beat nine came to have a stock law was so lame that it did not satisfy the antis a little bit. E. L. Crumpton stated boldly that he censured both Deans and Sturdivant, and he very evidently was not satisfied with their explanations. Several other populists expressed themselves likewise after the meeting was over.

We note with pleasure that the democrats and populists through their chairmen have agreed to have a joint canvass of the county. We hope to see a calm, dispassionate debate in which all the issues will be discussed fairly and candidly so that the people may form intelligent opinions for themselves. We have not lost faith in our fellowmen or in their honesty of purpose when given an opportunity to judge impartially. A list of the appointments will be found in another column.

COLUMBUS HAD SENSE.

"Georgie," who reports his paw's talks at home for the Chicago Times-Herald, recently sent in the following remarks on the wisdom of Columbus in discovering America when there were no millionaires to get out an injunction against him:

"It was a lucky thing for Columbus that he come over here and discovered this country when he did," paw sed when we was gathered around the family surcle last nite.

"Why?" maw ast him.

"Becos," paw told her, "if ennybudy come over here looken fer a place to land now do you no what would happen? J. Pierpont Morgan would be thare when the grate discuverer pulled up to the dock and say: 'I hait to be harsh with you, Chris, this belongs to a sin dycate what I have jist formed and if you want to tie a rope to the western hemasteer you got to pay the skeydul price.'"

"Who is J. Pierpont Morgan?" maw ast. "I think I herd that name some whare before."

"He is the man who lets God press the button," paw told her, "and he does ths rest. He blows the whissel fer the peepul of this country in the mornen and shuts the gate at nite. He owns a millyun doller yot and has a privut car and cant eat sweet things becos they make him too fat, that's who he is. Every nite when he goes to bed he neels down and prays:

Now I lay me down to sleep,
(I formed another trust today)
I pray the lord my sole to keep,
(I've got another under way);
If I should die before I wake
(I'll git it thru without a doubt)
I pray the lord my sole to take

A FEW COCKTAILS.

This is the story of twin sisters and the deception practiced by one who is worldly on the other, who prides herself upon her piety, says the Philadelphia Record. Although they have reached the age of seventy, both old ladies, until recently, have enjoyed the best of health. But of late one of the sisters, who is an old maid and lives all alone over in West Philadelphia, has been ailing a bit. This is the pious one. The other sister, who is a widow and has had her fling at the world, advised a tonic.

"You are all run down," she said. "What you need is something to brace you up and keep you in good spirits. I will bring you some medicine tomorrow." What the worldly sister actually did was to buy a bottle of prepared cocktails and carefully wash the label off.

"Now," said she, as she presented it to the invalid, "this is very expensive and I don't want you to give a taste of it to a soul. Take it all yourself, and take a wineglassful about every three hours."

The next day the widow again paid a visit to her old maid sister and found a great state of affairs. The old lady, who had never tasted liquor in her life before, was in a decidedly hilarious mood. "I feel as young as I did fifty years ago," she confided to her sister. "That tonic is the finest thing in the world. I'll need another bottle tomorrow. Where can I buy it?"

HE GOT EVEN.

"An episcopal clergyman of Grand Rapids who belongs to the Order of Elks," says a member of that order, "attended a meeting the other evening. The chairman noticing his presence said: 'I see our Rev. Brother —— among us this evening. As this is such an unusual occurrence I think he will have to be assessed $5.' The rector put his hand into his waistcoat pocket and, marching up to the desk, put down his little V and made a nice little speech in which he told how glad he was to be with his brother Elks, and ended by inviting them to come and hear him preach the next Sunday evening. Some one moved that the Elks accept the invitation and go in a body to their brother's church, which was unanimously carried. The next Sunday evening the front pews of the church were filled with Elks, and when the Rev. —— ascended the pulpit he said: 'I am delighted to see so many of my brother Elks here this evening, but as it is such an unusual occurrence with the most of them I think they should each be assessed $1. Let your light so shine,' etc. The way the silver dollars rattled on that plate was a caution. The contribution was much heavier than usual, and the Elks voted their reverend brother all right."

No additional accommodations were given by the railroad from this place to Calera last week, but we got there and heard the speaking all the same.

Several of our people graced the floor of the caboose returning from the speaking Friday night, but going to Calera had nothing to do with it. Fact of the business is, the car wanted to stop too often and too sudden.

We call attention to the statement of Gordon DuBose, Banker, in this issue. This is certainly a splendid midsummer statement, and reflects the greatest credit upon the management of the bank. This institution has already won a wide-spread reputation for care and conservatism, and the ability to publish such statements in the dead of summer will add to the reputation of the bank.

The man who wont support the nominees of a party because his man was not strong enough to secure the nomination is a mighty sorry representative of any party with which he affiliates. When a person participates in a primary he has thereby pledged himself to support the ticket named, and a dereliction in this respect should stamp him as a man in whom there is nothing but selfish motives for personal preferment.

John Sutton, a young negro man, was struck by lightning last Sunday afternoon and instantly killed. He was sitting under a tree during the thunder storm that prevailed that day, when lightning struck the tree. He was the son of "Old Judge," a Clay county immigrant, who claims to be "'leven hundred and fifty thousand years old." His home and scene of the tragic occurrence is on the mountain side east of the city.

Wednesday afternoon of last week the Southern passenger train struck Bob Owens, a negro trackman on that road, and killed him instantly. The accident occurred near Nelson's Switch. Bob was working on the roadbed and stepped to a place of safety when the train appeared in sight. When the train was about thirty feet from him, or the length of one rail, he was seen to make a desperate jump and land in the center of the track. His body was thrown more than thirty feet, striking a large stick or post imbedded in the ground and lifting it perhaps three feet from its position. His body was considerably mutilated. Whether he really intended making the crossing or jumped with suicidal intent does not appear.

A cloud vicious in appearance and awe-inspiring in its nature made its appearance above our city last Tuesday evening just at sunset. The under layer of the cloud was of a light gray color, the intermediate layer being an intense black. Over this combination of clouds was a light veil of perfectly white clouds, which passed over and partially hid the blackest portion of the cloud, and at times seemed almost to rest upon the mountain side. It came from the south and moved eastward, but scattered over the whole face of creation when it came in sight of the city and passed directly over us. It gave every indication of a storm and had a tendency to make a fellow feel sorter lonesome and homesick. Not a spoonfull of rain came from it, and we are wondering what its purpose was in scaring us so bad.

Old Soldier has an article in this issue which should be read and given consideration by all who anticipate a pleasant reunion of the old veterans at Shelby Springs next month. No public gathering can hope to merit the esteem of the people for which preparations have been delayed until within a few days of its meeting. All should go to work in earnest and assist in every possible way to make the gathering of the old soldiers this year an occasion attended with fraternal good feeling and enthusiasm. Anything short of cooperation on the part of those who [illegible] were offered for a country's cause can never elevate it to that high plane for which all such meetings are justly fitted. The card is addressed to the veterans and sons of veterans, and a hearty response would give great encouragement to those who have the management of the reunion in hand.

The ball game at Calera last Friday between the team at this place and the nine at Montevallo was one of the prettiest games the people of Shelby county have been given an opportunity to witness in some time. Both teams were in good trim, and the previous postponements of the game seemed to lend them renewed and better strength. Harry Roberts, the pitcher from this place, threw fine ball, fanning 19 men out of 27, and would doubtless have improved upon this had the ball not gotten wet. Every ball that passed the catcher found an abiding place in the branch near the railroad or registered at the Vanderbilt. Montevallo's team did excellent work, and her walkover was not an easy matter, it requiring the utmost strength of her men to secure the game. Errors and wild throws were made by both nines. The score sheet places the result thus: Montevallo, 6; Columbiana, 5. After the completion of the game Montevallo acknowledged that a score had been wrongfully placed to her credit, and was willing that the game be declared a tie.

Notice.

A series of meetings will be held in the Methodist church, commencing next Sunday, to continue as the interest may require, indefinitely, to which all the people of the community are cordially invited to come and enjoy the occasion—all classes of the white race, of all the professions and callings. Let us turn aside from our business, as far as practicable during the hours of service, closing our doors. Let us remember our God, and render to him homage from our hearts for the good of our community.

T. P. Roberts.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this 5th day of July, 1900.

J. R. White,
Register in Chancery.

To the Veterans and Sons of Veterans.

You, with your families, are cordially invited to attend a reunion of the old soldiers to be held at Shelby Springs August 16-17, 1900.

Brethren, let us not forget that to make a success of our display before the public we will have to make some preparations. Now notice that we must have ammunition. This will have to be purchased, as the state will not furnish it. We want some cannons, and can get them from Selma by paying freight to and from. We will, of course, want music to march by, and unless two fifers, two kettle drum beaters, and two bass drum beaters will volunteer their services to give us music on that memorable occasion, music will also have to be paid for. Now, as many who have any of the above-named instruments who can and will furnish them gratis, please notify Col. J. W. Johnston, at Columbiana, at once, by giving your address and what instrument you will play.

Now, brethren of, and friends to, this organization, I have shown you what we will need to make a success of our coming together. It is with us and our children whether our coming together be a good or a frivolous meeting. I will make a proposition. A. W. Strickland, of Columbiana, is the treasurer of our regiment. Now those of us who are wanting the meeting of the old veterans a success, please prove it by remitting to our treasurer any amount you may feel disposed. He will receipt you for same. The colonel is in high spirits, claiming from intelligence that the crowd will probably exceed 5,000. He is very eager that the sons of veterans organize a company in every beat, or district, and drill as often as possible, to be with the veterans to make flank movements and hold the reserve. Please allow me also to prevail on young and middle-aged men to help us all you can in our undertaking.

The 16th will be devoted to the election of officers and drilling, and we are expecting to camp out at night and have a gay old time. The 17th we will drill before noon and fight a continued sham battle of skirmishing and regular lines of battle, with flank movements and rallies, provided we can get the necessities for the occasion. One and all, help us.

Your humble servant,
Old Soldier.

Obituary.

Margaret A. Elliott was born August 23, 1887, and died April 17, 1900. At the tender age of 12 she found Jesus a loving Savior of little girls, and in the exercise of wisdom and resolution she accepted his gospel and joined the M. E. Church, South, and lived a christian life till death. Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints. The good depart this life only to go home and be forever with the Lord. O! how blessed it must be to be with loved ones around the throne of Jesus. O! what a glorious thing to be transferred from military service in this life to triumphant joys in heaven. The humble and obedient in this life will be the joyous and worthy in the next life. As a neighbor, being kind and generous to all with whom she came in contact, only those who knew her well could appreciate her value or feel the loss sustained in her departure. As a member of the church she was exemplary, in that she was faithful and true. As a christian she was always walking before the Lord and wielding an influence for christianity wherever she appeared. As a sister she was agreeable, loving and kind. As a daughter she was obedient and faithful and making home what it ought to be, a place of happiness and embodiment of peace and joy. Her presence gave home its sweetness; her absence makes it destitute and lonely. O! what is home in the absence of a loving child? It is destitute, as heaven would be without a God. But home like health is seldom known, or valued, or enjoyed till the blighting winds have blown and home is all destroyed O! may God gather us all into that home high up in heaven, which is above all the clouds that darken, beyond the winds that blight our joys.

The subject of this obituary was patient and peaceful during all of her sickness, notwithstanding the severity of the pains and sufferings which always accompany that unrelenting malady, consumption. She never murmured, but bore it all with patience and cheerfulness, clinging to Jesus until the bright angelic convoy came to bear her spirit home. On Sunday before she died she had three kind friends to come to her bedside and stay until the last breath left, who were Mrs. D. Smith, Mrs. D. Stone and Mrs. D. Hataway, while others were coming in and out. They will never be forgotten by the family. She always knew her mother. Just before she left her mother went and laid her hand on her face. "Maggie, what do you want?" Oh, how hard she tried to say something, but could not. She then fell asleep in the arms of the blessed Savior, who is always present and ready to receive his own. May the Heavenly Father collect us all into that eternal home, where we will part no more.

Maggie has gone to rest.
To reign with God forever.
Her tongue will always praise
A Savior's love redeeming grace.
Far from world of sin and strife
She now enjoys a heavenly life,
And joins to praise and shout and sing
And make heavenly arches ring.
Could we but hear her tongue
So sweetly sing the heavenly song,
Could we but see her smiling face,
Delighted with the happy place,
We could not wish her back again,
But say, "Dear child, with God remain;
We'll try to gain that peaceful shore,
Where we will meet to part no more."
Now, let us strive the prize to gain,
Let's come to Christ, with him remain;
Then we shall share in Jesus' love.
I'll meet my child in heaven above.

A Free Railroad Ride.

All railroads in Alabama will carry you back home free if you buy a ticket to the Talladega Chautauqua Assembly, June 28 to July 12.

June 29, Old Fashioned Singing day, competition from the Sacred Harp; an hour with Luther Manship, the funny man; fine singing by the Cincinnati Mendelsohn Quartette; a lecture and sermon by Dr. A. A. Willitts, the most cheerful man in the United States, who has graced the platform 40 years. The oratorical contest by Tuscaloosa, Auburn, Greensboro and Howard colleges on the dispensary question; a talk by Mr. Moody, the father of the dispensary movement; an evening with Lamar Fountaine, author of "All Quiet Along the Potomac Tonight," Confederate scout and spy; cooking school demonstration; Polk Miller with his banjo and nigger imitations; Ralp Bingham with his fiddle and comic stories; Mohr, the wonderful sketch artist; great sermon and song service on July 8. All these are but a few of the costly and brilliant attractions of a fifteen-day program. Tickets cost less than fifteen cents per entertainment; boarding rates are very low on account of this occasion, and every business man of the city is backing the chautauqua with money and influence.

Asheville, N. C.

Few regions have been more richly endowed by nature than that famous section of western North Carolina poetically termed the Land of the Sky. It has a climate so dry and health-giving that it has become known the world over as a natural sanitarium for the cure of all troubles of a pulmonary or bronchial nature.

Asheville, the centre of this beautiful mountain-hemmed plateau, is the highest city east of Denver, and is a busy, thriving place of 12,000 inhabitants, with all the modernisms of city life. The city lies just at the point where the beautiful French Broad and Swannanoa Rivers join their crystal waters.

Within the city or in its suburbs many people of wealth have built beautiful and expensive homes, and most notable among them being the chateau of George W. Vanderbilt, which with its great estate, has cost upwards of four million dollars.

Asheville is an all-the-year resort, for its great mountains protect it in the winter from the cold winds and its summer climate is made delightful because of its altitude.

For descriptive matter of Asheville and vicinity call on any Southern Railway agent, or write C. A. Benscoter, A. G. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Summer Resorts.

Many delightful summer resorts are situated on and reached via Southern Railway. Whether one desires the seaside or the mountain, the fashionable hotels or country homes, they can be reached via this magnificent highway of travel.

Asheville, N. C.; Hot Springs, N. C.; Hale Springs, Tenn.; Roan Mountain, Tenn., and the mountain resorts of East Tennessee and Western North Carolina—The Land of the Sky—Tate Springs, Tenn.; Oliver Springs, Tenn.; Lookout Mountain, Tenn.; Monte Sano; Huntsville, Ala.; Lithia Springs, Ga., and various Virginia springs; also the seashore resorts, are reached by the Southern Railway on convenient schedules and very low rates.

The Southern Railway has issued a handsome folder entitled Summer Homes and Resorts, descriptive of nearly one thousand summer resorts, hotels and boarding houses, including information regarding rates for board at the different places. Write to C. A. Benscoter, A. G. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn., for a copy of this folder.

In western North Carolina, between the Blue Ridge on the east and the Alleghanies on the west, in the beautiful valley of the French Broad, two thousand feet above the sea, lies Asheville, beautiful, picturesque, and world-famed as one of the most pleasant resorts in America. It is a land of bright skies and incomparable climate, whose praises have been sung by poets and whose beauties of stream, valley and mountain height have furnished subject and inspiration for the painter's brush. DOGS KILLED BY GAS.

Humane Method of Disposing of Them Adopted in Chicago.

The Chicago Humane Society has at last hit upon a novel but effectual means of disposing of vagrant curs before the heat of summer sets in. They are being gathered up from the streets and asphyxiated by gas. Calls are responded to by the Humane society when made by residents of the city who may be bothered by stray dogs. A number of women, who may be actuated by humanitarian impulses, are cooperating with the society to gather up the animals left to wander and starve along the thoroughfares. It is largely due to their repeated requests for a milder means of destroying dogs that the new scheme of extermination by gas has been brought about. They consider death by shooting an unnecessarily painful process. A small metal tank closely sealed with a tight cover is filled with common illuminating gas admitted by a tube. A small aperture in the cover permits the air to be forced out. Into this tank, one at a time, the dogs are dropped, the gas is turned on, and in thirty seconds they are unconscious and in less than a minute they are lifeless. Two feet of gas is considered sufficient quantity to kill a dog, and the expense amounts to practically the same as the bullet.—Chicago Tribune.

"THE MESSIAH" ON THE PLAINS

"Because of its surroundings, and uplifting by its earnest methods and teaching, the Easter performance of 'The Messiah,' by the Swedish colony at Lindsborg, in central Kansas, is each spring one of the interesting events of the west," writes Charles M. Harger in the Ladies' Home Journal. "A musical festival that, out on the comparatively sparsely settled prairies, can bring together 10,000 people during holy week, many of them coming 200 miles, must be excellent indeed. The growth of the audiences in this instance, year after year, indicates a thorough appreciation of a worthy rendering of Handel's great oratorio. The Swedes are a singing people, and the religious sentiment is strong in their hearts. The one cherished day for this colony of perhaps 3,000 families is Easter, and the chief glory thereof is 'The Messiah.' Four hundred men and maidens participate in these renditions. The orchestra numbers 50 pieces, and is supplemented by a three-manual pipe organ. The leaders, directors and soloists are all members of the Lindsborg community, and teachers in the college there."

WAY OF GOLD BUGS.

CLEARING THE COLLEGES OF BRAVE TEACHERS.

No Truth Wanted in the Temples That Should Be Consecrated to Research—The Cases of Herron Andrews, Rogers and Others.

Referring to the fact that Henry Wade Rogers was compelled to resign as president of Northwestern University because he had publicly stated his disagreement with the Republican program of imperialism, the Chicago Chronicle says:

Within the last few years there has developed a tendency upon the part of college trustees to scrutinize with some jealousy the utterances of faculty members. The case of Dr. Rogers is not the first in which a public expression of opinion on a quasi-political subject has cost a university president his position. The eviction of Dr. Benjamin Andrews from the presidency of Brown university will be recalled by everyone.

Similar instances are numerous among professors. In some cases it has been denied that the professors have been dismissed because of their opinion, but in the cases of Professor Bemis of Chicago, Professor Herron of Grinnell and others it is not disputed that public utterances distasteful to the trustees (or to the bankers that own the trustees), led to a severance of the relations between the college and the teacher.

The trustees do not deny the right of faculty members to hold opinions that may be classed as heterodox—socially or politically—nor do they deny the right to express those opinions privately. The objection is to public utterances which may be construed as committing the college to radical sentiments, thereby scaring off wealthy gentlemen who may be contemplating liberal donations. The endowment question undoubtedly has influenced most, if not all, of the dismissals of presidents and professors who have expressed views unpalatable to prospective benefactors.

And, of course, if the matter be looked at from a purely business standpoint the trustees are justified in their action. The grocer does not retain in his employ a clerk who is persona non grata to his wealthy patrons. The book agent does not affront the prejudices of a person from whom he expects an order.

If a college were a money-making, money-seeking institution pure and simple no one could quarrel with the policy which sacrifices competent professors to the resentment of wealthy men who bestow or withhold their donations according as their views and opinions are deferred to or opposed.

The question is whether colleges ought to be influenced entirely by mercenary motives—whether a college thus influenced is capable of instilling proper principles into the minds of youth—whether it is not a mere tender to conservatism and prejudice rather than an institution for broad culture and training in right modes of thought.

It is certain that no institution of learning which dreads open discussion of any subject can be called a university. Universality includes everything.

These questions will assume more prominence in the near future—the more so as they are likely to become in some degree political. For it is to be noted that in every case where a professor or a college president has been dismissed because of his utterances those utterances have been partly or entirely in accord with the principles of the Democratic party.

No president—no professor—has been evicted from his chair for making Republican stump speeches, and such stump speeches are far more numerous than are the anti-imperialist addresses of Dr. Rogers or the silver utterances of Dr. Andrews.

It will therefore become a question not merely of rich men controlling the colleges, but of those rich men making every college a close Republican corporation. That question, particularly in the west, will receive the attention which its importance deserves.

THE BOERS.

At present writing the war in Africa seems to be about ended. A British army 250,000 strong has, after losses aggregating over 30,000, succeeded in defeating an army of 40,000 men, and in blotting out two prosperous republics.

The nations of the world have stood by and witnessed the subjugation of a few people and no voice has been raised in defense of the brave Burghers. The sympathy of the American people has been extended to them, but the sympathy of the American government has been with the British. On the cowardly theory that we must avoid foreign complications, every encouragement has been given the British government in doing to the South African republics what she attempted to do to the American colonies 125 years ago.

It is not too late for our government to save a free people from extinction. The plea of public policy which has been applied to the conduct of our administration up to this time can no longer serve. It is probably not our province to interfere in wars between foreign nations, but now that this war is over, and the Boers have been punished for daring to oppose the will of a greater power, the American government is certainly justified in demanding that that punishment shall not extend to the extinction of the republics. England may demand indemnity in money; she may demand concessions in commerce, but when she declares deliberately that two republics shall be merged into the body of the British empire, our government, not for sentimental reasons, but as a matter of public policy, should call a halt.

THE STEALS IN CUBA.

The story of shame and fraud and monstrous corruption in Cuba under the McKinley military regime grows in volume and interest because of the administration's open willingness—nay, anxiety—that the real culprits shall be protected. Figures are cropping out occasionally which show what Yankee robbers can do when assured of White House protection. The figures herewith used are furnished by the auditor for Cuba. Among the expenditures for public works, ports and harbors from July 1 to Dec. 31 of last year were: Salaries, $36,155.35; pay rolls, labor, $152,656.47; repairs, $3,885.58. Department of charities and hospitals for the same period: Salaries, $17,854.06; pay rolls, labor, $76,022.37; removing garbage, $225.32; ammunition—for charity and hospitals—$16,160.91! Barracks and quarters, same period: Salaries, $8,325.11; pay rolls, labor, $189,511.70; United States army for the island of Cuba, $40,318.51. Municipalities, same period: Salaries, $67,294.46; pay rolls, $21,299.83; improvements, $1,500. Through the entire list the bulk of the revenues mulcted from the Cubans was put into the pockets of administration favorites as "salaries." This relates only to that portion of the funds assumed to have been honestly disbursed.

Up to this date the record of Republican steals in Cuba—admitted by the government—is as follows:

Waste, as shown by Bristow's reductions to date, $42,000.

Rathbone's "per diem," in addition to salary of $6,500, $1,700.

Director's house rent paid out of Cuban revenues, $3,000.

Furnishings of house, unwarranted, $2,500.

Notifying McKinley.

William McKinley, Emperor of Expediency, will sit serenely upon the Canton porch July 4—a very dodo of integrity—and from that vantage point of the carpenter's craft will receive officially the news of his renomination for a second term. With him will sit Mark Hanna, that man merchant of great traffic in the land, and before them will pass in review many "importunate mendicants for popular applause"—representatives of the communism of pelf—who want to be remembered in the division of loot. It is to be a gay and joyous occasion. Extensive preparations have been made for the festivity. The malodorous official scandals in the administration background have been made temporarily inoffensive by the liberal use of "White House Whitewash," recommended by Eagan, Alger and the Beef trust. Mr. McKinley will have with him to aid him in sustaining the pleasant shock of news from Philadelphia, a few distinguished representatives of the trust oligarchy and two or three of the most forward members of the White House syndicate who put their money into the game for just such occasions as this. There will be feasting and speaking and music, and much burying of the speaking countenance in the fragrant mint—and yet there will be unrest and uneasiness. There will be furtive and frequent glances for the handwriting on the wall! Belshazzar was a husky king, but even he quailed before the warning, and, with the possible exception of Hanna, the men who meet the president July 4 cannot fail to be infected with the fear that the Populist David is to take the bridle of tribute out of the hands of the Philistines!

Concede Philippine Failure.

And now the McKinley prophets concede that the Philippine war is not over; that, in fact, the islanders are still thoroughly rebellious, and that more troops rather than less than the 65,000 now there will be needed.

But, with easy mendacity, they now charge that all this hostility on the part of the Filipinos is because of the encouragement given them by the wicked anti-imperialists. Only re-elect McKinley and a Republican congress, they assert, and the insurgents will at once lay down their arms and bend their necks to the McKinley yoke of colonial absolutism.

It is, indeed, a far cry from that McKinley who, in his Cuban message, rightly declared that "forcible annexation would be criminal aggression," to the McKinley who has now, for near a year and a half, in shameful breach of faith with our Filipino allies, been waging a war of conquest in the Orient. Well may William Lloyd Garrison ask:

How, in the future, will this record read?
"Here lie the patriots of the Philippines,
Murdered, to gratify a nation's greed,
By men whose rebel fathers on the greens
Of Lexington and Concord dared to bleed
And die for what to freemen freedom means."

—Grand Rapids Democrat.

High License for Commissaries.

The Anniston city council at a meeting Saturday named a license tax of $2,500 per year for each commissary or store which takes in payment for goods checks or scrip issued for labor, whether at a discount or not. This action was taken because of a belief that a building being erected by the Southern Car and Foundry company was to be used by it as a commissary.

His home is at Bristol, Tenn.

WANTS TO SELL HIS BODY.

Contortionist Wants a Customer for His Corpse.

Although by no means desiring to shuffle off this mortal coil, Walter Wentworth wants to sell his body. He has done it twice already in his lifetime, and now, although in his seventy-fifth year, he is looking about for another purchaser, and if he finds one, he thinks he has a good chance of surviving him, too, says the New York Herald. Walter is what is ordinarily called a "freak." He is a contortionist, and the queer things he does with his legs and his arms, and even his spinal column, are enough to make the eyes of the ordinary person bulge out to a dangerous extent. Even physicians are puzzled at the curious way in which he handles himself, and it was a doctor who first suggested to Wentworth the idea of selling his body. It was just sixty years ago that Wentworth ran away from his home near Detroit, Mich., to ride race horses. Then he joined a traveling circus and went the whole world over. With all his knocking about and the seventy-five years he carries, he is just as lively and supple as a 15-year-old boy. It was while he was being exhibited in Detroit in 1870 that he got a chance to sell himself. Dr. Cowe was greatly interested in him, and offered $100 for his body after he had done with it, for dissecting purposes. Wentworth jumped at the offer; the money was paid down. The doctor, however, conveniently died within a few months. Wentworth came to New York five years later, and was able on the trip to persuade Dr. H. L. Wilder of the Kings county hospital to take stock in him at the same price, a case of getting in on the basement floor if Dr. Wilder should live. He thinks Dr. Wilder will be unable to fill his part of the contract. He is therefore anxious to find somebody else who will invest in him.

MOCKING BIRD

A mocking bird belonging to Mrs. William Neill has actually been taught by her to talk. It is very interesting indeed to hear it utter the words that have, by persistent and painstaking efforts, been taught it. This bird's cognomen is Charlie, and it has a reputation that is envied by mocking bird owners. It mimics ever noise it hears if it is repeated a number of times, and can repeat all the call whistles that the boys of the various cliques and clans use as signals.

Mr. Neill used to own a dog, and their favorite call for the pet animal was "Hear, hear, hear, hear," and a short whistle; and repeated. Now the bird tCharlie can tell that dog as distinctly as any person might. It very clearly says "Hear, hear; (whistles); hear, hear," etc. While living at the Planters' hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Neill were frequently treated to a cat serenade, and the bird learned to mimic them to a surprising degree. Now that they are residing in presumably a catless neighborhood they are often fooled by the bird, who can mew so much like a cat that one is loath to believe that the sounds issue from the bird's throat unless actually standing near the cage. —Augusta (Ga.) Herald.

Dewey's Kindness to Children.

This incident took place while the admiral was on the Chicago drainage canal on his recent western tour. In the pouring rain upon the bank near Lockport as the tug Hinda bore away stod two little girls waving little flags and craning their necks vainly for a glimpse of the man they had come too late to welcome. The admiral saw them from the cabin where he had sought shelter. "The poor little things; they were probably late," and grabbing his hat, he ran out to salute them. The boat was near the shore, and the two children fairly shrieked when they saw him waving his hat so near them. "Now they can go home without having to say they got a wetting without seeing me. The little one was very pretty. Did you notice what nice-looking little children they were?" This to Mayor Harrison, who had run after him with an umbrella.—Chicago Chronicle.

OTTERS TOBOGGANING.

Canadian Otter Coasts and Slides Down Hill Just for Fun.

It seems strange to think that any full grown, four-footed animal should indulge in play like a child, and yet this is what the otter does. His amusement is tobagganing, and his playground is a slope, covered with ice or snow, that goes down grade into a pool of water. No little boy, with a new sled, ever enjoyed a coast down an ice-bound hill more than this beautiful creature from the frozen north. The otter is quite large, sometimes weighing as much as 25 pounds. He resembles the seal and the mink, being, however, of heavier build, and is both supple and strong. Living for the most part in water, he preys on fish, which his swimming and diving ability enables him to catch easily. The entrance to his home, which is a burrow in the bank of a stream, is under the water. In the early spring when the ice begins to thaw, these animals start on their travels from one stream to another, sometimes spending months on the journey. If they happen to see an inviting hill by the wayside they immediately stop their pilgrimage and prepare for some sport. One of the number leaves the water and slowly climbs the slope, making a smooth hollow in the ice with his wet body. When the slide is prepared, he lies flat on his belly, thrusts his nose forward, and turning his fore paws under his soft sides, goes sailing swiftly down. His speed steadily increases until he reaches the water. Silently he parts the surface and is lost from sight for a few seconds; then his head appears above the surface and you can hear him give a call which sounds like a whistle. This is a signal. The next otter assumes the position and shoots down to the bottom to join his companion, who has meanwhile crawled out on the ice. Then another whistle and the next in order slides and plunges, and the performance is kept up until each one has several trips to his credit.—Exchange.

A New Word.

A New York correspondent in the Pittsburg Dispatch says that a French waiter uptown walked out of a window in his sleep the other morning, and although he may die as a consequence of his injuries, it might be some consolation to him to know that in giving his life he has also given to the world a new verb, "to somnambulate." It is employed in a description of the disaster in one of the evening papers of this city. Every one must admit that "somnambulate" is good, even if it is unusual.

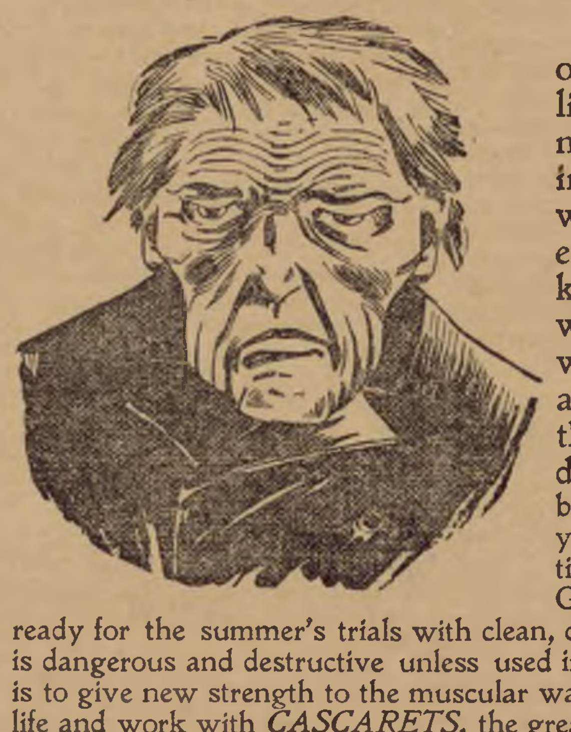
A DEAD LIVER



He thinks he lives, but he's a dead one. No person is really alive whose liver is dead. During the winter most people spend nearly all their time in warm, stuffy houses or offices or workshops. Many don't get as much exercise as they ought, and everybody knows that people gain weight in winter. As a rule it is not sound weight, but means a lot of flabby fat and useless, rotting matter staying in the body when it ought to have been driven out. But the liver was overburdened, deadened—stopped work. There you are, with a dead liver, and spring is the time for resurrection. Wake up the dead! Get all the filth out of your system, and get ready for the summer's trials with clean, clear blood, body, brain free from bile. Force is dangerous and destructive unless used in a gentle persuasive way, and the right plan is to give new strength to the muscular walls of the bowels, and stir up the liver to new life and work with CASCARETS, the great spring cleaner, disinfectant and bowel tonic. BRYAN AND STEVENSON.

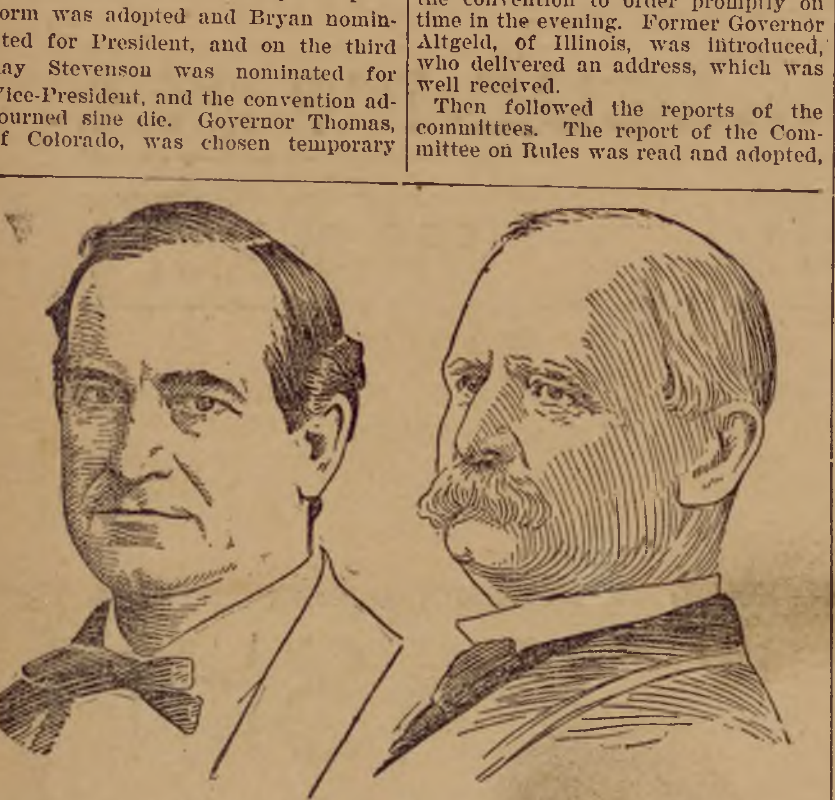
The Democratic Candidates For President and Vice-President.

CONVENTION IN DETAIL.

The Proceedings of the Democratic National Convention at Kansas City—Name of Bryan for President Was Presented by W. D. Oldham, of Nebraska—He Was Nominated Unanimously—The Contest for the Vice-Presidency—Several Names Were Presented But Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, Received the Nomination—Scenes Attending the Naming of the Ticket.

Kansas City (Special). — The ticket nominated by the Democratic National Convention is William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, for President, and Adlai Ewing Stevenson, of Illinois, for Vice-President. The convention was in session for three days. On the first day the temporary organization was effected. On the second day the platform was adopted and Bryan nominated for President, and on the third day Stevenson was nominated for Vice-President, and the convention adjourned sine die. Governor Thomas, of Colorado, was chosen temporary chairman, and Representatives James D. Richardson, of Tennessee, permanent chairman. Senator Jones was reelected Chairman of the National Committee.



BRYAN AND STEVENSON.
(Democratic candidates for President and Vice-President.)

The scheme of the interior of the Convention Hall is more like that of the Saratoga convention hall than of any other convention hall in the country. The 2000 chairs for the delegates and alternates occupied about one-half of the arena floor. A stage that seated about 1000 persons, and which was backed up by a few private boxes for star guests, projected out from one side of the arena floor to about the centre. On the front of this stage was a rostrum for the officers of the convention and the speakers, which was about two feet higher than the stage proper. Banked upon either side of the stage were the press seats.

Senator James K. Jones, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, called the convention to order. The first business of the convention was the reading of the formal call by Secretary Walsh. When the call was read the Rev. D. S. M. Neal offered prayer. Senator Jones then introduced James A. Reed, Mayor of Kansas City, who made the address of welcome to the delegates.

CHAS S. THOMAS
GOVERNOR OF COLORADO.

(Temporary Chairman.)

When the applause which greeted the finish of Mayor Reed's speech had subsided Chairman Jones introduced Governor Thomas, of Colorado, the temporary chairman. He read his speech from typewritten manuscript. Governor Thomas's speech was well received by those who heard it. Temporary Chairman Thomas next recognized Daniel J. Campau, of Michigan, who moved that the Declaration of Independence be read. The motion was carried. The band then played patriotic airs, while a bust of William Jennings Bryan was brought in and placed upon a pedestal. When quiet was restored Charles S. Hampton, of Michigan, read the Declaration of Independence.

JAMES D. RICHARDSON.
(Permanent Chairman.)

Then occurred a remarkable demonstration for former Senator Hill, which lasted for fifteen minutes. The call of States followed for naming the members of the various committees, and then an adjournment was taken.

The convention again assembled at 4 p. m., but as no committees were ready to report an adjournment was taken until 8.30 p. m.

Temporary Chairman Thomas called the convention to order promptly on time in the evening. Former Governor Altgeld, of Illinois, was introduced, who delivered an address, which was well received.

Then followed the reports of the committees. The report of the Committee on Rules was read and adopted, as well as the report of the Committee on Credentials.

The report of the Committee on Permanent Organization was then heard. The temporary secretaries and special officers were made permanent, and James D. Richardson, of Tennessee, was made permanent chairman.

Chairman Richardson was escorted to the platform and began his address. When Bryan's name was mentioned by Chairman Richardson there was a storm of applause lasting half an hour. It was accompanied by waving of flags, hats, handkerchiefs and banners, and by music of the band and a marching of delegates with State guide posts around the hall.

The convention adjourned until 10.30 a. m. the following day.

Chairman Richardson called the convention to order at 11 a. m. Although the hall will only seat 12,000 persons at least 20,000 were permitted to jam their way in. The Right Rev. John J. Glennan delivered the opening invocation.

Inasmuch as the Committee on Platform was not ready to report the delegates listened to a series of long talks. Governor Hogg, of Texas; former Governor Dockery, of Missouri; Mayor Rose, of Milwaukee; George Fred Williams, of Massachusetts; Congressman Williams, of Illinois; Governor Beckham, of Kentucky, and J. W. Miles, of Maryland, being the speakers.

The Committee on Resolutions was then ready to report. Senator Jones, Chiarman of the committee, merely announced that his committee had unanimously agreed up a report, and then called on Senator Tillman to read the platform.

Senator Tillman read the platform in a most effective manner, the greatest enthusiasm being manifested as the delegates heard the more important planks. When Senator Tillman closed the reading of the platform Chairman Jones moved that the platform be adopted by acclamation. The motion was carried unanimously.

Chairman Richardson then announced that the next order of business was the nomination of a candidate for the Presidency of the United States. The call of the roll of States began.

"Alabama," the Secretary shouted.

"The State of Alabama," said the Chairman of the delegation of that State, "yields to Nebraska the privilege of naming the next President of the United States."

W. D. Oldham, of Nebraska, who was to present the name of Mr. Bryan to the convention, was waiting by the Chairman's desk. As the Chairman of the Alabama delegation resumed his seat, he came forward and began the nominating speech.

The seconding addresses were made by E. P. Perkins, of Texas; former Senator White, of California; Judge Thompson, of Illinois; former Senator Hill, of New York; Tenant Lomax, of Alabama; W. B. Moore, of North Carolina; Senator Daniel, of Virginia; John H. Atwood, of Kansas; W. C. Baker, of Ohio; former Governor Pattison, of Pennsylvania; Governor Benton McMillan, of Tennessee; John H. Wise, of Hawaii, and Mrs. Cohen, of Utah.

Secretary Walsh then called the roll of States on the ballot for the Presidential nomination. When the roll call was concluded Chairman Richardson announced that William Jennings Bryan had been nominated for President of the United States unanimously.

The nomination of Bryan was made the occasion of a remarkable demonstration, in which thousands of men and women joined.

The convention adjourned until 10.30 a. m. the following day.

Chairman Richardson called the convention to order at 10.45 a. m. Rabbi Harry H. Mayer opened the proceedings with prayer.

Immediately following the prayer the call of States began for the purpose of making nominations for the Vice-Presidency. The candidates presented were six in number, as follows: David Bennett Hill, of New York; Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois; Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota; James Hamilton Lewis, of the State of Washington; Governor John Walter Smith, of Maryland; Julian S. Carr, of North Carolina, and Abraham W. Patrick, of Ohio.

There was a spirited and at times dramatic contest between the advocates of Stevenson, Town, Hill and the minor candidates. The most notable feature of the day was the enthusiastic reception given to former Senator Hill. He protested against being placed in nomination, and, finding his protest in vain, went to the platform and besought the convention not to nominate him.

At the end of the roll call Stevenson had received 568½ votes. Hill 198 votes, Towne 91½ votes, while Danforth, Hogg, Carr and Patrick received one vote each. As soon as it was seen that the nomination of Mr. Stevenson was inevitable the States which had given complimentary votes to other candidates made haste to join the majority, thus making the nomination unanimous.

As soon as the cheering which attended the nomination of Mr. Stevenson had subsided Milton Turner, a prominent negro of Missouri, the Chairman of the Convention of the Afro-Americans, which only recently nominated Mr. Bryan for President, was invited to the platform and briefly addressed the convention.

The usual formal resolutions of thanks to Kansas City and the officers of the convention were adopted, and then, at 3.21 p. m., the National Democratic Convention of 1909 adjourned.

The Silver Republican Convention nominated Bryan for President by acclamation, and referred the Vice-Presidential nomination to the National Committee, with plenary powers. The convention adopted a platform with a specific declaration in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold into money at the ratio of 16 to 1. Trusts are denounced, as are the Porto Rican tariff and imperialism, and a plank expressing sympathy with the Boers is inserted.

At the meeting of the National Committee held after the convention Senator Jones was re-elected Chairman and all the other officers were re-elected.

Ruth Bryan, the eldest daughter of the nominee, saw her father nominated for the highest office in the gift of the people. She sat in the front row of the main gallery, exactly opposite the centre of the speakers' stage. Ruth was a pretty picture. On her dainty head was a white hat, trimmed with scarlet. She wore a white dress, and from time to time she looked at her father's famous friends on the platform through an opera glass.

How Bryan Received the News.

Lincoln, Neb. (Special).—Mr. Bryan was reading an evening newspaper in the front parlor when the news of his nomination was sent in.

State Senator Talbot, Mr. Bryan's former law partner, was in the room above receiving the messages from the operators. Suddenly he came tearing down the stairs, two steps at a time, shouting:

"You're nominated, old man; you're nominated!"

Mr. Bryan straightened up, reached out his hand and asked to see the message. He read it over and smiled, but said nothing.

Stevenson on His Nomination.

Minneapolis, Minn. (Special).—The news of his nomination at Kansas City was given to Adlai E. Stevenson at the summer cottage of his son-in-law, the Rev. M. D. Hardin, at Lake Minnetonka, by a representative of the press. Said Mr. Stevenson:

"This comes as a great surprise to me. I was not a candidate at any time and never expected to be nominated. But, of course, I shall accept the call of my party. I had expected to do some campaigning any way, but now I shall do a great deal more."

Suicide of a Child.

Because she loved a young man and talked with him at trysting places against the wishes of her mother, little Annie Murphy, thirteen years old, of Philadelphia, was whipped with a strap by her parent. The humiliations brought by the whipping and the objection to the object of her affection formed the motive of the girl when she leaped from Gray's Ferry Bridge into the Schuylkill River and was drowned.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

This is the text of the platform adopted by the democratic party in national convention assembled at Kansas City, July 5, 1900:

"We, the representatives of the democratic party of the United States, assembled in national convention on the anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, do reaffirm our faith in that immortal proclamation of the inalienable rights of men, and our allegiance to the constitution framed in harmony therewith by the fathers of the republic.

"We hold that according to the United States supreme court the Declaration of Independence is the spirit of our government, of which the constitution is the form and letter.

IMPERIALISM DENOUNCED.

"We declare again that all governments instituted among men derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, that any government not based upon the consent of the governed is a tyranny; and to impose upon any people any government of force is to substitute the methods of imperialism for those of a republic. We hold that the constitution follows the flag, and denounce the doctrine that an executive or congress deriving their existence and their powers from the constitution can exercise lawful authority beyond it or in violation of it. We assert that no nation can long endure half republic and half empire and we warn the American people that imperialism abroad will lead quickly and inevitably to despotism at home.

PORTO RICAN LAW.

"Believing in these principles, we denounce the Porto Rico law, enacted by a republican congress against the protest and opposition of the democratic minority, as a bold and open violation of the nation's organic law, and a flagrant breach of the national good faith. It imposes upon the people of Porto Rico a government without their consent and taxation without representation. It dishonors the American people by repudiating a solemn pledge made in their behalf by the commanding general of our army, which the Porto Ricans welcomed to a peaceful and unresisted occupation of their land. It doomed to poverty and distress a people whose helplessness appeal with peculiar force to our justice and magnanimity.

"In this the first act of its imperialistic program, the republican party seeks to commit the United States to a colonial policy inconsistent with republican institutions, and condemned by the supreme court in numerous decisions.

"We demand the prompt and honest fulfillment of our pledges to the Cuban people and the world that the United States has no disposition nor intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over the island of Cuba, except for its pacification. The war ended nearly two years ago, profound peace reigns over all the islands and still the administration keeps the government of the island from its people while republican carpetbag officials plunder its revenues and exploit the colonial theory to the disgrace of the American people.

PHILIPPINE QUESTION.

"We condemn and denounce the Philippine policy of the present administration. It has involved the republic unnecessarily in war, sacrificed the lives of many of our noblest sons and placed the United States, previously known and applauded throughout the world as the champion of freedom, in the false and un-American position of crushing with military force the efforts of our former allies to achieve liberty and self-government.

"The Filipinos cannot be civilized without endangering our civilization; they cannot be subjected without imperiling our form of government, and as we are not willing to surrender our civilization or to convert the republic into an empire, we favor an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose to give the Filipinos, first, a stable form of government; second, independence, and third, protection from outside interference, such as has been given for nearly a century to the republics of Central and South America.

"The greedy commercialism which dictated the Philippine policy of the republican administration attempts to justify it with the plea that it will pay, but even this sordid and unworthy plea fails when brought to the test of facts. The war of criminal aggression against the Filipinos, entailing an annual expense of many millions, has already cost more than any possible profit that could accrue from the entire Philippines trade for years to come. Furthermore, when trade is extended at the expense of liberty the price is always too high.

EXTENSION OF REPUBLIC'S INFLUENCE.

"We are not opposed to territorial expansion when it takes in desirable territory, which can be erected into states in the union and whose people are willing and fit to become American citizens.

"We favor trade expansion by every peaceful and legitimate means. But we are unalterably opposed to the seizing or purchasing of distant islands to be governed outside the constitution and whose people can never become citizens.

"We are in favor of extending the republic's influence among the nations, but believe that influence should be extended not by force and violence, but through the persuasive power of a high and honorable example. The importance of other questions now pending before the American people is in no wise diminished and the democratic party takes no backward step from its position on them, but the burning issue of imperialism growing out of the Spanish war involves the very existence of the republic and the destruction of our free institutions. We regard it as the paramount issue of the campaign.

MONROE DOCTRINE.

"The declaration in the republican platform adopted at the Philadelphia convention held in June, 1900, that the republican party steadfastly adheres to the policy announced in the Monroe doctrine, is manifestly insincere and deceptive. This profession is contradicted by the avowed policy of that party in opposition to the spirit of the Monroe doctrine to acquire and hold sovereignty over large areas of territory and large numbers of people in the eastern hemisphere.

"We insist on the strict maintenance of the Monroe doctrine and in all its integrity both in letter and in spirit as necessary to prevent the extension of European authority on this continent and essential to our supremacy in American affairs. At the same time we declare that no American people shall ever be held by force in unwilling subjection to European authority.

MILITARISM.

"We oppose militarism. It means conquest abroad and intimidation and oppression at home. It means the strong army which has ever been fatal to free institutions. It is what millions of our citizens have fled from in Europe. It will impose upon our liberty loving people a large standing army and an unnecessary burden of taxation and a constant menace to their liberties. A small standing army and a well disciplined state militia are amply sufficient in time of peace. This republic has no place for a vast military service and conscription. When the nation is in danger the volunteer soldier is his country's best defender. The national guard of the United States should ever be cherished in the patriotic hearts of a free people. Such organizations are ever an element of strength and safety. For the first time in our history and co-evil with the Philippine conquest has there been a wholesale departure from our time honored and approved system of volunteer organization. We denounce it as un-American, un-democratic and un-republican, and as a subversion of the ancient and fixed principles of a free people.

TRUSTS.

"Private monopolies are indefensible and intolerable. They destroy competition, control the price of all material and of the finished product, thus robbing both producer and consumer. They lessen the employment of labor and arbitrarily fix the terms and conditions thereof and deprive individual energy and small capital of their opportunity for betterment.

"They are the most efficient means yet devised for appropriating the fruits of industry to the benefit of the few at the expense of the many, and unless their insatiate greed is checked all wealth will be aggregated in a few hands and the republic destroyed.

"The dishonest paltering with the trust evil by the republican party in state and national platforms is conclusive proof of the truth of the charge that the trusts are the legitimate product of republican policies; that they are fostered by republican laws, and that they are protected by the republican administration in return for campaign subscription and political support.

"We pledge the democratic party to an unceasing warfare in nation, state and city against private monopoly in every form. Existing laws against trusts must be enforced, and more stringent ones must be enacted providing for publicity as to the affairs of corporations engaged in interstate commerce and requiring all corporations to show, before doing business outside of the state in their origin, that they have no water in their stock, and that they have not attempted and are not attempting to monopolize any branch of business or the production of any articles of merchandise, and the whole constitutional power of congress over interstate commerce, the mails and all modes of interstate communication shall be exercised by the enactment of comprehensive laws upon the subject of trusts. Tariff laws should be amended by putting the products of trusts upon the free list to prevent monopoly under the plea of protection.

"The failure of the present republican administration with absolute control of all the branches of the national government to enact any legislation designed to prevent or even curtail the absorbing power of trusts and alleged combinations or to enforce the anti-trust laws already on the statute books prove the insincerity of the high sounding phrase of the republican platform.

"Corporations should be protected in all their rights, and the legitimate interests should be respected, but any attempt by corporations to interfere with the public affairs of the people or to control the sovereignty which creates them, should be forbidden under such penalties as will make such attempts impossible.

"We condemn the Dingley tariff law as a trust breeding measure, skillfully devised to give the few favors which they do not deserve and to place upon the many burdens which they should not bear.

"We favor such an enlargement of the scope of the interstate commerce law as will enable the commission to protect individuals and communities from discriminations, and the public from unjust and unfair transportation rates.

FINANCIAL PLANK.

"We affirm and indorse the principles of the national democratic platform adopted in Chicago in 1896, and we reiterate the demand of that platform for an American financial system made by the American people for themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level, and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation."

"We denounce the currency bill enacted in the last session of congress as a step forward in the republican policy which aims to discredit the sovereign right of the national government to issue all money, whether coin or paper; and to bestow upon national banks the power to issue and control the volume of paper money for their own benefit. A permanent national bank currency secured by government bonds must have a permanent debt to rest upon, and if the bank currency is to increase with population and business, the debt must also increase. The republican currency scheme is the reform scheme for fastening upon the taxpayers a perpetual and growing debt for the benefit of the banks. We are opposed to this private corporation paper circulated as money, but without legal tender qualities, and demand the retirement of the national bank notes as fast as government paper or silver certificates can be substituted for them.

ELECTION OF U. S. SENATORS.

"We favor an amendment to the federal constitution providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, and we favor direct legislation wherever practicable.

"We are opposed to government by injunction; we denounce the black list, and favor arbitration as a means of settling disputes between corporations and their employes.

"In the interest of American labor and the uplifting of the workingman as the corner stone of the prosperity of our country, we recommend that congress create a department of labor, in charge of a secretary, with a seat in the cabinet, believing that the elevation of the American laborer will bring with it increased production and increased prosperity to our country at home, and to our commerce abroad.

"We are proud of the courage and fidelity of the American soldiers and sailors in all our wars; we favor liberal pensions to them and their dependents, and we reiterate the position taken in the Chicago platform in 1896 that the fact of enlistment and services shall be deemed conclusive evidence against disease and disability before enlistment.

NICARAGUAN CANAL.

"We favor the immediate construction, ownership and control of the Nicaragua canal by the United States, and we denounce the insincerity of the plank in the national republican platform for an Isthmian canal in the face of the failure of the republican majority to pass the bill pending in congress. We condemn the Hay-Pauncefote treaty as a surrender of American rights and interests, not to be tolerated by the American people.

"We denounce the failure of the republican party to carry its pledges to grant statehood to the territories of Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, and we promise the people of those territories immediate statehood and home rule during their condition as territories, and we favor home rule and a territorial form of government for Alaska and Porto Rico.

"We favor an intelligent system of improving the arid lands of the west, storing the waters for purposes of irrigation, and the holding of such lands for actual settlers.

"We favor the continuance and strict enforcement of the Chinese exclusion law and its application to the same classes of all Asiatic races.

"Jefferson said: 'Peace, commerce and honest friendship with nations, entangling alliance with no one.' We approve this wholesome doctrine and earnestly protest against the republican departure which has involved us in so-called politics, including the diplomacy of Europe and the intrigue and land-grabbing of Asia, and we especially condemn the ill-concealed republican alliance with England, which must [illegible] against other friendly nations, and which has already stifled the nation's voice while liberty is being strangled in Africa.

SYMPATHY FOR THE BOERS.

"Believing in the principles of self-government and rejecting as did our forefathers the claim of monarchy, we view with indignation the purpose of England to overwhelm with force the South African republics. Speaking, as we do, for the entire American nation, except its republican office-holders, and for all free men everywhere, we extend our sympathies to the heroic burghers in their unequal struggle to maintain their liberty and independence.

"We denounce the lavish appropriations of recent republican congresses, which have kept taxes high and which threaten the perpetuation of the oppressive war levies. We oppose the accumulation of a surplus to be squandered in such fare-faced frauds upon the taxpayers as the shipping subsidy bill, which, under the false pretense of fostering American shipbuilding, would put unearned millions into the pockets of favored contributors to the republican campaign fund.

"We favor the reduction and speedy repeal of the war taxes and a return to the time-honored democratic policy of strict economy in governmental expenditures.

"Believing that our most cherished institutions are in great peril, that the very existence of our constitutional republic is at stake, and the decision to be rendered will determine whether or not our children are to enjoy these blessed privileges of free government which have made the United States great, prosperous and honored, we earnestly ask for the foregoing declaration of principles the hearty support of the liberty-loving people, regardless of previous party affiliations."

The renascence of the German empire must be regarded as one of the most impressive features of the last third of the century. We do not mean merely its military achievements and prowess, stupendous as these are; nor yet its rise in political importance to a place in the very foremost rank of the world's nations. Empire means more than war and politics. The most noteworthy and the most significant progress of Germany has been in other directions than these, and in directions without which these would be futile. Colonially, commercially, industrially and socially the course of empire in Germany commands the wondering attention of the world, exclaims the New York Tribune.

Professor Edward W. Bemis, writing in the New York Independent, says that American trade unions have been the most active force in securing compulsory education, factory legislation, employers' liability acts, free public employment bureaus, bureaus of labor statistics, boards of arbitration, sanitary laws for workers, the regulation or prohibition of sweatshops, the early closing of stores, and the eight-hour day.

Orphanages and destitute orphans are alike nonexistent in Australia. There every waif is taken to a receiving house and kept till a country home is found for it.

THE SITUATION IN CHINA

CONFLICTING REPORTS FROM SHANGHAI

Disorders in the Provinces Seem to Be Increasing in Violence—Foreigners Preparing to Abandon Their Homes.

London (Special). — The foreign consuls at Shanghai met on July 7 and officially announced that the legations at Pekin were safe on July 4. The following statement, read with Consul Warren's dispatch to the foreign office on Saturday, makes it possible to believe that the legations will hold out for a number of days yet. Having fought to a standstill the first outbursts of fanatical fury, it is believed that something may intervene to save them.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Express, telegraphing Sunday, at 5:10 p. m., however, throws doubt upon Consul Warren's message. He says:

"Tao Tai Shang now admits that there was an error in his communication to General Warren. The date of the courier's next arrival at Chi Fu was July 3, which does not apply to his departure from Pekin. The journey from Pekin to Chi Nan Fu occupies five days. The courier, therefore, could not have left Pekin later than June 28 The date of the massacre there, as givin by Chinese reports, is June 30 or July 1."

Tien Tsin is still hard pressed. A Chinese force, numbering 80,000 to 100,000 men, as estimated by inconclusive reconnoissances, floods the country roundabout Tien Tsin. Communication between that place and Taku being apparently possible by river only.

A Che Foo dispatch to the Empress says the Russians have landed 8,000 men at Taku, and that the Japanese have discharged several transports. The Japanese pushed on to Tien Tsin, leading in the subsequent assault upon the native city, in which their commander was killed. Ten more transports are engaged at Japanese ports.

With the 10,000 British India troops afloat and fresh Japanese contingents, it is quite probable that the allies will have 50,000 men ashore.

The disorders in the provinces appear to be increasing in violence. A Chinese army is within forty miles of New Chwang, and the foreigners are preparing to abandon their homes. The southern part of the province is swept by raiders, who are destroying all works of the white men except in spots garrisoned by Russians. Notices have been posted in all villages near Che Foo calling upon the loyal Chinese to rise and expel the foreigners. Every good Buddhist is expected to kneel three hours daily, knock his head upon the ground thrice and pray earnestly that sudden, cruel death may overcome all aliens.

Chinese Bombarding Settlements.

A dispatch from Tien Tsin, dated July 3, says: "Since early morning the Chinese have heavily bombarded the settlements. Admiral Seymour has ordered the women and children conveyed to Taku at the earliest possible moment."

Revenue Officer Shot.

Sunday word came from Mariba, Menefe county, Ky., that Deputy United States Marshal Howard Wilson had been killed.

Railroad Accident.

Two people were killed outright and a third seriously hurt at Pittsburg, Pa., Sunday night in a railway accident. The dead are: Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards, aged 40; Thomas Morris, aged 48. Thomas Edwards, husband of the dead woman, had his leg so badly lacerated that it will have to be amputated.

Congressional Nominations.

Goebel Murder Case.

The trials of Henry Youtsey, Caleb Powers, John Davis, Harland Whittaker and Richard Combs (colored), charged with being accessories to the murder of William Goebel, was called at the special term of the circuit court of Scott county, Ky., which begun Monday. The cases were sent to Scott county for trial on change of venue from Franklin county, where the assassination occurred.

W. R. WEAVER.

FOR CORONER,
GEO. R. VASSER.

CONSISTENCY, THOU ART A JEWEL.

At the general state and federal elections in 1896 and also in 1898, when the probate judge, clerk and sheriff met to appoint inspectors they were presented with a list of names selected by the populists to be appointed. The sheriff, who was a populist, insisted that in one beat the populists should have two inspectors and the returning officer and in the next beat the democrats should have two inspectors and the returning officer. On the refusal of the two democratic officials to concede this, the populist leaders and their organ, the Advocate, arose in great wrath, characterized this action as a great wrong and outrage and an evident intention on the part of the democrats to steal populist votes and to perpetrate frauds in the election. They used this as one of their texts. From all accounts their orators would grow eloquent over this great wrong. However, in every single instance the populist official was allowed to name from the list furnished him by his party leaders one of the inspectors, and he was appointed without a question on the part of the democratic officials.

How about the action of our populist probate judge and clerk when they met recently to make these appointments? The sheriff had a list suggested by the democrats and made the request that the appointment of inspectors be alternated, giving the democrats two inspectors and the returning officer in one beat and the populists in the next beat, and so on, alternating throughout the county. This was a reasonable and consistent request, in view of the position held by both of these officials two years ago—that is, that this was fair, right and just, and that it was wrong and unfair otherwise. But, no, they not only refused to do this, and gave the democrats only one inspector, but in many instances refused to appoint either one of the gentlemen suggested by the democrats, but went entirely outside these suggestions and appointed a man of their own naming and selection. They gave as their excuse that they would not appoint a man who was in the mercantile business or doing an advancing business, or who had control over men in a business way.

Let us see if they were sincere in this and if pure motives prompted them in these appointments. The democrats suggested at Shelby box the names of J. F. Averyt and J. H. Cross, two men against whose good character and honesty not a word can be said. They refused to appoint either one of these and appointed W. E. Merrell. While the democrats are satisfied with Mr. Merrell, it is evident the populist officials had some selfish and bad motive in appointing him. Why do we say this? Because it is known by all who know Mr. Merrell that he is a merchant and open to the same objection on which they refused to appoint Mr. Averyt. In the next place it is equally as well known that our populist brethren claim Mr. Merrell as a pretty good populist. As to this we think they are mistaken, and we only mention this to show their inconsistency.

At Calera the democrats suggested the names of N. A. Graham and W. H. Duran. They refused to appoint either one of these gentlemen though they are good and honest men, and appointed T. L. Seale. Why they did this they alone know. It may be because Mr. Seale is connected in some way with G. B. Deans in a coaling business near Calera, and it is reported that his name was suggested by Mr. Deans and the populists for appointment. Also Mr. Seale is in the coaling business and has a number of hands in his employ and under his control. We know Mr. Seale to be a democrat and we are perfectly satisfied with his appointment, and feel that the interest of the party is safe in his hands, and if the pops expect to get any benefit from his appointment as inspector they were never worse mistaken in their lives.

In Bold Springs beat the democrats suggested the names of A. J. Deshazo and C. A. Bass. The populists refused to appoint either one of these and appointed a Mr. Poole. We have commented at length on this not because of the character of the democrats appointed—they are good men; neither do we deny their right and power to do as they did, but our object was to call attention to their selfishness and insincerity. They pose as a party of purity, a reform party, etc., assuring the people that when they got in power they would show all parties respect and do the clean thing, and we find them doing a great deal worse than the democrats ever did.

The populist party in the state is dead beyond resurrection. In vain have they endeavored to boost it up in order that a few officeholders in a few counties might continue to feed from the public crib, but they could not materialize except nominally. They seized upon the one of all others whose greatest ambition has been to be governor of Alabama, "Burn-His-Arm-Off" Adams. Adams, realizing that the party was dead, opposed the putting out of a ticket and told them he would not accept if they nominated him. They endeavored to force him. They nominated him. He positively refused to accept. They a second time nominated him. He a second time refused to undertake to lead a dead force. The commander-in-chief, Crowe, insisted that they would run him anyway, and advised all populists to support him, whether or not. Adams remained firm and unshakable in his determination to not allow his name to head the dead ticket of a dead party. Then it was that a few of the said anxious salary-grabbers got together in St. Clair county and nominated the commander-in-chief, the aforesaid Crowe. Up to this time we have not heard whether Crowe cares to be further sacrificed in order that a few ambitious ones in Shelby, St. Clair and a few other counties in the state may be elected to the offices which they so much covet. In the meantime the poor populists in the county don't know whether it is Crowe or Adams, or either.

A great hue and cry has been made in the past by the populist leaders that the democrats on the appointing board of election inspectors did not act fairly with them—that is, give them two inspectors and the returning officer in one precinct and the democrats take two inspectors and the returning officer at the next place, and so on throughout the county. Now they have the majority on the appointing board. Do they practice what they preach? They ought.

The populist leaders in the county and their paper, the Advocate, ought not to try to deceive the people by pretending that the party is alive. They know it is dead, and they further know that their only motive for pretending that there is a populist party in Alabama is for the purpose of electing the populist tickets in a few counties in the state, Shelby being one of them. Come out fairly, squarely and honestly, brethren, and practice what you preach—reform.

The leaders of the populist contingent in Shelby county fully realize that their party is dead in the state and nation, but they are trying to conceal this fact from their hitherto faithful supporters in the county in order to elect their county ticket.

How about the action of the populist officials in making the appointment of inspectors of election? It verily makes [illegible] to whose [illegible] is being gored.

In another column of this issue will be found the independent republican ticket recently nominated. Having no organ to represent them in this county, they are forced to resort to our columns and those of the Advocate to let the voters know they are in the race.

The campaign is now on in earnest. Let every democrat do his full duty and success will be ours.

The populist leaders in Shelby county are making their death struggle.

SOME FIGURES.

HISTORY OF SHELBY COUNTY FINANCES.

They Will Show Who and What Pulled Down the Treasury.

Inasmuch as the Advocate, having positive knowledge to the contrary, claims that the populists found the county in debt, and have since pulled it out of the hole and have also reduced the rate of taxation half a mill, we give below a full history of the finances of the county for a number of years, showing the receipts and disbursements of both democratic and populists officials. These figures were taken from the records and are authentic. If any one doubts this statement he can investigate for himself.

The following is a recapitulation by parties, the populists covering a period of three years of receipts and three and a half years of expenditures:

POPULIST.

Receipts—
1892	$16,074.54
1897	20,460.36
1898	15,764.46
Total	52,299.36
Expenditures—
1891—half year	9,251.53
1892	13,310.89
1897	20,068.43
1898	13,483.45

DEMOCRATIC.

Receipts—
1893	13,502.32
Total	54,407.01
Expenditures—
1893	10,058.99
1895	20,055.68
1896	19,620.55

COMPARISON.

Democratic receipts—4 years	54,407.01
Populist receipts—3 years	52,299.36
Democratic excess	2,107.65
Democratic expenditures—4 years	61,452.04
Populist expenditures—3½ years	56,114.43

[illegible] with the [illegible] figures it will be seen that the receipts during four years democratic administration have only exceeded those of three years populist administration by $2,107.65. Add another year to the populist administration at the average rate and their receipts would have been $69,732.48, or an excess over the democratic period of $15,325.47. These receipts represent the money contributed by the people in licenses and taxes to the support of the county government, and the statement shows that the burden of taxation has not been so great, comparatively, under the democratic as under the populist control. It will be seen that during the democratic rule, after carrying heavy balances in the treasury, the tax rate was reduced to 3 mills. This was the rate for two years, and the balances naturally faded away, the people having been relieved of one-fourth the burden of taxation while public improvements and other necessaries of government were in no way embarrassed thereby.

Turning to the comparison of receipts it will be seen that the democratic excess was but $5,337.61 for one-half year longer period. Again adding the average the populist expenditures would have been for four full years $64,129.34, or an excess over an equal democratic period of $2,667.30.

By reference to the figures for 1897, it will be seen that both the receipts and expenditures for that year exceeded those of any year in the entire group, the receipts being greatly in excess. The swelling of the receipts was, of course, produced by adding to the tax rate, an increase of 33⅓ per cent. as compared with the previous year. The heavy expenditures are explained by the payment of $3,250 for the waterworks and $5,000 to the Montevallo school, both of which appropriations were favored by Mr. Longshore and passed by the populist commissioners.

There have been a few days of fine farming weather and the farmers are making good use of the time.

Prof. H. M. Abercrombie's school at this place, which has been vacated for some time, was resumed last Monday.

Miss Evie Farr, of Redlawn, opened school at Pleasant Valley church last Monday. We hope for her success in training the young ideas how to shoot.

E. Isbell and others are in our neighborhood this week with the traveling thresher separating the wheat from the straw.

Allen Falkner and family, of Gate City, were visiting relatives in this neighborhood last week and this.

Bob Hall and wife (nee Miss Lollie Goodwin), of Powderly, came over and spent the Fourth of July at the all-day singing, to the delight of their friends and relatives. We hope they will come again soon.

John H. Falkner and sister, Miss Sadie, of Leeds, and a host of friends, came and spent the Fourth of July with friends and relatives.

Percy Goodwin, of Oxmoor, came over on the Fourth to aid in the celebration of the 124th anniversary of our independence.

G. H. Green and wife and Miss Bennie Lawley, of Woodlawn, have been visiting the family of R. J. Byers here for several days.

There was the most universal display of electricity from the angry looking clouds last Sunday night the oldest citizens say they ever saw, and but little rain came from the clouds at that time.

That's a winner, the democratic ticket for Shelby county. Success to our ticket and THE CHRONICLE in this the last year of the nineteenth century.

DIXIE.

Redlawn.

Weather dry and hot.

Rev. Holdright filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church Sunday morning and delivered a very interesting sermon from Gal. 6-10 to a large and attentive congregation.

Tage Smith visited on Yellow Leaf Saturday.

Since quite a severe battle between the farmers and General Green, the farmers have about won the victory.

Rev. Horton and family were visiting here Sunday.

W. N. Miner was in Columbiana Saturday last on business.

Buddy Tinney unearthed quite a sum of gold last week about five miles east of this place. We wonder which is the proudest, he with his money or his brother Joe over his baby girl?

Crops will soon be laid by, and the order of the day will be marble playing and politics.

There has been a lot of improvements in Taylorsville for the last two weeks. B. McCallas built a new addition to his dwelling; and a lot of work around the mill and gin, with J. Baggett superintendent and W. B. Baggewail as engineer.

Mrs. Bettie Kent and little son, Thomas, of Montgomery, are spending the summer with their uncle's family, P. Miner.

Prof. J. W. Spearman left last Friday for Palisade, where he will teach a two months' school.

E. B. Teague, Jr., one of our most prominent young men, is a member of the Columbiana base ball team, and is away most of his time practicing and playing.

Miss Eva Farr, one of Redlawn's fair sex, went to Vandiver last Sunday for the purpose of teaching a summer school. We wish her success in her undertaking.

Politics is at a rather low ebb at the present, for the sun has shone for the last week and everything that was dry as has withered.

Miss Louella Lyons opened school Monday, July 9, at this place with a small attendance, but will have more students in a few days.

RIP.

A REMINISCENCE OF VICTORY.

From the New York Journal.

The nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson for vice-president was an inspiration. It is not merely that Mr. Stevenson is an admirable candidate in himself. It is still more for what he represents.

Adlai Stevenson was the democratic part of the last ticket elected by the democratic party. He was one of the standard-bearers in the great victory of 1892, whose results were thrown away by treacherous leadership. His nomination for the position to which he was elected then is an announcement that the democracy has not put back from its past. The party is going to meet Bryan and Stevenson in the same party that once elected Cleveland and Stevenson. Unfaithful leaders have been thrown overboard, but the true men have been kept, and the masses of the party remain the same.

The country will be trying no experiment in electing Mr. Stevenson. It tried him four years ago. It remembers him as one of the best vice-presidents that ever presided over the senate. Cool, level headed and tactful, he will be an ideal occupant of that chair to which Mr. Bryan's robust health will probably confine his duties. And if, by any unforeseen chance he should be called upon to succeed to the presidency he would rise to the full measure of his new responsibilities.

Mr. Stevenson is a perfect mate for Bryan. The contrast with the flighty, buck-jumping Roosevelt speaks for itself. Nothing remains but the withdrawal of Mr. Towne to insure the union of all the reform forces of the country upon an ideal ticket. That this withdrawal will be promptly announced can not be doubted.

PARAMOUNT ISSUE.

The democratic platform declares that imperialism is the paramount issue, but it is wholly beyond the power of a platform to say what the people will consider the paramount issue. The chances very largely are that the grasping trusts based on a robber tariff will receive in the next four months much more attention than the subject summed up in the word "imperialism."

When 75,000,000 of people are placed by legislation at the mercy of a handful of trust managers, not exceeding 10,000 in number, it is very likely the voters will forget the dangers involved in a dangerous but distant general policy, and consider the schemes that are robbing them daily—that are eliminating competition while they drive to the wall small dealers and small industries—that shuts factories as a boy turns over a toy—that are everywhere grasping profits up if possible to the tariff limit, and that is nowhere and at no time a blessing.

The democratic platform denounces the trusts and the tariff that bred them in unmeasured terms, and it will be strange indeed if an evil that is ever present in its worst forms is not attacked by the voters as the paramount issue. There is no reason why it should not be, for it is first cousin to imperialism, both being chips off the oligarchic block. Whoever votes against the one will necessarily hit the other, and in voting against McKinley and Roosevelt the entire scheme of rule by the few can be attacked. We need not quarrel over the precedence of issues.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

The Bride's Father Was a Teller, but Not Connected with a Bank.

"Can I tell you the meaning of euphuism?" said an old reporter the other night in response to a question by one of the younger men on the staff. "Why, certainly, my boy. It is the pleasant art of calling a bootblack a gentleman of polish, and it's very valuable in newspaper work, provided you don't carry the joke too far. I remember when I was a cub myself and was working out in Denver a fellow came in one day and asked me to write a nice little notice about the marriage of his brother to a girl over in Centre City. 'Who is the bride?' I asked, so as to get some material for the paragraph; 'what is her father's occupation?' 'Why, he's a—teller,' said my caller, hesitating a little. 'All right,' said I, and thinking it would sound a shade finer, I referred to the lady as 'the beautiful and accomplished daughter of the well known banker of Centre City.' Next day the boss came in foaming at the mouth. 'What in blazes do you mean by speaking of old —— as a banker?' he bellowed. 'He's a professional clairvoyant and the biggest old fraud out of jail! He's got an ad. in the paper right now, offering to reveal the past and future for 35 cents and a lock of your hair!' I was overwhelmed with chagrin and hunted up my informant. 'Why did you tell me that girl's father was a banker?' I asked, reproachfully. 'I didn't,' he answered, 'I said he was a teller.' 'It's one and the same thing,' I retorted. 'No, it isn't,' said he; 'you jumped at conclusions. I didn't mean a paying teller, I meant a fortune teller.' "—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Fearful Suspicion.

"Don't you sometimes feel a twinge of self-reproach in connection with this Puerto Rican matter?" "To tell you the truth," answered Senator Sorghum, "I do. Every now and then I half suspect that we didn't get quite as much out of that deal as we might have secured."

An Exception to the Rule.

"We ought to put more personal warmth in our letters." "Oh, I don't know. A man I knew once put a lot of personal warmth in some letters, and it got him into court in a breach of promise suit."—Indianapolis Journal.

STATE NEWS SUMMARY.

Mine Inspector Estimates Alabama Coal Output at 9,000,000 Tons.

State Mine Inspector J. DeB.-Hooper states that in his opinion the output of coal in Alabama this year will be over 9,000,000 tons, an increase of about 1,500,000 tons.

Mr. Hooper has reported to the governor the condition of shaft No. 1 at Pratt mines, wherein state convicts are worked. He reports the sanitary condition of the mine good and the water used for drinking pure. The dampness in the room where the convicts hang their clothes at night has been remedied by Superintendent Rogers. Some of the sickness that had been complained about recently was supposed to have been due to the damp room, and it is believed that now there will be no further complaint.

It is stated that the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company will sink a new shaft at Blossburg and that work on this will begin at once.

Thompson Carries Randolph.

In the primary election in Randolph county Saturday for the election of a democratic candidate for congress in the Fifth district, C. W. Thompson, of Macon, was successful, carrying the county over Willis Brewer by 183 majority. Bulger's vote was light. Under the rule of the executive committee this will give Thompson the six votes of Randolph in the convention. Heflin, of Chambers, withdrew from the race in favor of Thompson. This will give Thompson the nine votes of Chambers.

The hottest fight that has ever occurred in Coosa county was waged Saturday between the friends of Thompson and Brewer for the congressional convention, and resulted in a victory for Brewer by 21 votes. Kellyton beat was carried by Thompson.

In Randolph county Bulger seems to have won. He has carried most of the country beats.

An Independent Candidate.

Judge S. M. Adams, late populite candidate for governor and probate judge of Chilton county, stated a few days ago that he understood that W. A. Collier, a well known Chilton county democrat, would be an independent candidate for congress in the Fourth district. Judge Adams added that it was generally understood in the district that Congressman W. F. Aldrich, republican, would also run again. He said that so far the populites of the district have not considered the matter of running a candidate for congress.

John L. Pennington Dead.

Hon. John L. Pennington died Monday morning at his home in Oxford. He was ex-governor of Dakota, and ex-state senator from Lee county, an elector from Alabama in the presidential election in 1872 on the Grant ticket, and at the time of his death was editor of the Alabama Home, a republican newspaper published in Anniston. Governor Pennington was nearly 80 years old.

Underwood Mines.

Work will begin shortly on developing coal fields in Blount county on the property recently acquired by the Underwood Mining company, to which the Louisville & Nashville railroad is extending the Oneonta railroad. A large number of expert miners will be given employment at that place.

HILL ACQUIESCES.

Reasonably Satisfied With the Result at Kansas City.

David B. Hill, on his arrival at Albany, N. Y., from Kansas City, speaking of the work of the democratic national convention, said:

"I labored to have the convention adopt a more conservative platform on the financial question, but not being on the platform committee my efforts were unsuccessful. I am, however, reasonably satisfied with the execution of the convention and acquiesce in the result. The ticket is a strong one, and if the enthusiasm with which it is received in the west is any indication of its popularity it ought to be successful."

Whole Family Drowned.

The schooner yacht Idle was lost in a terrific storm sixteen miles off Cleveland, O., Saturday with six persons, all members of the family of James Corrigan, a wealthy vessel owner of Cleveland, aboard.

At Sherwood, Tex., Henry Votte, a leading blooded live stock breeder, was shot and killed from ambush. The assassin has not been apprehended.

Victim of Apoplexy.

Hon. John A. Williams, judge of the United States district court, Eastern district of Arkansas, died in Manitou Springs, Col., of apoplexy. He was appointed to the federal bench by President Harri on in 1890?

A dispatch from Middlesboro, Ky., states that Miss Fannie Hines, one of the missionaries reported killed in China, formerly was a school teacher in Middlesboro.

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN PLANS

A dispatch from Lincoln, Neb., says: Plans for the democratic national campaign of 1900 were outlined and practically agreed upon Monday at a protracted conference between the leaders of the party. The plan includes the appointment of a campaign committee, as agreed upon between representatives of the democratic, silver republican and populist parties at Kansas City. This committee will include members of all three parties, and perhaps also democrats not members of the national committee, but who are prominent in the councils of the party.

This committee will, it is said, have charge in a measure of the practical working of the campaign and will work for fusion on state and congressional tickets wherever possible. The press and executive committee, it is expected, will, with one or two exceptions, be the same as last year. The personnel of all the committees were left in the hands of Chairman Jones. The question of national headquarters was also left in his hands. It was stated that Chicago would probably be selected.

Mr. Bryan said today that he had made no plans as to the part he would take in the campaign, and would not do so until he had conferred further with the party leaders. He will not tour the country as he did during the campaign of 1896, but will take trips from time to time to the larger centers of population, remaining in Lincoln a great deal of the time.

ENTIRE FAMILY POISONED.

They Eat Toadstools, Thinking Them Mushrooms, and All Died.

An entire family of nine persons died near Calico Rock, Marion county, Arkansas, a few days ago from the effects of eating supposed mushrooms, or poisonous toadstools. The victims are: W. J. Fink, aged 40; Mrs. Mary Lee Fink, aged 30; John E. Fink, aged 18; Kindle Fink, aged 13; Sigel Fink, aged 11; Vell Fink, aged 9; Rose Lee Fink, aged 7; Melin Fink, aged 6; infant child.

The family ate a hearty dinner, which included the supposed mushrooms. All were taken violently ill, and within three days all were dead.

St. Louis Strike Renewed.

The strike against the St. Louis Transit company by its former employes, which was declared off on July 2, was ordered renewed Monday at a meeting of the Street Railway Men's union. Tuesday morning, at 5 o'clock, was the time fixed for the renewal of the boycott on all of the company's lines.

Charges were made that the company had failed to keep the agreement of July 3, and a dozen or more instances were cited tending to prove that there had been a breach of faith.

Minister Wu Receives News.

The following telegram was received at Washington Sunday by Minister Wu from Sheng, director-general of the imperial telegraphs at Shanghai: "Two legations in Pekin still preserved. All ministers safe. Rebellious troops and rioters made attacks, but suffer many losses. Imperial troops are protecting, but meet with difficulty in doing so. It is feared that food and ammunition are exhausted."

Death List Reaches 149.

Three bodies were recovered Monday from the wreck of the steamer Saale. This makes 149 corpses thus far recovered of the victims of the fire which destroyed the North German-Lloyd pier at Hoboken and burned the steamers Saale, Bremen and Maine on June 30.

McMillin Withdraws.

Governor Benton McMillin Monday addressed an open letter to the democracy of Tennessee, expressing the wish that his name be no longer used in connection with the contest for United States senator from Tennessee. In his letter the Governor says he has frankly said to his friends that when opportunity offered he aspired to the high office of United States senator, but that though many representatives already elected favor his election, he does not consider this the proper time.

Big Railroad Contract.

J. P. McDonald, a railroad contractor of Knoxville, Tenn., has just been awarded the contract to build a railroad in Ecuador for the Ecuador Association of Scotland. The contract price is $16,000,000. The road will be 200 miles in length, and will extend from Guayaquil to Quito, through the Andes mountains. He expects to begin work in two months.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN DROWN.

Yacht Capsized in Squall and Loss of Life Results.

During a fierce squall Saturday afternoon the yacht Idler, owned by John and James Corrigan, was capsized and sunk six miles off the Cleveland port, and six lives were lost—all women and children.

The only survivor of the passengers is Mrs. John Corrigan. She and six men of the crew were picked up by a fish tug and brought to the harbor.

The Pinkham Record

Is a proud and peerless record. It is a record of cure, of constant conquest over obstinate ills of women; ills that deal out despair; suffering that many women think is woman's natural heritage; disorders and displacements that drive out hope.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

No woman need be without the safest and surest advice, for Mrs. Pinkham counsels women free of charge. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

Can any woman afford to ignore the medicine and the advice that has cured a million women?

Utah's Capital.

Salt Lake City still presents one of the most absorbingly interesting fields for the sociologist to be found on this continent. The conditions most vital to a people's life are there far beneath the surface and cannot be comprehended in a day, nor by a sojourner who looks exclusively through either Mormon or Gentile eyes. Two generations have been born into the Mormon religion, and the traditions of the church are as binding to them as those of century-old creeds to their followers. The man who you are told has "broken away" from the faith you find upon acquaintance to be half a Mormon still. The "good Mormon" who is pointed out to you will be found to be, in nine cases out of ten, half Gentile.—New Lippincott.

No Twin Microbes for H'm.

A clergyman walking on the outskirts of his parish on day found one of his parishioners whitewashing his cottage. Pleased at this novel manifestation of the virtue that is next to godliness he complimented the man on his desire for neatness. With a mysterious air the workman descended from the ladder and approaching the fence said: "That's not exactly the reason why I'm doin' of this ere job, your worship. The last two couples as lived here had twins, so I ses to my missus, 'I'll take and whitewash the place so's there mayn't be no infection.' You see, sir, as how we've got 10 of 'em already.

Exalting the Uniform.

Ever since the outbreak of the South African war military enthusiasm has run high in Great Britain. A London paper relates that at an entertainment in Edinburgh, soon after the war opened, the audience stopped the performance to sing the national anthem. Meantime a group of excited men toward the door caught sight of a man in uniform, and before he could form any idea of what was being done they had him on their shoulders, and were carrying him about the building, shouting and singing. When they had done this to their hearts' content they set him down, and some one asked him, "What's your regiment?" "Regiment!" he exclaimed. "What's gone wrang wi' ye a'? I'm the doorkeeper!"

State Normal School.

The new catalogue of the State Normal School, Jacksonville, Ala., has been issued. It shows the institution to be in a flourishing condition and well patronized by the teachers of the state.

Its list of alumni shows that its graduates are holding good positions in many walks of life, especially that of teaching. The demand for normal trained teachers is increasing, and Jacksonville cannot supply the calls for its graduates.

The health record of Jacksonville, which by the Health Officer's report is the highest in the state, makes it an ideal location for a school.

The Normal School begins its eighteenth year in September, under C. W. Daugette, president.

A Link in the Past.

Mrs. Alexander Capperton, who died in Kirkhill, Scotland, the other day, was one of the few links connecting the present with the time of Sir Walter Scott. She entered his service when sixteen, and remembered hearing his heavy footfall on the stairs at five every morning when he came down for his buttermilk and porridge. She was with him when he died and received a lock of his hair from Mrs. Lockhart.—Philadelphia Press.

TO FRAME BRIDE'S PICTURE.

How a New Chicago Matron Remembered Her Friends.

A recent Chicago bride who was going out of town to live distributed photographs of herself and farewell gifts to her relatives and friends and had them framed in a unique and attractive manner. They were to be mounted under glass in the manner familiar to all and known as passepartout, but instead of the usual mat of linen or cardboard she used a material which was especially appropriate, and one which made frame as well asas picture worthy of being preserved among the family heirlooms. The picture which she gave her mother had a mat of the white satin which had been used for her wedding dress, and across one corner was a bit of the lace with which the dress was trimmed. To a sister she gave a picture also mounted in the white satin, but with a design of orange blossoms embroidered upon it, while the mount for the one given her maid of honor was of the white satin embroidered with a graceful spray of bride roses. Friends less near received pictures mounted with the goods which had gone to make up the different gowns of her troussseau. The mount made from the material of her "going-away gown" had forget-me-nots embroidered in small scattered sprays, while some of the silk and figured goods were made up plain, being sufficiently decorative in themselves. In each case the mounted picture was bound in the glass with a narrow strip of soft leather in a shade to correspond with the color of the mount. Upon the back of each was plainly written the name and date of the wedding. It is needless to state that the gifts were prized as the pictures alone never could have been, and it is safe to predict that other brides will follow the graceful fashion.—Chicago Chronicle.

Words Born in the War.

It will be interesting to note what marks the present war will leave on our manners, customs and language. A big war has results of this kind. The wars with Napoleon gave us "Wellingtons," "Bluchers," and probably, the long military cloak. The Russian war supplied us with a new name for girls, "Alma," broke down the military monopoly of a fringed upper lip, and made the long familiar sight of his polished mahogany obsolete for the Englishman who reached the stage of his dinner when dessert is laid and the wine goes round. That war made mustaches common and "coasters" a curiosity. The great Franco-Prussian campaign had comparatively little social influence on us—probably because we were not actual belligerents. We learned to take interest in maneuvers, a word which soon superseded the old "sham fights." As yet the present war has influenced more our language than our customs. Trekking, outspanning, veldt, laager are slipping into use. Khaki has become a familiar color, and "colonial" uniform familiar in our streets. We may each note for ourselves these indirect, unobtrusive, but probably lasting influences of the war.—London News.

MORE SOLDIERS DEMANDED

One Hundred Thousand Americans Necessary to Conquer Filipinos.

FIGHTING IN SULU ISLANDS INEVITABLE

Lawton's Estimate of the Strength of the Army Needed Is Now Being Verified—The Insurgents Are Stubborn.

A Manila cablegram says: "More soldiers" is the demand which is coming to General MacArthur from every department of the islands. Recent events have worked to vindicate General Lawton's prediction that 100,000 troops would be needed to establish American sovereignty over the Philippines. Until they attempted to hold provinces of two or three hundred thousand hostile people with a regiment or two the American commanders hardly realized the size of the Philippine Islands. The present force is [illegible] large enough to garrison more than half the important towns, only the commercial ports are occupied.

The Moros are a cloud on the horizon. The officers best acquainted with the condition in Mindano and the Sulu Islands tell the Associated Press correspondent that they consider serious fighting there inevitable. If it comes, the two regiments which are scattered in small garrisons, some of them hundred of miles apart along the coast of Mindanano, an island nearly as large as Luzon, may have serious work. The Moros are fighters by nature, do not fear death, have many guns, though of antiquated makes, but do the best execution by laying in the thick jungles and cutting down soldiers who pass through with their terrible knives and spears.

General Young, who is holding several of the most mountainous provinces of Luzon with four regiments, expects severe work during the rainy season. For some two months after his bewildering invasion of the north in December, the insurgents were paralyzed, but finding ample opportunities to reorganize they have availed themselves of it.

The troops have worn themselves and horses down to the limit of endurance in marching about the mountain trails, striking the Filipinos wherever they could get track of an organized band. Hundreds have been slain, but much of the work has been like brushing away mosquitos, which swarm down upon a new spot.

The church has become a troublesome factor in General Young's territory. Aglipay, the priest who has proclaimed himself an archbishop of the Philippines, is in the field as a general. His forces attacked Captain Dodd of the Third Cavalry at Batoc, where more than two hundred Filipinos were slain. Aglipay commanded in person, and there is an unproved report that he was among the killed. His followers fought with recklessness of Mohammedan fanatics.

Troops From Manila to China.

Two battalions of the Fourteenth infantry and Daggett's battery of the Fifth artillery left Manila for China Monday by the transports Indiana, Flintshire and Weyfield. The expedition, which will join the Ninth infantry, will carry 500 rounds of ammunition to a man and million reserve, together with medical subsistence, stores and clothing for 5,000 men for three months. It will take also two seven-inch mortars and two six-inch Howitzers with ammunition.

Shooting Starts Again at St. Louis.

Herman Baude, an employe of the Union Ice company in St. Louis, Mo., was shot and mortally wounded by William E. Herman, a motorman for the St. Louis Transit company, Saturday. Charles Young, a striking street railway man, was also shot by Hermann, but not seriously wounded. Hermann had entered the drug store to make some purchases when Wm. Gray, a striker, stepped into the place and told the druggist not to sell to Hermann, as he was a "scab."

THE INDIANS ARE SUFFERING

Because of the Drought in State of Arizona.

The prolonged drought, probably unprecedented in the history of Arizona, has greatly augmented the sufferings of the famine-stricken Pimla Indians on the Sacotan reservations. Members of the tribe have told Superintendent Cowan of the Indian Agency, that their cattle are dying rapidly from starvation and thirst.

Most of the Indians now depend for food upon the few who still have provisions and the supply cannot last long. They are emaciated and suffering, and unless the $33,000 Congressional appropriation can be used at once private subscriptions or similar relief measures must be taken.

SUFFERING FROM POISON,

As Well as Hunted by Railroad Detectives.

John Nelson, the suspected train robber, who gave battle to ten detectives in front of his home at St. Louis and escaped after wounding George Murray, chief of detectives of the Illinois Central, is suffering from poison as well as being hunted by detectives. He was bitten by a moccasin just after he had embarked with his companions in a small boat after the Wickliffe train robbery. It is now believed he was approaching delirium when he made his fight Friday. By watching for a man with a snake bite the detectives hope to succeed in locating Nelson.

Lung Kough, a Chinese from San Francisco, has been in Phoenix, Arizona, for several days in the interest of the Po Wong Woey, or Chinese reform party. He asserts there are 140,000 members scattered throughout the country, and that $20,000,000 has been subscribed and sent to China to aid in the expulsion of the powers and effect a settlement of international disturbances.

Texas Deluged by Rain.

A special from Dallas says: Northern Texas has been deluged by rain for more than twelve hours, and the indications are that the storm has only begun.

The downpour at Dallas was terrific most of the day. The streets were like creeks, and many basements were flooded. The Trinity river is rising and bulletins from Fort Worth and other points indicate that large volumes of water are coming down from the upper parts of the river. Wire reports show that the rain has been general and is likely to continue through the night. Railroad operations are delayed because of washouts and slow running necessitated from water-soaked road-beds.

Counterfeits in Montgomery.

A very dangerous counterfeit of $1 bills have made their appearance in Montgomery, Ala., and the secret service men are on the lookout for the criminal who executes the counterfeit. The notes or bills are of the new dollar silver certificates, and the "one" is taken out and the figure "5" is substituted, so that the bill reads "five" silver dollars instead of "one" silver dollar. Besides this change there is nothing in the bill to show that it has been raised, and the work is adriotly done.

It is said that these bills were first discovered in Nashville, and at about the same time in Huntsville, Birmingham and Anniston.

Their Hair Turned White.

Dispatches from Tien Tsin report that a number of ladies there have become white-haired through the horrors of the siege.

It is stated that agents of the Boers have been in Texas recently and made investigations of the general conditions of the country and that they were much pleased with land, climate and other conditions.

Terrific Rain Storms in Texas.

Another terrific rain storm occurred at Galveston, Tex., Saturday, doing considerable damage. The precipitation for thirty-six hours ending at noon Saturday was 16 inches, the highest on record in the history of this part of the state. The total loss will reach about $25,000.

AMERICAN BLOOD SHED

Col. Liscum and Several Other Officers Killed at Tien Tsin.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS PROBABLE

To Deal With the Chinese Situation. United States Must Furnish Ten or Twelve Thousand Men for the March to Pekin.

The navy department Monday morning received official confirmation from Admiral Remy of the reverses of the allied forces at Tien Tsin on the morning of the 13th. The dispatch is dated Chee Foo, July 16, and says:

"Reported that allied forces attacked native city morning 13th, Russians on right with Ninth infantry and marines on the left. Losses allied forces large; Russians 100, including artillery colonel; Americans over thirty; British over forty; Japan fifty-eight, including Colonel French of the Twenty-fifth and Colonel Liscum, Ninth infantry, killed; also Captain Davis, marine corps. Captain Lemley, Lieutenants Butler and Leonard wounded.

"At 7 o'clock in the evening allied attack on native city was repulsed with great loss. Returns yet incomplete. Details not yet confirmed.

"REMEY."

Extra Session of Congress Probable.

A Washington dispatch says: That President McKinley will be forced by the situation in China to call an extra session of congress seems quite certain. He would much prefer not to do so, but developments in China are such that more troops than are available will be required for service there. The massacre of the envoys of the civilized nations shows either weakness of the Chinese government or its connivance in the outrage. The repulse of the allied force in Tien Tsin shows need of a far greater body of troops than was anticipated.

Cuba and the Philippines will need practically all the troops now there as a matter of precaution, and troops withdrawn from the Philippines must be replaced from this country. There are no troops here to be sent there.

Volunteers must be organized if the present policy in the Philippines is to be continued. The president is on his way to Washington.

By the end of this week a proclamation calling congress together is to be expected.

Sixty thousand men for the march to Pekin and twenty thousand more to keep open the lines of communication and if necessary to defend the bases of operation at Tien Tsin and Taku is the estimate of the number of troops that will be required in the Chinese campaign. Upon the basis of these figures, which it is said are those furnished by the commanders of the allied forces in China, this government will furnish between ten and twelve thousand soldiers.

Technically at Peace With China.

The decision of the administration at the end of an eventful day was that the United States government is still not at war with the government of China. The big happenings at Tien Tsin, coming on top of the stories of the last struggles at Pekin, have not affected the attitude of the administration on this point; the United States and China are technically at peace. But this statement should not be accepted as indicating a purpose on the part of the United States government to withhold its hand from the administration of swift and adequate punishment upon the Chinese without regard to station, who may be responsible for the outrages of the past few weeks. It means simply that the government of the United States feels that it can best accomplish their purpose by regarding the status officially as one of peace.

Col. Lanier Dead.

Col. John S. Lanier, former chairman of the democratic state central committee and agent commissioner of the state land office of Louisiana, died suddenly in Baton Rouge Monday.

West Virginia Republicans.

The republican state convention of West Virginia nominated the following ticket: Governor, A. B. White; auditor, Arnold S. Scherr; treasurer, Peter Silman; attorney general, Romero H. Freer; superintendent of schools, Thomas C. Miller; supreme judges, Henry Brannon and George Poffenbarger; electors at large, Benson B. McMakin and J. B. Lewis.

LATE STATE NEWS.

State Fair Promoters Get Liberal Offer and It Now Seems Certain.

A state fair seems absolutely certain. Secretary John W. O'Neill has received a proposition from Captain Falkner, representing the owners of the lease, which is liberal and which will be accepted by the committee in charge of the fair movement. The proposition is known to cover a period of six years and the remuneration is based upon the profits of the association. If there are no profits there will be no rent, and if there are profits the association is to pay half of them for rent.

As soon as the proposition is accepted and the grounds are leased for six years, then active steps will be taken toward getting things in shape for the fair this fall. A permanent association will be formed and the movement will go forward with a rush.

The new fair association will be formed strictly upon business lines, and no premiums will be offered unless there is money in the treasury to make the offer good. In a word, the new association will be conducted on the highest plane. The best business men of Birmingham will be at the head of it and the purpose will be to make the fair an annual feature.

Candidates in Marshall.

The army of candidates in Marshall county has been dubbed "Coxey's army," as they move across the country in a body from one appointment to another. For the nine offices to be filled there are now out eighty-three candidates, who have a joint canvass, going in one body. Heretofore the audience at no place of public speaking has equalled the number of candidates.

The farmers are busily at work, and report, since the rains, a better prospect for cotton than at this time last year.

Republicans Open Headquarters.

Chairman F. F. Conway, of the republican campaign committee, has opened headquarters in the Drennen building, opposite the postoffice, in Birmingham, and will begin an active canvass of the state at once.

The following executive and advisory committee has been appointed: Judge C. W. Buckley of Montgomery, J. H. Bingham of Birmingham, J. W. Davidson, Judge T. B. Martin and W. H. Harney.

Looking After a Colony.

Capt. P. Sid Jones, of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, is in Ocean Springs, Miss., looking after a new colony which he has started in that place. Captain Jones is doing considerable colonization work, and he expects to bring down from the bleak northwest a large number of people. He is also interested in establishing smaller industries along the lines, an excelsior factory being one of the latest factories intended.

FIFTEEN PEOPLE DROWNED.

Cloudburst at Coleman, Texas, Does Great Damage to Life and Property.

A clounburst occurred at Coleman, Tex., at an early hour Monday and meagre reports indicate that a dozen lives were lost in the flood. There have been tremendous rains throughout the vicinity of Coleman for two days past and all of the streams are overflowed. The tracks of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad are under water and a large property loss has resulted from the storms.

A late report from Coleman says it is known that fifteen people were drowned, among them being John Fuleisstine and Joe Spath. Both were engaged in rescuing four little girls, each having two on their horses when all were washed away. Ten bodies have been recovered and search is being made for others. Spath was one of the leading citizens of this place. It is believed that several lives have been lost along the course of the creek in the valley below Coleman.

Consecration of Dr. Barnwell.

Consecration of Rev. R. W. Barnwell, bishop-elect of Alabama, will take place at Selma, July 25th. Bishop Thompson, of Mississippi, will be the consecrator, assisted by Bishops Nelson, of Georgia, and Weed, of Florida.

Independent Candidates.

In the probate court at Mobile petitions required by law were filed to have the names of William T. Hieronymus and William H. Holcombe placed on the ticket to be voted at the August election, the former for tax collector, and the latter for sheriff. Both ran before the democratic primaries for the same offices and were defeated.

ALL FOREIGNERS MURDERED

MANY MISSION BUILDINGS WERE BURNED

Prince Tuan's Order Was to "Destroy Every Foreign Vestige and Make China a Sealed Book to the Western Powers."

The Shanghai correspondent of The London Daily Express, on the alleged authority of couriers who brought the story, gives a very sensational account of the fate of the Legations at Pekin. He says:

"Maddened with hunger, after having been without food for many days, the members of the legations and the guards made a sortie on the night of June 30th and killed 200 Chinese in an unexpected attack. General Tung Fuh Siang, enraged over the loss of so many men, brought up heavy guns and Prince Tuan gave the order that every foreigner must be destroyed. His words were:

"Destroy every foreign vestige and make China a sealed book to all western powers."

"Prince Tuan had previously discovered that Prince Ching was supplying the foreigners with ammunition. He, therefore, ordered General Tung Fuh Siang to fire on Prince Ching's troops, and it is reported that Ching was killed or seriously wounded.

"In their final attempt to cut their way through, the legations formed a square, with the women and children in the center.

"When the boxers realized that they were being attacked they became like wild beasts and shot each other with revolvers. Heavy guns bombarded all night until the buildings were demolished and in flames. Many foreigners were roasted in the ruins. The boxers rushed upon them and hacked and stabbed both dead and wounded, cutting off their heads and carrying these through the streets on their rifles, shouting fiercely. They then attacked the native Christian quarters, massacred all who refused to join them, outraged the woman and brained the children. Hundreds of mission buildings were burned.

ARSENAL CAPTURED.

Europeans Kill 400 Chinamen and Capture Guns.

A Tien Tsin cablegram says: A force of two thousand foreigners—Japanese, supported by British and Russians—captured the Chinese fortified arsenal two miles west of the city, making a night attack. They charged under a very heavy arsenal fire, following the Chinamen and killing 400. The foreign loss was heavy, the exact figures not having yet been reported.

The Chinese have been bombarding Tien Tsin heavily for three days. They killed a British sailor on a tug. Several Frenchmen and other foreigners are mounting heavy guns from the fleet. Four 12-pounders and four 4-inch guns have been placed in position, and an attempt will be made to locate and silence the Chinese guns.

An explosion of dynamite killed twenty Russians.

Two battalions of the Ninth infantry and 300 marines from the United States armored cruiser Brooklyn have been disembarked and started for Tien Tsin on lighters. As they began to ascend the river the crews of the foreign warships cheered heartily.

Arkansas Populists.

Chairman A. W. Files, of the people's party state central committee, of Arkansas, has issued a call for a state mass meeting of that party to meet in Little Rock on July 27 to nominate Presidential electors and to consider the advisability of placing a state ticket in the field.

Kansas Editor Kills Himself.

V. C. Eskridge, editor of the Republican, and former lieutenant governor of Kansas, died at his home in Emporia, Kansas, from self-inflicted wounds. He told his wife he was tired of living in ill health.

Johnson Killed Barber.

A special from Cleveland, Tenn., states that the mystery surrounding the finding of the decomposed remains of a man found in the bushes on the roadside near that place has been unraveled. James Johnson has been arrested and confessed that he killed the man, whose name was Posey Barker.

APPEAL TO AMERICANS.

Government Urged to Send Adequate Forces to Act Effectively in China.

Following is an appeal of Americans in China, assembled in mass meeting in Shanghai, to their fellow citizens at home:

"Urge the government to send adequate forces to act effectively in concert with the other powers. At present the American forces are quite disproportionate to the interests involved. Our commercial interests in the northern provinces are paramount, and we consider it a humiliating policy to entrust to other powers the task, that of protecting Americans.

"Anti-foreign outrages are multiplying daily. Officials and missionaries are massacred. The fate of the ministers and their families at Pekin is not known, but a general massacre is apprehended. Wholesale massacres of native Christians continue. The whole country is terrorized. Trade is paralyzed.

"The speedy restoration of order and retribution are duties pressing upon all civilized powers. The consequences of delay will be disastrous. Not only are foreign lives and property placd in jeopardy, but the loss of influence will be incalculable.

"Give no credence to statements of the situation sent out by the Chinese government to its ministers abroad. The present outrages are the result of the weak and vacillating policy of the powers in the past. We urge immediate energetic and concerted action."

WANT TO FIGHT.

War Department Flooded With Applications for Enlistment.

Applications continue to come to the war department from persons who are anxious to serve in the army during a campaign in China. Saturday's mail brought a letter from Secretary Curley, of the National Rough Rider Military Encampment, dated at Shenandoah, Col., offering to raise a regiment of 1,000 men. Adjutant-General Corbin in reply has informed the writer that the executive has no authority to accept more organization than are now in the service; still, the men desiring China service may be enlisted individually by the army recruiting officers in the principal cities. The men can select their regiments.

SHOEMAKER USES A RAZOR.

After Killing His Wife and His Babe Eisen Takes His Own Life.

Poverty, coupled with ill health and a weak-minded wife for a helpmate, were probably the causes which impelled Louis Eisen, a shoemaker of Baltimore to kill his wife and a thirteen-months-old babe and himself, and to wound almost unto death his three-and-a-half-year-old son. He used a razor. A minute search of the apartments failed to discover a crust of bread or a scrap of meat. A little salt and a small quantity of milk were the only edibles in the place.

TRAIN THROWN FROM TRACK.

Fifteen Cars Roll Down a Fifteen-Foot Embankment.

There was a freight wreck on the Queen and Crescent at Glendale, Ky., Sunday, six miles from Lexington. A cow ran in front of the engine of a double-header. It derailed the engines and fifteen freight cars rolled down a fifteen-foot embankment and were almost totally destroyed. Both engines were injured. One turned over. The injured are: Clifton Stout, 18-year-old boy, seriously; Engineer, J. S. Marde, Fireman Joe Lanagan, Pat Mannon and Ed Norman, slightly bruised.

Chairmanship Offered to Campau.

Daniel Campau, of Detroit, says that the Democratic National Committee had asked him to accept the Chairmanship of the National Democratic Campaign Committee. Mr. Campau says he will soon give the committee an answer.

Will Support Bryan.

J. Haskins Hobson, state chairman of the populist party in Virginia, announces his purpose to support Bryan and Stevenson, and says he will use his utmost influence to prevent the putting up of another electorial ticket in this state.

A Strike Anticipated.

In anticipation of a strike ordered by the carpenters and joiners union of Augusta, Ga., which would have taken place Tuesday, all the contractors and mill men of Columbus that are in any way connected with carpenter work closed down their business Saturday afternoon, discharging every workingman in their employ, numbering 400.

SENATOR GEAR DEAD.

United States Senator John Henry Gear, of Burlington, Iowa, died at 4:30 a. m. Saturday, of heart failure, in his apartments at the Portland in Washington. While Senator Gear had been in bad health for a year or more, death came unexepected. He was in excellent spirits Friday evening, when, accompanied by Mrs. Gear, he went out driving with Secretary Wilson, of the agricultural department. They returned about 10 o'clock and the senator retired an hour later in his usual health.

Shortly before 2 o'clock Saturday morning the senator summoned his confidential secretary and informed him he was troubled with congestion in his chest. Mrs. Gear was called and she concocted some simple remedies which seemed to give the senator some relief. At 2:30 the senator complained of serious difficulty in breathing. His condition became critical and his family physician, Dr. Davis, was summoned. An examination convinced Dr. Davis that his patient was suffering from heart trouble and announced that Senator Gear could scarcely last an hour.

About 4 o'clock the senator seemed to be easier, and when asked by Mrs. Gear as to his condition replied faintly:

"I feel a trifle better."

These were his last words. Fifteen minutes later he was dead.

Sergeant-at Arms Randells, of the senate, was notified of Senator Gear's death and began to make arrangements for it. The remains were taken directly to Burlington, Iowa, which, for many years, has been the home of the senator. A special car was attached to the 3:30 p. m. train Sunday for accommodation of the funeral party.

A SUSPICIOUS DEATH.

The Coroner Will Investigate Demise of Mrs. Natalie Mayer.

A New York dispatch says: Mrs. Natille Mayer, wife of John Mayer, and eldest daughter of the late Theodore Havemeyer, died in the Mayer madsion, near Mahwah, N. J., late Saturday afternoon.

Little definite was known concerning the cause of death until Saturday, when Commander Winslow, United States navy, who is married to a sister of Mrs. Mayer, gave out the following statement:

"Mrs. Mayer died from the effect of a pistol shot accidentally fired. The wound was not at first believed to be fatal. There will be a coroner's inquest in accordance with the law."

It was on Friday afternoon, twenty-four hours before the time of Mrs. Mayer's death, that the pistol shot was fired. Commander Winslow's statement does not even tell who held the weapon. On this point, however, Dr. Albert Seabriskie, the first physician to be called after Mrs. Mayer was hurt, said:

"I understand that Commander Winslow said to one of the members of the family that he would have somebody before the coroner who would testify that Mrs. Mayer said she accidently shot herself."

COURTMARTIAL FOR RAY.

Charges Are Brought Against Commander of Troops In Alaska.

Charges have been filed at Nome, Alaska, against Major Patrick Henry Ray, who previous to the arrival of Brigadier General Randall commanded the troops in Alaska, by Captain W. K. The charges against the major contain over twenty specificattons—allegations involving his integrity and conduct as an officer. Wright is charged with disobedience of orders. General Randall is expected to hold a court of inquiry at Fort Egbert, where Major Ray is now stationed.

WHAT do John Robertson, Eugene Williams, John Pitts, Bob Cox and others care about the populist party and the fact that it is really dead in Alabama, just so they are elected to the offices which they so much covet?

WHEN the negro is eliminated as a voter from the body politic then will we have two great political parties in Alabama. These parties will be divided on great principles of government, and not by conditions and prejudices.

THERE is only one issue, so far as the democrats are concerned, and that is the constitutional convention and the disfranchisement of the negro. The negro as a voter must go, and will go. The question is, will you have a hand in it?

EVERY democrat in Alabama is in favor of disfranchising the negro and opposed to disfranchising a single white man. This being so, how can the white man be disfranchised and how can the negro escape? Echo answers, "How?"

LONGSHORE and Pearson in favor of a property qualification as regards the right of suffrage, and to that great privilege being given to certain females! How does this sound? There is no other rational construction that can be placed on their recent public statements on this question.

SHELBY may go populist or Shelby may go republican, but one thing is as certain as that the sun rises in the east and sets in the west and that is that a constitutional convention will be held and the negro will be disfranchised. It is equally certain that no white man will be disfranchised.

LEWIS REYNOLDS, populist candidate for the state senate, stated, in answer to a question put to him by Captain White in Calera last Friday, that he too would count the negro out in elections rather than see him in power. He hated very much to make this admission, for there were quite a number of colored voters present; but there were also white voters present, and she had to come, and Lewis let 'er come.

THE populist leaders can not say a word in their speeches and paper in eulogy of the grand old populist party! They can't come before the people and tell what they have accomplished, for they have accomplished nothing. Neither can they tell what they will do, for none realize more fully than they that the populist party is dead. The people know that their promises have been dry and empty ones. They will not longer, we believe, vote the ticket just to give a few men office.

THE right to vote came to the white men of this country by inheritance, and the thought of disfranchising him is repulsive to every true Anglo-Saxon. White men of Shelby county, don't be afraid of this, but lay hold with us. Don't let party stand as a barrier. This is not a party question. All white men in Alabama are concerned. Come, ye republicans, ye populists, as well as democrats, and let us make a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether and we will forever be rid of this great incubus.

WHERE, O! where will the populist leaders go when they can no longer stir up and excite a few honest people to come together and call themselves a party in order to help them to office? It will be easy for "the common masses of the common people" to come back to the democratic party. They are already coming back as fast as they can. They have come back in nearly every county in the state. But what about these so-called leaders—where will they go? Echo answers, "Where?"

WHITE men of Shelby county, your white brothers throughout Alabama are calling now for you to come to their assistance in setting aside forever the negro as a voter in Alabama. Will you assist in this the greatest work that has come up during your life? Our populist brethren are doing everything in their power to make you believe that the uneducated white man will be disfranchised. There is not the shadow of truth in this, and these arguments are only made by them to secure your vote and the negro's in the coming election.

WE ARE informed that Judge Longshore, in his speech in Calera last Friday, and Circuit Clerk Pearson, in his speech at Spring Creek last Saturday, each stated that he was opposed to disfranchising any negro or a single tax-payer in Shelby county. As these statements were made in a discussion of the question of disfranchising the negro, it is a fair and reasonable inference that they are in favor of disfranchising those poor persons, both white and black, who are so unfortunate as not to be tax-payers. And also that they are each in favor of giving the right of suffrage to those women in Alabama who own property and are tax-payers.

ALABAMA has no state populist ticket in the field, except, as the children would say, a "play-like" ticket—a make-believe ticket. The populist leaders in the county know that this is their last chance, and that is why they are making such desperate efforts. Do the honest people in the county realize that the populist party is dead in the state and that this is the last populist ticket that will ever be nominated in Shelby county? Friends, our populist friends, who have been democrats, and who are now at heart democrats, let us tell you the democrats are now in the saddle and marching on to victory—such victories as we used to win when we all fought together for white supremacy. Come, get on the band wagon.

WE ARE informed that R. W. Brand appeared on the scene at the Spring Creek public speaking Saturday as the representative of [illegible] Deans, populist candidate for the legislature. He made a speech for Mr. Deans, in which he stated that he was opposed bitterly to disfranchising a solitary negro. This, we presume, was intended by the gentleman late from Georgia to commit Mr. Deans to the same position. If so, how can any white man vote for Deans for the legislature or anything else? The fact that Deans has never made his appearance in this canvass provokes the thought that he at heart is in sympathy with the great masses of white people in the state who are determined that the negro as a voter must go. Let us hope so, at least.

A MAJORITY of those composing what may be called, in order to distinguish it, the populist party, were formerly democrats. They were persuaded into the populist party by designing men in order that they might be elevated to office. They, these so-called leaders, promised the people "if you will elect us we will bring about great and wonderful reforms, such as the world has never known." This was the cry in our own Shelby county. The people were made to have faith in these promises. They, the said populist leaders in this county, were elected. They have held the greater number of the offices in this county for quite awhile. Where are the reforms? Where these wonderful improvements in the county government? Is the county government being run more economically? Let the poor tax-payers in the county answer. Honest people, you have been deceived. Come back to your first love. The democratic party has been the salvation of our beautiful southland.

JUDGE LONGSHORE at Calera made a weak defense to the editorial in our issue of last week as to the appointing of inspectors of election. It stands out in letters bold that the democrats have never acted as arbitrarily as these same populist brethren would were they to come into full power. Of course, notwithstanding their former position and contention on this question they decreed to start on, that the democrats were to have but one inspector and the populists two inspectors and a returning officer at every voting place in the county. Then it does seem that common politeness, to say the least, would have prompted them to have allowed the sheriff, the only democrat on the board, to have named this one and to have appointed him without a word. They refused to appoint, at the suggestion of the democratic sheriff, John Averyt, they say because he was a merchant, and appointed W. E. Merrell, who is a merchant. They refused to appoint N. A. Graham or W. H. Duran, and appointed T. L. Seale. Mr. Seale has the management of a great number of coaling hands, in the coaling of Mr. Deans, the populist candidate for the legislature. As we said in our last week's article, the interests of the democratic party will be perfectly safe in the hands of Mr. Merrell and Mr. Seale, but it don't require much acuteness of observation to see that our populist officials thought some great and unfair benefit or influence would come to the populist ticket by these performances. They said, "we will not appoint as inspector any man who has the control of hands." In addition to the instances referred to they appointed W. J. Sewell in beat 16. We are informed that Mr. Sewell runs a large logging business for Allen Lumber Co. and has a large number of hands under his control at all times.

HAVING nothing at all with which to commend themselves and nothing on which to go before the people of the county, the populist candidates and leaders are grabbing at every little thing they can think of and twisting and magnifying it out of shape in order to excite the prejudices of the people. One instance of this is their effort to lug into the canvass a city court measure. They take as their text on this subject a bill which was prepared by W. B. Browne and introduced before the legislature two years ago. This was not a party measure. In fact we are informed that very few knew of this bill until it was introduced. Then great opposition at once developed throughout the county. We are not informed as to the full merits of the bill, and whether this opposition was on its merits or because the people did not understand just what the bill was. But petitions from all parts of the county were sent to Montgomery against it, and that democrats constituted the principal objectors. We are informed that one of the populist speakers stated that every democrat in one beat signed a petition against the said city court bill. Besides, Mr. Peters, the democratic candidate for representative, has openly and publicly proclaimed his opposition to the said court bill. He states further, openly and boldly, that he would not under any circumstances introduce a bill to establish a city or county court without the matter shall first be submitted to a vote of the people of the county. Does any one who knows Joe Peters doubt for a moment that he will do just what he says he will do? So it is to be hoped this foolishness will stop.

WE UNDERSTAND that friend Pearson grew very eloquent at Spring Creek in discussing the old court bill which Mr. Browne prepared two years ago. He said that it, the court bill, was intended to disfranchise every voter in Shelby county, populist, republican, democrat and negro. This grandiloquent argument was made with much show and gusto, the aforesaid orator making all kinds of gestures and gyrations and "pausing for replies." The clause in said bill which he construed as disfranchising so overwhelmingly was that clause which provided for the appointment of the judge by the governor. Poor John didn't know that every judge of every city court in Alabama is appointed. Of course Judge Longshore knew this fact, and didn't attempt this argument.

THOS. L. SOWELL, of Walker, is the candidate for state auditor, taking the place of W. H. Matthews, whose death a few days ago left that office without a candidate. The name of Mr. Sowell has been placed at our mast head.

THE REASONS WHY

Gaston A. Robbins Should Be Renominated for Congress.

BY F. W. GIST.

In a contest between democrats of equal ability and party standing personal reasons are often sufficient unto oneself for supporting one or the other candidates; but when we come to present the claims of our favorites to the consideration of those whose personal preferences are not fixed, we should be able to give them some higher, better reasons. Besides this, there are at times very good reasons why our personal preferences should be made subservient to the interests of justice, equity, and, above all, the advancement of the party and the material welfare of the party's constituency.

As among the several very excellent and worthy gentlemen who are candidates for the democratic nomination for Congress from the Fourth district of Alabama, I find many strong reasons for the renomination of Hon. Gaston A. Robbins. Some of these I beg to present to the consideration of the democrats of Shelby county. In doing so I admit the equality of the candidates in point of abstract ability and party service, two things that usually turn the scale toward the more weighty side. These two aside, what are the conditions which commend Mr. Robbins to the support of our people?

Mr. Robbins is entitled to a renomination at the hands of his district as a vindication for the outrage perpetrated upon him as the representative of the democracy of the Fourth district. The blow delivered by a partisan house was not aimed at Mr. Robbins personally, but the lash was laid upon the back of the democracy of the district, and in defending the contest Mr. Robbins was fighting, not his own battle, but that of his party. I may be pardoned for telling the people that in making this fight for their rights Mr. Robbins spent his entire time from the date of his election to the final outcome, and that the expense of the contest, added to that of the campaign, was much more than any return from the office to which he was elected. I make this statement from personal knowledge, and at the risk of that gentleman's displeasure, because I feel that the democrats are entitled to know it, and because I believe they will appreciate the sacrifice. Now that the chances are bright for a democratic majority in Congress, simple justice would dictate that he be given an uninterrupted term.

The party in the district owes it to itself to return Mr. Robbins. In no other way can it emphasize its resentment of the treatment it has received at republican hands. To nominate another man at this time would be to acknowledge that we were not honest, that we were guilty as charged in Mr. Aldrich's indictment, that the verdict of a partisan jury was just.

Any other gentleman nominated would have to face the same conditions in the coming election. Dallas county must be looked to for a democratic majority so long as there is fusion in the white counties, and there will be fusion so long as the "influence" of Mr. Aldrich is needed to elect populist county officials. To say that another could bring out a larger party vote in those counties is to say that democrats did not do their duty there before, and that, in turn, is to say that those counties are not entitled to consideration at this time. Therefore the strength of locality is not to be measured, and we are left upon the real ground of insisting upon our rights by returning Mr. Robbins as an answer to the charge of fraud.

Assuming that the democrats of Calhoun and Talladega counties did their duty in the campaign of 1898, no candidate may presume to influence a larger vote there except by meeting fraud with fraud. This we were charged with doing in those counties in the 55th Congress, proving the impossibility of strengthening our position by changing the residence of our candidate. The district must stand or fall together, and upon the vote, the majority, the case of 1898.

We may win some conservative populists back to the fold, or at least away from the enemy, as we did in Shelby and Chilton counties in 1898 with Mr. Robbins as our candidate. It would ill become me to discuss our failure to do so in the other counties, but I may be permitted to say that it was through no fault of the candidate.

The district owes it to its own material interest to return Mr. Robbins to Congress. The measure of supreme importance to every county in the district is the improvement of the Coosa river. It is not necessary for me to remind well-informed men that those members who accomplish the most for their districts along the line of public improvements are those who have the widest acquaintance, the most extensive knowledge of the inside workings of congressional committees. These are acquired by experience, and experience comes of service. The two districts in Alabama which have received most consideration are the Sixth and Eighth, whose members have been returned time after time, and whose experience has brought great results.

The members who have taken the house by a storm of oratory on the floor have not been of most benefit to their constituents. Mr. Robbins already has the advantage of the experience and acquaintance of three sessions, and a fourth one will bring greater results than could come of a new man, whose greatest ability would not entitle him to desirable committee assignments nor give him an entre into the circles where the business is transacted. The South has suffered greatly from the desire of her many worthy and brilliant sons to turn the wheel of office too rapidly. While the North and East are reaping the benefits of the continued service of their hardworking members in the way of long pension rolls, public buildings, open waterways, and deep harbors, we have been in a continuous turmoil of following our brilliant favorites into conventions and there spending their efforts and our own in struggles for political preferment. This is a peculiarly fitting time to send back Mr. Robbins and have him, armed with the experience and acquaintance of three terms, demand, work for, and, with the help of Bankhead, Underwood, Burnett, and the other tried workers, secure the improvement of the waterway which presents such great possibilities to every county in the district, and to Shelby the most of all.

I have no desire to discuss the recent clash between committees. That incident is closed. I may recall the position of Mr. Robbins on that issue. It was at his request and by the action of his friends that a primary election was ordered. In submitting his candidacy to a primary he gave up the great power which his own county holds in a convention that each democrat in the district might have an equal voice in the nomination of a candidate. With all the safeguards for fairness that were thrown around the primary by the district committee I have yet to see what possible objection any man could have to submitting his cause to so manifestly fair an arbitration. Mr. Robbins was willing to abide its results; he even insisted upon doing so. Surely a man who is willing and anxious to trust the decision of a majority of his constituents may be trusted by them to represent them in Congress. I am constrained to believe that all fairminded and impartial democrats will take this same view. If there is one principle of our party more deeply grounded than another it is that "complete acquiescence in the will of a majority from which there is no appeal save revolution." A primary, such as was provided for by the friends of Mr. Robbins, is a sure method of expressing that will; a convention is too often the appeal to revolution. County primaries for delegates are but an approach to the real expression, and yet when the people have been deprived of the right to arrive at that real will they may take charge of the appellate tribunal and stamp out the revolution. Mr. Robbins and his friends yielded to force, not to right. The great body of democrats have it in their power to say that he and they were right.

Mr. Robbins is honest, open and truthful in his political dealings; he is faithful to his friends, unresentful to his enemies; his ability is that of close application to duty, which is more successful than brilliancy; his democracy is of that old school which knows not the yielding of principle to policy; his record as politician, lawyer and citizen is above suspicion.

My position is not one of opposition to the other worthy candidates, but of unqualified support of a man whom I know to be in every way worthy of it, to withhold which would be unjust and unwise under the circumstances.

The democrats of Shelby county could not do better than to give him their support. They cannot fear to trust the man who wanted to trust them; they cannot fear the weakness or motives of a candidate whose methods of campaigning reduced a majority of over 800 to less than 300 in their county; they cannot afford to lose his dearly bought experience in the next Congress when it means so much to their material interests; the cannot acknowledge the charges against their neighbors nor submit to the outrage against themselves by a republican house. Gratitude, justice, personal interest, appreciation of trust, all demand the renomination of Mr. Robbins, and Shelby county should be foremost in its accomplishment.

HON. W. J. SAMFORD'S SPEECH

The Distinguished Candidate for Governor Discusses the Political Issues Pertaining to State Affairs

BEFORE A LARGE CONCOURSE OF PEOPLE AT CALERA.

Congratulates the People on a Harmonious and Solidified Democracy and Urges Them to Unite in the Pursuit of a Common Purpose for the Upbuilding of Our Glorious State.

Ladies and Fellow Citizens: Before entering into what doubtless will be to many of you an uninteresting dissertation on the political questions of the day, I wish especially to thank these ladies for gracing this occasion with their presence. Their presence among gentlemen is always a bond to keep the peace, and while some old bachelor is reported to have said that it made no difference about ladies attending political gatherings, or being allowed to vote, as none of them would admit that they were old enough to vote until they got too old to take any interest in politics, those of us who are better acquainted with ladies than old bachelors know that is a slander, and while I have no idea that southern women will ever desire the ballot, if perchance it should ever be given them there would be a purification of politics.

Occupying the distinguished position of nominee of the democratic party for governor, I conceive it to be my duty and pleasure to visit the different sections of the state and discuss with the people the political issues pertaining to the interests of the state, in which are involved all the best interests of our homes, families and country. In accordance with that idea I wish to talk with you today, plainly and conservatively, of these issues in a dispassionate business way, for at last politics is nothing but business, and business of a high order in which every citizen ought to take a lively interest.

I am gratified to see that a distinguished leader of one of the political parties has declined to oppose me in this campaign, as I do not court opposition. I heard once of a man who lived in our section, who, having no opposition to his candidacy for sheriff, in order to lend zest and interest to the campaign, gave a friend a suit of clothes to run against him, and that friend was elected.

Intending a plain discussion of the live issues of the campaign, you will pardon me for not attempting rhetorical flourishes or mere entertainment; for, as a plain man, I wish to talk to the fathers and mothers of Alabama of those matters in which they are all materially interested.

In republics, where conditions will permit, two parties, and only two, are generally necessary, in order that the shortcomings and malpractices of the "ins" may be rebuked and corrected by the "outs.' But, just at this time, confronted as we are by abnormal conditions, it is the interest of the white race of Alabama that there should be but one white man's party. For many years of the past the interests of this state have been committed to the democratic party. How well and carefully that party has excuted the great trust is the history of the past quarter of a century, and, without disparaging the state officials of the past and without speaking of my own nomination. I take pleasure in saying that the democratic convention has offered to the people of the state of Alabama candidates for the different state offices of high character and integrity, and who, I doubt not, will faithfully execute the duties that will be imposed upon them by their election.

Being a stranger to many of you, I wish to say, by way of introduction of myself, that, believing in the principles of the democratic party, I have consistently supported its candidates in the past. In doing so I have not been so illiberal as to deny the right to others to entertain and express their own political convictions, and to choose, without criticism from me, their political actions. I am not one of those who insist that "orthodoxy is my doxy and heterodoxy is your doxy."

Unfortunately, perhaps, in the recent past the democratic party has been in a large measure torn with dissension, or rather with differences of political conviction. Many men who for years had acted with the democratic party saw it to be their duty to go into the populist party, and others into what is known as the Palmer and Buckner wing of the party. I congratulate our people today, however, that we are again approaching a harmonious and solidified democratic party in the state, and I trust by the time of the election that we will all be practically united in the pursuit of a common purpose, and that the harmony of our people, the banishment of bickering and dissension, and the upbuilding of our glorious state.

The differences between the two great national parties are well known to all intelligent men; those differences were well marked and defined in the convention of 1787, and were championed on the one hand by Alexander Hamilton and on the other by those who believed in the Jeffersonian idea of government. In short, they were paternalism as opposed to individual effort and centralization of power in the federal government, as combatted by the doctrine of local self-government. These principles are fundamental; there can be no compromises between them, and as long as the republic lasts they will have advocates contending respectively for their ascendency. The south has always planted itself in a marked degree in favor of the Jeffersonion idea of government. They are the tenets of the democratic party, and to maintain their supremacy is not only right, but to the best interest, prosperity and perpetuity of the whole country.

Politics should not be a profession, but, as I have stated, should be the business of every patriotic citizen; and every good man should strive to lift the very name of politician out of that degradation, illustrated by the little fellow, who, holding the hand of his mother, was walking through the graveyard, when his mother read the epitaph on a tombstone: "Here lies a politician and an honest man," exclaimed: "Mother, why do you suppose they buried two men in one grave." And an Irishman, with the wit of his race, remarked: "The worst of it is to put an honest man in such company after he is dead." There have been times in the history of our country when great and good men were politicians; there are some today who are politicians, and our young men should be educated to the point of demanding that politicians should be honest, upright, partiotic men.

The discussion of national principles would not be inappropriate upon this occasion; but I cannot go into that, because it would exhaust your patience and consume time that should be given to matters of state concern. I shall, therefore, confine myself mainly to those matters that pertain particularly to our state affairs, and in doing that I have nothing startling or sensational to announce.

OFFICIAL ACCOUNTABILITY AND TAXATION.

"Offices are public trusts" and whoever occupies them should be held to a rigid but just accountability. A generous people will not require of their servants the impossible, but they have a right to demand faithful and honest administration of trusts confided to them, and if I should be honored by being elected I shall, within my province and jurisdiction, insist on fidelity in all public places. To this end there is no duty more incumbent upon law officers than the administration of government with the strictest economy commensurate with proper administration. The people are justly entitled to have the lowest rate of taxation possible, and one single dollar unjustly taken by taxation is an extortion without justification, and though the term is harsh, it is worse than robbery; because when a citizen is robbed by a private individual he has the right to resist, even to striking down the robber, but when his substance is taken from him under the forms of law he has no redress, but to resent it at the ballot box. Our present constitution wisely limits the tax rate. Once having seen the wisdom and benefit of that provision, the people will never consent to its repeal, and I do not believe that any constitution will ever be ratified by the people of Alabama with that salutary provision left out of it.

PUBLIC ROADS.

Another matter in which all of our people are deeply interested is that of the public roads. The commonplace character of the subject renders it none the less important. Indeed, all matters of business are commonplace. How the public roads can be improved is a subject well worthy of the attention of the lawmakers of the state. With the exception of a few counties, wherein progress has been made along this line, we are still working under the old law that has been in force since Alabama became a state. In ante-bellum days, when other conditions existed in our state, and our people had wealth and leisure, the rural sections of the south were inhabited by that splendid, conservative citizenship to which the statesmen of the south always appealed, and never in vain, whenever the ship of state was reeling and rocking in the mad waves of passion and partisanship. Of course, some equally as good citizens resided in the towns, but the southern farmers, as a class, constituted an unselfish, patriotic and intelligent citizenship that had no superior in any nation of the world. But conditions have changed, and since the war in many sections the white people have drifted from the country into the towns, largely on account of the impassability of the roads, to obtain social, religious and educational privileges, leaving agriculture in many places to ignorant and thriftless tillage. This is not universally so, for in some of the white sections of our state the country is still inhabited by some of our best people, and they feel the necessity of goods roads. We are still operating under the old road law that has been in force since Alabama became a state of the Union; a law that requires all within certain ages to work so many days on the public roads during the year. Mainly those who are thus required have no vehicles to traverse the roads, while many who are worth thousands of dollars and have wagons and carriages to run over them, but are over the age limit, are not required to work the roads at all. Of course, every citizen is indirectly interested in good roads, but the interest of those who walk, but work the roads, is so indirect as not to impress them with their interest, and hence it is not unnatural that they should conceive it to be an unjust law, and only "with a lick and a promise" perform those public duties to prevent the overseer from being indicted, and leave it until just before the meeting of the next grand jury to renew this same half-work. Now, I cannot discuss the details of what would be an improvement of the system, but venture to suggest for the consideration of the lawmakers that still, as now, requiring individual work, it might be supplemented—of course ,within the tax limit —by a slight taxation within the wisdom of the local authorities, and where convenient and expedient county convicts at least might be utilized in this behalf. A few counties in the state, impressed with the necessity of good roads, have not hesitated to burden themselves with bonds to obtain them. As a general rule I am opposed to burdening people with large bonded indebtedness, and believe that our public roads may be greatly improved without it. If accomplished, I doubt not that the country would at once feel the vast benefit from well constructed public highways. Our people would go back to that noblest of all vocations, agriculture; and our young men, instead of seeking a living in clerical and other wage employment, in which the opportunity to better their condition is very limited, would be found mating with beautiful girls, building vine-clad cottages on the hillsides and in the valleys of our state, developing beautiful homes, lifting up the cause of agriculture, and making this lovely land to blossom as the rose.

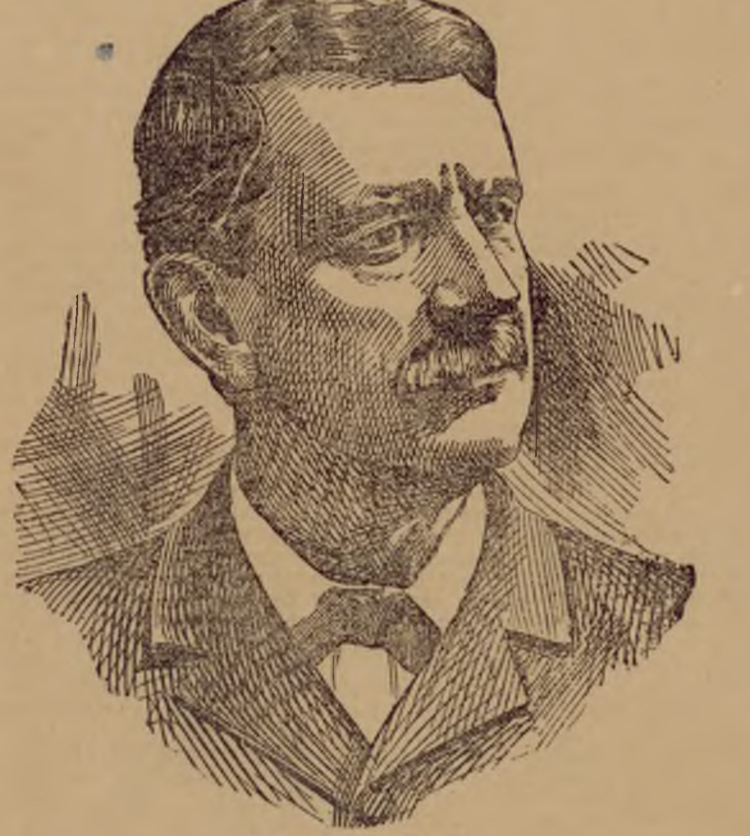
ENFORCEMENT OF LAW.

Every thoughtful mind is impressed with the tendency of the public to disparage the justice of the administration of law. While possibly such disparagement is not always just and certainly not in Alabama, there must be some ground for its very general entertainment. Hence we frequently hear it said that the law has its favorites; that the rich and the great are allowed to escape the penalties of the law, while the low and the humble are made to feel its power. Our judges, juries and law officers are frequently harshly criticised, and even lawyers are not always free from reproach! I heard of a debating society once in our state where the boys discussed with much seriousness and eloquence the question: "Whether is it right to cheat lawyers," and the decision, on account evidently of the zeal of the contestants, was: "It is right, but hard to do"; and a good friend of mine, who was a sheriff, on one occasion, inoculated with the general estimate of this imposed upon class of our people, twitted me in a crowd, with a twinkle in his eye, with the remark: "That he understood that there was but one lawyer in heaven, and he got there by false promises." "How was that, Mr. Sheriff?" said I, when he replied: "The lawyer asked St. Peter to let him in, telling him that he only desired to see the golden streets, pearly gates and glorious mansions, and that he would come out again. Thus imposed upon, St. Peter allowed him to enter, and they could not get him out." Said I: "Mr. Sheriff, do you know the reason they could not get him out?" "No," said he. Said I: "They got a legal writ to put him out, but they could not find a single sheriff in heaven to serve it." That good friend has since left this vale of tears, and in view of his honorable life, his splendid integrity and Christian character, I doubt not that he has supplied the hiatus and is occupying one of the mansions of the blest, and I hope that he will not be called upon to execute any writs to put any poor lawyer out of heaven who may be enabled to get in.

The law is the only majesty in this land; before its decrees all men should be compelled to bow. As far as human agency can accomplish it, absolute and exact justice should be measured to every one, and no country is on a safer basis than that one whose citizens recognize justice and impartiality in the enforcement of its laws, not only as it bears upon the individual personally, but as it involves and affects all legitimate enterprises and undertakings. To this end everyone in official station should bend his energies and thereby deserve the commendation, good will and kind words of all the citizens of the commonwealth. Alabama's judiciary has always occupied a high place in the Union, and it is a matter of pride that her present judiciary has not lowered the high standard.

EDUCATION.

There is no question that comes closer home to the fathers and mothers in Alabama than matters affecting the interests of these little boys and girls before me. There is no more sacred duty incumbent upon us than to give them the advantages that can come alone from a superior education. We look down into their little eyes and see reflected our hopes, aspirations and ambitions. Put the public schools in the most efficient condition and place competent, conscientious and painstaking teachers in them. There should be an absolute divorcement of the educational interests of the state from politics. Educated men should be applied to for the reforms necessary to bring this branch of the government to the very highest state of efficiency. Alabama's worthy superintendent of education seems to be working hard to this end, and his suggestions deserve the thoughtful consideration of everyone connected with that department. I have not yet, to any great extent, familiarized myself with the practical workings of our school system, but in a general way I have tried to keep up with them. I hope to be able to give the matter more consideration; but there is one line along which I think a reform can be had, and in my campaign before the nomination I discussed it many times before the people and found that it met with very general commendation. Some of the states furnish the text books to the children. Alabama may not be in a financial condition yet to do this, but it does seem to me to be practicable to prevent such frequent changes in the use of text books as I understand now afflicts our system. I do not mean to say that it would be wise to have a uniform system of text books for the state. My idea now is that the counties and cities and different school districts might furnish proper units of uniformity. As it now exists, a well founded complaint is made in some quarters that frequent changes in text books create a burden that, to a man of limited means, is exceedingly onerous. What the details of the remedy are I am not prepared dogmatically to assert; but there should be a discussion and study of this interesting subject by the educators of the state, and what is the very best should be decided, and should be had. I have great confidence that a reform that will be of great benefit, and lasting, will speedily be had for the people of this state, and our public schools become a great benefaction. Reforms have been made in the recent past, and there should be no letting up until every one is secured that our financial ability will allow.



HON W. J. SAMFORD.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

I understand in this county, and indeed in other sections of the state, objection is being urged to the action of the recent democratic convention, and the charge made that it declared in favor of a constitutional convention. It is well enough always to be fair; nothing in the long run is ever secured by misrepresentation. The convention did not declare in its platform in favor of a constitutional convention. A cursory reading of the resolutions passed by the convention readily discloses this. The language of that resolution is: "That it is the sense of this convention that the next general assembly of this state should provide for the submission to a vote of the people of Alabama the question of holding a constitutional convention, with such safeguards as may be necessary to preserve the limitations upon the right of taxation now existing, and such other safeguards as the general assembly in its wisdom may find to be necessary and proper in the premises."

It will be seen that the convention only recommends that the people of Alabama be given an opportunity to express themselves on this very vital question. Certainly no reasonable man could object to this without expressing a distrust of the intelligence or patriotism of the people.

This republic is sui generis; it has no model among the governments of the world. The illustrious statesmen who framed it seem to have been almost inspired, and they laid the foundations of the edifice on the great doctrine of self-government. They challenged the credulity of the statesmen of the old world in insisting that this people had the intelligence and patriotism to govern themselves. To the crowned heads of Europe the experiment of free government was a solecism. In its inauguration it scouted that "impious dogma, the divine right of kings." Those splendid men committed the integrity and the perpetuity of the free institutions they established to the keeping of posterity, and gave to each man a ballot. They knew, we know, and every man is bound to admit that to maintain the integrity and perpetuity of free institutions among men the ballot must be kept equally pure and undefiled. If that ballot becomes the instrument of viciousness and mercenary aggrandizement it requires no prophet to foretell the fate of the republic. * * *

This is the great and overshadowing problem of the south. What can be done along this line, under the constitution of the United States, will be, if the people call a convention, for wise men to decide. What should be done, in the light of right and justice, good men, fair-minded men and men of heart must determine. No conditions or necessities can ever justify wrong or injustice, and folly can only add chaos to confusion. If a convention should be called by the vote of the people, the duties of that convention should be entrusted to the best and wisest men of the state.

I know there are thoughtful, patriotic men who insist that the reforms needed can be had by a constitutional amendment; the objection to that course urged by the advocates of a convention is that an amendment will have to be voted on at a general election, when the elections of many candidates are at stake, and there will necessarily be swapping and trading, so that an expression on the merits of the amendment cannot possibly be had. There is much force in that position. Whereas, a vote on a constitutional convention, and on the ratification of a constitution, will be alone on the merits of the convention or the constitution.

I am free to admit that I have confidence in the people. I believe they know what is best. If they decide against a convention, then that is an end of the whole matter. If they prefer to send their wise men into a great council to frame a constitution, that constitution will be submitted back to the people for them to study it, and reject or ratify it. I say this because the democratic party pledged itself to that course last year in its state convention. I doubt not legislators will put such a requirement in the call. The campaign committee of the party, in its address, commits the party to it, and the people will demand it, and at last they are the masters, and their will the law. If then the constitution does not suit them they can reject it at the polls.

Any fears that a constitutional convention will attempt anything antagonistic to the best interests of the people of the state are without reasonable foundation. Any such attempt will not only meet with the stern condemnation and resistance of strong men, but of the masses of the democratic party. I do not believe for a moment that there is a sinister design in any quarter by the advocates of a convention.

The democratic party, by a resolution, pronounced against the disfranchisement of any white man. This is clear and unequivocal, and any attempt to change the limitation of the tax rate or to attack the constitutional exemption or the insertion of any other obnoxious provision, would endanger the adoption of any constitution that might be submitted. The democratic party is the party of the people, and the sentiment of the times will hold it to its great mission, and the people will hold it to its pledges.

THE PARDONING POWER.

There is a growing sentiment that the unrestricted delegation of the pardoning power to the executive, not only imposes upon the governor a very onerous and delicate trust, of which to some extent he ought to be relieved, but it affords an opportunity to nullify the law, and is susceptible of serious abuse. I do not intimate that it has been abused, but such an opportunity should not be lodged in the discretion of any one man. Occasions do arise when pardons are just, right and proper, and should be granted, but the experience of other states has demonstrated the wisdom of conferring this great power on several, rather than on one individual.

So with the patronage of the chief executive. I did not hesitate, during my campaign for the nomination, to advocate relieving the governor of much of the patronage of the office; not simply because the opportunity and temptation to abuse were manifest, but also because of the injustice and burden that such unlimited responsibility placed upon the governor, detracting in a large measure from the usefulness and legitimate influence of the governor in executing the proper duties of his high office. The fact that he must so often choose between applicants who are his friends, and who are eager for appointments, and who are utterly unable to see the propriety of another being selected over them, places a conscientious, sensitive and just governor in a position of embarrassment, from which, if possible, he should be relieved. The time and energies of the governor can be far better devoted to the execution of the duties of his great office, and to the consideration of measures beneficial to the state, than parcelling out official appointments What patronage can be properly placed elsewhere is a matter for the lawmaking department. If the lawmakers shall enact reform in this regard, it will be a boon to the future administrations of the state.

PRIMARY ELECTION LAW.

Purification of the suffrage is a consummation devoutly to be hoped for by all thoughtful, patriotic men.

In the present unfortunate environment of that question in the south experience teaches that it is a difficult problem. Whenever large masses of voters look upon suffrage with a debased, partisan or commercial eye; as long as the ballot stands no higher in the estimation of great numbers of suffragans than as a mere personal chattel, it is vain to hope for or expect a pure and honest ballot.

A mighty sentiment is rising in the land, having already reached almost to a flood tide, in favor of reform of suffrage. It will come in due time. Until then there is a way largely tending to a salutary reform in this direction. Nominations in Alabama by the dominant party are now, and have been for a quarter of a century, tantamount to an election. If then a perfectly fair and just primary election law shall be enacted, so clear and pronounced and guarded against all use of money, whisky and all other unfair methods, a long stride will have been taken in the direction of purity in politics.

An effort in this direction, in the shape of a primary election law, is now one of the statutes of the state. But it is crude, defective and incongruous—so much so that it is largely ineffective. It can be made effective, however, and if we are honest in desiring fairness in elections here is a fine opportunity to have it. I cannot, of course, discuss the details of such a law; but it is no untrodden path. Other states have blazed out the way, and if we are sincere in contending for honesty, purity and fairness we can have them by enacting such a law, carefully and thoroughly considered in all its details. If we are insincere, and only pronounce the protestations of virtue to hide the deformity of contemplated vice, then let in all decency, cease calling for honesty and decrying dishonesty in politics. I believe the large mass of the people, and for aught I know, all the people, are earnestly and patriotically desirous of the reform along this line, and I confidently hope to see a law that will meet this evil, and bring the great reform. Then, if political parties proffer other modes of nominations, in which frauds can be continued in practice, honest people will know the reason and can defeat them at the polls. White men can afford to be fair amongst white men, and all good citizens should inexorably demand fairness and take no excuses and no pretexts, and no subterfuges to continue the arts and devices of trickery and political legerdemain. Let the law reach out, not only after the man who receives compensation for his vote and influence in behalf of the candidate, but after the candidate who promises the compensation, by himself or by his friends with his knowledge or connivance. Such a law can be devised as will make fraud and questionable methods so obnoxious that they will become lost arts. But it will never be enforced unless thoughtful, determined, patriotic citizens determine deep down in their hearts that it shall be enforced.

My friends, let's have it. Let good men come to the front and take hold of the matter and place Alabama far in advance of her sister states in this great reform. I refrain from discussing the details of such a law, but men have been nominated for the general assembly in Alabama who are strong and firm, and wise, and honest enough to honor the state and themselves by meeting and solving this vexed question.

Now, my friends, the strongest opposition that has fought the organized democracy since 1874 is the populist party. It was strong because it was composed largely of white men. While some of them, as in all parties, doubtless acted from selfish motives, a great many more were of the solid, substantial farmers of the state, who were honest and sincere in their opposition. True, passion for a while seemed to be rampant and hard names and harder thoughts were hurled and entertained by the two great bodies of white men that confronted each other, as not only political, but in many instances as personal foes. In the recent years, as unholy passion died out of the hearts and reason again came to her throne, large numbers of this class of our citizens have returned to the fold of the democracy; and it will be a matter of which I shall be very proud if I shall be instrumental at all in having the remainder return to the democratic home, and side by side with their brethren aid in building up the waste places, purifying the public service and fostering the vital interests of this glorious commonwealth. To that end let us see if continued warfare against the Alabama democracy is just or founded in reason. To honest men I bring the argument: The populist party, being composed largely of farmers, though not entirely, I ask you, what is to be gained, what benefit is to follow your success if you succeed in beating down the organization of the democratic party? I have not only not one unkind feeling in my heart for the farming class, but the highest respect. Three of my brothers and many of my kindred and friends are farmers. I am a farmer myself, though I have another calling. Surely, surely, I can have no favor for any policy, or any purpose, that will injure my own kindred and friends.

It is charged as an excuse for this opposition that the democratic party has been unfriendly to the farmer. Is this true? Eight years ago I pressed home upon the consciences of men the question: "What demand has the farmer made of the Alabama democracy that has not been speedily granted?" "What law has he asked that was not speedily passed?" Turn the question: What has he asked and obtained? In 1892 I discussed this phase of the subject, and what I said then is as true now, and with your permission, I will repeat what I then said:

"The landlord has a lien for his rent superior to all other liens; and when he showed that he was compelled to make advances to his tenants he was given a lien for them ahead of all others. The merchant may furnish the mules that make the crop, the food that feeds them, the fertilizers that make the crop grow and the tools that work it, but if he touches a pound of cotton, or an ear of corn, before the land owner is paid the last dollar due him, he is liable to fine or a convict's stripes.

"Yes, but our farming friend said to the democratic party in the legislature, we get our land ready and incur the expense of preparation and our labor is enticed away. The lawmaking power at once made it a crime to entice away agricultural labor," or any labor for that matter, "and the damages to the employer are made a part of the fine, and paid to him.

"And then, in response to the righteous demands of the farming classes, laws were passed to keep away from the state worthless fertilizers; to put a man in the penitentiary for stealing an ear of corn or a pound of cotton from the field; to make it a felony to steal any domestic animal, no matter how small the value; to prevent the sale of cotton in the seed; to prevent the sale of agricultural products between sunset and sunrise; to prevent trespassing on land; to prevent fraud in sampling, weighing and selling cotton. These and many other laws were passed or kept on the statute book at the request of the farmers, and to protect them.

"Then the mechanic asks, what has been done for me? You build a man a house or a buggy and the law will not let him live in the one nor ride in the other until he pays for it. So a lien is given to the blacksmith.

"Then comes the laborer and says, I have no influence; what has been done for me? The law gives you a lien, too, for your work.

"What special laws have been passed for other classes that did not benefit the farmer, too? None that I now remember."

This is the record of the Alabama democracy for the past twenty-five years. What more could it do?

If it has been true to the great interests of the agricultural and laboring classes, how ungrateful and unjust are the denunciations heaped upon its head! I might hurl back the anathemas aimed at the democratic hosts, but I am here to reason with, and not to denounce men. Denunciation is no argument, and never won a brave man from error.

There is another excellent class of our fellow citizens that temporarily left the old ship, and for reasons satisfactory to them rallied under the PALMER AND BUCKNER wing of the democracy. Many of them were as honest and sincere as those who refused to leave the regular organization. They saw their duty along the line they took. They are entitled to credit for honesty of purpose and thought. Some of the regulars denounced them as bitterly as they had denounced the populists. These men refused to stand by the organiation, because, as they insisted, a principle was involved. Others, possibly agreeing with them that the party was going wrong, considered the mistake only one of policy, and not of principle, and that the wise thing to do was to stay in the party, submit to the will of the majority and strive to rectify the mistake inside the ranks of the party. Most of these have taken the sober, second thought, and, recognizing the patriotic duty of Alabamians, are again in full fellowship beside the ark of democracy.

Thus it is, white men of Alabama, that the ranks of democracy are filled again with true and patriotic men, and the invitation is extended to every man in Alabama to lay aside the differences of the past; to get above the dissensions of little differences and the petty contentions of little men, and with the steady tramp of solid phalanx, bearing aloft the silken banner of white supremacy, march to the accomplishment of the glorious destiny that awaits noble men, who determine to be true to their homes, their country and their God.

In the presence of the tremendous problem that confronts Caucasian supremacy and Caucasion civilization in Alabama, if any man, for the sake of office, or to gratify a greed for gain, or from prejudice—that offspring of low ambition—is willing to create a schism in the ranks of the democracy of the state, let him mate with his own sinister motives and skulk underneath his own dormant conscience; it will awake in due time and refuse him solace and rest.

There are very great national questions I would be delighted to discuss. There is the tariff—always with us; the financial question; expansion; trusts; income tax, and others. I have nothing to conceal, and no objection to giving my views on all these matters, but my time and your patience forbid.

Alabamians today are mainly engaged in setting their house in order. Burning questions of state policy are here for settlement. The peculiarly southern question is ours to solve; the race question is to be settled, and settled right, in the interests of Christianity, justice and civilization. The beautiful women and lovely children of our homes lean on the strong arms of Alabama's men for protection. Are we equal to the demand? If so, away with the petty ambition of place hunting? Away with passion and strife and partisan rancor! Away with unholy aspirations and lust for power; and cultivating the spirit of good will toward our fellows and love for Alabama, let us move forward to the upbuilding of this glorious state a reunited, harmonious party.

HILLS MAKE MUSIC.

A Curious Phenomenon to Be Witnessed Near Mafeking.

A few miles southwest of a little town which has become famous through the Boer war, Mafeking, lies a mountain of white sand. Perhaps I should say stands a mountain of white sand, but that would not be true. The sand rises, falls and shifts about, and in so doing makes music, or sounds which seem like music, among surroundings so desolate as a South African desert. The highest hill of sand in this locality is about 700 feet, and there are many hillocks round about. The whole neighborhood is, however, constantly changing its appearance, and where there may be a considerable hill today there may be a flat plain or even a hollow tomorrow. There seem to be periodic sand floods like those in the Arabian desert.

Many explanations of the cause of the music in the sands have been given, but the most satisfactory is that of friction of the little particles of sand upon one another. As the sand rolls down a hum comes from the rubbing of the particles together. One can see the sand constantly rolling down the steep banks. At first the sound is like a strain of distant music coming through one of the cliffs near by. Then it seems like a continuous cathedral chord, very much like a solemn cathedral chant.

At times, if you are standing on one of the little hillocks, the sounds seem to come from a buried cloister under your feet. There is mystery and enchantment about it all, a dead silence save for the music of the rolling sand is everywhere. It seems almost like sacrilege to break the spell that such conditions bring.

One strange thing about the shifting and falling of the sand is that it can go on for years as it does. In a short time the falling of the sand should reduce the hills to a level. No winds could heap up the sand in the forms in which they exist, and there seems to be no volcanic action. Yet these hills of sand shift about, rise and fall and make music an accompaniment of their queer operations. We are not yet able to pluck out the heart of their mystery.—Boston Herald.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

This is the text of the platform adopted by the democratic party in national convention assembled at Kansas City, July 5, 1900:

"We, the representatives of the democratic party of the United States, assembled in national convention on the anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, do reaffirm our faith in that immortal proclamation of the inalienable rights of men, and our allegiance to the constitution framed in harmony therewith by the fathers of the republic.

"We hold that according to the United States supreme court the Declaration of Independence is the spirit of our government, of which the constitution is the form and letter.

IMPERIALISM DENOUNCED.

"We declare again that all governments instituted among men derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, that any government not based upon the consent of the governed is a tyranny; and to impose upon any people any government of force is to substitute the methods of imperialism for those of a republic. We hold that the constitution follows the flag, and denounce the doctrine that an executive or congress deriving their existence and their powers from the constitution can exercise lawful authority beyond it or in violation of it. We assert that no nation can long endure half republic and half empire and we warn the American people that imperialism abroad will lead quickly and inevitably to despotism at home.

PORTO RICAN LAW.

"Believing in these principles, we denounce the Porto Rico law, enacted by a republican congress against the protest and opposition of the democratic minority, as a bold and open violation of the nation's organic law, and a flagrant breach of the national good faith. It imposes upon the people of Porto Rico a government without their consent and taxation without representation. It dishonors the American people by repudiating a solemn pledge made in their behalf by the commanding general of our army, which the Porto Ricans welcomed to a peaceful and unresisted occupation of their land. It doomed to poverty and distress a people whose helplessness appeal with peculiar force to our justice and magnanimity.

"In this the first act of its imperialistic program, the republican party seeks to commit the United States to a colonial policy inconsistent with republican institutions, and condemned by the supreme court in numerous decisions.

"We demand the prompt and honest fulfillment of our pledges to the Cuban people and the world that the United States has no disposition nor intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over the island of Cuba, except for its pacification. The war ended nearly two years ago, profound peace reigns over all the islands and still the administration keeps the government of the island from its people while republican carpetbag officials plunder its revenues and exploit the colonial theory to the disgrace of the American people.

PHILIPPINE QUESTION.

"We condemn and denounce the Philippine policy of the present administration. It has involved the republic unnecessarily in war, sacrificed the lives of many of our noblest sons and placed the United States, previously known and applauded throughout the world as the champion of freedom, in the false and un-American position of crushing with military force the efforts of our former allies to achieve liberty and self-government.

"The Filipinos cannot be civilized without endangering our civilization; they cannot be subjected without imperiling our form of government, and as we are not willing to surrender our civilization or to convert the republic into an empire, we favor an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose to give the Filipinos, first, a stable form of government; second, independence, and third, protection from outside interference, such as has been given for nearly a century to the republics of Central and South America.

"The greedy commercialism which dictated the Philippine policy of the republican administration attempts to justify it with the plea that it will pay, but even this sordid and unworthy plea fails when brought to the test of facts. The war of criminal aggression against the Filipinos, entailing an annual expense of many millions, has already cost more than any possible profit that could accrue from the entire Philippines trade for years to come. Furthermore, when trade is extended at the expense of liberty the price is always too high.

EXTENSION OF REPUBLIC'S INFLUENCE.

"We are not opposed to territorial expansion when it takes in desirable territory, which can be erected into states in the union and whose people are willing and fit to become American citizens.

"We favor trade expansion by every peaceful and legitimate means. But we are unalterably opposed to the seizing or purchasing of distant islands to be governed outside the constitution and whose people can never become citizens.

"We are in favor of extending the republic's influence among the nations, but believe that influence should be extended not by force and violence, but through the persuasive power of a high and honorable example. The importance of other questions now pending before the American people is in no wise diminished and the democratic party takes no backward step from its position on them, but the burning issue of imperialism growing out of the Spanish war involves the very existence of the republic and the destruction of our free institutions. We regard it as the paramount issue of the campaign.

MONROE DOCTRINE.

"The declaration in the republican platform adopted at the Philadelphia convention held in June, 1900, that the republican party steadfastly adheres to the policy announced in the Monroe doctrine, is manifestly insincere and deceptive. This profession is contradicted by the avowed policy of that party in opposition to the spirit of the Monroe doctrine to acquire and hold sovereignty over large areas of territory and large numbers of people in the eastern hemisphere.

"We insist on the strict maintenance of the Monroe doctrine and in all its integrity both in letter and in spirit as necessary to prevent the extension of European authority on this continent and essential to our supremacy in American affairs. At the same time we declare that no American people shall ever be held by force in unwilling subjection to European authority.

MILITARISM.

"We oppose militarism. It means conquest abroad and intimidation and oppression at home. It means the strong army which has ever been fatal to free institutions. It is what millions of our citizens have fled from in Europe. It will impose upon our liberty loving people a large standing army and an unnecessary burden of taxation and a constant menace to their liberties. A small standing army and a well disciplined state militia are amply sufficient in time of peace. This republic has no place for a vast military service and conscription. When the nation is in danger the volunteer soldier is his country's best defender. The national guard of the United States should ever be cherished in the patriotic hearts of a free people. Such organizations are ever an element of strength and safety. For the first time in our history and co-evil with the Philippine conquest has there been a wholesale departure from our time honored and approved system of volunteer organization. We denounce it as un-American, un-democratic and un-republican, and as a subversion of the ancient and fixed principles of a free people.

TRUSTS.

"Private monopolies are indefensible and intolerable. They destroy competition, control the price of all material and of the finished product, thus robbing both producer and consumer. They lessen the employment of labor and arbitrarily fix the terms and conditions thereof and deprive individual energy and small capital of their opportunity for betterment.

"They are the most efficient means yet devised for appropriating the fruits of industry to the benefit of the few at the expense of the many, and unless their insatiate greed is checked all wealth will be aggregated in a few hands and the republic destroyed.

"The dishonest paltering with the trust evil by the republican party in state and national platforms is conclusive proof of the truth of the charge that the trusts are the legitimate product of republican policies; that they are fostered by republican laws, and that they are protected by the republican administration in return for campaign subscription and political support.

"We pledge the democratic party to an unceasing warfare in nation, state and city against private monopoly in every form. Existing laws against trusts must be enforced, and more stringent ones must be enacted providing for publicity as to the affairs of corporations engaged in interstate commerce and requiring all corporations to show, before doing business outside of the state in their origin, that they have no water in their stock, and that they have not attempted and are not attempting to monopolize any branch of business or the production of any articles of merchandise, and the whole constitutional power of congress over interstate commerce, the mails and all modes of interstate communication shall be exercised by the enactment of comprehensive laws upon the subject of trusts. Tariff laws should be amended by putting the products of trusts upon the free list to prevent monopoly under the plea of protection.

"The failure of the present republican administration with absolute control of all the branches of the national government to enact any legislation designed to prevent or even curtail the absorbing power of trusts and alleged combinations or to enforce the anti-trust laws already on the statute books prove the insincerity of the high sounding phrase of the republican platform.

"Corporations should be protected in all their rights, and the legitimate interests should be respected, but any attempt by corporations to interfere with the public affairs of the people or to control the sovereignty which creates them, should be forbidden under such penalties as will make such attempts impossible.

"We condemn the Dingley tariff law as a trust breeding measure, skillfully devised to give the few favors which they do not deserve and to place upon the many burdens which they should not bear.

"We favor such an enlargement of the scope of the interstate commerce law as will enable the commission to protect individuals and communities from discriminations, and the public from unjust and unfair transportation rates.

FINANCIAL PLANK.

"We affirm and indorse the principles of the national democratic platform adopted in Chicago in 1896, and we reiterate the demand of that platform for an American financial system made by the American people for themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level, and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation."

"We denounce the currency bill enacted in the last session of congress as a step forward in the republican policy which aims to discredit the sovereign right of the national government to issue all money, whether coin or paper; and to bestow upon national banks the power to issue and control the volume of paper money for their own benefit. A permanent national bank currency secured by government bonds must have a permanent debt to rest upon, and if the bank currency is to increase with population and business, the debt must also increase. The republican currency scheme is the reform scheme for fastening upon the taxpayers a perpetual and growing debt for the benefit of the banks. We are opposed to this private corporation paper circulated as money, but without legal tender qualities, and demand the retirement of the national bank notes as fast as government paper or silver certificates can be substituted for them.

ELECTION OF U. S. SENATORS.

"We favor an amendment to the federal constitution providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, and we favor direct legislation wherever practicable.

"We are opposed to government by injunction; we denounce the black list, and favor arbitration as a means of settling disputes between corporations and their employes.

"In the interest of American labor and the uplifting of the workingman as the corner stone of the prosperity of our country, we recommend that congress create a department of labor, in charge of a secretary, with a seat in the cabinet, believing that the elevation of the American laborer will bring with it increased production and increased prosperity to our country at home, and to our commerce abroad.

"We are proud of the courage and fidelity of the American soldiers and sailors in all our wars; we favor liberal pensions to them and their dependents, and we reiterate the position taken in the Chicago platform in 1896 that the fact of enlistment and services shall be deemed conclusive evidence against disease and disability before enlistment.

NICARAGUAN CANAL.

"We favor the immediate construction, ownership and control of the Nicaragua canal by the United States, and we denounce the insincerity of the plank in the national republican platform for an isthmian canal in the face of the failure of the republican majority to pass the bill pending in congress. We condemn the Hay-Pauncefote treaty as a surrender of American rights and interests, not to be tolerated by the American people.

"We denounce the failure of the republican party to carry its pledges to grant statehood to the territories of Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, and we promise the people of those territories immediate statehood and home rule during their condition as territories, and we favor home rule and a territorial form of government for Alaska and Porto Rico.

"We favor an intelligent system of improving the arid lands of the west, storing the waters for purposes of irrigation, and the holding of such lands for actual settlers.

"We favor the continuance and strict enforcement of the Chinese exclusion law and its application to the same classes of all Asiatic races.

"Jefferson said: 'Peace, commerce and honest friendship with nations, entangling alliance with no one.' We approve this wholesome doctrine and earnestly protest against the republican departure which has involved us in so-called politics, including the diplomacy of Europe and the intrigue and land-grabbing of Asia, and we especially condemn the ill-concealed republican alliance with England, which must mean discrimination against other friendly nations, and which has already stifled the nation's voice while liberty is being strangled in Africa.

SYMPATHY FOR THE BOERS.

"Believing in the principles of self-government and rejecting as did our forefathers the claim of monarchy, we view with indignation the purpose of England to overwhelm with force the South African republics. Speaking, as we do, for the entire American nation, except its republican office-holders, and for all free men everywhere, we extend our sympathies to the heroic burghers in their unequal struggle to maintain their liberty and independence.

"We denounce the lavish appropriations of recent republican congresses, which have kept taxes high and which threaten the perpetuation of the oppressive war levies. We oppose the accumulation of a surplus to be squandered in such fare-faced frauds upon the taxpayers as the shipping subsidy bill, which, under the false pretense of fostering American shipbuilding, would put unearned millions into the pockets of favored contributors to the republican campaign fund.

"We favor the reduction and speedy repeal of the war taxes and a return to the time-honored democratic policy of strict economy in governmental expenditures.

"Believing that our most cherished institutions are in great peril, that the very existence of our constitutional republic is at stake, and the decision to be rendered will determine whether or not our children are to enjoy these blessed privileges of free government which have made the United States great, prosperous and honored, we earnestly ask for the foregoing declaration of principles the hearty support of the liberty-loving people, regardless of previous party affiliations."

We live and learn, and we are beginning to learn that there is such a thing as over exertion of the muscle, and that in taking exercise, as in all other things, the rule of moderation is the rule of reason. We are learning from experience that bodily fatigue is not a cure for mental fatigue; that violent straining on gymnastic apparatus hurts more than it helps, and that the real benefits of exercise, which are health, good digestion, good temper, good spirits, resistance to disease and resultant longevity, are acquired by moderate exertion in the open air, rather than by unnatural exertion in the achievement of feats or the breaking of records.

The London Financial News estimates that the fame which attaches to Stratford-on-Avon because of the fact that Shakespeare was born there is worth $5,000,000 to that town. The charges for admission to the poet's house, to Anne Hathaway's cottage, to the church, to the memorial and to the grammar school net $150,000 yearly—a sum which is equivalent to an income of 3 per cent. on the $5,000,000 capital. This calculation does not take into account the income to the railways from the pilgrims to the Warwickshire mecca, and there is no estimate of the profits of the Stratford tradesmen, who do a good business in photographs, pamphlets and trinkets relating to the town and the great bard.

TEDDY HITS M'KINLEY

ROOSEVELT SAYS NOTHING ABOUT PARTY POLICY.

Is Afraid of the Record Made by the Republican Administration and Will Not Defend It—Would Rather Talk of Other Things.

That condition which Mr. Bryan warned his party friends against, when he pleasantly said, it is undesirable to nominate a ticket in which the candidate for first and second place may find it necessary to enter into a joint debate with one another, appears to have already developed an illustration in the case of the gentleman nominated for president and vice president by Mark Hanna's convention.

Just before he left on his trip to Oklahoma, Candidate Roosevelt gave out an interview in which he pitched into all violations of the civil service law. His opening declaration reads thus: "I know that no republic can permanently endure, when its politics are corrupt and base, and the spoils system, the application in political life of the degrading doctrine that to the victors belong the spoils, produces corruption and degradation."

This is bringing Mr. McKinley, Mr. Roosevelt's running mate, to book with a vengeance for going back on his oft repeated declaration that he would "take no step backward" in civil service reform, by removing the civil service fence from around more than 10,000 offices, previously filled by the merit system, and leaving open to the occupancy of hungry spoilsmen, in order to help Mark Hanna carry the Ohio election last fall for the Republican ticket.

Again Candidate Roosevelt inserts the knife into the head of the presidential ticket, and draws its blade sweepingly across the abdomen of the man who bosses the Republican party, in the following fashion: "Presidents Arthur, Harrison and Cleveland have all desired to see the service extended and the law well administered." How about President McKinley? Candidate Roosevelt is ominously silent as to the record of his running mate in the civil service reform business.

Once more he says: "The spoilsmongers and the spoils-hunter invariably breed the bribe-taker and the bribe-giver, the embezzler of public funds, and the corrupter of voters."

No one at all conversant with recent political history can read the last paragraph without interpreting it as a depiction of Hanna's election methods, the tactics he employed in getting into the senate, and his blackmailing postmasters last year out of corruption funds for the Ohio election when he employed Mr. Dick as his stool pigeon. Roosevelt's language likewise reads like a direct reference to the thievery of Hanna's friends Neely and Rathbone in Cuba.

What is Teddy the Terror up to? Does he want to get even with Hanna for trying to prevent his nomination? Does he wish to knife McKinley this year so as to mount upon the Ohioan's political horse to the candidacy for president in 1904?

Both these conclusions are strongly inferable from Roosevelt's remarkable utterances.—Kansas City Times.

CRY OF WOLF WON'T WORK.

A recent cartoon in Puck pictures the street car riots in St. Louis and asserts that they are the realization of the anarchistic Chicago platform.

Now, the cry of wolf was effective in 1896, but it is frayed at the elbows and run down at the heels this year. People have seen Bryan and have failed to discover the cloven hoof hidden in his ample boots, a tail curled beneath his sack coat, or horns sprouting from his head scantily covered with hair. They no longer believe that death and destruction follow in the wake of an enactment of Democratic laws. Surely a party that stands for every principle dear to the rounders of the republic is not going to tear the nation up by the roots and cast it into the sea.

Some new "fake" must be tried this year. Puck, the New York Times and other mugwump papers that are screaming anarchy, are wasting their powder. It won't work again.

But to take Puck's cartoon seriously for a moment. The Democratic party lost at the polls in 1896. If any national party is to be blamed for the labor troubles that have been so numerous during the present administration surely it cannot be blamed on the Democrats. Mr. McKinley takes credit for the large wheat crops. He ought by the same reasoning to bear the burden of the labor troubles. That such a cartoon is printed by a reputable paper shows the lengths to which partisanship will carry otherwise sane men.—Evansville Courier.

A Political Fable.

The Chicago Public draws attention to the fact (utterly ignored in the press dispatches, as nearly all essential facts usually are) that the great ice trust of New York, in which prominent politicians of both parties are deeply interested, rested not upon any power of organization, but upon a monopoly of the docks. If these had been free to all shippers, the trust would have been rendered impossible by competition. So it is with all trusts; they are made possible only by laws that foster monopoly of trade, transportation, and land. Abolish these, and no anti-trust legislation would be needed.

Editor Star. Reading the foregoing we rambled off into fable-land, thus:

("Trusts"—A Fable.)

A certain householder once advertised for a watch-dog, and two of the fraternity responded. Now, one was a good dog and the other a bad dog. The good dog modestly stated his abilities; the bad dog claimed the place on the ground that his competitor was guilty of a serious crime. So the query was "What crime?" "The crime of having a flea on his tail, sir," replied the bad dog. "And you, of all creatures in the world, have the gall to raise an objection like that!" said the householder. "Why, you miserable cur, for that one flea on your friend's tail, you have a hundred to every square inch of your carcass, and not fleas only, but lice, maggots, ticks, and every kind of vermin under the sun. Out of my sight, you rascal, and thank your lucky stars I do not punish you as you deserve by handing you over to the poundman." So the contest ended. The bad dog, with many a cautious look behind, sneaked off home, whilst the good dog got the situation.

This fable will be perfectly self-explanatory to those sensitive Republicans who are at present in such a dolorous mood over the discovery of a few tainted Democrats in the Ice Trust.—San Francisco Star.

OPINION OF THE PRESS.

The same officeholders that induced the president to repudiate the promise that there should be "no backward step" with reference to civil service reform have dictated to him the personnel of the officeholding force of Cuba. It is not too much to say that the whole thing is part of one plan. Mr. Hanna and his machine found themselves limited as to spoils. There was not enough to go around. Demands for service rendered could not be gratified. And so the president was persuaded to repudiate the promise and took the "backward step." After this all was easy. There was not only warrant for filling the Cuban service and all our service in the dependencies with the henchmen and heelers of the spoilsmongers, but there was warrant for the overfilling of those places. The figures of the Cuban scandal that have come to light show the disproportionate number of officeholders foisted on that island, which in itself was scandalous.—Indianapolis News, Ind.

We need no new government. We need no political platform. We need men to execute the laws. We need courts which will weigh out exact justice for rich and poor. We need a law which will prevent nefarious combinations of capital from planting their feet in one state for the purpose of choking the people of another. We need independent public enterprises, controlled by the people for their own benefit. But we will get these things only when our citizens become wise.—New York Journal, Dem.

Blasphemous Tomfoolery.

Much latitude must be given the proud American enthusiast once in every four years because he then exercises the proud privilege of a freeman in electing a ruler; and all sorts of extravagance in language may be excused, from the most solemn and funereal to the most tropically exuberant and hysterical. Few people are permitted to choose their own rulers and these few should be allowed to exercise their vocal chords to the fullest extent. But there is reason in all things and some of his admirers are going beyond all reason in their beslobbering eulogies of Roosevelt. The preachers have been so far the gravest offenders. Two gentlemen of the cloth have taken it upon themselves to liken the "hero of San Juan" to the "hero of Calvary" and one of these holy men has compared Roosevelt's life to the "businesslike" methods of Jesus.

If this is anything at all it is blasphemous tomfoolery. Roosevelt has been honored and possibly may merit the honor but that does not entitle him to canonization or deification.

Passed a Painful Subject.

Springfield, Mass., Republican: It is our opinion that, with all its splendor, the Republican convention of 1900 has a fatal lack, which appears nowhere more clearly than in the brilliant speeches of its two chairmen. The conscience, the idealism, the glorious fidelity to human rights, which are now embodied by Hoar, Boutwell, Edmunds and the rest, are not there. The materialism of Hanna, the cynical political ethics of Lodge, the swashbuckler fervor of Roosevelt—all these are there, and they dominate everything. It is not surprising that the proceedings are described as lacking in enthusiasm. Nor is it strange that the great apostacy of the republic in the far East is left almost to a footnote in the platform, while the convention orators hurriedly pass the painful subject by.

Labor in the Cabinet.

The Republican platform declared for a new cabinet officer—a minister of commerce. The Democrats also favor an increase in the president's official family. But they call for a secretary of labor.

This difference shows the difference in attitude between the two parties. The Republicans look at economic questions from the side of the capitalists, the Democrats from the side of the workers. They hold that prosperity means the accumulation of vast wealth by the few. The Democrats believe that the welfare of the workers, the producers, is the foundation of general prosperity. A country is prosperous when the masses are contented, receiving a fair share of the products of their toil. Governments are for the benefit of the many and not of the few.—Evansville Courier.

Is there any state more to be pitied than kittenish, giggling old age?

With mud knee deep more than half the way, and with bicycles on their shoulders, somebody found cycling from Shelby Springs last Sunday evening a most pleasant recreation.

A ride down the Southern track on bicycles last Sunday afternoon discovered three fine milch cows lying dead near the roadbed, within a radius of twenty feet. They had evidently been killed by the train.

We don't know whether all of those new subscribers to THE CHRONICLE of a different political belief to our own are going to vote the democratic ticket or not, but they are starting on the same route they once traveled—and taking a mighty good road at that.

What would you think of buying a Victor bicycle, good as new, for $20? We have one in our office that will be yours for that amount. Is 24-inch, black enameled frame, 82 gear, 9-inch saddle post, patent chain, tough tires, easy runner, and in excellent shape. Cause for selling—"tired a ridin'." Drop in and look at it.

The protracted meeting at the Methodist church came to a close last Sunday night. The inclement weather of late prevented regular services, and the pastor stated that it was his purpose in the near future to renew the meeting when it was thought probable the weather would be more favorable. No accessions.

Last Thursday the wooden awning, or shed, to the building occupied by Johnston & Co. collapsed and filled the immediate sidewalk with shingles, lumber, "and et cetera." The shed fell perfectly clear from the house and did no damage whatever to the building or windows. Fortunately no one was near the building at the time of the occurrence.

We have been wanting to write a very pretty article for the past three or four months about the gorgeousness of spring and summer—about the green grasses that grow and bright plumaged birds which build their homes in the wild crab apple bush, mingling their notes with the aroma of the blossoms, the babbling brooks and wild ectasy of a summer outing, but the weather has broken into our arrangements and nothing will be said regarding these things until next year. Perhaps we can find something new to say by then.

The Columbiana Mercantile Co's. business has grown to such magnitude that they have outgrown the large two-story building they occupy, and they are now forced to build an additional store.room. Mr. A. G. Harwell has secured the contract to erect a one-story brick, 30 x 84 feet on the lot adjoining the Page building. Ground was broken Tuesday, and brick-laying will be under full headway ere this paper reaches all of its readers. As soon as completed the building will be filled with a large stock of groceries, hardware and furniture.

Word was received here a few days after the occurrence of a lynching near Childersburg Tuesday night of last week in which several citizens of this county were participants. John Jennings, a negro, was the victim, and his crime was the murder of L. Martin, a respected white citizen of Creswell. The murder was unprovoked and purely a case of cold-blooded homocide. Jennings was a workman in the employ of Martin, and when he was refused wages he had not earned nor was entitled to he walked to his house, secured a gun and deliberately shot Martin. He made his escape, but was captured by officials in Talladega county, and was being carried to jail when a mob of Shelby county citizens overpowered the men and meted out summary justice to the negro. The lynching took place about two miles from Childersburg. The occurrence created considerable excitement around Creswell and many people found it necessary to keep close to their guns for protection from a threatened attack by the negroes.

Notice.

To the veterans and sons of veterans of the first district—You are hereby commanded to meet me at Columbiana on the 28th of this month for the purpose of organizing a company to take part in the reunion at Shelby Springs on the 16th and 17th of August.

J. M. CRENSHAW,
Capt. 1st dist. veterans.

Attention, Veterans.

All the old Confederate soldiers and young men in the Second commissioners district are cordially requested to meet me in Montevallo on Friday, the 27th day of July, for the purpose of organizing a company and drilling preparatory to the reunion to be held at Shelby Springs on Thursday and Friday, the 16th and 17th of August.

JAMES OZLEY, Captain.

A Card From Mr. Williams.

OXFORD, ALA., July 14, 1900.

MY DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Will you kindly, in the interest of fair play, permit me, through the medium of your paper, to correct a report that is being circulated, maliciously or otherwise, that I have withdrawn from the race for congress in this district?

I have in the last few days received telegrams from friends in Shelby county informing me of the rumor and asking if there was anything in it. The report is absolutely and unqualifiedly false, and has been circulated by enemies too cowardly to fight in the open. I am in this race to a finish and to win. I am in favor of fair primaries in the different counties and want each individual democrat to have an opportunity to express his preference by a secret ballot.

Sincerely,
B. DUDLEY WILLIAMS.

The Reunion at Shelby Springs.

One month from this date will be held the Confederate Veterans' Reunion at Shelby Springs—the 17th the parade, sham battle, a big dinner, a brass band and two cannons—a grand time is expected. Now comrades and friends, the writer does not expect to say anything more about this. If you want success you will respond to the call that has already been made. We can't fight a battle without guns and ammunition; we won't have any dinner unless you bring it; we won't have any band without money; we won't have any cannons without money. We want this to be a success. This may be the last reunion held in this county, and we want every man, woman and child in this and adjoining counties to be present with us. Mr. A. W. Strickland is our treasurer, and will receive and receipt for all money sent to him. It will take $100 to make a success. This money we want by the 1st of August and not later than that date. Now if you are interested show your colors and the reward will be yours.

OLD VET.

Harpersville, Thursday, July 19, at 1 o'clock afternoon.

Vincent, Thursday, July 19, at 8 o'clock at night.

Sterrett, Friday, July 20, at 1 o'clock afternoon.

Saginaw, Monday, July 23, 8 o'clock at night.

Columbiana, Wednesday, July 25, at 2:30 o'clock afternoon.

Shelby, Wednesday, July 25, at 8 o'clock at night.

Hon. S. J. Bowie, Hon. B. Dudly Williams and Hon. John F. Burns, candidates for the nomination for Congress, are invited to meet Mr. Robbins in joint discussion of political questions at times and places mentioned.

Hon. S. J. Bowie telegraphed THE CHRONICLE yesterday requesting that we announce that he would meet Mr. Robbins at all his appointments in Shelby county.

Muster Roll of Co. K. 31st Ala. Regiment Volunteers C. S. A.

The following members of Company K, 31st Regiment Alabama volunteers are known to be still living in Shelby county. The writer has seen and conversed with most of them during the past few weeks.

W. W. Wallace,	M. M. Robertson,
Dr. A. E. McGraw,	Dr. D. Edwards,
Thomas Stone,	W. C. Powell,
D. M. Smith,	Sam Horton,
J. M. Crenshaw,	Hugh Shaw,
John Minor,	S. H. Kendrick,
Sam Howard,	Wm. Howard,
Milton Brasher,	Bob Brasher,
Lawrence Brasher,	J. M. Dover,
S. H. Seale,	Jno. W. Pitts.

It has been suggested that the above company have a reunion of its own at Shelby Springs on the 16th and 17th of August. Let every one of the above named veterans who can possibly do so come to Shelby Springs on August 16th and go into camps.

We want to see the old company drilled one time more. We want to see all the boys together one time more. We want to sit around the camp fires and talk over the incidents of the war. We want to hear Marion Robertson tell us of his conversation with Gen. Barton on our retreat in Kentucky in 1862. We want to hear Dr. Reeves tell his cannon story at the siege of Vicksburg. We want to hear Capt. McClanahan tell of his wonderful escape at New Hope church, and a thousand other incidents of the four years' service.

A special invitation has been sent to Capt. J. F. McClanahan, of Mansfield, La., who commanded the company at the surrender, and to Surgeon N. T. Reeves, also of Louisiana, to meet with us on that day.

Come out comrades and let's smoke our pipes once more around the camp fire.

THE AMERICAN,
Nashville, Tenn.

Asheville, N. C.

Few regions have been more richly endowed by nature than that famous section of western North Carolina poetically termed the Land of the Sky. It has a climate so dry and health-giving that it has become known the world over as a natural sanitarium for the cure of all troubles of a pulmonary or bronchial nature.

Asheville, the centre of this beautiful mountain-hemmed plateau, is the highest city east of Denver, and is a busy, thriving place of 12,000 inhabitants, with all the modernisms of city life. The city lies just at the point where the beautiful French Broad and Swannanoa Rivers join their crystal waters.

Within the city or in its suburbs many people of wealth have built beautiful and expensive homes, and most notable among them being the chateau of George W. Vanderbilt, which with its great estate, has cost upwards of four million dollars.

Asheville is an all-the-year resort, for its great mountains protect it in the winter from the cold winds and its summer climate is made delightful because of its altitude.

For descriptive matter of Asheville and vicinity call on any Southern Railway agent, or write C. A. Benscoter, A. G. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. Short—Oh, dear! I do wish we were rich. Just think of the good we could do if we only had lots of money.

Mr. Short—True, my dear; but we can do a great deal of good in a quiet way now.

Mrs. Short—Yes, of course—but no one will ever hear of it.—Chicago News.

As to the questions propounded by the Advocate in reference to a certain county court bill introduced before the last legislature, we think the questions sufficiently answered elsewhere in this issue. Besides we don't feel called upon to defend said court bill, as it was never a democratic measure, and is not now before the people in any legitimate way. Democrats opposed the passage of this bill and it was owing to this oppssition that the bill was dropped. Now we will say this to the Advocate that should any bill be introduced in the coming legislature, and, after having examined it, we ascertain that it is not in the interest of the whole people of Shelby county, we will join the Advocate or any other paper in trying to defeat its passage. And we will do this, it matters not who is elected to the legislature. Will the Advocate promise as much?

WE WOULD not think brother Pearson would hold an office where he would be disfranchising any voter. But he certainly does under his definition of disfranchising. He didn't tell the poor voter that in case the presiding judge is incompetent to try a case or unable to attend that he can appoint any lawyer he pleases as special judge, and the poor client need not be even consulted about it. He did not tell you that his populo-republico friend, Eugene Williams, was holding an office, and trying to get it again, where he appoints the township trustees and does not have to consult any one. According to his view of this he and Williams are engaged occasionally in this business of disfranchising.

SITUATION OF WHISKERS.

The Mustache Is an Ancient Ornament.

From "Robinson Crusoe:" "My beard I had once suffered to grow until it was about a quarter of a yard long, but as I had both scissors and razors sufficient, I had cut it pretty short, except what grew on my upper lip, which I had trimmed into a large pair of Mohammedan whiskers, such as I had seen worn by some Turks at Sallee, for the Moors did not wear such, though the Turks did; of the mustachios, or whiskers, I will not say they were long enough to hang my hat upon them, but they were of a length and shape monstrous enough, and such as in England would have passed for frightful." From Wilson's "History and Antiquities of the Dissenting Churches:" "Joseph Jacob, an independent preacher at Turner's hall, Philpot Lane (in) the beginning of the last century, made a church of his own. He passed an order obliging the whole of the congregation to stand during the time of singing. This, though by no means an uncommon thing in the present day, was then looked upon as a great novelty. In this reformed church all periwigs were discarded, the men members wore whiskers upon their upper lips, in which Mr. Jacob set them an example." From "Hunter's Travels in 1792:" "They (the Hungarians) shave their beards, except the upper lip, which is generally adorned with a pair of huge whiskers."

The Beautiful Rain.

Mr. White Washbrush, who was a recent comer, had been finding fault with the rainy weather we have had of late, when he was upbraided by Mr. Shine M. Upp in this fashion: "Hit doant becoms you, Mr. Washbrush, who had so recently adopted this as you' futuh abidin' place, to be makin' slightin' 'marks 'bout de ever welcome rain we have been habin'. You see, de fack is, we who has been residin' long in de natch'ral gas region knows how fully to 'preciate de blessed influences ob all dis beau'ful rain; for if hit wan't foh de rain we would hab no natch'ral gas to bu'n, as you see we now hab. Hit's dis way: de rain falls in flowin' quantities, an' soaks down fru de groun', an' fru de limestone an' de brimstone an' one thing anuder; whereumby' comin' in contact wid de 'forementioned ingreejients, dereby generatin' de gas, which is afterward lodged in de large natch'ral resumvor underlyin' all dis kentry round about. An' nen all we has to do is to insert our hollow gas pipes an' de preshus stuff comes floatin' to us in de ready-made condishun in which we now find it. Yes, sah, de rain acts on de natch'ral earthly ingreejients de same as de watah does on de carbide in yo' bicycle lamp.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to tell you of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I was sick in bed about five weeks. The right side of my abdomen pained me and was so swollen and sore that I could not walk. The doctor told my husband I would have to undergo an operation. This I refused to do until I had given your medicine a trial. Before I had taken one bottle the swelling began to disappear. I continued to use your medicine until the swelling was entirely gone. When the doctor came he was very much surprised to see me so much better."—MRS. MARY SMITH, Arlington, Iowa.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was sick for two years with falling of the womb, and inflammation of the ovaries and bladder. I was bloated very badly. My left limb would swell so I could not step on my foot. I had such bearing down pains I could not straighten up or walk across the room and such shooting pains would go through me that I thought I could not stand it. My mother got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me to try it. I took six bottles and now, thanks to your wonderful medicine, I am a well woman."—MRS. ELSIE BRYAN, Otisville, Mich.

FOR FARM AND GARDEN.

Selecting Grasses for Pasturage.

It is not really necessary to have a mixture of grasses in a permanent pasture; but when a variety of grasses are sown the feeding value of the pasture is greatly improved. In choosing grasses for such a purpose the selection should be made with a regard to the habits of growth, such as hardiness, durability, the part of the season during which they grow, and last, but not least, the feeding value of the variety.

Remedial Measures for Club-Root.

Club-root is a disease that attacks cabbages and allied plants which is caused by germs that pass uninjured into the manure of the stock that are fed clubbed roots, and the use of this manure is probably the chief cause of introducing the germs into the soil. The means used to prevent this disease are as follows: Remove all clubbed roots from the field and destroy them by burning; plow infected soil deeply; rotate your crops; if the weeds in the field belong to the mustard family suppress them no matter what the expense; apply lime to the soil. If your turnips or cabbages are infected and you must feed them to the stock always boil them well before so doing.

A Good Pea Rake.

Many farmers will find the rake a very convenient implement for gathering field-sown peas. They should be raked out when they are damp, the windrows immediately loosened and made into bunches of the proper size for loading. They can be then drawn in when dry without much loss by shelling. I sow three and a half bushels of the larger varieties to the acre with the drill, sowing early and as deep as possible. I find that it is better to leave the surface of the soil rigid, so that when the vines go down the air having a better chance to circulate underneath, they are not apt to spoil. Good results have been obtained sowing three to the acre checked.—C. L. Campbell, in New England Homestead.

Breeding Angora Goats.

Gradually the goat is finding his way into popularity on the farms in some sections of the country. It is not the ordinary "billy goat" that is made the butt of so many newspaper jokes, however, but the long-haired Angora. This animal is a good investment because the woolly hair that he produces in considerable abundance is a profitable article of commerce, and because goats can do well on pastures that do not afford sufficient grazing to keep any other kinds of stock in thriving condition. In addition to this they are said to be the most healthy and least subject to disease of any of the domestic animals, and the kids are most excellent to eat. These things being true, the Angora goat ought to find a place on thousands of Southern farms, where now no kind of live stock at all is raised. There is hardly a farm anywhere, on which a flock of goats would not flourish and require little or no feeding at any season of the year.—Tri-State Farmer.

Seeds That Are Good.

Quality and quantity of seed determine the harvest fully as much as culture or any other part of the farm work. This should not be neglected in any way. It is better to cultivate fewer acres and have plenty of good seeds than to try to handle a farm too large for thorough seeding and cultivating. This is the foundation of success in all kinds of farming. It is true also in business, and is tersely summed up in the slang phrase: "Don't bite off more than you can chew." Very often it is ambition that makes one attempt to cultivate more than he can do justice to, and this commendable quality should not be discouraged. Still, ambition in every line must be controled and directed wisely, and in some cases it needs to be actually curbed and checked.

So at the start of the new season of growing, make your plans such that they cannot miscarry. Measure out the amount of work each acre requires and then decide how much labor and expense you can devote to the farm. In this way extensive culture can be given without conflicting with any part of the farm life. In selecting the seeds the same rule of business should apply. Quality must come first in the selecting of the seeds, and if you cannot be assured of this go elsewhere to buy the seeds. Good varieties adapted to your soil and to the markets should be considered first, and then the sources from which the seeds came. Poor generation often comes from poor soil, bad cultivation and neglect, but more often on good farms it is due to poor seed. We are often compelled to take the word of the seedsman for the quality of our seeds, but if a dealer once proves unreliable punish him by strictly avoiding him in the future.

The matter of quantity of seeds to the acre is often a deciding factor. Some farmers in order to economize a little in seed scant the amount generally recommended to the acre. This is false economy just as much as sowing too much to the acre is a wasteful practice. Sow to each acre the full amount consistent with a large yield. More or less than this is waste and pecuniary loss.—American Cultivator.

Conservation of Fertility.

One of the most important problems in agriculture is the conservation of the fertility of the soil. At the present time nearly all the soils of the States are well supplied with plant food, and it is believed that if proper means are taken it will be possible to conserve, to a great extent, a large part of this fertility, and prevent rapid decline in the yields of crops. Before discussing this subject it will be necessary first to consider the characteristic feature of the soils of the state and the main facts observed from the analyses reported in this and former bulletins.

It should be remembered that chemical and physical changes are continually taking place in the soil, and that in some soils these changes are more rapid than in others. In the cultivation of the soil it should be the aim to assist nature in bringing about these changes which render the plant food available. It frequently happens that the methods of nature and the methods of those who cultivate the soil are in direct opposition, when they should be in harmony. This is illustrated in the case of many soils from which large amounts of plant food in the form of nitrogen have been unnecessarily lost, because of poor methods of cultivation. It is natural for a soil to be covered with vegetation, and when the land is continually under the plow and only one crop is grown, an unnatural condition exists, and as a result there is a loss of fertility.

An ordinary crop removes a comparatively small portion of the total plant food of the soil, but a soil is capable of producing grain crops for only a few years before the decline in the yield per acre is observed. This is not due so much to the fertility by the removal of nitrogen, phosphoric acid, potash, lime and other elements from the soil, as to the soil getting out of condition because of chemical and physical changes which have taken place as the result of the cultivation which has rendered the plant food unavailable.—Professor Harry Snyder, in Mirror and Farmer.

How to Get a Honey Harvest.

It may be a little late to offer suggestions as to bee feeding and the time required from the egg till the workers are ready to fly off to forage for themselves. It is just and right time for many of the northern states. A little study of the plant-habits is desirable. One needs to know, as a writer in the St. Louis Journal of Agriculture reminds us, what plants furnish pollen and nectar in abundance, and when the blossoms are out and ready for the bees to work upon. It usually takes worker bees, continues this writer, about 37 days from the egg until they are ready to fly out to gather honey, though they will go at an earlier age sometimes if the colony is weak and the stores low. This is like the sending of children out to earn their living when very young; it may seem necessary under some circumstances, but it is neither well for the children nor profitable to the parents in the end, if they can sustain life in any other way.

Then the time to begin to feed the bees to stimulate brood raising is best placed at 37 days before the blooming of the flowers, or a little more, that there may be plenty of bees to go to work when the honey is ready for them.

If the season is delayed beyond the expected time, keep up the feeding, and if the combs get well filled with brood and stores, put on a super with frames of empty comb or full sheets of foundation, and let the queen go up there to start more brood. If one can get a double hive in this way well filled with brood, he may expect not only a strong swarm from it, but more than one or two crates of sections or frames above it well filled with honey. It is in this way and by feeding when the honey flow slackens, and by good care at all times, that some are able to get 100 pounds of honey or more from each colony.

In this way the eight-frame hive can be made practically a 16-frame hive, with bees enough in it, and it will not send out but one swarm or should not be allowed to do so. If more increase is desired allow them to send out a second swarm in the upper box with the brood and comb that may be there and have the lower hive on the old stand with supers to build comb in.

Poultry Notes.

For early hatching the incubator is almost indispensable.

There is no danger of the poultry business being overdone, because the demand is rapidly increasing.

A good combination food for your hens is two-thirds wheat bran and one-third corn meal, wet up with milk.

The rapid evaporation that takes place during incubation is the cause of so many chickens dying in the shell.

Unfertile eggs will keep much longer than fertile eggs. They will be odorous and clear at the end of three weeks.

It is necessary to give your fowls free access to sharp gravel. Small, smooth stones are not a successful substitute.

If a scratching place is provided where you can bury corn, your fowls can receive much benefit from the exercise.

Seventy-five per cent is a good average hatch for the artificial machine and the hen seldom does better than this.

Yards fenced with common four-foot lath and covered with cheap tarred twine netting, make the best and by far the cheapest.

Keep your poultry houses perfectly clean, well whitewashed, warm, dry and well lighted and see how much better returns you secure.

Feed plenty of green food and keep the shell boxes full. Green cut bone or lean meat, fed three times a week, will stimulate your layers.

Don't give ice cold water to your fowls at 11 o'clock in the morning; wait until 10 or 11 and then give them warm water.

Garden

More labor is required of course to manage flocks in confinement. Yet this is made up for in the increasing egg yield and saving in the cost of the range.

Hens are generally most successful in hatching chickens in mid-summer. This is largely due to their allowing their eggs to get too cool while feeding.

The introduction of new blood into flocks of pure bred fowls is quite as important as the introduction of pure bred cows on farms where only the mongrel breeds have predominated.

TO AMUSE THE SHAH.

Immaterial to Him Who Was Executed.

Many stories are told of the shah of Persia in connection with his last visit to England. One of these tales, probably more amusing than true, is that he advised the Prince of Wales quietly to make away with a certain extremely influential duke, as the latter was growing too powerful to be safe. But a story which is vouched for is the account of the shah's visit to Newgate prison. While there he suddenly requested to see an execution. He was courteously informed that at the present moment there was no one under sentence. The shah swept away these trifling objections with a wave of his hand. "Take one of my suite," said he. "Any one will do." And he was woefully disappointed because the officials on the spot declined to comply with his request. The shah had a magnificent collection of jewels, among them being an emerald nearly as large as a hen's egg. The present shah will make a continental tour this summer, visiting England in July. It is said that he is bringing with him a number of costly and beautiful gifts for his royal and imperial hosts in all the places he intends to visit. His tour will take six months. He intends to stop in Russia, Germany, Austria, France, Greece and England.

It is told of Col. Hare, who is now the commander of the Thirty-third regiment in the Philippines, but who formerly led the Seventh cavalry, that when he first arrived in Manila he was asked by Gen. Otis how many sharpshooters he had in his command. "Well, general," said Col. Hare, after doing a little mental arithmetic, "I have 1,000 sharpshooters and about 1,365 crap-shooters."

CONGER IS ALIVE IN PEKIN

MINISTER CABLES WASHINGTON HE IS UNDER CONTINUOUS SHOT AND SHELL.

NO DATE, HOWEVER, IS IGVEN

Officials Express No Doubt as to Its Authenticity---Answer to Inquiry.

A Washington special says: United States Minister Conger is alive in Pekin. An official cipher cable dispatch has been received from him through the Chinese minister, Wu Ting Fang. Minister Conger cables from the British legation in Pekin. He says he is under continued shot and shell from Chinese troops and that quick relief only can prevent a general massacre. Minister Conger's official despatch, as translated and given out by the state department is as follows:

> "In British Legation, Pekin.—Hay, Washington, care Wu Ting Fang: Under continued shot and shell from Chinese troops. Quick relief only can prevent general massacre. CONGER."

The cablegram was received by Wu Ting Fang at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning. It was in the state department cipher and was transmitted through the tsung li yamen and the Shanghai taoti. Immediately upon receipt of the message, Minister Wu hastened to the state department with it, where Secretary Hay caused it to be deciphered at once.

The receipt of the cable has thrown Washington into a state of great excitement and rejoicing. Shortly after the minister's message had been deciphered the following official statement was made by Secretary Hay at the state department:

"On the 11th of this month the state department communicated a brief message asking tidings of Minister Conger in the state department code. Mr. Wu undertook to get this into Minister Conger's hands if he were alive. He has succeeded in doing this.

"This reply was in the state department cipher, and it is regarded as genuine, inasmuch as forgeries seem under such circumstances impossible."

In reply to a question Adjutant General Corbin said it was impossible now to say what effect the receipt of Mr. Conger's dispatch would have on military operations in China or on our preparations here. He said he did not know but that increased military haste might precipitate matters in China.

Within an hour the welcome intelligence that Conger had been heard from, after weeks of silence and evil report, was flashed through the whole country, and, indeed, throughout the world, dispelling the gloom which had prevailed everywhere and bringing to the officials and to the public generally a sense of profound relief.

First of all, from the standpoint of the administration officials, the most welcome feature of the message was its assurance that the American minister himself was alive on July 18th. But with the cheering news came the ominous statement of Minister Conger that the beseiged foreigners were in the British legation under continued shot and shell from Chinese troops, and that only quick relief could avert a general massacre.

After the first flush of thankfulness, this graver feature of the message began to impress itself upon cabinet officials most deeply. As one of them remarked:

"There are the poor creatures penned up under fire of shot and shell, and appealing to us for help."

The consultation brought about no pronounced change of policy, for it was felt that already every energy had been spent toward meeting the situation, and that there was absolutely nothing more that could be done. After all, the cabinet officials felt, and so stated, that the message was an evidence of friendliness and good faith of the pro-foreign element of the Chinese, and that wisdom dictated a course which would continue to utilize this friendship.

The government accepted the message as authentic and Secretary Hay transmitted it to all our ambassadors and ministers abroad, with instructions to lay it before the respective governments to which they are accredited, and to urge upon them the necessity of co-operation for immediate relief of the foreigners at Pekin. A message was sent by Secretary Long to Admiral Remey, conveying the intelligence of the desperate situation in Pekin and instructing him to "use and urge every possible endeavor for relief."

The message, Secretary Long explained, meant for Admiral Remey to himself "use" and to "urge" upon the commanding officers of the other powers the use of every endeavor for the relief of Pekin. Secretary Root sent a similar notification to Colonel Coolidge, the senior American officer ashore, at Tien Tsin, but without injunction. This action was the result of the conference of Secretaries Hay, Long and Root.

It was realized that the land and naval forces now in China could not single-handed push on to Pekin, and the other powers accordingly were appealed to, on the base of Minister Conger's message, to co-operate for instant relief. Secretary Hay explains his reasons for placing reliance in the authenticity of Minister Conger's dispatch, saying that it was a complete reply in code to the code message sent to him, and that its authenticity was vouched for by the tsung li yamen.

"Of course" said Secretary Hay, smiling, "I am not omniscient and may be fooled, but I cannot see how the authenticity of Minister Conger's cable can be questioned."

BECKHAM NAMED

To Fill Out Goebel's Unexpired Term as Governor of the State of Kentucky.

Governor Beckham was nominated by the Democratic state convention of Kentucky, at Lexington, by acclamation at 3:05 o'clock Friday morning, and the convention adjourned within thirty minutes thereafter.

After the names of Judge Black, of Barbourville, and Judge Tarvin, of Newport, were placed in nomination a roll call of the convention was begun. When LcLean county was reached Beckham had the 547 votes necessary to nominate. Then Black and Tarvin's names were withdrawn and the latter at once moved that the nomination of Beckham be made unanimous. The motion carried and Beckham was escorted to the platform, where he made a speech of acceptance.

It was 2 a. m. when Senator Blackburn presented a report from the committee on resolutions. The report as adopted was in part as follows:

"We heartily indorse the magnificent platform adopted by the national Democratic convention at Kansas City July 5, 1900, and also the splendid ticket named by said convention and pledge the Democracy of Kentucky to an earnest, cordial and active support of said ticket.

"The Democratic party recommends that the election law of 1898, known as the Goebel law, be so amended that the most hypercritical can find no excuse for charging fraud or unfairness to our party in the conduct of the election.

"The mob and the assassin shall not be the arbitrators of the citizens of Kentucky, nor shall the penalty of an appeal to the law and the regular constituted authorities be death at the hands of assassins."

Sincerest grief is expressed over the death of Governor William Goebel.

Every sincere lover of civil and personal liberty is invited to join in a campaign against the forces gathered under the banner of "A Government by Assassination."

In conclusion the administration of Governor J. C. W. Beckham was strongly indorsed.

ENGLAND HAS DOUBTS.

Press and People Think the Conger Message Is a "Blind."

The Conger dispatch fails to carry conviction to either the British press or the public. Its genuineness is not disputed, for, as is pointed out, the Chinese must possess quite a sheaf of such messages, which the ministers fruitlessly endeavored to get transmitted, from which they could easily select a non-committal dispatch to serve the required purpose.

LI REACHES HONG KONG.

Britishers Welcome Chinese Viceroy With Salute of Seventeen Guns.

Li Hung Chang and his suite arrived at Hong Kong Thursday evening. The Chinese viceroy was received with a salute of seventeen guns and, with a guard of honor from the Welsh Fusileers and a band, proceeded to the government house, where he was received by the governor, Sir Henry A. Blake, and other officials. He stated that he had received definite news that the ministers and foreigners at Pekin, with the exception of Baron Von Ketteler, the German minister, were safe July 9th.

APPEAL FOR PEACE?

Good Offices of McKinley Sought By the Chinese Imperial Government.

President McKinley has received what purports to be a direct appeal from the Chinese imperial government to use his good offices to extract that government from the difficult and dangerous position in which it has been placed as a result of the boxer uprising and the ensuing hostile attitude of the great powers.

Although the exact text of the appeal made by the emperor of China to Frnaee, as outlined in previous cable dispatches, has not been made known in Washington, it is believed that the address to the president is similar in terms to that communication. In our case the communication was made through Minister Wu to the state department.

TWO MORE DISPATCHES

From Chinese Sources Are Communicated to the State Department.

The Chinese minister at Washington, Wu Ting Fang, Saturday, communicated to the secretary of state two important telegrams. The first is from Sheng, the director of posts and telegraphs in Shanghaia, and says:

"Fortunate that Minister Conger's telegraphic reply has come. Imperial decree of the 22d, this moon (corresponding to July 18) stated that all ministers were safe. Insurgents are fighting and killing each other. Li Hung Chang is proceeding northward to suppress riot, will find it difficult to go."

The second telegram is from Li Tuku Yi, viceroy of Nanking, dated the 12th of July, and received by Minister Wu at 10 o'clock the same day. It is as follows:

"According to edict of 22d of this moon (July 18), with the exception of the German minister, who was killed by anarchists, with regard to which rigorous measures are being taken to capture and punish the guilty parties, all the other ministers, for whom strenuous efforts are being made for their protection, are fortunately unharmed."

Li Kiu Yi, the viceroy of Nanking, is one of the great officers of China and stands next in rank among the diplomats to Li Hung Chang.

The war department issued orders last Saturday for the withdrawal from Cuba of the First infantry to take station at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. The commanding general of the department of the Missouri will designate two battalions of this regiment for service in the Philippines.

IN PURSUIT OF CHANG.

British Cruiser Said to Be On Watchout For the Old Man.

A Shanghai dispatch states that the British cruiser Bona Venture left Woo Sung early Friday morning, it is reported, to seize the An Ping, with Li Hung Chang on board. A triumphal arch, erected in Li Hung Chang's honor, has been ordered by the council to be removed.

The announcement of the alleged pursuit of Li Hung Chang, comes somewhat as a surprise after the honors paid the Chinese viceroy at Hong Kong, but confirmation of the news will meet the approval of a large majority.

It is understood that the president and General Wood have agreed upon September 15 as the time for holding the election in Cuba for delegates to the constitutional convention that is to be called for the purpose of formulating a constitution for an independent government for Cuba.

MOVE ON PEKIN IS DELAYED

We Are Alone On Policy For Quick Action.

POWERS FEAR THE RISK

Will Be At Least a Month Before International Forces Will Be Ready to Advance On Chinese Capital.

A Washington special says: Two dispatches from Chinese officials and one from Admiral Remey, at Taku, represented the news developments of Saturday so far as the Chinese situation was concerned.

The Chinese dispatches were corroborative, or were intended to be so, of the important news of Friday relative to the state of the legations. Admiral Remey's dispatch, aside from a list of casualties, already treated in brief form, was most important. It conveyed the disagreeable news that the international column would not begin its advance upon Pekin before the middle of August.

This notice was received in Washington with consternation, in view of Mr. Conger's advice of the desperate position the legationers were in on the 18th. The delay is incomprehensive to the officials. It is known that an army, already formidable in numbers and of veteran soldiers, is at Tien Tsin and Taku, and with a courageous leader it was expected that this would push on at once; cutting loose from its base if need be, and forcing its way to Pekin, leaving the reinforcements now steaming toward Taku from every quarter of the globe to reestablish the base and to reopen communication.

It is possible to draw two conclusions from a failure of the foreign commanders to do this. First the European governments have allowed their skepticism as to the authority of Mr. Conger's dispatch to carry them to the point of deciding coolly and deliberately upon the first supposition, namely, that there are no foreigners alive to be saved; consequently there is no need for haste.

The other conclusion is that friction is developing among the internationals in spite of the earnest endeavors of the powers, whose motives to China are so far unimpeached, to prevent it. Color is lent to this latter theory by the fact that the governments have so far been unable to agree upon an international commander for the expedition to Pekin, and this, too, in spite of the fact that Admiral Remey, acting by the instructions of his government, is exhausting every effort to induce the other commanders at Taku and Tien Tsin to hasten their movements.

ENGLAND NOT READY.

A London special says: The rquest of Secretary of State Hay at Washington to the powers to make an immediate forward movement upon Pekin is not likely to meet with any success in England. Lord Salisbury is just as eager as the American secretary of state to adopt such a step, but he is practically convinced that it will be impossible until September, owing to local conditions and the allies' lack of equipment.

Beyond a courteous reply that England is willing to co-operate in any movement that the commanders on the spot may deem advisable, nothing is likely to come of the latest American effort to reach the Chinese capital, for all official advices received indicate that a dash toward Pekin in the immediate future would be military suicide. The government's attitude may be described as philosophic determination to grin and bear it, hoping fer the best, yet fearing the worst, until troops and climatic conditions enable the powers to enter Pekin and ascertain without a shadow of doubt the extent and cause of China's present disintegration. Until that is accomplished all is suspended, not only regarding the future of China, but also as to the nature and severity of the retribution to be exacted.

SHIP CUT IN TWAIN.

Steamer Campania Collides With a Vessel In English Channel.

A London cable dispatch says: A dense fog hung over the Irish channel Saturday morning and the Cunard line steamer Campania, en route from New York for Liverpool, struck the Liverpool bark Embleton, bound for New Zealand, amidship, cutting her in twain.

The Embleton sank immediately. Seven of the crew were rescued, but it is believed the other eleven members of the ship's crew, including the captain, were drowned. The Campania had her bow stove in, but arrived safely at Liverpool five hours late.

BELGIUM GETS NOTICE

That Ministers In Pekin Were Safe On July 20th.

The minister of foreign affairs, at Brussels, Mr. Fabreaux, has received the following telegram from Shanghai, dated July 21:

"A telegram from the governor of Shan Tung announces that the ministers were safe July 20th. They were under the guardianship of the Chinese authorities. Li Hung Chang has arrived at Shanghai."

VETERANS "ADJOURN."

Blue and Gray Reunion at Atlanta Brought to a Close With a Brilliant Program.

Men who witnessed the scenes and incidents of the closing day will carry with them to their graves ineffaceable memories of what history will know as the most notable event in the history of Atlanta.

The speakers at the big barbecue in the afternoon struck a truer, higher note in the grand diapason of American brotherhood and national fraternity than has been reached by any man of national importance since the civil war.

The most interesting feature of the day was General Gordon's fiery rejoinder to the speech made by General Albert D. Shaw, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Renublic.

In speaking of our ideal American citizenship, General Shaw had used these words:

"There can now be but one ideal of American citizenship, one stars and stripes, one bulwark of future national glory, and one line of patriotic teachings for all and by all. In this view the keeping alive of sectional teachings as to the justice and rights of the cause of the south, in the hearts of the children, is all out of order, unwise, unjust and utterably opposed to the bond by which the great chieftain Lee solemnly bound the cause of the south in his final surrender. I deeply deplore all agencies of this sort, because in honor and chivalric American manhood and womanhood nothing of this nature should be taught or tolerated for an instant."

When the address was concluded General Gordon was on his feet in a flash, and launched at once into an eloquent defense of the men of the south who had taken up arms against the union. He referred to General Shaw's words. He said that he for one cold not and would not admit nor teach his children that the cause he had fought for was wrong. He believed under God that both sides were in the right.

Before General Shaw had fully caught the drift of the speech he arose and proposed three cheers for General Gordon.

"I had hoped," he said, "that I had made clear to all of you precisely the point that General Gordon has made. I can heartily indorse what he has said."

His words snapped the tension his hearers were under. The applause that followed was tumultuous.

EUROPEAN GREED

The Cause of Present Hostilities In the Chinese Empire, Says Hon. W. J. Bryan.

William J. Bryan has given out the following interview in regard to the situation in China:

"Everyone deplores the destruction of life in China and is horrified at the barbarities practiced. Everyone believes that it is the duty of our government to protect the lives and property of American citizens residing in China, and I have no doubt that the administration will do so. I also take it for granted that all American citizens will withdraw from China temporarily or take refuge in some seaport where they can be protected by American ships until the excitement is over.

"If the Chinese government has tried in good to protect our citizens, suitable punishment for the guilty and reparation and indemnity for those who have suffered can doubtless be secured. If, upon investigation, it is found that the Chinese government has not acted in good faith, congress has power to deal with the matter.

"For several years European nations have been threatening to dismember China and it is not strange that their ambitious designs should arouse a feeling of hostility toward foreigners. That feeling, however, ought not to be directed against American citizens, and will not if our nation makes it known that it has no desire to grab land or to trespass upon the rights of China.

"A firm adherence to the American policy of justice and fair dealing will not only set an example to other nations, but will give to our citizens residing in China the best promise of security. It will be better for our merchants to have it known that they seek trade only when trade is mutually advantageous. It will be better for our missionaries to have it known that they are preaching the gospel of love and are not the forerunners of fleets and armies."

More Slaughtor By Boxers.

A dispatch from Shanghai received in London Friday morning reports that 60 missionaries and 100 native converts have been murdered by Boxers at Ta Tuan, a fortified and populous city in the province of Shan See on the Fuen Ho, an affluent on the Hoang Ho, 250 miles southwest of Pekin.

STARVED THE CHILDREN.

Man and Wife Jailed Under Charge of Heinous Crime.

George Griffin and wife have been jailed at Asheville, N. C., charged with causing the death of Griffin's three children by his first wife, aged eight, ten and thirteen. They became sick, and he had their stepmother, who hated them, put them in an outhouse, where neighbors found them, but too late to save their lives.

UNITED STATES TO MEDIATE

Between the Imperial Government and the Powers Under Conditions

WHICH MUST FIRST BE MET BY CHINESE

It Is Stated on Good Authority That the United States Has Made Certain Conditions Regarding Ministers and Missionaries.

President McKinley has listened to the appeal of the Chinese government as transmitted through Minister Wu, and has signified his willingness to mediate between the Imperial government and the powers, but only upon conditions which must first be met by the Chinese government.

The exact terms proposed by the United States cannot be stated, but it is expected that publication will be made of the text of the Chinese appeal and of the president's message. It is not known, however, that this is entirely consistent with the statement of principle laid down by Secretary Hay in his identical note to the powers, and moreover it accepts as truthful the Chinese statements relative to the safety of the foreign ministers at Pekin.

The United States' answer does not go to the length of the French answer to a similar appeal in laying down conditions which the Chinese government could not meet, even if so disposed, if it is actually struggling for existence.

It does, however, look to the immediate relief of the foreign missionaries in Pekin, and moreover to the protection of all foreigners, missionaries and traders in China, and to the restoration of order.

The imperial edict made public Monday at the state department shows that the imperial government has already taken the first step toward doing what the United States requires as the principal condition for the exercise of its good offices in enjoining the viceroys, magistrates and leading men to stop the disorders and protect foreigners. Our government will await the result of this before proceeding further.

To Prove Ministers are Alive.

The Chinese minister to England, Sir Chih Shen Lo Feng Luh, has communicated to the press the following dispatch from Sheng, director general of Chinese telegraphs, and Tao Tai of Shanghai, dated Shanghai, July 23:

"Information from Pekin dated July 18 says that the Tsung-li-Yamen deputed Won Jui, an under secretary of the department, to see the foreign ministers and he found every one well, without any missing, the German minister excepted. General Wung Lo is going to memorialize the throne to send them all under escort to Tien Tsin in the hope that the military operations will then be stopped."

BOYCOTT IN DALLAS.

Organized Labor Helping to Prosecute Street Car Strike.

A Dallas, Tex., dispatch says: Union motormen are prosecuting vigorously the strike on the Dallas Consolidated Street Railway, backed by the entire organized labor forces of the city. W. D. Mahon, of Detroit, Mich., the international president, is to go to Dallas to take charge of the strike.

The State Federation of Labor assembled in Dallas for a four days' meeting in executive session. The Dallas Typographical Union has passed a resolution fining any member riding on the Consolidated system $5 for each offense.

Yellow Fever in U. S. Barracks.

Yellow fever has broken out in the barracks of the Seventh United States Cavalry and the First United States Infantry in Pinar del Rio, Cuba. There have been nine deaths during the present month, and eleven cases are now under treatment in the hospitals. General Lee has ordered the army moved three miles into the country, and quarantine will be strictly enforced.

ALABAMA NEWS SUMMARY.

Eleven Negroes Find a Watery Grave in Warrior River.

Eleven negro men were drowned in Warrior river, near Akron, at about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon by the capsizing of a skiff. This occurred at government lock No. 5, now being constructed by Christie, Lowe & Hayworth. These contractors received this news by telegram from Akron, sent by P. T. Donohoe, who is superintendent of the work at lock No. 5. These negroes were employed by these contractors. At present the name of only one of the eleven can be learned, and that by a telegram from George Greene to his wife, Mary Greene, saying George Moore was among the number drowned.

Mob's Work at Huntsville.

After being repulsed by a volley from rifles in the hands of deputy sheriffs, a mob of one thousand determined men resorted to a unique plan Monday and smoked Sheriff Fulghum out of the Madison county jail, took Elijah Clark from his cell and hanged him to a tree near the Dallas mills and avenged an assault on Susie Priest, a poor factory girl. The negro was carried to the girl and identified and then taken to Moore grove and swung to a limb, his body being riddled with bullets and shot.

Governor Johnston stated that he would exert every effort to punish the men who were in the mob that lynched Clark at Huntsville. He did all in his power to prevent the lynching of the negro and had directed that court should be convened at once to try him. Had the negro not been lynched he would, in all probability, have been given a trial this week.

Democrats Waited Too Long.

The democrats of Shelby county seem to have gotten themselves into something of a muddle and defeat at the August election is one of the probabilities that now confront them.

For some unaccountable reason the ticket for county officers put out by the democrats of that county was not certified to the office of probate judge within the time prescribed by law and for that reason the probate judge refuses to have their names printed on the official ballot.

The only way the democrats can vote for the nominees will be to write their names on the blank lines, which the law directs shall be provided.

Ban on Fair Grounds Removed.

The Birmingeam Trades' Council's committee, appointed to confer with representative citizens, who are interested in the holding of a state fair, has recommended to the Council that the ban against the fair grounds be withdrawn, the citizens interested in the movement of a state fair being men who are friendly to organized labor, and at all times acknowledge that class of labor. The recommendation of the committee was adopted by the council and the boycott on the grounds, which proved so disastrous to the last fair association, was taken off.

Prisoners Attempt to Escape.

Prisoners in the county jail at Anniston made an evident attempt Sunday night to set fire to the building. The fire was seen by passing policemen, who aroused the jailer and the fire was extinguished without damage. The prisoners had stuffed a mattress into a stove pipe hole in one of the cells and set fire to it.

S. A. McDuffie has been appointed postmaster at Monroeville, and will be the first republican to hold the office. It is said Mr. McDuffie is the only white republican in Monroe county.

Voters of Shelby county, vote for the populists and you vote for more rigid stock laws and road laws and higher taxes.

Deans, populist candidate for the legislature, has never made his appearance on the stump in this campaign. He is afraid to meet the people.

Don't let the populist orators scare you by telling you that the democrats only desire to disfranchise the poor white men. This is only done to get your vote.

The populist representatives two years ago put upon the people of the county a tax which is not warranted by the constitution. Will you vote for them again?

Disfranchise the negro and put down the populist stock law candidates is the watchword of the voters in the county who believe in a white man's government run by white men.

The tax-payers of Shelby county are to-day paying the biggest tax ever paid in the history of the county. It is the result of populist rule in the county and the work of populist representatives.

A prominent populo-republico candidate said a few days ago, in substance, that he could not then express himself as to the subject of disfranchising the negro, as the negro would vote in the coming election anyway.

In vain are the populist orators and the Advocate trying to turn the attention of the voters of the county from their stock laws and road laws by saying, "Look out for a county court law." You have fooled the people once. You can't do it again.

Vote for Peters for the legislature. He is a refined christian gentleman, and you can rely on every word he says. He is a superior man, from every point of view, to his opponents. He is not an office-seeker. The office in this instance has certainly sought the man.

Tax-payers, have you thought of the amount of expenditures made by the populist commissioners court within the last two or three years? Of course you have. This is what is "keeping your nose to the grindstone." Will you continue to vote to keep them in office?

The populist senator and representative for Shelby county passed three laws during the last session of the general assembly. Do you know what they were, voters of the county? One of them was a stock law for beat 9, one was a stock law for every beat in Shelby county, and one was a road law for Shelby county. The voters of the county have heard of these three famous laws, and the party whose representatives passed them will hear from the people in the August election. Mind what we say, the people can stand a good deal sometimes, but they can't stand everything all the time.

The gentlemen nominated by the democrats of Shelby county for the various offices are good men and worthy the support of all good people. We are willing to hold them up for comparison with the candidates nominated by the other parties, and we don't fear the results of the comparison.

Think of it, ye populists and republicans who are opposed to a stock law, who betrayed you two years ago? Deans and Sturdivant. They are the two men whom the populists and republicans, respectively, have nominated for the legislature this year and are asking you to vote for. Will you do it?

Vote for Hon. J. L. Peters for the legislature if you want a representative whom you can trust. You have tried both the populist candidate, Deans, and the republican candidate, Sturdivant. They have both betrayed you. Have nothing further to do with them. They will betray you again.

They say that one reason why the populist candidate for the legislature, Deans, has not made his appearance in this canvass is because he is afraid to meet his chum of two years ago, Sturdivant; that Sturdivant has something to tell on Deans which is not calculated to help him, Deans, in his candidacy.

Tax-payers of Shelby county, when your whole taxes amounted to $1 on every $100 you thought you were taxed high, and you were; but now that you are paying $1.35 do you not feel that it is an outrage? It is the work of the populist party. You know it, and they have not even the check to deny it.

Populists of Shelby county, your so-called leaders promised you great reforms. Candidly, do you think they have given it to you? It is reform in the shape of higher taxes, stock law and extravagance in office. Let's put them out, disfranchise the negro and get down to business right again. We will be with you in working to this end.

Voters of Shelby county, don't be further misled by promises and threats. This is all the populist leaders do—promise, threaten and abuse. You have tried them, and they have been found wanting. Vote for men upon whom you can rely. Vote for Peters, Milner, Ingram, Ruffin, Russell, Kilpatrick, McGowen and Weaver. Then you can rely upon it no stock law and road law will be slipped in on you.

We are informed that one of the populist orators stated in a speech a few days ago that the name of Col. W. T. Smith, of Wilsonville, was the first on the stock law petition for Wilsonville beat. We don't know as to Col. Smith's name being the first on said petition, but it is our information that the names of quite a number of leading populists appear pretty near the beginning on said petition, and among them a prominent populist candidate, and probably more than one. How about this, brethren?

The populist orators and the Advocate are trying hard to divert the attention of the voters in the county from the bad and unpopular laws passed by their representative and senator two years ago by taking up a court bill which was prepared by Mr. Browne two years ago, and which died in the legislature, and telling the people that if they elect Mr. Peters he will remember said county court bill and introduce it and make it a law. Mr. Peters positively denies any knowledge of any such county court bill, and just as positively asserts that he would not favor any such court bill, nor would he favor the passage of any bill establishing a county court without the question can first be submitted to the qualified voters of the county. But, notwithstanding this denial on his part, they, the said populist leaders, are saying a great deal about it. Besides Mr. Peters' opposition to a county court, the democratic party has never declared for it, and we are sure as a party would oppose it. Then why, O! why, should these populist leaders keep talking about it? Is it not, as we said above, to cause the people for a time to forget their bad laws of two years ago? But we are determined to keep them before the people. The stock law and the road law passed by the populists two years ago were passed without consulting the people. They are bad and unwholesome laws; they were passed strictly by these two populist brethren and ought to defeat their party in this election.

Mr. Pearson in elocuting on disfranchising voters by certain laws didn't tell the dear people, so we are informed, that their populist representative and senator in the last legislature passed laws in Shelby county in which a certain class of voters in Shelby county were disfranchised. They passed a stock law for Shelby county, which is the law now, providing that only landowners can have a voice in the question as to whether stock shall run at large or not, thereby disfranchising all of those voters who did not own land. How about this, Bro. Pearson? Explain.

We understand that the populist orators, and of course this foreshadows the position of the Advocate, are trying to dodge the damaging effect of the populist stock law in Shelby county by trying to saddle the law on the democratic legislature. This is too thin for anything. We have never even heard that Deans and Sturdivant have ever attempted any such thing as to deny that they passed the stock law. On the contrary, it was our privilege to hear these gentlemen on this question. They own up like little men and tell the people, with tears in their eyes, that they are sorry and will not do so again. But the check of these populist orators!

Verily things do change. Two years ago Lyman for the legislature and McMillan for probate judge were defeated on account of an artful but untrue report put out by our populist brethren so short before election as to not admit of correction, to the effect that they, the said Lyman and McMillan, were in favor of a stock law for Shelby county, and if they should be elected Lyman would pass the law and McMillan as probate judge would establish the said stock law in every beat in the county. This artful but untrue report had the desired effect. The people allowed themselves rattled and thrown off their balance by these fellows who would do or say anything to get office, and Lyman and McMillan were defeated and Longshore and Sturdivant and Deans were elected. Sturdivant and Deans passed the law and Judge Longshore, instead of McMillan, is the man who makes the order which declares the stock law in force in the beats of the county. And in doing this he is not permitted to hear a single voter in the county who is not the owner of land. There was never a more unjust and unfair law towards the poor man. The populist representatives did it. Hold them responsible for it.

The poor populist voters of Shelby county, it would seem, ought to know a thing or two by this time. Two years ago their so-called leaders and orators and their paper, the Advocate, which always follows the paths which they blaze out, told them, the said voters, that if they voted for McMillan and Lyman a stock law would be put upon them at once. They believed their sainted leaders and voted as they told them. McMillan and Lyman were defeated and Longshore and Sturdivant were elected. Sturdivant and Deans passed the stock law, and it remains for Judge Longshore to declare it in force in the various beats of the county. So the populist voters were shamefully deceived. Now these same sainted leaders, without a particle more foundation than they had two years ago, are charging that if Col. Peters is elected to the legislature he will pass a city court bill for Shelby county. They are saying this with great emphasis. Peters denies it. The democratic party denies it. We will wager something that if Deans is elected he will pass a law establishing a city court, or something worse. Have we not a right to draw these inferences from his past conduct? Let the voters beware.

It takes a wonderful sight of check to ask the people to vote for Deans and Sturdivant for the legislature. Two years ago they deceived the people by passing a stock law for Shelby county. This was done without having submitted the matter to the people of the county to know whether they desired a stock law or not, and it was an outrage; for while there may be portions of the county where a stock law would be desired, and might really be beneficial, yet great portions of the county are made up of wild lands which are of no use under the sun but to pasture the stock of the poor people of the county. In many sections of the county these wild lands are owned nearly entirely by a very few men. Now this stock law provides that none can have a voice in this matter but the landowners. So, you see, they put it in the power of a few landowners in any beat to thrust the stock law upon you, and you can not help yourself. They now tell you, "Elect us again and we will repeal this law." Can you trust them? We think not. Mr. Peters promises you that if you will elect him he will, at least, see to it that every qualified voter may have a voice in the question of whether or not stock shall be permitted to run at large, and this whether he owns land or not.

LONGSHORE, THE APOSTLE OF REFORM

Thinks it Awful Wicked to Disfranchise the Negro.

BUT IS ANXIOUS TO DISFRANCHISE 1500 OR 2000 WHITE MEN

By Refusing to Have the Names of the Democratic Nominees Printed on the Official Ballot.

The People Will Stamp Their Indignation of His Action on August 6th.

Judge Longshore, populist probate judge, has refused to print, or have printed, the names of the democratic candidates on the official ballot. In this he has verified the predictions of democrats in reference to the populist leaders. Democrats are not surprised. Honest populists who believe in seeing fair play meted out to all will be surprised and shocked. Their condemnation of this action will be expressed on the 6th of August, when they will march to the polls and vote for that party against whom such an outrage has been perpetrated.

It has been the cry and watchword of these populist leaders, "Don't let technicalities stand in the way of giving all a fair chance." "Let the people vote and don't let little technicalities stand in the way."

Now to the facts in the case. The law requires that all nominations, properly certified and acknowledged, shall be filed in the probate office not more than sixty nor less than twenty days before the election. The democrats, by an unfortunate oversight, failed to file their nominations until one or two days after the expiration of this time. The law says that the probate judge shall print, or have printed, the names of all whose nominations shall have been so filed, etc. This law is merely directory. It does not assert that the probate judge shall not have any names printed except such as have been so filed. It is very evident that the object of this law in requiring these nominations filed within a given time is for the convenience of the probate judge in having them printed and to provide against a failure on the part of the probate judge to get them printed and distributed in ample time on account of delays in filing nominations. This honest, fair populite judge, who wouldn't do an unfair thing for his right arm, said that he was very much inclined to print the names upon the ballot, and he was sure every populist candidate in the county would be glad for them to be printed on, but that he feared it would render the ticket invalid, and that he might be subjected to a criminal prosecution were he to have the names printed on the ballot.

Does any one who knows this very honest, fair and upright judge believe that he is so easily rattled as he would lead one to believe? Does not every sensible man in the county know that if Judge Longshore had been disposed to do the clean thing that when Mr. White, the chairman of the democratic committee, filed the nominations a day or two late that he would simply have said nothing about it, but gone ahead and printed all the names on the ballot?

When the nominations were filed by White the just judge had taken not a single step to have the tickets printed. In fact did not, so we are reliably informed, give the tickets out to be printed until Tuesday or Wednesday of this week. We repeat if he had a desire in his heart to do the clean and fair thing he would simply have put the names on with all of the rest and nothing more would have been heard of it. But the judge wanted to elect his ticket, and knowing that the democrats would be at a great disadvantage in having to write or paste the names on every ballot, he thought he saw a great advantage for the populist ticket, and he used it for all it was worth. But, Judge, the democrats will vote the ticket, and don't you forget it, and every upright populist who is for fair play will vote against any party calling itself a reform party.

A CALL FOR WHITE MEN REGARDLESS OF PARTY.

The greatest crime which was ever perpetrated against any civilized people is that of the government of the United States in giving to the ignorant negro the right to vote. The negro was brought to this country as a heathen. The shackles of slavery were immediately put upon him. In this condition of abject slavery he remained until he was made a free man by the government. His training by his white masters and mistresses had been in the direction of fitting him for a servant and not to qualify him for citizenship. He was not only uneducated, but had never thought along the line of duty as pertained to citizenship. In fact, he was greatly incapable of doing this.

This giving the ignorant negro the right to vote was done by the North evidently for the purpose of wreaking their vengeance and spleen upon the South. In those localities where the negro was in the majority he at once went into power. White men, those who had so recently been the owners of these negroes, were turned out of office and these ignorant negroes put in to fill their places and to hold the reins of government in the proud South. This condition was more deplorable than one can depict in an ordinary newspaper article. But this condition had to stop. It drove the white men of Alabama and the South so close together that no designation of this common brotherhood could be so aptly expressed as to call it the "Solid South."

They, the white men of Alabama, arose as one man in 1874 and dethroned the negro. Frauds in elections up to that time were unheard of in the South. But with us it was fraud or, worse than fraud, murder. The former was chosen. The negro was "counted out," and has been counted out ever since up to the present time. The negro has been voting, ever since the right of suffrage was given him, and it is a fact that can not be successfully contradicted that he is today less qualified, with some few exceptions, to vote intelligently than he was when first given the right to vote. Why do we say this? Because, in addition to his ignorance, he has become corrupt. No sooner is an election begun to be talked when he appears on the scene and puts himself on the market. In dealing with the negro, in order that his vote might not be used against the best interests of the state and of the South, frauds have been resorted to. It is to put an end to these frauds and that we may again have fair and honest elections that the democratic party has determined to disfranchise the negro. It is no wrong to the negro, but rather it is to his interest. This very thing, the right of suffrage, is doing more to hold the negro back in the scale of morals and progress than any other one thing that he has had to contend with. Remove it and he will be taken out of the pale of this temptation to do wrong. He will give closer attention to the improvement of himself morally, intellectually and materially. He will be better treated by the white men of Alabama than he is today, and in our opinion not many years will pass before wonderful improvements will be noted in the negro's condition in Alabama. Now, that he can be disfranchised and that without disfranchising a single white man there is not a doubt. It has been done in Louisiana and Mississippi, why not in Alabama? It can, and the best of it is, it will.

John Ingram, the blacksmith democratic candidate for sheriff, is making friends wherever he goes in the county. He is as sure to walk in over Bob Cox as the white men of the county can get to the polls and vote on August 6th, and don't you forget it.

Rufus Finley, a farmer living near this place, was thrown from his mule near the postoffice last Saturday afternoon and was shaken up considerably. His head struck the root of a mulberry tree, which produced a painful though not serious wound.

When you go to vote for state superintendent of education vote for "John" and not "Jimmie," Abercrombie. The initials of the democratic nominee are J. W., while the man on the republican ticket always puts J. I. before his name. There is lots of difference in a name sometimes.

J. S. Farrell, of Calvary, was in to see us the latter part of last week and left his renewal with us. Mr. Farrell is one of those Simon-pure democrats with whom everybody likes to associate. In his opinion the democrats have never had a better ticket in the field in ten years than the present one.

Columbiana's base ball nine went down to Shelby last Friday afternoon and crossed bats with the team at that place. The game was a very interesting one and was well played. The score stood, at the close of the fifth inning, 2 to 1 in favor of Columbiana, the game being called at that inning on account of approaching darkness.

They say John Pitts is a good tax assessor. He is no better than Emory Ruffin will prove himself to be. There is no more honest, faithful, capable and accommodating officer in any of the departments of government in Alabama than Ruffin will be recognized to be when he shall have served a term in the tax assessor's office in Shelby county.

Columbiana and Wilsonville played a game of ball on the grounds at this place last Monday evening, which resulted in a score of 12 to 7 in favor of the local nine. The game was a very good one and hard fought, Wilsonville, up to the fourth or fifth inning, having made four runs to Columbiana's one. The game was called on the last half of the eighth inning on account of darkness.

Died, in Calera, on Thursday, July 19, 1900, at 9:45 a. m., at the residence of his brother, W. H. Duran, Mr. Charley Sanders Duran, aged 30 years, of laryngitis. His remains were interred in the cemetery in this place on Friday. Mr. Duran had been in feeble health for more than a year, and his death was not unexpected. He leaves a wife, one child, and many relatives to mourn his loss, to all of whom THE CHRONICLE extends deep sympathy.

They say John Pitts is a clever fellow, and that democrats will even vote for him. Yes, it takes a pretty clever fellow at political tricks to get in with so many parties holding views so far at variance just for the sake of keeping in office John Robertson is another one of the John Pitts kind—"clever fellows!" The democrat that will vote for Pitts when the democrats have as good man running for the same office as Emory Ruffin had better tie a millstone about his neck and throw himself into the middle of the sea. Away with such democrats!

The Advocate has much to say in reference to Mr. Milner's candidacy, as if he had committed an unpardonable crime by becoming a candidate against its populo-republico candidate, Robertson. Milner was rendered a bad cripple for life in the service of his country. He is getting old, and instead of being the largest tax-payer in beat 1 is really a man of very small means. Mr. Robertson, his opponent, with his hundreds of acres in beat 9 and his residence in Columbiana is, we doubt not, worth five dollars where Milner is worth one. Now, friend Advocate, be fair.

The "Reform" Judge says that he fears his putting the democratic names on the official ballot would invalidate the whole ticket, and that he would be laying himself liable to a criminal prosecution. This is the veriest bosh. We wonder what his course would have been had the populists failed to file their nominations in time? Why, he would never have hesitated a moment. Court injunctions could hardly have kept him from putting the populist candidates' names on the ticket. Invalidating ticket and criminal prosecutions would not have been considered a moment.

The democrats proposed to Judge Longshore that if he would put the democratic candidates' names on the ballot each democratic candidate would sign a written obligation that he would waive any defect that this might cause in the ticket, and would not contest on this ground. They further proposed to Judge Longshore that the chairman and every member of the democratic executive committee would sign a writing to the same effect. This did no good. The Judge had the ropes and he was determined to pull them in the interest of the reform party, even if it disfranchised 1,500 or 2,000 voters.

The Advocate says vote for Carden for treasurer; that he is a wounded Confederate soldier; that Russell is postmaster and justice of the peace, and that he doesn't need the office. Shame on you! Shame on you! Poor old man Russell is one of the most needy men in Alabama today. He entered the Confederate service and remained in it nearly the whole of the war, and until he was paralyzed in both legs, so that he has never been able to do any kind of physical work since. He is, in addition to this, seventy-two years of age, and has nothing. His opponent, Mr. Carden, is a young man in comparison with Russell.

They say Lewis Reynolds, populist candidate for state senator against Capt. W. R. Oliver, is a christian, a Sunday school superintendent, when he stoops to allow such means of defeating his opponent as are embodied in the circular sent out he departs from the teachings of the Great Exemplar, the Humble Nazarine whom he professes to follow. When a woman was brought to Him, charged with adultery, He, knowing her accusers, said unto them, "He that is without sin among you let him first cast a stone at her." We are told that her guilty accusers, "being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even to the last." O! that we could know the sins of Lewis and these populist leaders who have been guilty of sending out this circular!

The vilest attack ever made on any candidate was that made in the circular sent out by the populists against Capt. W. R. Oliver, democratic candidate for senator. The attack is an indecent one. It is a dirty attack. It is made in disregard of society and the sacred precincts of the family and home. It was made with full knowledge of the fact that the acts complained of had been settled and disposed of more than fifteen years ago. It was made knowing that Capt. Oliver has married since said matters have been settled, and he and his good wife have lived quietly, happily and peacefully together, and have reared to young womanhood a sweet and amiable daughter. No gentleman in Shelby county, or in the district, has lived a more exemplary life than Capt. Oliver has since the unfortunate occurrence of his younger and more indiscreet days of fifteen years ago. Now for these populist leaders, blind to any thing like decency and social purity, to go back into the records of the court and unearth such things, it ought to make every good man in the district rally to Capt. Oliver and thereby condemn such dirty practices

A Card From S. S. Crumpton.

EDITOR CHRONICLE—Please allow me to say through your paper to the citizens of Shelby county that I am in the race for superintendent of education for Shelby county.

I was endorsed as an independent candidate for the above named office by the white republicans of Shelby county in their convention, held in Columbiana on the 12th day of June, 1900. I thank the republicans of Shelby county for having conferred upon me this honor, and I hereby solicit the support and influence of all good men in the county, regardless of partyism.

I think I am well competent to fill the office to which I am aspiring. I have been teaching school in this county seventeen years, except two years I taught in Talladega county. I have several pupils now teaching under a second grade certificate.

If I am elected I will try to fill the office with credit to myself and to the good people of Shelby county. I would be glad to meet you at every speaking place in the county, but on account of the bad health of my wife it is impossible. Earnestly soliciting your votes, I am yours to serve in the cause of education.

A Card From Chairman White.

To the voters of Shelby county:

Judge Longshore, for reasons which I leave for him to explain to you, has declined to print the democratic candidates names on the official ballot. This renders it necessary for every voter who intends voting on August 6th for the democratic candidates, Peters for the legislature, Ingram for sheriff, Milner for tax collector, Ruffin for tax assessor, Russell for treasurer, Kilpatrick for superintendent of education, McGowen and Weaver for commissioners to write their names in the blank space which the law requires the probate judge to leave on the ballot. There may be provided in each booth slips or labels with mucilage on them containing the names of said candidates, which you can paste on the ballot in the blank space. But as to this I will advise you fully in ample time.

Let everyone remember the democratic candidates names and the offices for which they are candidates and, after writing names or pasting slips on ballots, be sure to make the cross mark in front of name on left hand side of ballot. Where you can not read and write well enough to do your voting intelligently it is your privilege, under the law, to ask for an assistant. One or more assistants or markers representing the democratic party will be provided by the inspectors at each voting place in the county.

Let me admonish the democrats throughout the county to not allow the disadvantages under which we are forced to labor to cause us to fall short of victory. The cause for which we are working is worthy the best and most faithful efforts of all good white men, and I believe the white men will come together in this fight for a pure and honest government.

J. R. WHITE,
Chm. Dem. Ex. Committee.

ONE THING HE FORGOT.

He Missed the Five-Thirty Train at Four-Thirty.

It is his wont to come in from the suburbs early of a morning and to go out again on the 5:30 train, when his day's work is done. A few days ago he met an old friend, and, yielding to the entreaties of that old friend, he decided to spend the evening in town. He was so afraid wifie would feel hurt if she knew that he had deliberately planned an evening's good time without counting her in that he manfully resolved to deceive her. Accordingly, as he came away from the office he went to a telegraph office and sent this message to her: "Unavoidably detained. Missed 5:30 train. Will be out later." It was a great deal later when he reached his happy home. Wifie met him at the door and there was a look in her eyes that every married man learns to know and instinctively to dread. "Did you get my message, precious?" he asked as he kissed her tenderly, holding his breath meanwhile as a precautionary measure. "Yes, dear," she made answer, and when a woman calls her husband "dear" that way you can cut loose from the weather bureau and prognosticate a few things on your own hook. "Yes, dear, I received your message. Here it is." There it was, sure enough. It was marked as plain as plain could be, "Received at 4:23." He hadn't thought of that.

STARVED

HAIR

Slow growth of hair comes from lack of hair food. The hair has no life. It is starved. It keeps coming out, gets thinner and thinner, bald spots appear, then actual baldness.

The only good hair food you can buy is—

Ayer's Hair Vigor

It feeds the roots, stops starvation, and the hair grows thick and long. It cures dandruff also. Keep a bottle of it on your dressing table.

It always restores color to faded or gray hair. Mind, we say "always."

"I have found your Hair Vigor to be the best remedy I have ever tried for the hair. My hair was falling out very bad, so I thought I would try a bottle of it. I had used only one bottle, and my hair stopped falling out, and it is now real thick and long."

THE GOLD BUG'S LIES.

THE DISASTERS OF CLEVELANDISM BLAMED TO POPULISTS.

Forgets the Fact That the Democratic Party Polled a Million More Votes for Bryan Than it Did for the Ex-President.

"It thus appears that the 'fusion bargain' converted a plurality of 132 in the electoral college in 1892 into a minority of 95 in 1896 and a minority of 123 in the last election. It has lost the Democrats the presidency, lost thirteen United States senators, lost control of the house, lost all save two governors in the north, lost three governors in the south, lost hopelessly on the fusion issues the four pivotal states whose votes have decided every presidential election since 1876."

The above is a horrible lie, and the World knows it. Fusion lost the Democratic party nothing. It had lost everything it had, including its principles, before the days of fusion. Fusion gave a million votes more than any party ever got before 1896. Bryan received a million more votes than were given to Cleveland in 1892. There was no fusion in 1894 and the Democracy was beaten infinitely worse than it was in 1896. Bryan would have won if he hadn't been deserted by a million traitors like the New York World. Bryan had six million and a half votes. The World's ticket had 132,000 and only carried one township in the United States, and that was an accident, so it don't count. This shows what the Cleveland Democrats would have done if they had controlled the Chicago convention. In that case there would have been no fight at all and Hanna could have saved all his money. Yes, the Democrats have lost thirteen U. S. senators and most of them it was glad to lose. Why didn't you retain those senators if your cause is so mighty popular? They were all gold bugs and when the people got a chance they slaughtered them without mercy. The corrupt gang of political prostitutes championed by the World couldn't even control the state of New York, and the honest Democrats of the state repudiated their ancient leaders and shouted long and loud for Bryan and the Chicago platform. Such papers as the New York World cannot now control a single vote except their own, and that will go to the highest bidder.

Bryan saved the Democratic party in 1896 and came near saving the country. He will save both of these in 1900 in spite of all the Republicans and traitor Democrats this side of perdition.

AND STILL WE LOAN (?)

Several millions of dollars in gold were exported to Europe last week and it is thought that there will be shipped, probably within a month, as much as $15,000,000. This money is being loaned to European bankers.—Omaha Bee.

Does any well posted man believe that last statement to be true? Does anybody believe any of the financial statements made by the organs? Gold is going out of the country and that fact must be accounted for somehow and the easiest way to do it is to say that it is to be invested abroad.

During 1899 this country exported $506,000,000 worth of goods, gold and silver more than it imported. For years past we have been doing the same thing. If we export billions of dollars more in a series of years than we import, what has become of the balance? Is that also loaned to the bankers of Europe? These foreign bankers must be as hard up as a sandhill settler who has lost his last three crops. If those European bankers are forever borrowing and never pay, is it not time for Uncle Sam to adopt the cash system and tell the impecunious foreigners no more goods without the money down on the nail?

The truth is that millions on millions of excess of exports that we have sent to Europe in the last few years has been swallowed up in the maelstrom of our foreign indebtedness and we have but little more than paid the interest. The great debt is still unsatisfied and it will swallow up our surplus for years and years to come.

Take the exports and imports of gold, silver and merchandise for the last year, present the report to any republican editor, and ask him what has become of that apparent balance of $506,000,000 in our favor. He can't answer you and he won't even try.

MAKING A BOSS.

When President Morse of the New York ice trust was in college, he secured a position as bookkeeper at $800 a year and sublet the work for $300. Now he is worth $5,000,000.—News Item.

The above is a useful lesson in the manufacture of millionaires. The true millionaire is born and not made. He must be greedy in his cradle and grasping in his boyhood. When an infant he must beat the cat out of half her allowance of milk. At five years of age he will cheat his boy playmates out of all their tops and his girl friends out of their candy. At ten he will win the marbles from the smaller boys and refuse to play keeps with the larger ones. He cringes his way through school, fawning on his superiors, bullying his inferiors, and if he gets any honors he steals them. In college he hires a poor boy with a widowed mother and dependent brother and sisters to work for him. The employee gets just enough to keep body and soul together while the prosperous collegian pockets $500 of a salary that a better man has earned. At thirty he employs labor at the lowest possible wages. The operators starve and the boss dresses in purple and fine linen and fares sumptuously every day. At forty he establishes the ice trust and draws immense revenues by cornering one of the prime necessities of the poor. At fifty he will be a man held in high esteem and will occupy a great place in the political management of the dominant party. Perhaps he will buy a senatorship, and if very rich he may buy a congress, or if very greedy as well as very rich, he may be satisfied with nothing less than the entire management of a president, a congress and a party. He has at last reached the highest honor in American politics. He is a boss.

If we had a son that should be guilty while in college of the heartless trick recorded of Mr. Morse, we would take him out of school, put him on board the vessel having the meanest mate in the service, with strict orders that the young miser should be pounded over the head with a club three times a day.

A GREAT RECORD.

There have been great events since the meeting of the last Republican national convention which are familiar to all.—Omaha Bee.

That is true, brother, as true as holy writ. Lots of things have happened, and here are a few of them. An increase of the bonded debt of $200,000,000, an increase of internal revenue taxation of $120,000,000 per year, an increase of the army from 25,000 to 100,000 men, an increase of trusts, an increase of millionaires, an increase of bank criminals and presidential pardons for them, an increase in our exports of beer, bullets and bibles. Other things have happened, such as benevolent assimilation, criminal aggression, horse doctors appointed to look after the health of American volunteers, unhealthy camps for dying soldiers, embalmed beef for hungry soldiers, two prices paid for leaky transports, war in Asia to destroy free government, the re-establishment of slavery and polygamy, the degradation of the greenbacks, the glorification of national banks, sympathy for an empire in its efforts to strangle two republics.

Yes, brother, many things have happened in the last four years, and the people have determined that such things shall not happen any more.—Omaha Nonconformist.

IMPERIALISM.

A republican paper says in speaking of the recent amnesty proclamation to the Filipinos, that "our generous offer will be largely accepted." It is very generous to offer amnesty to people who have done no wrong—to forgive people who have been fighting for the liberty of their native land.

We have nothing to forgive. All the forgiving will have to be on the other side. Will they forgive us for plundering their homes, burning their crops and murdering their people? If they conscientiously do this there is hope of a permanent peace. If they do not, the next gale that sweeps from the east will again bring to our ears the clash of resounding arms.

Our military expert says that the proclamation of amnesty will have exactly the contrary effect to that intended. It will be construed by the natives as an evidence of weakness and fear; it will nerve them to renewed effort; it will reawaken their patriotism and arouse their courage. There will be no abiding peace without a positive guaranty to the natives of self government. The Philippines can be pacified as Cuba was pacified, and in no other way.

SOME OLD STORY.

The banks of New York report more loans than ever before. The aggregate now reaches $900,000,000. That is pointed out as an evidence of prosperity. Are the fellows prosperous who owe such an incalculable amount of money? They do not borrow now to do business, but to tide over trouble. All the New York commercial reports say that business is as stagnant in that city as a swamp pond that has no outlet. If business was brisk such large loans might, or might not, be dangerous, but business being so very dull, they are an evidence of coming calamity.

But you say that the country must be prosperous or the banks would not have so much money to loan, but we reply that the business men must be dreadfully pinched or they would not have to borrow so much money. And there you are again facing the same old proposition that some few people have more money than they need while the vast majority are on the ragged edge of financial dispair.

LOSSES IN NEW YORK.

Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island and Senator Lodge of Massachusetts flit gayly through New York and while on their way airily give out that New York will give 100,000 plurality for McKinley. A lot they know about it! Have they followed the loss of a dozen congressional districts in the lower part of New York in the last two years. Have they seen our assembly and senate districts flopping to the democratic party one after the other? Did they observe the desperately close fight of Theodore Roosevelt to carry this state when he had a considerable democratic and independent support?—New York Press, rep.

The trusts are shutting down mills throughout the country everywhere. Perhaps it is to let the operatives get hungry and promise to reopen them in the case of Republican success at the polls.—Rock Island Argus.

CLOUDBURST KILLS MANY.

Fatal Washouts Throughout Large Sections of West Virginia and Ohio.

Wheeling, West Va. (Special).—A cloudburst occurred a few days ago at Herrick's, between Adena and Long Run, in Jefferson County, Ohio, on the line of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railway. The Long Run River burst its banks. Several houses were destroyed. A Hungarian woman, three children and three unidentified persons were drowned. Several railroad bridges and sections of the track of the Wheeling and Lake Erie were washed out.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—The claim of the heirs of Charles Durkee, formerly Governor of Utah, against the United States for certain bonds of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, valued at $64,643,512, was dismissed by Judge Hagner, of the District Supreme Court, and the application for a rule against Secretary of the Treasury Gage to compel delivery of them to the claimants was denied.

Swiftest Ocean Current.

Among the twenty-five known great ocean currents, or rivers of the sea, it appears that the swiftest in its course is the branch of the great equatorial current so well known as the Gulf Stream, its speed at various places varying from four and a half to five miles an hour, with its waters at a mean temperature of 81 degrees Fahr. After running 3,000 miles towards the north, as far as 40 degrees north latitude, it still preserves, even in winter, the heat of summer. The influence of this vast body of warm water upon the seas and coasts it washes cannot be overestimated. It covers the ocean with a mantle of warmth and serves to mitigate the rigors of our European winter. The existence of this wonderful stream was first discovered in 1512 by Ponce de Leon, a Spaniard.

Illiteracy in European Armies.

The armies of Russia and Servia have 79 per cent of their soldiers illiterates, unable to read or write. Two other European countries have at letst 40 per cent. illiterates in their armies, namely Italy, with 45 per cent., and Hungary, 40 per cent. In Sweden and Denmark there is not a single illiterate in the army of either country. From the latest army return it is learned that 97 per cent of Great Britain's soldiers can read and write, and that 30 per cent possess a liberal education.

THE CHRONICLE.

VOL. XV. COLUMBIANA, SHELBY COUNTY, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1900. NO. 42.

MINISTERS ARE RESCUED

Allied Forces Have Entered and Captured the Chinese Capital.

ATTACK MET WITH STUBBORN RESISTANCE

A Washington special says: The allied armies captured and entered Pekin in the face of obstinate resistance, and the members of the foreign legations are safe. Official confirmation of the fall of the Chinese capital came to the United States government Friday night in the shape of two cablegrams, one from Admiral Remy and the other from Consul Fowler at Chee Foo. Admiral Remy's dispatch follows:

"'Taku.—Just received a telegram from Tien Tsin, dated 16th, 10 p. m, 'Pekin was captured on August 15. Foreign legations are safe. Details follow shortly.'"

"Chee Foo, 17th.—Japanese Admiral reports allies attacked Pekin, east 15th. Obstinate resistance. Evening Japanese entered capital with other forces. Immediately sur-sounded legations. Inmates safe. Japanese loss over 100. Chinese 300."

Previous information which has been received here showed that the allied armies took possession on August 12 of Tung Chow, twelve miles from Pekin. After a half of three days for rest and recuperation the army attacked the capital.

There are four entrances to the city on the east, two leading to the Chinese city and two to the Tartar City. Just which one of these was selected as the attacking point Consul Fowler's dispatch does not disclose.

Consul Fowler's dispatch shows that the attack on the city met with strong re istance. The Japanese force engaged with the advance numbered 10,000 men.

Shanghai dispatches say that Emperor Kwang Su accompanied the Empress Dowager to Hsian Fu much against his will. Prince Tuan commands the rear guard of the imperial escort, of which Boxers form 65 per cent. It was expected that General Tung Fuh Siang would follow after the arrival of the allies. All the palace treasures were sent to Hsian Fu.

Roberts' Proclamation.

A Pretoria dispatch says: Lord Roberts' proclamation, after the fact that many have broken the oath to maintain neutrality and that the leniency extended to the Burghers is not appreciated, warns all who break their oath that they will be punished by death, imprisonment or fine. He declares that all Burghers in districts occupied by the British, except those who take the oath, will be regarded as prisoners of war and transported, and that buildings on farms where the enemy or his courts are harbored will be liable to be razed.

Three Men Entombed.

Three men and sixty mules are imprisoned in Slope No. 3, of the Lehigh Valley company's Primrose colliery, near Mahony City, Pa. The unfortunate miners are William and George Tomkiss and Charles Initis, and it is feared that they have been suffocated. It is not known whether any others are in the mine.

First Call for Cotton Money.

The New York Herald prints the following:

"There were made upon the local sub-treasury Friday the first demand for funds to move the cotton crop. It was very feeble, amounting to only $14,000 in silver dollars, shipped to Texas and Georgia, but it makes the commencement of the definite movement to the south. A few days ago $50,000 in currency was shipped to New Orleans, which may or may not be for crop purposes. No doubt exists as to the purpose for which the silver dollars were obtained."

Colored Members of Advisory Committee

Cyrus Field Adams, a colored editor, linguist and orator, of Louisville, Ky., has been appointed by Chairman Hanna a member of the advisory committee of the republican national committee.

Bishop Arnett, of Ohio, colored, has also been appointed by Chairman Hanna a member of the committee.

ALABAMA NEWS GLEANINGS.

Gift for the Alabama.

Among the cities of Alabama which will share in the purchase of a silver service for the battleship Alabama are Huntsville, Mobile, Birmingham, Anniston, Montgomery and others. Already subscriptions are being raised for the purpose.

Col. McDavid Paralyzed.

Colonel J. J. McDavid, a local newspaper correspondent of Montgomery, and father of Secretary of State McDavid, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis while at work in his office Friday. His left hand and arm were rendered completely useless by the stroke.

New Blast Furnace.

A movement has been started at Iron City, near Anniston, to build an iron blast furnace at that point. Considerably money has already been subscribed to the enterprise and the people of the Iron City neighborhood are very sanguine that the furnace will be built at an early date. There are inexhaustible beds of fine iron ore at that point.

List of Successful Officers in Marshall.

Following are the county officers elected at the recent election for Marshall county: Representative, W. H. Bartlett, republican; sheriff, G. Z. Adamson, democrat; tax assessor, A. J. Beard, republican; tax collector, Leonard P. Lewis, democrat; treasurer, W. H. Carter, populist; superintendent of education, James S. Barnard, democrat.

Killed About a Dog.

A killing at Pitchford's store, ten miles north of Dadeville, occurred Saturday morning. Taylor Burnett shot Freeman Evers, death resulting instantly. It is said that Burnett had accused Evers of taking his dog, and Evers had gone to the store to see Burnett in regard to it. Witnesses say that after a few minutes' conversation Evers began to run, Burnett calling to him to stop. Evers then turned and faced Burnett, who fired at him with a shotgun, the entire charge taking effect in his stomach.

Burnett is an old man, probably 60 years of age. Evers was about 23 years old. Both have always borne good reputations.

Third Regiment in Camp.

The encampment of the Third regiment, Alabama National Guards, commenced at East Lake Saturday. By night the following companies were in camp: Company A, Woodlawn Light Infantry; Company B, of Florence; Company C, of Gadsden; Company D, of Anniston; Company E, of Decatur; Company F, of Huntsville; Company G, Jefferson Volunteers, of Birmingham; Company H, of Bessemer; Company I, of Oxford; Company L, of Talladega; Company M, of Jasper, with a detachment from Fayette.

The camp was named after Sergeant Phil Finch, who was a member of one of the Birmingham companies and responded to the call of the president during the Spanish-American war, who contracted typhoid fever while in camp in Florida, from which he died.

BREVITIES.

Rev. F. P. Ramsey, formerly president of the Fredricksburg, Va., college, has been elected president of Oxford college, at Oxford, Ala.

A young married man by the name of Reed, living on the Branford plantation near Scottsboro, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head.

Mr. Newton Sandlin, a prosperous farmer living in the eastern portion of Limestone county, died very suddenly from an acute attack of congestion.

An old gentleman by the name of Cantrell voted at Plano, Beat 8½, in Cherokee county, at the state election. He is 91 years old and never voted anything but a democratic ticket in his life.

The Blue Springs Cotton Mills at Oxford are to be doubled in size and capacity as soon as the material for the enlarged building can be placed on the ground. The capital stock of the company, which is now $50,000, is to be increased to $100,000.

The wars are keeping us on the jump at studying geography and languages. Having gone through Cuba, Porto Rico, the Philippines and South Africa, we must now take up the map of China. Possibly it will not be a great while before we shall have to study Japan, Korea and Russian Asia.

CALEB POWERS CONVICTED

The Jury Finds Him Guilty of Complicity in Goebel's Murder.

THE PUNISHMENT IS LIFE IMPRISONMENT

Jury Was Out Less Than an Hour, and the Vote Was Unanimous for the Verdict—The Prisoner Was Ghastly Pale.

A Georgetown, Ky., dispatch says: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty and fix the punishment at confinement in the penitentiary for the rest of his natural life."

This was the wording of the verdict in the case of Ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers, charged with being an acce sory before the fact to the murder of Wm. Goebel. The jury returned its verdict after being out fifty-five minutes. Juror Craig stated afterward that the verdict could have been returned even sooner, but considerable time was taken up in reading the instructions.

The vote in favor of a life sentence was unanimous. When the jury retired the belief was general the jury would fail to agree, and in this opinion the defendant himself was firmly convinced. When the verdict of guilty was returned Powers for the first time during the weary six weeks of the trial betrayed his feelings. Under all the trying incidents of the trial he had maintained a changeless expression, the same whether things were going favorable or against him. The verdict of guilty, however, apparently staggered him.

Powers, always pale, as soon as the verdict was head his face betokened great mental anguish. This was only for a few seconds, however, and then, somewhat regaining his composure, he turned to the Misses Dangerfield, who had been in conversation with him, and said:

"I was not expecting that. The verdict is unjust."

There was no sort of demonstration following the verdict and the vast crowd filed out of the court room almost instantly. Powers remained in the court room some time after the verdict was rendered in conference with his attorneys, who will at once move for a new trial, and failing in that will take an appeal.

Towne Will Answer Roosevelt.

According to information given out at democratic national headquarters, in Chicago, in his tour of the west Governor Roosevelt will have an orator on his trail in the person of Charles A. Towne, the silver republican leader.

Mr. Towne will tour Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California and other western states, keeping close to Governor Roosevelt's path. Mr. Towne will make an occasional trip to the south, speaking at Atlanta, Louisville, Memphis, Nashville and other important cities. Throughout it will be Mr. Towne's mission to pay special attention to the republican vice presidential nominee and to answer arguments by the latter during the campaign.

Demanded Surrender.

A Pretoria dispatch says that General Dewet appeared at North Commando Nek, held by General Baden-Powel, and sent in a flag of truce, asking the surrender of the British force. General Baden-Powell replied asking what terms Dewett was prepared to offer. Dewett evidently moved eastward. General Lord Roberts is issuing new, severe and rigorous orders rescinding the one previously issued.

Kentucky Feuds Renewed.

The Adkins and Howards had a bloody battle in Elliott county, Ky., a few days ago, in which one of the Howards was shot dead and another was shot through the lung and is expected to die. The difficulty was caused by one of the Howards and one of Linsay Adkins' boys quarreling over a young woman in their neighborhood. After quarreling both went home and brought back other members of their families for reinforcements. Adkins' father, who is a preacher, was in the fight with his boy.

New York's Census.

The population of Greater New York, as indicated by the count just completed at the census office, is 3,437,202. This includes the population of the borough of Manhattan and Bronx, previously announced, and those of Brooklyn, Richmond and Queens. An approximate estimate of the increase since 1890 shows it to have been 37.9 per cent.

COIN SILVER DOLLARS

SIXTY MILLIONS PUT OUT DURING THE YEAR.

Full Legal Tender at the Ratio of 16 to 1—Helped to Raise Farmers' Prices—Free Coinage Would Bring Greater Prosperity.

The Republican papers are growing frantic over 16 to 1. They ignore imperialism, militarism and trusts, and harp on 16 to 1. They tell us Bryan's election will bring back the hard times of 1893, 4 and 5. Why should it? We had a gold-bug administration then the same as we have now. Grover Cleveland hated 16 to 1 as much as McKinley used to love it. Besides, they have told us that 16 to 1 is dead as the Caesars, that for six years nothing can be done to resurrect that issue, that the United States senate stands as an insurmountable barrier against 16 to 1.

This is a false issue and the Republicans are insincere in making it. On the 13th of June, 1898, the Republican congress passed a law to coin all the silver purchased under the Sherman law amounting to $90,000,000, and under that law $60,000,000 has already been coined. Will it be any worse for Bryan to coin silver than it is for McKinley to do the same thing? All that silver was coined at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the Republicans tell us the country is still prosperous. Just think of it—sixty millions of silver dollars coined at the dreaded ratio of 16 to 1, and the country is not yet ruined—it has not caused us to come to a silver basis—it has not driven all the gold out of the country. But it has added to the prosperity of the people by giving them more currency, just as we always told you it would. What can we think of the honesty of men who claim that 16 to 1 will ruin the country and then proceed it by ordering $90,000,000 to be coined at that dangerous and dishonest ratio? If it is safe to coin ninety millions, how do you know that it will not be just as safe to coin $200,000,000 or any other amount?

The Republicans say, don't elect Bryan because he may try to do the same thing they have been doing for the last twenty-six months.

If 16 to 1 is a dishonest and dangerous ratio why did not the Republican congress change this ratio before they flooded the country with ninety millions of fifty-cent dollars?

It is no use for them to try to make capital out of the silver issue for out of their own mouths they are condemned nonconformists.

THE PEOPLE UNDERSTAND.

The fusionists now set up a claim to a copyright on the name "populist." When, however, the Republicans objected to their usurpation of the name "silver Republican," with the palpable intention of misleading Republican voters, the fusionists insisted that their game was perfectly legitimate. That is another case illustrating the difference whose ox is gored.—Omaha Bee.

These two cases instead of being parallel, are exact opposites. The Republican bolters did not try to get on the ticket as "Republicans," but as "silver Republicans." That could deceive nobody, as the party was a gold party and the bolters used the name "silver" to distinguish themselves from the regulars. On the other hand the middle of the roaders want to call themselves "populists," a name that has been applied to the regulars for the last ten years. By this means they hoped to capture some voters that would as soon have voted for satan as for them.

They have been told that they can take the name "populists" with some prefix that will show that they are a protesting party. There will be no objection if they will do as the silver Republicans did. If they will call themselves "straight Populists," "true Populists" or "fool Populists" there will be no protest against their going on to the official ballot.

Their leaders say that if they can't get on the ballot just as they want to they will advise all their followers to vote the Republican ticket. Where the treasure is there will the heart be also, and the treasure of the leaders of the roaders is in the hands of Mark Hanna.

Perhaps the honest reformers will not be controlled by their corrupt leaders. You can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him drink.

SENATOR PETTIGREW.

Senator Pettigrew is willing to believe the unsupported word of a Filipino soldier of fortune in preference to that of Admiral Dewey. In that as in many other respects, Senator Pettigrew differs from a great majority of the people of the United States.—Omaha Bee.

The word of that Filipino soldier of fortune is not unsupported. On the contrary it is upheld by a mass of contemporary testimony and even by the words and actions of Admiral Dewey himself. When Dewey negotiated with Aguinaldo and other patriot leaders, did he intend to betray them? When McKinley's representatives asked the Filipinos to assist us in putting down the Spanish power, did they tell our allies that they should be enslaved as soon as the joint work was finished? When we used our ships to transfer the Filipino commanders to the seat of war and when we armed them with American guns did we not give them every reason in the world to believe that we would treat them exactly as we had agreed to treat the Cubans? Was there an honest man in the United States but believed that at the time Dewey and his Filipino allies captured Manila that those brave allies of ours had achieved the independence of their country? Was not our acceptances of their services a guaranty that we would treat them fairly and not try to enslave them?

It looks very much as if Senator Pettigrew was induced by the overwhelming weight of evidence to believe that "Filipino soldier of fortune."

PLATFORM.

The Republican platform points to the great excess of exports over imports during the McKinley administration as conclusive evidence that we are enjoying unexampled prosperity. The Democrats in 1896 could prove by the same line of reasoning that we enjoyed unparalleled prosperity under Cleveland, while the facts were that the country was devastated by panic and bankruptcy held high carnival in the land during that administration. To show the absurdity of the claim we will quote from the Republican platform and suggest what the Democrats could have as truthfully stated in 1896. The Republican platform with an air of defiance says:

"No single fact can more strikingly tell the story of what Republican government means to the country than this—that while during the whole period of one hundred and seven years from 1790 to 1897 there was an excess of exports over imports of only $383,028,497, there have been in the short three years of the present Republican administration an excess of exports over imports in the enormous sum of $1,483,537,094."

The Republican Party of To-Day (The Trusts)—What, Lincoln, you don't know ME?

WHO SETS THE PRICE?

INQUIRY INTO AN IMPORTANT PROBLEM.

An Analysis of the Game by Which Producers Are Plundered to Keep in Luxury the Exploiting Classes of the Old World.

In our trade with the world, who sets the price on our exports?

England, as the clearing house or credit center of the business world, sets the price.

How do you know?

Taking a sample case and follow it, like a wild weast, to its lair. Grain is a chief export. A farmer comes to the station with ten wagonloads, or a carload of wheat. Does he fix the price?

No.

He asks the price?

Yes.

Of whom?

The grain buyers.

How does "he" get it?

By telegram from Chicago.

How does Chicago fix the price or the buyer and the farmer?

Chicago gets it from New York.

How does New York fix the price of wheat for Chicago, for the elevator man and the farmer?

New York Board of Trade gets it by cable from London, where is starts at 10 o'clock in the morning and (owing to the difference in time) it reaches New York and is repeated through Chicago, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Omaha, to Boggtown crossroads before 10 o'clock the same day.

How does London fix the price for New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Omaha and Boggtown crossroads?

All the nations of the world owe London, the Rothschilds, the credit center of the world. London wants foodstuffs, and will take her pay on OUR indebtedness in either gold or grain or other products. The debt calls for "gold"—gold dollars containing a fixed number of grains of GOLD. If the coins are light through wear, they are rejected, so in the final analysis our debt is named in the law as a fixed "weight" of "gold."

Our debt owing in London (or Europe, of which London is the clearing house) is so large that it would take more than our entire stock of gold to pay the INTEREST. Therefore, if we would keep "gold" here for "money" we MUST pay in products.

How is the price of products fixed—by the debtor (United States) or creditor (Europe)?

By the creditor, of course. The debt is due him in "gold," and if he "kindly condescends" to accept payment in anything else he must and does and will in future fix the price at which he will "kindly" and "condescendingly" accept payment that is due in "gold," and you can either furnish the products at HIS price or PAY THE "gold"—as named in the "bond."

But how is the price fixed?

London, Rothschild, Europe, our creditor, needs food and clothing, and London says she is willing to pay us the same price for wheat that she has to pay in Russia, India and Argentine. So yesterday she cabled for the price of grain in the cheapest, poorest paid pauper labor country in the world, and today informs us she will "accept" our grain at "that" price or we must pay her the "gold"—as named in the bond—and she will buy the grain over there.

That is how the "price" is fixed in London fo New York, Chicago, Omaha and Boggtown crossroads.

How is payment made? Don't Europe pay us gold for grain and meat and cotton?

No, Europe does not pay us "gold." On the contrary, while we send abroad a thousand million of dollars' worth of products a year, instead of getting pay in gold, we send some gold and silver along with the goods.

What! and get nothing in return?

Precisely. We get "nothing" but the interest coupons clipped from the bonds held abroad, which clipping in no degree reduces the principal or pays the debt, but after we have annually poured our thousand million dollars' worth of products into the lap or maw of London for one hundred years, we find that this entire vast export has not paid the interest, and the debt has grown larger by the sum so unpaid.

But look here, the Republican party has been telling us that this vast excess of exports constitutes a "balance of trade" in "our favor." Is not this true? And if so, how do you reconcile it with your statement above?

It is not true.

"If" we took into account ONLY the goods exported and the goods imported, and "if" we received cash for the excess exported, we might properly say the balance of trade was in our favor, and this half-told story is what the Republican editors, orators and spell-binders are peddling for the truth, when in reality it presents an entirely false conclusion, for we do NOT get cash for the surplus of exports, but the account is balanced with interest coupons which represent "nothing," and is only a diplomatic varnish for the unpalatable truth that we have tied our financial system to the wheels of Rothschilds' golden chariot and are paying "interest" for the use of his gold or credit, when we should have established a system independent of him, and then, when he became hungry and wanted our foodstuffs, he would have had to pay "our" price, which we could have fixed for ourselves if we owed no foreign debts.

COLLIS P. HUNTINGTON.

Collis P. Huntington, the railroad millionaire, says that he "never won or lost a dollar on a horse race or any game of chance." Of course he didn't; he always wants a sure thing. There is no chance about his dice—they are always loaded. He plays no game except those in which he is sure to win and the other fellow is sure to lose. He would bet on a horse race if his horse was a good one and the opposing nag had only three legs.

He also said "that he never went hunting or fishing a day in his life." Poor fellow, he is much to be pitied. He never had any genuine fun. What good is all his wealth if he don't play poker, run horses, fish for suckers or hunt jackrabbits?

We wouldn't begin to trade places with you, Collis. We wouldn't exchange our enjoyment of life for all your millions. You are very old. You are almost dead. You will shortly go to—well, somewhere, and leave all your millions behind you. It is just as well, too, for the gold might melt and the bank bills would be sure to burn.

HAULING DOWN THE FLAG.

At the behest of Great Britain, President McKinley has hauled down the American flag from a strip of Alaskan territory twenty miles wide and one hundred miles long.

In this strip of American territory purchased from Russia thirty-three years ago, there are American mines and American miners, American farmers, American sawmills and American lumber camps. They have all been turned over to England, lock, stock and barrel, as a gift by his imperial majesty, the Republican president.

Let us see how much of a gift it was. The very territory turned over to England by McKinley was leased from Russia for a term of twenty years by the Hudson Bay Company of Canada, long previous to the purchase of Alaska by the United States. In the face of this contract and fifty years later, William McKinley presents to Great Britain the land which that kingdom had previously leased from Russia.

We are not surprised at McKinley's action. It is in line with his policy in other directions. We simply desire to lay the matter before the people—his subjects—in its true light.

We would also commend to the earnest attentions of all true-minded Americans, of whatever party, race or color, the scrupulous manner in which President McKinley upholds the platform of his party.

This platform says:

"We reassert the Monroe doctrine in its full extent and we reaffirm the right of the United States to give the doctrine effect by responding to the appeals of any American state for friendly intervention in case of European encroachment. We have not interfered and shall not interfere with the existing possessions of any European power in this hemisphere, but those possessions must not, on any pretext, be extended. We hopefully look forward to the eventual withdrawal of the European power from this hemisphere, and to the ultimate union of all of the English-speaking part of the continent by the free consent of its inhabitants.

With this platform in his mind, but not in his heart, President McKinley violated every word of it by his gift of American territory to England.

Both England and Canada had recognized the Russian boundary between Canada and Alaska for 40 years before the purchase of the territory by the United States. England now claims what we bought from Russia, and our patriotic president hauls down our flag and evacuates without a word.

There is no equivocation about the treaty between England and Russia, or that between England and the United States. Each plainly and explicitly states that "the boundary shall follow the windings of the coast." This agreement was lived up to for 30 years by England—until the accession of McKinley.

What may we expect next? The cession of counties along the St. Lawrence, or a slice of Montana or Dakota? Of what value is the American flag without an American backbone in the white house to uphold it?

We assume to own the Philippines by a two-year-old treaty with Spain. We have sent an army to hold it against its inhabitants; yet on our own continent we have shamefully abandoned that which we purchased under a cold-blooded, clear-headed business treaty 33 years ago.

Bar the flag with the cross of St. George and let the hybrid banner float over the United States of England.—Hearst's Chicago American.

Outstanding Ears.

The disfigurement of outstanding ears should be checked in early childhood, otherwise it is apt to be an obstinate matter to overcome. Various simple little expedients may be resorted to in order to accomplish the end aimed at. For instance, a broad elastic strap or webbing band, passed from the lower part of the back of the head obliquely across the ears to the top of the brow, will help to conquer this disfigurement. This band can be worn at night or for an hour or two during the day, or as an alternative there is the special ear cap which has been invented with the object of encouraging the ears to lie close against the head. The muslin caps which years ago babies used to wear acted in a great measure as preventives against obtruding ears.

THE * CHRONICLE.

JNO. S. PITTS ....Editor and Proprietor.
JNO. W. PITTS ....Manager.

Entered in the post-office at Columbiana Ala., as second class matter.

COL. JOHN P. WEST.

We regret to chronicle the death of Col. John P. West, which occurred at his home near Calera last Saturday morning. He was 86 years old and has been for a half century a prominent figure in Shelby county politics.

In 1854 he was nominated by the whigs for circuit clerk, and was defeated by the democratic nominee, O'Barr, by a small majority. He presided over what was known as the secession convention, which nominated Judge G. D. Shortridge and Judge John McClanahan as delegates to the state convention which seceded from the federal union January, 1861. He with Mr. Samuel Brasher, was elected to the state legislature and served one session, but before his term expired raised a company of cavalry and joined the 2d Alabama regiment, from which he was promoted to colonel. He was again elected to the legislature in 1892, but declined to run again in 1894.

Colonel West was for a long time a citizen of Columbiana. He moved to Montevallo in 1857 and had resided in that neighborhood ever since. He was a good citizen, and leaves several children and a host of friends to mourn his death.

Because of having to throw out 52 illegal ballots cast at Montevallo beat Jas. Ozley, the democratic candidate for justice of the peace, was defeated and Joseph M. Allen, a populite candidate, was elected. Mr. Allen sends word to the Sentinel that he will not accept of the office as he considers Mr. Ozley to have been elected. The spirit manifested by Mr. Allen in this matter is that of a fair and honorable man. He will not qualify for an office that came to him through a technicality.—Sentinel.

The Sentinel does not tell all of that joke. When the count of the vote commenced it was found that several had voted for beat officers who, after writing the names, had failed to make the X in front of them. The populist managers took the position that the votes ought to be counted, as the fact that the voter had written the name of beat officers was evidence that they intended to vote for them and failing to make the X was merely an omission. The democratic manager, however, contended for a strict construction of the law and the populists yielded. More democrats having failed to make the X than populists the democratic ticket was defeated, and the returns sent up showed the election of all the populist candidates. Those who know big hearted Joe Allen are not surprised at his action. He can always be depended upon to do just what is right. It is said that a distinguished statesman once said that he had rather be right than be president. We now know that Shelby county has a man who had rather be right than be chief justice of beat 4. But, say, what about that Elmore "technicality," brother?

The allied forces captured Pekin last week and rescued the foreign legations. A part of the city seems yet to be in possession of the Chinese, and the fighting continues. It is a question of doubt as to the whereabouts of the Emperor and Dowager Empress. Some dispatches say they are in the imperial palace in Pekin, and others contend that they have escaped and that they are sixty miles west of the city. The latest news is that the Chinese cavalry have started in pursuit of the imperial party.

The extreme hot weather just after so much rain has caused a great deal of sickness all over the county. From Vincent to Montevallo and from Shelby to Bridgeton reports say there is more sickness than for many years past. Our own town is the only place we have heard of that is free from sickness.

The Liberty Congress of the American League of Anti-Imperialists, which met last week in Indianapolis, heartily endorsed W. J. Bryan for president. All forces seem to be uniting against imperialism, and Bryan's chances for the presidency brightens each day.

Chairman John A. Parker has called the populist national executive committee to meet in Chicago on the 29th instant to consider matters of great importance to the party.

The Montevallo Sentinel says that Hon. W. F. Aldrich will be a candidate for congress,

COMMON HONESTY.

From The Montgomery Journal.

Very naturally and very properly the Journal's sympathies and good wishes are with Colonel Thompson in the race for congress in the Fifth district. Yet, the contest being between democrats for a nomination, we took no part in it until the outrageous performance of his opponents in Elmore county identified his cause with that of common honesty. The question has come to be, not whether Colonel Brewer or Col. Thompson shall go to congress, but whether the democrats of the district are entitled to name their candidates.

Signs are multiplying that our party committees have entered seriously upon the business of forcing the voters by repeated outrages and usurpations into another revolt more formidable and more justifiable than that of 1892.

Col. Thompson has carried by sound majorities enough counties in the Fifth district to nominate him. The democratic voters have spoken, and he is their choice, and what is more, their choice as expressed in the regular party way and rule.

Now it is openly boasted that Col. Brewer has the district committee, and that that committee will seat his delegates on a number of bogus contests and thus nominate him in spite of the people.

Perhaps this is not true. Possibly there are enough honest men on the committee to decide these contests according to law and right. We hope so, yet recent precedents from the state committee down are otherwise.

If the district committee shall meet the expectations of the Brewer managers then the appeal lies to the conscience of the Tallapoosa delegats. It was the candidate from their county who betrayed Col. Thompson and the people of Elmore and the delegates from Tallapoosa can and should rebuke him by righting the wrong he did.

AN ENORMOUS INCOME.

From The Montgomery Advertiser.

We have lately seen a statement from what appears to be a good authority that the actual income of John D. Rockefeller is now at least sixty million dollars per annum. Whether this is correct or not there is no means of ascertaining, for we doubt if either Mr. Rockefeller or any one else knows just what his wealth is, or the actual income from it, but the statement above comes from an apparently authentic source.

It is hardly possible for a person to comprehend what these figures really mean. The sum is so large that when we try to grasp the meaning of the figures we find it practically impossible. When we come to divide it up we find that it amounts to approximately $164,000 a day, or almost seven thousand dollars for each of the twenty-four hours. His income for one minute is equal to the salary of a well-paid bookkeeper for a month, and each second that passes means for him the addition of enough money to buy a poor man a good pair of shoes. It is only by bringing the total amount down to fragments that we can grasp the meaning of the figures.

Of what use is all this money to him? Of course in the ordinary manner of life of a sensible or rational man he can only use a small fraction of his income. The rest is piling upon itself and upon the principal, compounding and swelling and growing all the time, until it would require an expert in figures to tell what the whole will be at the expiration of a given time. If left to accumulate it multiplies and doubles and quadruples like microbes, Belgian rabbits or anything else which is given to magnifying itself, and the man who will undertake to tell just how much under normal conditions this man will be worth in ten years will have need for all his knowledge of mathematics.

Whether all this wealth adds to human happiness is a question that people would answer differently. It must be an enormous strain on the mind to have such an enormous fortune and to manage it. We have seen it stated that Mr. Rockefeller himself has said that he would consider one million dollars a year a small remuneration to any one who would relieve him of the strain of managing his immense and varied financial affairs. We doubt if any clerk, accountant or bookkeeper in all the land works as hard as he does, or has a tithe of the strain and mental worry which falls to the daily life of this modern Crœsus.

No doubt there are thousands of poor men in the world who would be glad to exchange places with Rockefeller, but they would probably lose by the operation. For a time they might rejoice and luxuriate in the novelty of unbounded and unlimited wealth, but in the end they would find themselves overburdened and would be glad to rue the bargain. For all his care and worry and continued harassment Mr. Rockefeller gets what he can eat, drink and wear, and that is all. Reduced to its final analysis, his sixty millions per annum affords him no more material satisfaction than does the daily wages of a healthy laboring man.* Those who are inclined to envy him should consider all the burdens attached to his fortune and rejoice that they are not in his shoes.

The persistent correspondent was worming a biography out of the reluctant statesman. "I suppose it is true, senator, as everybody understands," he said, "that you began life as a poor ploughboy?" "No, sir," growled the statesman, "I began life as a red-faced, flat-nosed, squalling baby."—Chicago Tribune.

COL. J. M. FALKNER.

From The Age-Herald.

In the sense of a fully developed and rounded character and mind Col. Jefferson M. Falkner is perhaps the most powerful individual force in Alabama. He is one of those few men whom all men believe in absolutely, and all women trust instinctively. If he didn't deserve such unquestioning public confidence he could not by any conceivable means obtain it. That is so self-evident as to require no word of argument.

Colonel Falkner is truly a big man. His mind and heart and character, his sense of honor and justice and charity, are powerful in keeping with his giant frame and massive head. He is massive in all the essentials of a big man. When he speaks it is with the irresistable force of intellectual and fearless conviction. He is a man of noble courage—the courage to do right as a God-loving man. He is morally great. He is worth a whole generation of babblers, a cycle of babblement. The idle talk about him for mere partisan preferment. Bah! What does he want of partisan distinctions so-called? He is no placeseeker—never was, never shall be. The serious business of a great life is his.

It is difficult for any reputable person who knows Colonel Falkner to speak his name without speaking his praise. The one is the other. Colonel Falkner last night talked to Birmingham business men about the proposed State Fair at Birmingham. Colonel Falkner having said there would be a great state fair in Birmingham, there will be a great State Fair in Birmingham; for all that is best in Birmingham associates itself with Colonel Falkner!

THE CONQUEST OF CHINA.

From The Spectator.

We do not believe that the Chinese Empire can be conquered as a whole, or governed as a whole, even by Europe acting as a syndicate, whether the effort is made through an International Council or through a nominal Emperor whom a council of ambassadors is to guide. That Europe, after an effort, the magnitude of which is just beginning to dawn upon her statesmen, will, with Japanese assistance, wade through seas of blood to Pekin we have little or no doubt. Water always yields to the swimmer if he is only strong enough, but when Pekin is taken the conquest of the swarming empire is only just begun. Pekin is not Paris, nor has it any such influence that its occupation or even destruction should signify to China that all is lost. Chinamen are not Europeans to forget that Pekin is of yesterday. The blood-stained rulers who have passed on Europe so terrible an insult will not remain in the capital to receive their sentences. They will fly, carrying with them their troops, and wherever they settle there will be for all political purposes the effective capital of China, the power to which 400,000,000 of people without nerves will look for impulse and direction. Every province will arm, irregular armies as good as that which defended Tientsin will arise by the dozen—the absurd illusion that a race of cowards built the most durable empire in Asia is gone already—and Europe will find that to hold China securely and trade with it in peace she must provide a garrison of 400,000 men.

The cost of such an effort will be ruinous to every treasury except that of Great Britain—or, if she joins in it, America—and the profit of it will be absolutely nil. The powers, if they work through a council, can not raise more than enough revenue to pay and supply and feed their armies, and no native Emperor, if they work through him, will consent to such a waste of his revenues; while if they leave him to govern as he can with his own forces, they simply enable him to strengthen himself until he can throw off the mask and once more set Europe at defiance, an enterprise to which the ruler of China can never seem simply mad. Why should it when he knows that he can hurl a fourth of mankind, not upon Europe, but upon that small section of her population which Europe can afford to send over 14,000 miles of ocean to be consumed in an endless battle for an object which when attained is worthless? We do not believe Europe will make the effort.

NO "SWEET SIXTEEN" IN CHINA.

From The London Mail.

In China there is nothing of the sweet girlhood which is enjoyed in this country—in fact, one rarely sees girls in China.

They marry so young that they appear to spring from childhood to maturity without any intermediate stage of girlhood. There is no blushing "fifteen" or "sweet sixteen," no flirtations, no balls, no picnics. The child has not ceased to play with her doll before she has a baby to handle.

The only joy of a woman's life is in dressing her hair. This is done with an elaborate, artistic science curious to see. Their hair is invariably black, and very long. It is drawn tightly from the face and stiffened with gum. It is then piled upon coils and wings and loops that stand alone without the aid of pads, roulets, pugs, or hairpins.

There are no spinsters in China except the nuns, who dedicate their virginity to Buddha. These ladies shave their heads like priests, and thus deprive themselves of the only Chinese sign of gender—the hair dressed a la teapot.

THE NEW GOVERNOR.

From The Montgomery Advertiser.

No man who has been elected to an important office in Alabama since the civil war has better cause to feel gratified at the result than has Hon. William J. Samford. No man has been elected to office in Alabama who received such a per cent. of the total vote cast. His nomination was a direct and hearty response to the demands of the people. Good men opposed him, men who had a right ask the democrats of Alabama their endorsment for the highest office in the State. He had competitors who were worthy and qualified and whose services to the state and to the party justified them in asking and expecting the support of the people.

But the people of Alabama, with what seemed spontaneous unity of purpose, turned to him as the proper man at this time to fill the office of Governor of the State. They nominated him over good men and against the efforts and influence of politicians who have sometimes had their own way.

And the people at the polls ratified the work of their delegates and elected him by a practically unanimous vote. The ballots cast for him were fairly cast and honestly counted. The bitter and in some cases disreputable local contests did not affect. The dirty methods charged in some places did not smirch his own reputation or cast the slightest film of cloud on his title to his seat. Men who bitterly opposed his political principles voted for him because they knew him to be worthy of their confidence. Men who would vote for no other man bearing the name of democrat supported him because they felt pride and interest in the welfare and good name of Alabama. He was elected because it was the choice of the best people of Alabama.

That Colonel Samford will justify the confidence of his fellow-citizens is not to be doubted by those who know him best. His course as a man and as a servant of the public is sufficient assurance that his administration will be a credit to Alabama. He has been tried in various positions and has proven himself an upright, concientious christan statesman in every post to which the people have honored him. He will find many responsibilities arising before him. He may encounter grave and difficult problems in the discharge of his official duties. He may be confronted by questions which will require the knowledge of a statesman and the courage of a soldier, and the people who know him and who trust him with the good name of our great commonwealth have faith that he will be equal to all that is required of him.

FLORIDA ANNEXATION.

From The Pensacola News.

The desire on the part of Alabamians to annex West Florida is perfectly natural and abundantly justified by the facts. The seven counties—not including a small portion of Franklin County—lying west of the Apalchicola River constitute an area of nearly four million acres—3,800,214; the population of these countries, in 1895, was 78,635, and is much larger now; the assessed valuation of real estate therein, in 1899, was, of real property, $7,446,389, of personal property, $2,504,087, and of railroads and telegraph lines, $2,335,030, making the grand total of property subject to taxation $12,285,506. The aggregate State, county school and license taxes assessed for 1899 in these counties was $243,051,58.

Should it be surprising to any one that Alabama should desire the acquisition of such a territory, which, it must be remembered, contains the second city of the state and the only deep water port on the gulf. It certainly is not strange that people of this region, igored or contemptuously regarded, as they are by the self-seeking, self-constituted political leaders of the eastern part of the state, should desire to acquire independence, peace and prosperity through annexation.

GERMANS IN AMERICA.

From The Indianapolis News

More and more the conviction is gaining ground that this is a nation of Americans—not of German-Americans, Irish-Americans, or Anglo-Americans. We have our own problems to work out, our own destiny to fulfill. Gradually we are becoming a consolidated people, obedient to the same laws, owning allegiance to the same flag, revering the same constitution, and proud of the same land. Even as it is, we have modified foreigners who have come to us more than we have been modified by them. And we do not believe that we have any more loyal and faithful citizens than those who are known as German-Americans. Not the least of their virtues is that they do their voting with a courageous independence that we should all do well to emulate.

THE BLUFF WORKED.

She—Mr. Jones, look at that impudent man on the other side of the street. He has been following us for the last ten minutes.

Jones—Why didn't you tell me so before? I'll teach the impudent puppy a lesson.

Walking boldly across the street, Jones says to the man:

"Look here Snip, I am sorry that I've not got the money to pay you for that last suit, but you ought not to follow me up and dun me when I'm trying to capture that girl. She has lots of money and if I succeed you will not only get your money, but also an order for a wedding outfit."

Snip goes off satisfied.

Returning to the young lady, Jones says:

"I'm glad you called my attention to that cowardly scoundrel. I don't think he will ever stare at you again. I had great difficulty in restraing myself."

It is perfectly wonderful what one quiet business man can do towards building up a town when he sets his head that way. The six large brick stores now being, and to be, erected on Main street can be credited to one man.

In Memory

Of Alice Wilder, daughter of J. T. J. Wilder, aged 15 years. It has pleased our Heavenly Father to take from our midst our loved one, Alice. We sorrow with the bereved ones, but with them are comforted with the assurance that she is now a welcome guest of ministering spirits, long since freed from earthly care, in a brighter world beyond, and let us bow in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father.

Weep not for me, loved ones dear,
I am not dead, but sleeping here;
I was not yours, but God's alone,
He loved me best and called me home.

Grieve not with helpless sorrow,
Jesus has felt your pain;
He did thy Lamb but borrow,
He'll bring her back again.

Clara.

After forty-five years spent as a cloistered nun in the Ursuline Convent at Bedford Park, N. Y., Cecilia Lawrence, known in the sisterhood as Mother Cecilia, has passed for the first time since she entered beyond the convent walls, and for the first time in her life has ridden on a railroad train.

THE REUNION.

A Pleasant Time Spent Under the Oaks at Shelby Springs.

The reunion of the old Confederate veterans at Shelby Springs Thursday and Friday of last week was attended and enjoyed by fully twenty-five hundred people. They came from everywhere. All parts of the county had fine representation, and from adjoining counties people came to spend the day and enjoy the hospitality of the good people.

Only a few hundred people being present on the first day the transaction of such business as was necessary for the success of the gathering was observed, while other matters of lesser import were postponed to a future date. A committee of two from each beat in the county was selected, whose duty it will be to take up the unfinished business and select a time and place and adopt measures for the reunion of next year. Campbranch, the scene of last year's harmonious gathering, is clamoring for the encampment.

On the morning of the second day the crowds began to collect, and by noon it would have been a difficult undertaking to estimate the number of people on the grounds. Some place it at three thousand, and others at more than this, but a conservative estimate of twenty-five hundred would not miss it far either way.

Awhile before dinner Colonel Johnston and other officers under his command, after drilling, instructing and equipping their men, collected their troops and fought a sham battle on the hills opposite the enclosure. A volunteer company composed of the sons of veterans aided greatly in these battles, their greater vigor and knowledge of firearms injecting a new life into the skirmishes and hand-to-hand conflicts which could not have been faithfully observed by the veterans themselves. A little skirmishing was indulged in on the Spring grounds and several battles fought also before noon. After dinner other battles were fought, and which were continued until all ammunition had been exhausted.

Though the heat of the day was intense and most taxing it had no deterrent effect upon the old soldiers in their drills, skirmishes and charges. They engaged in the sham conflicts of the reunion on that day with the same indomitable determination to destroy the enemy's strength as marked the actions of their younger days when life, home and country depended upon the chivalry and patriotism of the Southern manhood. The regularity of the old-time drill was lacking and the tactics were not so exacting, but the eagerness with which these old boys shouldered their guns, sticks and various improvised weapons and made the welkin ring with the terroizing and hair-lifting "Rebel Yell" furnished a beautiful commentary upon the courage and inflexibility of the Southern soldier on the actual field of battle.

The cherished flag of the Confederacy and the banner against which it was pitted in the early sixties rested side by side on that day and joined their folds in the self-same breezes, thus symbolizing in a modest manner the united and common interests of the North and South.

The two days provided a most pleasant recreation for the old veterans, the accommodations were ample and sufficient, and to say that it was hugely enjoyed would be a useless statement of facts.

Montevallo.

Special to The Age-Herald.

Montevallo, Aug. 16—For some time past the good people of Montevallo have been annoyed by whiskey dealers. Several weeks ago a citizens' meeting was called to consider the matter. After mature deliberation, they decided to employ detectives, and to prosecute all who were found guilty of this business. The following were prosecuted and fined.

William Johnson, convicted in two cases, and fined $60 in one and $50 in the other.

Davis & Jeter, convicted in two cases and fined $50 in each case.

Charles Storr, colored, convicted in two cases, and fined $50 in each.

Will Johnson, colored, convicted in one case and fined $50.

Richard Taylor pleaded guilty in two cases and was fined $50 in each.

Mr. Hally and Mr. Randall did good detective work, and have placed themselves in high favor with the best people of Montevallo.

That is true, that story about it being so hot in Washington that a man of that city fried an egg upon the asphalt pavement. The thermometer registered 130 degrees in the sun, or 101 in the shade. The citizen was of the opinion that the absorption of the heat by the asphalt had given the pavement a heat of at least 130 degrees, or enough to fry an egg. So he broke an egg on the pavement and it at once began to be cooked, and presently he turned it and cooked the other side, the egg taking on a beautiful golden brown color. A negro boy who was conveniently at hand ate the egg and pronounced it tip top egg and good cooking.—Exchange.

Come out of that orchard, you young scamp.

Come nothing; I'm going.

WOMAN'S SECOND GROWTH.

Her Most Beautiful and Fruitful Years Are Late in Life.

Since woman is in the main but a bundle of paradoxes, it is not so surprising to hear that a normally healthy woman is younger, mentally and physically, at 50 than at 40. The reason is somewhat recondite, but still one to be rendered in plain words. This rejuvenation comes from a sort of second growth of nerve tissue, or, more accurately, a new arrangement of nerve cells, which takes place commonly in the decade between 35 and 45. The rearrangement is somewhat analogous to the root-making of a rose or a flowering shrub. Almost every one has noted how the riotous vitality of the vernal impulse wreaths rose trees in blossom up to the period of midsummer. Then, though the blooming continues laggardly, the flowers are poor and small, as though the tree were tired of fashioning them and fretful beneath the strain. By and by, as August yields to September, the flowers, though they may be fewer, swell to more than the glory of spring. They are truly royal, loose-leafed, long-stemmed, heavy-headed blossoms, full of every virtue—size, fragrance, color and endurance. Then the gardener tells you it is because in the height of the warm weather the rose struck new roots, and is full of the rich juices of a second growth. It is somewhat the same with fruit trees—which, indeed, occasionally blossom and let fall crops of young fruit. Invariably they make new wood, which, if only it harden sufficiently, is the best of all wood for either cuttings or grafts—because, say the orchardists, "it has more life in it." Grape vines, too, have a trick of putting forth new blooms in the fall. If they chance to be very abundant, new wine in the cask which has ceased fermenting often begins again to hiss and bubble.

Big Bonanza.

This is a famous mine that is sometimes referred to as the Consolidated Virginia. It has had an enormous output, being one of the richest silver mines in America. It is located at Virginia City, Nev., and has the record of having produced $10,000,000 of silver within a year.

Ten Years Pain

"I am a school teacher, have suffered agony monthly for ten years.

"My nervous system was a wreck. I suffered with pain in my side and had almost every ill known. I had taken treatment from a number of physicians who gave me no relief.

"One specialist said no medicine could help me, I must submit to an operation.

"I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham, stating my case, and received a prompt reply. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and followed the advice given me and now I suffer no more. If any one cares to know more about my case, I will cheerfully answer all letters."—MISS EDNA ELLIS, Higginsport, Ohio.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

While the powers of the world are making history in China, the school book publishers are happy in the thought that they are also making geography.

A legislator in Missouri would prevent the people from eating green watermelons by appointing a watermelon inspector, and the bill was only defeated when a venerable member moved that the inspector's title should be "The Official Plugger, Muncher and Taster of the State of Missouri."

In all the new school buildings of New York City space has been left for installing a system of shower baths. Baths are now ready in two or three of the schools on the East Side, where bathing facilities are most needed. Children are required to furnish their own towels and soap.

A Boston newspaper praises a certain clergyman because of "the tactful and reviving way in which he conducts a funeral service. And it detracts neither from the sincerity of this opinion nor from the dignity of his calling to add that his success at a dinner party is equally marked."

The Germans are applying the same rules in regard to trade secrets in Germany as were applied in England during the early part of the nineteenth century. The German Federal Court has recently punished a foreman who was found guilty of imparting an invention of his employer used in "rustling" velvet.

Says the Philadelphia Inquirer, in condemnation of the Italian anarchist: "It may be that capital punishment is not right. As for us, we believe it is. But no death which could be inflicted upon the assassin of the late King of Italy would be too severe, and we do not believe that any civilized nation would think it so."

An Ohio judge has set aside a verdict of one cent damages for the alienation of a wife's affections, on the ground that too low a valuation was placed on a woman's love. That is probably good law, and, moreover, if women had the right of suffrage it 1would insure that judge's re-election by a big majority.

ises soon to have a fine collection of relics of the Western Indians. Dr. George A. Dorsey, curator of anthropology, was very successful on his recent expedition, as he has added no less than 1800 separate objects to the museum. It is such expert work as this that will preserve the life and customs of the Western Indians after most of their representatives are gone.

If all official inspectors of buildings in Chicago should tell the truth as fearlessly as one of them has done that place would lose its ill repute as a city of fire traps. At least ninety-five per cent of the buildings there are said to be unfit for the uses to which they are put. Of 600 factories and manufacturing plants a large majority are cheaply constructed and have narrow wooden stairways with seldom more than one exit.

This is the Philadelphia Inquirer's explanation of the success of American athletes abroad: "Our athletes are carefully trained. Exercise, food, sleep and work are portioned out to them as though thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars depended on their success. And this not only in the main events, but in every minor contest. The man is handled so that he comes to his contest in the pink of condition."

The Chamber of Commerce of San Diego, California, is making an effort to establish the production of raw silk in the agricultural districts about that city. Steps have been taken to secure a large number of silk worms, and 5000 mulberry trees will shortly be planted. The climate of Southern California is deemed even preferable for this industry to that of France, the home of silk culture. The consumption of raw silk in this country is enormous, and the entire supply comes from foreign countries, principally from Japan, China and Italy. In 1899 the total imports of this raw material were valued at $43,546,872.

Professor G. W. MacRae, of Toledo, has discovered a new disease, "electromosis," a breaking down of the nervous system and destruction of the vital organs by the "vagrant" currents that enter the systems of trolley car passengers. He says that persons are always ill tempered after a ride in a trolley car. Possibly you have supposed that your irritation was due to the surliness of the conductor, or to the fellow passenger who stood up in front of you and trod on your toes, or to the fellow who carried an ill smelling cigar stump in his fingers; but now you know it was "electromosis."

While the black spruce is more easily reduced to pulp than any other wood and is, therefore, preferred for making paper, almost any wood can be employed for that purpose. Next to spruce the wood most used in pulp making is poplar, but there are nearly twenty species of trees whose wood is more or less used in the pulp mills of the United States. Among them are beech, birch, basswood, silver maple, willow, locust, hemlock and many varieties of pine and other coniferous trees. The use of these, however, is not likely to become important so long as the more easily worked spruce can be had in sufficient quantity.

A new source of wealth to New Mexico has been discovered in a turquoise mine, if we are to credit the assertions of a company engaged in mining the jewels. It is declared that at a depth of 300 feet an immense number of turquoises have been found of extraordinary size, purity and beauty. They will polish to the size of hen's eggs, which makes them the largest in the world. According to the company, the most famous gems of this kind that adorn the crowns of European sovereigns past and present were taken from these mines by Spaniards two centuries ago. It is easier to reject than credit the tale, but the southwest is a land of marvels and it may be true.

A Nebraska correspondent of The Chicago Record says: "Windmills are getting to be as thick in Nebraska as in Holland. There is at least one at every farmhouse to pump water; often another at the barnyard, and sometimes several others at the different corrals or feeding places for cattle. In the towns clusters of windmills rise above the roofs and give a quaint and picturesque appearance to the landscape. They differ from the Dutch windmills, however. They are open wheels of wood, while in Holland the wheels are usually made of canvas fastened to long arms, which revolve very slowly and in a dignified way appropriate to the Dutch character. The Nebraska windmills whirl with great energy at the slightest provocation, illustrative of the character of many citizens of this State."

The Indiana Supreme Court has decided that it is within the power of the State Legislature to compel the vaccination of school children. In rendering its decision, the court says that it does not presume to say whether or not vaccination is a preventive of smallpox. It thinks this is not a question for the court and is one about which medical men differ. While there is in Indiana no explicit law making vaccination compulsory as a condition of public school attendance, the court declares that the school authorities, in excluding the boy whose parents refuse to have him vaccinated, were within their province. They had acted under the advice of the State Board of Health in view of an emergency. However, the court rules that the exclusion of the student in question should not have force or effect longer than the existence of the emergency. The court does not doubt that compulsory vaccination is clearly within the police power of the State. The gist of the matter is that a child may be given the choice either to be vaccinated or to remain out of school until the danger of smallpox has passed.

Consumption has often been called the scourge of New England, so terrible have been the ravages of the disease in that part of the country. It is, therefore, a fact of great importance when it is shown that the mortality from consumption in this section is steadily diminishing. The latest report of the State Registrar of Vital Statistics for Maine demonstrates that such a diminution has been in progress for a number of years, the deaths from the disease having been 1,352 in 1892, and in succeeding years, 1,299, 1,262, 1,195, 1,172, 1,128 and 1,021. The principal reason for this remarkable falling off is undoubtedly the fact that during this period the people have been steadily coming to understand more and more clearly that pulmonary tuberculosis is a preventable disease. Eleven years ago the State Board of Health issued its circular on the prevention of consumption, and since then it has repeatedly been published in large editions, which have been distributed in every town. The press has co-operated in this campaign of education, and many hundreds of people have been saved who, if left in ignorance, would have died of the disease which they have now fought off.

The most novel of the censuses is that of the beasts, the fish, and the birds, which is conducted by the Colorado Historical and Natural Society. It is taken periodically, and in the one soon to be conducted the co-operation of the fish and game wardens and of the school children has been enlisted. As the deer and buffalo, and such game as the mountain sheep and mountain lion are fast disappearing, the Denver Republican explains, it is thought that the task of compiling statistics on their present numerical strength will be relatively easy. The most difficulty will be experienced in being exact as to the number of prairie dogs, squirrels, snakes, and frogs. Counting the fish will be easy, the number turned out by the fish hatcheries being the basis upon which the present population of the rivers will be mathematically computed. In counting the birds a bird having in any manner participated in the building of a nest now in existence in the State will be regarded as a citizen, as will all birds hatched in a nest now in existence in the State. The school children will be called upon to count the nests in every township, and this list of nests will form the basis of the bird census. Sixty per cent. of the number of eggs in nests reported at the time of the taking of the bird census will be included in the total, on the ground that they will be hatched before the figures reach the public.

Britain's Former Chinese Wars.

It is a somewhat curious coincidence that our first Chinese war—just sixty years ago—had an almost exactly similar origin as had the present upset, for the then Emperor issued a mandate to his subjects ordering the extermination of the British, offering rewards for the heads, not only of the commanders, but even for those of the private soldiers. That was, however, a comparatively small affair, for, besides the Royal Navy and Royal Artillery, only some half dozen British regiments were needed to bring the Emperor to accede to our conditions of peace. Two of these regiments—the old Forty-ninth (now the First Royal Berkshire) and the Fifty-fifth (now the Second Border)—wear the Chinese Dragon as badges in commemoration of their gallantry. The second Chinese war commenced in 1856, and lasted some four years, and in this the French joined us. On this occasion more regiments were engaged, the King's Dragoon Guards being the only cavalry corps, and several native Indian regiments played a gallant part.—The London Sketch.

A western paper is conducting a symposium on the best way for mothers-in-law to gain the affections of sons-in-law and daughters-in-law. In point of fact, half the misery of life for mothers-in-law and stepmothers has been made by the weak minded humorist of the funny column, and the other half does not exist. Which may be an Hibernicism, but is certainly a truth. For every case in which the daughter-in-law is not attached to her husbands mother's mother when they became thoroughly acquainted, there are 20 where "grandma" or "Jack's mother" is called on for sympathy and service as freely as her own mother, and with equal certainty of receiving both. As for sons-in-law, many a dear old woman has said of hers, "He has been a son to me!" If the funny man can be suppressed there will be little trouble-in-law.

As he emerged, he was met with such a shower of bullets that he slid back in short order. After a few minutes he came out again, and amid a vigorous volley, ran for his life. He was nearly two hundred yards from the British line, and was hit three times before he reached a place of safety.

Democratic at all Times and Under all Circumstances--Consequently Opposed to Monopolies.

VOL. XV. COLUMBIANA, SHELBY COUNTY, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 16, 1900. NO. 41.

BRYAN'S SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE.

Following is the speech, in part, of Hon. William J. Bryan, accepting the democratic nomination for president of the United States:

"Mr. Chairman and Members of the Notification Committee:

"I shall, at an early day and in a more formal manner, accept the nomination which you tender, and I shall at that time discuss the various questions covered by the democratic platform. It may not be out of place, however, to submit a few observations at this time upon the general character of the contest before us, and upon the question which is declared to be of paramount importance in this campaign.

"When I say that the campaign of 1900 is a contest between democracy on the one hand and plutocracy on the other, I do not mean to say that all our opponents have deliberately chosen to give to organized wealth a predominating influence in the affairs of the government, but I do assert that on the important issues of the day the republican party is dominated by those influences which constantly tend to elevate pecuniary considerations and ignore human rights.

"In 1859 Lincoln said that the Republican party believed in the man and the dollar, but that in case of conflict it believed in the man before the dollar. This is the proper relation which should exist between the two. Man, the handiwork of God, comes first; money, the handiwork of man, is of inferior importance. Man is the master; money the servant, but upon all important questions today republican legislation tends to make money the master and man the servant.

"The maxim of Jefferson: 'Equal rights to all and special privileges to none,' and the doctrine of Lincoln that this should be a government 'of the people, by the people and for the people,' are being disregarded and the instrumentalities of government are being used to advance the interests of those who are in a position to secure favors from the government.

"The democratic party is not making war upon the honest acquisition of wealth; it has no desire to discourage industry, economy and thrift. On the contrary, it gives to every citizen the greatest possible stimulus to honest toil, when it promises him protection in the enjoyment of the proceeds of his labor. Property rights are most secure when human rights are respected. Democracy stands for a civilization which every member of society will enjoy according to his rights. * * *

"Against us are arrayed a comparatively small, but politically and financially powerful, number who really profit by republican policies; but with them are associated a large number who, because of their attachment to the party name, are giving their support to doctrines antagonistic to the former teachings of their own party. Republicans who used to advocate bimetallism now try to convince themselves that the gold standard is good; republicans who were formerly attached to the greenback are now seeking an excuse for giving national banks control of the nation's paper money; republicans who used to boast that the republican party was paying off the national debt are now looking for reasons to support a perpetual and increasing debt; republicans who formerly abhorred a trust now beguile themselves with the delusion that there are good trusts and bad trusts, while in their minds the line between the two is becoming more and more obscure; republicans who, in times past, congratulated the country upon the small expense of our standing army, are now making light of the objections which are urged against a large increase in the permanent military establishment; republicans who gloried in our independence when the nation was less powerful, now look with favor upon a foreign alliance; republicans who three years ago condemned 'forcible annexation' as immoral and even criminal, are now sure that it is both immoral and criminal to oppose forcible annexation. That partisanship has already blinded many to present dangers is certain. * * *

"For a time republican leaders were inclined to deny to opponents the right to criticise the Philippine policy of the administration, but upon investigation they found that both Lincoln and Clay asserted and exercised the right to criticise a President during the progress of the Mexican war.

"Instead of meeting the issue boldly and submitting a clear and positive plan for dealing with the Philippine question, the Republican convention adopted a platform, the larger part of which was devoted to boasting and self-congratulation. * * *

When the war was over and the republican leaders began to suggest the propriety of a colonial policy, opposition at once manifested itself. When the president finally laid before the senate a treaty which recognized the independence of Cuba but provided for the cession of the Philippine Island to the United States, the menace of imperialism became so apparent that many preferred to reject the treaty and risk the ills that might follow rather than take the chance of correcting the errors of the treaty by the independent action of this country.

"I was among the number of those who believed it better to ratify the treaty and end the war, release the volunteers, remove the excuse for war expenditures, and then give to the Filipinos the independence which might be forced from Spain by a new treaty.

"In view of the criticism which my action aroused in some quarters I take this occasion to re-state the reasons given at that time. I thought it safer to trust the American people to give independence to the Filipinos than to trust the accomplishment of that purpose to diplomacy with an unfriendly nation. Lincoln embodied an argument in the question, when he asked, 'Can aliens make treaties easier than friends can make laws? I believe that we are now in a better position to wage a successful contest against imperialism than we would have been had the treaty been rejected.

"The title of Spain being extinguished, we were at liberty to deal with the Filipinos according to American principles. The Bacon resolution, introduced a month before hostilities broke out at Manila, promised independence to the Filipinos on the same terms that it was promised to the Cubans. I supported this resolution and believe that its adoption prior to the breaking out of hostilities would have prevented bloodshed, and that its adoption at any subsequent time would have ended hostilities. * * *

"If it is right for the United States to hold the Philippine Islands permanently and imitate the European empires in the government of the colonies, the republican party ought to state its position and defnud it, but it must expect the subject races to protest against such a policy and to resist to the extent of their ability. The Filipinos do not need any encouragement from Americans now living. Our whole history has been an encouragement not only to the Filipinos but to all who are denied a voice in their own government. If the republicans are prepared to censure all who have used language calculated to make Filipinos hate foreign domination, let them condemn the speech of Patrick Henry. When he uttered that passionate appeal, 'Give me liberty or give me death' he expressed a sentiment which still echoes in the hearts of men. Let them censure Jefferson; of all the statesmen of history none have used words so offensive to those who would hold their fellows in political bondage. Let them censure Washington, who declared that the colonies must choose between liberty or slavery. Or, if the statue of limitations has run against the sins of Henry and Jefferson and Washington, let them censure Lincoln, whose Gettysburg speech will be quoted in defense of popular government when the present advocates of force and conquest are forgotten.

"Lincoln said that the safety of this nation was not in its fleets, its armies or its forts, but in the spirit which prizes liberty and the heritage of all men, in all lands, everywhere; and he warned his countrymen that they could not destroy this spirit without planting the seeds of despotism at their own doors.

"Those who would have this nation enter upon a career of empire must consider not only the effect of imperialism on the Filipinos, but they must also calculate its effect upon our own nation. We cannot repudiate the principle of self-government in the Philippines without weakening that principle here.

"Even now we are beginning to see the paralyzing influence of imperialism. * * * In 1896, all parties manifested a lively interest in the success of the Cubans, but now when a war is in progress in South Africa, which must result in the extension of the monarchial idea or in the triumph of a republic, the advocates of imperialism in this country dare not say a word in behalf of the Boers. * * *

"The forcible annexation of territory to be governed by arbitrary power, differs as much from the acquisition of territory to be built up into states as a monarchy differs from a democracy. The democratic party does not oppose expansion, when expansion enlarges the area of the republic and incorporates land which can be settled by American citizens, or adds to our population people who are willing to become citizens and are capable of discharging their duties as such. * * *

"A colonial policy means that we shall send to the Philippines a few traders, a few taskmasters and a few office-holders and an army large enough to support the authority of a small fraction of the people, while they rule the natives.

"If we have an imperial policy we must have a large standing army as its natural and necessary complement. The spirit which will justify the seizure of other islands and the domination of other people, and with wars of conquest, we can expect a certain, if not rapid, growth of our military establishment.

"The republican platform assumes that the Philippine Islands will be retained under American sovereignty and we have a right to demand of the republican leaders a discussion of the future status of the Filipino. Is he to be a citizen or a subject? Are we to bring into the body politic eight or ten million Asiatics, so different from us in race and history that amalgamation is impossible? Are they to share with us in making the laws and shaping the destiny of this nation? No republican of prominence has been bold enough to advocate such a proposition. The McEnery resolution, adopted by the senate immediately after the ratification of the treaty, expressly negatives this idea. The democratic platform described the situation when it says that the Filipinos cannot be citizens without endangering our civilization. Who will dispute it? And what is the alternative? If the Filipino is not to be a citizen, shall we make him a subject? On that question the democratic platform speaks with emphasis. It declares that the Filipino cannot be a subject without endangering our form of government. A republic can have no subjects. A subject is possible only in a government deriving its just powers from the consent of the government. * * * *

"Why does the republican party hesitate to legislate upon the Phiippine question? Because a law would disclose the radical departure from history and precedent contemplated by those who control the republican party. The storm of protest which greeted the Porto Rican bill was an indication of what may be expected when the American people are brought face to face with legislation upon this subject. If the Porto Ricans, who welcome annexation, are to be denied the guarantee of our constitution, what is to be the lot of the Filipinos, who resisted our authority? * * *

"Is the sunlight of full citizenship to be enjoyed by the people of the United States and the twilight of semi-citizenship endured by the people of Porto Rico, while the thick darkness of perpetual vassalage covers the Philippines? The Porto Rico tariff law asserts the doctrine that the operation of the constitution is confined to the forty-five states. The democratic party disputes this doctrine and denounces it as repugnant to both the letter and spirit of our organic law. There is no place in our system of government for the deposit of arbitrary and irresponsible power. * * *

Some argue that American rule in the Philippine Islands will result in the better education of the Philippinos. Be not deceived. If we expect to maintain a colonial policy, we shall not find it to our advantage to educate the people. The educated Filipinos are now in revolt against us, and the most ignorant ones have made the least resistence to our denomination. If we are to govern them without their consent and give them no voice in determining the taxes which they must pay, we dare not educate them lest they learn to read the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States and mock us for our inconstancy. * * *

"The principal arguments, however, advanced by those who enter upon a defense of imperialism are:

"First—That we must improve the present opportunity to become a world power and enter into international politics.

"Second—That our commercial interests in the Philippine Islands and in the Orient make it necessary for us to hold the islands permanently.

"Third—That the spread of the Christian religion will be facilitated by a colonial policy.

"Fourth—That there is no honorable retreat from the position which the nation has taken.

"The first argument is addressed to the nation's pride and the second to the nation's pocketbook. The third is intended for the church member and the fourth for the partisan. * * *

"But a war of conquest is as unwise as it is unrighteous. A harbor and coaling station in the Philippines would answer every trade and military necessity, and such a concession could have been secured at any time without difficulty. It is not necessary to own people in order to trade with them.

"Imperialism would be profitable to the army contractors; it would be profitable to the ship owners, who would carry live soldiers to the Philippines and bring dead soldiers back; it would be profitable to those who would seize upon the franchises, and it would be profitable to the officials, whose salaries would be fixed here and paid over there; but to the farmer, to the laboring man, and to the vast majority of those engaged in other occupations, it would bring expenditure without return and risk without reward. * * *

"The pecuniary argument, though more effective with certain classes, is not likely to be used so often or presented with so much emphasis as the religious argument. If what has been termed the 'gun powder gospel' were urged against the Filipinos only, it would be a sufficient answer to say that a majority of the Filipinos are now members of one branch of the Christian church; but the principle involved is one of much wider application and challenges serious consideration.

"Let it be known that our missionaries are seeking souls instead of sovereignty; let it be known that instead of being the advance guard of conquering armies, they are going forth to help and to uplift, having their loins girt about with truth and their feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace, wearing the breast plate of righteousness and carrying the sword of the Spirit.

"There is an easy, honest, honorable solution of the Philippine question. It is set forth in the democratic platform, and it is submitted with confidence to the American people. This plan I unreservedly indorse. If elected, I shall convene Congress in extraordinary session as soon as I am inaugurated, and recommend an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose, first, to establish a stable form of government in the Philippine Islands just as we are now establishing a stable form of government in the Island of Cuba; second, to give independence to the Filipinos, just as we have promised to give independence to the Cubans; third to protect the Filipinos from outside interference while they work out their destiny, just as we have protected the republics of Central and South America, and are, by the Monroe doctrine, pledged to protect Cuba

"Mr. chairman and gentlemen of the committee: I can never fully discharge the debt of gratitude which I owe to my countrymen for the honors which they have so generously bestowed upon me, but, sirs, whether it be my lot to occupy the high office for which the convention has named me, or to spend the remainder of my days in private life, it shall be my constant ambition and my controlling purpose to aid in realizing the high ideals of those whose wisdom and courage and sacrifices brought this republic into existence."

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

The New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

The more important of the new industries reported by the Chattanooga Tradesman during the week ended August 11 included box factories in Florida and Texas; a brass foundry in Charlotte, N. C.; a cannery in Virginia; a $25,000 chair and table factory in North Georgia; a $150,000 cigar manufacturing company at Tampa, Fla.; coal mines in the Birmingham and Fairmount districts; a coffin factory in Atlanta; copper and gold mines in the Dahlonega district; a cotton mill in South Carolina; a cotton seed oil mill in Georgia; a municipal electric light and water works plant at Wrightsville, Ga.; a ferry company at Savannah; two fertilizer factories in Virginia; flouring mills in North Carolina, Texas and Virginia; a $25,000 fruit evaporating plant at Pensacola; a harrow factory in Mississippi; a coiled hoop factory in Florida; an ice factory at Columbus, Ga.; iron works in Southwest Virginia; machine shops in New Orleans; a branch packing house for the Armours at Louisville; a roofing manufactory (rebuilt) in Atlanta; a spoke and handle factory in Alabama; steel works at Newport News; a sugar refinery at Tampa; a tannery in Virginia; a telephone exchange at Macon, Ga; tobacco factories in Kentucky and North Carolina.

ALABAMA-FLORIDA LINE.

Much Attention Given to the Proposed New Division of States.

A dispatch from Pensacola, Fla., says: The newspapers and many citizens of this section of the state are giving much attention to the proposed annexation by the state of Alabama of that portion of Florida west of the Apalachicola river, which it is claimed both geographically and naturally should form a part of Alabama. The point mainly made is that all rivers in this section of Florida have their sources in Alabama and bring the products of Alabama forests to be manufactured in Florida mills. The interests of the people of the Apalachicola section are said to be entirely different from those of other sections of Florida.

It is suggested that the most practical method of meeting the issues would be to hold a convention or conference of representatives from the various counties of the Apalachicola section at Pensacola. The meeting will likely be held here September 1

Heavy Rains in Texas.

A Houston dispatch says: It has rained every day for thirty-one days in north, east and south Texas, and the effects of the deluge are beginning to be apparent. Rises are reported in the rivers, the Colorado being twenty-five feet above low water mark at Columbus. The ground is now saturated and cannot hold more. The small streams are booming. The cotton crop is becoming very rank in growth, and is shedding bolls badly, there being a very small fruitage. The wet weather is also conducive to pests, and there are numerous reports of the ravages of insects in the sections named. Wheat threshing has also been interrupted and much of the grain spoiled by sprouting.

Prof. Venable Dead.

Prof. Charles Venable, for many years professor, and for the last five years professor emeritus of mathematics at the University of Virginia, died Saturday at his home in Charlottesville. He was one of the most distinguished educators in the south, the author of several textbooks, and, during the war between the states, served with distinction on the staff of General R. E. Lee.

Wants Permission to Send Miners Home.

General Randall, commander of the department of Alaska, has made the following report upon the conditions at Nome:

"At present there are about 15,000 persons in and about Nome. It is estimated there will be about 1,000 destitute here at the close of navigation. I request that I be authorized to send all destitute persons out of the country by every available vehicle in case army transports are not here."

Died on a Train.

Mrs. Elsie L. Carmacho, wife of the minister of railroads of Mexico, died Sunday on a Pennsylvania railroad train, as it was leaving Newark en route for Jersy City.

Mme. Comancho had gone north on the advice of her physician to avoid the intense heat in Mexico, and had suffered greatly during the great heat of the last few days.

TRAGEDY ON A TRAIN.

Express Messenger Robbed and Killed—The Murderer Arrested.

A daring murder and robbery was committed on the Pennsylvania passenger train No. 8, which arrived at Columbus, Ohio, from St. Louis Friday night. Charles Lane, an Adams Express messenger, formerly of St. Louis, but recently a resident of Columbus, was shot and killed shortly before the train reached the Union station and the "local" safe was robbed of all the money and valuables it contained. The body was found to have been riddled with bullets and there were evidences that a desperate struggle had taken place. No less than eight bullet wounds were found.

Charles R. H. Ferroll, a former employe of the Adams Express company, was arrested the following day in Columbus and has confessed to the killing of Messenger Charles Lane and the robbery of the way safe of the Adams Express company. One thousand dollars of the money which he had stolen was recovered.

Ferroll was to have been married Thursday next to Miss Lillian Coctlow. He had been discharged from the employ of the Adams Express company about three week ago, and had not since been able to secure employment. He confessed that the motive of the robbery was to secure money, for which he felt in great need in consequence of his approaching marriage.

BATTLESHIPS COLLIDE.

Torpedo Boat Destroyer Sinks, Causing Fearful Loss of Life.

During maneuvers of the French fleet off Cape Vincent, France, Saturday night, a collision occurred between the first class battleship Brennus, flying the flag of Vice Admiral Fournier, commander of the fleet, and the torpedo boat destroyer Framee.

The Framee sank immediately. The accident was due to the fact that the Framee turned to the right when ordered to the left.

Details thus far received are very meagre, but only a small portion of the crew, consisting of four officers and fifty-eight men were saved. It is believed that no fewer than fifty were lost. The Framee, which was of 313 tons displacement, was a recent addition to the French navy.

MISSION PROPERTY LOOTED

And Three Chapels Burned in Kwang Tung Province.

At Hong Kong, United States Consul General R. Wildman has received a telegram from the American Baptist mission at Swatow, province of Kwang Tung, saying that three more chapels have been demolished and that there has been much looting of mission property.

The dispatch also says that an attempt was made upon the life of the preacher there and that the officials are taking no action in the matter. The troubles are attributed to the "Vegetarian Society," probably an offshoot of the notorious triads, though some believe the Vegetarians are connected with the Boxers.

Another Murder in Kentucky.

PLAGUE DIMINISHING.

So Says Report From Manila—No New Fever Cases in Florida.

Marine Hospital Service advices from Manila just received at Washington report that the number of plague cases there are diminishing. No information has officially been communicated here regarding the reported action of the Singapore health authorities in quarantining against Manila.

The Marine Hospital Service's dispatches from Florida show that no new yellow fever cases nor new suspects have developed.

Von Waldersee Satisfactory.

Great Britain, the United States and Japan have now approved the appointment of Field Marshal Count von Waldersee as commander in-chief of the allied forces of China, the United States and Japan unreservedly and Great Britain conditionally on all the other powers agreeing to the appointment.

THE INCOME TAX.

BRYAN STANDS BY THE POPULIST PLATFORM.

Shows How He Defended the Tax in Congress and Out—How It Operated in War Times—A Just Method of Paying Expenses of Government.

Is there any rule for determining the proportion in which citizens should contribute to the support of the government?

Adam Smith suggests a rule which must commend itself to every fair-minded person. He says: "The subjects of every state ought to contribute to the support of the government as nearly as possible in proportion to their respective ability; that is, in proportion to the revenue which they respectively enjoy under the protection of the state. In the observation or neglect of this rule consists what is called the equality or inequality of taxation." In other words, a direct tax upon incomes is the fairest tax that can be suggested. All taxes are really income taxes, because all taxes are paid out of income; but an indirect tax may work great injustice, because its operation is concealed from the public view.

Local taxation in city, county and state is usually proportioned to the property of the citizen; but instead of being entirely equitable, a property tax is often collected almost entirely from visible property, leaving the invisble property free. Those who own real estate, horses, cattle, hogs, machinery, and household goods cannot evade the assessor, but those whose wealth consists largely of money and evidences of indebtedness too frequently escape. Where visible property is taxed and the invisible property escapes, the possessors of visible property are overtaxed in order to make up for the evasion of those who possess invisible property. But even when a property tax is honestly collected upon all forms of property, real and personal, it is not as fair a tax as an income tax. Property may be temporarily unproductive. If a farmer pays taxes on his land the tax goes on, even though the crop may fail. If a money lender pays a tax upon his money his security may fail, for there may be default in the payment of the interest, while the income tax adjusts itself to the condition of the taxpayer, being large when the income is large and small when the income is small.

Then, too, a property tax does not reach those who enjoy a considerable income under the protection of the government, and yet consume the income without investing in real or personal property. The income tax reaches all.

While our local taxes are not collected with absolute justice, we make a nearer approach to justice in local taxation than we do in the collection of our federal revenue. Until the beginning of the Spanish war almost all of the revenue collected for the support of the federal government came from two sources—namely, internal revenue taxes and import duties. Internal revenue taxes, being collected on liquor and tobacco, are not collected from the people in proportion to their incomes, but in proportion to the liquor and tobacco they consume, and as the consumption of liquor and tobacco does not increase according to income, the taxes collected through this system are in effect graded income taxes, the largest per cent being, on the average, collected from the smallest incomes, and the smallest per cent from the largest incomes. Import duties collected on consumption are also in effect graded income taxes, bearing heaviest upon those with smallest incomes. It must be evident to the most casual observer that the burdens of the federal government, instead of being borne according to the rule laid down by Adam Smith, are too heavy upon the poor and too light upon the rich. The income tax provided by the Wilson bill was intended as a partial compensation for the injustice done by the other systems. The 2 per cent assessed upon individual incomes above $4,000, while not sufficient to bring the rich up to an equality with the poor in taxation, was a step in the right direction. Much fault was found with the exemption provided in that law. Many who did not understand the reason for the exemption protested against it and insisted that the 2 per cent should apply to all incomes, large and small. But since excessive burdens are laid upon the possessors of small incomes by internal revenue taxes and import duties, it would be manifestly unjust to continue the inequality by making them pay a per cent equal to that collected from the possessors of large incomes.

The 2 per cent tax upon the net income of corporations was defended upon the ground that the corporation enjoys special privileges conferred by law and occupies much of the time of the federal legislature, the federal executive and the federal courts. Just prior to the passage of the Wilson tariff bill I obtained, through the courtesy of Secretary Gresham, statistics from a number of European governments.

I found that in Prussia the income tax had been in operation about twenty years, and that incomes under 900 marks were exempt, while the tax ranged from less than 1 per cent to about 4 per cent on larger incomes.

In Austria the income tax had been in operation about thirty years. Incomes under $113 were exempt, while the rate ranged from 8 per cent up to 20 per cent on larger incomes. I found that in Italy incomes under $77.20 were exempt, while the rate ran as high as 13 per cent on some incomes. In the Netherlands the income tax had been in operation since 1823. At the time investigation was made incomes under $260 were exempt, and the tax ranged from 3 per cent to 3 1-5 per cent on incomes over that sum. In Zurich, Switzerland, the income tax had been in operation for more than half a century. At the time investigation was made incomes under $100 were exempt, and the rate on larger incomes varied from 1 per cent to 8 per cent. In England the rate for 1892 was a little more than 2 per cent upon incomes above $2,000, and a little less upon incomes under $2,000. All incomes under $750 were exempt.

For nearly ten years during and after the civil war an income tax ranging from 2 1-2 per cent to 10 per cent was collected in this country. Exemptions ranged from $600 to $2,000.

Senator John Sherman, of Ohio, was opposed to the repeal of these taxes, and in the course of a speech said: "The Senator from New York and the Senator from Massachusetts have led off in declaring against the income tax. They have declared it to be invidious. Well, sir, all taxes are invidious. They think it is inquisitorial. Well, sir, there never was a tax in the world that was not inquisitorial. The least inquisitorial of all is the income tax. * * * There never was so just a tax levied as the income tax. There is no objection that can be urged against the income tax that I cannot point to in every tax. Writers on political economy, as well as our own sentiments of what is just and right, teach us that a man ought to pay taxes according to his income, and in no other way." Senator Sherman pointed out that at that time only twenty millions were collected upon incomes, while the food and clothing of the people were taxed three hundred millions.

Senator Morton, of Indiana, in opposing the repeal of the tax, said: "The income tax is, of all others, the most equitable because it is the truest measure that has yet been found of the productive property of the country."

Senator Howe said: "There is not a tax on the books so little felt, so absolutely unfelt in the payment of it, as this income tax by the possessors of great fortunes upon which it falls. There is not a poor man in this country, not a laborer in this country, but what contributes more than 3, more than 10, more than 20 per cent of all his earnings to the treasury of the United States under those very laws against which I am objecting, and now we are invited to increase their contributions and to release these trifling contributions which we have been receiving from incomes heretofore."

But in spite of these protests the tax was repealed, and during the years that have followed the government has continued this discrimination in favor of the rich and against the poor. Why? Because wealth has been assuming a larger and larger share in the control of the Government, and the rights of the masses have been less and less considered. A tax system which overburdens some and lightly burdens others is larceny by law; it is an indirect means by which one man's money is transferred to another man's pocket. In 1896 those who objected to an income tax, instead of arguing against the righteousness of the law, shielded themselves behind the decision of the Supreme Court and asserted that any discussion of the tax was an assault upon the honor of the court.

At present the Government can draft the citizen, but cannot draft the pocketbook. Slowly but surely the dollar is being exalted and the man debased. Justice in taxation must be restored.

The sentiment prevailing among those who advocate an income tax justifies the prediction that the Democrats, Populists and Silver Republicans will in their next campaign advocate an amendment to the Constitution specifically authorizing the income tax and no one who has faith in the final triumph of every righteous cause will doubt the ultimate success of the effort to make an income tax a permanent part of the revenue system of the Federal Government.—W. J. Bryan in Chicago American.

LABOR AND THE BAYONET.

The complaint that Governor Roosevelt was too hasty in sending militia to the scene of the Croton Dam strike calls attention to the growing disposition to use the bayonet in coercing labor to yield to the terms on which capital offers employment. The militia should never be summoned, except as a last resort, when every other legitimate means of preserving order has been tried without success. As a matter of fact, there has very rarely, if ever, been real occasion for ordering the militia to the scene of labor troubles. In most instances, the difficulties could have been terminated by the local authorities, had they shown a willingness to deal fairly with labor, and not act merely as the tools and errand boys of capital. Should McKinley be re-elected and Roosevelt be re-elected, there would be no hesitation, it is certain, in using the military arm of the Federal government in putting down labor agitation. Roosevelt might vary the monotony of Vice-Presidential somnolence by dashing about at the head of the regulars and "potting" unarmed strikers when they had their backs turned, and thus he would be enabled to relate a few more stories of his wonderful courage in shooting down the unresisting. The workingman who votes for McKinley and Roosevelt will only have himself to blame if his work thereafter shall have to be done under the shadow of the bayonet, ever ready to prod him should he show any sign of independence.—New York News.

THE * CHRONICLE.

Entered in the post-office at Columbiana Ala., as second class matter.

VALEDICTORY.

With the last issue of THE CHRONICLE my connection with it ceased. It has been my privilege to guide the destiny of this paper for more than twelve years, during which time I have made a host of warm friends, who have aided me in many ways to attain, to put it modestly, some degree of success, and it is with sincere feelings of regret that I sever these agreeable relations. But circumstances over which I had no control have called me to another field of labor; however, it affords me pleasure to say that in my new home I shall have a larger and broader field in which I am to continue to battle for the time-honored principles of democracy, with the assurance of even greater success.

I shall always watch with keen interest the progress of democracy in Shelby county, and hope soon to see it once more triumphant. When that glad day arrives no one in Alabama or in Shelby county will rejoice more sincerely than I, no matter where my lot may be cast at the time.

To my numerous friends in all sections of the county I bid adieu with many regrets, but I can assure them their support has been fully appreciated, and will be remembered with keen pleasure for the remainder of my life.

C. C. DUBOSE.

From the above it will be seen that I have purchased THE CHRONICLE, and will continue the publication of same.

To those who know me it will be unnecessary for me to state what the policy of the paper will be. Twelve years ago I enlisted under the banner of "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none," and under that banner I've been fighting ever since. Since the organization of the Farmer's Alliance many of the reforms demanded by them have been engrafted into the platforms of the national democratic conventions at Chicago and Kansas City. There are yet, however, some and I think the most important reforms for which THE CHRONICLE will contend. While I have strong convictions on these questions, and propose to discuss them freely, I will do so in such a way as not to give offense to those who differ from me.

The campaign being over, THE CHRONICLE will, for the present, give most of its attention to questions looking to the development of our town, county and state. Being in full sympathy with the farming interest I propose to give special attention to that interest and to publish a paper that the farmers will gladly receive into their household. In short, I propose to publish a clean paper, free from personalities, prejudice or abuse, looking only to the best interest of our people as I see it and and according those who differ from me the honesty of opinion that I claim myself.

We solicit a continuance of the liberal support heretofore given THE CHRONICLE. The paper will be sent to the present subscribers as heretofore. If, after trial, any of them are dissatisfied and wish to discontinue their patronage they have only to notify us of the fact and the paper will be discontinued.

JNO. S. PITTS.

LILIAN CLAYTON JEWETT, the white faced maid of Boston, has been tendered a formal invitation by the White Shield society of Birmingham to come South and be hanged. The letter requesting her presence states that cotton is extensively produced in the South, that it is frequently converted into ropes, and that the people down here have had sufficient experience with the latter article to insure speedy and permanent relief. The female in question will be remembered as the lunatic friend of dead negroes and the "outraged" race in general. She hadn't started as we went to press.

DOWN in the Fifth district the contest for the nomination by the democratic congressional convention has been a very heated one. There were several candidates, but it seems that all combined against Senator Thompson, of Macon. In that district it seems that it was the field against one man, but in that as in this district the one man won.

WE PRINT this week six hundred and twenty-five copies. We want to increase our subscription list to twelve hundred by Christmas. Help us

THE ELMORE COUNT.

As we go to press it is still uncertain as to who will get the certificate of election for senator from this district. Shelby and Chilton gave Mr. Reynolds a large majority, and it is said that his own county gave him a majority, but it seems that a bold attempt was made in Elmore county to rob him of his election. Whether he will succeed remains to be seen. If the counting board of Elmore county counts the vote as doctored by the ballot thieves Mr. Reynolds will not get the certificate. If Mr. Oliver gets the certificate Reynolds will be the veriest fool to spend any money on the contest.

It is not settled, however, that Mr. Oliver will get the certificate, as the attempt of a few ballot thieves of Wetumpka to change the turn of the election was most bunglingly done. As we understand it the managers of the precinct in which the vote was said to be changed were present prepared to swear that the vote had been changed, and as one tally sheet was kept by the managers and can be produced when necessary it seems to us if the counting board refused to let Mr. Reynolds show the vote as it was actually polled in the eight precincts where the vote had been changed they will be particeps criminis to the steal.

We understand that Mr. Reynolds' friends met Tuesday night to discuss and adopt some plan of proceedure.

AT THIS writing it is hard to tell how the election went in many counties last week. Enough is known, however, to show that the state has given Colonel Samford and the state ticket a large majority. In many of the counties there was no organized opposition to the democratic ticket.

THE democratic congressional convention for this district met in Selma yesterday. All indications point to the nomination of Hon. Sydney J. Bowie, of Anniston, on first ballot. As we go to press we learn that he was nominated on first ballot.

THE change in the management of the paper may cause some of the present subscribers to stop their paper. To all such we would say, just notify us by postal and we will cheerfully erase their names from the book.

WE SEND out this week several sample copies to our populist friends in the county. We hope they will examine the paper and send us their subscription.

STOP AND THINK.

From The Talladega News-Reporter.

Roman history tells us that as long as the people remain at home as producers, developing their possessions to the highest that Rome as a nation grew and thrived. That ultimately in driving invaders back they were tempted to become despoilers themselves and once tasting the spoils of victory, they left their lands at home to feast on the plunder taken by force from others. This was so much easier than earning it that they abandoned their farms, their workshops and marts of trade, and became a military nation—a mild term for a nation of freebooters and pirates. They conquered and plundered weaker countries about them, spreading their conquests to the ends of the earth in a hundred years. The result was that with no more people to plunder they fell to quarreling over the spoils themselves. Honest work was tabooed, public industries were demoralized and Rome went to pieces. Can we not take a lesson from Rome? Can we see in our tabooing of honest toil, our legislating against it and favoring of corporations which live on the spoils of the masses, a tendency to demoralize industry? Can we not see in our greed for outside territory and the property of others a tendency to abuse our own power to the breaking down of weaker nations and the appropriation of things which do not belong to us? A taste of militarism is a dangerous thing. Coupled with a distaste for honest labor it becomes doubly so. Have we not these two dangers confronting us now—right now?

Humor and Tragedy.

Humor adds color to tragedy says the Atlantic Monthly. Michael Angelo Wolf understood this when he made his wretched tenement waifs so comical. Kipling understood it when he wrote "Dandy Deever." The cyclone also understands it. That is why it picked up a locomotive and stood it on end in a garden, but left a rosebush in that garden uninjured by so much as a crumpled pedal; that is why it twitched the water out of every well in town; that is why it gathered up half acre of mud and plastered it all over the Methodist church; that is why it plucked the feathers from a rooster and stuck in an oak plank, while the shivering fowl stared and wondered what next! This is the art of the storm; in the midst of the tempest see "Laughter holding both his sides.

WEEKLY PRESS OF ALABAMA.

From The Montgomery Advertiser.

The country papers of Alabma. especially those published in the smaller towns, labor under many disadvantages to which their predecessors of forty or fifty years ago were not subject. Then there was usually but one paper to the county, and frequently two or three counties adjoining each other had but one for all of them. A paper in a county town remote from any city, had the advantage of all the legal advertising, and usually did all the job work of the surrounding territory. Subscription prices were double what they are now, and the papers generally fixed their own prices for job work.

There was another important advantage possessed by the country weeklies. Railroads were few, and only a comparatively small proportion of the people could indulge in the luxury of the dailies, but now all this is changed. Almost every county site in Alabama has a daily mail, and in most of them the people can get the daily papers on the day of publication. This is good for the dailies, but detrimental to the weeklies. Added to this, most of the counties have from two to half a dozen papers, so that they all have to struggle to live.

Any cause which militates against the country press is to be deplored. They have a place and a mission which cannot be supplied by any other agency, and we hold that it is the bounden duty of every community to patronize and sustain the county newspapers. Outside the large cities and railroad towns, the people have few opportunities of reading the dailies, and to them the weekly published in their own county ought to be a necessity, and they ought to help the editors and publishers to get out such a sheet as would be both a credit to the community and a welcome visitor to the citizens.

To the country press the people must look for all the personal and local news of the neighborhood. It is a record of all the events of rural life. It keeps them informed of the marriages and deaths of their neighbors and friends, and each week should bring to them such an epitome of the out side world as they can get in no other way. In proportion as the people patronize it and help the editor, he can make it useful, interesting and invaluable. We hold it to be the first duty of every citizen of the county to take his home paper and pay for it. If he is able and care to do so, let him take as many outside papers as he wishes, but his county journal should be first.

THE FAMINE IN INDIA.

That famine still stalks abroad in India, despite the falling of rain, is vouched for by all travelers returning from the stricken land. Help is still needed, and immediate help at that. Relief committees all over the country are increasing, rather than decreasing, their efforts to collect money for the starving millions. The principal agency for the receiving and distributing of money for the sufferers, the Christian Herald, of New York, is in receipt of some $3,000 a day and is forwarding the cash as fast as it is received. At the Bible House, the office of the paper, a large force is employed to open and sort the huge mail that comes addressed to the India Famine Relief Work. Every remittance is promptly acknowledged in print. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage, the editor, is in Europe addressing great audiences in behalf of the relief fund. In this country from all sources probably $1,000,000 has already been collected and forwarded to the committees who distribute the money in India. Much more money is needed to save the breadless ones from death and to take care of the half million helpless orphans left by parents who have already perished.

WOMEN SHOULD HEED.

That consumption is gaining a foothold in this country, no one can deny and the physicians now class the disease among that are contagious, and order rigid instructions in using disinfectants in the case of consumptive patients. The discarding of long dresses on the streets by the women of Ohio, has been recommended by the State board of health, and we trust the startling statement made by the board will be heeded and their recommendation of short skirts for street wear be adopted by sensible and intelligent women. The specialist in consumption stated that upon examination of 100 trained dresses worn on the street, each one was found infected with consumption germs. Think of how these germs were procured, i. e.; by wiping up the spittal of diseased lungs from the pavements and adopt the sanitary skirt for the promenade. The regulation pedestrian skirt is 2 inches clear from the ground, the rainy skirt 4 inches and the athletic skirt 6 inches. The length can adjusted to suit the taste and figure of the wearer, yet protect them from carrying infectious disease germs to their homes. The question of health is of the first importance, and we trust our American women will have the independence to adopt the pedestrian skirt for travel and street wear for conscience sake.—Ohio Press

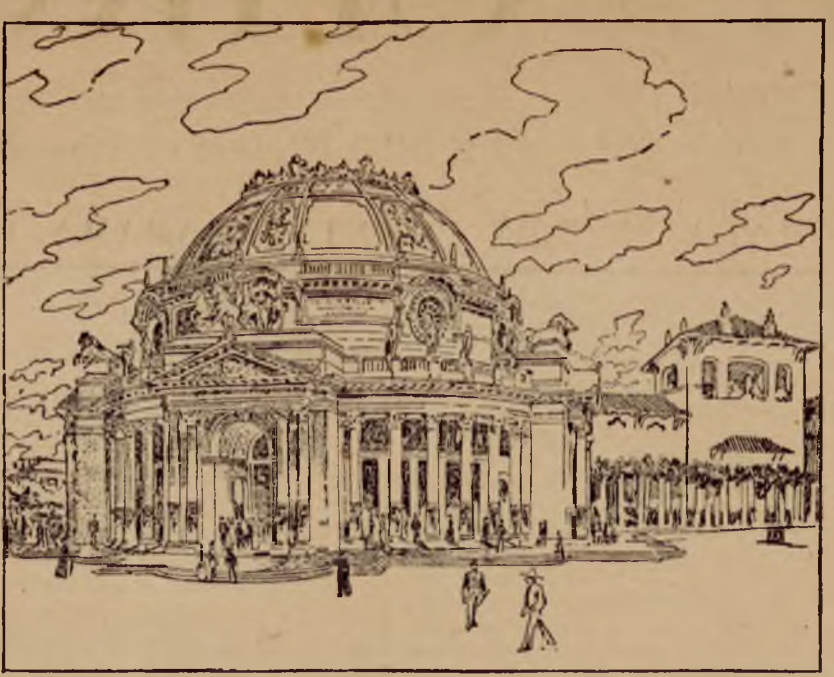
Farmers should not worry about the square bale vs round bale fight, nor about the nondescript bale vs the standard bale. Let the press-makers and the bale-makers fight it out. Ultimately the fittest will survive, and that is what the cotton grower wants. The farmers want their cotton to go as directly as possible from the farm to the factory, passing through as few hands as possible thus curtailing expense of marketing, which the producer always pays.—Exchange.

ETHNOLOGY BUILDING, PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

One of the handsome structures at the great Pan-American Exposition, which is to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, will be the Ethnology building. It will contain an exhibit of unusual interest to all Americans. Ethnology is the science which treats of the division of mankind into races, their origin, distribution and relations and the peculiarities which characterize them. At Buffalo the Ethnology building will be a veritable mine of information concerning the countries of North and South America. This will be peculiarly appropriate for the reason that the Exposition is a Pan-American, or All-American, event, and everything of interest concerning the various nations inhabiting the new world discovered by Columbus will be represented by an interesting exhibit in Buffalo when the Exposition's gates open on May 1, 1901. Strange to relate, the most interesting exhibits concerning several countries in South America are already in this country. Peru, for example, will send many interesting exhibits to the Pan-American Exposition and will use her influence to have exhibited in her section the remarkable collection of Peruvian antiquities now owned by various American museums.

CHINESE CIVILIZATION: THE IDEAL AND THE ACTUAL.

From The Forum.

Any information, especially at first hand, concerning the strange people on whom the eyes of the world are now fixed is doubly acceptable. Mr. Sheffield should be able to give valuable testimony, since he has been president of the North China College.

He details the reasons for Chinese stagnation, found chiefly in their peculiar religious beliefs. They worship heaven, earth and ancestors; they reverence the memory of the sages, and their whole system of education, for either ordinary or official life, consists in the memorizing of the Thirteen Scriptures of the Sages. These scriptures are the finality of wisdom, and to attempt an improvement would be rank blasphemy. If any Chinese official could be so bold as to attempt an advance beyond them, he would be stripped promptly of all honor and position which he might have attained.

The doctrines of Confucianism are admirable from an ethical point of view—"To be benevolent is to be a man," "Do not to others that which you would not that they should do to you," and many other maxims, which, if lived up to, would make the Chinese the model nation of the earth. But they manifest an almost christian capacity for worshipping and inculcating the ideal while practising the opposite.

Mr. Sheffield insists that the Chinese are not to be considered conscienceless rascals; they have well educated consciences, but they do not follow them, same as some others. To the occidental mind there is a strange shadowness about their religious ideas which seems to account in part for their inefficacy. For instance, the worship of ancestors is a perfect passion with them, and they are terrified at any disturbance of their tombs; yet they have no positive belief in a life after death.

Their worship of heaven and earth seems to be altogether impersonal and the only motive for doing right seems to be that it is the law of heaven. As here described Confucianism appears as ethical culture, pushed to the last extreme of religious futility.

But all is said. Chinese stagnation is still unexplained. The ultimate solution must, of course, be sought in the strange inertia of the racial character. Whether that can be goaded into action or not is likely to be ascertained very soon.

COTTON IN THE SOUTH.

The Boston Globe notes that the South is manufacturing most of the coarser cotton goods, while New England mills are gradually coming to make the finer grades, and says climatic conditions are responsible.

Now those New England fellows have seen the South take away their trade in coarser goods, and have been hunting for some reason other than the true one, and the "climatic" dodge is just as good as any.

The true reason is that the South has been manufacturing coarser goods as a rule, and as New England could not compete with the advantages in price of raw material and cheap labor, in favor of the South, they were compelled to cease manufacturing coarse goods.

The same will be true of fine grades of goods when the South goes to manufacturing that class. A skilled machinist and a fine machine can produce the same grade of goods in the South as they can in New England. With the advantages in price of raw material in favor of the Southern mill, the Eastern and Northern factories will have to retire when our folks enter extensively into the manufacture of fine cotton goods.

Fusion.—Democratic Manager—"I am glad you have arranged a deal with the populists in your locality. What terms did you make with?" Subordinate Committeeman—"Well, we gave them the platform and the candidates, and they let us call it the democratic ticket."

ELMORE COUNT.

The Returns Are Alleged to Have Been Doctored.

Wetumka, Aug. 13.—There was a good deal of excitement here Saturday during the official canvass of the county returns. It was discovered that the returns from eight or ten of the districts had been tampered with in the senatorial matter, and about three hundred or more of Reynold's votes given to Oliver. As the returns came in from the precincts Reynolds was elected in the district by about 350 majority, but a sufficient number of votes was taken from Reynolds to give Oliver about 170 majority in the three counties—Coosa, Clay and Elmore. It seems that the ballot boxes had been taken from the sheriff's office by some party and the original tallying and figures scratched trough with a pen, or rubbed out with a knife, and new figures substituted. The best people here are indignant that such a stain should be placed on Elmore county, and will use every effort to discover and punish the perpetrators of the deed. Sheriff McCoy, it is understood, will, himself, offer a reward for their capture and conviction. A prominent black belt politician remarked that it was the worst bungle he ever saw. Reynolds will contest, it is said.

The New York World Almanac gives the population of China as over 400,000,000 and of the world as less than 1,500,000,000. It will therefore be seen that it is as unwise as it is unjust to seek to dismember the Chinese Empire, for to keep in subjection one quarter (to be exact, 27 per cent) of the population of the world would prove a stupendous task. The better course is to stop grabbing her territory, insist upon a strong government and hold it to a strict accountability

Colonel Johnston has something to say to Confederate veterans in another column in reference to a card appearing in last week's Advocate over the signature of B. W. Brand. We can not believe that Mr. Brand would intentionally do any thing to bring into disrepute the reunion, but his card has had that effect to a certain extent. Politics is not wanted at such gatherings, and the man going there to air his political opinions had best stay at home.

C. C. DuBose, late editor of The Chronicle, left yesterday for New Orleans, where he goes to purchase an outfit for a newspaper which he will establish at Thomasville in the near future. Mr. DuBose is one of the best newspaper men in the state, and the people of Thomasville are fortunate in having him locate among them. He will give them a first class, up-to-date newspaper, which will be an important factor in building up their town. The Chronicle wishes him success in his new field of labor.

A citizen of Lexington, Mo., J. T. Greene by name, claims some degree of fame by reason of the fact that on a postal card 3x5½ inches in extent he has written 14,685 words, consisting of this mixture: declaration of independence, 1,309; constitution of the United States, with preamble and amendments, 5,800; the articles of confederation of the original states, 3,460: the Lord's prayer, 67; the One Hundred and Nineteenth Psalm, 2,435; 145 lines of Longfellow's Evangeline, 1,614.

Any person who sells, barters, exchanges or gives to any minor any cigarettes or cigarette tobacco, or cigarette paper, or any substitute for them, must, on conviction, be fined not less than $10 nor more than $50 and may also be imprisoned in the county jail, or sentenced to hard labor for the county for not more than thirty days; and justices of the peace and notaries public with the powers of justices of the peace have jurisdiction of such offence concurrent with that of county court.—Sec. 5356 Criminal Code of Ala. Vol. II.

Many of our people are land poor, some of them paying taxes on three hundred acres while not cultivating fifty. This is wrong. To keep up roads and fences, flood gates and washouts, taxes and interest on property which brings in nothing is a drain on the good land which does it an injustice and makes farming unprofitable. Unload at any price, good reader, and see what a difference it will make in a few years.—Exchange.

Pink Tea Party.

The most enjoyable event of the season and the most brilliant affair had in many a day was a Pink Tea Party given by that most charming young hostess, Miss Edna Nelson, in honor of her friends, Misses Moore and Howard, on Thursday evening last. Quite a number of young people were invited, and most all responded. Shelby was represented by Messrs. Carter, Smith, Robinson and Owen.

All chatted merrily and had a jolly good time until about 10:30, when the guests were invited to the dining room, where they were seated at the table, which was artistically decorated, and then were royally served to quite a number of dainties, too numerous to mention, but we stop to say they were all pink. Table was decorated in pink, pink cake, pink ice cream. While refreshments were being served each guest was given a card on which was a quotation which were read in rotation after the party had fared sumptuously of the many nice things before them. The reading of the quotations were very interesting, and some quite laughable.

Music was next on the programme. Mr. Henry Walthall entertained the party with several nice solos, and Miss Moore likewise gave them two beautiful, sweet songs. All of our people know Mr. Walthall's fine voice, but Miss Moore has a fine voice too—soft, sweet, cultivated and charming.

At the wee sma' hour all bade good-night to Miss Nelson, after expressing their appreciation of the very pleasant evening. The occasion will linger long in the minds of those who were so fortunate as to be present.

A Lot More Experience.

From The Selma Times.

And now it is said that the woman, Jewet, of the white skin, convoyed by a bodyguard of six armed stalwart black skins will leave Boston in a few days for a tour through the South for the purpose of rousing the negro to a realizing sense of his wrongs. That bodyguard will, no doubt, have a lot more of experience at the expiration of their tour than they commenced it with.

Says the Rome Tribune: Here is the imperialist's toast to the United States: "Here is to the United States, bounded on the north by the aurora borealis, on the south by the possessions of the equinoxes, on the east by primeval chaos, and on the west by the day of judgment."

A little girl aged nine called her father to her bedside the other evening. "Papa," said the little diplomat, "I want ty ask your advice." "Well, my dear, what is it about?" "What do you think it will be best to give me for a birthday present?"

Gladys—What are "the silent watches of the night," Ethel? Ethel—I don't know, unless it's those they have forgotten to wind up.

Willie—Mamma, what does "blood" relations mean? Mamma—It means near relations. Willie. Willie (after a thoughtful pause)—Then, mamma, you and papa must be the bloodiest relations I've got.

Mother—What is the matter, my dear? Why are you crying? Harry (between sobs)—I left my m'lasses candy on the chair, and the deacon's a sitting on it!

Harpersville.

Cotton is opening.

Our farmers are pulling fodder.

The fair sex are canning fruit.

The watermelon crop is very sorry.

The two Misses Wood, of East Lake, have been visiting their aunt, Mrs. Dr. Nelson.

Tom Adkinson was visiting his parents in Georgia last week and this.

Jake has been on the sick list for the past three or four weeks, and this accounts fur his non appearance.

R. M. Borum has bought three new gins and all necessary outfits and will be prepared to gin all cotton brought him this season.

Somebody went into Colonel Kidd's watermelon's one night last week and took some of his best melons, and I'll bet two bits to a ginger cake that it was a republican.

Mr. Liles, of Birmingham, has bought an interest in the Borum mill and gin and has moved into the Key house on Broad street.

E. V. Caldwell and company went out on a camp hunt last week, and did actually catch one little, puny, motherless fox.

The people at Vincent have just had two big meetings, and that town is stirred up religiously as it never was before. The Baptists received twenty members and the Methodists thirteen. We hope that the good work will continue and spread from town to town and that much and lasting good may be done throughout the whole country.

The third quarterly meeting of this circuit will be held here on Saturday before the fourth Sunday in this month, and also Sunday, and the meeting will be protracted.

The 67th session of the Coosa River Baptist Association will be held at Alpine on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday before the fourth Sunday in this month. Messrs. E. V. Caldwell, R. B. Posey, M. W. Borum and A. N. Waldrop are delegates from the church here.

H. C. Lyle and family have moved from Birmingham to our place. Mr. Lyle will superintend the mill and gin. He is a thorough machinist and we bespeak for him success.

Success to The Chronicle under its new management.

Vincent Locals.

Bro. Bently carried on a protracted meeting at the Baptist church with the assistance of Bro. Upshaw, the evangelist. Large crowds filled the church every service and were magnetized by Bro. Upshaw's eloquent sermons. We hope he has done lasting good in our community. They had about twenty accessions to the church. Bro. Burns, the Methodist minister, then took up the services and carried it on for several days with the result of twelve members.

Misses Loulie Phillips and Nettie Peters, of Sylacauga, have been over attending the meetings.

Miss Nina Wats and Tommie Elliott, of Easonville, are visiting in our town.

Mrs. John Hightower, of Sylacauga, is visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Chandler.

Superintendent Williams has three children just recovering from slow fever, and we learn today that another one is taking it. The family have our sympathy, and we hope the little fellow will soon be well.

Rev. B. A. Kidd has the third case of fever in his home. His wife is now very ill, but we hope for her a speedy recovery.

News reached our place Sunday that Jud Wilder had lost a daughter with fever. The bereaved family have our entire sympathy.

Robert Taylor is still very low and little hopes for his recovery. He says he is ready and waiting for the happy exchange.

J. T. McGraw visited our town Sunday, accompanied by his little son, Solon.

Miss Nallie Samuel, of Grand Cane, La., is visiting her parents and relatives at this place. She will return to her home in Louisiana soon, where she has a position in a school. If she would only listen to pleadings she could have a "school of one" in Alabama, so a certain young man says.

Dr. W. A. Brown, of Juainita, has made his second visit to our town. There must be some attractions here, for he says he dearly loves Rosebuds.

Bob Kidd is still very tired, but thinks he will recover—that is, if a certain young lady will speak tender words of sympathy to him.

W. H. Kidd and wife have returned from a visit to Columbiana.

Jim Johnson and family are all down with fever, and also Walter Bell and wife.

Small boy—Yes'm; but me mother makes me wear it. I'll take it off though, if you'll promise not to say nothing to her about it.—Leslie's Weekly.

Sea Yachts.

Yacht building has become an industry of rapidly growing importance in St. Louis and other large cities of the central west, where the element of cheapness in lumber, other things being equal, makes it possible to turn out substantial boats at figures which would be ruinous to an eastern yacht builder. Frederick Wood of Providence, owner of the Arrow, has ordered a forty-six-footer from a St. Louis builder, which will be shipped east in sections and finished at Pawtuxet by Capt. H. A. Randall. The frame will be built in the St. Louis shop, then taken apart and the sections so marked that there will be little difficulty in putting the boat together upon its arrival at the eastern shipyard. It is said that the saving in expense is so great that other Providence yachtsmen will follow Mr. Wood's example.

A QUEER REVENGE.

HOW MILLIONAIRES GET EVEN WHEN OFFENDED.

Two Instances Where They Spent Fortunes to Wipe Out Real or Fancied Wrongs—The Case of Citizen Train—Built a Hotel and Ran Other Out.

As a general rule it doesn't pay to have trouble with millionaires. This is brought to mind by the relations between Millionaire W. S. Stratton and Maxey Tabor in Denver. Mr. Stratton is the gentleman who discovered the Independence mind at Victor, Col., and made a "boom" mining camp out of the place. Since then his men have been taking silver and gold and other dross out of the hole in the ground at a rate of speed which makes the average tenderfoot dizzy, and most of it has been credited to the account of Mr. Stratton in various banks. He also dug into the good things at Cripple Creek to the enlargement of his fortune, and, taking everything into consideration, it is generally conceded that Mr. Stratton is fixed to keep a whole pack of wolves away from the door should occasion arise.

Maxey Tabor, son of H. A. W. Tabor, ex-senator from Colorado, builder of the Tabor opera house, and original "boomer" of Denver, is manager of the Brown Palace hotel. Last winter Stratton was stopping at the hotel. There chanced to be a vaudeville queen in town at the same time, who was considered quite the swellest, daintiest and most alluring vaudeville queen that had crossed the plains for some moons. And to her, the story runs, Mr. Stratton extended the courtesies and gallantries which a man of his wealth and position was eminently fitted to exercise. There were little lunches on afternoons when the matinee did not claim the actress and little suppers after the performance. Manager Tabor became dispeased and notified the actress that her absence would be agreeable. Mr. Stratton became indignant, but bided his time. A short time ago he carelessly asked the owners of the Brown Palace what they considered the property worth. They lit a fresh cigar and murmured that a million and a half would take the whole thing just as it stood. Mr. Stratton yawned and observed that he would take it. And now they do say that Manager Tabor will be out of a job just as soon as the new owner moves into the second floor front suite.

Along in 1867 or thereabouts, when the Union Pacific road wandered over the prairie and discovered Omaha, there was something of a rush to the place and the hotel which had held its own for some years as a half-way house for the trains of prairie schooners was a bit crowded. Among those who flocked to Omaha to see what was doing was Citizen George Francis Train, then in the possession of scads of money. One morning at the hotel the biscuits were cold or the coffee gave grounds for complaint—something of the kind happened and led to an argument with the waiter on the part of Citizen Train. The manager of the hotel was called and as he had a monopoly in the hotel line he was just a bit ungracious, or at least it so appeared to the mind of Mr. Train.

"All right," said the citizen, "you're the boss just now. But I'll build a hotel here within the next 60 days and you'll come around and ask me for a job before I get through." Thus said Citizen Train and more to the same effect.

The landlord of the existing hotel smiled blandly and in an idle way turned to the head clerk and raised the rates. Then he went away.

In a few days an army of men were at work under Mr. Train's orders building the hotel and in 60 days it was completed. He didn't go into the thing to make money—merely to get even, and he didn't care for expense. Therefore he imported chefs from New York and edibles from every other old place and he cut the rates away down and put up the grandest service west of Chicago for prices that were a joke. And everyone came over to Train's hotel and things fell out almost as the citizen had predicted. Which taught the other hotel man a few new tricks.

THE MYSTERIOUS CHINESE.

No Occidental Can Understand the Workings of the Yellow Brain.

The Century Company have got out, "China, the Long-Lived Empire," by Eliza R. Scidmore. A couple of citations from the first chapter will show the author's point of view:

No Occidental ever saw within or understood the working of the yellow brain, which starts from and arrives at a different point by reverse and inverse processes we can neither follow nor comprehend. No one knows, or ever will really know the Chinese—the heart, and soul, and springs of thought of the most incomprehensible, unfathomable, inscrutable contradictory, logical, and illogical people on earth. Of all Orientals, no race is so alien. Not a memory nor a custom, not a tradition nor an idea, not a rootword nor a symbol of any kind associates our past with their past. There is little sympathy, no kinship nor common feeling, and never affection possible between the Anglo-Saxon and the Chinese. Nothing in Chinese character or traits appeals warmly to our hearts or imagination, nothing touches; and of all the people of earth they most entirely lack "soul," charm, magnetism, attractiveness. We may yield them an intellectual admiration on some grounds, but no warmer pulse beats for them. There are chiefly points of contradiction between them and ourselves.

I gave up the conundrum of this people, abjured "that oilskin mystery, the Chinaman," more devoutly each day of six visits to China, and on the seventh visit the questions were that many times the more baffling. One can both agree and disagree with the four-day tourist, who sums up the Chinese convincingly, with brutal, practical, skeptical common sense, and can echo his irreverent and wholesale condemnation and contempt when he has once seen the land and the revolting conditions in which the people live. One agrees and disagrees, too, with the sinologues, who are usually sinophiles, that the Chinese are the one great race and fine flower of all Asia, a superior people the world's greatest and earliest teachers, its future leaders and rulers, the chosen people; China a vast reserve reservoir of humanity to repeople and revive decadent, dying Europe; the Chinese destined to underlive, override, and outdo all the pale races; the whole hope of humanity bound up in this yellow people.

Everything seems dead, dying, ruined, or going to decay in this greatest empire of one race and people. There seems no living spring nor beating heart in the inert mass. Religion, morality, literature, the arts, and finer industries are all at least comatose. Their three great religoins are dead; two systems of ignoble superstitions live. Literature is a fossil thing, all hollow form and artifice, the empty shell of dead conventions. The arts have died, the genius of the race has fled. They have lost the powers they once commanded, and have acquired no new ones. There is little joy, lightheartedness, or laughter in the race, and their greatest virtue, filial piety, is demoralized, degraded by the soulless craven cult of ancestor-worship. China in its present stage, with the desperate problems it presents, is a melancholy and depressing place, intensely interesting, full of "questions," but not enjoyable in enjoyment's literal sense.

Bait for Bachelors.

It is sometimes said that all women not incurably deformed, can marry, if they like, but this is certainly not the case in England, for the very good reason that there are not enough men to go round. So long as there are 300,000 more women in this country than men there must be old maids, or, to speak more politely, "unappropriated blessings." Many women can not marry, but almost every man can. He may say that he could not have afforded the luxury of marriage, but perhaps he was able to afford other luxuries which to say the least, were less worthy. No saying is truer than that it sometimes costs less to keep two children than one vice. Many bachelors absurdly overestimate the expense of matrimony, and think that all women are ruinously extravagant. That this is so I learn from a conversation that was lately overheard in a ballroom. A lady of not very retiring disposition, when dancing with a middle-aged bachelor, asked him straight out: "Why don't you marry; can't you afford to keep a wife?" "My innocent young thing," was his reply, "I can afford to support a half dozen wives, but I can't pay the milliner's bills of one." This man expressed the fear that makes old bachelors of many, and if there are women who wish to catch the poor timorous things the best bait they can use nowadays is simplicity in dress and taste generally.—London Globe.

Exploit of a Fire Laddie.

A remarkable exhibition of nerve was given the other day by a fireman on his way to answer a fire alarm. He was sitting calmly on the hose cart, which was just about to turn into Broad street from Walnut, when a spirited horse, attached to a stylish Gladstone wagon, started to dash away on a mad rush down Broad street.

There was no restraining hand near at the time, and for a moment the situation took on a very serious look. Just as the horse got well under way and was straightening out for a mad dash the fireman leaped from the hose cart and ran rapidly toward the frightened steed. He made two or three wild clutches for the bridle, but missed each time. Then the horse was running at a frightful rate of speed, and the fireman held on to the shaft and sprinted alongside. Slowly he worked his way up to the head of the wild animal, and just as a collision was imminent with an automobile in front of the Bellevue the plucky fireman gained the ascendancy and brought the would-be runaway to a sudden standstill.

It was an exciting episode, and while the startled spectators were cheering the fireman darted away in full chase after the hose cart he had abandoned.—New York Mail and Express.

LAFAYETTE COLLEGE.

Preliminary Arrangements Now Being Made for the Opening Session.

La Fayette College has been recently enlarged in its scope and facilities, and the board and community are hoping for great advancement thereby. Dr. E. R. Eldridge is now upon the ground arranging the preliminaries to the session's opening on September 25 next. We clip the following from one of our leading state papers:

LaFayette (Ala.) College has Scholastic, Professional, Didactic, Business, Technical, Industrial, Agricultural, Art and Music courses, and is full college in rank, covering nine years' work in Model School, four in Regular College classes, and two in Post Graduate courses, and all instruction is eminently practical, and all "Practice Teaching," from junior to second year post senior, and all work in shop or field will be paid for on a graduated scale at reasonable rates to the great advantage of students on such practical training. The able faculty above 20 in number.

The usual college privileges afforded every way, and proper degrees and diplomas will be awarded on graduation.

Tuition and boarding are much lower here than in schools of like grade, superior advantages afforded. The location is near the mountain foot and is healthful and social, and religious privileges are of the very best.

An amusing case of the average Englishman's passion for wearing an alphabetical tag to his name has just cropped out at a seaside town. Among the musicians of England no professional alphabetical tag is more prized than F. R. C. O., which means Fellow of the Royal College of Organists, and it is only secured by passing what is admitted to be a very severe examination. The seaside organist who was fond of sporting the F. R. C. O. on his cards was remonstrated with, but declined to drop the tag, and explained that in his case it meant Fully Recognized Church Organist.

CARLYLE ON WAR.

The Famous English Writer Condemned It in an Unique Way.

Thomas Carlyle, the famous English writer, once scathingly condemned war. The following is the argument he puts into the mouth of one of his characters in his Sartor Resartus: "What, speaking in unofficial language, is the purport and upshot of war? To my knowledge there dwell and toil in the British village of Drumdredge, usually some 500 souls. From these, by certain 'Natural Enemies' of the French, there are successively selected during the French war, say thirty able-bodied men. Drumdredge at her own expense, has suckled and nursed them; she has, not without difficulty and sorrow, fed them up to manhood, and even trained them in crafts, so that one can weave, another build, another hammer, and the weakest can stand under thirty stone avoirdupois. Nevertheless, amid much weeping and swearing, they are selected; all dressed in red; and shipped away at the public charges, some 2,000 miles, or say only to the south of Spain; and there fed till wanted. And now to the same spot, in the south of Spain, are thirty similar French artisans from a French Drumdredge, in like manner wending; till at length, after infinite effort, the two parties come into actual juxtaposition, and Thirty stand fronting Thirty, each with a gun in his hand. Straightway the word 'Fire!' is given; and they blow the souls out of one another; and in place of sixty useful brick craftsmen, the world has sixty dead carcasses, which it must bury and anew shed tears for. Had these men any quarrel? Busy as the devil is, not the smallest! They lived wide enough apart, were the entirest strangers; nay, in so wide a universe, there was even, unconsciously, by commerce, some mutual helpfulness between them. How then? Simpleton! Their governors had fallen out, and instead of shooting one another, had the cunning to make these poor blockheads shoot. Alas, so it is in Deutschland, and hitherto in all other lands; still as of old. 'What deviltry soever Kings do, the Greeks must pay the piper.'"

CURRENT NEWS IN ALABAMA

Topics of General Interest Gathered From All Sections of the State.

DECISION AGAINST LITTLE IN TRUSTEE CASE

Encampment of the Third Alabama Will Go to Huntsville—Birmingham's Growth—Quarantine Established.

Alabama Has Quarantined.

Governor Johnston, having received authentic information of the existence of yellow fever in Tampa, Fla., has issued a quarantine proclamation against that place, covering persons, personal baggage and household furniture.

Iron Ore Discovered Near Eufaula.

William Bush, a well known farmer who resides eighteen miles south of Eufaula, sent some specimens of fine iron ore to a friend at Eufaula which he claims exists in very large quantities on his plantation. Mr. Bush is sure that he has 100 acres that is covered with it to a depth of twenty-five feet. All who have seen the specimen think it is as good as any of the North Alabama mines.

Anti-Commissary Law Repealed.

The Anniston city council has repealed the anti-commissary ordinance passed several weeks ago. The ordinance repealed assessed a tax of $2,500 on commissaries, and was objected to by the Southern Car and Foundry company. The ordinance occasioned a good deal of discussion, but a compromise satisfactory to both sides was effected and the repeal of the ordinance followed.

Little-Foster Case Decided.

Judge Sprott has rendered his decision in the university trustee case. Dr. Little's petition was refused.

The judge holds: First, that there was a vacancy. Second, that the governor had the right to fill the vacancy. The opinion was lengthy, covering ten tywewritten pages.

Attorney Daniel Collier said that he didn't know whether his client will appeal or not, but that he will advise him to do so.

Encampment of Third Alabama.

It now looks very much as though the encampment of the Third Alabama regiment would go to Huntsville. At the meeting held in the armory of Company K in Birmingham it was decided to hold the encampment beginning August 22 and it was further decided that either Huntsville or Birmingham would be the place. The majority of those present appeared to favor Huntsville. Efforts are now being made by Huntsville to secure it and the chances seem to be in its favor.

Birmingham's Growth.

The amount of the building permits issued during the month of July in Birmingham shows big gains over the previous month and over the number issued during the same month last year. There were issued fifty-seven permits calling for work amounting to $124,298. This does not account for the entire work, but for the construction alone, and does not include finishing. It is very likely that the total amount of building to be done under these permits will amount to more than $150,000.

Pensions For Veterans.

Warrants from the state auditor's office were sent out a few days ago to all of the county pension examiners for their services as such except the counties of Lamar, Morgan, St. Clair and Sumpter, and they have not sent in their accounts for services. The sum of $244.157,29 is the amount now in the treasurer's office for distribution among the veterans who have been allowed pensions by the examiners. This amount is to be divided between 11,253 pensioners, an increase over last year of over 2,000. The increase in the amount is more than double, but it is not known just what each pensioner will receive. The fund will be distributed in October. The work of prorating cannot begin before the 1st of September.

Diptheria in Montgomery.

Diptheria is prevailing in Montgomery to an alarming extent, and many families have left the town in order to save the children from the terrible disease. It has become epidemic and not confined to any particular locality. The city council has called a meeting to take action in the matter and will no doubt have a thorough cleaning up of the town.

Will Hold Cattle Show.

The second meeting of the Chambers County Farmers' and Breeders' Association met in the court house at Lafayette and decided to hold a cattle show on October 31 and November 1. A committee was appointed to canvass the town and secure contributions for prizes. Another was appointed to arrange a premium list for the fair. The prospects for a fine fair are good. The farmers are taking interest in this new movement and great things are expected to result from a unity of action.

Young Woman Killed.

Miss Minnie Langford, a young woman just 21 years of age, met with a horrible death at Greenville. She was in a buggy with J. H. Neill, an old gentleman who had gotten out of the buggy to open a gate which was across the road. Just as he opened the gate the horse became frightened and ran away. He had gone about two hundred yards when the wheel struck a stump with such force as to throw Miss Langford to the ground. She struck on her head and her skull was fractured. She lived only two hours.

Reduction in Miner's Wages.

Announcement was made Saturday that there will be a reduction of 2½ cents per ton in the wages paid the miners in the Birmingham district. The announcement was the result of an examination of the sales book of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railrood company made by a committee of miners, as is customary each month. It was ascertained that during the month of July the price of iron sold was less than $11 per ton on the cars at the furnace. According to the contract held by the miners with the operators wages are based on the selling prices of pig iron.

Hon. Luke Pryor Dead.

Hon. Luke Pryor, one of the best known and most respected of Alabamians, died at his home at Athens Sunday evening after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Pryor was born in Limestone county in 1819, the year of the admission of Alabama as a state. He never aspired to political office, notwithstanding which he was twice honored by the people of the state with the best offices in their gift. When the late lamented Governor George S. Houston died a vacancy in the United States senate was thereby caused, and the governor of the state appointed Mr. Pryor to this vacancy. At the expiration of the term he was not a candidate for the re-election. In 1882 he was elected a member of congress from the Eighth district.

Child's Horrible Death.

An awful effect of the carelessness of leaving deadly drugs around the house had another demonstration in the Selma locality a few days ago, when Ruth, the 1 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Moore, of Harrells, met death in a terrible manner. The child and the nurse were in the bedroom playing on the floor. The nurse had her attention detracted for a few minutes, when the little one picked up a bottle of carbolic acid which was sitting under the edge of the bed, and, turning it up, attempted to drink of the deadly drug. The screams of the child brought assistance, but the strong acid had spilled all down the face and neck and on the body, and was burning the flesh in a terrible manner. A few hours afterwards death relieved the little sufferer.

Seeking Cotton Mill Industries.

Capt. P. Sid Jones, district passenger agent and immigration agent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, has returned from a trip through Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York states and reports that in a few days he will have representatives of two cotton mills in the states named down here investigating sites for the removal of their plants to this state. He also states that representatives of proposed colonists will be here shortly making investigation for the location of a good colony. Mr. Jones has hopes of locating at least two of the northern cotton mills and establishing another good colony along the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

STATE BREVITIES.

Work on the Alabama and Florida railroad is progressing rapidly. Another grader and about fifty teams have been put to work recently on the new road running to Geneva.

Colonel R. D. du Mont, commanding the first infantry, has advised the adjutant general that he has rented the Alba pasture, near Mobile, as a camp site for his regiment.

DETACHMENT WIPED OUT.

Every Man in It Killed, Wounded or Missing.

The serious check which the American troops have met in the Philippines during the past two months is recorded in a dispatch received Sunday from General MacArthur. It is assumed that the little American command which suffered so severely was completely trapped and was obliged to surrender or be exterminated. The message is as follows:

"Manila. — Anjutant-General, Washington: First Lieutenant Alstatter, corps of engineers United States army, with escort of fifteen men, were attacked by a force between De Mayoume (Luzon) and San Isidro (Luzon) by armed band insurgents, 350 strong. Entire party killed, wounded or captured.

"Killed—Troop H, Fourth cavalry, Richard Dickler. Wounded, Charles M. Newman, wounded in arm serious; Walter Drewer, wounded in arm serious. Company A, battalion of engineers, Edward Long, wounded in abdomen, serious. Captured, Lieut Alstatter, Company A, battalion of engineers; Henry T. Crenshaw, troop H, Fourth cavalry; Arthur Bates, Charles H. Fushinger, Ed Crogger, George Kaith, W. J. Gerrud, John Coughlin, Robert F. Taylor, Jos. T. Mealey.

"Wounded sent to San Isadore. Message from Lacunra Marimo announcing prisoners will be well treated."

YELLOW FEVER AT TAMPA.

The Disease Claims One Victim There and Two Others Are Ill.

Dr. L. W. Weedon, agent of the Florida state board of health, issued a public statement Friday to the effect that there has been one death at Tampa from yellow fever and that there are two cases known at present. The death was that of George Sonnenberg, a German. He was a sailor and had not been outside of the city for years.

The only theory possible is that he contracted the disease through cleaning clothes from some infected point. Strenuous efforts are being made to locate the source of the infection.

FOUR MEN KILLED

As the Result of a Feud in a Missouri Town.

Four men killed and one fatally wounded is the outcome of a shooting affray between William Dooley and his four sons on one side and the four Harris brothers on the other, as the result of a feud at Doerun, one of the mining towns of St. Francis county, Mo. William Dooley, Wess Harris, James Harris and John Dooley are the names of the killed, and Frank Harris was fatally wounded. A young girl, Mary Littrell, was struck just above the ankle with a rifle ball.

Florida Postoffice Attacked.

Postoffice Inspector Williams, of Chattanooga, received a telegram from one of the field inspectors stationed in Florida stating that on Friday night the postoffice at Lulat was attacked by a mob, the members of which broke down the doors, smashed the windows, destroyed part of the interior, and threatened to kill the postmaster. The telegram states farther that the postmaster became frightened, fled from the scene.

Killed Over the Election.

Near Decherd, Tenn., Will Elder shot and killed James Armstrong, at Elk river, as the result of a quarrel over the election. Both were well-to-do citizens of the place. Elder surrendered to the authorities.

Explosion Causes a Death.

The boiler of the Paris Milling company's plant, at Paris, Tenn., exploded Friday. The building was wrecked, one person killed and several injured, five seriously. Ed Haynes was killed. Injured: W. C. Humphreys, manager, rib and ankle broken; Ben Nanny, arm broken; Jim Bruce, R. A. Nash, Rich Haynes, engineer. A defect in the boiler is supposed to have caused the explosion. The engineer's son, Ed Haynes, was near the boiler and was scalded to death. The property loss is $7,500, covered by insurance.

Tragedy in Tennessee.

News of a terrible tragedy in Hancock county, Tennessee, over the result of the election reached Knoxville Saturday. It occurred in the Sixteenth district, on Sycamore creek, in the wildest portion of the county. John Lamb, a deputy sheriff and Tillmra Collins, a farmer, were both killed. Wiley Brewer, a log man, was mortally wounded. Whit ten Gibson, a farmer, was shot.

BRYAN TO THE ANTIS.

PUTS THE ANTI-IMPERIALISTS SQUARELY IN THE VOTE.

Shows That They Regard the Money Question as the Paramount Issue While They Pretend to Be Opposed to Militarism.

"Several gold standard 'opponents' of imperialism have already announced their intention to support the Democratic ticket," he replied, "although the anti-imperialistic league has not acted officially. In such a matter each individual is governed by his own views as to the relative importance of the issues.

"The Democratic platform declares the question of imperialism to be the paramount issue. If any opponent of imperialism refuses to support the Democratic ticket because of the silver plank IT MUST BE BECAUSE HE CONSIDERS THE MONEY QUESTION MORE IMPORTANT THAN IMPERIALISM, that is, he prefers a gold standard empire to a bimetallic republic.

"When the test comes, I believe that those who adhere to the doctrine that governments derive their just powers, not from superior forces, but from the consent of the governed, will support our ticket, even though they do not indorse the silver plank.

"A LARGE MAJORITY OF THE DEMOCRATS BELIEVE THAT RESTORATION OF BIMETALLISM WOULD PROVE A BLESSING, but the anti-imperialists who dispute this will admit that any evils that might arise from bimetallism would be corrected more easily than the evils which would follow from the deliberate indorsement of militarism and imperialism."—W. J. Bryan.

P. S.—Just as soon as the above letter made its appearance in the daily papers the gold bugs from Maine to California yelled that Bryan had acknowledged that 16 to 1 is not the paramount issue.

If any one can see wherein Bryan drops the money issue in the above he can't see straight. That's what's the matter with the gold bugs. They can't see straight. They are cross-eyed politically.

It should be noted that Bryan does not address his communication to the "web-footed tribe" that deserted us in 1896. They have sunken beneath the notice of the Democratic presidential candidate. He is addressing the so-called "Anti-imperialists," who are talking about putting up an anti-imperialist ticket. With a view of preventing the election of Bryan and aiding the election of McKinley.

Bryan knows that the men whom he is addressing regard the financial issue as the paramount one in this campaign. By speaking to them as above he makes them look ridiculous.

GROWTH OF AN OCTOPUS.

Thirty years ago the Standard Oil Trust had a capital of $1,000,000. Now its nominal capital is $110,000,000, and the actual value of its stock, based on market quotations and earning capacity, is over $500,000,000. It has increased its wealth over 500 times, or 50,000 per cent, in thirty years. In the same time the wealth of the nation (including Standard Oil) has not increased over 300 per cent. If the trust has increased so much more than the average, the rest of the country must have increased that much less.

And included in that remainder are scores of other trusts, some of which have accumulated wealth even more rapidly than Standard Oil. The Rockefeller combination cleared $48,000,000 last year on a nominal capitalization of $110,000,000. The Carnegie company expects to clear $42,000,000 this year on a nominal capitalization of $25,000,000. When the trusts have divided their 40, 50, 100 and 150 per cent, how much will be left for common people?

From 1882 to 1891, when the Standard Oil Trust was comparatively a small affair, its annual dividends averaged 5¼ per cent. From 1891 to 1896 they were 12 per cent. In 1896, when most of the industries of the country were in the depths of distress, and millions of men were tramping the roads vainly hunting for work, the Standard Oil dividend jumped to 31 per cent. In 1897 they were 33 per cent, in 1898 30, in 1899 33 and in 1900 48 per cent.

The defenders of the trusts sometimes say that all this means nothing—that the shares of these corporations are to be bought in the open market, and that if their workmen are thrifty and save their wages they can buy them out and own the enterprises themselves.

Let us see. A High Standard Oil official was boasting the other day that his trust was a friend of labor, because it employed 35,000 men at a minimum wage of $1.50 a day. A dollar and a half a working day is nine dollars a week, or $468 a year. Thirty-five thousand men at that rate would earn $16,380,000 a year, or almost precisely one-third of the amount distributed in dividends among Mr. John D. Rockefeller and half a dozen associates.

If we call the average daily wage $2, since $1.50 is the minimum, these 35,000 men would earn $420,000 per week, or $21,840,000 a year—considerably less than the dividends of Mr. John D. Rockefeller alone.

Now, assuming that Mr. Rockefeller and his 35,000 workmen have the same income, which is an extravagantly generous assumption for the workmen, in which side is there likely to be more ready money for investment in additional stock?

Mr. Rockefeller has one small family to support. He has no vices and no expensive habits of any kind. He does not even pay taxes when he can help it. Practically all of his income is available for reinvestment.

When a few men are compounding their incomes at the rate of 50 or 100 per cent and the masses of the people live from hand to mouth, saving nothing and lucky if they can pay their daily expenses without asking for charity, it does not take a very elaborate mathematical calculation to show that the few will soon own all the wealth of the country.

The trust system hastens this process. When business was carried on by a multitude of independent concerns there was always a chance for a bright manufacturer or merchant to make a little fortune that would give him proportionately as large a share of the national wealth as was secured by his richer competitors. But now the small merchant and manufacturer are disappearing. They are being absorbed by the trusts. The bright young man who would formerly have made a stroke of business on his own account is now the hired man of a trust. He draws a salary—a good one, perhaps, as salaries go, but not one that could ever enable him to become a rival of his employers. For every dollar he receives for the hire of his brain he enables his masters to pocket twenty. The trusts monopolize not only money but brains, and what brains formerly produced for their owners they now produce for the capitalists to whom they are leased.

This is as fatal as its twin poison of military imperialism to republican government. It is imperialism in another phase. It is the rule of the few over the many—the exploitation of the many by the few. The Declaration of Independence talks about all men being created equal. Is the man to whom John D. Rockefeller pays $1.50 a day in any material sense the equal of Mr. Rockefeller?

THE TRUST ROBBERS.

If ever there was a reasonable doubt that trusts raise prices, it ought to be removed by the evidence of the last week in May. The competition between sugar refiners came to an end, after having lasted nearly two years, and the price of refined sugar was advanced three times within a few days. It goes without saying that the charge for this advance comes from the pocket of the consumer—the workingman who buys a few pounds for his family, the child indulging in a little candy, the vast multitude of toilers whose hard earnings, expended in small sums at a time, go to form the vast fortunes of the managers of trusts.

First the large wholesale dealer has to stand the exaction; he in turn adds to the price at which he sells to the retailer, and the latter adds a cent or so to the bill of the housewife who buys sugar at his store, and, of course, the husband who works at his desk, or carries a dinner pail to the shop has to pay the additional charge; and it is by this simple process that little rivulets of money from every city and village in the land make Mississippis of wealth for the great monopolists.

It is the same with gas and ice and steel, all of which have been raised abnormally in price, or are about to be, through the combination of those controlling the product. And it should be understood right now, that, just as the American Ice company has made a disastrous blunder in raising the price of ice, so will the local manufacturers of other necessaries make a signal blunder if their combination is followed by an attempt at extortion. The people are aroused on this great issue, and those who fail to perceive that fact are blind indeed.

The "Mother of Trusts."

Three times during the past month the Sugar Trust has raised the price of sugar. The grocery stores and poor consumers have paid the advance without a murmur. They have no protection and they knew it was useless to complain. It has just been learned, however, that at the present schedule of prices foreign sugars can enter this market at a profit.

But the sugar Trust must have protection or republican principles will be violated. Foreign sugar must not be allowed to enter our markets. It would hurt Havemeyer.

Therefore, trot out the tariff, that fine old mother of trusts, and let her protecting wings hover over the head of the sugar king. If necessary let President McKinley call a special session of congress. Whatever happens to the consumer the trusts must not be neglected.—New Albany Public Press.

Caesarism.

From the Des Moines Staatz Anzeiger: Without expansion, without conquests of distant countries by force of arms, we do not need a standing army, which is the bane of every country that is compelled to maintain one, and hence the party that is opposed to expansion and imperialism deserves the support of the people of this country. That party today is the Democratic party, and, although objection may be made to its standard bearer, he is the safest of the candidates of the two leading parties. We who come from countries cursed by standing armies recognize in the course of the Republican administration the raising of the same dangers and evils of militarism and will vote to prevent Caesarism from rearing its throne upon the free soil of America.

The Democratic party favors an equal oportunity for all men. The Republican party is committed to a policy which gives the rich an advantage over the poor. If you are rich, as rich as you should and want to be, stick to the Republican party. If you are not, vote with the party that is willing to give you an even chance with the rest.

BAD FOR THE OLD MEN

UNDER OUR PRESENT INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS.

The Railroads Have No Use for Men Over Forty—Even Worse in Other Fields of Industry—Something Must Be Done for Them.

From the Nonconformist: Last week we asked you the question: What is to become of our boys under existing industrial conditions; and now we propound another interesting conundrum, What will we do with our old men under these same conditions? We clip the following from a daily paper:

"Another great railway corporation has pronounced against old men—not such very old men, either, for the inhibition extends to men over 40. The man who has reached that age may not be newly employed in any capacity. The company will not, however, discharge him if he is already in its employ. Thus much concession to old and faithful servants.

"But other corporations and firms are not so considerate. Instances are numerous and well known of wholesale discharges of old men. The employer is usually frank about it. He declares that he can get more and better work out of young men than from old men. He is in business to make money and not from philanthropic motives. Hence he purposes to get the most work for the least money whenever he can. That is the business view of it. He does not desire to mix charity with business."

At present wages and the increased cost of living very few laboring men can lay up anything for old age. For most of them there is only the poor house or the charity of friends when their powers begin to fail.

It used to be considered that the old man was good for something up to 60 or 65, and his experience would make up in part for his declining physical powers. Then the wisdom of age was considered useful in every business, but nowadays the boss furnishes all the brains and the hired men do all the work. All that is required of the latter is plenty of muscle, and when that begins to fail they must get out of the way for younger and stronger men. The army officer who has spent nine-tenths of his life in idleness and the other tenth in killing people is gracefully retired on an honorable pension when old age comes, and the man who has worked faithfully in the factory or on the railroad from boyhood to old age is discharged whenever a younger man can do more or better work, and there is no provision whatever for the maintenance of the veteran in his declining years. In his 40 years of patient labor he has earned for somebody else a hundred thousand dollars, and for himself an old age of poverty, suffering and despair. This is a question that appeals with startling force to all of us. The saddest sight we see is that of men 60 or 70 years old engaged in menial employments. Gray-haired veterans, weak and trembling, engaged in shoveling dirt and digging ditches. That grand old man, your father, who cheerfully gave the strength of his proud young manhood that you, his children, should be fed, clothed and educated, is now in his age and feebleness nothing but a hewer of wood and a drawer of water.

O, but it is a burning shame! That brave old man ought to have an honorable position in the world, with his remaining days comfortable and free from every care.

They are wiser in New Zealand than we are. In that socialistic community there is an old age pension, and when a man or woman reaches the age of 65 there is for him or her an honorable pension given by the state. There are no old men or women in the poor houses of New Zealand, nor are they dependent on their friends. The state they have served so well takes care of them when they can serve no longer. How soon will the great republic learn this lesson in humanity from that little island far across the sea? Fifty years ago we called the New Zealanders savages. They can now return the compliment.

CURRENCY AND IMPERIALISM.

Postmaster General Smith in an interview, says:

"I think the contest will settle down to virtually two issues, one of them, probably the chief one, will be the currency question. The Democratic convention has made it so. They refused to accept the verdict of four years ago."

The verdict four years ago was for "silver." More than thirteen million men voted for silver and only 132,000 voted for gold. When any man says that the American people have ever voted for the single gold standard that man is a liar. Mr. Smith thinks the other great issues will be imperialism and then he says: "That is a fiction. There can be no imperialism in a free country."

A prisoner in the jail told his attorney what the charge was for which he was arrested. The lawyer said to him, "Why, they can't put you here for that." "But they have put me here," replied the prisoner. Mr. Smith says that there can be no imperialism in a free country, but there IS imperialism in a free country, Mr. Smith. We are taxing the people of Porto Rico without their consent. We make laws for them without their being represented in the legislative body. If this isn't imperialism what is it? We wage a bloody and cruel war against the Filipinos. We have captured their cities, burned their homes, and killed multitudes of their people. If this is not imperialism what is it?

Mr. Smith thinks that the trusts will not enter into the campaign to a great extent, and he says: "To my opinion that is a business question rather than a political one and the Republican party has declared in favor of such legislation as will correct such evils as exist and control harmful combinations as clearly and as forcibly as any party can in honesty and fairness."

The people will pay little attention to that platform declaration, inasmuch as that party has had unlimited power for four years and has done nothing to the trusts except to foster them. Mr. Smith will soon find out that he is mistaken, and that the trust question will enter into the campaign sufficiently to cost Mr. McKinley a million votes. The gentleman will also find that there are many other questions at issue in the coming fight. It will require all the time and skill of Mr. Smith and the rest of the Republican spellbinders to defend the many acts of this administration which will be attacked. There will be a hundred charges against the president and his party. Every one of them will require elaborate defense and Mr. MaHanna and his hired men will be very tired before election day.

A PREDICTION.

Many newspapers are making guesses on the result of the presidential election. We are not satisfied with any of them. Therefore we have asked our war expert to withdraw his attention from the wars in Asia and Africa and to study the great American battle that will be fought in November. You know that he never makes mistakes and that his predictions can be implicitly relied on. Below is his forecast. We objected to his prediction of Delaware, but he says that the Republican row in that state makes Delaware as certain for Bryan as Texas. There are 447 votes in electoral college and it takes 224 to elect.

Bryan will get most if not all the doubtful states and stands a chance to get some of the states conceded to McKinley. Bryan will have the largest majority, both electoral and popular, ever received by an American president. File this forecast inside of the fly-leaf of your bible and take it out and look at it the next day after election.—Nonconformist.

RICHER THAN CROESUS.

Collis P. Huntington, having bought out his associates in the Southern Pacific, is one of the richest railroad men in the world, being sole owner of a system embracing ferries, terminals, river and ocean steamboat lines, and 7,600 miles of railroad, representing $350,000,000 of securities and annual gross earnings of $60,000,000.—News Items.

The entire assessment valuation of the state of Nebraska is only half as much as the property owned by one man. In wealth and power Huntington is greater than a million and a quarter of people in this state, and he is "only one of the richest railroad men in the world." There are others. The state couldn't own and manage a railroad. O no, but one man can do it and not half try. There is no more reason for allowing Huntington to own that railroad than there is for the people to make him a grant of the Mississippi river or the Atlantic ocean. How long before the people will become frightened at the encroaching power of very rich men? Just think of the mighty influence of a man who owns more property than the people of a whole state. Forty years ago you could count the millionaires in this country on the fingers of one hand and now they are so numerous that they own more than half the property of 75,000,000 of people. If present conditions continue how long before all the property will belong to a few plutocrats and the remainder of the people will be paupers?

For four years the Republicans have watched like hawks to catch Bryan tripping, and they have failed, utterly and completely. He has simply stood by his colors and made the fight for the eternal principles of Democracy, and the people are with him in the fight. He is bound to win for the people still are in favor of the American republic. They can be depended on to resist every effort to establish in its stead an empire.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR CONGRESS.

The Chronicle is authorized to announce that Hon. Gaston A. Robbins is a candidate for re-election to congress from the Fourth district of Alabama, subject to the action of the democrats in the primary election.

The Chronicle is authorized to announce Hon. B. Dudley Williams, of Calhoun county, as a candidate for representative in the lower house of congress, from the Fourth congressional district of Alabama, subject to the action of the democratic district primary.

We are authorized to announce the name of Hon. S. J. Bowie, of Calhoun, as a candidate for congress from the Fourth congressional district of this state, subject to the action of the democratic party.

THE RESULT AND OUTLOOK.

The election in Shelby county is now a thing of the past, and the results are doubtless known to every one who participated. The populo-republico ticket, called by its supporters the "cooperative ticket," was elected, from representative down to constable. The advocates and leaders of the democratic ticket, together with The Chronicle, made the issue straight from the shoulder. There was no dodging or trimming. The color line was drawn. The democrats did not even ask a negro for his support. We depended on what we had a right to suppose was the superior manhood, intelligence and patriotism of the white men of Shelby county.

While we are glad to note and chronicle that the results show a decent majority of the white men of the county to be on the side of the white man and in favor of white supremacy, yet we are sorry to have to state in our place as a conscientious journal, that a considerable minority of the white people of the county are still blinded by prejudice, and under the leadership of their bosses, Longshore, Pearson and others, are willing to join with the negroes of Shelby county, twelve hundred strong, in defeating the first and only available step which has ever been taken to actually perpetuate a white man's government in Alabama.

We have been soft and patient towards the masses of our populist friends, believing them to be honest, and also feeling assured that they were completely under the influence and domination of the aforesaid leaders; but we did not think from their past experience with these leaders that when we would make the issue plain and open, as we have in the recent campaign in Shelby, "Here is the white man, there is the negro," and make the call as we have for the white men to rally together they would break their shackles and come with the white men. In this we were disappointed. But we are not cast down. The action of our populist friends in thus voting against the democratic ticket, can not, as we have ever held, be said to have been based on principle. The cooperative ticket gave out no real principles. There is, in fact, no such party. There is no political party in existence promulgating any political principles which bears the name of cooperative party. In Shelby county it was the coming together of the leaders of what was once the populist party and a faction of the straight republican party and uniting on a ticket half populist and republican to beat the democrats, for no other reason in the world but to keep a few men in office.

But the work has been done, and we bow gracefully to the results. While we are sorry to note that the white populists of the county are so far out of line with their white brothers all over the state, yet we are rejoiced to state that throughout Alabama the white men, regardless of party, laid down their prejudices and preferences and came together, and that the great cause for which we honestly contended has been won by sixty thousand majority.

It gives us peculiar pleasure to state here that there has never been a campaign conducted in Shelby county where there has been less of mud slinging and abuse than was in this campaign. Without unduly or unfairly reflecting on our populist friends we think we are warranted in giving credit for this to the high, open and dignified position taken by the democrats. The efforts of the populist speakers in applying their party lash and in abusing democrats, we must contend, had a tendency in the direction of bringing about this mud slinging method, but the democrats passed these things by as easily and quietly as possible, in order that the canvass might be conducted peacefully and that our appeals to the white man might be made to his reason and not to his prejudice.

Of course the negro voted solidly against us. This was not unexpected. The white populists voted against us, and a few democrats, influenced by their populist surroundings, either voted with the populists or declined to vote at all.

One thing is now certain, an election will be ordered by the democratic legislature, soon to convene in the city of Montgomery, to decide the question of whether we shall have a constitutional convention or not. That election will result in the strongest demand for the convention that has ever gone up from the white people of Alabama for any measure. In this demand will join every white man in Shelby county who voted the democratic ticket in the recent election, and let us hope that we will be joined by the most if not all of our populist friends. It is strictly a white man's question. Of course we recognize the fact that with many of this class much will depend upon what Longshore and Pearson advises. They, the said leaders, may see it to their personal interest when they see that the die is cast to get on the band wagon. If so they will advise this way.

THE FUTURE.

We have at all times been in favor of a constitutional convention for the purpose of amending the organic law of the state, but after last Monday's experience we are more confirmed in our opinions than ever before.

If there is a white man in beat 1 or 9 who witnessed the horde of negro voters who crowded around the polls in Columbiana and Wilsonville, led by a few white men, voting they knew not how, nor for whom, compelling white men to wait for hours for an opportunity to vote, can endorse any such methods or means we would like to know him. We want the white people of this county to know him, and we want all who saw this spectacle to keep it fresh in their memory and compare it with the scene that will be enacted on this same spot two years hence, when only the white men of Shelby county are at the polls and peace and harmony hover over our land.

The negroes of Shelby county have cut loose from the last friend they had in the political world; they have made their bed of thorns and they must lie in it: they have sown the whirlwind, and the harvest they reap will extend into futurity. Shelby county populists have done well and the services they have rendered the democratic party will serve to line the party up solid in all the other counties in the state, and when the new constitution is ready for adoption one year hence it will be carried by seventy-five thousand majority.

Poor old negro! thiaty-five years of freedom and the ballot has not taught him to be one whit wiser than he was in slavery. For his own good and the good of the country in which he exists, and the inhabitants thereof, he will be placed where God assigned him by the white people, and his future will be what he makes it.

The man who says we have white supremacy in Shelby county is respectfully referred to the poll lists.

Some very heavy bonds have to be executed in the near future. Wonder if they will be of the "straw variety?"

The Shelby county negro holds the balance of power, and his populite friends have to sit down and wait for him to say which way to jump.

The election of last Monday dissipated the hopes of the democracy of Shelby county, and for two years more we will be ruled by the same gang which has so woefully wrecked the finances and credit of our county.

C. A. Towne, the silver republican nominated on the Sioux Falls ticket with Bryan, has announced his withdrawal from the race. It is thought likely the committee empowered to fill the vacancy will endorse Stevenson for vice-president.

We most respectfully urge that the democratic members of the new general assembly take speedy steps to give us a new constitution, one that will disfranchise the negro race and efface such scenes as were enacted in Shelby county last Monday. The ignorant, vicious and depraved negros taking full possession for hours of the polls to the exclusion of the white people is a scene we do not wish our people to become familiar with, and the exit of the negro from the stage will be best not only for himself but for his white neighbor. The Louisiana amendment is what is best suited to all the conditions in our state, as under it not a single white man is disfranchised.

NEW CONVERTS TO BRYAN.

Every day's papers bring news of dozens of leading men who opposed Bryan four years ago but who are now heartily supporting him. From these we select a few who are representative of the general stampede now going on from Mark Hannaism.

Secretary E. M. Ordway, of the Anti-Imperialist League: "Whatever the anti-Imperialist convention may do, I shall certainly most heartily support the Kansas City ticket. It seems to me that the democratic national convention acted very wisely in declaring anti-imperialism to be the paramount issue of the campaign for 1900. The most effective way of rebuking the McKinley administration's attempt to transform this republic into an empire is to vote straight for the democratic presidential nominee."

Joseph Breitinger, chairman of the county gold democratic organization of Cleveland, Ohio: "There is a stampede to Bryan among the gold democrats of Ohio. I will call a meeting of the campaign committee of the gold democrats and try to get things in better shape, but I fear we shall not be able to stop the stampede. To get at the sentiments of the democrats who opposed the Chicago platform four years ago I have talked or communicated with about 400 of them, and I have been surprised to find that nearly all of them are for Bryan now."

J. Haskins Hobson, state chairman of the populist party in Virginia, announces his purpose to support Bryan and says he will use his utmost influence to prevent the putting up of another electoral ticket in the state.

George M. Hillman, lawyer, of Mount Holly, N. J.: "I voted for Palmer and Buckner in 1896, but I will vote for Bryan now. Four years ago I did not believe in the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. I am not thoroughly converted to that doctrine yet, but I do not think the dangers resulting from it are as great as those to be feared from imperialism and trusts. The two latter questions are of far more importance than all others at the present time."

Judge Thomas A. Moran, of Chicago, who supported Palmer and Buckner in 1896, is now supporting Bryan and Stevenson. He says: "In my opinion the gold democrats generally will support the democratic ticket. The fact that the silver plank has been inserted in the platform will not affect the gold democrats who favor Bryan and Stevenson. They feel that the silver issue is dead and can not be revived, although it has been given a place in the platform."

Sigmund Zeisler, a distinguished lawyer of Chicago: "I was a gold democrat and did a good deal of stumping for McKinley. This year I have decided to support the democratic ticket and vote for Bryan and Stevenson."

Henry C. Johnson, of Richmond, Ind., for two terms a republican congressman from that district has given out that he will support Bryan this year on the issue of imperialism. Others who were prominent in the opposition in 1896 and who are now supporting Bryan are Josiah Quincy, former mayor of Boston; Otto Oswald Attendorfer, editor of the New York Staats Zeitunger; the great labor leaders, John J. Dailey, Eugene G. Johnson and John J. Issing, all of New York. Edward M. Shepard, Bourke Cockran and Carl Schurz have practically announced their intention to support the democratic leader.

President Brown, of the Northern Indiana Normal College, will support Bryan for president. Brown was bitterly opposed to the Nebraskan in '96 but has announced his support of the platform adopted at Kansas City.

President Brown's action is only synonomous with changes in sentiment among educators generally in Indiana. College faculties in '96 were nearly unanimously opposed to Bryan.

THE SOUTHS INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION.

From Bennett's Weekly.

Already discerning men see that the industrial development of the South promises a revolution for this country of no mean import; that the spindles and looms of New England are predestined to revolve and whir beneath the softer skies of the South, and that the ensuing ten years is certain to witness an industrial revolution before which existing conditions will pale and vanish; that the broad acres of the South are to become the Mecca for the restless tide of immigration which forever impels the Saxon to advance.

The Isthmian canal will become the next important factor in this change. Reaching the Orient by a much shorter route than is possible for the northern Atlantic cities, ships will load at the Gulf ports for the serving of the mass of humanity now arousing from its long slumber under the skies where the Aryan race first found lodgment. And this diverting of the traffic, this opportunity to shorten the haul between the point of production and that of consumption, must inevitably serve to increase, to materially augment the commerce of New Orleans, of Mobile and other Gulf ports. In this increase of business the mighty West will heartily participate, sending her argosies down the patient waters of the Mississippi at little cost, to unite at the mouth of that river with the stream of commerce which will shortly flow westward through the canal across the isthmus.

It does not follow that this revolution will work disaster to the great North; rather will the North, of necessity, share in the mighty development. For we are as a nation so closely united that the good of one is sensibly the good of all.

Dr. Massey, dentist, will be at Wilsonville from 13th to 18th of August. All wishing his services come promptly. Headquarters at Tom Strickland's.

The attention of the city fathers is called to the bad condition of the foot bridge on Main street near the Baptist church. One whole sill is broken and out of place, two planks are gone, and walking across the bridge is quite a difficult undertaking. The bridge should be fixed.

The entire number of pupils in all schools, public and private, last year in this country was 16,687,643, out of an estimated population of 72,737,100 There are 101,058 young men and women in the universities and colleges. 54,231 in schools of law, medicine and theology, 67,538 in normal schools, 70,950 in business schools, 23,501 in reform schools, 97,737 in kindergartens.

For fool election bets Detroit lays claim to the cake. Citizen Williams, of that city, agrees if Bryan is elected to support Stebbins' mother-in-law for life. Stebbins agrees if McKinley is elected to twist the tail of Williams' mule daily for three weeks, unless permanently disabled before the expiration of that period of time.—Exchange.

All those correspondents whose communications were received in this office during last month will please understand that publication was not made because other matter of a political nature called for practically the entire space of the paper. The columns are open now for these communications and we trust all will remember to get their matter in by Tuesday if possible.

The foundation was dug last week and bricks are now being placed on two new buildings which are being erected by Mrs. L. C. Armstrong. The houses will be one-story in height and will extend back from the street about sixty feet. They are being erected on the vacant lot between the building of the Mercantile Co. and the mercantile establishment of J. W. Johnston. They will be used for store houses.

The game of ball at this place last Saturday afternoon between the team at this place and the nine from Bridgeton resulted in a victory complete and overwhelming for the local team. Bridgeton's boasted strength failed to materialize, and the half of her four scores were given her by a wild throw to third while two men were on bases. Columbiana piled up 27 scores and earned them all without half an effort. The visiting team was sent into dreamland so far that the boys of this city have not the courage nor the cheek to talk of the game. Score: 27 to 4.

Next Thursday and Friday is the date fixed for the reunion of the Confederate veterans at Shelby Springs. The fact has been kept constantly before our readers for the past three or four months, and all in the county should know that to make a success of the gathering a hearty response should be given the various calls which have been made in these columns by the commander and others interested in the movement. Last year witnessed and brought together one of the largest crowds that has ever assembled in the county, and the harmony of the gathering would be hard to improve upon. This year no pains have been spared and nothing left undone to make the gathering a never to be forgotten occasion. A good time is promised all who attend, and none should neglect this opportunity of seeing the old soldiers in reunion once more.

We Are Coming!

On night of the 16th there will be preaching by an old veteran at Shelby Springs, and we, the veterans of Shelby county, do respectfully ask that there be no whisky on the grounds during the reunion.

J. W. JOHNSTON.

C. E. NOTES.

The Christian Endeavor Union of Shelby county held its eighth annual convention in the town of Shelby July 25 and 26.

Praise service conducted at 9:30 by Rev A. T. Clarke, the theme being Praise to our Lord—praise him in our lives, in our songs; get filled with his glory, "for the joy of the Lord is your strength." A sweet service, fitting for the opening of our union.

At 10 o'clock President Henry Milner opened the convention, and started on the regular program, with a few remarks on convention work.

Address of welcome by Harvey Clarke, and response by W. F. Thetford. Reading of letter from Miss Naldo Allen, our state secretary, regretting her inability to be with us. A call for "Let the Blessed Sunshine In." Rev. Clarke called the attention of the union to the fact that this was a special favorite of our departed brother, E. T. Witherby, who now enjoys the eternal sunshine.

Song and prayer service conducted by W. F. Thetford. Our state president, J. W. Sibley, having arrived since our morning service, we felt glad to greet him and have him in our service.

Duties of the various committees. Prayermeeting committee, Miss Maud Clarke. Lookout committee, W. F. Thetford. Music committee, paper by Miss Ethel Millstead. Missionary committee, paper by Miss Agnes Averyt. Good Literature, Harvey Clarke. Temperance commitee, paper by Joe Lee. Relief committee, a paper prepared by W. F. Averyt, but read by Miss Lena Clarke. General discussion on the needs of our times, showing our Christian Endeavorers to be ready helpers in times of need, as they have been recently in response to India's call. Social committee, Miss Kittie Averyt. Reports of societies. Shelby, Columbiana and Bridgeton being the only societies represented, their reports were made. Mr. Sibley complimented the success of our Bridgeton society, which justly deserves commendation.

Enrollment of delegates: Bridgeton: John Lee, Joe Lee, James DeShazo. Columbiana: Henry Milner, W. F. Thetford, Misses Belle Huyett, Ethel Millstead. State president: J. W. Sibley.

At 7:30 President Milner opened service. Topic: Seeking salvation now. A general invitation to all, a full invitation to "take of the waters of life freely.

Address by Mr. Sibley: "Best ends to the needs of the Y. P. S. C. E," showing us some of the uses of the society, setting out what "C. E." stands for. First, motto: "For Christ and the Church." No nobler one can we have for aspiration and zeal for the Master and his church. "What is the Vital Force?" The C. E. pledge. No greater vow can be laid upon you than by your church. Reading of pledge by union. First half of the pledge refers to Christ, second half to members. The keynote of pledge: "Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for Strength." What are the true aims of C. E? Do what he would like to have you do, do it at all times. The Christian Endeavor prayermeeting has been called the normal training school of the church, proving that the active members become the best stewards, deacons and other officers of the church. Consecration service the crowning service—"crown him Lord of all, or you do not crown him Lord at all." Great has been the growth of the society within the last year. A fine address and much enjoyed.

Thursday at 6 o'clock sunrise prayermeeting, conducted by Mr. Sibley. Such a sweet, gracious meeting. As the sunshine poured in at the windows God's everlasting sunshine poured into our souls, and surely this was the crowning meeting, for God was felt by all.

At 9:30 praise service conducted by James DeShazo. Short talks by leader, Messrs. Sibley, Milner and Thetford. Christian Endeavor extension, J. W. Sibley. After some further discussion the union was given an invitation to a social at Mrs. Charles Bowles from 4:30 until 5:30.

Paper read by Harvey Clarke, Our Junior Work, which was prepared by Miss Lucia Witherby. The necessity of Junior work, Rev. A. T. Clarke. Paper by Miss Lena Clarke, showing the great need of Junior societies throughout the county.

Thursday afternoon, notwithstanding the hard rain, we held a meeting and carried out the program in full.

Officers for coming year: Henry Milner, president; Miss Belle Huyett, secretary and treasurer. Organizing committee: Henry Milner, W. N. Lee, Clarence Lee, Miss Maud Clarke. Lookout committee: W. F. Thetford, Harvey Clarke, Joe Lee, Miss Kittie Averyt.

It was decided that the union should send a delegate to the state convention which meets in May at Montgomery, and that the union should pay expenses of said delegate. Miss Belle Huyett, delegate; Miss Agnes Averyt, alternate. It shall be the duty of the county lookout committee to secure badges for our union, and that delegates be given same before our state convention.

The place of holding our next meeting was left open until we organized more societies in the county; but the time shall be the fourth Wednesday and Thursday in July next year.

At 8 o'clock an address by J. W. Sibley—Christian Endeavor Shears. Other matters and the convention adjourned with the mizpah benediction.

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, 1st, That we sincerely thank the good people of Shelby for their kindness and christian hospitality.

[Crowded out last week.]

The protracted meeting at this place at Beulah church closed last Sunday. There were eight additions to the church, five by baptism, one by letter and two awaiting baptism until next meeting. Rev. J. A. Butts, the pastor, was assisted by Elders McGinnis and Jobe Falkner.

W. T. Falkner and family, of Brighton, are visiting the family of Jobe Falkner for a few days.

John W. Goodwin, of Brighton, visited the family of T. B. Falkner the latter part of last week.

Marion Falkner, who has a position on the electric cars in Birmingham, came over last week and spent a few days with homefolks.

Huston Goodwin, of West End, is visiting in this community and having a good time with the girls.

Paul Falkner is visiting relatives at Oxmoor, Woodlawn and Gate City.

S. M. Goodwin made a business trip to Shelby last Thursday. After making a contract with the Company to ship them large amounts of charcoal returned home Friday. On entering his commissary Saturday morning he found to his horror that a new and strange clerk had possession, in the shape of a large moccasin snake. The monster made a desperate fight, but was finally killed with an axe and put out.

E. A. Turner, manager of the Calcis Lime Works, reports that the heavy rains last Thursday evening damaged the company about four hundred dollars.

Prof. H. M. Abercrombie's school, having been vacated for the series of meetings last week, resumed business again last Monday.

LATER—The election passed off very quietly here. The democratic ticket gained 50 per cent over its former vote here. Watch beat 15; she will go in the democratic column in another election. The pops voted every negro here.

W. A. B. Falkner and wife, of Verbena, are visiting relatives in this vicinity.

T. Champion was a visitor to your town Tuesday.

RESOURCES AND IMPROVEMENTS IN CHINA.

From the Scientific American.

China is essentially an agricultural country. Horticulture is a favorite pursuit and fruit trees are grown in great variety. Sweet barley, maize and millet and other cereals, with peas and beans, are chiefly cultivated in the north and rice in the south. Sugar, indigo and cotton are cultivated in the southern provinces, and opium is a crop of considerable importance. Tea is cultivated in the west and south. The culture of silk is equal in importance to that of tea. The mulberry tree grows everywhere. There are cotton mills at Shanghai, and silk is wound from cocoons in Shanghai, Canton and elsewhere. All of the eighteen provinces contain coal and China may be regarded as one of the first coal countries in the world. Iron ores are abundant and copper is plentiful in certain districts. The commercial intercourse of China is quite considerable, trade being carried on with the principal countries of the world, including the United Kingdom, Germany, France, Russia and the United States. The great source of revenue for the provinces is the duty on goods coming overland from the adjacent provinces.

Until February, 1898, no foreigner could travel in the Empire except at certain designated points, usually the treaty ports, but since that time all foreigners who have passports may visit any part of the Empire on pleasure or business. The roads in China are poor and only a few are paved, and for this reason the greater part of trade is carried on by means of canals and other waterways. The country is irrigated by great rivers and intersected by a system of canals which is more than six hundred years old. The canals are badly managed and are in a state of decay.

Less than five hundred miles of railway have been constructed in China, but a very complicated system has been projected, and government concessions have been given for the purpose. It is likely that as soon as the present trouble in China is adjusted that this country will be the scene of great activity in railway building. In all, concessions have been given for 7,500 miles of railway. This will include connections with the Chinese Eastern Railway, the railways to Shanghai, Hankow, Canton and Mandalay. As the country is 3,500 miles long from north to south, possessing a varied climate, productive soil and great natural resources, it will be seen that there is a vast field for enterprise in railway building and European countries and the United States are only desirous of seeing a stable and friendly government established before they begin to invest their capital in vast railway enterprises which can not but prove to be profitable investments.

All the principal cities of the Empire have telegraph service. An arrangement was made with the Russian telegraph authorities in 1892 by which communication was established between Peking and Europe. The apparatus and methods used in telegraphing in China are of the most primitive description. The Chinese have no alphabet, but each word has a sign. In order to telegraph them each sign has to be numbered and the number is sent by wire. The receiving clerk refers to his tables and translates the number into the Chinese signs. The tables resemble logarithm tables, the signs being printed in vertical columns and each column containing 20 signs, and as there are 10 columns there are 200 signs to the page. There are 49 pages to the complete book, consequently there are 9,800 numbered signs. Each square contains a sign for a word. The sender must write his message in Chinese on a blank form; this is then converted into numbers and they are telegraphed. The average length of the words is four letters, but the words frequently run to ten or twelve letters.

The postal system of the Empire is still in a primitive condition. It is carried on under the direction of the Minister of War, by means of post carts and runners. There are 8,000 offices for post carts in the eighteen provinces, and there are 2,040 offices for runners scattered over the Empire. There are also many private postal couriers, and during the winter the foreign customs office maintains a service between Peking and the outposts.

SAM JONES.

"Sam Jones, the evangelist, has an extraordinary knowledge of the negro temperament," said a former resident of Georgia. "He is the only white preacher I ever knew in my life who could excite the same frenzied enthusiasm in the blacks that is aroused by the best orators of their own race. Occasionally he has a meeting especially for darkies, and the scene is always well worth witnessing. Mr. Jones has been a very valuable agent in maintaining an equilibrium between the races in Georgia, and his advice to his black friends has always been full of sound common sense. Apropos of his popularity among them he tells a couple of stories on himself that are anything but new, but are good enough to bear repetition. At the close of one of his negro meetings in Atlanta a fat, old-time 'mammy' shouldered her way through the crowd around the platform and finally caught the evangelist's eye. 'Howdy, Marse Jones,' she exclaimed, 'I jest wanter tell y' your de finest white preacher I ever heerd in all my bawn days! Marse Jones, I 'clare to goodness yo' preaches jest like er nigger!' On another occasion of the same character an old deacon, black as the ace of spades, and trembling all over with emotion and decrepitude, came hobbling up and grasped the evangelist's hand. 'Mister Jones,' he said in a choking voice, 'youse shorely er fren' er de nigger. Youse got er white skin, sah, but youse suttenly got a black heart!' "—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

SURPRISED AT HIS INTERVIEW.

Among the strong points of United States Senator Thomas Collier Platt, of New York, is his knowledge of human nature, relates the Saturday Evening Post. He is seldom mistaken in a man, and this is a trait that is essential for political managers to possess. This characteristic was never better illustrated than by a transaction between the republican "boss" and a reporter on a New York evening newspaper not long ago. Political matters were warm in the Empire state and Mr. Platt's views were in great demand. One day the city editor of this journal sent his best reporter down to interview Mr. Platt at his business office in lower Broadway. The reporter was a favorite of the senator and he had never betrayed his confidence.

"I want your views on the Brooklyn fight."

"I'm busy to-day," returned the senator. "You know how I feel about that matter. Write a little piece about it for me and I'll stand by it. Good-bye."

When the reporter got back to his office the city editor asked him what he had.

"A talk with Platt."

"Is it a good one?"

"First class. How much do you want of it?"

"Let it run," replied the city editor.

So the reporter turned out a two-column interview. The next day, uptown, the reporter met the senator in a hotel corridor.

"I was rather talkative yesterday, wasn't I?" he said.

FUNERAL OF AGNOSTIC.

Clergyman Prays and Free-Thinker Follows with an Address.

Perhaps the most out-of-the-ordinary funeral service ever held in Cincinnati, says the Enquirer of that city, preceded the incineration of the body of Dr. R. R. Hook on Sunday. Dr. Hook, during his life was an agnostic, and it had been arranged that his friend, Attorney Sparks, also an agnostic, should deliver a eulogy or oration at the family home before the funeral procession started for the crematory on Dixmyth avenue. The hour for the ceremonies at the house, 1531 Baymiller street, arrived, but not Attorney Sparks, who was unfortunately and unavoidably detained. The bereaved family, in the emergency, sent for the Rev. George R. Robbins, of the Lincoln Park Institutional Baptist church, and, at his coming, explained the distressing situation. They had wished to comply with the expressed desire of the deceased to omit a religious ceremony, but being disappointed in the lay orator, could not bring it upon themselves to send his body from the roof tree without some word being spoken; nor could they longer delay the simple ceremonies. The Rev. Robbins immediately began a funeral service. He prayed earnestly for the salvation of the soul of him who had denied its existence, or, at least, denied knowledge of its existence. When the religious service was concluded Attorney Sparks appeared. He was introduced to the clergyman, who in turn introduced Mr. Sparks to the assemblage. He made a brief oration and eulogy, liberally sprinkled with agnosticism. The second service ended, the body was incinerated.

"MY OWN SELF AGAIN."

Mrs. Gates Writes to Mrs. Pinkham, Follows Her Advice and is Made Well.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For nearly two and one-half years I have been in feeble health. After my little child came it seemed I could not get my strength again. I have chills and the severest pains in my limbs and top of head and am almost insensible at times. I also have a pain just to the right of breast bone. It is so severe at times that I cannot lie on my right side. Please write me what you think of my case."—MRS. CLARA GATES, Johns P. O., Miss., April 25, 1898.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as advised and now send you a letter for publication. For several years I was in such wretched health that life was almost a burden. I could hardly walk across the floor, was so feeble. Several of our best physicians attended me, but failed to help. I concluded to write to you for advice. In a few days I received such a kind, motherly letter. I followed your instructions and am my 'old self' again. Was greatly benefited before I had used one bottle. May God bless you for what you are doing for suffering women."—MRS. CLARA GATES, Johns P. O., Miss., Oct. 6, 1899.

DECADENCE OF THE COWBOY.

Severe Shock to the Feelings of Northern Montanians.

Northern Montana is bewailing the decadence of the cowboy. Justly, it would seem, if there be truth in the report that two border outlaws chased a dozen members of the Diamond R. round-up outfit for twenty miles in terror-stricken search for refuge, to the town of Culbertson. Think of it! Twelve doughty knights of the plain, blue of lip and wild of eye, spurring their horses to incontinent flight over sagebrush and bunchgrass, and ever and anon turning their wan faces backward over shivering shoulders for a look at their relentless pursuers. Picture in your mind's eye the scudding of a dozen jack rabbits, close pressed by a pair of ravenous wolves! Oh, the horror of it!

The report from Culbertson says that the cowboys were unarmed, excepting one or two guns in the whole outfit. It is a harsh allegation, and public judgment should be suspended pending the receipt of further particulars. If it be proved true—ah, well, we of Montana must blush for the shame of it! The traditions of the gun are dear to the Western heart. It has barked defiance to law and order, it has been the chief property of the cowboy comedy of "shooting up the town" and it has furnished ragtime music for many a tenderfoot to dance by. Has the westward course of empire relegated the "shooting iron" to the scrap pile? Has it gone the way of the brown buffalo and the preserved Indian? Will it no longer dangle in menace from the belt of the bold vaquero? It would seem so, for the report has it that the Diamond R. outfit was unarmed.

All the world will join in the northern Montana wail. The iconoclast, Time, has shattered the idol of the "wild and wooly west." The long locks of the cowboy have been shorn; his goatee is preserved only as a memory on the aging face of Buffalo Bill Cody; his buckskin habiliments have given way to overalls and jumpers and his bravery is bound between the yellow covers of a nickel novel.

Twelve cowboys chased by two bandits! They will not believe it in the east, where the popular idea of the cowboy is still somewhat awesome and picturesque. Here in Montana, swallowing our pride, we will henceforth look upon him as a herder of cattle and brander of calves—our calfboy.—Butte City (Mon.) Inter-Mountain.

THE WILY JOHN.

American Machinists Who Go to China Generally Get the Worst of It.

A great many skilled machinists and engineers have gone to China from this country during the past ten years," said the captain of a large cargo steamer, who has made frequent trips to the flowery kingdom. "Most of them were engaged to take charge of big plants, and while the job seemed tip-top on the surface the result was nearly always disappointing. The Chinese are very anxious to avail themselves of foreign skill but take care to dispense with it at the earliest possible moment. A manufacturer, for example, will put in modern machinery and hire an American expert as a superintendent, giving him a couple of sleepy looking young Chinamen as assistants. In six months the sleepy looking pair have mastered all the technicalities of the plant and some pretext is found for getting rid of the American.

The fact that he has a five or ten-year contract is no special obstacle All labor contracts may be voided for good cause, and in China there is never any difficulty in proving anything you like about a man. I knew an Ohio engineer who went to Canton several years ago to set up and operate a large plant in a silk mill. He was under a five-year contract at $6,000, gold, per annum, and thought he had a soft thing. Before his first year had elapsed he was discharged on the ground of habitual drunkenness, neglect of duty, waste of material, insubordination and a dozen or so other little things I have forgotten. Being entirely innocent, he showed fight, but was overwhelmed by a cloud of witnesses and the case against him was made so strong that the consul refused to interfere. His place was taken by his native assistant, who made a botch of it and destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of costly machinery, but that didn't help the engineer who was sacked. American experts who know the ropes insist upon having a clause in their contracts authorizing them to employ their own assistants. It has been the same way with even the military instructors. The soldiers of fortune who went there expecting life time jobs were crowded out as soon as young native officers learned enough to take charge of the troops themselves."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

She Was Hired on the Spot.

A young woman recently answered an advertisement for a dining room girl, and the lady of the house seemed pleased with her. But before engaging her there were some questions to ask.

"Suppose," said the lady—"now, only suppose, understand—that you were carrrying a piece of steak from the kitchen, and by accident should let it slip from the plate to the floor, what would do do in such a case?"

The girl looked the lady square in the eyes for a moment before asking, "Is it a private family, or are there boarders?"

"Boarders," answered the lady.

"Pick it up and put it back on the plate," firmly replied the girl.

She was engaged.

It was upon the prairie schooner that American civilization spread itself across the continent when the first tales of the Argonauts quickened the imagination of the east. These slow moving avatars of empire crossed the plains, braved the terrors of the great American desert, founded at Salt Lake the beginners of a commonwealth and scaling the barriers of the Rocky mountains, won a great state for the union years before the first Pacific railroad was opened. The prairie schooner has left a trail over the west that cannot be effaced. It has laid the beginnings of free institutions and laid them with American blood; the railroads that came after it but filled in the outlines and brought in the foreigner to rear the superstructure. The march of the prairie schooner from the banks of the Mississippi to the shores of the Pacific is comparable to that ponderous progress in which the wooden wagons of the Goths, rolling from the Danube to the Straits of Gibraltar, established the beginnings of modern history, reflects the New York Mail and Express

"Dr. Eldridge came to Troy twelve years ago to accept the place of president of the State Normal college, which position he filled with credit for eleven years. During the last year he has had the place of city superintendent. He is a teacher of long experience and advanced ideas, and an indomitable worker for the cause of education. He and his excellent family have made many warm friends in Troy and in all this section, who regret their removal, and whose very sincere good wishes will follow them to their new home."—Montgomery Journal.

WANDERING IN DREAMLAND.

She Tried to Pay Her Fare With Samples of Foulard.

The young woman's mind was probably 'way off in the land of cut-on-the-bias, and yokes, and flarings, and plaitings, and applique, and ruffles, and things like that, whatever they may mean. Anyhow, when she got on an uptown Ninth street car the other afternoon, she dreamily opened her pocketbook when the conductor came around for her fare, stuck a gloved finger and thumb into one of the compartments of the same, extracted a couple of foulard samples, and, with that far-away expression still in her eyes, handed them to the conductor. The conductor was a a middle-aged man. He smiled and waited for the young woman to come out of her trance. But she held the foulard samples out to him, with her eyes on vacancy, until the conductor, still grinning, had to fetch her back to earth. "Yes, they're pretty, miss," he said, "and I'd like to get my wife a dress off that piece on top, but she's——" The young woman blushed like a red-hot stove-lid, dug into another compartment of her pocketbook for a car ticket, and she looked real embarrassed when the brutal male persons across the car aisle grinned, so she did.—Washington Post.

GOT AHEAD OF PECK.

The Governor of Wisconsin Scores a Point on the Ex-Governor.

This is what a governor of Wisconsin said to an ex-governor of Wisconsin. A few years ago Gov. Upham invited his recently defeated competitor, the distinguished leader of Wisconsin democracy, ex-Gov. George W. Peck, to accompany him on a visit to the encampment of the Wisconsin state militia. Mr. Peck accepted. On the way to the camp the pair, who have always been boon companions off the campaign stump, passed the time in cracking jokes at each other's expense. Mr. Peck, who, as everybody knows, is no poor hand at a quip, had a shade the best of it. Upon the arrival of the eminent personages at the camp no one seemed to take cognizance of their presence. Mr. Peck was annoyed at the evident lack of courtesy to the chief executive of the great state of Wisconsin, and addressing him, said: "Upham, I wonder how long it takes these fellows to smell a governor?" "That depends upon how long he's been dead, George," softly remarked the governor, with a faraway look in his eyes.

Medal for Monument Design.

The jury in the Paris salon of 1900 has awarded the first medal to M. D. Despradelles of Boston, professor of architecture and design at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The subject of M. Despradelles' design is of especial interest to Americans, being a monument "dedicated to the glory of the American nation," and it is said to be of a grandeur of conception and of a daring in execution almost unparalleled. Its title—"The Beacon of Progress"—indicates the character of the composition, the height of which is designed to be 1,500 feet. The artistic presentation of this project received the unanimous approbation of the jury the day of its admission to the salon, and the award of the first medal crowns a labor of almost six years.

CONSTIPATED OLD AGE

Means misery on the eve of life. Nine out of ten old people are constipated because the muscles of their intestines have become weak, worn out and flabby. Constipation is the curse of old age, causes bile and acid poisons to remain in the blood, making the skin yellow and wrinkled, the eyes bleary and causing the "bones to ache." Keep the bowels strong, healthy and regular and old age loses all its terrors and weaknesses. No reason why grandpa and grandma shouldn't have bright eyes, and clear ruddy skin and feel lively and active, if they will only keep their bowels open and vigorous with CASCARETS CANDY CATHARTIC, the greatest bowel tonic ever heard of. MUST PLEAD FOR PEACE

THE MINISTERS ARE HELD AS HOSTAGES

Commands Given That Not a Foreigner Be Allowed to Escape From the Interior of China. Situation Alarming.

The Shanghai correspondent of the London Daily Express, telegraphing Sunday, says:

"A new imperial edict promulgated this evening urgently orders all viceroys and provincial governors to endeavor to negotiate peace with the powers, whose ministers are 'held as hostages pending the result of the overtures for the abandonment of hostilities against China.'

"The viceroys are also commanded to guard their territories vigilantly against attack, and to prevent by all means in their power the advance of the foreign troops, especially along the Yang Tse Kiang. The decree says that the officials will answer with their lives for any failure to execute these orders.

"Commands are also given that not a single foreigner shall be allowed to escape fr m the interior, where there are still fully 2,000 Europeans connected with missionary work in isolated situations.

"When the governor of Shan Tung communicated to the consuls the imperial decree of July 24 he omitted the following important passage addressed to Li Hung Chang:

"'It is admittedly inadvisabie to kill all the ministers, but it is equally unwise to send them to Tien Tsin. It will be much wiser to keep the survivors at Pekin as hostages.

"'You are commanded to hasten to Pekin. You are incurring imperial displeasure by delay. You have been appointed viceroy of Chi Li because with your military experience you will successfully lead the imperial armies against the foreigners in Chi Li which Yu Lu, the present viceroy, is unable to do owing to his ignorance of military affairs.'

"Li Hung Chang replied to this edict asking to be allowed to retire.

"Chang now admits that he has had telegrams since July 19 announcing that every foreigner in Pai Ting Fu was murdered, including forty British, French and American missionaries, and announcing also that French Jesuits have been massacred at Kwang Ping Fu, on the borders of Shang Tung and Chi Li. A majority of the consuls favor strong measures against Shang's duplicity.

"Local officials say that the Italian priests murdered in Hu Nan Wen were wrapped in cotton which had been soaked with kerosene and were slowly roasted to death. It is believed that all foreigners in Chi Li have by this time been massacred, and the wave of massacre is spreading toward Nang Po and Hang Chow, from which point thirty English and American missionaries are endeavoring to escape in boats down the river to Kiang Su. Officials here anticipate a general rising along the Yang-Tse-Kiang about August 1.

Ministers Safe.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says he is still firmly convinced that the ministers are safe, but, with the exception of an alleged message from the Japanese legation in Pekin, dated July 19, brought by a runner, saying that the legation was still defending itself, nothing has yet been published giving anything in the nature of proof.

Gov. Candler's Opinion of Chinese Crisis.

"If the president intends to exert his strength in saving the lives of American citizens in China, I believe that right now is the time for him to do so," said Governor Candler, of Georgia, when asked for an expression on the Chinese trouble. The governor maintained all along that it was the duty of the United States to send 100,000 men to Taku at once. He is opposed to militarism, but in a situation of this kind he believes the American citizen abroad should be protected.

CAMPAIGN IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Main Question is Adoption of Constitutional Amendment to Limit Franchises.

A Raleigh, N. C., dispatch says: A general election will be held in this state Thursday and the question of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution limiting the electoral franchise will be voted on. There is apparently little doubt as to the result of the election, both as to the amendment and the state ticket. It now seems to be simply a question of majority. The opponents of the amendment acknowledge that it will be adopted. As the amendment and the democratic state ticket will run very close together, the populists and the republicans have practically abandoned the state ticket in an effort to elect a majority of the legislature and return Butler to the United States senate. Active campaigning will continue up to Wednesday night. It is the bitterest and most exciting campaign this state has ever known. The battle has been fought on the race issues, brought to the front by the proposed franchise amendment, by which 80,000 voters are to be disfranchised.

AGUINALDO SHOT AGAIN.

Lieutenant Writes Home That the Insurgent Chief Was Badly Wounded.

First Lieutenant John Wilbur Ward, of the Thirty-third infantry, now in the Philippines, which regiment was engaged in the chase of Aguinaldo, has written a letter to his father, at Henderson, Ky., under date of Cabugao, June 1, in which he says:

"The Thirty-third has wounded and possibly killed Aguinaldo. He had gathered up the guerilla bands to the number of about 800 men, when the Thirty-third was ordered after him. His forces tried to scatter, but too late. We hit them in several small parties. Aguinaldo and his special body guard of six men were fired on at 800 yards range while they were running, he riding a big gray American horse. The horse was killed and he himself badly wounded in the body (it is since learned), leaving a trail of blood as he was carried off. All of his private papers were captured, incriminating several native priests and rich natives."

PATERNO'S FEAST A FAILURE.

Ten Americans Killed in Philippines During the Past Week.

The two days' feast in Manila organized by Senor Paterno and his political followers to commemorate the amnesty resulted in a fiasco. The people were passive, unenthusiastic, and not even interested. Failing to perceive any tangible, effective results of amnesty, they say they can see no reason for celebrating.

During last week's scouting ten Americans were killed and fourteen wounded. One hundred and eighty Filipinos were killed and sixty taken prisoners. Forty insurgent rifles were captured.

Imperialism the Slogan.

Chairman Jones, of the democratic national committee, said Saturday:

"Mr. Bryan believes, and the democratic platform says that imperialism is paramount, because the people are most interested in seeing the military and expansion policy of the present administration crushed."

"Then what will Mr. Bryan do?" was asked. "Can he withdraw the troops from the Philippines immediately if he is elected?"

"Why not?" said Mr. Jones. "They were ordered to the Philippines. Why can't they be ordered back? They were taken in boats. Why can't they be brought back in boats?"

Tragedy on an Excursion Train.

In a desperate fight on a negro excursion train, near Piedmont, Ala., Sunday, Joe Cooper, a negro from Stilesboro, Ga., was shot and killed and his body thrown from the train. Several other negroes were wounded and a number of shots were fired in a crowded car. The engineer saw the dead body of the negro hurled from the car, stopped the train and had it placed back on the train.

KING HUMBERT SHOT DEAD

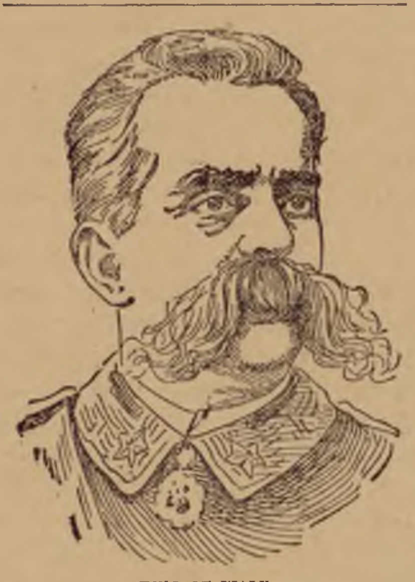
The Ruler of Italy the Victim of the Assassin's Bullet.

THREE SHOTS FIRED FROM A REVOLVER

All of Them Striking the Monarch in the Region of the Heart---Angelo Bressi, the Assassin, Arrested and Imprisoned.

MONZA, ITALY.—(Special)—King Humbert has been assassinated. He was shot here Sunday evening by a man named Angelo Bressi, Prado, and died in a few minutes.

The king had been attending a distribution of prizes in connection with a gymnastic competition. He had just entered his carriage with his aide-de-camp, amid the cheers of the crowd, when he was struck by three revolver shots, fired in quick succession.



KING OF ITALY.

One pierced the heart of His Majesty, who fell back and expired in a few minutes.

The assassin was immediately arrested, and was with some difficulty saved from the fury of the populace. He gave his name as Angelo Bressi, describing himself as of Prado, in Tuscany.

The news of the terrible event did not arrive in Rome until midnight. Signor Saracco, the premier, immediately summoned a meeting of the cabinet, and the ministers will start at the earliest possible moment for Monza.

The prince and princess of Naples are on board the Yela, yachting in the Levant.

Italian Consul Shocked.

Jerome Fedeli, Italian vice consul in Kansas City, was greatly shocked when he learned of the assassination of King Humbert of Italy.

"King Humbert was greatly beloved by the people," said Mr. Fedeli, "and I cannot conceive how any one but a crank or an anarchist should wish to take his life. He was good and kind and charitable. I knew him well. He will be succeeded in all probability by his oldest son, the Prince of Naples, who is a young man not yet 30 years of age."

Arrangements have practically been completed for the purchase from Spain by the United States of the islands of Cibutu and Cagayen which were left in Spanish possession by the treaty of Paris, although part of the Philippine archipelago.

LI HUNG SENDS A MESSAGE.

Earl Declares the Legationers Are Still Alive in Pekin.

A dispatch has been received at St Petersburg from Li Hung Chang dated July 26, which says that the Chinese government telegraphs him under date of July 23, that the ministers are all well. Li Hung Chang also complains that none of the powers have consented to place a warship at his disposal for his journey north and he added that he would be compelled to encounter many obstacles by a land journey.

Pension Examiner's Report.

The board of pension examiners, which has been in session several days in the senate chamber at Montgomery, completed its labors Saturday. The following report was filed with the auditor:

Hon. Walter S. White, State Auditor:

Sir—We, the undersigned, comprising the state board of pensions, beg leave to submit to your honor this, our final report of our work of our July term of 1900. We have carefully examined and reviewed 3,100 applications for state pensions and all papers thereunto belonging, and of this number we have approved 2,246 and rejected 854. Our work has been arduous, and has been rendered more so by the failure of the county boards of a good many counties to observe and comply with section 8 of the pension article. In some instances we have had the old applications returned to us without any evidence that the applicant had appeared before the county board as required by law, and in all such cases have returned them without any action and excluded them from our court, and leave with your better judgment as to whether these boards should receive pay for such papers. We hold that all rejected applications are returned to probate judges, there to be filed and kept for future reference, and that all rejected applicants may file new applications at any time and attach a certified copy of old witnesses as to proof of service.

Condition of National Banks.

The abstract of the condition of the twenty-eight national banks in Alabama on June 29, the date of the currency comptroller's last call, shows resources and liabilities of $19,109,933.70; loans and discounts, $8.970,083 82; totals, specie, $8,894,297.94, of which $529,876 was gold coin or certificates; capital stock, $3,480,000; surplus funds, $603,761; undivided profits, $889,492.17; national bank notes outstanding, $1,626,080; and individual deposits, $11,078,663.70. The average reserve held was 27,91 per cent. The statement is regarded as very favorable.

Export Pig Iron.

Several shipments of export iron have been made from the Birmingham district in the past ten days, and it is stated by reliable authority that export shipments since July 1 will aggregate over 10,000 tons.

Attempted Suicide.

Ad Clarke, an employe of the Dallas Mills, and formerly a soldier of the Fifteenth United States infantry, attempted suicide at Huntsville Saturday by taking a large dose of morphine. Clarke's wife left him six weeks ago, and he became despondent, which caused the attempt at self-destruction.

CHARLES A. TOWNE.

SACRIFICED AMBITION ON ALTAR OF PATRIOTISM.

Might Have Been Named with Bryan Had He Been a Self-Seeker—A Gold Bug Paper's Tribute to the Silver Champion.

It would be difficult to discover, in the array of people politically prominent in America at this time, a character more worthy of respect and admiration than that of the Hon. Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota. True to his faith and principles, single-minded, sincere and unselfish, he stands before the people today an exemplar of simple, self-sacrificing American honesty and patriotism.

No doubt Mr. Towne would have liked to be Vice President of the United States. If he had used his opportunities at Kansas City as a demagogue would have utilized them, he might perhaps have forced himself upon the ticket with Mr. Bryan, who wanted him as his running mate with all the intensity of his aggressive and determined nature. But Mr. Towne had aims and purposes higher than the gratification of a personal ambition. Already the Vice Presidential candidate of the Populists, he could have been named for the same office by the Silver Republicans at their Kansas City Convention. Thus re-enforced, his claims upon the Democratic National Convention, considering the circumstances of the year, might have been dangerous to ignore. But, rather than embarrass the great leader he hopes to see in the White House next year, or to bring any element of discord into the camp of the popular army which has been mobilized to fight for the people and institutions against the trust and monopoly forces who would subvert them, he refused to let his name go before the Silver Republican Convention, and has now announced his intention to decline the Populist nomination when he shall be formally notified that it has been given to him.

Without a shadow of regret or soreness in his attitude, Mr. Towne appeared as one of the distinguished receiving party which greeted his successful competitor, the Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson, when that gentleman reached Lincoln on Monday, to pay his respects to the Presidential candidate. If he concealed a wish that he might have been the nominee instead of the Illinois statesman and ex-Vice President, it did not show in speech or manner, and nothing of the kind could possibly detract from the earnestness and fixity of purpose with which he will enter the fight for the preservation of liberty and the Constitution.

It is remarkable and a pleasant spectacle! Charles A. Towne, when he withdrew from the Republican party in 1896, because he felt that an honest man could no longer remain in it, notoriously resigned a political future as a Republican, which his striking ability and remarkable accomplishments as a public man and a thinker made it certain would be distinguished in an unusual degree. He realized the sacrifice, but did not hesitate to make it on the altar of his conscience. During the four years that since have elapsed, he has never swerved from the path of duty he then marked out for himself. He is one who, like the chieftain he does battle under, is incapable of conceding the least modicum of principle for the sake of expediency. He is of the stuff of which grand leaders of men are made. He cannot be Vice President next year, but, happily, he is young and may come to even higher honors hereafter. He thoroughly deserves the respect of friend and enemy alike. He is a Chevalier Bayard of American politics; a type nearly extinct. He has richly earned whatever the combined parties of the people can give him, in recognition of his devotion and service, should their cause be blessed with victory in November.—Washington Times.

Our Imperator in China.

Public attention will be riveted upon this following part of Mr. McKinley's letter to his brother sovereigns through the secretary of state, Mr. Hay:

"The purpose of the president is . . . to act concurrently with the other powers . . . fourthly, in aiding to prevent a spread of the disorder to other provinces and a recurrence of such disasters."

"The purpose" not of the congress, not of the people, if you please, but of the president! "The president" and "the other powers!" Certainly no fault is to be found with this document, written by Mr. Hay and revised by the president at Canton, O., on the score of lack of frankness. That great imperial high-mightiness the president will co-operate with "the other powers" not merely in protecting American life and property, not merely in doing what the American people, hitherto supposed to bear the relation to the president of sovereign to servant, may have authorized, but in using American sailors and soldiers in "aiding to prevent a recurrence of such disasters." That is, Mr. McKinley will use the armies and navies of the United States arbitrary and without authority in pacifying China!

What respect can we expect to command for the Monroe doctrine of noninterference by European powers in the affairs of this hemisphere if we are to join in wars of conquest and a "concert of action" to secure "spheres of influence" in Asia? Could there be a more complicated and dangerous foreign "entanglement" than is that into which President McKinley is leading us in the East? If this step is made both inevitable and easier by the president's Asiatic adventure in the Philippines, it is only further proof of the combined folly and fatality of his war of "criminal aggression."

If we had followed the policy of true Americanism in the Philippines we should never have blundered into this Chinese complication. True Americanism required that we should stand aloof from European land robberies. Then China might have regarded the United States as her friend and arbitrator. By joining our interests and forces with the European monarchical military invaders we are identified in the Chinese mind with the other "foreign devils." Hence our minister—who might have been as safe and as helpful in Peking as Minister Washburn was in Paris during the dreadful and bloody days of the Commune—is besieged and menaced with the rest.

This is deplorable, but the responsibility runs straight back to the question, What business have we in China? We do not want any part of her territory, and true religion and true Americanism are agreed in forbidding either propagandism or trade extension at the cannon's mouth.—New York World.

Imperialism Is Flourishing.

Little by little, and in the face of their deceptive platform, the Republicans are placing themselves squarely on record as favoring militarism and imperialism.

Judge Day and President McKinley talk imperialism in Ohio. Ambassador Choate and Chauncey M. Depew bathe in the glamor of it in London. With a characteristic cock-a-doodle-doo, Roosevelt flaps his imperial wings in Kansas.

Each of these typical Republicans dwells in his own way upon the fact that "we now belong to the family of nations." Not peaceful nations, not commercial nations, but nations of soldiers and blood and of trumpets and turmoil.

At the Fourth of July dinner of the American Society in London Mr. Depew said: "We belong to the family of nations, and any one who does must have the manners of those who sit at the same table."

By all means. Let us learn to do our "pig-sticking" properly. Let us learn to support vast armies without a groan. Might is right among those with whom we are now sitting.

Again Mr. Depew: "We are now satisfied to have on one side Porto Rico (a McKinley colony) and on the other Canada" (a Victorian colony).

This will give us superior facilities for imitation, and if we industriously rub garments and jostle elbows who knows but that the gloss of empire and the gilt of royalty may rub off.

We are not more surprised at Depew than at Roosevelt, who calls our military operations in China "an object lesson in expansion." He says:

"Expansion simply means that peace must be brought about. In the world's waste places it means that peace can not be had until civilized nations have expanded."

Here is the old imperial cry of military force. In order to expand we must conquer other races by cannon and bloodshed. In the dismemberment of the Chinese quarry we shall probably grab a leg or something and hang on with the rest. This is "expansion" of the administration type.

It would have been a laudable thing to have saved our legation and our missionaries. They have been murdered and China should be held responsible. But beyond a peremptory demand for honorable redress, including the execution of the de facto rulers at Peking, we have no business there.

But from Porto Rico to Peking, along the length of our "far-flung battle line," it is a case of gradual good-by to the old republic, to the Democratic institutions of our fathers, and to liberty, the "eternal spirit of the chainless mind."—New York Journal.

Gold Bug Prosperity.

Reports to R. G. Dun & Co. show that the total number of commercial failures for the half year just closed was 5,332 in number, with liabilities of $74,747,452, and that nearly one-third of the whole was in the list of brokers, agents and the like—middle men and others (speaking of trusts)—of which 265 failed with liabilities of $22,122,346, and during the last quarter 145 failed for $18,820,973. On the other hand, while the manufacturing and trading failures were both smaller in the second than in the first quarter of the year, both were considerably larger than in the corresponding quarter of last year. The number of failures and liabilities for this year and last for each quarter of the half year and of banking concerns is compared below:

	Number.		Liabilities.
U. S.	1900	1899	1900	1899
First quarter..	2894	2272	$33,022,573	$27,152,030
Second quar..	2438	2081	41,724,879	14,910,900
Half year ..	5332	4853	$74,747,452	$42,062,930
Banking	30	31	25,822,632	7,601,720

The Messrs. Dun say this "record shows plainly enough the disappointment and loss which results after a year of wholly unprecedented expansion and hopefulness in all lines of industry and trade, when it is found that A SEASON OF HALTING AND DELAY HAS COME" during this great and glorious administration of McKinley.—Paterson Guardian.

Not an Imaginary Peril.

Dubuque Herald: Imperialism is not a myth. It is not a bugbear to frighten people. It is an actual peril which the nation must face courageously and fearlessly grapple with if free institutions are to be maintained and preserved. The fight on the Democratic side is for the people and their republic; on the Republican side it is for the elevation of the dollar above character.

CUBAN POSTAL FRAUDS.

The Report of Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow.

SAYS NEELY EMBEZZLED $131,000

Former Director of Posts Rathbone Charged With Misappropriating Funds —He Drew a Per Diem in Addition to His Salary Without Authority —Lesser Officials Also Accused.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow, in his report to the Postmaster-General on the postal frauds in Cuba, places the amount embezzled by C. F. W. Neely, chief of the Bureau of Finance at Havana headquarters, at from $131,000 to $150,000. The report also accuses E. G. Rathbone, who was Director-General of Cuban posts, of misappropriation of funds, and recommends that he be required to reimburse the Cuban revenues. The report is the result of an investigation begun May 19 into the entire business of the Cuban Department of Posts, and sets forth in detail the successive discoveries of the existence of fraud in one department after another.

Mr. Bristow finds a shortage as shown by Neely's records of $30,600 and "an excess of credit by destruction of surcharged stamps definitely ascertained" of $101,113. These two items aggregate $131,713, and Mr. Bristow estimates that Neely credited himself with enough more stamps as "destroyed" which he did not destroy, but sold, to bring the total to $150,000.

This, Mr. Bristow says, is a fair estimate of the total of Neely's direct embezzlements, although his cash book, owing, perhaps, to his loose bookkeeping, shows a cash shortage of $119,278.

"Neely's fraudulent transactions, however," says the Bristow report, "are not confined to embezzlement." It is then asserted that Neely before going to Cuba made a mock transfer of his Muncie, Ind., printing company to a man named Cowan, and that Neely sent a large amount of Cuban postal printing to the concern.

An instance is given where Cowan rendered a bill of about $8000 and received in payment more than $10,000. There is nothing to indicate what became of the extra $2000. It is further shown that some of the bills were paid twice. Mr. Bristow makes no attempt to estimate the total amount which Neely fraudulently obtained through his printing office.

Another case of Neely crookedness is disclosed in his dealings with the Keyless Lock Company, of Indianapolis. According to the Bristow report, Neely purchased $14,000 worth of postal supplies from the firm and received from them two checks, aggregating $3292. These checks Mr. Bristow concludes were paid to Neely as a "'commission' or bribe."

The report is severe not only upon Rathbone, but upon W. H. Reeves, who was appointed assistant auditor for the islands by the War Department, and whose duty it was to audit Neely's accounts.

Mr. Neely declares that Rathbone and Reeves, through carelessness or collusion, gave Neely a free hand and that Reeves was a party to the conspiracy to defraud the Cuban Government by falsely reporting the destruction of stamps which were afterward sold by the conspirators. Reeves is said to have confessed that he received $4600 from Neely for concealing this fraud.

Mr. Bristow shows how Rathbone started in at a salary of $4000 a year, and by constant appeals to the Postmaster-General got it increased to $6500, with an "official residence" thrown in. At one time a portion of the increase was in the shape of a per diem allowance of $5. When the salary was raised to $6500 Rathbone was told that the per diem allowance must cease, but notwithstanding this he continued to draw it. Concerning this Mr. Bristow says:

"It appears, therefore, that Director-General Rathbone drew from August 1, 1899, to April 30, 1900, the sum of $1365, as a per diem, which was unauthorized, and that the drawing of the same was fraudulent; and I therefore recommend that he be required to reimburse the postal revenues of Cuba in that amount."

Mr. Bristow further accuses Rathbone of unwarrantably including in the expenses of his official residence items for trunks, gloves, dog collars, and clothing for his coachman. It is further shown that Rathbone made several trips to the United States and without warrant charged to the Cuban Postal Department the expenses of himself and family. One of these items was a bill of $236 from a New York hotel, where Rathbone and his family stayed for eight days—a rate of $29.50 a day.

Finally it is shown that Rathbone drew two warrants in 1899 for $500 each—one when he started on a tour of inspection in Cuba, and the other when he started for the United States—and that he has never made an accounting for either.

"There stands against him, therefore, says the Bristow report, "the charge of unlawfully appropriating $1000 of the Cuban postal fund to his own use."

In conclusion Mr. Bristow says:

"It is my belief that I was justified in recommending the removal of Director-General Rathbone from office; and I further believe that he should be required to answer for fraudulently and unlawfully appropriating to his own use moneys from the postal revenues of Cuba."

Notice democrats!

Democrats to the front!

Our names will be printed on the ballots, boys. This means victory.

The democratic speakers are doing good work, and are making votes every day.

Let every white man vote for every democratic candidate from governor to constable.

As you go about attending to your everyday business from now until next Monday, keep the cause of democracy ever in mind and never let an opportunity pass for saying what you can in the interest of the democratic and white man's cause.

Col. S. W. John, of Birmingham, has brought the party in Shelby under obligation to him for the able and telling speeches he has made in the county in the interest of the county ticket. They say his lucid and able speeches at Bold Springs and New Hope made many votes for the Democratic ticket.

Boys, study them. Our state candidates are Samford, McDavid, Brown, John W. Abercrombie, Smith, Sowell and Poole. For state senator Oliver. Our county candidates—Peters, Ingram, Milner, Ruffin, Russell, Kilpatrick, McGowen, Weaver and Vasser. Study them and teach them to your neighbor. Work to elect them.

Our worthy chairman, J. R. White, has proven himself to be the right man in the right place. Never has a chairman of the democratic party in Shelby county labored under such disadvantages as has Mr. White, and he has met every demand. He is much encouraged with the present situation and feels that if every democrat in the county will do his full duty our entire ticket will be elected.

The only drawback to the democratic ticket was our seeming failure to get our county candidates names on the official ballot. But now, as they will be printed on like the rest of the candidates, this puts us back on top. Boys, we are as sure to win next Monday, as every democrat will do his duty. Come to the polls early and stay until they close, and work every moment. We can all give one day to this noble work.

Let every white man vote for Samford for governor, McDavid, for Secretary of state, Brown for attorney general, John W. Abercrombie for state superintendent of education, Smith for treasurer, Sowell for auditor, Poole for commissioner of Agriculture, Oliver for senator. Then in the county vote for Peters for representative, Ingram for sheriff, Milner for tax collector, Ruffin for tax assessor, Russell for treasurer, Kilpatrick for superintendent of education, McGowen and Weaver for commissioners and Vasser for coroner.

SHELBY FOR BOWIE.

The county convention to select delegates to the congressional convention was held in the court house here on last Saturday. It was presided over by John E. Morris, of Saginaw, E. S. Lyman, Esq., acting as secretary. Mr. Morris, while humorously claiming to be only an ordinary sawmill man, presided over the deliberations of the convention with the dignity and ability which would have done credit to our most noted presiding officers. Never was a more harmonious convention held in Shelby county. The work of the convention was to select seven delegates and seven alternates to represent the county in the congressional convention to be held in Selma on August 15.

Delegates composed of Bowie men entirely were selected and they were, in addition, instructed to vote solidly for Hon. Sydney J. Bowie so long as he should remain a candidate before the convention. Mr. Bowie was in the city during the sitting of the convention, but did not appear before the convention. Many of his friends and admirers desired to have a committee wait on him and notify him of the action of the committee and have him come before the convention and address it. But as Mr. Bowie was not well it was thought best not to do this.

Mr. Robbins on the day of the primary was in Columbiana all day and conceded before he left Mr. Bowie's success in the county He bowed gracefully to the result.

Democrats read the papers, and send them out to your neighbors.

No man can say, "I am a populist is the only reason why I can not vote the democratic ticket," for there is no real and genuine populist ticket in Shelby county. As Frank White says, "the populists met and nominated three or four men and hung their nominations out on the clothes line." The republicans and negroes met in Calera, and nominated their three or four men. The populists notified the republicans where the nominations were hung, and the republicans pinned their nominations to them, and you have what constitutes the only populist ticket there is in Shelby county. If you can vote it you can vote anything.

Col. Frank S. White, of Birmingham, is doing grand work for the democratic party in Shelby county by the speeches he is making. His speeches are just what are needed in Shelby's condition, and they are vote makers. He makes a very strong speech and his arguments are simply unanswerable. At the same time his speeches are made in such a kindly spirit that the most rabid and unreasonable populist cannot take offense. On the contrary he draws to him. His services to the party and to the people of this county will never be forgotten, and our people will await anxiously for an opportunity to show this good and great man their appreciation of what he has done for them and the cause of Democracy.

In our last week's issue we felt impelled, under all the circumstances, to draw pretty tight restrictions against our populist friend, Judge Longshore. The facts as they then existed, we believed, justified this course. We had a cause to come before the people on. We had felt very sanguine of our success. Our nominations not having been regularly filed as the law required, Judge Longshore refused to print the names of the democratic candidates on the official ballot. Our chairman and other democrats sought the best legal advice that could be obtained in the state, and fully satisfied themselves that the refusal of Judge Longshore to do this was wrong, and that it was taking an advantage of a technicality to beat the democrats. They plead with him. They, in a kindly manner, brought every influence to bear upon him. He remained firm in his determination to not print them. Our chairman still persisted, and we held our paper back last week to the last day (Saturday) in the hope that we might be able to tell the voters of the county that Judge Longshore had consented to put the names on the ballot. But receiving no intimation of his purpose to do this, and having to go to press, we felt it our duty to our people and the party to make an expose of the matter. His having now ordered the names placed upon the ticket this gives us an opportunity of commending his decision and action, which we take great pleasure in doing. Our names being on the ballot now insures our success, and, of course, we feel good.

No comparison between Cox, the populist candidate for sheriff, and Ingram, the democratic candidate. Ingram is a poor man, who makes his living by hammering iron at the forge in the blacksmith shop. And Mr. Cox is, we are informed, a general trader and money lender. By the way, have you ever stopped to think that blacksmiths have ever been successful in their political aspirations? Some of the greatest statsmen of whom we have any record, were blacksmiths to begin with. The idea was suggested to us by a great friend and admirer of the late Ed. Vest. That Ed. Vest was a blacksmith and he was usually successful in politics, always led his ticket, and that John Ingram was in line, and would be as sure to be our next sheriff as the 6th of August come. And John will be liked by all the people.

Who will stop for a moment and consider between Milner and John Robertson, except a prejudiced mind? They say Milner has been in office 19 years. During the whole of the 19 years, no man in Shelby county has been able to find one single thing against him. His office of clerk was frequently investigated by committees appointed by the courts and grand juries, and every "t" was always found crossed and every "i" dotted. Not a thing out of place. This was the condition that the state examiner found his office; he so reported to the governor. It is a rare thing that a man, to have been in office so long, should not at some time make a mistake, but not one has ever been found against Billy Milner. Then he is a crippled Confederate soldier and really a needy man. Robertson is a republican, simply running on this ticket for the office and the office alone, as every man is bound to know. He is a young man and able to work, but does not have to work, because he has enough of this world's goods to lift him above the necessity of having to work for a living. He has even voted against the South in all of her struggles for white supremacy and against negro domination. White men, don't be betrayed into voting for such a man against such a man as Mr. Milner.

From the standpoint of the populist speakers and the Advocate there is really no differences, on principle, between the democrats and the populists. They say the democrats have taken from the populists every plank in their platform. This statement and admission is very significant. The true meaning of it is that every plank in the populist platform, being taken out from under them, it leaves them with nothing on which to stand, and it is a party without a platform or principles and is dead. This has been our contention all along, that the party was dead. Then, if it is in fact dead and the democratic party advocates and promulgates every principle which the populist party advocated while it was a party, as is contended by their leaders, why should not every populist come into the democratic party to have his principles carried out? There is no doubt in the world but the populist party is virtually dead. It is only in nominal existence, and this for the plain purpose of electing the officers in a few counties where they have any show at all of being elected. Judge Adams knew the populist party was dead, and that is why he declined the high and exalted honor of being the populist candidate for governor of Alabama. It is not every day that a man can be so highly honored as to be nominated for this high office, and it is not every man that can be thus honored. It is well known that Adams has had an ambition to be governor. His declining this nomination twice under all of the circumstances as they existed is proof sufficient to satisfy any sane man that the party is dead. Then if dead why should good men and sensible men be hoodwinked into supporting candidates for office simply on these officers' account? White men of Shelby county, the candidates of the democratic party in Shelby county are good, honest, true and respectable citizens of your county. They are entirely competent to fill the offices for which they are candidates. They are in every case just as competent as are the populist candidates, and many instances the democratic candidates are more competent to fill the offices. Then why in the name of reason should you not vote for the best men and men who have a party back of them? You cannot say consistently that you cannot do it, because you are populists from principle and must support the candidates of your party, for half of the candidates on the populist ticket are straight republicans and don't pretend to be anything else. If a man can vote for that mixture it does seem to us that he could vote for the democratic candidates who are all clean and good men.

The democratic party in Alabama has felt burdened for many years past with the great work which they have undertaken this year—that of disfranchising the negro. With this purpose in view the party has been making great efforts to get the white people of Alabama together, in order that there might be no doubt but the iron was in proper heat when the great stroke should be made. All of the counties in the state are in line but about a half dozen, Shelby being one of them. The white men are working in harmony for the accomplishment of this great end. Why should Shelby lag? White men, be men. To fail this time might throw us back a quarter of a century, and we would be burdened and annoyed with negro suffrage and its damning results. We know at heart you wish this as much as we do. Then do not allow prejudice or the fact that you have been against the democrats for several years past, cause you to decline to come with us. We will welcome you back as brothers and forget the past. If after the negro is eliminated as a voter you should desire to belong to some other party, why that is your privilege and it will then matter not with us. But do let us unite this time. No need to fear the disfranchising of a single white man.

From all parts of the county comes the encouraging news that democrats are working like beavers for the success of the ticket. This is a guaranty of success. The populist politicians and leaders tried at first to make it appear that there were a few sore heads among the defeated democratic candidates before the primaries. They tried hard to make a few sore heads among them, by going to these defeated candidates and telling them tales, in truth, never had any existence. But failing in this they have, we are glad to say, abandoned this little scheme. All democrats fully appreciate the great work that the party is undertaking, and there are no sulkers in their tents. How about our populist friends? They are torn to pieces. On account of reputed friends and counting out in the populist primaries, many of their party will not support their ticket. Even one of their candidates before their primary is a candidate on the straight republican ticket, prefering to vote and work with this party than with the populist tricksters and politicians. The populist leaders see and fully appreciate this and we are told that their speakers are giving all of their attention to get the negro vote. The hand writing is on the wall with them. The case is a desperate one. It is the negro vote they want. We only ask for the white vote. Have not asked a negro in Shelby county to vote our ticket. Not having done this makes us bold to ask the white man for his vote.

Vote for Peters and you vote for a nice pure man of ability and fine legislative judgment and discretion. Vote for Deans and you vote for the man who, while state senator, passed a stock law for beat 9 and another stock law for Shelby county. He did this without consulting the people. He, in passing this stock law, really and virtually disfranchised, so far as the stock law is concerned, all of the voters in beat 9, and in all the rest of the beats in Shelby county, who were not land owners. Is this not so, our populist friends? What else did he do? He took Shelby county out of the dispensary bill, when there were large petitions there from his home county against taking it out, and none of consequence in favor of taking it out. What else did he do? He put upon you the infamous road law, which with your already high taxes, causes you to pay the biggest tax you have ever paid in Shelby county—a tax which is really beyond the constitutional limit. Now, we are informed that Mr. Deans hides behind Mr. Sturdivant who was then the populist representative. He tries to say that they are Sturdivant's laws. But does not any man with a spoonful of brains know that Sturdivant could never have passed these laws through the house and senate unless Deans had consented to it? If Deans had seen fit to oppose these laws or either of them, he could have defeated their passage in the house even, because Deans had often been to the legislature, and understood the tricks and how to work better than Sturdivant. Besides, it is really a fact that Deans had more influence there than Sturdivant. And as to the senate, of which Deans was a member, one word in opposition to these laws by him in the senate would have settled the matter. So then Mr. Deans is dodging in vain. The people are looking on. They know a thing or two. If he will fool you one time he will fool you again. Peters promises the people in Shelby county that before any law which he passess on this or any other question shall become a law he intends that every man in the county shall be heard, whether he owns land or not. Peters can be depended on.

The democrats of the state have the kindest feeling for the negro, and they have been his closest friend and protector ever since the negro was declared a free man; but they know him, and they know that the ballot in his hand is, and will continue to be, a standing menace to the peace and quiet of our beautiful Southland That in many places in the South the negroes are largely in the majority no one can deny. In these localities, there is only one way to keep him out of power, and this by fraud. Who is guilty of having kept him out in this manner? Nearly all of the white men of the South. When it was known that the nergo was determined to rule where he was in the majority, the white men—those who are now democrats and those who are now populists—arose as one man, in their might and superior intelligence, and dethroned him. He has been kept from filling the offices of our beloved state ever since by methods which we would all condemn under other conditions and circumstances, but which will continue, unless the change is made which the democrats propose. Aside from the negroes holding the offices in many places where he is in the majority, it must be conceded by all that he holds a balance of power in Alabama, and it cannot be successfully contradicted, that he always, when left to the freedom of his own will, casts this balance of power to that side or party which is not only antagonistic to good government and the best interests of the white people, but which is really against his own best interests. This is strange and peculiar, but it is even true, and all white men know it. For instance, immediately after the war, the negro instead of voting with his old masters, (who were really his best and truest friend) and with the good white people of his country, he voted with the scalawags and carpet-baggers, who had no interest in him and cared nothing for him aside from getting his vote. Then when the demagogues, the lords and leaders of populism, agitated the people to the point of establishing the populist party in the South, for no other purpose than that they could ride into office, the negro began to vote with that party. As a rule they would go to the men composing the democratic party, for assistance when they would get into trouble, but when an election would come around they would go and vote against this same man and the cause which he reprsented. Then again he has, as a voter, all the while been insensible to anything like corruption. He has been purchasable, just as so many sheep. As soon as an election comes on he presents himself for a bid He makes no improvement along this line. Therefore the right of suffrage has proven a drawback and a curse to him instead of a privilege and a blessing. Stop him from voting and we remove him from this great temptation, and he will give closer attention to the improvement of himself and the elvation of his race. It is a duty we owe him to disfranchise him.

How men can become so morally debased as to place themselves in a position of suspicion and censure by renouncing their political principles for an office, is beyond comprehension. —Ex.

The political history of all parties contains the names of men who have thought themselves bigger than their party. The political wrecks along the shores of time show how sadly they have been mistaken.—Ex.

Don't forget that Monday, August 6, is election day for state and county offices. Let every patriotic citizen do his duty by giving his vote and his influence to elect the whole ticket. Every democrat is expected to stand by his colors and help to win a victory.

There never was a time in the history of democracy when it was more necessary that every advocate of its principles and tenets should make proof of his faith at the polls. A glorious success now means easy sailing in the future, especially in our county affairs.

The ingratitude of man is more conspicuous when it is charged against a person who deserts his political party after it has conferred office upon him from which he has obtained honor, and emoluments, than if it were the desertion of a private in the ranks.—Ex.

Let Democrats distribute THE CHRONICLE as soon as it reaches the postoffices. Sometimes they are found on counters in stores in large packages many weeks after the election. Have system about this. Select certain energetic men to do the work of distribution.

Now we only have a few days before the election. Let every democrat work every day between this and August 6th, and on the day of the election stand out determined to spend one solid day. Let every democrat in every beat in the county do this, and we are bound to succeed.

A series of meetings will begin at the Baptist church on Monday after the second Sunday, this month. The pastor will be assisted by Rev. J. H. Longerier, of Jasper. All our people enjoyed Rev. Longerier very much last year. It is to be hoped that much good will result from this meeting.

Let the leading democrats in each beat meet together before the election and select with great care six persons and make a list of them. Hand this list to the democratic inspector in your beat to be presented by him on the morning of the election to the board of inspectors of which he is a member. From this list of six the democratic clerks and markers must be selected. So you see the importance of selecting good and competent men.

If at any voting place in the county the democratic inspector is sick,or for any reason cannot or does not attend to serve as such inspector, let the democrats of the beat select a good man—a democrat, and present his name to the other inspectors and returning officer, and ask that he be appointed. They will, in most cases, we presume, show the party courtesy to appoint the man suggested. If not they must, under the law, appoint a democrat, and a proper man.

As for commissioners for the first and third districts, watch "Uncle Jim McGowen" and Wm. Weaver. They are both known and recognized by all to be among the best and most highly respected citizens in the county. McGowen has served as commissioner and proven himself to be just what a commissioner should be. Mr. Weaver is regarded by all who know him as being a man possessing "horse sense," and a commissioner should be all of this. They will both make good and efficient commissioners.

White populists of Shelby county, your democratic brothers in white are begging you, entreating you, to come and vote with them. Vote the entire county ticket. (We really believe the most of you will vote the democratic state ticket.) But vote the county ticket, too. If you can't vote for every man on it, vote for some, and be sure and vote for Peters. He is your fried, and will prove himself to be. Try him. You have tried Deans, and you have found him wanting. Don't risk him again.

A purer, better and more accomplished gentleman can not be found anywhere than Prof. Kilpatrick, democratic candidate for county superintendent of education. He possesses every qualification that goes to fit him peculiarly for this very responsible position. His opponent, Eugene Williams, is now known by the most of the people of the county. Comment in reference to his qualifications, and of the man in general, is unnecessary The people will speak out in the August election. Mind what we tell you.

A vote for the populo-republico ticket is proof that you are neither a true populist nor a true republican, but that you are a mongrel. To vote the democratic ticket this time will not say, necessarily, that you are a democrat, if you have any objection to being considered a democrat. You may vote for the cause the democrats are advocating this time, and if they succeed in their great undertaking, you may after this belong to any party you please. There is no inconsistency in this. But come with us now and help us in this work. You will not only never regret it, but your action in this matter will be a rich legacy to bequeath to your children.

We have endeavored in this issue to present all of the questions involved in this campaign in a fair and impartial manner. We can but believe that when the paper is read by persons who are not filled with prejudice, it must make votes for the democratic ticket. But one thing is necessary, that is that the people have an opportunity to read the paper. Great responsibility rests on the democrats throughout the county. As soon as the paper comes to a beat, or any other literature is sent into a beat, let every democrat make it his duty to help distribute the literature. Put a paper into the hands of every one, and when you have read it hand it around.

While L. J. Carden may have been a Confedrate soldier and lost a limb in the service, he has no more claims on the support of the people of the county than John Russell. Russell was just as true a Confederate soldier as was Carden. Russell was paralyzed in both legs while in the service of his country, is very much older a man, is just as poor and needy, and is much less able to work than Carden. You will make no mistake in voting for Russell. Russell is a straight democrat. Carden claims to be a populist, but is willing to run on a ticket half repulican and half populist, just for the sake of office. This would weigh very much with us. With some people this is a small thing.

It ought to convince the people that the pop-rep party are not sincere nor consistent in their position, for the reason that they have no principle in common with one another. The republicans stand for McKinley, imperialism, for trusts, for militarism, for the single gold standard, for high tariff, for war taxes in time of peace, and for building up colossal fortunes for the few and the pauperism of the masses. The populists pretend to stand for the right of the common people as against those advocated by the republicans. And yet they combine against the democrats, and those democrats led by Bryan and W. J. Samford, for what? Simply for office —the loaves and fishes. They are held together by the cohesive power of the public plunder.—Cullman Tribune-Gazette.

While John S. Pitts may make a competent tax assesor, J. E. Ruffin will make just as competent a one. J. E. Ruffin is a democrat, and stands by the principle of his party. John S. Pitts claims to be a populist; at the same time we find him running for tax assesor on a ticket which is half populist and half republican. Half populist and half republican does not make a full populist ticket. A candidate is supposed to be of that political party represented by the ticket in the field. Then Mr. Pitts is of no political party and possesses no political principles. No populist is under any obligation to vote for him and his republican campanions in arms. Better vote for a good and straight man who has honest convictions, and belong to a party which advocates principles. Ruffin is such an one.

The campaign for the election of state and county officers is approaching its end. The election takes place on August 6, one week from tomorrow. There is little doubt of the result, none whatever as to state officers, and, as said, little as to any other. But this is no reason why democrats should be unmiddful of their duty to the party. The essential thing in Alabama is that the party shall show itself united and strong for any good work required of it, and this showing must be by the vote the party casts at the polls. The enemies of the party must be taught that democracy is the will of the majority of the people of the state, and that its purposes march even with the best interests of the state. It is the party of the high ground, the party of intelligence, of order and of education. The well being of the state is dependent upon it.—Sunday's Mobile Register.

The district conference of the African Methodist Church was in session in this city the greater part of last week. There were many distinguished colored divines among the visitors, among whom were W. H. Council, president of the Huntsville Colored Normal College; Prof. Morton, of the Selma Colored Institute, and Elder I. N. Fitzpatrick, missionary to Africa. The latter drew very large crowds to hear his lectures on Africa. He is quite entertaining and instructive. He had with him many curiosities, such as natural ostrich eggs, feathers, lion claws, walking canes, etc. We were informed he described Africa as the greatest country on the globe; that Africa was the only country under the sun where they have everything which all other countries together have, and humorously concluded that the white man had about had his day; that he would not reign but a few more years, and then the black would come in and would reign a thousand years; that during this time they, the black men, would disfranchise the whites. At the end of the thousand years the millennium would follow. His lecture was interspersed with humor and wit and solid good sense.

To the Republicans of Shelby County.

This is the first time since 1888 that we have had a chance to vote the straight out republican ticket. I am glad to know the line will be drawn between the democrats, pupulites and republicans. As to the white republicans I know how they stand; they will vote the republican ticket. As to the negro who will vote the populite ticket he has no gratitude and deserves not only to be disfranchised but put back in slavery. Suppose the great republican leader who freed the negro could rise from the dead and face those populite negroes, what would he say? He would tell them he was sorry he ever freed them after they have shown so little gratitude. As to Chairman Vaughn, we will follow no traitor into the enemy's camp. We consider him as great a traitor to his party as Benedict Arnold was to his country. And he retained his seat by fraud and misrepresentation, and our standard bearer Sturdivant has a letter turned over to him by me proving it. Let the starry heavens fall, let the earth quake and tremble, let all the devils in hell with two legs be turned loose among us, but I for one will stick to principles and not be brow—beaten nor bought with a few dollars.

Yours to stick,
W. W. WALLS,

AN ADDRESS.

Issued to the White Voters of Shelby County.

To the white voters of Shleby county:

This is one political campaign in which all of the white voters of Alabama are expected to come together for one common purpose, and that to disfranchise the negro, and thereby purify the ballot, and insure forever white supremacy and a white man's government. It is my firm belief that all true white men, at heart, desire this, it matters not whether they be democrats, republicans or populists. The great work of the democratic party in Alabama this year is to accomplish this much desired end. The party set it on foot by declaring in the state convention which assembled in the city of Montgomery, in favor of a constitutional convention. The Press of the state have advocated it Numerous good men and able speakers are being sent out by the state committee, for the purpose of brining the white voters together on this great question. In nearly all of the counties of the state—All perhaps but about six—the white men have come together and democrats, populists and republicans are working together like brothers, and there can be but little, if any, doubt but the great object will be accomplished. But the matter ought to be so near the heart of every true white man that he would not be willing to take any risk on it, and that every one, without an exception, would work earnestly to insure success in this, the greatest and most praiseworthy work the party has undertaken in thirty-five years.

In the half dozen counties in the state where there is any fights being made against this movement worth mentioning, there is no real reason for the fight except that a few ambitious populists leaders want to be elected to office. This is the condition in Shelby county today. Nothing prevents the white voters of this county from coming together and working in harmony for the accomplishment of this great result, except the advice of a few populist office holders and office seekers in the county. They have no other reason under the sun for advising the people this way but the subservance of their own selfish ends.

The honest yeomanry, at heart, desire to do right. They really desire to know what is right. They trust their leaders, and follow where they say come. The populist party in the states is dead and is only held together in a pretended state of existence, for the purposes set out above. My populist friends, white men, are you going to be further made tools of? Will you not, rather come out from among them, and join the democrats eliminating the negro vote? Then we will have strictly white men as voters in Alabama, and it will matter but little then what party is in power. The white men will rule.

These same populist leaders would do anything to carry their point. They tell you it is you, the white men, that democrats are seeking to disfranchise. You know well that this is not true. Do we wish to disfranchise our democratic friends, who have been voting with us throughout these years of democratic warfare? No! no! Do you not know that to disfranchise our populist friends, we would have to disfranchise our democratic friends? We dont intend, and will not do either. The party stands committed against disfranchising a single white man in Alabama. At the said state convention, after the platform declaring in favor of a constitutional convention was adopted, Judge Carmichael introduced the following resolution, which was adotped without a dessenting voice, and amid the greatest enthusiam and applause: "Resolved, That it is the sense of the democratic party in convention assembled, that no white man in Alabama shall be disfranchised, except for the cause of crime alone." Is this not sufficient to satisfy any reasonable man that the democrats are not after disfranchisng the white men or any one of them?

I am frequently asked the question, "Can the negro voter be disfranchised without disfranchising the white man?" This is a question which has been discussed at great length by our ablest lawyers.

It is the opinion of Senator John T. Morgan and many other able constitutional lawyers that the negro as a race can be disfranchised, but that it might result in cutting down our representation in congress.

If this is all the penalty then we are willing to pay it. But again in the states of Mississippi and Louisiana the negro is disfranchised without disfranchising the white man.

The truth is that many people of the North are as anxious that the negro be disfranchised as are the people of the South. So the negro is disfranchised in the states named above beyond a doubt. So don't, my white friends, be afraid that your right to vote will be taken away from you. And don't allow the Populist leaders to alarm you along this line.

Now, that Judge Longshore has been convinced that it is his duty to have the names of democratic candidates printed on official ballot, a great trouble and complication has been relieved. There is nothing for the voter to do but to go into the polling place and, if he can mark his own ticket, ask the managers for a ticket or ballot and proceed to make the mark (X) before (on the left hand side) of the name of the candidate of your choice. Be sure and vote for every Democratic candidate from governor down by making the mark (X) in front of his name. A ballot very much the same, if not the same, as the official ballot will be sent you along with this circulor address. The X is made in the proper place before every democratic candidate's name. Preserve it carefully and study the candidates and teach them to your friends and neighbors, so that no mistake will be made.

If you cannot read sufficiently well to enable you to vote safely and intelligently, it is your privilege to ask for the democratic marker to assist you. There will be one or more at every voting place in the county. I call especial attention to the names of the democratic candidate and the republican candidate for state superintendent of education. They are both named Abercrombie. The democrat is John W. or J. W. and republican is James I. or J. I. Don't make the fatal mistake of voting for James I. Be sure to vote for John W.

When you have marked your ticket fold it leaving out ot the fold the end where the manager signs his initials Read carefully the card of instruction at the voting place, or a better way still would be to advise freely with some good democratic friend in whom you have confidence.

Now, it is to be sincerely trusted that every democrat will vote the Democratic ticket in full and try to secure by fair, but earnest argument as many other voters as possible.

Be on the grounds early in the day and remain until the polls are closed. Show your confidence in the success of your party ticket, and this will be an inducement for others to vote our ticket.

Let every white voter in Shelby county do his full duty as between himself, his county and his God, and I feel sure that success will crown the great cause of the white man of Alabama on the 6th day of August, 1900.

J. R. WHITE,
Chairman Dem. Ex. Com.

When a preparation has an advertised reputation that is world-wide, it means that preparation is meritorious. If you go into a store to buy an article that has achieved universal popularity like Cascarets Candy Cathartic for example, you feel it has the endorsement of the world. The judgment of the people is infallible because it is impersonal. The retailer who wants to sell you "something else" in place of the article you ask for has an ax to grind. Don't it stand to reason? He's trying to sell something that is not what he represents it to be. Why? Because he expects to derive an extra profit out of your credulity. Are you easy? Don't you see through his little game? The man who will try and sell you a substitute for Cascarets is a fraud. Beware of him! He is trying to steal the honestly earned benefits of a reputation which another business man has paid for, and if his conscience will allow him to go so far, he will go farther. If he cheats his customer in one way, he will in another and it is not safe to do business with him. Beware of the Cascaret substitutor! Remember Cascarets are never sold in bulk but in metal boxes with the long-tailed "C" on every box and each tablet stamped C. C. C.

TWO HEROES IN CHINA.

HOW THE TWIN MISSIONARIES SAVED THEIR LIVES.

The Steele Brothers Had Been Famous Cricket Players Back in England—The Game Proved Their Salvation In a Thrilling Emergency.

This is a little story of the way two missionaries in China, surrounded by a dense and hostile population of fanatics, who whispered tales of child-eating and black art against them, saved their lives and the property of their church, not more than a dozen years ago—at a time when other workers not far away from them were being cruelly murdered.

Of all Chinese rivers the Yangtse is by far the most interesting. Its long course offers every variety of scenery on both sides as far as the eye can see to great overhanging precipices that in places totally exclude the sunlight. Pursuing its winding way through great stretches of country above the tea shipping town of Hankow, this river taps the very heart of the Chinese Empire and cuts into a country where, shut off almost as completely from their friends as if they were dead, are many little bands of devoted missionaries.

One morning fifteen years ago two young men reached the town of Hankow from Hongkong on a small steamer. They were brothers—the Steele twins, people used to call them—and two years before they had been the idols of the English cricketing world. One day, just after both had been selected for prominent places on the British team of cricketers to visit Australia, an honor the significance of which cannot be understood, except by cricket enthusiasts, they calmly dropped out of the ranks, announced that they had decided to make some serious use of the balance of their lives, and a week later boldly set their faces away from their home and all their associates and became missionaries to China. It was the wonder of the sporting world for a month, and then people forgot all about it.

But the young men were in earnest, and they lost no time in going out to Hongkong and fitting themselves as rapidly as possible for the work. Pang Soe, a "dangerous" station, was about to be vacated when they were ready, and, notwithstanding that the country for miles around was most heartbreaking soil for the planting of the seed they carried, they willingly took the opportunity to go.

For two years they labored incessantly in their little mission, never faltering in the work. But once in a while their thoughts drifted back to the old days and lingered on the dangerous ground of a happy, careless, active past. One afternoon one brother came across the other in the back of the mission inclosure relieving his feelings with a coal oil can for a wicket and a stone for a ball. His ardent love for the game had finally broken through the shell. Both brothers colored up—one because he had been caught, the other because the lapse expressed well his own hard struggle to keep the old Adam away.

Then they sat down and talked it over. Their mission work was languishing. The simple pastimes they had inaugurated in the settlement were looked on, even by those half-unfolded minds, as babyish. The outcome was a decision that God's work would be helped, not hindered, by a manly form of sport. Next day a sampan took letters down the river to Hankow bound for "home." They were orders for a consignment of the best bats, balls and stumps that money could buy.

The sixty scholars that the Steeles had gathered at the mission school were set to work leveling off a field and a pitch and by the time the box of material arrived they had everything in readiness.

Patience and two teachers, whose services could not have been secured for any club in England for thousands of dollars finally brought these awkward, lumbering Chinese boys to such a pitch of perfection that a year later a big junk was chartered by the missionaries and a crowd of officers and apprentice lads from a British ship loading tea down at Hankow were brought up for a game, eighteen players a side—"England versus China." The mission lads won. The sailors hardly knew, till they got back to Hankow, whether it was all a dream or not. When they found out some time after that the missionaries "Ah Quoy" and "Ho Ah Yid" were the famous Steele brothers they began to understand.

As time went on the anti-foreign element—they call them Boxers nowadays—began to get restless again. Bands of cutthroats made their appearance both up and down the river with their cry of "Death to the white men!" "Death to the Christians!" At Pang Soe they began to hear rumors of burning missions and murdered workers.

One day the storm broke. Word came that a band of 500 wild fanatics was ten miles to the southeast, marching toward the settlement. The Steeles had no weapons; there was not another white man within a hundred miles, nor a foreign gunboat in the Yangtse River. They had one sporting chance in a thousand, and, like sportsmen, they took it. As they had worked out the spiritual salvation of their pupils with cricket so they decided to try to work out their own material salvation with the same potent force.

Presently lads with blanched faces came and reported the rapid approach of the incendiaries. Without any appearance of haste the brothers calmly ordered the wickets pitched on the field facing the mission building, and, with two teams of boys, went out to play as deliberately as if the place had been a village green in their own native country. Hundreds of men and women crowded about the inclosure. They wanted to protect their missionaries, who had secured much of their affection, but at any cost they were determined to save themselves and their children, even if they had to give up the "white twins" to be butchered.

Perfectly disciplined, the lads on the field began to play, their wondering parents looking on astonished at the coolness of the teachers. Up came the rioters. As they reached the outer circle of the field the brothers stepped forward. One of them, bat in hand, commanded a halt and the great mob, amazed at the strange sight before them, actually obeyed him.

Then he talked with quiet eloquence and in sentences brought down to the simple understanding of his listeners. He did not speak of God or Christianity. But he did tell them something about the game he was playing. He said that it was a miracle worker, a strange and wonderful thing that was the whole secret of the marvelous success of the white people. It was the seed that had planted great British war ships and armies all over the world. What had it not done even in a little time at Pang Soe? The villagers could testify. Were not the faces of the children rosy? Had not every lad that played the marvelous game become stronger and brighter and better fitted to go to the great examination cells at Canton and win honors for himself and his parents?

And he and his brother were giving to China that great secret which had made their own empire so mighty and which in time was going to make China might too. It was a talisman also. Those foolish men with the knives and the torches could burn and kill common people, but let them beware. The moment they touched a cricket player they were doomed to terrible destruction.

The villagers nodded their heads. The mob stood sullen and silent a moment as the brothers deliberately turned their backs to them, and, slowly walking across the field, proceeded with the game.

Then the rioters swept on. And by nightfall Pang Soe was in peace again.

THE PAINLESSNESS OF DEATH.

Testimony of Men Who Have Been on the Brink.

There need be no shrinking dread of the "pangs of dissolution," the final agony," for such things have little existence save in disordered imaginations. Ask any physician whose head is silvered over with gray, and he will tell you that while disease is often painful, death itself is gentle, painless, natural, like the fading of a flower or the falling of a leaf. It is literally true that there is a time to die as well as to live, and when that time comes the event becomes not only tolerable, but, like all other natural processes, desirable; every fibre of our tired, worn out being demands it.

The overwhelming majority of such records of authentic "last words" as we possess re-echo the saying of Charles II. on his deathbed: "If this be dying, nothing could be easier."

Even in such an extreme case as death under the fangs of wild beasts, all those who have gone very near the Valley of the Shadow from this cause unite in testifying, incredible as it may seem, that after the first shock of the attack there is absolutely no sensation of pain.

For instance, Livingstone, upon one occasion, was pounced upon by a lion, which felled him to the ground; and, making his teeth meet in his shoulder, dragged him a considerable distance into the jungle before his followers could come to his assistance. Livingstone asserts most positively that he was perfecty conscious of what was happening when he was being carried, could hear the cries of his friends, and, wondered how long it would take them to reach him, but that he felt no pain or fear whatever, nothing but a strange, drowsy, dreamy sensation. And yet his shoulder was so severely injured that he never fully recovered the use of it, and his body was identified after death by the scars.

Sir Samuel Baker reports a similar experience with a bear which he had wounded. The great brute felled him by a stunning blow from its paw, and he was aroused to consciousness by its crunching the bones of his hand; it continued the process up his arm, and had almost reached the shoulder before the rescuing party could reach him, and yet Sir Samuel declares that he felt no pain whatever, and that his only sensation was one of intense resentment against the beast for seeming to enjoy the taste of him so much. Nor are these by any means exceptional instances, as many other such reports could be collected, and it is almost an axiom with surgeons that the severer the injury the less the pain. Many a man has received his death-wound and never known it until his strength began to fail.-Woods Hutchinson.

Human Nestlings.

In the bushmen of Australia we find, perhaps, the lowest order of men that are known. They are so primitive that they do not know enough to build even the simplest forms of huts for shelter.

The nearest they could approach to it to gather a lot of twigs and grass, and, taking them into a thicket or jungle, they build a nest for a home, much as does a bird. The nest is usually built large enough for the family, and if the latter be very numerous, then the nests are of a very large size.

Into this place they all turn and snuggle and curl up together, like kittens. Sometimes the foliage will grow together and form a sort of natural covering, but there is never any attempt at constructing a protection from the rain and storms, and it is a marvel how they endure them.

Where there is a particularly good piece of jungle for home sites it will be quickly appropriated for the purpose, and sometimes hundreds of these nests will be found together in the bush, as it is called.

The world's births amount to 36,792,000 every year.

SMITH ON THE BOERS.

HE DEPLORES GREED OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

History, He Says, Shows No More Memorable Fight Than the Present War—Says Victory Over Boers Will Be a Moral Defeat.

Prof. Goldwin Smith, who gave up a place in British politics and also a position in Oxford University in order that he might live in Canada, has recently returned from a European trip and has given his views on the Boer war.

"None of my English friends," he says, "has ever doubted what would be the issue of a war in which the entire forces of the British Empire were opposed to those of a population not half as large as the population of Liverpool. The Boers have put into the field decrepitude and childhood. They have no reserves. We shall win, and, having won, we shall, too, probably, reap in the judgment of posterity a measure of the same glory which we reaped by the burning of Joan of Arc. We shall be fortunate if we escape the guilt of opening an era of unscrupulous rapacity and violence which might throw back for a century the progress of moral civilization.

"A civilian can have nothing to say about this dispute as to the conduct of our generals. The generals were distinguished men. The British soldier has shown his wonted valor. Canadian and Australian have fought gallantly at his side. Our military administration seems also to have really done well and put into the field with striking rapidity an unexpected amount of force. But besides the difficulties of the country, we have encountered in our enemy a moral force on which we did not reckon and which escaped the discernment of Cecil Rhodes. We have encouraged in its greatest intensity that enthusiastic patriotism which turns the sluggard's blood to flame. Can history show a more memorable fight for independence than that made by the Boer? Does it yield to that made by Switzerland against Austria and Burgundy, or that made by the Tyrolese under Hofer? The Boer gets no pay; no comforts and luxuries are provided for him by fashionable society; he can look forward to no medals or pensions; he voluntarily endures the utmost hardships of war; his discipline, though unforced, seems never to fail. Boys of sixteen—a correspondent at the Cape tells me even at fourteen—take the rifle from the hand of the mother, who remains to pray for them in her lonely home, and stand beside their grandsires to face the murderous artillery of modern war. A newspaper correspondent the other day saw a boy of sixteen lying mangled on the field, and saying: 'It does not hurt much; only I am so thirsty.' Rude, narrow minded, fanatical in their religion, these men may be; so were the old Scotch Calvinists; so have been some of the noblest wild-stocks of humanity; but surely they are not unworthy to guard a nation.

"Ax on shoulder the Boers twice went out to make for themselves a home in the wilderness where they might live their own life. Who had a right to take it from them? Her Britannic majesty did not create Africa. There is too much truth in the saying that this is the second Jameson raid It makes me sad to think into what hands my country has fallen."

Sensible Advice.

C. P. Huntingdon, who after a phenomenal career in business became a Pacific railway president, through the columns of Success says these sensible words to boys and young men who are ambitious for honorable achievement: Advice is thrown away on a boy or young man who considers it beneath him to work at anything which hardens the hands or soils the garments, but who prefers a clerkship in a store or office at starvation wages. Good clothes should not be worn at the expense of a career. To the man who is not afraid of downright hard work, I would suggest frugality, investing surplus earnings, if only a dime a day, in a savings bank, and reading useful books during leisure hours.

"Papa Sells Talk."

A minister's little daughter and two little boys, the sons of commercial travelers, were talking about their respective papas and what they did. One little lad said: "My papa sells shoes," and the other said, "Mine sells paper," and turning to the little girl, "What does your papa sell?" For a moment the child hesitated, but, not to be outdone by the boys, she replied with the air of a duchess, "My papa sells talk."

AWFUL FAMINE

That Is Now Making of India One Vast Charnel Pen.

The famine area in India is about 350,000 square miles, and extends over the central, south and northwestern provinces, says Leslie's Weekly. No pen could describe its awful horrors. Some of the things proved by photography are too realistically horrible to be reproduced in any publication, and we print only a few of the less frightful photographs taken by the missionaries, because many have not believed that such an awful condition could exist in this century of plenty and prosperity. Emaciated beyond belief, the starving natives crawl to the house of the nearest sahib, usually a missionary, to crave food; but 60,000 mouths have to be fed. Fifteen dollars a year will feed a Hindu, yet even this pitiable allowance is not to be had. The causes of the famine are the failure of the crops, the refusal of the native princes to allow their hunting jungles to be converted into fertile agricultural regions, and the mysterious disappearance of a special famine fund of $100,000,000, collected by the government after the famine of 1877. The Hindu is a strict vegetarian. The low-caste Hindu is a fatalist. So, when famine stalks abroad the Hindu submits uncomplainingly. Day by day he will subsist on less food, until at last, when a mere shadow, he will drag his bony self to a relief station. There he may get food—or he may not. If not, he crouches in some corner, or out in the fields, under God's trees, and awaits the coming of death. The majority of the victims are women and children.

"Akzzzxa!" She Gasped.

A boy's magazine had offered an anagram for competition among its readers; the sentence to be transposed ran as follows: "Kruger's addled policy of aggrandizement will puzzle a sphinx." Tommy tried combination after combination, but always failed to utilize all the letters. At last a brilliant thought struck him, enabling him to dispose of any superfluous letters. Here is the solution: "With a gurgling cry of 'Akzzzxa!' Miss Nellie Pullen dropped dead." The editor awarded Tommy an extra prize for his ingenuity, remarking that, if the young lady spoke only English, her death must have been most painful."—Stray Stories.

The summer's awful heat will kill those not fit to resist it—those whose bodies are full of poison because they have neglected their bowels.

The victims of sunstroke, or of any of the other terrible dangers of summer—diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera morbus—are always those who have been careless about keeping clean inside, and as a result have their blood full of rotten filth breeding disease germs and their bodies ready with weakness to succumb to the hot spell. Dizziness, heat headaches, sick stomachs, sticky oozing ill-smelling sweats, restless nights, terrible pains, gripes and cramps in the bowels, sudden death on the street, all result from this neglect.

IN A WAITING ATTITUDE.

Germany to be the Stumbling Block in Withdrawal of Troops.

THE EMPEROR WILL NOT GIVE UP PEKIN.

Dispatch From Minister Conger Does Not Materially Change the Situation---Negotiations Continue Between the Powers.

Negotiations continue between the powers respecting the propositions of Russia. It appears that the proportion of the proposals which contemplate the removal of the legations to Tien Tsin does not meet with opposition; but the proposal that the troops should vacate Pekin will not be acted upon until after thorough examination of the case by other powers from a special view to the question of military advisability. Germany's programme is to await the action of the other powers.

Count von Buelow, the German foreign minister, has made a communication to this effect to the Russian Ambassador, Count Vanderosten-Sacken.

A high official of the German foreign office said in defining Germany's position:

"Germany has not answered Russia formally, although she has informed her confidentially as to the views of the German government. Certainly we do not object to the removal of the legations temporarily to Tien Tsin, as this would enable the members to recuperate from their recent hardships. So far as the answer of the United States to Russia is concerned we now see it to be in substantial agreement with Germany's position."

Most of the German papers are of the opinion that it is very doubtful if Germany can adopt Russia's suggestion, and they deplore the evidence of a threatening split in the European concert. One leading Berlin journal asserts that Emperor William while conversing with a group of officers last Saturday evening said, "under no conditions shall we give up Pekin, not even if every army corps has to be mobilized."

Conger Heard From.

A dispatch from Minister Conger was received by the state department Monday. It was chiefly interesting in being the first word from him since his dispatch of about the 27th ultimo, referring to the proposed parade of troops through the Imperial Palace in Pekin. The contents were not made public, but it was stated that it contained nothing materially changing the situation.

Boholo is an island in the southern part of the archipelago, 365 miles from Manila. It lies north of the large island of Mindanao and is not far from Cebu.

ALABAMA NEWS GLEANINGS.

Governor Johnston and Staff Going to New Hampshire.

Governor Joseph H. Johnston, accompanied by his wife and several other ladies and the members of his official staff, will be present at the presentation of splendid gifts to the battleships Alabama and Kearsarge in Portsmouth harbor on September 18.

The party from Alabama goes in response to an invitation from the state of New Hampshire. A daughter of the late Admiral Semmes is among those who are invited.

The governor of New Hampshire will place on the Kearsarge a bronze tablet ten feet long and four feet wide. On this will be inscribed a sentiment commemorative of the historic combat at sea between the old Kearsarge and the old Alabama, and he will present to Governor Johnston an identical tablet for the Alabama when she shall be ready for sea in October.

Governor Johnston will deliver a speech during the exercises, as will the governor of New Hampshire and several other men who are nationally prominent, including former Secretary of the Navy Hilary A. Herbert, who named the Alabama.

$50,000 Given to Washington's School.

The press reported Booker Washington as being present at Mr. Huntington's funeral, and the other day when the dead millionaire's will was made public it was noticeable that it contained no reference to the Tuskegee school. That is now explained by the $50,000 gift made during Mr. Huntington's lifetime.

Writing from Tuskegee to the New York Tribune, Booker Washington says:

"The first time I saw Mr. Huntington he gave me $2 for our school at Tuskegee; the last time I saw him he gave me $50,000 toward the endowment of our school. Mr. Huntington not only aided our school at Tuskegee financially, but he took a deep and personal interest, not only in the Hampton and Tuskegee schools, as well as others, but in the entire negro race."

Tragedy at Rutledge.

Monday night John B. Beverly shot and killed John A. Johnson, his brother-in-law, at Rutledge. Johnson had been drinking and drove his wife, Beverly's sister, away from home. Armed with a shotgun, Johnson started to hunt his wife and terrified the town. He finally went to the home of his father-in-law and gained entrance to the house through a window. Just as he was preparing for a shot, Beverly fired two shots from a revolver, one bullet going through Johnson's heart. Beverly was discharged on examination. Both families are prominent.

M. F. Gardner Commits Suicide.

The people of Centreville were greatly shocked by the suicide of M. F. Gardner, a prominent citizen, Monday afternoon. He was seated in a room where his little daughter was sick, and suddenly said to his wife and a lady present that he was tired of living, and placed a pistol to his head and sent a bullet crashing through his brain. He was dead before a physician could reach him.

He was related to some of the most prominent families in Bibb county. Ill health probably caused the rash act.

TRAINS CRASH; THIRTEEN DEAD

Besides Mangled Victims Over Thirty Injured.

WAS REAR-END COLLISION

Fast Flying Excursion Train Plunges Into "Milk" Cars and Both Demolished---A Horrible Scene.

Thirteen persons killed and over thirty others injured in the appalling record of a rear-end collision between an excursion train and a milk train on the Bethlehem branch of the Philadelphia and Reading railway Sunday morning at Hartfield, Pa., twenty-seven miles north of Philadelphia.

The wrecked train consisted of ten day coaches and was the first section of a large excursion made up of people from Bethlehem, Allentown and surrounding towns to Atlantic City. It left the union depot in Bethlehem at 6:05 Sunday morning exactly thirty-five minutes behind the milk train. The latter train consisted of two milk cars and two passenger coaches and had stopped at every station on the road from Bethlehem en route to Philadelphia.

At 6:54 the milk train drew up at the milk platform at Hatfield and in less than two minutes the special excursion train, running at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, crashed into the rear of the milk train. The locomotive plowed through the two passenger coaches and crushed them as if they were egg shells. The milk car immediately in front was also badly wrecked. Four persons, Godfrey Kaelin, his daughter Mamie, Harold Landis and William Blackburn, on the passenger car of the milk train, were almost instantly killed. Fortunately there were very few persons on this train.

The excursion train was a picture of indescribable horror. The locomotive was a mass of bent and broken iron and firmly held the bodies of its engineer and fireman beneath its great weight. Behind the engine six of the ten cars were also a mass of wreckage. The first car was broken in twain and the other five cars were thrown on their sides, completely demolished.

Nine persons were killed in the first two cars and the others in these coaches were badly maimed.

As soon as the crash came a terrible cry rose from the smashed cars, and those who had not been injured quickly crawled or jumped from the cars and went to the assistance of the injured. Many were pinned down by wreckage and had to be freed by the liberal use of axes. Messengers were sent to the nearby villages for physicians and a relief train was telegraphed for from Bethlehem. With fifteen doctors and a half dozen nurses a special train was sent from Bethlehem, but before it reached the scene of the wreck it was signaled to return to Bethlehem, as a special carrying nearly all the injured had started for the hospital at that place. On the run from Hatfield to the hospital three of the injured died.

There are conflicting stories as to responsibility for the accident. One version is that the engineer of the excursion train had been warned at Souderton, the station above Hatfield, that a milk train was a few minutes ahead of him. Another story is that the train dispatcher's office in Philadelphia was at fault. The trainmen refused to talk of the accident.

One of the handsomest fees ever paid a general practitioner for services in a single case will be received by Dr. J. N. Arthur Goebel, brother of the dead governor and his devisee under the will, has placed a claim against the estate of Governor Goebel for $10,000 for Dr. McCormick's services.

REPLIES ARE KEPT SECRET.

Acting Secretary Adee Says It Is For Diplomatic Reasons.

So far as it could be ascertained there were no important developments in the Chinese situation at Washington Sunday. The officials maintain unusual reticence. They say they have no information to make public regarding the replies to the American-Russia propositions regarding the withdrawal of the military forces of the powers from Pekin.

Mr. Adee, the acting secretary of state, has decided for the present not to make any statement as to the names of the powers which have answered or to indicate whether the replies are of an affirmative or a negative character, on the ground that publication of the attitude of the powers might embarrass the negotiations at this time.

Supposed Dead Man Shows Up.

ANNUAL COTTON STATEMENT.

Secretary Hester Puts Crop of 1899-1900 at 9,436,416 Bales.

Secretary Hester's New Orleans cotton exchange annual report was issued in full Monday. He puts the cotton crop of 1899-1900 at 9,436,416 bales, a decrease of 1,838,424 under 1898 99. Of this, he says that Texas, including Indian Territory, shows falling off of 964,000, the group of other states, consisting of Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Utah and Kansas, 400,000, and the Atlantic States, consisting of Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky and Virginia, 475,000.

He places the average commericial value of the crop at $38.55 per bale, against $25.08 last year; $28.62 year before last, and $36.76 in 1896 97. and the total value of the crop, $363,785,000, against $282,773 000 last year and $322,556,000 the year before.

He puts the total spindles in the south at 6,267,163, an increase over last year of 1,315,071. These include 1,418,497 net not complete. The net gain in the number of southern mills over last year has been 113, making the total now 663.

ELECTION IN ARKANSAS.

Democrats Carry Arkansas By an Usual Majority.

The entire democratic ticket, headed by Hon. Jefferson Davis, of Pope county for governor, was victorious in Monday's election in Arkansas. Early returns indicate that the vote will be lighter than was expected. H. L. Remmel, the republican candidate for governor, which was the only opposition, made a good showing, and his increased vote over two years ago will probably reduce the usually large democratic majority. A fair estimate places the total vote as follows:

Davis, democrat, 100,000; Remmel, republican, 40,000; Files, populist, 3,000. Davis' majority, 57,000.

MISSISSIPPI FEUD.

Kennedy and Horton Factions Engage in a Pitched Battle.

Reports have reached Jackson, Miss., of a fresh outbreak of the Kennedy–Horton feud in the Auburn neighborhood, twenty miles south of that city. Friday two factions met on the public highway and a pitched battle occurred, during which T. W. Hackley and John Strong received probably fatal wounds. The feud was caused by the elopement of a daughter of James Kennedy with John Strong, and a good portion of the neighborhood is involved.

Howard Campaigning in Nebraska.

Former Congressman M. W. Howard, of Alabama, has opened a four weeks' campaigning tour in Nebraska, the state of Colonel William Jennings Bryan. He will speak in the interest of the Barker-Donnelly middle-of-the-road populite ticket. He will, during the campaign, visit Lincoln, the home town of Bryan, and will exert every effort in behalf of the candidates for whom he is campaigning. From Nebraska he will go to Kentucky, where he will take the stump for three weeks, after which he will go to Ohio.

Candler Declared the Nominee.

The democratic congressional executive committee of the First Mississippi district has officially declared the nomination of Hon. E. S. Candler, Jr., over his opponent, Hon. W. M. Cox, for the seat in Congress now occupied by "Private" John Allen. His majority was something in excess of one thousand.

The newly named congressman is a native Mississippian, a lawyer by profession and about 42 years of age.

OPPOSITION FROM SOME QUARTERS

London Papers Raise a Howl While Germany Seems Not at All Pleased.

A London special of Friday says: In the absence of further news from China the papers are again filled with discussions of the Russo-American proposals which, so far as may be gathered from the representations of opinions in the various European capitals, are calculated to subject the unity of allies to an exceedingly severe and dangerous test.

In Germany especially, these proposals are so diametrically opposed to Emperor William's policy that they have produced something like consternation. As the London Daily News editorially remarks, "Count von Waldersee was assuredly not sent to assist in restoring the empress dowager."

It is recognized on all sides that Germany's decision is the pivot of the matter. Emperor William intended by dispatching Count von Waldersee to have the master hand in the Chinese settlement. Russia has taken the wind out of that officer's sails, and is now posing as the friend and protector of China.

The morning papers express the greatest suspicion of the intention of Russia. The London Times' editorial fairly represents the opinion of all, saying:

"The advantages of Russia's policy are not manifest, and it is very doubtful whether it will recommend itself to powers like England and Germany that have large commercial interests in the establishment of a stable and progressive government to replace the reactionary clique which has impeded all progress and development in China in recent years.

"Negotiation with Li Hung Chang would be a condemnation of government crimes and the throwing away of all the advantages gained by the occupation of Pekin.

"Much mischief may already have been done by the hesitation to enter the forbidden city. To withdraw from Pekin would be interpreted as proving not only that the allies are cowards, but that they are hopelessly divided. It may be that some of the powers will withdraw, but that does not imply that others are bound to leave Pekin and to acquiesce in the restoration of a government guilty of a gross international crime."

The Standard says:

"Diplomacy sometimes makes strange bedfellows. It is curious to find the mighty autocracy of the old world and the great republic of the new world gently coaxing the other powers along the paths of pace. Nothing could be better than the spirit of these documents, and it is interesting to find two such powers anxious to determine the controversy in an unselfish spirit."

"The Daily Mail says:

"Russia has forced the hand of the United States against the better judgment of the latter. At the same time the United States government has adduced such valid reasons why Russia's policy is a bad one that it will hardly be expected that other powers will concur."

The Daily Chronicle thinks the "open door" will prove the rift in the loot which now sounds such harmony between the United States and Russia.

The Daily Telegraph remarks:

"The Russian proposals are among the most extraordinary coups attempted of recent years, even by Russia. The upshot will probably be the acceptance of Li Hung Chang to negotiate some kind of a compromise with the empress dowager."

Vienna specials show that the Russo-American proposals have caused extreme annoyance there.

"Germany's attitude toward the Chinese crisis," says a dispatch to The Times from Tokio, dated August 29, is causing much perplexity in Japan. The Chinese authorities at Amoy having guaranteed the security of life and property, the Japanese marines will now withdraw."

NOW HOLDS SECOND PLACE.

The Steamer St. Paul Makes Quick Run Across the Briny.

The steamer St. Paul arrived at New York Friday night from Southampton and Cherbourg after a quick passage of six days seven hours and six minutes. This time is the best made by the St. Paul between New York and Cherbourg and beats the best time of each of the big fleet of ocean greyhounds with the one exception of the present record holder, the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, whose time is five days seventeen hours and thirty-seven minutes.

The St. Paul now holds second place in the westward record.

A "SHIRT WAIST" DECISION.

Southern Railway Lawyer Decides Men Can Ride in Latest Costume.

A lady passenger on a Southern railway train complained that a man wore a shirtwaist without his coat in a ladies' coach. The matter was referred to the legal department of the road, and it has submitted an opinion, holding that "so long as a man is decently dressed, whether he has on his coat or not, his appearance cannot be offensive to any sensible person."

M'KINLEY IS QUOTED.

THE NOBLEST ACT OF HIS POLITICAL CAREER

Was When He Voted for Free Silver Coinage in Congress to Pass Over Veto Power of President Hayes—Richardson Digs up History.

The following extract is taken from Congressman Richardson's speech at Indianapolis:

"My Republican witness says: 'I am for the largest use of silver in the currency of this country. I would not dishonor it. I would give it equal credit and honor with gold. I would make no discrimination. I would utilize both metals as money and discredit neither. I want the double standard.'

"These be potent words. They were fitly spoken and are like apples of gold in pictures of silver. They are clear and unmistakable in their meaning. Now, my Republican friends, you who are engaged in the condemned business of worshiping the golden calf, what orator and statesman do you suppose made that forcible declaration in favor of silver which I have just quoted? It wasn't Silver Dick Bland—God bless him. It Wasn't William J. Bryan, the peerless leader of the Democratic hosts. It was no Democrat, no Populist. It was a man whom you delight to honor. Don't all fall off your seats in a fit of apoplexy when I tell you his name. It was the head man of the Republican pie counter, William McKinley, president of the United States, and now running for re-election on a gold standard platform after signing a gold standard bill. He is the man who said it. He said it on the floor of the American congress. It is so printed in The Record. You can't deny it. Those words were spoken by William McKinley, your idol, with front of brass and feet of clay, spoken by him when he was yet free and before he had fallen under the malign influence of Mark Hanna and his foul crew of political buccaneers. What's more, McKinley, in addition to speaking in favor of silver, voted for it and voted for the original Bland silver bill, which was a bill for the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at 16 to 1. He voted for the Bland bill with the Allison amendments, and when Rutherford B. Hayes vetoed the Bland-Allison bill, William McKinley voted to pass it over the Hayes veto, which was the noblest act of his public career."

WEBSTER DAVIS.

The Peoria Journal extends its condolence to Webster Davis and says he is laboring under a serious disadvantage. The Journal says:

"Just as he has abandoned his old party in order to come out as the champion of the Boers, the people of this country seem to have lost most of their interest in the war in South Africa. It is too bad, of course, but it cannot be helped. Mr. Davis is discovering that he made a mistake, and this discovery will keep growing on him."

Webster Davis has made no mistake and he knows it. He performed the grandest act of his whole life, when he abandoned the fleshpots of Egypt and bravely took his stand on the side of God's people in South Africa, so cruelly oppressed.

Nor is it true that the people of the United States have lost interest in the Boers' brave struggle for liberty. That war is still watched with anxious solicitude by millions of Americans and the success of De Wet and Botha still brings gladness to the hearts of our people.

Webster Davis has lost nothing and gained much. Few men are so highly honored—great crowds follow in his footsteps—they want to see the patriot that abandoned high office for the sake of principle and the masses flock to him like doves to the windows. He is going to support Bryan because he thinks it will help his friends, the fighting farmers of South Africa.

Mr. Davis has made no mistake. He has done a wise and a glorious thing. He has embalmed his memory forever in the hearts of liberty loving men.

CANNOT SUPPORT M'KINLEY.

Captain Patrick O'Farrell, Washington, wrote the following letter to Senator Hoar immediately after his great speech in the senate arraigning the administration for its attitude towards the Filipinos:

"I am an old-time Republican and an abolitionist at that, who fought during the late Civil war for the principles of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln. I want your speech for the facts therein. They show the duplicity and treachery of Wm. McKinley, for whom I spent eight weeks on the stump. Your speech shows further that the next election will determine whether we shall retain our liberty, or do as Rome did—go into the imperial business. I must, however, dissent from your logic and from your advice to continue to support the Republican party, as long as it marches under the banner of imperialism.

"I honestly believe that in order to preserve liberty, it is essential that the honest and manly Republicans who still adhere to the declaration of independence and the constitution should use all their efforts in the next campaign to defeat McKinley and the Republican party by supporting William J. Bryan, who, no matter how we Republicans may differ with his free silver and tariff theories, yet can agree with him on the greater and paramount question of imperialism. The question is, whether we shall continue as a republic, or go into the colonial business and convert the stars and stripes into an emblem of imperialism.

"Again I say, as an old-time abolitionist who shed my blood on the battlefields of this country, fighting for liberty, I must protest against your theory and advice that I should become the slave of the party by continuing to support it, right or wrong. The cry in the coming campaign should be: 'Bryan and Republican liberty!' against McKinley and imperial tyranny, and I have every confidence that liberty will win."

POLITICIANS NEED REFORMING.

If anything should be reformed, it should be the politician, and by the politician we have especial reference to the professional office holders, the men who feed at the public trough. The chief business in life of these people is to impress the voters with the idea that they are their hard-working servants, without whom the country would go to the bow-wows. It is essential to their success that they make a good impression, and in order to please everyone they blow hot and they blow cold. When necessary they perch on top of the political fence, keeping a sharp lookout, and drop on either side, and sometimes on both sides—always, of course, trying to land on the strong side and on the proverbial bed of roses. They are strangers to consistency, and insincerity marks them as its own.

If the politician did not play such an important part in our government—if they did not shape the course of the political parties to which the masses give blind allegiance, their weaknesses and their vices could be passed without comment, as they are not the only ones who need reforming; but their influence is so potent that would we preserve the democracy of our government we must curtail their power and their influence, or else bring about a radical reform.—Florida Agriculturist.

REPUBLICANS SCARED.

And now the Bryanites are trying to make out that Republicans are fearful of the outcome in Maine. Republican success in Maine is just about as doubtful as was Democratic success in North Carolina.—Omaha Bee.

What the Republicans fear is not that the Bryanites will carry Maine, but that the Republican majority there may be greatly reduced. In 1896 their plurality was 45,777, and, O dear, what a racket they made about it. They claimed it as a sure indication of their coming triumph, and so it was. They did not rejoice because they had carried the state, but because they had carried it so magnificently. Now that they see that their majority is going to be cut in two in the middle they fear it as the dread portent of coming disaster. They will feel mighty bad when the Bryanites are doing all the shouting over the Maine election and they are becoming very sorry that they were so greedy four years ago as to want all the votes in that state. They fear that 45,777 majority may be a curse instead of a blessing.

TRAMPS ARE MARCHING.

According to the Benton Harbor (Mich.) Evening News of June 27th, the officers of that town released 48 unfortunates called "tramps," and they were at once arrested by the officers of St. Joseph, one mile away, as soon as they crossed the corporation line, and put in jail and kept there two days without bread or water! Eight of the men escaped from the officers and jumped into the river as the only means of escape from the torture. The humane officers there who would at once arrest a man who would treat a horse or mule that way, did not raise their voice against such savagery. But quadrupeds are of more importance than men! The men were not offered employment. The paper says: "The men were crowded into jail and sweated like racehorses, but were not even allowed water to quench their thirst!" And this is a civilized nation! It reads like an incident of Roman beastliness. "As ye have done it unto the least of these so ye have done it unto Me."—Appeal to Reason.

THE TRAVELING MAN.

The World-Herald persists in repeating the false assertion that there are not so many traveling men on the road now as there were in 1896. A census of the manufacturing and jobbing houses of Omaha will produce figures that show exactly the reverse.—Omaha Bee.

Omaha is not the only pebble on the beach. The traveling men of this city mostly represent jobbing houses and the wholesale merchants have not yet formed a trust. It is hardly an answer to a general charge to contradict it by the statistics of one city, and a small city at that. The newspapers have been full of accounts of traveling men being let out by the trusts and thousands of commercial travelers say that they have been discharged, but the Bee says they are liars, because the same thing hasn't happened in Omaha. The Philadelphia platform contains a plank against trusts, yet every Republican newspaper, big and little, is a defender of trusts, and will not listen to anything to their discredit.—Omaha Nonconformist.

Mr. Bryan's speech was an inspiration in this campaign. He has presented the issue of imperialism in a masterly way. He has strengthened the cause of liberty at home and abroad. I do not recall a speech in American politics as strong, as great, as eloquent, as this we have heard today.—Webster Davis.

THE * CHRONICLE.

JNO. S. PITTS .... Editor.
JNO. W. PITTS .... Manager.

Entered in the post-office at Columbiana Ala., as second class matter.

COLUMBIANA will soon be on a big boom.

THE Democrats of Macon county met last Saturday and ratified the nomination of Col. C. W. Thompson.

LET all the old croakers crawl into their hole for awhile and be quiet, while the live men build up the town.

HON. ROBERT R. POOLE, the newly elected commissioner of agriculture, took the oath and assumed the duties of his office last Saturday.

THE present cotton crop is now estimated at about 9,000,000 bales. Hester, of New Orleans, who missed it so bad last year, puts the crop at 9,436,414.

BOB FITZSIMMONS, after having won many notable victories in the arena of pugilism, and failing to secure a bout with Jeffries, has announced his retirement from the ring.

REV. BROUGHTON, the sensational Atlanta preacher, is contemplating a visit to Coney Island, N. Y., and to morally renovate that place. It is thought Atlanta will survive his departure.

THE city council of Atlanta has ordered the impeachment of her mayor, James G. Woodward. The charges against the unfortunate man are excessive drinking and neglect of official business.

BRESCI, the anarchistic murderer of King Humbert of Italy, has been convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life, that being the extreme penalty for murder in Italy. He made no denial, but boasted of his crime.

THE industrial and souvenir edition of the Anniston Star, published last week, is a reflection for good upon the management of that paper. It is in magazine form, with lithographed covers and contains about fifty pages.

THIS whole nation—and some other folks, too—will agree with the Chicago Inter Ocean's remark: "General Joe Wheeler goes on the retired list next Monday. He will, however, reserve the right to fight at the drop of the hat."

ALABAMA is fast stepping to the front with her production of iron and coal. Large shipments of iron to Hamburg, Germany, were made last week from the furnace at Talladega, and Jefferson county's manufacture of steel has attracted the attention of the commercial world. Her coal, iron, lime and virgin timber is destined to place Alabama in a prominent position among the sisterhood of manufacturing States.

A LETTER from Hon. L. H. Reynolds informs us that he has not as yet authorized any one to announce him as a candidate for Congress from this district. A strong pressure is being brought to bear on him to make the race, but he has not as yet decided to do so. Mr. Reynolds is deservedly very popular in the district, but he feels that he owes a duty to his friends in the Fifteenth Senatorial district who gave him such a handsome majority on August 6th. Not only the Populists but a large number of Democrats believe that a great wrong was done Mr. Reynolds in robbing him of his vote in Elmore, and that the fraud ought to be exposed.

HON. SIDNEY J. BOWIE.

Hon. Sidney J. Bowie, Democratic nominee for Congress from this district, was in the city last week looking after his interests. Mr. Bowie is not exactly a Shelby county man, but he comes very near it. His mother, who was Miss Nannie McHenry Bowdon, was born and raised in this county. She was the daughter of Major William Bowdon, who for a long time resided on what is now known as Killough farm, near Montevalla. She was the sister of Hon. Frank W. Bowdon, who once represented this district in Congress, and who in his day ranked with William L. Yancy and Sampson W. Harris as the best stump orators in the South.

Mr. Bowie has many friends in this county, as was evidenced by the fact that in the late primary, although opposed by three popular gentlemen, he carried every beat in the county except one.

We agree with the Clanton Banner that his nomination was a very fortunate one for the Democrats, as he is by odds the strongest man in the district.

THE COUNTY COURT.

The county court was in session last week, and adjourned Saturday afternoon leaving some business undisposed of.

This court, as at present organized, is an expensive luxury to the tax payers of the county, and THE CHRONICLE wishes to go on record as favoring an amendment to the present law by which the juries can be dispensed with. The juries of this court cost the county about $1,600 per year, and this amount can and should be saved to the county.

We do not wish to be understood as opposing a county court, as we believe the court is necessary. We do want, however, to reduce the expenses of that court, and it has occurred to us that a law similar to the one in force during the administration of the late Judge Jas. T. Leeper would accomplish that end. As only misdemeanors can be tried in this court, why not let them be tried before the judge? If a jury is demanded the case may be taken to the circuit court.

We have too many courts.

We are informed that the judge and solicitor in this circuit are employed only about twelve weeks out of the fifty-two. This is no fault of theirs, but is simply due to the fact that the legislature has established city courts in nearly every county in the circuit, and have taken the business out of the circuit court to make work for the city court. There might be some excuse for this if there was any complaint against the judge or solicitor of this circuit, but as it is well known that no circuit in the State has a better judge or solicitor. It occurs to us as a bad policy to take business out of that court and put it into another.

The circuit court, at present, has only one criminal week, but with the exception of when there is a murder case on hand, they are not employed half the time. The salaries of the judge and solicitor are paid whether they are employed or not, and a good business man would certainly not have another court when the officers of the present court are not employed one-third of their time.

Again, should criminal business increase in circuit court so that one week should not suffice, we venture the assertion that Judge Pelham would order a special term and clear the docket.

This is a serious question. It concerns all our people. THE CHRONICLE would like to have expression from Judge Longshore, the bar of the county, Jno. E. Morris, of Saginaw; R. L. Lewis, of the Allen Lumber Co.; W. F. Aldrich, J. F. Pope, W. W. Wallace, the Jackson Lumber Co., and other large tax payers in the county. We certainly can curtail the expense of trying criminals in our county and we ought to do it.

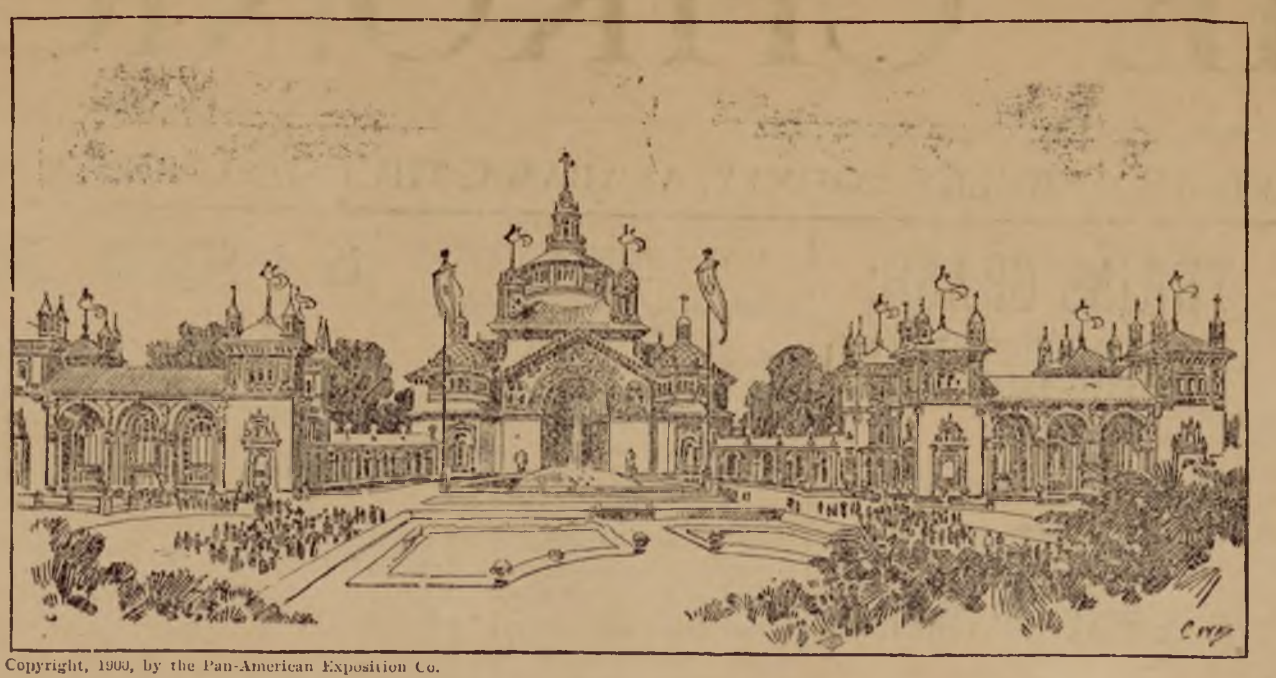
When Mr. Deans goes to the legislature next winter let him go there with the full knowledge of what our people want, and we believe he will do his best to give it to us.

ONE of Columbiana's greatest needs is a cotton warehouse. The merchants could then store their cotton away and sell it only when it is to their advantage to do so. If no individual is willing to build one, why do not the merchants join in and build one for their own use. It would not cost much to put up such a structure, and would undoubtedly be a great advantage to the merchants and the town.

IT MAKES us weary to notice in the press that some vain, mushroom, self-styled society folks in Washington, D. C., are going to "snub" and "suppress" Thomas Nelson Page, the great Southern author. Mr. Page's ancestors were honorable, influential and shining lights in society in colonial days, and his family prestige has lost none of its glamour in the generations since. Doubtless those who wish to "snub" Mr. Page are of the mushroom variety, and dare not trace their ancestry far lest they land in the wash tub.

COLUMBIANA and surrounding country hold out many inducements to the homeseeker. Land is cheap, and with proper cultivation yields abundant crops. It is suggested that to induce a colony of Germans to settle close to town would be very beneficial to the county as well as the town. It is well known that Germans are a very thrifty people, and wherever you find them you find a degree of prosperity. What's the matter with Columbiana's business men organizing themselves into a business league, and then systematically push forward any feasible project calculated to be of benefit to the town. A town has got to reach out and go after things if it expects to grow and prosper. We repeat that a colony of Germans, settling close to Columbiana, would be of immense benefit to the town. Land, climate and resources are here; all that is needed is a little capital and thrift, and a new era of prosperity will have been inaugurated.

HORTICULTURAL, GRAPHIC ARTS, FORESTRY AND MINES BUILDINGS AT BUFFALO.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

At the Pan-American Exposition, which is to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1. 1901, the Horticultural building, 220 feet square, is flanked on the south by the Forestry and Mines and on the north by the Graphic Arts buildings, each 150 feet square. The whole group is connected by arcades, forming a semicircular court, in which will stand the "Fountain of the Seasons." The Horticultural building will be about 240 feet high. The Graphic Arts and Forestry and Mines buildings are companion structures of the same size and style, having four corner towers. Two colored compositions above the eastern entrance of the Horticultural building will represent Ceres, goddess of the harvest, in a chariot drawn by three lions, led by Flora and Primavera.

MR. BOWIE'S CANDIDACY.

From The Clanton Banner.

The Democratic convention of the Fourth Congressional district was held at Selma and Hon. Sidney J. Bowie, of Calhoun, was nominated for Congress by acclamation. This is unquestionably the strongest nomination made by the Democratic party for Congress in several years. In the first place the unanimity with which the six counties composing the district have acted shows a determination on their part to put out all their strength and poll every vote for their nominee so that, in the event of a contest, they will have honest votes to refer to. In the second place Mr. Bowie has a fine reputation and is withal a very popular man, especially in the upper part of the district where he is best known. These two indisputable facts render Mr. Bowie a most formidable candidate for the opposition to overcome, and would seem to point to his election.

On the other hand it is doubtful whether the opposition to the Democratic party is anything like as strong now as it has been in the last three Congressional campaigns when the combined Populist and Republican vote has been successful, after a contest in each case, in getting their representative seated. It is problematical whether that same combination could be effected again at this time, and without such joint opposition to the Democratic nominee is absolutely hopeless. The Republican party is split into two factions, and it certainly cannot be said that the Populists are all of the same way of thinking. It has not always been an easy matter to induce Populists to support a nominee who was not a simon pure member of their own organization, and we believe that now it would be an utter impossibility. With an unanimous Democratic vote on the one side, and a disintegrated opposition on the other, the prospects for the latter are not very encouraging.

HARMONY IN THE FOURTH.

From The Montgomery Journal.

Except in the Fifth district all is smooth sailing for a safe arrival in Washington harbor of a solid Democratic delegation. Let us hope that fairness and right will prevail in the end of the contest now on between Colonel Brewer and Colonel Thompson; that unity may be the outcome and Democratic victory be predetermined.

There are only three districts in the State where there has been any Democratic trouble of recent years. Mr. Burnett seems to have smoothed things down in the Seventh. The nomination of Mr. Bowie, with a united party and no bickerings behind him, promises to finally dispose of the spirit of contest in the Fourth.

Mr. Bowie is an exceedingly strong personality in his own right. He comes from a county marked for its recent growth in Democratic strength. He has been away from Talladega only a few years—not long enough for his hold on the people to have at all relaxed. Cleburne has just been through the throes of a great Democratic revival and the hold of the opposition on Chilton suffers from the indifference of the people. Shelby is the only county in the district where he has a real fight on his hands, for Dallas maintains her old renown for Democratic solidarity.

The trouble in the Fourth has always been in the white counties. We are informed that Mr. Bowie carried every beat in every white county, except Calera. There is no going behind returns like that. He is plainly the choice of the people and there is no room left for any other thing than as enthusiastic Democracy from the southern border of Dallas to the Georgia frontiers of Cleburne.

Once in, Mr. Bowie will stay in. He is a man of infinite resources. He knows how to give and to take hard knocks. He is physically and mentally strong, and what is more to the purpose, tireless. The time has come for Fourth district Democrats to rally all along the line and achieve such a victory as will insure Democratic representation for the next twenty years.

POPULISTS ISSUE AN ADDRESS.

CALL UPON ALL PATRIOTS TO SUPPORT BRYAN AND STEVENSON.

Party Principles Will Be Vindicated and Cause of Humanity Furthered By the Election of the Democratic Candidates.

LINCOLN, Neb., September 1.—Vice Chairman Edmiston and Secretary Edgerton, of the Populist national committee, issued an address appealing for support of W. J. Bryan and justifying the indorsement of Adlai E. Stevenson as vice-presidential candidate. The address says:

"To the Peple of the United States:

"At the direction of the national committee we send you greetings. We are on the eve of victory for the principles for which we have all along fought. No party has ever made such sacrifice or shown such unselfishness as has the People's party during the past ten years of its existence, and that sacrifice and patriotic devotion to principle are beginning to bear fruit. One more charge and the fight is won. Let us all join together as we did in 1892 and 1896 for the sake of the people and the love we bear the people's cause. We call upon every Populist in the Union to rally once more under the banner of reform and to assist us in winning this culminating struggle of the century.

"In nominating Mr. Stevenson for the vice-presidency the People's party gave a sublime example of the renunciation of partisanship. We had already nominated Mr. Bryan, the standard bearer of another organization, for president. We had nominated Mr. Towne, the brilliant young leader of the Silver Republicans, for vice-president. Although deeply disappointed at the failure of the Democratic convention to ratify this nomination, we followed the only course that seemed open to us, and for the sake of harmony and unity overlooked all mere party considerations and made both Democratic standard bearers our own.

"We believe by this action we have not only strengthened the cause, but that in the long run we have also strengthened our own party organization. Right never dies, and the principles that brought the People's party into history will spring up with redoubled vigor and will continue to grow in the hearts and minds of the people until they are victorious. We have laid down much that the cause might succeed, and in its triumph we will triumph as well. No man ever became really great until he learns to sacrifice himself for an idea of truth, and no party can ever become really worthy of accomplishing the high and holy purpose for which ours was born until it has been tried by the same sacrifice. Truly did the greatest of all say: 'He who lays down his life for my sake shall find it again.'

"While Lincoln did not believe in abolition his election meant the ending of human slavery on this continent. In the same way the election of Bryan means the beginning of a new era in American politics. The future victories for humanity that will grow out of it no man can foresee.

"The Populist party was the beginning of this movement and is the impulse which carries it forward. We have grown until our principles have permeated the masses of one great party and have thus made them our allies in this campaign. The seed we planted years ago has taken root and has grown until at the beginning of a new century it is about to become into victory.

"In the name of humanity and for the cause of liberty, which is as sacred now as it was in any of the greater struggles of the past we call upon every people to rally to the support of the republic in its hour of struggle between the world forces of monarchy and freedom.

"There are only two sides to the contest. There is no middle of the road. He who is not for me is against me. He who does not give his full support to the cause of popular government is its enemy. There is no room for sides. On the one hand is the army of the people; on the other are the legions of privilege and plutocracy rule. Every man must take his position on the one side or the other. Populism was offered as a protest against the encroaching spirit of monarchism and mammonism, and now that such is in sight we cannot believe that any man will fail in his duty, but every one of our two million voters will register on election day in favor of a government of the people and for the preservation of the republic. (Signed)

"Vice-Chairman.

SHIPMENTS TO HAMBURG MADE.

From The Birmingham News.

W. L. Law, superintendent of the Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, which extends from Pell City to Talladega, and who is also interested in the furnaces at Talladega, the same concern owning the railroad, was in the city yesterday.

He stated that the furnace is in full blast and will continue so. The furnace is making between 125 and 150 tons of iron a day, and Nos. 1 and 2 foundry and Nos. 1 and 2 soft irons are being manufactured. There is a good market for the product and it is being shipped almost as rapidly as it is made. The new management of the furnace is manufacturing the best iron ever before made in Talladega and the prospects are very bright for good business.

A shipment of 1,000 tons of iron to Hamburg, Germany, was completed yesterday from the Talladega furnace, a rate of $4.28 on the ton being secured from Talladega to Hamburg, the same going via Savannah. It required forty-five cars to make the shipment. The iron was loaded almost as rapidly as it cooled from the furnace.

The Zimmerman syndicate owns the furnace and railroad property in and around Talladega. In a short while it is intended to develop considerable coal property in St. Clair county and open new ore mines in Talladega county.

Mr. Law states that the prospects of the company with whom he is employed are very good and that the iron being made is finding a ready sale. He says that, having to attend to the transportation of the production of the furnace, he can tell well what is being done. The road between Pell City and Talladega is in good shape and good schedules are being maintained.

There is no trouble in getting over the river, and all reports to the contrary are said to be false.

Talladega is doing nicely, says Mr. Law, and the indications are that everything there will be active for some time to come.

NOTHING TO REJOICE OVER.

From The Richmond (Va.) Times.

We do not rejoice that there have been recent riots in New York and Ohio. We are pained to see a manifestation of ill-feeling between the races anywhere. We would love to see the whites and blacks get on well together. We would like to see the friendliest relations between them. It is always a grief to us when there is a clash between the races, no matter in what section it be. We say this lest some of our readers should have gotten the impression from recent articles in this paper on the riots that have occured at the North that we were gloating over them. Forbear it. We have the very kindliest feeling for the black man and we wish him well. We do not love to see him get into trouble. We want to see him prosperous and happy and living on the very best terms of peace and friendship with the whites. Our purpose in calling special attention to the riots that have occurred in the West and the North was to impress the fact that under the same circumstances and under similar provocation the Northern whites will deal with the negro question as the whites of the South have dealt with it.

A Warning to Liars.

From The Chicago Times-Herald.

"What was the happiest moment of your life, dear?" she asked.

"It was when you said 'yes,' darling," he replied.

She sighed and permitted her cheek to rest against his breast for a long time. Then she said:

"Harry, do you remember that diamond ring we looked at in Balzem's? What a splendid Christmas present it would make."

After he had reached the next room he whispered to himself:

"That's always the way. Never told a lie in my life without having immediate cause to be sorry for it."

The boycott of the Montgomery street cars by the negroes has had the result of inducing the patronage of the whites who formerly avoided the cars because the blacks were accustomed to spread themselves and act as if sole owners of the public conveyances. John T. Morgan Gist.

On last Thursday the death angel visited the home of Mrs. F. W. Gist, in Calera, and took from it one of her most precious jewels, little John T. Morgan, who was only 5 or 6 years old, but a bright and smart child. Little Johnnie was not sick long, but doubtless suffered much. He is now free from all the pains, sufferings and difficulties of this life, and has gone to be forever in the land of bliss and eternal joy. He was very dear to the hearts of his father and mother and was loved by all who knew him. Burial was deferred until Saturday, awaiting the arrival of Mr. Gist from Washington. Mr. Gist got home at 11 p. m. Friday, and the funeral took place Saturday afternoon from the Presbyterian church. THE CHRONICLE and their many friends extend their sincere and profound sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Gist in this sad bereavement, and can only commend them to Him who doeth all things well.

THE MOB IN AKRON.

From The Mobile Register.

The Akron mob seems to have been the genuine article. It did not have even a definite purpose. Starting out to lynch a negro accused of assault upon a young girl, the mob presently found itself destroying public property—an action that could not by the greatest stretch of the imagination be made to line up with the original purpose. A million or so of dollars' worth of valuable city property having been destroyed, the police cowed and put to flight, the fire department men driven from their machines and prevented from doing their work, then the mob dispersed, each member of it probably asking himself what good had been accomplished and how in thunder he happened to be mixed up in such a foolish affair.

Mostly boys and young men, says the report of the occurrence. That phase is significant. The mature citizen is slow to take part in lawlessness. He knows the futility of it, and, besides, he is aware that respect for the law is the best guaranty of the safety of lives and property. The youth, however, has neither experience nor self-interest to guide him. He allows the fancy of the moment to influence his conduct. Another important point is that the young men of the day are far less patient with the negroes than are the elder whites—and this is true in all parts of the country. The mob in New Orleans was mostly composed of boys; in New York many youths were seen taking part in the riotous proceedings. These young men have no knowledge of old-time troubles, old-time relations, and nothing but an academical acquaintance with the issues that led up to the war of 1861-1865. They regard the colored man as something apart and they are fierce in fomenting discord between the races. Possibly also the character of the negroes is changing. There is certainly visible a greater readiness on the part of the negroes to be offensive, to be on the lookout for slights, and to demonstrate that they are "as good as other people," and perhaps just a little bit better.

A Tangled Editor.

From The Union Springs Herald.

While reading in The Athens Courier the other day, we noticed in an article it had clipped and republished, that a young man who wanted to get married secured a pair of license. Now, we want to know if marriage licenses are in pairs, or if a person should say "a pair of license," when speaking of such, or "a pair of licenses," or what?

Plunger soap am de soap, sah! It kills bed bugs and fleas, and wash's clothes in all kinds of water. For sale by J. H. Hammond.

Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do that day which must be done whether you like it or not. Being forced to work, and forced to do your best, will breed in you temperance and self-control, diligence and strength of will, cheerfulness and content, and a hundred virtues which the idle never know.—Kingsley.

There are always 1,200,000 people all at sea on the seas of the world.

READ AND REFLECT.

Here are a few reasons why the "plain people" are not inclined to meekly accept the inspired statements of the trust organs and speakers, showing what a natural, necessary and beneficient institution the trust is:

It requires 50 per cent. more wheat to buy a stove than it did in 1896.

It requires 20 bushels more corn to buy a wagon than it did in 1896.

It takes 100 per cent. more corn to buy a copper kettle than it did in 1896.

It requires twice as much corn to buy a coil of rope as it did in 1896.

It requires 40 per cent. more grain to buy a plow than in 1896.

It requires 75 per cent. more grain to buy a hoe, a rake or a shovel than in 1896.

A set of common wheels that cost $7 in 1896 now costs $12.

The price of cultivators and other farm implements have gone up proportionately.

Galvanized barbed wire costs from $4 to $4.50 per hundred more than in 1896.

It requires 40 per cent. more corn to buy a pound of sugar than in 1896.

You have to pay 40 per cent. more for glass than in 1898.

Freight rates have climbed back to the exorbitant prices which caused a popular revolt in legislation a few years ago.

The prices of oil, coal, lumber, tools and hardware have gone up from 40 to 100 per cent.

And all of these things have been done by trusts.

A trust robs you waking or sleeping, eating or drinking, working or playing, living or dying, and the coffin trust gets you in the end.

Cy Lyle's Lecture.

Hardeman Free Press, quoted by Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

Cy Lyle is preparin' of a lectur' on "How to Rise Children." What he don't know about it would fill a box car. After bein' married and in the family business for thirty year, all the children he can show fur it is an empty bird cage, a plaster of Parish monkey and an oil stove.

No Reference to Miss Jewett, Of Course.

From The Montgomery Advertiser.

What a pity Mr. Peck, of Akron, is a married nigger. Otherwise there might be a demand for him up Boston way.

Fair Notice.

Arbuckle's coffees 7 pounds to the dollar. Levering and Lion 8 pounds to the dollar.

J. H. HAMMOND.

A Desperate Case.

From The Pratt City Herald.

There is altogether too much attention given to Miss Jewett, of Boston. If the poor, deluded girl really loves a nigger in August, her case is a desperate one, and nothing short of an overdose of what she craves will cure her trouble.

Attention, Teachers!

On September 15, 1900, I make out my last pay roll for this scholastic year. It is therefore very important that all contracts for public school money be filed in this office by September 10. If you are too late filing your contract you will fail to receive your pay.

The examination of teachers takes place at Columbiana at 10 a. m., September 3, 1900.

TEXT OF PROPOSAL

As Suggested to United States By the Russian Government.

OPPOSITION FROM SOME QUARTERS.

Other Powers Have Been Asked to Consider the Matter Fully and Make a Reply Thereto.

The state department has made public the text of the Russian proposal and its response as follows:

Telegraphic instructions sent to the representatives of the United States in Berlin, Vienna, Paris, London, Rome, Tokio and St. Petersburg.

Department of state, Washington, August 29, 1900. The Russian charge yesterday made to me an oral respecting Russia's purposes in China, to the following effect:

"That as already repeatedly declared Russia has no designs of territorial acquisition in China; that equally with other powers now operating there, Russia has sought safety of legations at Pekin and to help the Chinese government to repress the troubles that, incidentally to necessary defensive measures on Russian border, Russia has occupied Newchwang for military purposes and as soon as order is re-established will retire troops therefrom if action of other powers be no obstacle thereto; that the purpose for which the various governments have co-operated for relief of legations in Pekin has been accomplished; that, taking the position that, as the Chinese government has left Pekin, there is no need for her representative to remain, Russia has directed Russian minister to retire with his official personnel from China; that the Russian troops will likewise be withdrawn; and that when the government of China shall regain the reins of government and afford an authority with which the other powers can deal, and will express desire to enter in negotiations, the Russian government will also name its representative. Holding these views and purposes, Russia expresses hope that the United States will share the same opinion."

ANSWER OF UNITED STATES.

To this declaration our reply has been made by the following memorandum:

"The government of the United States receives with much satisfaction the reiterated statement that Russia has no designs of territorial acquisition on China and that equally with the other powers now operating in China, Russia has sought the safety of her legation in Pekin and to help the Chinese government to repress the existing troubles. The same purpose will control the government of the United States and frank declarations of Russia in this regard are in accord with those made to the United States by the other powers.

All the powers, therefore, having disclaimed any purpose to acquire any part of China, and now that adherence thereto has been renewed since relief has reached Pekin, it ought not to be difficult by concurrent action through negotiations to reach an amicable settlement with China by which the treaty rights of all the powers will be secured for the future, the open door assured, the interests and property of foreign citizens conserved and full reparation made for wrongs and injuries suffered by them.

As a result of these considerations unless there is such a general expression by the powers in favor of continued occupation as to modify the views of Russia and lead to a general agreement for continued occupation, we shall give instructions to the commander of the American forces in China to withdraw our troops from Pekin after due conference with other commanders as to the time and manner of withdrwal.

"So far as we are advised the greater part of China is at peace and earnestly desires to protect the life and property of all foreigners, and in several of the provinces active and skillful efforts to suppress the Boxers have been taken by the viceroys, to whom we have extended encouragement through our consuls and naval officers. The present good relation should be promoted for the peace of China.

"The government of the United States is much gratified by the assurance given by Russia that the occupation of New Chwang is for military purposes incidental to the military steps for the security of the Russian border provinces menaced by the Chinese, and that as soon as order has been established Russia will retire her troops from those places if the action of the other powers be not an obstacle thereto.

"No obstacle in this regard can arise through any action of the United States, whose policy is fixed and has been repeatedly proclaimed.

(Signed) "Alvey Adee,
"Acting Secretary."

"PREACHER" JONES HANGED.

Most Dastardly Crime In Recent History of Tar Heel State Is Avenged.

Thomas Jones, a negro preacher, the murderer of a family of six persons, was hanged at Raleigh, N. C., Friday at noon in the county jail.

When the death struggles of the negro ended, the last chapter in the bloodiest crime of North Carolina was brought to a close.

A great many negroes were in the immediate vicinity of the jail—the same negroes who thronged the streets of Raleigh last March and attempted to lynch Jones, but on this occasion they were orderly and no demonstration was made. They were there simply to ascertain for sure that the bloody crime had been avenged.

On March 22 last, the day of the crime, none ever believed the negro would be legally executed, for mobs formed quickly and every one thirsted for the negro's life. Quick and determined work by the officers, however, saved the prisoner from a death of torture. Though at first denying his guilt, Jones has since completely confessed. On last Monday he again professed religion and was baptized in his cell in the county jail.

Although a preacher at the time of the crime, he dates his actual conversion only as far back as three days before he felt the noose about his neck.

With the object of exterminating a family of eight, Jones, in order to conceal his crime, murdered Ella Jones, colored, and her 14-year-old daughter, and then set fire to the building in which they resided, burning alive four smaller children.

By remarkable presence of mind Laura Jones, an 8-year-old girl, escaped, carrying with her Sid Jones, her 3-year-old brother, thereby reducing the number of Jones' victims to six.

Among the victims was a 3-weeks-old baby, whom Laura Jones, the mother, had declared was the child of Tom Jones. Pressed by the mother to contribute to its support, Jones determined to wipe out the entire family by murder and arson.

According to the story told by the girl who escaped, Jones entered the house where they were sleeping at midnight in March. The negro crushed in the heads of her mother and little sister with an axe and then set fire to the beds in which four children were sleeping.

Neighbors were awakened by the light of the conflagration and hurried to the scene of tragedy. The little girl who escaped then told the story of the frightful crime.

Jones was arrested at his home, half a mile distant, a few hours after the crime. In his room were a pair of overalls, which were splotched with blood.

TWO CONVICTS KILLED.

They Were Escapes and Refused To Surrender To a Pursuing Posse.

Wes Austin and Bob Armstrong, two escaped convicts, were killed and a third wounded by pursuers near Whiteside, 15 miles from Chattanooga. Austin, Armstrong and Jim Westbrook escaped from the convict stockade at Coal City, Ga., several days ago.

Warden Brock learned that the convicts had been committing depredations near Trenton, Ga., and organized a posse for pursuit. They came upon the men cooking at a camp near Whiteside and demanded surrender. The conflicts fled and the posse opened fire with the result stated. Westbrook escaped.

MINES TEMPORARILY CLOSED.

Conference Between Workers and Operators In Tennessee Postponed a Week.

A Knoxville, Tenn., dispatch says: Failing to reach an agreement on the wage scale in the conference between miners and coal operators at Coal Creek, the annual contract with miners was not signed Saturday, as has been the custom. The miners decided to adjourn the conference until September 10th.

On account of the failure to agree, all coal mines in Coal Creek, Jellico, Middlesboro and intervening points with the exception of two or three mines, are closed down. It is not a strike, as both miners and operators are hopeful of reaching an agreement by September 10th. About 3,000 miners are affected by the shut down.

Anthracite Miners In Pennsylvania Region to Lay Down their Picks.

"Of course, a strike must be ordered by the executive committee of the council," he continued, "but all indications point to a big tie-up."

SAM ROBINSON MEETS HIS DOOM

MADE A FULL CONFESSION

Mrs. Inzer, His Victim, Was a Witness to the Hanging.

Sam Robinson paid the penalty of his crime on the gallows at Marietta, Ga., Saturday in plain view of about fifteen hundred people. The country people began gathering in town early in the day and by 10 o'clock some two thousand were in town. The streets were crowded, but not a sign of violence was manifested. It was a quiet and orderly crowd of people, all anxious to see the hanging.

The train from Atlanta stopped at Confederate cemetery crossing and the prisoner was taken off there. Sixty armed guards met the train and escorted the prisoner and party to the place of execution. The sheriffs and prisoner arrived without incident, Robinson smoking a cigar as they rode from the train, a distance of about a half mile, to the gallows. He seemed in fairly good spirits and conversed with those about him.

On arriving at the gallows a great crowd of people was found there waiting.

The gallows was inclosed by a board fence sixteen feet high, and only guards, officers, newspaper men and two colored preachers—Revs. G. A. Parish and D. B. Bond—were allowed inside, except a few who had orders from Judge Gober. Mr. and Mrs. Inzer were on the grounds and had an order to allow them to see the hanging, but they did not go inside the inclosure, but remained on the hill some distance away.

At 10:30 o'clock the door was closed to all outside except those mentioned.

Rev. Parish read a passage of scripture and talked very sympathetically and earnestly with Robinson, taking him by the hand and asking him if he realized how soon he was to meet his God, and if he was prepared to meet death, to which he replied he was. Rev. D. B. Bond then offered a very fervent and earnest prayer, closing by saying the jury did right in convicting him and the judge in sentencing him.

Robinson was then asked if he wished to say anything and he said he did, but before he rose to make his statement the crowd pushed down one side of the inclosure, exposing the whole thing to view, so that the great crowd who had gathered on that side could see everything that transpired.

Robinson faced the crowd and walked steadily to the end of the gallows and made his statement, speaking in a loud, clear voice. He said:

"Let me tell you all, friends, my colored friends and white, never commit the crime that I have. If I had not committed it this time I might some other. Teach your children never to commit this crime. I am guilty. I committed the crime and don't deny it. I am going before my God and that is all I have to say."

He then stood where he had made his statement and the black cap was placed over his head and rope around his neck. The trigger was pulled at 10:44 o'clock. The drop was five feet broke Robinson's neck. He shrugged his shoulders afew times and all was soon over.

Robinson's father, Derry Robinson, from Anderson, S. C., then came forwarded and asked if he might have the body. He was told that he could. The old man took the corpse's head in his arms and wept. He said Sam was twenty-four years old and was married, leaving a wife and two children. Sam left home, he said, in May without telling where he was going, as he had often done before.

The old man did not have money enough to pay the express to Anderson, but a contribution was made up for him that enabled him to leave Saturday evening with his boy.

The crowd that witnessed the hanging was orderly throughout and everything was done in a decent manner. After the wall was torn down, so they could see, the crowd made no attempt to come nearer the gallows and was easily kept back by the guards at a safe distance.

Government Seems to Disapprove of The Czar's Plan of Action.

The London Times feels perfectly clear, it says, that neither honor nor the interests of England will permit her to follow Russia's example. It trusts that Germany will also refuse to leave Pekin and expresses the hope that the report that the state department in Washington disapproves the Russian suggestion may prove correct.

Largest Armor Plate Cast.

Pittsburg Spe. Chicago Tribune: What is probably the largest single armor plate ever made at either Bethlehem or Homestead was shipped on Saturday to San Francisco, to be used in the construction of the battle ship Wisconsin, which is building there. The plate will become the port plate of a turret on the vessel, and is made on a new principle, being cut at an angle instead of being the arc of a circle, the idea being to better deflect a shot. The plate weighs 30 tons and costs over $12,000. It was pressed at Bethlehem, as the armor press at Homestead was unequal to the job, and returned to Homestead for finishing.

COLD AIR HEALTH.

Winter About the Best Stimulant People Can Have.

Many persons regard the winter season as an unfortunate visitation. It is considered both uncomfortable to the body and harmful to health. This is an error. Cold is a most potent agent for the restoration and preservation of normal activity on the part of the organs of the human body. It is a wise plan of providence which gives us a change of seasons. The winter cold comes as a tonic to repair the injuries done by the enervating heat of summer. Summer, it is true, has many wise uses in the matter of health. It induces outdoor life, rids the system of poisons through copious perspiration and through the scorching rays of sun destroys germ life. Winter is the great bracer of the system. It stimulates activity in every organ. When cold attacks the surface of the body the blood is set into more free circulation as a means of bodily warmth. It is through the circulation of the blood that the human anatomy is kept in a state of repair. When the food has been digested and converted into liquid form, it is taken up by the blood and carried the rounds of the system for the purpose of repairing the waste places. When the cold causes increased circulation, it also brings about more perfect nutrition. Man's face and hands illustrate how weather-proof the body becomes when exposed to air. Continued activity in circulation on the surface, caused by the air coming in contact with the skin, tends to nourish and thicken the skin. Thus man's skin grows thicker in winter just as animals are supplied with a double coat of fur. The savages who dwell bareheaded in the open air, are seldom, if ever, known to be afflicted with bald heads, while, with the civilian who shields his scalp from air, baldness is prevalent. The Indians, who, if not now, in former days roamed our western borders, practically without clothing to shelter their bodies, became, through long exposure, so inured to the cold that it gave them but little discomfort.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Royal Castle at Homburg.

The German empress, accompanied by her children, has gone to Homburg for a stay of about two months and the emperor is to go there for a shorter period. The royal castle at Homburg, where the empress is to reside, is a quaint old place. Its history can be traced for about a thousand years and some historians assert that the "White Tower" rests upon the foundation of an old Roman stronghold. This "White Tower," rising 180 feet in the courtyard of the castle, is the only reminder of the ancient building; all the rest was destroyed by fire in the Thirty Years' war and has been rebuilt since 1680 by the landgraves of Hesse-Homburg. From the Homburg castle there is a lovely view of the Taunus range and a straight avenue from its park leads right up to the mountain ridge.

Since every adult woman in New Zealand has been placed on an equality with men so far as voting for parliamentary representatives is concerned, it has been argued that the logical hequence of their enfranchisement is that they should be enabled to sit in Parliament. There has never been any demand from women themselves for this privilege except on the part of a few women agitators, but some men have been found to champion the cause in the hope of securing women's votes at the polling booths when they seek re-election.

The preservation of animals in Africa will interest all who care for natural history, or for the animals which inhabit the immense forests and deserts of this great continent. Rapacious gatherers of hides or ivory bid fair to exterminate certain classes, and they are assisted in their endeavors by hunters who often shoot innocent, valuable animals in large quantities for mere sport. With proper care Africa can become a great game preserve for the world, where hunters may go and enjoy their pursuit with reasonable chances of success, but the wholesale destruction of animals by either sportsmen or professional hunters is to be deplored.

FEARFUL CALAMITY IN TEXAS

Over Two Thousand Lives are Lost In Tidal Wave at Galveston.

STORM DISASTER APPALLING

Hurricane Swept Whole Coast With Resistless Fury and Stories of Death and Destruction Come From Many Points.

A special from Houston, Texas, state that the West Indian storm which reached the gulf coast Saturday morning wrought sad havoc in Texas. Reports are conflicting, but it is known that an appalling disaster visited the city of Galveston, where, it is reported, a thousand or more lives have been blotted out and a tremendous property damage incurred. Meager reports from Sabine Pass and Port Arthur also indicate a heavy loss of life, but these reports cannot be confirmed at this hour.

"The New York World of Monday printed the following:

"Austin, Tex., September 9.—Information has just reached me that about 3,000 lives have been lost at Galvestion, with enormous destruction of property.

"No information from other other points. Jos. D. Sayers, "Governor."

CONFIRMATION OF GREAT DISASTER.

A special to The Memphis Commercial-Appeal from New Orleans says that advices regarding the awful effects of the storm which has been raging along the gulf coast of Texas are just beginning to arrive, and the story they tell is fraught with horror. First in importance is the news that Galveston was struck by a tidal wave, and that the loss of life there was between 2,500 and 3,000. The water is fifteen feet deep over Virginia Point. Every effort is being made out of New Orleans to get telegraphic or cable communication with the wrecked city, but to little avail. One message was received Sunday evening fixing the loss of life at 2,600. It came by cable from Vera Cruz and was later confirmed in a general way.

Great damage and considerable loss of life is reported along the line of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad. There is much anxiety about the Sabine Pass and Port Arthur.

The last news received from Sabine Pass was Saturday at noon, and at that hour the town was entirely surrounded by water. The storm had not then reached its height, nor had the tidal wave which is reported to have swept over Galveston, been announced. However, at the time the last report was sent out the people were fleeing to the highlands for safety, and it is hoped that they may have found refuge in time. Port Arthur is not so exposed to the waves as Sabine, but the damage there is believed to have been great.

Telegraph wires were down at Port Lavaca, Rockport, Arausas Pass, Corpus Christi and Brownsville, on the lower coast, and grave fears were entertained regarding the safety of the inhabitants of those towns.

APPEAL FOR HELP SENT OUT.

A dispatch to The Chicago Chronicle from San Antonio, Texas, says that the startling news has just flashed over the wires informing Governor J. D. Sayers that a messenger, at great risk of his life, has just reached Virginia Point from Galveston with the report that 2,500 are probably dead as a result of the fearful storm.

An urgent appeal to all Texas is made for help. The messenger said that the grain elevators at the water front are wrecked and hundreds of buildings have collapsed or were carried out to sea. The greatest distress is said to prevail.

DEAD BODIES ON PRAIRIE.

The following telegram was received from Houston by The Dallas News:

"Relief train just returned. They could not get closer than six miles of Virginia Point, where the prairie was covered with lumber, debris, pianos, trunks and dead bodies. Two hundred corpses were counted from the train. A large steamer is stranded two miles this side of Virginia Point, as though thrown up by a tidal wave.

"Nothing can be seen of Galveston. Two men were picked up who floated across to the mainland. They say they estimate the loss of life up to the time they left at 2,000."

The above message was addressed to Superintendent Felton Dallas and came from the manager of the Western Union telegraph office at Houston.

ENORMOUS PROPERTY LOSS.

The estimates of property losses made by citizens of Galveston was that 4,000 houses, most of them residences, have been destroyed. Some business houses were also destroyed, but most of them stood, though badly damaged.

The city is a complete wreck from the water front and from the Tremont hotel. Water was blown over the island by the hurricane, the wind blowing at the rate of eighty miles an hour straight from the gulf and driving the sea water before it in big waves. The gale was a steady one, the heart of it striking the city about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and continuing without intermission until midnight, when it abated somewhat, although it continued to blow all night.

A CORRESPONDENT'S ESTIMATE.

A correspondent of the Houston Post returned from Galveston at three o'clock Sunday morning. He places the loss of life at from six hundred to one thousand. At Virginia Point the houses are all destroyed. The members of the crew of the relief train report four or five colored people drowned there and two children of a Mr. Wright perished. At Dickinson the buildings have been blown away and several fatalities are reported.

The hurricane was particularly severe at Brookshire, twenty-seven miles west of Houston, on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad. Four dead bodies were taken from the debris of wrecked houses, and it is believed that others have been killed. It is reported that only four houses are left standing in Brookshire, which was a village with a population of600people.

Later reports received from Alvin state that many persons were killed there. Eleven bodies have been recovered.

At Seabrook Mrs. Jane Woodstock was killed by a falling house; Mrs. Nickelson and Louis Broquet were drowned. S. K. McIlhenny, wife and daughter and Mrs. Leroy and two children are missing. They were known to have been in their cottages, which were destroyed. The dead body of a sailor was found under a cottage.

A report from Chenango says that eight people were killed.

Not a house in the town of Chappell Hill escaped damage, and many were demolished. Business houses also suffered and a fine gin is a complete wreck.

At Brenham the courthouse was nearly wrecked and the city hall completely so. Every business house and residence suffered to a greater or less extent. The fire apparatus is under the ruins of the city hall and a guard is maintained for fire duty.

At Guston stores were unroofed and residences destroyed. At Rock Island the Baptist church was totally wrecked and several residences unroofed.

Forty-two dwelling and business houses were wrecked at Wallis.

At Fulshear fifty houses were blown down. One person was killed near the town by a falling house.

In Hardin county a large amount of timber was blown down and there was much damage to property at Village Mills. No damage was done at Corpus Christi or Rockport, on the lower coast.

At Richmond three negroes were killed by the collapse of a church and three others were killed near there.

LITTLE FOOD IN PEKIN.

Commanders Suggest Partial Withdrawal of Troops In Consequence.

The British, American, Japanese and Russians are posting proclamations in Pekin defining the jurisdiction of their respective districts for the preservation of order, promising protection to the inhabitants and inviting a resumption of business for the purpose of restoring confidence.

A scarcity of food seems inevitable, owing to the fact that no produce is arriving, and the various generals have accordingly recommended a partial withdrawal of the troops before winter sets in because of the difficulty of provisioning them.

HEAVY DAMAGE TO RICE.

Storm Seriously Hurts Farmers Along the Mississippi River.

A trip over the storm stricken section along the Mississippi river, starting some thirty miles below New Orleans and reaching to the gulf, shows a damage of about $100,000 to the rice crop. Truck farms, poultry, cattle and other damage will double the amount. The river rose six feet during the storm and flooded the section.

STRIKE HELD UP.

Request of Anthracite Miners Not Yet Conceded By Executive Board.

The national executive board of the United Mine Workers of America adjourned sine die at Indianoplis Sunday without promulgating a formal indorsement of the application of the miners of the anthracite districts for permission to strike. At the close of the session President Mitchell said:

"There is practically no change in the situation since last night. If the operators do not meet our demands within a given time the strike will be ordered upon the indorsement of Secretary Wilson and myself."

GERMANY ACTING UGLY.

Kaiser William Makes New Complications In the Chinese Muddle.

Advices from London state that the deadlock in Pekin apparently continues. It begins to look as if no solution would be sustained, at any rate before the arrival of Count von Waldersee at Tien Tsin. Germany seems to have introduced a new complication by endeavoring to organize some kind of offensive movement in the province of Chili.

REQUESTS AN ESCORT.

Li Hung Chang Is Willing to Visit Pekin For a Peace Conference With the Powers.

A New York Herald dispatch from Tien Tsin, August 28th, via Che Foo, September 3, and Shanghai, September 3, says:

It is reported that the American minister approves of inviting Li Hung Chang to Pekin to negotiate on behalf of China.

Those who know the viceroy best regard him as insincere, incapable and unreliable. In Pekin the government is dead. It means either partition or the maintaining of independent provincial governments.

A special dispatch from Shanghai says Li Hung Chang has made a request for American escort to accompany him on his journey to Pekin, and that United States Consul Goodenow is considering his request.

Now that a proposal more in conformity with the original American recommendation has apparently met with the approbation of at least a majority of the powers, the British foreign office has allowed it to become definitely known that the British government is of opinion that it is advisable for the allied forces to remain at Pekin until satisfactory arrangements for peace., etc., are concluded with the Chinese government.

M'KINLEY'S LETTER

Accepting Republican Nomination Has Been Issued For Public Perusal.

President McKinley has sent in his letter of acceptance of the nomination made by the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia. Nearly the whole letter is devoted to the Philippine policy and the report of commissioners sent to the islands is reviewed at length. A few words are devoted to trusts.

Of the Democratic platform the president says in part:

"The Chicago platform of 1896 is reaffirmed in its entirety by the Kansas City convention. Nothing has been omitted or recalled; so that all the perils then threatened are presented anew with the added force of a deliberate reaffirmation. Four years ago the people refused to place the seal of their approval upon these dangerous and revolutionary policies, and this year they will not fail to record again their earnest dissent."

CHAFFEE GETS ORDERS.

He Is Notified To Be Prepared For Withdrawal From China.

Orders have been cabled to General Chaffee to prepare his forces for withdrawal from Pekin. Further than that the war department has taken steps to have at Taku a sufficient number of United States transports to remove these troops to the Philippines as soon as they reach the port.

These orders are not preparatory and do not necessarily indicate that our government has decided finally upon an immediate withdrawal from China. It is simply placing itself in a position to carry out the pledge conveyed in the reply to the Russian note.

WILL CAFFERY ACCEPT?

National Party Committee Preparing To Notify Presidential Nominee.

Regarding the report that ex-Senator Caffery will not take the National party nomination, Everett V. Abbott, secretary of the movement, said:

"I do not care to make any comment upon this statement except that the committee appointed by the chairman of the convention to notify Mr. Caffery of his nomination is now trying to arrange the time and place for notification."

The chairman of the campaign committee said that he was in communication with Mr. Caffery and that in a few days a statement of the exact situation would be made.

WORKING FOR HARMONY.

Democratic Leaders of New York Get Together and Hold Conference.

A New York special says: There was an important conference of the leaders of all factions of the state Democracy Friday at the Hoffman house. Richard Croker, ex-Senator Edward Murphy, Frank Campbell, Perry Bellmont, State Senator McCarren, Coporation Counsel Whalen and ex-Governor Stone, of Missouri, who looked after the interests of the national committee in his capacity as chairman of the sub-committee of that body, were present. The conferees were pledged to secrecy, and about all that any of them would admit was that an earnest effort, and partially effective, had been made to secure harmony.

Murder of Missionaries Confirmed.

The American missionaries and three American children, two Danish missionaries and one British missionary stationed in Shan Si province were murdered late in July, according to accurate reports received in Shanhai Saturday.

Count Von Waldersee at Columbo.

Count Von Waldersee, commander-in-chief of the allied forces in China, arrived at Colombo Friday morning, and after spending a few hours ashore resumed his voyage.

Little Town Fire-Swept.

The little town of Metcalf, Ga., was almost destroyed by fire Thursday night. The principal block containing six stores was burned. The fire was of incendiary origin.

SPECIAL BOARD A PROBABILITY

Commission Is Needed to Handle Affairs In China.

WITHDRAWAL UNCERTAIN

Grave Question Is Being Considered By the Various Powers---Minister Wu Returns to Washington.

A Washington special of Friday says: It known that the government has inferential knowledge of the attitude of all the powers regarding the Russian proposal, but it is still awaiting official advices as to some of them. The information concerning those regarding which no official announcement has been received it is stated is practically that which is in possession of the general public and is based on newspaper reports and the opinions of official organs of the various countries.

Minister Wu arrived in Washington from Cape May late Friday afternoon and proceeded directly to the state department. It is understood that he had received an intimation that the department officials were desirous of conferring with him. For nearly an hour the minister was closeted behind locked doors with Acting Secretary Hill and Assistant Secretary Adee. None of the parties to the conference were communicative as to the conference, but at its conclusion Dr. Hill repaired to the white house with a portfolio well filled with papers.

For several hours peceding the minister's visit Acting Secretary Hill and Assistant Secretary Adee had been engaged in short conferences, and it was gathered that the negotiations relative to China were approaching another phase, and that another announcement of some kind was in preparation.

When the United states made its response to the Russian note on the 20th ultimo the officials here expressed the belief that about a week's time would be required to determine upon the next step, and at the end of that time it would be definitely known whether or not the troops were to be withdrawn from Pekin. That period of time has now elapsed.

The reports from the European chancelleries indicate that, officially at least, this important subject is being treated with the greatest deliberation, and at least another week, and probably even more time, may be consumed in framing the last of the answers to the Russian note.

Meanwhile our government has pretty well satisfied itself as to the attitude toward this last proposition of each and all of the powers interested in the Chinese problem. It may be that this knowledge is regarded as sufficient upon which to base another forward and perhaps, in this case, an independent movement by the United States toward the ultimate withdrawal of the troops and the settlement with China which the government has had in mind since the beginning of the trouble.

The consultation with Mr. Wu is believed to have been inspired by a desire to learn something of the personality of Chinese notables whose names have been suggested as proper to constitute the Chinese side of any commission which may be made to arrange a settlement of the difficulties. Mr. Wu is an ardent adherent of Earl Li.

It seems to be regarded as highly probable in official circles that when the time arrives for the negotiations for the settlement with China this government will appoint a commission for that purpose rather than place the negotiations in the hands of a single individual. There have been various suggestions as to who might be appointed upon such a commission but it is positively stated that as yet no definite selections have been made.

As to the numerical strength of such a commission the general impression seems to be that it would not consist of more than five members, more likely three and possibly of only two. It can be stated upon the highest authority that there will be upon the commission some American of preeminent ability.

HILL ELECTIONEERING.

Ex-Senator Makes a Speech Asking Voters to Support Bryan.

Ex-Senator Hill's appearance at Herkimer, N. Y., Friday evening occasioned something of a sensation in political circles, He visited the city ostensibly to visit his old friend, ex-Judge Earl, of that place. In the evening the Fort Dayton band serenaded Mr. Hill, and a large crowd of citizens assembled. He was introduced by Judge Earl, and made a speech, the chief feature of which was his reiterated declarations in support of Bryan.

NEWLANDS AGAIN NOMINATED.

Democrats and Silver Republicans of Nevada Have Convention.

The Democratic and silver Republican parties in Nevada effected fusion at a convention Friday and nominated Francis G. Newlands for congress.

The platform indorses the Chicago and Kansas City platforms, holds that the silver qvestion is one of the important questions of the campaign, opposes trusts, condemns the administration's Philippine policy, opposes alliances with foreign nations, extends sympathy to the Boers.

ALABAMA NEWS GLEANINGS.

Agricultural Department of State Fair Will Make Fine Display.

A Montgomery dispatch says: The state of Alabama will be represented at the coming state fair, to be held in Birmingham this fall, by the most magnificent agricultural display ever arranged in this state. Commissioner of Agriculture Poole has become interested in the fair, and he stated Monday that he proposed to arrange an exhibit that would excel anything heretofore attempted. The commissioner had a conference with Governor Johnston, and the latter told the commissioner to go ahead with the exhibit and the state would foot the bills. At least $2,500 will be expended on the exhibit. Mr. Poole said that he had not outlined the plan of his exhibit yet, but that he would immediately begin its arrangement. Mr. Poolo is one of the most progressive men that has ever held the commissioner's office in this state, and this fact guarantees the success of his exhibit.

Railroad Organized With $20,000,000.

The Birmingham, Alabama and Georgia Railroad company has been chartered by the state of Alabama, with a capital stock of $20,000,000. The incorporators are T. H. Hubbard, E. C. Osborn, John Scott, Thomas H. Kelly, Eugene Zimmerman, J. B. Cobbs, C. H. Hudson, Edward Kelly and E. P. Miller.

The application for the charter stated that the company would build lines of railroad in the counties of Jefferson, Walker, Winston, Lawrence, Blount, Cullman, Marshall, Shelby, St. Clair, Etowah, Cherokee, Calhoun, Talladega, Clay, Randolph and Bibb. The principal office and place of business will be in Birmingham.

It is stated that the active construction of the road will begin at once under the direction of F. W. Kimball, the chief engineer. The contract for the construction work has been let to the Manhattan Construction Company, whose general manager, D. Rogers, is now going over the route.

The nucleus of this new road is said to be the East and West Railroad of Alabama, which now runs from Pell City, Ala., to Cartersville, Ga., and the Tredegar Mineral road, a short line at Jacksonville, Ala.

Big Sum of Money Coming to Alabama.

W. H. Skaggs has returned from Chicago and will remain in Birmingham several days. Mr. Skaggs has recently closed a deal with an English syndicate by which the latter acquires several thousand acres of mineral lands in Alabama, a portion of which is located in the Birmingham district. Mr. Skaggs stated that while the deal had been closed and that the syndicate was one of the strongest in England, still he did not feel justified in giving out the details at present.

He said the sale of the lands meant great things for Birmingham and the mineral district of Alabama. It is in contemplation by the company to develop the properties as soon as practicable, and in doing this an enormous sum of money will be invested in addition to the purchase price of the lands. Among the industrials that have been considered by the purchasers are pig iron furnaces and mills for working the iron into the finished products.

Campaign Committee to Meet:

The official call for the meeting of the state democratic campaign committee, to be held in Birmingham on the 18th inst., was mailed to the members of the committee, the presidential electors and chairmen of the district committee Monday.

Secretary Pugh mailed a copy of the call to Colonel Brewer and one to Colonel Thompson, each of whom claims to be the regular democratic nominee for congress in the Fifth district, and he will mail a copy to the chairman of each of the two campaign committees.

Professor Verner Dead.

Prof. W. H. Verner, president of the University preparatory school, died at his home in Tuskaloosa Monday. He was one of Alabama's most prominent educators and highly respected.

Isthmian Canal Commission Coming.

GREAT DISASTER VERIFIED

Not Less Than 1,500 and Possibly 5,000 People Were Destroyed.

PROPERTY LOSS WILL REACH MILLIONS

The Bay and Gulf Met, Covering Galveston Island to a Depth of Six to Twelve Feet—Many of the Dead Were Recovered.

The first reports of the appalling disaster which has stricken the city of Galveston, Tex., do not seem to have been magnified. Communication was had with the Island City Monday by boat and reports received at Houston indicate that the death list will exceed 1,500, while the property loss cannot be estimated, although it is known it will reach several millions of dollars.

The following statement of the situation at Galveston and all the coast was sent out from Dallas Monday night:

"From the latest reports, which are considered reliable, the disaster at Galveston and along the coast has not been exaggerated. The bay and gulf met, covering the island to a depth of 6 to 12 feet. During this sudden flood a most terrible storm was raging; the wind blew about an hour. Many of the dead have been recovered; others are still under the debris; others were carried out to sea. It is impossible to give at this time a reliable report as to the number of deaths. From a reliable person who has just come from Galveston it is believed that not less than 1,500 and possibly as many as 5,000 people were destroyed. Of course the wounded and broken are numerous. The damage to property is most shocking.

"It is safe to set this down as one of the greatest disasters that has ever visited the United States. The loss of property and the loss of life is appalling.

Government Help.

Following is the text of President McKinley's telegram received by Governor Sayers at Austin Monday.

"Washington, Sept. 10, 1900.

"To Hon. J. D. Sayers, Governor of Texas:

"The reports of the great calamity which has befallen Galveston and other points on the coast of Texas excite my profound sympathy for the sufferers, as they will stir the hearts of the whole country. Whatever help it is possible to give shall be gladly extended. Have directed the secretary of war to supply rations and tents upon your request.

(Signed) "William McKinley."

The president stated that 10,000 tents and 50,000 rations had been ordered to Galveston. Governor Sayers also adds to the appeal that the state asks for immediate assistance in caring for the wounded.

Reports from the interior confirm the loss of life and destruction of property reported in the dispatch last night.

LI HUNG CHANG APPOINTED.

Imperial Edict Gives Him Absolute Power to Settle Chinese Affairs.

The Chinese Minister, Mr. Wu Ting Fang, delivered the state department at Washington an imperial edict conferring on Li Hung Chang absolute and unconditional authority to negotiate with the powers for peace and the settlement of questions growing out of the war. The edict is dated on the last day of the seventh moon, Chinese calendar, which is about August 24. It is issued by the Emperor and not the Empress Dowager, indicating that the former is now exercising those imperial functions which some of the powers, notably Great Britian, have insisted belonged to him rather than the Empress Dowager.

Maine Remains Republican.

Carrying out its traditions of many years, with but one break, Maine went republican in the state election Monday by a majority of 33,000. The republican state ticket, headed by John P. Hill for governor, was elected, with all four congressmen and a great majority of the legislators.

Cleveland May Announce for Bryan.

Former President Grover Cleveland, according to a report in circulation in New York, is about to announce his support of William J. Bryan for president. The report emanates from a Boston newspaper, and the rumor was that Mr. Cleveland soon would make public a letter giving his reasons for desiring Mr. Bryan's success at the polls.

A VISIT TO VINCENT.

In company with Editor DuBose we made a flying visit to Vincent last Saturday. Vincent is one of the growing towns of Shelby and is destined to be one of the most important business points in the county. Although it is but a few years since the first store was established at that place, they now have eight business houses, one of which alone will do from $75,000 to $100,000 of business this year. In addition they have two mills, two steam ginneries, one cotton warehouse, two handsome churches, one livery stable and three physicians. Two of these are old physicians of established reputations. The other is a young man who is fast building up a reputation second to none in the state. His wonderful success is phenominal, and we predict for him a brilliant future. The high school with Professor Manning as principal, with two competent assistants, is second to none in the county. Tuition being free, school is largely attended, and its influence is being largely felt in all that section. In mentioning the institutions of Vincent it is proper to say that Wilder's kennel of fox hounds forms an important part. J. H. Wilder, the resident partner of Pope & Co., is a good judge of a fine horse, mule or fox hound. He imports several car loads of horses and mules every spring which he sells to his customers, but has never been know to sell a good fox hound. He is passionately fond of fox hunting, and every hour that he can spare from his large business is spent in the saddle these beautiful nights chasing the red and grey foxes over the hills and valleys around Vincent. The active exercise of the chase is beneficial in more ways than one, and if more of our business men would follow the example of Mr. Wilder their health would be improved and they would be in better condition physically to attend to business. It is said of Mr. Wilder that he has been attempting to instill into his partner the importance of the fox chase. but up to the present time has failed. More anon.

A COTTONSEED OIL MILL.

Among the new industries being spoken of for Columbiana none in our judgment would be more profitable than a cotton seed oil mill. The erection of a cotton seed oil mill would not only be a source of great profit to the owners, but would increase the business of the town more than any industry we know of. The farmers would come from all parts of the county with their seed to sell or exchange for its products, and while here would of course do more or less business with our merchants.

We understand that a twenty-ton mill can be built for $68,000. Why not build one? As there is an ex-cotton seed oil man in town, THE CHRONICLE would be pleased to hear from him on this subject.

THE rise in cotton in the last few days has been unprecedented. Spot cotton advanced Monday half a cent a pound, and futures one cent. The rise is due to two facts, the scarcity of cotton in the hands of the mill owners, and the terrific storm which swept over Texas last Saturday night, destroying one-third the crop of that state. It is said that a large number of mills in the North have been compelled to shut down their mills for the want of cotton, and will not be able to resume operations before November. While all indications point to a further advance, we can not advise farmers to hold their cotton when they can get 10c or 11c per pound for it.

THE muddle down in the Fifth district becomes more muddled every day. They have two democratic candidates for congress, both claiming to be the regular nominees of the party and each having about the same following. There seems to be little likelihood of settling the differences unless the state committee steps in and takes a hand. In the meantime Col. Millstead, the republican candidate, is making a thorough canvass of the district, and the probabilities are that he will be elected.

THE Trades Council and other labor organizations of Birmingham have passed resolutions endorsing the Alabama State Fair and pledging themselves to work together to make it a grand success.

THIS line fills out the column.

THE sudden rise in cotton has stopped farmers from bringing their cotton to market.

THE absence of yellow fever in the United States this year is a good commentary upon the thorough cleansing of the West Indian islands.

THE state democratic executive committee has been called to meet in Birmingham on the 18th to arrange a plan of campaign in the present election. It is probable also that they will take some action on the muddle in the Fifth district. Col. Thompson and Col. Brewer, as well as all other democratic nominees for congress, have been invited to meet with them.

AN ELOQUENT TRIBUTE

From The Age-Herald.

Sydney Bowie is in himself the most remarkable rise to political leadership known in Alabama history. From comparative party obscurity he has within a twelve-month passed to the front as the most powerful personality amongst the younger leaders of the Alabamians, and there is more of promise for him within the next ten years than for any other man now conspicuous before this people. It is most probable that Sydney Bowie is inherently the strongest man under five and forty now in politics in the South

Sydney Bowie's success is an inspiration to all other young men, and to youths as well. This young man's intellect, masterful though it be would avail him little but for the masterful character the like of which must ever be necessary to make intellectual strength available for worthy purposes. In all the essential walks of life Sydney Bowi is a man without fear and without reproach. Regarding some indiscretions which most young men cherish as precious privileges, Sydney Bowie is resolutely abstemious. His intellect holds in subjection a nature almost tropical in its luxuriant warmth. And that marks the great man—abundant masculine impulses subjected to abundant masculine control. He is greater who conquers himself than he who conquers cities!

Given powerful brain force and moral character, and general popular qualities so called of almost unexampled attractiveness, all these made unconquerable by extraordinary physical strength and presence, and this combination of forces is Sydney Bowie! What more?

It is alright for boys to be "boys," but boys can't be "boys" and men all at the same time!

COTTON.

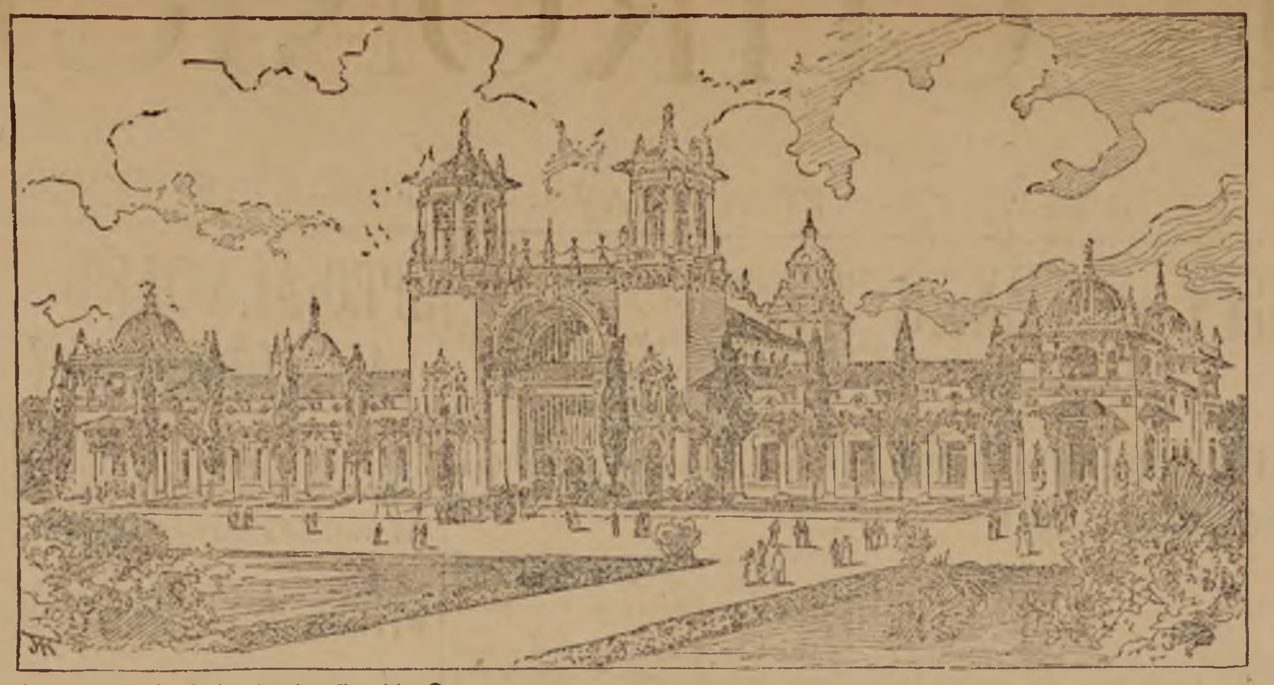
From The Mobile Register.

The bull speculators in cotton seized upon the reports showing a scarcity of cotton greater than has before been known to this generation, and ran late futures up to a line with the summer months; then the Manchester spinners resolved to shut down rather than pay the price. Upon this the bears had their turn and beat the price down thirty points, and the see saw is in progress. There is no doubt, however, of the actual scarcity of cotton, and also of the fact that the crop now coming in is too small to make up the deficiency. Given the ordinary demand for cotton goods the price of cotton seems sure to be maintained. We do not think it will go below present figures during the coming season, and there is a prospect and a good one that it will rise. The speculators are able to work the price up and down twenty to thirty points any day, but they do not really control the market. They merely manipulate it. The market is controlled by the amount of cotton available and the public demand for the manufactured goods. With reasonable continuance of prosperous conditions the demand will hold up. That being the case the price of cotton will hold up too.

How have the mighty fallen! Not a cent for the Dewey naval arch in New York since last may. The arch erected at the time of the Dewey reception was a temporary structure, and when the Dewey craze was at its height the proposition was made to reerect the arch in marble. The plan took well and the money came rolling in. Dewey, however, devloped the polical bee in the bonnet and started off on his eccentric career for the presidency. With this his glory departed. Dewey sank out of sight almost as quickly as he had risen, and his arch is now a crumbling ruin and is to be removed as a public nuisance. The money subscribed to erect a marble arch will be returned to the subscribers and that will be the end of it. Alas, that men were not given much brains as bravery!—Exchange.

Sampson Avery, a faithful old negro died this week at Greensboro and many people, white as well as black, regret to hear of the end. Uncle Sampson, as he was called, was sexton of St. Paul's chuch at Greensboro for twenty-five years. Of the old negro the Greensboro Beacon says: "Uncle Sampson came to Alabama from North Carolina as a household servant of Mrs. Ann Avery (by his account) in the year the stars fell (1833). When emancipated he continued to live with and serve the family who had owned him, and he bore a good character all his life. His unfailing punctuality in attending to his duties as sexton made him one of the well known and familiar features of the community. Sampson said he was 84 years of age, and doubtless he was."

THE ELECTRICITY BUILDING AT THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

Elaborate designs have recently been completed for the Electricity building for the Pan-American Exposition, to be held in Buffalo May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901. Displays of all kinds in the practical and artistic uses of electricity, together with complete exhibits of electrical machinery and appliances, are to be conspicuous features of the great Exposition. The designs contemplate a very handsome and commodious building. The structure is to be 500 feet from east to west and 150 feet wide, giving an exhibition space of 75,000 square feet. The South Facade fronts the Mall, and the north fronts the Midway. The east end is toward the massive Electric Tower, while the west faces the Grand Canal. The general ornamentation of the structure is to be frescoes in a mixture of reds, greens and yellows.

THE FOURTH DISTRICT.

From The Eufaula Times-News.

Sid Bowie won out over several competitors. He won handsomely. Mr. Bowie will be recalled as one of three vessels known as the "Flying Squadron." When Commodore White and Bowie and Graham went to Clark county it was wholly for the Governor and, later when they went into Crenshaw it was likewise, but these two early counties, after a weeks campaigning went for Senator Morgan with a whoop. The "Flying Squadron" made a great reputation.

When Sid Bowie began the circuit for his own interest for congress he knew how to talk and how to win He has won handsomely. He is one of Alabama's cleanest men. He is a strong man. He is a student of government affairs and an honest student. The Times predicts that he will be one of the coming men in Alabama, by which it means that he will be no mean competitor for the first place in all our citzenship. He is a forceful man and full of work. He does not tire in a physical sense and his brain is much more robust than his body. We look for very great things from Sid Bowie.

NOTHING LIKE THE COUNTRY.

From Farm News, Springfield, O.

A farmer friend walked into our office the other day and said: "Well, I've been in town two days and I'm glad I'm a farmer. I couldn't sleep these last nights on account of the noise, and right here in your office the roar from the streets is like that from a cyclone. I'm going home and get rested. I can sit on my front porch and make money, looking at my corn grow, and it doesn't make any fuss about it, either. If I get tired sitting on the porch the girls have got a hammock under the trees that I can lie in. The harvest work is done, the corn is laid by and I thought I'd come up to town and see the sights. Say, there isn't a thing in this whole big city that I'd trade my eighty for if I had to live here; I can't see how you stand it. Talk about moving to town and resting the remainder of my life! Why, I'd rather pitch in the country than loaf in the city." City people are beginning to feel as does our farmer friend. There's nothing like the peaceful, restful country.

JUST A HINT.

"Father," said Tommy the other day, "why is it that the boy is said to be the father of the man?"

Mr. Tompkins had never given this subject any thought and was hardly prepared to answer offhand.

"Why, why," said he stumblingly, "it's so because it is, I suppose."

"Well," said Tommy, "since I'm your father I'm going to give you a ticket to a theatre and a dollar besides. I always said that if I was a father I wouldn't be so stingy as the rest of them are. Go in and have a good time while you're young. I never had a chance myself."

Mr. Tompkins gazed in blank amazement at Tommy. Slowly the significance of the hint dawned upon him. Producing the silver coin, he said:

"Take it, Thomas, when you really do become a father, I hope it won't be your misfortune to have a son who is smarter than yourself."

Joel Chandler Harris, known as "Uncle Remus," who has been for twenty-five years one of the editorial writers on the staff of the Atlanta Constitution, has retired from journalism, and will devote himself hereafter to literature. He is still a young man in vital power and has in him a number of years of good work. He says that he could not expect to accomplish anything in literature when grinding out editorial copy daily. This must be taken in a comparative sense. He has certainly accomplished a great deal in literature while doing the work of an editor. We may reasonably expect, however, that with increased time for literary work he will do more than he has done, and probably achieve a high place in the world of letters. He has both the talent and the application to make a name of which not only the South but the whole English speaking world may be proud.—Mobile Register.

A tax off his mind.—"Didn't you feel dreadfully when you lost your gold-handled umbrella?" "No; I'd expected to lose it for so long that I was glad when it was gone."—Chicago Record.

INVENTOR OF PRINTING.

At Mayence the good people of the town have recently celebrated the birthday of Gutenburg, the inventor of printing. Sir Walter Besant, in commenting on it, says he thinks no one can claim the honor of inventing the art of printing, that it just grew. The demand for books increased mightily in the fifteenth century, not only the demand but the taste for illumination, binding, illustration and fine, clear writing.

But books were extremely dear. Now when engraving on wood was invented, by which copies of a picture could be reproduced any number of times, the next step was the block book in which a whole page was cut in the wood. The third step, that of making metal type, was so natural it may have occurred to a dozen people at the same time, and as the first printed books imitated manuscript the thing may have been going on some time without general knowledge on the part of the world.

It is only by some such theory one can explain the conflicting traditions about Gutenburg, Coster and Faust, the magician. Caxton came later. The Mayence celebration was arranged with due regard for splendor. There was a procession four hours long. Mayence has a fine old market place, narrow, picturesque streets, and afforded a fine background. Gutenberg's descendant's stood proudly beside royalties to view the procession, in which everything was represented. Printers' boys in black were types; carts were piled with printed books; printing presses, ancient and modern, were carried along; engravers, bookbinders, papermakers had their place; artists, poets, philosophers, authors of all kinds were represented by effigies borne in triumphal cars. Last came "Germania" herself, followed by representatives of every class.

WHEN PAPER WAS INVENTED.

From The Chicago Chronicle.

Paper was first manufactured by the Chinese in the first century A. D. Up to that time they wrote on thin slips of bamboo, the instrument employed being not a pen or brush, but a pointed tool. The books of those ancient days were made by cutting the bamboo, after removing the bark, into thin sheets, which were strung together so as to compose a fairly compact, though clumsy, volume.

Later on it was found better to pound the bamboo to a paste in a mortar with water, and the resulting substance was spread upon a flat surface to dry. This, in fact, was the first paper, in the modern acceptation of the term. though the Egyptian papyrus, made from a kind of reed that grew along the banks of the Nile, antedated it by several centuries. After awhile the manufacture of this paper was improved by adding to it silk and other materials. The Tartars borrowed the art, substituting cotton, which was plentiful in their country, and from them the Arabs acquired it, using linen instead of cotton. It was in this way that paper making was first brought into Europe, being introduced by the Arabs.

These moonlight nights afford a nice time for cyclists who have not the time for this very pleasant recreation during the day.

The missionary sociable at the residence of Rev. W. I. Sinnott last Friday night was well attended, and netted $5.50 to the church improvement fund.

John S. Pitts, of Vincent, has purchased the residence of C. C. DuBose near the college, and will move his family to our city in the very near future.

Died, at Barton, Ala., September 9, Ella Winston, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Burt, and grandchild of Dr. and Mrs. W. S. DuBose, of this place.

The walls to the Pearson & Co. brick building are going up nicely; a large force of hands are at work on it, and the improvement in the appearance of that corner is already considerably marked.

One factory for Columbiana is assured beyond doubt, and another may come here in the very near future. Just keep quiet and watch your old town climb up some notches before another year has come and gone.

A defect in the new brick building being erected by Mrs. Armstrong on Main street necessitated an overhauling of the front wall this week. The work on the house is now progressing rapidly and it will be ready for occupancy in a short while.

C. C. DuBose went to Thomasville Tuesday to begin the publication of the new paper which he has established there. His family will follow him in the near future. All success to Clarence in his new home.

A Cotton Growers' Protective Association was organized in Talladega last week with Hon. G. T. McEldery president and D. M. Remson secretary. Every county in the state should have a similar organization. Which will be the next?

We were pleased to meet in our city last Monday our old friend, Joe Harris, who left this section Sept. 5, 1865, in company with the McClanahans, Brashers and Reinharts, to try his fortune in the Lone Star state. He returned to his old home in this county Sept. 5, 1900, just 35 years afterwards, to attend the funeral of his aged mother, who died at her home near Shelby Springs last week. Of course our friend is beginning to show age, but otherwise he is the same old Joe. We were pleased to learn that he has prospered in his adopted state, and hope he may live to make us many visits in years to come.

Dr. J. W. Taylor, a graduate optician, will be in Columbiana during first week of court. If your eyes give you any trouble it will pay you to see him and have them fitted with the proper glasses.

Another Landmark Erased.

Died, at her residence near Shelby Springs on September 3d, Mrs. Jane Harris, widow of the late James Harris, aged 93 years. Mrs. Harris was one of the oldest residents of Shelby county, and spent most of her life at the home where she died. Her son, Joseph Harris, of Texas, was telegraphed for on Monday and arrived Wednesday from his distant home to be present at the funeral on Thursday. Interment occurred at the cemetery in this city.

Vincent Locals.

With all the storms and rain in Texas, and yet we can not get a shower here.

Warner Phillips, who was critically ill at our last writing, we are glad to state is able to be out again.

It looks as if Vincent will lose many of her young men. Bob Kidd we understand has accepted a position in Bessemer; Edwin McGraw has connected himself with the C. of G. R. R., while Edgar Kidd we learn has accepted a position with the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co. at Birmingham. They are all bright young men and their friends in Vincent certainly wish them all the success possible.

Your correspondent visited Harpersville this week and found Mr. Borum, who is running an up-to-date gin system, busy ginning and preparing to gin the cotton of this season. Mr. Borum has a splendid system and we learn gives good satisfaction to the public.

J. H. Wilder, of J. F. Pope & Co., and his milliner, Miss Sadie Vincent, are in Louisville buying a large stock of millinery and dry goods for the fall trade.

Little Vinn Pitts, who has been sick for some time, is still confined to her bed, but we hope a change for the better has arrived.

E. M. Blankenship, the hustling warehouseman of Vincent, is now prepared to weigh and take care of all the cotton which comes to Vincent. We learn he will also pay the highest market price for the farmer's cotton.

W. D. Raley will have charge of the gin outfit of Tom Shrader for the season, and will be prepared to gin for the public at short notice.

We are sorry to learn that Master Jule Fullenwider is very sick at this writing. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

The Baptist protracted meeting at Harpersville was, we learn, a successful one. The meeting closed Sunday night, with baptizing on Monday morning.

The public school opened Monday with a fair attendance. We are of the opinion that we have a fine school and that Professor Manning is the man for the place.

The people of Harpersville are to be congratulated upon securing the services of Profesfor Florey as principal of their school. The Professor is an old experienced teacher, having taught at Harpersville before. We learn he will shortly move to Harpersville.

Dr. A. E. McGraw was on the sick list this week.

Married, at the residence of the bride's parents, near Creswell, on Sunday Sept. 9, Mr. J. M. Morrell to Miss Lackey Bowden, Rev. Dr. Teague officiating. Mr. Morrell is the head clerk of Glover & Cosper at this place and is very popular. "Monk," as he is known, is a big-hearted, whole-souled fellow and his friends are many. Miss Lackey Bowden is a beautiful young lady of fifteen summers, and Mr. Morrell is quite lucky in securing her as his partner for life. Their many friends wish them much happiness, and may their pathway be always strewn with flowers.

Harpersville.

Weather too dry and hot for turnips and late gardening. The people will be in bad shape for "roughness" this winter.

R. B. Posey is the happiest man in town. 'Tis a eleven pound girl.

L. M. Moore is also made happy by a little girl coming to cheer his home.

There has been up to this writing twenty-seven bales of cotton ginned in our town and brought from 8¾c to 10c, the majority at 9c. We trust it will go higher and higher, and that this crop may raise the mortgages off the homes, crops and mules of the country.

At this writing little Johnnie Cross is no better; the other members of the family who have been sick are able to be up.

We heard today that little Vinn Pitts, of Vincent, is better. We trust she may continue to improve.

Little Miss Mary Anna McGraw has been the guest of Mrs. J. F. McGraw for the past week attending the meeting.

Misses Nannie Bell and Mary Kidd were guests of Mrs. T. J. Martin during the meeting.

Mr. Joseph Simmons will leave in a few days for Greensboro, where he will enter the Southern University. Success to you, Joe; be content to climb the ladder step by step, and we predict for you success in reaching the top.

The meeting at the Baptist church closed Sunday night. Rev. O. P. Bentley, was assisted by Rev. Upshaw, of Roanoke. Rev. Upshaw is a thorough-going christian gentleman; his sermons were full of the spirit and were delivered by him in that meek and humble way—yet soul-winning—that characterizes his preaching. He is truly a man clothed with the spirit. This together with the christian influence exerted by Brother Bently over both young and old told mightily for the Lord. The church was aroused from her lethargy and each member seemed more fully to realize the importance of putting on the whole armor of God. Sunday evening the ordinance of baptism was administered to six, and Monday morning two more. Several joined by letter. Truly the Spirit of God was with the people, and the good done will live for ages.

OCCASIONAL.

Calera.

Received too late last week.

Moses Fields, who has been very sick, is considered improving.

On Monday Maj. W. R. Oliver, while handling a hog he had caught in his field, was bitten by said swine on the right wrist, causing a bad but not dangerous wound. The wound was very near the main artery, creating a considerable overflow of blood.

S. Stein and family are visiting relatives in Bessemer this week.

The Calera High School will open Tuesday, 25th instant.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Eason on the morning of the 19th ultimo, a son.

F. W. Gist was called home from Washington on the 31st to the deathbed of his little son, Johnnie.

Charles Gist, of Six Mile, was with his brother in Calera Sunday and Monday.

Miss Effie Greene returned home from Montgomery, where she had been visiting for some months, last Friday.

The remains of little Johnnie Gist were laid to rest in the cemetery at New Salem last Saturday.

John T. Morgan Gist, the bright little son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Gist, aged 5 years and 9 months, died on Thursday morning last after a short illness of acute tonsilitis. John was a lovely child, the idol of his parents and his grandparents; the pet of the household, and many were the fond hopes cherished for him when he should reach man's estate. But such was not to be: he was only lent for a few short years to cheer and brighten the family circle. The Blessed Master who when upon earth said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God," had need of him and called him to his arms. Weep not, parents, grandparents, brother, sisters, for your darling. He is not dead; he only sleepeth. His gentle spirit lives in the bright beyond. He can not return to you, but you can go to him.

Redlawn.

Weather warm and dry.

D. M. Smith visited at Dogwood last week.

Cotton picking is the order of the day.

Prof. R. F. and Miss Louella Lyon attended the teachers' institute held at Campbranch last week and report a nice time.

Several of this place went to the baptizing at Wilsonville Sunday.

Mrs. Claybrooks, of Selma, was visiting friends here last week and this.

S. J. Jackson is ahead of any on the roll, he having sold three bales of cotton last Saturday.

The infant babe of Mr. and Mrs Amos Walton died last Saturday and was buried at the Walton graveyard on Yellowleaf Sunday morning. The babe was about two week's old.

Prof. J. W. Spearman left last Wednesday to enter the Draughan Business College at Nashville. We wish him success.

W. T. Taylor transacted business in your town Monday.

No preaching at the Methodist church Sunday on account of a protracted meeting to begin at Mt. Tabor.

G. W. Biddle and James Spearman went to the institute at Campbranch last week.

Lewis.

Health of this community has improved for the last few days. Most of the sick are convalescent.

We learn that R. W. Poindexter got badly bruised up by a mule team running away with him a few days back.

We notice that Poindexter and Crenshaw have the lumber on the ground for a bridge across Yellowleaf on the Wilsonville and Pelham road.

What has become of the artist who took the picture of the Confederate veterans at Shelby Springs? We would like to know, that we might get the picture.

OBSERVER.

HOW TO SPELL IT.

From The Age-Herald.

The spelling of the name of the Chinese capital is in dispute. Is it Pekin or Peking? The doctors disagree. Mr. Wu says the name should be Peking, because the final sound of the word is that of "ng"—that is to say, the Chinese give the word such a final sound. He cites, too, the Aubury atlas, and he shows that the French write it "Pekin," because final "n" in French has the sound of "ng."

But there is another side to the question, and that other side is chiefly official. It may not be scientific, but it is official. The United States board on geographical names, organized by President Harrison, and since his term retained, decided last May against the position of Mr. Wu. Here is its decision in full:

"Pekin: Capital city, Northern China. (Not Peiching, Peking, Shuntein-fu, nor Yen.)"

This settles it. The spelling officially adopted may not be good Chinese, but it is good enough American, and as patriots we are in duty bound to stand by the honorable board on geographical names, even if we have to show some disrespect for Chinese final consonants and even for Mr. Wu's learning and spelling.

ALWAYS THE SAME.

"Let me tell you a strange story of human nature," said member of the cabinet; "for nearly four year now I have sat at this desk. In that time I have seen nearly all the members of the Senate and the house of representatives. They have been here, one after another, some of them many times. But you will be surprised when I tell you that not a single call have I ever had from a senator or a representative on any other errand than one of selfishness. Every last one of them came here to ask for something for himself or for one of his constituents, which amounts to the same thing. Not one of them has ever come to see me to talk about legislation, politics, the public business. It is always and forever appointments, patronage, jobs, favors. That is one reason why I like to stay in Washington in summer — are no congressmen to annoy me with their importunities."

From The Woman's Home Companion.

Small Margaret had said her prayers, and her mamma was tucking her in to leave her to her slumbers, when the child begged that mamma would not leave her alone.

"Why, Margaret," said mamma, soothingly, but surprised at this unexpected demand, "you know you are never alone, for God is always with you."

"Yes," rejoined the small maiden doubtfully, "I know. But, mamma, I'd rather have some of my own relations."

True Politeness.

Daniel Webster, the American statesman, was one day walking in the street of Washington along with a friend. A negro passing by him made him a profound bow, and Webster acknowledged the courtesy by an equally profound bow.

Said the friend: "Really, do you bow in that style to a darky?"

Answered Webster: "Would you have me outdone in politeness by a negro?"

Knowledge of the Bible will refine, enlarge and elevate the vocabulary of any one, and the girl who studies her Bible daily and reads Shakespeare, Scott, Macaulay and Ruskin will be a better talker than she who limits her reading to the daily newspaper or the latest agreeable book. Dickens, Thackeray, William Black, Blackmore, Barrie, Crockett, Mrs. Oliphant and George Eliot are all helpful to those who would be good, bright, varied and entertaining talkers, because in all these authors you continually find wholesome thoughts expressed in forceful and strenuous English, and bit by bit you receive of the wealth these masters of English have so carefully bestowed upon their work. — September Ladies' Home Journal.

The Chinese Minister had just been to see the Secretary of State. "What was the result of the conference between Mr. Wu and Mr. Hay?" asked a gentleman. "The general uncertainty of Chinese news makes it difficult to say," was the answer. "I have not yet ascertained whether Mr. Hay got woozier, or whether Mr. Wu got hazier."—Washington Star.

The Age of an Oyster.

He who wishes may find out the exact age of an oyster, though he has not the telltale evidence in teeth. The lines in the groove of the hinge of the shell tell the whole story, each line representing a year. An oyster is of age at four years; that is, he is old enough to vote, take care of a family, and go to market. Going to market is a disastrous undertaking, for a four-year-old oyster is particularly palatable. By this it must not be supposed that after an oyster has passed the four-layer period and has five, six, or even ten wrinkles on his shell he is a back number. Indeed, there are records of oysters being eaten just after celebrating their thirtieth birthday, and in most cases they formed a delicious meal. Thirty is an unusual age for an oyster to attain, because few are given an opportunity to live so long. If left to enjoy life in his own way, it is quite probable that the oyster would become an octogenarian or even centenarian.—Fishing Gazette.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

THE ONLY SOLUTION OF THE TRUST EVIL.

Politicians Who Like to Line Their Wallets with Trust Money Carefully Avoid It When Making Up Platforms.

The Standard Oil company, which is the greatest of all the trusts, because it has a greater monopoly than any other, is declaring dividends this year at the rate of 48 per cent on its $100,000,000 of common stock. The statement is enough to set one thinking. If a successful trust can make money at this rate what limit can be put to its power of extension and extortion?—Philadelphia Ledger.

There is no limit to "its power of extension and extortion." Under present conditions its power for evil will grow greater and greater as the years go by. There is no remedy except in public ownership. The oil must belong to all the people instead of a private syndicate. The politicians declare against trusts and then carefully avoid the only remedy for the trust evil. A genuine politician never looks beyond the next election. Instead of trying to discover a cure he labors to hide the disease. The trusts are not all bad—they are an educational influence—they are teaching the people the benefit of corporation—from them we learn economy in the production and distribution of commodities. They represent the transition state from the crude conditions of the past to the glorious enlightenment of the future. The greed of the trusts is forcing us to learn the great lessons of human brotherhood the faster. Their grasping methods are teaching us "our plain duty." When the people see that trusts continue to grow in spite of unfriendly legislation they will cease to try to destroy them and will develop them to greater size and greater usefulness. As the big trusts now swallow the little ones, then the people's universal trust will swallow all the rest of the brood. As the needle points to the pole, just so surely do the expanding trusts point to the public ownership of all monopolies.

WHO LIES?

The censor of the press is needed for the big republican organs as well as for the little ones. One paper says Bryan has abandoned silver, while another says that silver is the only issue in the campaign. Reconcile these conflicting statements if you can:

FORSAKES FREE SILVER.

The most interesting feature of the four democratic campaign speeches delivered at Indianapolis is the common understanding they show of a determination by the democratic leaders to run away from the silver question. Bryan, who would not accept the nomination unless a declaration for free silver at 16 to 1 was put into the platform, has lost in August the courage of his July convictions. In his long speech of acknowledgment of the notification of his nomination he does not pay the silver question the cold respect of a passing glance.—Philadelphia Press (rep.).

MENACE OF BRYANISM.

The nation is in no mood for accepting candidates on the strength of mere apologies and assurances that they can do no mischief since their hands are tied. It is not to be beguiled by any trumpery masks of "anti-imperialism." It takes Mr. Bryan at his word, that it "will not consent to the consideration of any other question" so long as it is menaced with a Bryanizing of its finances and an Altgeldizing of its administration of justice.—New York Tribune (rep.).

Is the Press or the Tribune the champion liar? The truth is that the organs are so badly scared that they do not know what to say. Bryan's great speech has knocked them all silly. They are confused and befuddled. The whole party has become groggy. They fight wildly and are just as likely to kill their friends as their foes. The censored editorials that are prepared for the country press had better be furnished to the city press also. It is the only way to stop the organs from playing such discordant tunes.

A TREASONABLE PRIVATE.

Thomas W. Jones, a private in troop G, Eleventh cavalry, writing from Santa Cruz, Philippine islands, tells how sixty members of his regiment were ordered out to kill or capture a famous Filipino general, known to be living in the neighborhood. The general's house was located and the Americans crawled through the underbrush until they secured positions but a few yards distant. Then they discovered that they had unwittingly chanced upon a wedding. There was a large crowd present to take part in the festivities. Most of them, of course, were women and children, but there were about seventy-five men present who were armed. The Americans were ordered to fire a volley from ambush and then charge, which they did with terrific results.

"The scene that resulted was horrible," writes Private Jones. "On the ground near the house lay the body of the bride, whose brains had been blown out. The groom, who had received a bullet in the stomach, was lying near by dying. Twelve of the Filipinos had been killed and about the same number wounded. An elderly woman was shot through the leg and a little child had her arm shot off.

"But we got the old general, all right, and we burned the insurgents' quarters before we left," ends the letter.—News item.

CLEVELAND REFUSES JOB.

Ex-Pesident Harrison, However, Accepts McKinley's Appointment.

A Washington special says: Ex-President Cleveland has declined the president's appointment as a member of the international board of arbitration under The Hague treaty. Ex-President Harrison has accepted.

One More Plague Suspect.

A special from Glasgow, Scotland, says: Another bubonic plague suspect was removed to the isolation hospital Sunday.

What a dreadful story of cowardly murder? Firing from ambush at the guests of a peaceful wedding. The happy bride cruelly slain, the proud groom writhing in dying agony, the wedding guests fearfully flying from coming death at the hands of the soldiers of the great free republic across the sea.

There is a specimen of McKinley's vaunted pacification. Pacification, forgiveness and fraternity. Never. The Filipinos living will hate us to the last syllable of recorded time, and Filipinos dead will denounce our cruel barbarity before the throne of God.—Exchange.

NEBRASKA.

There is more need of a censor for the republican press of Nebraska than there is for a censor in the Philippines. One organ tells one story and another organ contradicts it. One paper says the state is very prosperous and another says that the state has been irremediably ruined by the pops. Read and reconcile the following extracts if you can:

The deposits in Nebraska's 405 private and state banks have increased during the last three months $3,001,146.61. If Mr. Bryan had desired to do a really good turn for his state and its citizens he would have mentioned this fact in his Indianapolis speech. It would have been a good advertisement.—Norfolk News.

The standing of Nebraska in the union of states has retrograded to no inconsiderable extent since the birth of fusionism and will remain well down in the scale until given an administration of patriotism and principle.—Pawnee Press.

Do we really need another administration of patriotism and principle? During the last republican administration of patriotism and principle the state officials robbed the treasury, robbed the auditor's office, robbed the school funds and brought state warrants down to 7 per cent discount. Since the wicked pops came into power state warrants are selling at a big premium and not one single dollar of the people's money has been misappropriated in four and a half years. Had we better hold on to the reckless administration of the pops or go back to the republican administration of patriotism and principle?—Omaha Non-Conformist.

SENATOR BUTLER.

Chairman Butler appears to have escaped from the spell of "For Bryan's sake." Mr. Butler's aspirations to succeed himself in the United States senate were smothered under democratic votes in the North Carolina election and it is not strange that he should lose faith in the genuineness of democratic sympathy for populism.—Republican paper.

The election in North Carolina has not affected the attitude of Senator Butler toward Mr. Bryan. That election was an unspeakable outrage, not against Senator Butler, the populists or the republicans, but against the disfranchised negroes. If they had made an educational qualification for all voters, white as well as black, it would have been all right, but to allow ignorant white men to vote and exclude ignorant black men is an awful crime against serf-government. Mr. Butler sees that wickedness as we all see it, but he is not the kind of a man to sacrifice principle because he did not get an office. Nobody is guilty of that offense except the democrats of North Carolina, and Mr. Butler never had anything to do with the democrats of that state. He stands just where he did before the election, and he is still more in favor of reform that will result in the election of Bryan.

Butler is one of the youngest and one of the ablest of the southern statesmen. He is not crushed—he still has a glorious future before him—he will continue to be sought after so long as brains and virtue are recognized in this country.

GOSPEL MEASURE.

An official medical report says that there are 30,000 lepers in the Philippines. We are constantly learning something new about the excellencies of our Asiatic possessions. Did anybody ever get so many things for so little money? Only twenty millions for a thousand beautiful islands, fit for a winter resort or a summer home—an unending rebellion—hurricanes and earthquakes—a bran new lot of diseases—polygamy and slavery—Malays, Chinese, savages—a variety of niggers too numerous to mention, and 30,000 lepers thrown in to make good measure. It helped the labor market, also, and enlarged legitimate trade. Sixty thousand Americans find employment at good wages and 400 Manila saloons are bringing profitable returns to some of our enterprising people. Yes, we got a whole lot of things, and the price is only equal to four months' earnings of the Standard Oil company.

REINCARNATED.

M. De Giers, the Russian minister at Pekin, has transmitted a long report to his government respecting the situation. The report is interesting not so much because of its contents, but from the fact that its author was boiled alive with considerable ceremony three weeks ago by the "Boxers," assisted by the exponents of advanced journalism. His reincarnation will naturally excite considerable interest.

Muskegon, Mich., has recently been presented with bronze statues of Lincoln, Grant, Sherman and Farragut—the gift of Charles H. Hackley.

BOXERS STOP MESSAGES.

They Cut Wires About as Fast as Allies Can Repair Them.

Mails received in Shanghai from the north bring a bunch of belated messages, with a notice from the cable office at Taku, dated August 30th, saying that the office, being five days behind on government messages, is not able to undertake other work. The wires to Pekin were being cut daily by "boxers," although restored as rapidly as possible by the British and Americans.

HORSE HAIR.

Processes of Preparing It for Stuffing Upholstery.

The horse hair used in upholstery is obtained from the manes and tails of horses; the latter is the more valuable, the former being of inferior quality. The hair combed from the tails is designated "hard," that from the manes "soft," while the hair is further distinguished by the terms "live" and "dead," according as it has been taken from the animal before or after death. "Live" hair commands the highest price. White is the most valuable kind as regards color, as it is suitable for dying bright tints, and the best hair is obtained from wild horses. Horsehair undergoes three sortings—viz., into sorts according to length, into different colors, and into various qualities. After this the hair is washed in warm soap baths and in water slightly heated, to which lime or potash has been added. The hair, except the white sort, which is to be bleached, is after cleaning passed through a dye bath, in which logwood is the chief ingredient. Short hair being used for stuffing in upholstery work, and long hair chiefly for the manufacture of haircloth, the two kinds, after the above treatment, undergo different processes. Short horse hair, although best for the purpose when used alone, is nevertheless mixed with cow and pig hair for stuffing chairs, sofas and the like. Different blends of these are made and the three kinds thoroughly incorporated by suitable machines, after which the mixture is beaten and screened to free it from dust. Then follows the "curling" process, by which the hair is first spun into ropes, which are next twisted into much shorter lengths, and by a third operation further twisted until they get into convolute shape. The curl thus given requires to be fixed by placing the hair in cold water for several hours, and afterwards in an oven, where it is kept for some time at a considerable temperature. This baking also destroys the eggs of obnoxious insects. For use in stuffing chairs, etc., the hair requires to be teased out.

Wealth and Invention.

Patents on inventions are sometimes objected to as tending to create monopolies, but there can be little doubt that the American patent system has had a remarkable influence in stimulating the inventive faculty of the people and in giving the nation its present supremacy in the industrial world. A writer in the July number of Cassier's Magazine brings together some interesting statistics on this subject. He shows that our inventions and our manufactures have increased on parallel lines, and that labor and capital have alike shared in the vast wealth produced by improved machinery.

Sharks Are Cowardly Fish.

Many tales have been told of how human beings have been devoured by the fish that is known as the man-eater. Although many of these have been greatly exaggerated they are to a certain extent true. It is also true that sharks have been known to follow a ship for days, picking up and eating that which had been thrown overboard as waste.

Notwithstanding all of this, the cowardliness of sharks is well known among men who have been much at sea in southern waters. The fiercest shark will get out of the way of a swimmer, if the latter sets up a noisy splash. A shark fears anything that splashes in the water. Among the south sea islands the natives never go bathing alone, but always in parties of half a dozen or so, in order that they may make a great hubbub in the water and thus frighten away the sharks. Once in a while a too venturesome swimmer among these natives foolishly detaches himself from his party and forgets to keep up his splashing. Then there is a swish and the monster comes up from under him like a flash and he is gone.—New York Herald.

New Courses at Yale.

The tendency of modern educational methods is toward such practical training as will bring the student into touch with living topics of the day and active connection with the political, business, and professional need of the country. Instances of this utilitarian trend in university education are to be found in the endowment of new schools or lecture courses at Yale on forestry, colonial administration, Asiatic politics, journalism, and the responsibilities of citizenship.

Not Yet Done Fighting.

The report that the Southern Pacific Railway company is offering to place lands in Western Louisiana and Eastern Texas at the disposal of Boer colonists is repeated with many circumstantial details. There is probably some truth in the report so far as it relates to the wishes of the railroad company. It is doubtful, however, if the Boers are quite ready as yet to entertain an immigration or colonization proposition on a large scale.

New York Falls Again.

The project of perpetuating in granite and marble the plaster of paris Dewey arch in New York is said to have fallen flat. The subscriptions have come in so slowly that the New Yorkers appear to have lost interest in the project. This was a New York enterprise.

A lie feels easy only when it forgets that it has a truth on its track.

He thinks he lives, but he's a dead one. No person is really alive whose liver is dead. During the winter most people spend nearly all their time in warm, stuffy houses or offices or workshops. Many don't get as much exercise as they ought, and everybody knows that people gain weight in winter. As a rule it is not sound weight, but means a lot of flabby fat and useless, rotting matter staying in the body when it ought to have been driven out. But the liver was over-burdened, deadened—stopped work. There you are, with a dead liver, and spring is the time for resurrection. Wake up the dead! Get all the filth out of your system, and get ready for the summer's trials with clean, clear blood, body, brain free from bile. Force is dangerous and destructive unless used in a gentle persuasive way, and the right plan is to give new strength to the muscular walls of the bowels, and stir up the liver to new life and work with CASCARETS, the great spring cleaner, disinfectant and bowel tonic. Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

STRIKE NEARING AN END

President Mitchell of Mine Workers to Call a Convention.

A FAVORABLE DECISION IS PROBABLE

In Regard to the Operators' Offer of an Increase in Wages—Strikers Close Two Large Collieries at Latimer.

A Philadelphia special says: President Mitchell has at last announced his intention to call a convention to decide what move shall be taken in the 10 per cent increase in wages. He made the announcement at a miners' meeting at Shenandoah. He said he would issue a call in a few days, and the belief is general that the men will give a majority vote in favor of accepting the concession made by the operators, which include a reduction in the price of powder.

All the collieries were closed Saturday, the most important being the mines of Calvin Pardee & Co. at Latimer. Mr. Pardee announced that work would be suspended at the mines until further notice because, as he said, the authorities did not afford sufficient protection to his employes from intimidation by marching mobs of strikers, and he therefore would cease work to prevent injury to property and possible loss of life.

Many hundreds of strikers accompanied by women marched to the Latimer mines, and, though they did not attack the workmen or commit any violence, they marched back and forth on the public road near the mines in such a menacing manner that the Pardee employes feared attack should any emerge from their homes to go to work. In this way the strikers effectually prevented the starting of operations, and Mr. Pardee's decision to close the mine followed.

The Delaware & Hudson Company joined with the other operators and posted notices offering the 10 per cent increase. The Pennsylvania Coal Company is the only other large operator that has not posted the notices, but President Thorne has been quoted as saying his company will agree to whatever the others do.

A DESTRUCTIVE TORNADO

Kills Two People and Destroys $300,000 Worth of Property.

One of the fiercest tornadoes that ever visited northern Minnesota and parts of Wisconsin struck the edge of the Mesaba range town of Biwabik Saturday, killing two persons, injuring eight and doing damage variously estimated at from $300,000 to $350,000.

Dead—John Moriarity, crushed by falling wall; Mrs. John Moriarity, blown against tree, head crushed.

The principal damage consists of the destruction of shaft houses, dwelling and business houses. The Austrian settlement at Biwabik suffered severely. Twenty houses were blown down.

Slim Chance for New Election Law.

The Kentucky senate Saturday passed a substitute for the house election bill. The substitute is virtually a return to the law which was in force when the Goebel law was enacted, and under which the county judges appoint the election officers. The house will almost certainly reject the substitute, and the chances are for the passage of a new election law at the present session are not flattering.

Germans Had to Retreat.

The London Standard has the following from Tien Tsin:

"A German force came into collision with 8,000 Chinese, described as 'Boxers,' a few miles south of Tien Tsin, Friday morning. The Germans were checked and compelled to retire to Tien Tsin. There is reason to believe that the Chinese in this case were not 'Boxers,' but were Li Hung Chang's veterans."

STATE'S FINANCIAL REPORT.

Auditor White Issues a Condensed Statement of the Treasury.

State Auditor White has issued a condensed statement of the financial condition of the state.

At the end of the fiscal year 1897 the Anditor's report showed a deficit of $352,958.57. When Governor Johnston went into office he had appointed a joint legislative committee to ascertain the condition of the State's finances, and this committee reported the deficit at $568,065.84 on January 1, 1897. It was subsequently shown that this committee included in their estimate loans amounting to about $200,000.

Governor Jones stated in his message of November 14, 1894, that the deficit on September 30, 1894, was $364,353.65.

Governor Oates, in his annual message of November, 1896, fixed the deficit at that time at $225,177.54. Auditor White, in his first report, stated the deficit for the year ending September 30, 1897, at $352,953.57, and said that his "conclusions" were that there was only a slight difference in the condition of the treasury at that date and 1896.

From these figures it is shown that the deficit has been reduced during the administration of Governor Johnston $168,389.35.

Morgan Sanguine of Democratic Success.

Senator John T. Morgan, in an interview at Anniston a few days ago, stated that he felt sanguine of democratic success next month. Senator Morgan says he has never doubted, since Mr. Cleveland's first election to the presidency, that there are more than enough democrats in the country to elect a president when they all vote, and he thinks the harmony now prevailing in the party insures Mr. Bryan's election.

NO "TRUSTS" SAYS HANNA

THE REPUBLICAN DICTATOR DECLARES THEIR EXISTENCE A MYTH.

In a Recent Oratorical Effort in Chicago He Said: "I Don't Believe That There is a Trust in the United States" —Merely Quibbling With Words.

Headquarters Democratic National Committee, Chicago.

On the afternoon of September 18 Mark Hanna made a speech to the laboring men of Chicago. There is nothing remarkable about that, as Mr. Hanna has made various other speeches at other places, and will probably make many more. The particular thing to be noted, however, in Mark Hanna's oratorical effort is that he has placed himself upon record in regard to a few matters that are at present very important to the American people. He said for example, among other things: "I don't believe that there is a trust in the United States." This sentiment is no new one with the Senator from Ohio; he has said it before, or, at least, he has written it. But the Republican press has stoutly maintained that when such ideas were attributed to Mr. Hanna it it was simply done through malice by partisan Democratic papers; in fact, it was claimed that Mr. Hanna was misrepresented. It was urged that he was far too intelligent a man, too astute a political leader to maintain for a single instant that there were no trusts in the United States. Hence it was particularly gratifying that he should in his speech to the laboring men of Chicago stand erect, round out his chest, and bellow forth that "there are no trusts in the United States."

It is evident to every intelligent voter that Mr. Hanna was not stating facts, but was merely quibbling with words. Regarding some phases of politics the average voter is familiar with them only through the press or other current literature. He knows what has been written upon that particular subject. Regarding many matters, political in their nature, it is impossible for the masses of the people to have direct knowledge. But with the trust question it is different. Let Mr. Hanna, for instance, go to the farmers of any one of our Western States and say, "There is no nail trust," and the farmer would reply at once, "Call it trust, combination, corporation or what you please, I know this, that there is some sort of organization existing that during the last three years has raised the price of nails nearly 200 per cent." If Mr. Hanna should assure the farmer that there is no lumber trust he would receive a similar answer, for the farmer knows that the price of lumber during the present Administration has been consistently and systematically raised up and held at a level only possible through a trust organization.

The position of the Republican party in regard to the trusts—acknowledging that Mr. Hanna voices the position—and if Mr. Hanna does not speak for the party it could very pertinently be asked who does, is untenable. The first act of the McKinley Administration and of the Republican Congress that went in with it was the passage of the Dingley Tariff bill. Under the operation of this law the growth of the trusts have been amazingly rapid. The bill destroyed all foreign competition, and the domestic market was left absolutely to the trusts formed under the measure.

Under this bill the sugar interests received greater benefits than were ever before bestowed. Foreign competition being cut off the American consumers were left absolutely at the mercy of the Sugar Trust. The American people have been furnished in the last three months with a practical example of the power and methods of operation of the trusts. The figures must be familiar to every consumer of sugar—so familiar, in fact, that the only reason for referring to them is "less we forget," as the American voter is sometimes very prone to do. The Sugar Trust has advanced the price of sugar during the summer as follows:

May 22, 1900, $5.20 per 100 pounds.
May 23, 1900, $5.30 per 100 pounds.
May 26, 1900, $5.40 per 100 pounds.
May 31, 1900, $5.50 per 100 pounds.
June 1, 1900, $5.60 per 100 pounds.
June 14, 1900, $5.70 per 100 pounds.
June 25, 1900, $5.80 per 100 pounds.
July 5, 1900, $5.90 per 100 pounds.
July 9, 1900, $6.00 per 100 pounds.

But enough of the Sugar Trust, for assuredly the American people have had enough of it. Immediately after the passage of the Dingley bill the American Steel and Wire Company formed a trust, as a result of the formation of the trust the price of nails and wire fencing was doubled, and the American farmers were forced to pay a substantial tribute to that same trust; yet Mary Hanna says there are no trusts. As a result of the passage of the Dingley bill the Federal Steel Company was organized, and as a result of the organization of the Federal Steel Company iron and steel products immediately doubled in value. The Dingley bill made it possible to form a Hide and Leather Trust. As a result of the formation of this trust the price of shoes, harness and other leather goods were increased. The American laborer cannot cover the feet of his children without paying tribute to a trust; yet Mark Hanna says there are no trusts. The Dingley bill made it possible to form a woolen goods trust, and—a woolen goods trust was immediately formed. The laborer cannot clothe his children against the winds of winter without contributing to the greed of the trusts, and yet Mark Hanna says there are "no trusts." Immediately after the passage of the Dingley bill all tin plate manufacturers formed a trust, and tin in all its forms constantly demanded a higher price. Even the poor sewing woman did not escape, for sewing thread manufacturers combined and the price of thread nearly doubled. Even the price of salt is controlled by a trust.

It might be interesting for the voter to peruse carefully a list of the incorporated trusts which are existing in the United States at the present time, that is, if the columns of the ordinary newspaper were long enough to hold it, which they were not. A complete list of the trusts would occupy pages. In order that the voter may have some idea of the number of trusts that do exist, Mark Hanna, notwithstanding, we present the following list tabulated under the letter "A." There are almost as many trusts tabulated under the other letters of the alphabet, X, Y, Z alone excepted, but the list of trusts commencing with the letter "A," however, may be sufficiently numerous to open the eyes of any one who may not have taken the pains to acquaint himself fully with the trust situation.

A SYNDICATED PRESIDENCY.

Why Richard Olney's Striking Phrase is a True One.

Mr. Olney has been much abused for saying that the re-election of Mr. McKinley "will mean that the American people sanction a syndicated Presidency."

Those who abuse him, however, are careful not to quote what he said in definition of his phrase:

"A syndicated Presidency—a Presidency got for the Republican party by the money of a combination of capitalists intent upon securing national legislation in aid of their particular interests."

Mr. Olney is a man who does not use words carelessly or ignorantly. In further explanation and justification of his biting phrase he declared that:

"Our Government was not conceived or framed as a money-making machine even for the profit of all the governed, much less for the profit of particular classes or portions of the governed."

The "vital principle and crowning merit of our Government;" he truly said, "are that it stands for equal opportunities to all." And with equal truth he declared that:

"This theory of the true functions of government McKinleyism directly antagonizes. By protective tariffs, by the most intimate relations between the United States Treasury and the general money market, by subsidies to particular industries, by an aggressive colonial policy, and in other ways it practically holds out the Government as an engine for use in the acquisition of private wealth."

Is not this indictment true?

Where does Mark Hanna turn when he starts to raise the enormous campaign fund which he warns his supporters is essential to the election of McKinley?

Does he go to the people, as the World did for its Cleveland campaign fund in 1892? Not at all! He goes to Wall street, with its syndicated banks, controlled by or in alliance with "the Standard Oil's own;" to Boston, with its syndicated copper and other trusts; to Philadelphia, with its syndicated fat-yielding protected industries and coal combines; to Chicago, with its syndicated contractors for food supplies.

When Collector Hanna is out to fill up his capacious campaign chest he does not go to the men who carry the "full dinner-pails" which he assumes that McKinleyism has filled. He goes rather to the full money-bags which have been made rotund by McKinley bounties, McKinley subsidies, McKinley contracts and other McKinley benefits, contributions from which are not merely tithes from favors received, but the expression of a lively hope of favors to come.

What word can more accurately describe a Presidency obtained by this means, for these ends, than that employed by Mr. Olney—"a syndicated Presidency?"—New York World.

Why Republicans Are Apathetic.

While such optimistic shouters for McKinley as Chauncey M. Depew and Theodore Roosevelt are endeavoring to humbug the people into the belief that McKinley's election is assured by an overwhelming majority and that all that remains for the Republicans is to count the votes, Mark Hanna, who has undertaken the job to re-elect McKinley again, declares that the Republicans are "overconfident" and show a great lack of interest in the President.

Says Mr. Hanna:

"Overconfidence is responsible for the apathy so far manifest in this campaign. There were nearly 500,00 Republican voters so confident in 1892 that President Harrison would be reelected that they did not take the trouble to go to the polls. Their negligence, due to overconfidence, cost the Republican party that election. We are facing the same conditions in this campaign."

Mr. Hanna undoubtedly has found out that the apathy which exists among the Republicans is due not so much to "overconfidence" as to disgust with or indifference to the imperialistic candidate.

The thinking and independent Republicans of the country not only do not enthuse over the administration and the policy of the President, but view with alarm the purpose of the President to transform this free and popular Government into a Government by militarism and large standing armies.

There is no cause for overconfidence on the part of the Republicans in McKinley's re-election, as Mr. Hanna will find out in due time.—Syracuse (N. Y.) Telegram.

The Shifty McKinley.

What would McKinley do without his old standby, "commission?" His latest one is to go to China in an international capacity and help straighten out the tangled affairs there. What are our ministers and commanders for? These commissions cost enormous sums of money and really accomplish little of value. However, they make it easy for the administration to shift and evade heavy official responsibilities.—Cleveland Recorder.

The worst romance is not so corrupting as false philosophy, or false political essays.

Evil thoughts swarm only in unoccupied minds. Be busy about noble things, if you would be saved from the ignoble.

Nature has given us two ears, two eyes and but one tongue, to the end that we should hear and see more than we speak.

Affectation is the confession of inferiority. It is an unnecessary proclamation that the individual is not living the life he pretends to live.

Anger is the most impotent passion that accompanies the mind of man; it effects nothing it goes about, and hurts the man who is possessed by it more than any other against whom it is directed.

Do not be ashamed of being bighearted and ambitious to improve yourself in body and mind. Remember that one of the best ways of self-improvement is being of service to others who need help.

A POINT IN ETIQUETTE.

Amos Explains the Difference Between a Call and a Visit.

Then we climbed the great flank of the island, over mossy curled bunch grass, through the ruby-dotted raspberry bushes, where the berries stood like glowing healthy flesh in the afternoon sun, and up across strange dusty beds of rotting rock, to the lonely top. We walked into the absurdity of a fenced-in half acre—did not the sea itself enclose narrowly enough?—around the stumpy stone tower, with the great over-sized lantern room atop.

The woman of our party stooped and picked a tiny tough stem from among the thin, long grass. "I shouldn't wonder," said she, backing into her statement of conviction as into shafts, "if this were a pipsissewa." There was delight and enthusiasm in her tones, and a voice from the luncheon party which had blindly followed our lead all the way uphill spoke up proudly, almost as if resenting the discovery.

"It is pipsissewa," she said. "We have plenty of it on our island."

The luncheon party spread itself out on a flat ledge; the woman of our party fell to devouring berries from the vines—pop-pop-pop, with the speed and aim of a hen picking up grains of corn—and all the quiet civilization has left on the island crept through the lighthouse reservation again.

We wanted to talk with the light-keeper, but when we had asked for a drink of water in that holy temple of cleanness, the kitchen, we fell silent because there seemed nothing worth while telling him. As for asking questions—we had kept a light ourselves, and we knew that breed of bore.

But Amos entered—came in without any ceremony beyond the toe-taps on the last two steps, meant to clean his shoes, not to announce his coming.

"'W are ye, Amos?" said the light-keeper's wife.

"'W are ye?" he responded.

"Well seddown."

"Well, no, thanks. Didn't come to make a visit—on'y a call," said Amos. Politeness bade us garrote curiosity, and remove our presence from the road of conversation, and slowly we moved to the door. Blessed sloth and twice-blest thirst that brought us there for the light-keeper said "Amos, what's the difference 'tween a call and visit?"

"A call," answered Amos, as we hung on the threshold, reluctantly closing the door, "is where ye stannup, an' a visit's where ye seddown."—Boston Journal.

Eels at a Quilting Party.

The Rockland (Me.) Opinion tells a story of the way in which a quilting-party was recently broken up. The ladies were plying their needles and talking in the sitting-room of the house where the quilting-bee was held. Meantime the husband and son of the hostess, who had been fishing for eels, returned home.

The two men repaired to the kitchen and dumped their heavy catch into the sink. Then, leaving the ells to thaw out in hot water, they repaired to the barn to attend to the cattle. Soon the eels, which had appeared to be frozen stiff and lifeless, began to feel the effect of the warmth and to writhe and twist in the full vigor of life. They flopped out upon the floor and, so to speak, pervaded the room.

The sitting-room about this time had become very warm, and some one opened the door leading into the kit-eels, screamed, rose from her chair, and shrieked:

"There's a snake!"

In an instant the wildest excitement prevailed. A glance into the kitchen, and there was a cry: "Oh, the kitchen is full of snakes!"

The quilters rushed out into the hall and up the stairs to the dressing-room.

At this juncture the men came in from the barn, and there was some lively work before the eels were slaughtered. The shock and the fright which the ladies had received effectually broke up the quilting-party.

OF CALHOUN.

EVERYTHING IN SHELBY FOR BOWIE.

The position of the People's Advocate, as set forth in its issue of last week, decides the congressional question beyond the shadow of a doubt. The Advocate is regarded as among the most influential populist papers in the state. It is edited in a county which is claimed to be populist and which, it must be admitted, is very close. Now, for this, the only populist paper in the county, and the organ of the party, to come out in such an able and enthusiastic article for Bowie, as was the editorial in the Advocate last week, can mean but one thing, and that is that everything in Shelby is for Bowie; and if in Shelby then the district will be for Bowie whether he has opposition or not.

Shelby has been regarded—and justly so, we think—rather a pivotal county. It was so in the primaries. "As Shelby goes so will the matter be decided" was said before the primaries came on. Occupying as it does rather middle ground between the white counties and Dallas, it has been regarded as equally pivotal. With intelligent, well directed, thoroughly united opposition, Mr. Bowie would not probably have had the walk over in this election that we have heard of, had the opposition to democracy in Shelby opposed him. But now the white people in Shelby are for the first time in many years united to accomplish the same end, to-wit, the election of Syd Bowie to congress from the Fourth district. We are rejoiced to see our neighbor take such an open, manly position. It requires courage for a paper, as well as an individual, to do what the Advocate has done. Hurrah for Bowie!

HOLDING OF CIRCUIT COURT BY JUDGE PELHAM.

From the Advocate of last week we clip the following:

During the last term of circuit court the judge took a forfeiture against some of the attendance on the court for not being on time. We think the judge should take a forfeiture against himself for being late in opening court.

Now, we are strongly in favor of officials being held to a strict accountability for their public acts and doings, but at the same time we believe in justice; and sometime a word untimely and out of season, while it seems a little thing, works a great injustice.

Judge Pelham, while a young man, is proving himself to be a good judge and an upright man. He dispatches the business of the court as rapidly as the importance and, frequently, gravity, of the business will allow. It is not the judge that meets the earliest in the morning and holds the latest that accomplishes the most in the truest sense. But it is the truly informed judge as to the law, with a clear head, honest heart, and who has good business sense. The judge who meets at 7:30 a. m. and holds until candle light may conform to the ideas of some people as to what it takes to constitute a good judge, but the man of judgment and good common sense will be able to discover that justice is in the meantime suffering and that things are getting badly mixed.

We don't know just what is meant by our neighbor, and it may be just a little good humor, and not intended to cast any reflections on Judge Pelham. We don't know whether the article referred to the lateness of the hour in opening court every morning, or the judge's custom of not opening court on Mondays until 1 or 2 o'clock. If to the former, then we have said enough on that. If to the latter, then we would say that we approve this course. The lawmakers deemed it wise that court should not open on the first day until 12 o'clock, virtually in the afternoon. Then, why should not the same rule apply to every Monday? If the judge should come here on Sunday in order to be ready to begin court at 8 or 9 the next morning, everyone knows that a great majority of the jurors, witnesses and parties, as well as attorneys, would not be present, and the business would have to be laid over. By waiting, as Judge Pelham does, until 1 or 2 o'clock, this gives all parties ample time to come at no great trouble, inconvenience or extra expense. It gives attorneys, clients and witnesses an opportunity to consult together and know whether they can go to trial, and the effect, generally, is to facilitate the business of the court. When the presiding judge has given ample time for all jurors, witnesses and parties to be present and any should fail without good excuse it is not unjust that the penalty of the law should be affixed. Otherwise you leave it in the discretion of every one to come when it suits his convenience or his own peculiar idea of when he should come, and the business would be all confusion and chaos.

We can't think our neighbor meant just the construction that can be put on the squib quoted. But we could not allow it to pass unnoticed, lest a great injustice would be done a good, fair and business judge.

THE NICARAUCUA CANAL.

Every man in Shelby county regardless of party, is interested in the canal project and in the completion of this grand enterprise. No one thing promises so much to our country, and especially to the South. Our Senator Morgan is the recognized and admitted champion of the canal bill now pending in the senate of the United States. For the information of our readers as to the prospects of the passage of the bill, we publish a letter from Senator Morgan to the Age-Herald of Sunday. The letter, as will be seen, was accompanied by a letter from Hon. William L. Merry, minister to Nicaraugua and Costa Rica, which was published in full in the Age-Herald at the request of Senator Morgan. Following is the senator's letter:

Anniston, Oct. 4, 1900.

To the Editor of The Age-Herald:

The enclosed letter from Hon. William L. Merry, our minister to Nicaragua and Costa Rica, addressed to Senator Perkins of California, is so complete an answer to many questions that are asked me about the canal that I hope you will publish it for the information of our people.

The senate, by unanimous consent has made the canal bill, which passed the house by a majority of more than eight to one at the last session, the order of business for the 10th day of December, when I expect it to be taken up and passed. In this expectation I am not so sanguine as to ignore the weight of the opposition to the canal that is being pressed from three powerful antagonists.

The first and strongest of these is the combined power of the transcontinental railroads, including those in Panama and in Canada, six or seven in all, with an annual gross income of near $400,000,000. This combine is no mean or idle antagonist. Its power has, so far, been able to crush the will of the people which has been distinctly expressed in four separate votes of the houses of congress in favor of the canal. This combination is now hiring Pacific coast publications to publish anything that will damage the prospects of the canal.

The second combination is that of corporations in New Jersey and New York, chartered for the purpose of capturing and combining in a great monopoly all the passable waterways across the isthmus of Darien, thereby making the commerce between the great oceans subject to the control of a few persons. Nothing could exceed the audacity of this combine or its danger to the world's commerce. In its claims of power and in the purpose to accomplish its success this combination stops at nothing and spurns the power of the United States to check its operations. Its claim is that the United States shall not own and control an isthmian canal, but that it shall be private property under the control of a private corporation. I am merely stating these claims and efforts and the obstruction they present to the effort of our people to accomplish this great and indispensable work, without discussing them.

The third obstruction comes from the efforts of the Panama Canal Company to unload upon the United States their remaining assets of a bankrupt corporation at an enormous cost with a line that is not practicable at any reasonable cost, and is so involved in claims of French stockholders and so tied up in the courts of France that we could not afford to take it as a gift. This company having expended $1,500,000 in the city of New York in lobby fees, and having caused a former secretary of the navy to resign his great office in order to accept from it an agency at a salary of $25,000 a year, is again pressing the government and congress to abandon the Nicaraguan route and adopt this old scheme that has made a record for criminal frauds that shook the people of France and that government with an ague of apprehension and disgust. The furtive activity of this movement is extremely dangerous to our vital interests.

I do not ignore the power of these vast and dangerous movements and can not, therefore, assure our people that the canal is safe from their machinations. It has won on every vote that has been taken in the senate and the house on the merits of the question, but so far the people have been fooled in this grand work by the pressure that opposing interests and political intrigue have applied at the convenient moment.

The appeal of the whole world and of posterity is now addressed to the American people, that they will demand of congress final and conclusive action in securing a ship canal across the isthmus of Darien to correspond with the Suez canal in its benefactions to mankind.

I believe that in December the senate will respond to this appeal and establish the work. I can not conceal from myself, however, the apprehension that if this matter is allowed to drift, at the pleasure of speculators and politicians, an indignant people will be ready to resort to any measures that may be found necessary to provide for the safety and welfare of the United States.

Very respectfully,
JOHN T. MORGAN.

SYDNEY J. BOWIE.

From The Sherman (Tex.) Democrat.

The Fourth congressional district of Alabama is now represented in congress by W. F. Aldrich, a republican, but after the November election Sydney J. Bowie, a democrat, of Anniston, will take his place.

Mr. Bowie was born and raised at Talladega, Ala., which is in the district, and is without doubt one of the most brilliant young men the South has ever produced.

Unless some unforeseen circumstances come up he will enjoy the distinction of being elected to congress as the choice of the democrat, republican and populist parties.

In August the democrats of the Fourth Alabama district, in convention assembled, nominated Hon. Sydney J. Bowie by acclamation. In the primaries he had carried every county in the district, with one exception, and carried every precinct in the counties with the exception of three or four, although two other very able men were contesting for the place.

On the 15th of September the republican convention in the Fourth Alabama district nominated Hon. W. F. Aldrich, the present congressman of the district, but believing that conditions were not as good for success as formerly, Mr. Aldrich declined the nomination. The convention thereupon appointed a committee of three to confer with a similar committee of the populist party, with instructions to put out a candidate as the joint nominee of both parties.

This committee met on the 27th of September, and though there were two or three men anxious for the nomination, a majority of the committee preferred Hon. Sydney J. Bowie to any of them, and by a vote of five to one declared it unwise and inexpedient to make a nomination.

Probably never since the day of Washington has any one man enjoyed the distinction of being the choice of the entire population, including all parties.

J. H. HAMMOND.

In publishing J. B. Adams' notice of last week the printer made it read that Mr. Adams had two mules for sale, instead of four, which is corrected this week.

Cotton is being brought into town in great quantities, and Columbiana is paying the top of the market for it. Our merchants are determined to give as much as any town outside of the big cities.

We would call the attention of our readers to the statement of the bank of Gordon DuBose in this issue. This is a wonderful institution for always having a large percentage of available cash against deposits. Its conservatism is attracting a great deal of attention.

It was necessary this week to leave out our communication from Redlawn and to "cut down" other matter on account of rush in work and in order that the paper might be published on time. The Redlawn communication will appear next week. These communications are never left out, except on unavoidable occasions.

Miss Fannie Smith, the youngest daughter of Mr. Dudley Smith, who lives near here, died on Monday last with congestion and partial lockjaw, and was buried in the cemetery at this place Tuesday. Funeral services were held in the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. Holdridge conducting the services. Mr. Smith and his family are well known to the people of our community, and in this bereavement they have the sympathy of all our people.

The North Alabama Presbytery, which convened in the Presbyterian church on Tuesday night of last week, adjourned on Thursday night about 9:30. We had hoped to be able to publish a full report of the proceedings of this ecclesiastical body, but our reporter was not able to attend all the sessions, and we have not been able to secure a full report so far. Suffice it to say that work of vast interest and importance to the church was transacted. It was a fine and intelligent body of men, all seeming to possess the spirit of consecration to an unusual degree. Our people, regardless of denomination, received them with open doors and hearts. The spirit of reciprocation was apparent. The Presbytery left its impress upon our community and people which will be lasting.

Since Presbytery adjourned there has been preaching twice a day at the Presbyterian church, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. On Friday, Rev. J. S. Park, of Decatur, preached an able and instructive sermon, holding his large audience spellbound for upwards of forty minutes. Since then Rev. Orr, of Easley, preached twice a day, excepting Saturday night, when no services were held. His sermons were bold, but fair and honest presentations of the great truths contained in the Scriptures. He is quite a young man, and young in the ministry. He was ordained to preach last July. Rev. D. D. Little preached on Monday night, and his was a lucid and instructive sermon. While short, it showed much careful thought. The North Alabama Presbytery has several able and promising and consecrated young men, and great good may be expected from their labors.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The circuit court finished up the business before it, and adjourned on Friday last.

There were several cases of importance tried or otherwise disposed of during the three weeks. During the first week the two damage suits of Mary Jones vs. Alabama Mineral Railroad Co., and T. W. Whatley, administrator, vs. Zenida Coal Co., were tried, in both of which the jury awarded considerable damages.

During the second week no case involving much damage was tried. The stock law case from beat 10 (Harpersville) was argued at length and submitted to Judge Pelham without a jury, the questions involved being mainly questions of law. The opinion of the judge was that Probate Judge Longshore committed no error in vacating and setting aside his former order establishing a stock law in said beat. There was much interest felt in reference to the result of this suit. The probability is that the stock law men in said beat will appeal to the supreme court.

During the third week, the criminal week, only one case of much importance was tried, and this was the case of the state vs. Frank Turpin, charged with assault with intent to murder. The jury found the defendant guilty, and recommended that the court fix the punishment at four years in the penitentiary. The court sentenced him to two years in the penitentiary.

There were three little white boys whose cases were on the docket, charged with burglary. They were aged 14, 15 and 16 years, respectively, and were small for their ages. They possessed unusually bright and intelligent faces. The court suspended proceedings against them and sent them to the reformatory for boys in Birmingham. The little fellows had been in jail in Columbiana for nearly, if not quite six months.

The Fruits of Blind Tiger Liquor.

One A. E. Wood, of Childersburg, landed in our city about Thursday of last week and soon ferretted out the rendezvous of the blind tiger, and tanked up on that lurking and dangerous animal's stock in trade. It soon crazed him, as it always does when imbibed a little freely.

His conduct on the streets was quite reprehensible, but the city marshall being out of town, and the mayor engaged in court, he was left to the freedom of his own will during the day. After night set in he carried his horse over to the Methodist church and put him in the church—stabled him for the night. Then he dragged himself into the Presbyterian church, where the North Alabama Presbytery was in session, and began in an unwarranted manner to participate in the proceedings. He had not proceeded far, however, when Marshall Thompson, with the necessary assistance, laid hold of him, carried him out and placed him in the lock up, where he remained until the next morning, when he was carried before the mayor, who assessed a fine of ten dollars against him.

He got into the good graces of the marshall, who agreed to secure others, who with himself, would stand for him until he could go home and send the money back, he to leave in charge of his said sureties his horse, saddle and bridle until the fine and costs should be paid. No sooner was he turned loose than he went to the livery stable, saddled his horse and left the marshall and his other sureties with the bag to hold. We are informed that he wrote the marshall from Childersburg the next day, apologizing for his bad conduct, and especially for leaving the marshall so unceremoniously.

He is said to be a son of Richard Wood, of Childersburg, who is a good citizen and well to do, but who has ceased to assist his wayward boy out of his difficulties.

ABOUT CHANCELLOR KELLY.

The Gadsden Times-News says: "Chancery court was in session Monday and Tuesday, Chancellor R. B. Kelly presiding. He rushes business through with dispatch, but he thoroughly looks into and investigates every question that comes before him and never gives decisions until he has done this. His record since he assumed the office is one that has never been equalled, for in all his many decisions he has only been reversed once by the supreme court. He is a lawyer of marked ability and is fulfilling the expectations of all his friends."

The Clanton Banner has this to say of the chancellor: "It would seem that Chancellor Kelly is determined to explode the old tradition that it is easy to get into chancery but hard to get out. He has cleared all the cases off the docket in this county with the exception of two, and they are carried over on demurrers. The register, Dr. W. E. Stewart, says that never within his experience has the work of the court been carried on so expeditiously and satisfactory. Chancellor Kelly's decisions are generally accepted, and very few appeals are taken, and of those carried to the supreme court we believe only one has been reversed."

To your correspondents who have been urging me to write, please say that I am still in the ring and will try and give you what happens in and around Harpersville as much as my time will admit in the future.

Guess you know that Edward Florey has come back from Texas. He says that Alabama is far ahead of Texas and that Harpersville is the best place on earth.

Rev. O. P. Bentley filled his appointments at the Baptist church Saturday and Sunday, and was on Sunday elected pastor for another year. He is a good pastor and a fine preacher, and very popular with our people.

Cotton at 10 cents will cause a good many farmers to be able to take up those old mortgages, which are almost worn out; but almost everybody will have to buy corn another year, which is still embarrasing. Let us all plant more corn and not so much cotton, and cotton will bring a good price another year.

The home of Mrs. Gorman was made sad on the 25th of last month by the death of her younger son, Hugh. It was quite a shock to the family, as it was so sudden. Hugh had just grown into manhood, and cast his first vote in the August election. While his death was sudden and unexpected, yet he had been a sufferer for a long time. He was a young man whom everybody thought well of, and numbered his friends by the score. He was a member of the Methodist church, and was a regular attendant. To the bereaved family we extend our sympathy.

Mrs. Lagrone died at the residence of T. J. Martin last week. She will be remembered by the Columbiana people as having a trial at the spring court for infanticide, but was acquitted by the jury.

AFRICAN DIAMONDS.

First Discovered by an Irishman, John O'Reilly.

Mr. John O'Reilly, who had occasion in the winter of 1867 to do business in the Hopetown District of Griqualand West, on the other side of the Vaal river, first discovered diamonds in South Africa. He passed a night at the house of Schalk van Niekerk, a Dutch farmer. While bartering with the Boer and his wife O'Reilly's attention was attracted by a game the children were playing, being particularly struck with the peculiar transparency of one of the pebbles used in the game. Though O'Reilly had never seen a diamond in the rough he expressed an opinion that the pebble played with by the children was really the precious gem. The farmer ridiculed the idea, saying O'Reilly might have it if he cared for the rubbish, adding that there were plenty more of them in the river clay. O'Reilly accepted it on the understanding that if it turned out to be a diamond the farmer should receive half the sum. At Colesburg it was submitted to experts, most of whom denied it being of much value, but Dr. Atherstone, of Grahamstown, pronounced it to be a veritable diamond weighing 23½ karats and worth £500. The then governor of the Cape, Sir Philip Wodehouse, bought it for that sum. Diamonds afterwards were found in the mud walls of native huts, and this led to the opening of the dry diggings where now stand Du Toits Pan, De Beers, Kimberley, Bultfontein and the Premier mine.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

A man never learns true economy until he trains himself to change his mind before he changes a $5 bill.

The suggestion that the "shirtwaist man" will have to wear corsets finally reduces that individual to complete absurdity.

The South African war being practically over, some of the military critics could, without loss to the public, be mustered out.

Spain is managing to keep out of international discussion with all the persistent discretion of a government that has had trouble enough.

If the average man were to attempt to read everything the Government publishes in one year he would have to devote about half a century to the task, taking eight hours a day.

The manufacture of glass in Germany is becoming a very important industry. There are 400 factories operated, and they give employment to 35,000 workmen. The industry is one of the youngest established in the empire.

When nature exhibits the might of her destructive forces how puny the greatest efforts of human rage seem by comparison. Galveston's list of killed in a single night exceeds that of the Spanish-American and Anglo-Boer wars added together.

A London newspaper is responsible for the statement that the army of sandwich advertising men in that city numbers about seven thousand, and is recruited from all classes in society, even members of the nobility having been reduced on rare occasions to this method of making a shilling.

The soil of Peru contains a large number of mineral species. At the present time the number of mines in exploitation is 2,500, employing 70,000 workmen. The value of ore has increased by more than fifty per cent. within the las two years over that in 1898.

The cutting of the river weed known as sudd on the Upper Nile has had remarkable results. The operation has set free such an extraordinary amount of stagnant water that the river has been poisoned as far down as Assouan. Millions of fish have died from the want of free oxygen, but, strange to say, though the water is disagreeable to the smell and taste, the people who are compelled to drink it, in the absence of any other supply have experienced no ill effects.

Of all the marvellous aspects of the allied expedition to Pekin the most remarkable is that the palm of military supremacy should by common consent and without question have been awarded to Japan. Never in history has there been a transformation of a nation of forty millions of people so complete and accomplished in so short a time as the transformation of Japan, emphasized by its high military efficiency on the advance to Pekin. The capacity for cultivation which it attests is marvelous, and the Japanese are as patriotic as they are capable. Their latest achievement is enough to furnish the military powers of Europe with food for serious thought.

The opening up of a bog deposit at St. John, New Brunswick, reveals the fact that the region was swept by a forest fire about 2,000 years ago. The important question is, if there was such a fire as the remains indicate, by whom or what was it kindled. Some suggest that it was from the heat developed by a lightning stroke, but to this it is replied that growing trees which are often struck seldom take fire, and if they do the fire is usually extinguished by the rain accompanying a thunder storm. Nevertheless fires from lightning are well known. In the south of France forest fires have been known to originate from the drops of balsam which exude from pine trees, these drops forming natural lenses which concentrate the rays of the sun and lead to ignition of the wood. Deposits of charcoal are not uncommonly found below glacial clays, proving that there must have been forest fires when the world was yet young, whatever their source.

The laws of Argentine compel every business man to render statements of his accounts to proper officials, and if he is indebted more than he can pay, his business is at once supervised or investigated. If he wilfully goes into debt with the view of wronging creditors he receives punishment. The business standing of every merchant can at any time be ascertained, and credit in Argentina is as safe as cash. To make it plainer, the creditor is so well protected that for a manufacturer to receive cash is really a drawback, as he loses the discount. The large German houses will always prefer the credit customer to one paying cash, as the profits are larger, and it is rare for loss of any kind to occur. Business, as a rule, is done on credit, and the dealer not only expects to receive credit but is also willing to extend it to his customers. Credit is given for from six months to a year, but at the end of the period the cash is paid, sometimes with interest added.

The report made by the committee appointed by the British Dental Association to investigate and report on the condition of the teeth of school children contains some interesting points, says the Philadelphia Medical Journal. It appears that only about ten per cent. to thirteen per cent. of school children from six to sixteen years of age have "sound dentition," that is, a condition in which no permanent tooth had been attacked by caries at any time. This appears significant, and it would lead to the conclusion that the average child knows little of the toothbrush, and that proper instruction from parents and others whose duty it is to teach along this line has been sadly neglected. Fer, notwithstanding the influence which heredity, the constitution of the individual, the character of the food, etc., undoubtedly have upon the teeth, surely no one will assert that all these causes combined could cause ninety per cent. of growing, and presumably fairly healthy, children to have defective teeth if proper care was observed in keeping them clean.

The notable fact in the report of the Chief Fire Warden of Minnesota is that whereas in other States having no fire-warden system vast areas were burned over and many millions of dollars in property destroyed by forest fires in 1899, in Minnesota only ten insignificant fires occurred, covering an aggregate area of only 3,635 acres and causing a property loss of only $1,541. Of those ten fires all but three were controlled by a fire warden or his helper; and that the number occurring was reduced to such insignificance as compared with former years is fairly attributable, at least in part, to the diligence with which warning notices have been posted up all over the forest sections of the State, calling attention to the liabilities incurred by those who carelessly start fires in the woods, or neglect them when started. Regarded in the light of a fire-insurance premium only, the State's expenditure for its fire-warden service is a good investment, but the prevention of fire is only a small part of the good work done by these conservators of forest growth.

A medical controversy, growing out of the willingness of certain doctors to treat the members of fraternal and benevolent societies at reduced rates, is about to be carried into the courts of Massachusetts at Springfield. The Hampden County Medical Association has expressed its disapproval of this practice, insisting that no special arrangements for charging less than the ordinary fees should be made with these organizations, but the societies seem to have found no difficulty in securing the services of other physicians who agreed to treat their members for a stipulated sum per annum. Thus far, there was no room for litigation. It appears, however, that a patient who was sent by one of these so-called contract physicians to the Mercy Hospital in Springfield was refused admission to that institution unless the doctor in attendance withdrew from the case, which he finally consented to do for the sake of the patient who required treatment which could be afforded only at a hospital. A suit will now be brought to ascertain whether the hospital staff could lawfully take this action under its charter, which provides that all patients shall be treated there who are brought to the institution by reputable physicians.

The criminal statistics of the Dominion of Canada for the year ending September 30, 1899, show that twenty-five persons were charged with murder during the period covered by the report. These cases resulted as follows: Eleven convictions, all followed by the infliction of the death penalty, nine acquittals, three prisoners detained as insane and two cases in which the prosecutions are still pending. The proportion of murder cases in the United States is so much larger as to justify the Canadian newspapers in congratulating themselves on the comparative freedom of their country from crimes of violence. The Ottawa Journal attributes the difference largely to the lax laws and the lax administration of the law in the United States. "In Canada," we are told, 'there are practically no delays. There is no appeal to a second court. No stop is possible except by the action of the Minister of Justice, which is rare and to which the majority of Canadians strenuously object under any circumstances. Of twenty-five accused murderers in Canada last year, eleven were hanged, or nearly one in two. Of the 7,840 accused murderers in the United States in partly the corresponding year, 109 were executed or one in seventy-one."

Not Flattering.

No matter how eminent or learned they may become, the distinguished gentlemen concerned with the scientific departments of the government are never quite above being flattered by any manifestations of intelligent interest on the part of the public in the branches which they affect. Professor L. O. Howard, chief of the division of entomology, confesses that he is no exception, and by a story which he has told to a few members of the Cosmos Club, he points a moral against any such weakness. It happened in this wise: The Professor received one day a personal letter from a gentleman in a Western town asking him to be so good as to send him a copy of his report. Professor Howard replied promptly, saying he should be pleased to comply with his request, and asking to which particular report he referred. The reply was as follows:

"Am not particular which one you send. I only want it for a scrapbook." Washington Star.

Water as a Fuel.

Next to making water run uphill, is that of the invention of a gentleman in Montreal, A. G. Ingalls, a graduate of McGill University, in that city. His invention is a process by which water may be used so as to effect an immense saving in the consumption of coal. In fact, it may be said that water practically is the fuel and coal is merely an auxiliary. The method is such that a thin spray of water is spread over a coal flame in such a way, and with such auxiliaries, that the heat of the flame is wonderfully augmented. The full details of the secret are not yet made public by the inventor. The discovery, it is alleged, can be applied to gas and other flames.—Home and Farm.

GREENLAND'S EAST COAST.

Lieut. Andrup Will Try to Outline the Unknown Part of It.

There is a part of the east coast of southern Greenland that has not yet ben visited by any explorer. Quite a number of Arctic investigators have been north and others south of it, but the region between 69 degrees and 67 degrees 22 minutes north latitude, a distance of about 100 miles, is as yet entirely unknown. A year ago this unrevealed part of the coast was a good deal longer than it now is, but Lieut. Andrup explored a part of it last year and now he will return to complete the work. Andrup is an officer in the Danish royal navy. The work he was detailed to do last year was very successfully carried out. He mapped the east coast from 65 degrees 45 minutes to 67 degrees 22 minutes north latitude. He will leave Copenhagen this month on the steamer Antarctic with three companions and his intention is to go ashore near the sixty-ninth parallel, and will then travel south between the island and the coast ice. His destination is Angmagsalik (65 degrees 45 minutes), the only settlement in east Greenland. During this journey he will pass all along the unexplored coast. While he is on this mission a party of five naturalists on the Antarctic will travel north to the entrance to Scoresby sound for the purpose of studying natural history and exploring the northern fiords if the condition of the ice permits. At the end of August the Antarctic will go to Iceland to take on a supply of coal, and then will proceed to Angmagsalik to meet Lieut. Andrup. It may be that the ice will prevent Andrup from reaching that station this fall. In this case he will have to camp where winter overtakes him and will resume his route toward the south next year. Arctic ice experts are very much afraid that the ice conditions will not be favorable this season, and some of them predict that Andrup will not be able to go as far south as Angmagsalik, but that he will be compelled, like Lieut. Ryder in 1891, to winter on the bleak coast.—New York Sun.

Notes From the Paris Exposition.

"The Singer Manufacturing Company, of 149 Broadway, New York, show their usual American enterprise by having a very creditable exhibit located in Group XIII., Class 79, at the Paris International Exposition, where they show to great advantage the celebrated Singer Sewing-Machine which is used in every country on the globe, both for family use and for manufacturing purposes. The writer was highly pleased with this display and observed with much satisfaction that it was favorably commented upon by visitors generally.

The Grand Prize was awarded by the International Jury to Singer Sewing-Machines for superior excellence in design, construction, efficiency and for remarkable development and adaption to every stitching process used in either the family or the factory.

Only One Grand Prize for sewing machines was awarded at Paris, and this distinction of absolutely superior merit confirms the previous action of the International Jury at the World's Columbian Exposition, in Chicago, where Singer Machines received fifty-four distinct awards, being more than were received by all other kinds of sewing machines combined.

Should it be possible that any of our readers are unfamiliar with the celebrated Singer Machine, we would respectfully advise that they call at any of the Singer salesrooms, which can be found in all cities and most towns in the United States."

American Men Wanted.

A great Mexican doctor said to me the other day, says a writer in the Boston Herald: "Why don't more young Americans come here, live among us, and take the daughters of the land in marriage? There are plenty of girls with small, and often large, fortunes, and the blend of American and Mexican blood commends itself to all physicians here. We favor crossing the race with a vigorous stock like the Americans. We need fresh blood, and my experience shows that Americans and Mexicans marrying have fine children, with the sweetness and ease of the Latin and the sound sense and push of the Northerner."

There are some instances of this blending of the two races, and as time goes on it will be more frequent, to the benefit of Mexico, and serving as a guarantee of peace and concord.

Mexican girls like young Americans; as husbands they are reputed to be kind and not jealous.

Made a Bet of a Hat.

A hotel man in Portland, Me., made a bet of a hat with a friend and lost. The loser telephoned to the winner: "Get just as good a hat as you want; in fact, buy any kind of a hat that suits you and have them send the bill to me." In a day or two abill of $33 from a well-known Congress street milliner for a woman's hat was reseived by the loser. The winner calmly informed him that he was pretty well fixed for hats himself and so he thought he'd turn the thing over to his wife. It was a hat and the hotel man paid.

Coast Trade Finds Level.

Quebec, Canada, was originally the natural port of the Atlantic. It dropped down to Salem, to Boston, now to New York, and already New York business men are complaining of Norfolk, Charleston, Savannah, Pensacola, New Orleans and Galveston. Trade is finding its level, as the waters of the country debouch to the south. From wide areas east and west, and starting almost from the British-American line, the mighty Mississippi gathers trade as she flows to the gulf.

EARL'S ELDEST SON.

Lord Haddo Will Never Set the River on Fire.

Lord Haddo, eldest son of the earl of Aberdeen, has just come of age amid great rejoicing up Scotland way, says the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post. Lord Aberdeen, it will be remembered, was governor of Canada and Lady Aberdeen there, as over here, took an energetic part in temperance and other social reform work. Both Lord and Lady Aberdeen have brains, and know how to use them, but to all appearances young Lord Haddo, the heir to the earldom, will set no river afire, even though it be made of more inflammable material than the Thames. When Aberdeen was in Canada he sent Lord Haddo across to France in charge of a French tutor. The two were to cycle together through the most glorious districts of France, to see the scenery and instruct themselves in the customs and languages of the country, and all that. Well, the unfortunate tutor was driven almost to despair before he could bid good-bye to the wheel and take to a transatlantic liner again. To begin with, his pupil could not summon up presence of mind in the most innocent circumstances, and if a dog trotted across the road 100 yards ahead of his bicycle Haddo would lose his grip, the machine would wabble, and, let his teacher shout what warnings he might, the young aristocrat would find himself pitched into the hedge by the roadside. One thing in the young lord's favor was that he never lost his good nature, and would pick himself up, laughing heartily, mount again without complaint and ride on bravely to meet the next disaster, which was sure to befall him inside of the hour. One of the districts through which tutor and lord cycled was the champagne region. For two days they had pedaled their way along winding roads between immense, interminable vineyards, the vines then in full leaf. Not a tree was to be seen, not a bush—nothing but vines, vines, vines. On the afternoon of the second day Haddo called out to his teacher in a thin, boyish voice: "Teacher, teacher!" "Well, what is it, Haddo?" Cautiously nodding his head to the vines that clad the countryside, the young lord said: "I say, teacher, 'hose are hops, are they not?" The tutor fell off the machine this time.

Peculiar Concerts.

In the depths of an Arctic winter the Eskimo keep up their spirits by holding a concert every night. Their program is not very varied, although both vocal and instrumental music are indulged in. The single instrument used is a kind of tambourine, made of a wooden hoop, some 30 inches in diameter, across which wet deerskin is stretched. But instead of thumping the skin it is the hoop that is beaten. Standing in the middle of the tent, the performer strikes the tambourine, turning slowly round all the time, whilst four or five women raise their voices in what they believe to be song. The whole performance is the most atrocious discord, but pleases where ignorance is bliss. Each man in the company is expected to take his turn with the drum, which he whacks till he is tired.

An interesting engineering problem is being discussed in Pittsburg, where it is proposed to move the Carnegie library, a structure weighing about 58,000 tons, a distance of 1,000 feet. The nervous hands of a weak woman have toiled day and night, the weary form and aching head have known no rest, for the dress must be finished in time.

To that queen of society and her dressmaker we would say a word. One through hothouse culture, luxury and social excitement, and the other through the toil of necessity, may some day find their ailments a common cause.

Nervous prostration, excitability, fainting spells, dizziness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and strength, all indicate serious trouble, which has been promoted by an over-taxed system.

For the society queen and the dressmaker alike, there is nothing so reliable as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore strength, vigor, and happiness.

I had inflammation of the ovaries, falling of the womb, and leucorrhœa. At times could not hold a needle to sew. The first dose of your Vegetable Compound helped me so much that I kept on using it. I have now taken six bottles and am well and able to do my work. I also ride a wheel and feel no bad effects from it. THE CHRONICLE.

Democratic at all Times and Under all Circumstances—Consequently Opposed to Monopolies.

VOL. XV. COLUMBIANA, SHELBY COUNTY, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1900. NO. 51.

A VISIT TO MONTEVALLLO

AND THE ALABAMA GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

Much has been spoken and written about Montevallo during the past few years; its praises have been sung by many, and whatever disadvantages it may be surrounded with has been duly impressed upon the public.

The pleasure of a visit to this thriving sister town was granted a representative of the CHRONICLE a few days since, so with our own eyes we beheld the place of which so much has been told.

A visitor is not only strongly impressed with the picturesque appearance the place presents, but also with the large volume of business that passes through the hands of her wide-awake business men. The large stocks of goods carried by her merchants would do credit to places that boast of a much larger population. To arrive at an idea of the amount of goods sold per annum by her merchants, we inquired what the annual sales of the town amounted to, and were informed that this year there had been advanced to the farmers about $200,000, and of course this does not include the cash sales, which is now quite a large per cent. of her trade; so we find that Montevallo stands first in the list of towns in our county as to the volume of business she controls.

While in the town we had the pleasure of being shown through the Alabama Girls' Industrial School, and, by the way, if there is any one thing that the citizens of this place are more interested in than another, that one thing is this school, and well they may be, for such an institution is worthy the best efforts and all the sacrifices that any people can put into it.

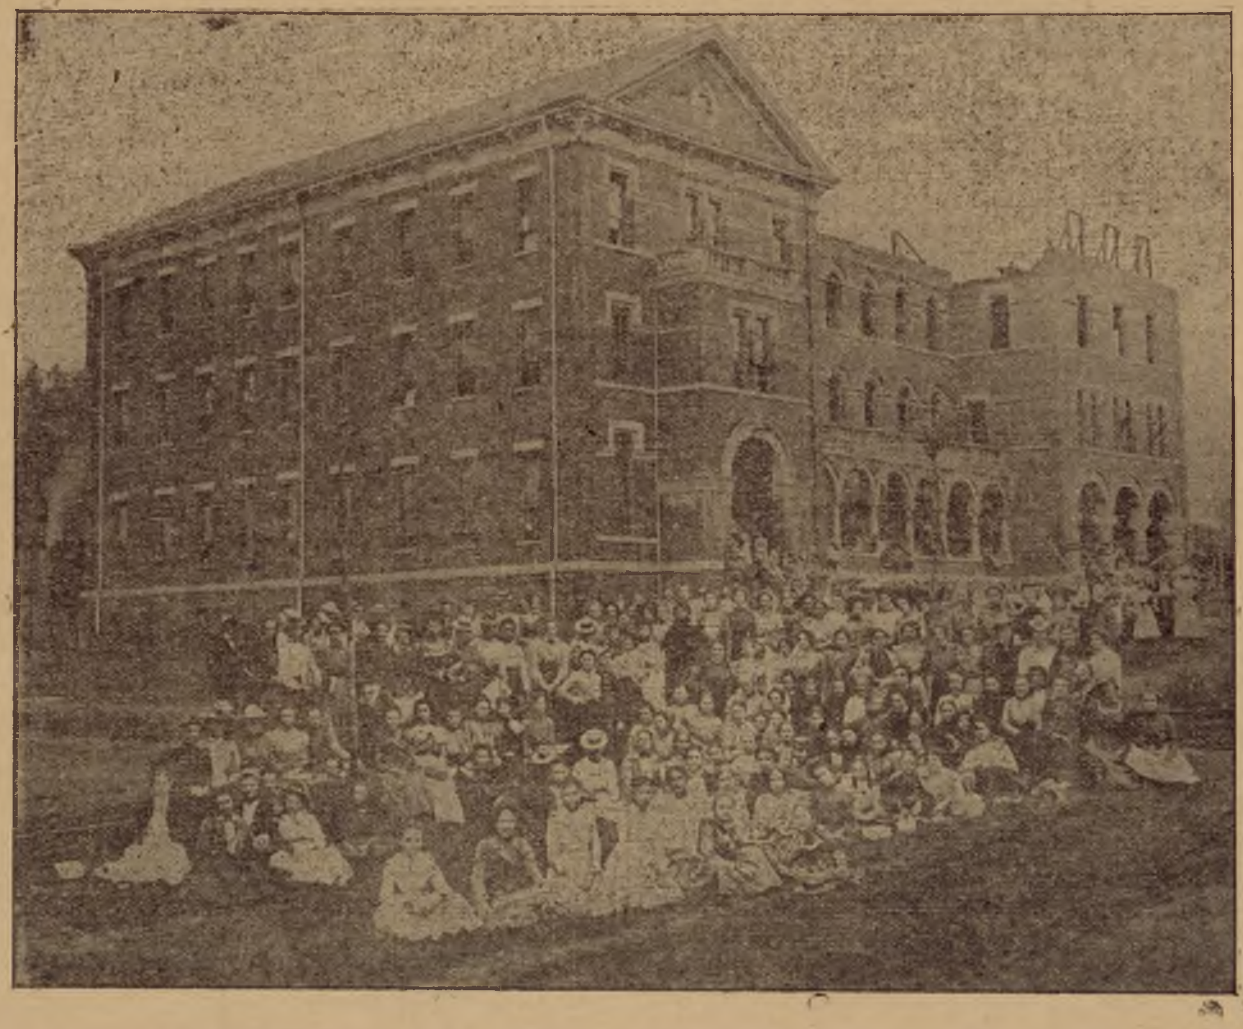
As all Alabamians know this school was established by the legislature for the purpose of placing within the reach of the hundred thousand white girls of our state the opportunity of securing a literary and industrial education, making the tuition free, and securing board at such figures as would enable all to take advantage of the provision made. Section 6 of the act of the Legislature sets out more fully its aims, and we quote it in full: "That the Board of Trustees shall possess all the power necessary and proper for the accomplishment of the trust imposed in them, viz: The establishment and maintenance of a first-class industrial school for the education of white girls in the state of Alabama in industrial and scientific branches, at which said girls may acquire a thorough normal school education, together with a knowledge of kindergarten instruction and music; also a knowledge of telegraphy, stenography, photography, phonography, typewriting, printing, book-keeping, indoor carpentry, electrical construction, clay modeling, architectural and mechanical drawing, sewing, dressmaking, millinery, cooking, laundering, house, sign and fresco painting, home nursing, and such other practical industries as from time to time to them may be suggested by experience or tend to promote the general object of said Girls' Industrial School, to-wit: Fitting and preparing girls for the practical industries of the age."

We want to say that the Legislature of Alabama has never made an appropriation, or established an institution that is calculated to do more good, to prove a more lasting benefit to this, and coming generations, than when they established The Alabama Girls' Industrial School. Many schools and colleges have been provided for our boys, and much money and effort have been expended to equip them for life's battles, to all of which we most heartily agree; but this is the only institutions for the training and education of our girls that the protecting arm of Alabama has ever undertaken to uphold, and day by day since its establishment has the wisdom of the Act by the Legislature become more and more manifest.

This is an age of progress; education is essential; life is real, practical, earnest, and we are compelled to meet the requirements and demands of the hour, or to drop back in the great surging throng of humanity and be trampled under foot to become "hewers of wood and drawers of water," yea slaves, to those who are abreast of the times, equipped by systematic training and education to grapple with life's problems and difficulties.

Many parents of girls in Alabama are poor—too poor to send their daughters to the fashionable colleges throughout our state, but who are just as ambitious and equally as solicitous about the educational advantages to be given their girls as are the more fortunate, but per force of circumstances they, without the provisions furnished by such a school, are compelled to see their loved ones denied the blessing of an industrial training or a literary education.

It affords us much pleasure to be able to state that the commissioners' court of Shelby county contributed towards the maintenance of this institution $5,000 as a token of the appreciation and esteem our people have in the school and the welfare of the daughters of Alabama. There are in Shelby and adjoining counties about 2,600 girls to be educated, and it is a source of gratification to our tax payers to know that they have contributed something towards providing a means to educate and fit for life these daughters of ours.



DORMITORY BUILDING, GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL (SHOWING PROGRESS).

Through the influence and strenuous efforts made by the former president of this school, Capt. H. C. Reynolds, and his co-workers, the congress of the United States has made an appropriation of 25,000 acres of valuable mineral lands, which have been selected and set aside by the board appointed for that purpose and are now ready to be sold for the benefit of the school. From this source there should be obtained something like $125,000. We think that much credit is due to Capt. Reynolds for his efforts in behalf of this institution and in securing this valuable appropriation.

Since its establishment the success of the school has been phenomenal. Its need was manifest and the people of the state were not slow in giving it their hearty support.

The personnel of its faculty has always been of the highest type, and never in its history has it had a more efficient, painstaking, thoroughly equipped corps of instructors and officers than those who now preside over it.

In our judgment, Dr. Francis M. Peterson, the president of [illegible]is school, has not many peers in Alab[illegible] as an educator. He is a pure, [illegible]ght, Christian gentleman, a practical business man, and is thoroughly fitted in every way to fill the position to which the board of trustees have elected him, and for the insinuation to be made that the interest in the school has lagged, and that the people of the state have withdrawn their support because he has been placed at its head is unjust, uncalled for, and is absurd in the extreme.

The facts in the case are these: Some one in making a statement of the condition of the school compared the entire enrollment of last session with the number of enrolled pupils at the OPENING of this term. To the most casual observer this would appear as being an unfair light in which to place the school, and its officers. Instead of there now being fifty odd boarders in the school as has been stated, the enrollment shows that there are more than two hundred and fifty boarders in attendance. We give below the actual figures as taken from the record showing the status of the attendance:

Applications received	335
Matriculations	278
Counties represented	52
Shelby County matriculates	57

The above figures certainly do not justify the statement "that the people of Alabama refuse to send their daughters to a school that was so mixed up in politics."

We attended the opening exercises of the school, and as we beheld the perfect system, order and harmony that dominated the management of the young women by that matchless lady, Mrs. Babb, we could but wish that every citizen of Alabama who had daughters to educate could behold the scene before us. Truly it was inspiring.

THE DEPARTMENTS.

We were first conducted to the dressmaking department, which is under the supervision of Misses Burk, Wade and Sanders. Here all of the details in the art of dressmaking are thoroughly taught and when we say that we mean that each pupil is required to begin at the beginning and learn how to do the work by doing the work themselves. There are 186 girls being instructed in this department, many of them paying their own way through school by the revenue derived from their work. The management is allowing the girls to make their uniforms, for which they are paid $1.50 each, thus giving them the necessary practice as well as allowing them to earn something to help defray their expenses; not only do they make their own uniforms but do a great deal of work for the public, which they find to be quite profitable. We were informed that several hundred dollars was received from this department last session for work done by its pupils.

COOKING.

Next we were ushered into the culinary department, where we found Miss Evans, surrounded by a bevy of young ladies, intently studying the intricate mechanism of a range, and which she was requiring them to explain in detail. She is instructing 106 pupils in the art of cooking, and who will say that this is not one of the most important lessons to be learned by the future rulers of our homes?

TELEGRAPHY.

From here we were conducted to the department of telegraphy, presided over by the most charming of ladies, Mrs. Florence Hudson, of Greensboro, Ala. We found her industriously instructing her class in this mystery of the nineteenth century, electricity, and how to use it. Mrs. Hudson informs us that some of her graduates are now holding very lucrative positions in some of the most important telegraph offices in the state. She has twenty-one under her instructions.

MILLINERY.

This department is superintended by Miss Stough, of Montgomery, Ala., who has 62 girls studying the interesting art of hat making and trimming. We were shown some of the work done by her class, and certainly it shows they are being trained by one who is thoroughly mistress of the art, and it is safe to say that when they complete their course here they can fill any position demanding the services of an accomplished milliner; in fact, we were informed that a young lady who attended this school last year, now holds a position in one of the first schools of the state as a directress in its millinery department. The girls make all their uniform caps, for which they are allowed 25 cents each, and during the dull months this department make up a large amount of hat frames, which they sell to the mercantile establishments of the country, Loveman, Joseph & Loeb, of Birmingham, and the Fair, of Montgomery, having purchased their stocks of hat frames here this season.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

We are pleased to know that this feature of the school is made compulsory by the management. Miss Austill has 203 who are being trained by her in the Swedish and Delsarte systems.

LITERARY DEPARTMENTS.

Much has been said in reference to the literary management giving too much attention to the literary instruction of the pupils to the neglect of the industrial training. Our observation does not bring us to this conclusion.

We want to say, however, that we deem it absolutely essential that all girls who are seeking to obtain an industrial education should have a thorough literary education that will enable them to use in the highest and most efficient manner the knowledge acquired in the industrial lines, otherwise such a training would be of small value to the average girl, for without the former she is of little service for the positions of trust and responsibility that otherwise she would be equipped to fill.

Yes, the literary education of the girls in this school is being carefully and systematically cared for in the most painstaking manner, and we feel confident that such a course meets with the hearty approbation of all parents who are educating their daughters at this institution.

We had the pleasure of visiting personally the departments of English and History, which is under the direction of Misses Kennedy, Harwell, Fitts and Alston; Mathematics, under Misses Callens and Stallworth; Latin, by Miss Nix; Physics, Geology and Chemestry, by Mrs. Babb, and we never saw teachers who manifested more interest and zeal in their work than do these ladies.

Miss Overton has charge of a class numbering thirty-eight in stenography and typewriting, and a pupil in this department is required to make ninety per cent. before being recommended as competent to take charge of an office.

We were very much impressed with the work being done in the department of pedagogy which is presided over by Miss Haley in a manner that inspires confidence in one of her ability to thoroughly instruct the embryo teacher in the science of teaching.

ELOCUTION.

Miss Barns, of Chicago, has charge of a class numbering 160 in elocution using the Emerson system in her instructions, and we congratulate the management in securing the services of one who shows herself to be so thoroughly prepared to instruct her pupils in the power of oratory.

Our time being limited we did not have the pleasure of visiting the department of music or that of book-keeping and penmanship, but feel confident that just as efficient work is being done in these branches as that o any other.

THE ACCOMMODATIONS.

At present there is not sufficient room in the dormitory to accommodate those who attend the school; only about one hundred can be cared for in that building, but the homes of the citizens have been thrown open to take in those who cannot be accommodated at the dormitory; but these girls are all directly under the rules of the college at those homes; a monitor is appointed at each house where they board and a full report as to deportment, table manners, housekeeping and sickness is made each morning, and this report is delivered to the president, who with his assistants scrutinize all its items.

The work in the new building is progressing as rapidly as is practicable under the circumstances, and when it is completed will be sufficient to meet the demands of the patrons. It is to be thoroughly equipped with all the modern conveniences that are necessary for the health and accommodation of the girls. When the buildings are completed the campus will be graded, set in grass, flowers planted and shrubbery trained; this being done no college in the south can boast of a more beautiful or healthful location.

We have endeavored to give to the public simply the facts as we see them in reference to this institution in which all Alabamians are interested.

It is a school that should have the hearty support and co-operation of every citizen in the state, for from it we expect to receive back many of our daughters who have been trained, educated and prepared to grace the homes of coming generations and mould in the channels of purity and virtue the lives of our sons.

We are informed that of all the industrial schools that have been established by other southern states not one of them has been provided with buildings which cost less than one hundred thousand dollars, nor with an annual appropriation of less than twenty thousand dollars.

As we have already stated, the accommodations at Montevallo are not adequate; more buildings are needed and other equipments are necessary, and we feel sure the next legislature will make necessary appropriations to meet the exigencies and demands of this institution and discharge the debt that Alabama has owed her daughters for more than seventy-five years.

The young king of Spain was recently asked by a visitor from England if he liked golf. He replied, with a patriotism that has delighted all Madrid, that he did not; that he preferred bullfighting, "the chosen amusement of his own country," to anything imported. Wise lad! He knows the hearts of his people!

A recent arrangement of the relics in the agricultural museum in the University of Illinois brought to light the old ox yoke made by Abraham Lincoln, and presented to the university in the early 70's. By order of President Draper the yoke was incased in a glass topped case, made at Springfield.

JOHN SHERMAN IS DEAD

The Republican Statesman Breathes His Last at His Home.

DEATH CAME PEACEFULLY TO HIM.

He Had Drawn a Congressional Salary Longer Than Any Other Man. Brief Sketch of the Life of the Aged Statesman.

Ex-Senator and ex-Secretary of State John Sherman died in Washington Monday morning. His family expected his death and sat at his bedside all night. The end was peaceful. The old statesman passed away in his own home surrounded by those nearest to him.

Mr. Sherman entered congress nearly fifty years ago, and as early as the Kansas struggle he was so distinguished that he was appointed on the congressional committee in 1859 to go that state for an investigation.

He served in congress until elected a senator from Ohio, and then served in the senate until appointed a cabinet minister under the Garfield-Arthur administration. Mr. Sherman was at the head of the treasury while his brother, William Tecumseh, was the head of the army.

When Mr. McKinley was elected president, Senator Sherman was invited into his cabinet and made secretary of state. He was old and was growing feeble mentally and physically, and when the Spanish troubles came upon him he was not equal to the work and worry and resigned. Almost at once the decline became more rapid and for many months the old statesman has been barely alive.

John Sherman was born in Mansfield, O., and lived there all his life. He began early to invest in Washington real estate, and the growth in values there made him a very rich man. His fortune is estimated at $2-000,000 and he has no children. He has given his adopted children much of his estate already, retaining a life interest.

John Sherman was, in the true sense of the words, a great man. He was able, cautious and persistent and won the highest position but one in the government.

McKinley Issues Proclamation.

As a fitting expression of the sense of the bereavement that afflicts the republic, President McKinley has directed that on the day of the funeral of Mr. Sherman the executive offices of the United States display the national flag at half mast, and that the representatives of the United States in foreign countries shall pay in like manner appropriate tribute to the illustrious dead for a period of ten days.

PLEASES UNCLE SAM.

Anglo-German Agreement is Acceptable to the United States.

It was authoritatively stated Monday that the United States government views with distinct favor the principles enunciated in the Anglo-German agreement relating to China, and that a formal response to that effect will be made at an early day to the invitation extended to this government to accept the principles of the agreement. The German charge d'affaires, Count de Quadt, had a conference with Secretary Hay, presenting officially the text of the Anglo-German agreement, including the invitation to the United States to accept it.

Mr. Hay expresses his satisfaction at what had been done, saying he felt it to be in complete harmony with the policy this government had pursued, both as to the maintenance of unobstructed commerce in China and the territorial entity of the empire.

Marked Increase in Property Values.

The assessment figures for sixty-nine of the seventy-five counties in Mississippi have been received at the auditor's office in Jackson, and they show that the total valuation of real and personal property has increased nearly $21,000,000 since the last assessment was made.

Whiteacre Dead.

Jonathan Whiteacre, one of the messengers of the national house of representatives, is dead.

Santo Domingo is Quiet.

A dispatch from Santo Domingo says: "The whole country is pacified. The leaders of the revolutionists are prisoners. They have submitted, and the government is being conducted without trouble."

A dispatch received from Vladivostock says that cholera is increasing to such an extent in Japan that steamers have been quarantined.

ALABAMA NEWS NOTES.

Official Returns Places Thompson's Majority at 617.

Official returns from the Fifth Congressional district give Colonel Thomson a majority of 647 votes over Colonel Brewer.

In several of the counties it is claimed that irregularities cut the Thompson vote down, reducing his majority in the district several hundred.

According to the latest returns Colonel Thompson carried the following counties: Autaugua by 59, Macon by 331, Coosa by 125, Clay by 215, Elmore by 35, Randolph by 145, Chambers by 610. Total 1,520.

Colonel Brewer carried Lowndes by 476 and Tallapoosa by 397, making a total of 873.

Alabamian Found Dead in New York.

An unknown man about 25 years old, supposed from letters and papers in his possession to be Norton D. Whitley, of Birmingham, Ala., was found dead at noon Monday in the hallway of the first floor of No. 258 Elizabeth street, New York, under suspicious circumstances, though his death is not believed to have resulted from violence.

Seeking a Cotton Mill Location.

The Commercial Club of Brewton has received inquiries regarding a desirable cotton mill site there in a letter from wealthy capitalists. The inquiry states that there must be at least a 12-inch flow of water for cleaning and dyeing purposes. The Commercial Club has taken hold of the matter in earnest and is meeting with much encouragement.

THE * CHRONICLE.

Entered in the post-office at Columbiana Ala., as second class matter.

For President,
W. J. BRYAN, of Nebraska.
For Vice-President,
ADLAI E. STEVENSON, of Indiana.

FOR CONGRESS,
SYDNEY J. BOWIE,
OF CALHOUN.

The Fifth district muddle was, we trust, settled on last Saturday by Thompson carrying the district in the primary of probably 1500. Col. Brewer only carried his home county, Lowndes, and probably Tallapoosa. We have heard of no dissatisfaction as to the results, which will render it likely that a contest may be had, and we have no doubt but all parties will now unite in the one great aim of heaping up the majority for the successful man in the coming election. We are informed that Col. Thompson will need to have the full and hearty cooperation of democrats in order to make his election an assured fact. The man Millstead, the republican nominee, is said to be a good man and to have many friends. It is also said that he has plenty of money, which now, as much as ever, "makes the mare go."

An Anglo-German alliance has been formed to maintain the territorial integrity of China and to keep her ports open. The agreement on this policy between these two great powers has caused no little surprise in European capitals. These two governments will communicate their agreement to the powers interested, and invite them to accept the principles recorded in it. It is thought to be a shot aimed at Russia. High importance is attached to this agreement by the newspapers throughout the country. There is no telling what the final outcome of this whole matter will be, as we have held before. Russia's evident intention of gobbling up all of eastern and northeastern China will be met, in our opinion, by formidable resistance on the part of Germany, England and every other country which has any interest in China, and in favor of justice and right. The agreement binds those parties to it to use their influence and power in keeping open all of the ports on the rivers and laterals of China "to trade and every other legitimate form of economic activity for the peoples of all countries without distinction." It also binds them not to "make use of the present complication to obtain for themselves any territorial advantage in the Chinese dominion."

We see from the papers that great efforts are being made in various parts of the state and of the South to locate colonies of Germans and Italians to engage in various industrial pursuits, and especially in fruit growing, farming, gardening, etc., and in many places these efforts are proving successful. What is the matter with Columbiana and other places in our beloved county? We have in our county hundreds upon hundreds of acres of lands which are especially adapted to fruit growing and market gardening. If our people had the energy and get-up about them they could go to work and in a short time no doubt they could induce these good people to come among us and make their homes with us. They are a class muce to be desired. They are industrious and honest as a rule and their example of thrift and industry would help our people. What is the matter that Columbiana citizens do not bestir themselves to the accomplishment of this end? Around this city there is much vacant land, and if the world were hunted over land better suited to these purposes could not be found. We have on the east and north-east of the city a range of high hills or mountains, the soil of which is admirably suited to the growing of grapes and fruits. Pretty much the same condition exists on the west and south-west of the city, the Southern railroad running between. Then around the town, located in various places, are small bodies of beautiful valley lands, well suited to the making of small grain and vegetable farms. The Southern railroad stands ready to do what it can to assist any community along its road in this or any other direction which may tend to the building up of the country. Let our people arouse themselves. Why sit ye here idle all the day? Who will be the first to make a move in this direction?

DEMOCRATIC VICTORY ASSURED.

Everything seems now to point beyond doubt to the success of the democratic ticket in November. From the present indications we should not be much surprised if there should be a grand landslide as in the case of Cleveland's election in 1882. Mr. Bryan closed his magnificent tour of New York on last Saturday night in the city of Buffalo, where he made two fine addresses to large and enthusiastic audiences after night, having made fifteen addresses during the day before reaching Buffalo.

During his tour of New York state he has made about sixty-five speeches. In doing this he has thoroughly traversed the central belt of the state from east to west. He is in fine spirits and evidently feels quite sanguine of success. His speeches take well with the masses of the people. The students of some of the colleges in New York tried very hard to confuse and annoy him, but their little contemptuous game only had the effect of putting him at his best. This great man is never so much at home as in debate. He is quick at repartee and every time one of those youngsters would thrust a sharp question at him Mr. Bryan would fairly annihilate him. It was evident that these college boys were prompted to do what they did by older and designing politicians; but it was a fortunate thing, for Mr. Bryan turned them to good account for himself and the democratic ticket.

Aside from Mr. Bryan's feelings and opinions as to the election in November, the chairman of the national democratic executive committee, Senator James K. Jones, predicts an overwhelming democratic victory. In a letter to the Age-Herald, in response to a telegraphic inquiry, he says, among other things, "At this stage of the canvass everything appears to be satisfactory, and I feel absolutely certain that Bryan and Stevenson will be elected by a large majority in the electoral college."

We think we are fully justified in our predictions of success from the opinions of our great leaders, Bryan and Chairman Jones.

The most sanguine looking man, and, we dare say, the most sanguine feeling man, to be met with in Alabama these days is Hon. Sydney J. Bowie. There appears to not be a doubt to obscure his horizon of expectation and, in fact, there is not. Everything is clear and certain with him. But let everybody, democrats, republicans and populists, vote for him on November 6. He is the only candidate to be voted for for congress, and his the only name for congress on the ticket. No reason why we should not all vote for him. Let us all come together on this one man and show the world what we can do when united.

ATTENTION, DEMOCRATS!

Don't make a mistake in voting. You know you don't vote directly for president and vice-president, but you vote for presidential electors. If you make a mistake and vote for a McKinley elector you vote for McKinley and not for Bryan. Democrats don't want to do this. The following is about as the official ballot will be and the names before which the X is placed are the names of the Bryan, or democratic electors. Study it carefully, and be sure you don't make a mistake and vote for the wrong man. When you go in the booth be sure to make the cross mark in front of the democratic electors and S. J. Bowie. The ticket is as follows:

THE NOVEMBER ELECTION.

The election is close at hand—only one week from next Tuesday. It behooves every true democrat to be up and doing. We should work from now until the closing of the polls on the evening of November 6. We fear that the fact that Mr. Bowie has no opposition in district many democrats will be led to conclude that there is no use in making an effort to poll a large vote. But this is a great mistake. It should be our aim to poll the largest vote possible.

Already it is strongly talked that an effort will be made in the coming congress to cut down the South's representation in congress. Of course, if this move is made a small vote in the South will be a fine argument for those in favor of reducing our representation. So we should all put our shoulder to the wheel and bring out the largest vote possible.

Columbiana High School.

The Columbiana High School is in a most flourishing condition. The attendence has now reached about one hundred pupils and new pupils are coming in nearly every day.

The high school department is under the direct tutorage of the principal, Prof Mynatt. The intermediate department is presided over by Miss Essie Mason, and the primary department by Miss Ruby Looney. These teachers have been especially selected with a view of their peculiar fitness for their respective works, and everything is moving along nicely and to the perfect satisfaction of all interested.

This school is growing daily in favor with our people, and it is destined to be at no distant day, one of the best schools to be found anywhere short of the colleges. The school is under the control of a board of trustees, composed of the mayor and council of the city of Columbiana, and one of its distinctive features as originally designed was that the tuition should be absolutely free to all pupils within the school age within the incorporate limits of the city, a reasonable tuition to be paid by those living outside of such limits. This plan was carried out to the letter for some time after the organization of the city government and the establishment of the school, but a rather large debt was hanging over the school, incurred in the erection of the school building. Suits were brought and judgments obtained declaring liens on the building for the payment of the same. These judgments had to be paid. So a mass meeting was held and an agreement reached by which a small tuition fee of 25 50 and 75 cents was to be paid by each pupil to be applied to the payment and liquidation of the debt. This debt is being fast wiped out. The patrons are paying this small tuition fee without scarcely a murmur. As soon as the debt against the building is paid we will have again an absolutely free school. This is a consummation devoutly to be wished.

This school, when it reaches the point aimed at by the management, will do more perhaps to the building up of our town and the improvement of our society than any other one thing we have or can expect soon to have. Let every citizen in the incorporate limits of the town and those outside who are interested in the success of the school and the growth of the town work incessantly for the up building of our school. Let us make this school the pride of this section of our beloved county.

The new buildings recently erected on Main street add greatly to its appearance, and now we need to have shade trees set out on each side of all streets in town, to add not only attractiveness to our place, but comfort as well. Let us have an "Arbor Day," get all our people to select some special kind of shade trees and have them planted along the street fronts of their property, and coming generations will rise up and thank us. What say you?

The protracted meeting at the Methodist church closed on last Friday night. There was much interest manifested, and we trust much good accomplished in a spiritual way. There were three accessions to the church.

Don't fail to read carefully the advertisement of that reliable, wide-awake firm, Averyt & Averyt, of Shelby, and give them a share of your patronage. They have the goods and prices to satisfy you.

On account of limited local space and previous copy on hand, it was necessary this week to leave out our communication from Harpersville, as well as other valuable matter. Unless new matter is received from our friend, Jake, by Monday of next week this communication will appear in our next issue.

We were glad to see on our streets Tuesday Mr. Thomas F. Farrell. Tom has been with us so much that we claim him as a Columbiana boy. He came for his marriage license and was married last night to Miss Jessie Strickland, of Cedar Grove, in this county. His many friends in Columbiana wish him all the happiness that can come to a good and worthy man,

We would call the attention of our readers to the many new advertisements appearing in the paper this week from Montevallo. Montevallo has within the past few years become one of the most busy little cities in this section of the state, mainly by the assidious efforts of some of those men whose advertisements are in our issue this week. Read them carefully and when you go to Montevallo remember the names, give them a trial and white treatment is assured.

Pickles.

All sorts and sizes, also sauer kraut, at J. H. Hammond's.

The Methodist Sunday school of this place has just received a new library of more than a hundred volumes. This is a move in the right direction. Young people are going to read, and unless good books are placed in their hands they will read those that are not good, and books are like our companions, they shape the course of our lives, and make us either a curse or blessing to our fellow man, according to their character.

Cigars.

The best cigars are kept by J. H. Hammond.

The State Normal School at Jacksonville is so well attended this session that the old college building which has served it for eighteen years is full to overflowing with young men and women from all over the state, so that it is necessary for the normal department to move into its new quarters, the beautiful $18,000 building recently donated by Calhoun county. The normal school has long been held in high esteem in all sections of Alabama as an educational institution which thoroughly prepares teachers for the public schools of the state. A catalogue may be had by addressing President C. W. Daugette.—Anniston Evening Star.

Pretzel Tobacco

Good enough for the rich and cheap enough for the poor. For sale by J. H. Hammond.

The city marshall and tax collector is now busy collecting the taxes for the year 1900. There remains, so we are informed, more than $100 uncollected of the taxes of last year. The greater part of this can be collected by levy and sale, as the parties have plenty of property out of which the taxes can be made. The marshall informed our reporter that he would proceed at once to make levies unless parties would come up at once and pay their taxes. We trust that this will be done. Some pay without any trouble. It is to be much regretted that there should be any who would fail to do this, but in cases where they fail to do this it is the duty of the tax collector to enforce the collection of the taxes rigidly.

Coffee.

The finest grades of green coffees for sale by J. H. Hammond.

Great complaint is being made about the old lumber and rubbish from the torn down buildings being allowed to remain on the streets so long. If we mistake not there is an ordinance against such things, and we would call attention to parties who are responsible for this that they are in open violation of the law and are subject to prosecution. The authorities have been very indulgent, recognizing the difficulty of getting these things cleared off promptly and keeping the work up on the buildings too; but it only takes one time to clean off these messes, and the earlier it can be done the better for all. It is to be hoped that now the authorities will give prompt attention to this matter.

Farmers' Insurance for Shelby County.

J. H. Newton, General Agent, D. W. Gray and Thomas Howell, organizing agents for the Farmers' Mutual Insurance of Alabama, are now canvassing Shelby county by beats, insuring all the farm dwellings, outbuildings and stock. A charter was granted for this purpose by the legislature Feb. 18, 1895. Chilton county was organized last February; Elmore on the 12th instant. This plan of insurance for farm property is steadily growing more popular and permanent. It is now all over the south, north, west and was in the New England states before the Civil War. It is old in some of the European countries. Mr. Newton has appointed Rev. J. G. Walker president, and L. J. Carden secretary and treasurer. A director for each beat will be appointed. After six months all of the officers will be elected by the members. There are some strong associations in this state. The history the older, the stronger.

S. A. Curry, of Chilton county, has taken insurance in Chilton Farmers' Insurance amounting to $5,646.

Crescent.

All Should Swim.

The remarkable number of deaths by drowning proves that too many persons venture into waters without knowing how to swim. About 80 per cent of those drowned so far this summer did not have that knowledge. This is all the more wonderful when knowledge of swimming may so easily be had. A person of average physique should be able to swim several hundred feet after a dozen lessons. Even weaklings may be taught to swim 25 feet or more without exhausting themselves. There are dangerous places on the ocean beach, where the sea pull or undertow will sometimes overpower the strongest swimmer. Even on the beaches of the great lakes there is at times a strong and dangerous undertow, but a knowledge of swimming is within the reach of all.

Tortoise Traveled.

A tortoise story comes from Center Bridge, Bucks county. Edward Johnson was walking over his farm the other day, when he picked up a land tortoise bearing the initials of his father, D. R. Johnson, and the date 1846. These initials were cut on the tortoise when Mr. Johnson's father, who has been dead several years, was a boy of seventeen, making the tortoise over fifty-four years old. It has been picked up on the farm several times by members of the family, but had been missing for a number of years. The farm has been in the possession of the Johnson family for over a century.—Philadelphia Record.

Every year over 100,000 persons die of consumption in this country alone. Cherry Pectoral would not have cured all these. Taken in time, it would have cured many.

A Mr. D. P. Jolly, of Avoca, N. Y., wrote us, a few weeks ago, that his mother had regular old-fashioned consumption for years, and was given up to die. She tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It helped her at once, and she is now completely restored to health.

We believe Mr. Jolly's story, because it's only one of thousands.

ALABAMA'S POPULATION.

Census Shows the State to Contain 1,828,697 Persons.

INCREASE OF 215,680, OR 20.8 PER CENT.

Within the Past Ten Years—Population by Counties and of the Larger Cities and Towns Tabulated. The Full Details.

The Census Bureau at Washington has made public the returns of population in Alabama. The population of the State in 1900 is 1,828,697, as against 1,513,017 in 1890, representing an increase since 1800 of 315,680 or 20.8 per cent. This rate of increase is slightly greater than that for the decade from 1880 to 1890, when it was 19.8 per cent. but somewhat less than that for the decade from 1870 to 1880, when it was 26.6 per cent. From 1820 to 1830, the first decennial period in the history of the state, its population increased 142 per cent. and in the following decade 90.8 per cent. but subsequently the rate of increase declined until the decade from 1860 to 1870, when it was only 3.4 per cent.

The population of Alabama in 1900 is more than fourteen times as large as the population given for 1820, the first census taken after its organization as a state in 1819.

The total land surface of Alabama is approximately 51,540 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900, being as follows: 1890, 29.3; 1900, 35.4.

The population of the state by counties is as follows, the first figures in each case being for 1900 and the second for 1890:

Of the sixty-six counties in the State, all but two, Cleburne and Lawrence, have increased in population during the decade. There are 201 incorporated cities, towns and villages in Alabama, for which the population in 1900 is separately returned. Of these, there are only thirty-two that have a population of over 2,000 and only nine of these have a population in excess of 5,000.

HOBSON DEFENDS SAMPSON

Sensational Speech Delivered at Selma by the Young Lieutenant.

THE NAVAL OFFICER IS BROKEN HEARTED

Over Treatment Received by the American People—Declares That Sampson Stands at the Head of the United States Navy.

In his speech at the Academy of Music in Selma Saturday Lieutenant Hobson created a sensation by his enthusiastic and plainly evident sincere defense of Admiral Sampson, and declared that the great naval officer, who he says stands at the head of the American navy, is heartbroken at the treatment accorded him by the American people. After expressing a wish that the brave men of his crew who were with him on the Merrimac could be present to enjoy the hospitality of the occasion and a touching reference to Cervera, the Spanish admiral, he said:

"I wonder what makes me think of another character just here. When last Saturday I saw in the papers that Admiral Sampson was ill I telegraphed if it would be convenient for me to call. I took the next train to Boston and spent Sunday with him. His health is declining. It wrung my heart, it grieved me to see him. His physicians are baffled at his malady. His organs are right, but his health does not improve.

"We touched on one or two subjects. For a little while he could not speak. Soon he had to be carried to his room and I did not see him again. Mrs. Sampson told me that this great man was brooding, was breaking his heart at the thought that his fellow countrymen were so unkind.

"The people of this county think this man's blood is ice water. He has the mental ability and self-control that is the result of long years of discipline and training. He does not talk much. I tell you this man has a heart as tender as that of a child. He is as modest as a woman. He never asked for position. He has never uttered a word against another officer. He has never taken part in any controversy. I know this admiral, and he stands at the head of the navy.

Here Lieutenant Hobson described the expedition of "The Flying Squadron" under Admiral Sapson to San Juan, Porto Rico, and stated that it was an exhibition of nerve, determination and purpose unparalleled by any fleet in the late conflict. Continuing Lieutenant Hobson said:

"This great man has had his heart cut—has been almost slain. His great heart is breaking. He is to be compared with two other great characters in history who suffered in silence—George Washington at Valley Forge and Robert E. Lee, who did his great duty and accepted his sorrow without a word.

"Believe me, this admiral, this general of our navy, is of the type to place alongside of these two and I wish to heaven that in addition to having my crew here and Admiral Cervera, I could have Admiral Sampson and let you shake his hand."

Frightful Massacre.

A special from Constantinople says: "New and frightful massacres of Armenians have just occurred in the district of Diarbekia. The Mussulmans, it is asserted, pillaged outraged and killed during five days without the intervention of Turkish troops. Five villages, it is added, were entirely destroyed and burned."

Harmon for Bryan.

Hon. Judson Harmon, who supported Palmer and Buckner four years ago, has declared himself for Bryan. Judge Harmon was on the bench in Cincinnati for many years and succeeded Secretary Olney as attorney general in the cabinet of Grover Cleveland.

The Indian Trouble.

The Creek full-blood council has been joined by Choctaws, Chickasaws, Cherokees and Seminoles says a Denison, Tex., dispatch. They are armed with Winchesters. All declare to stand by the treaty of 1866 and will not take allotment of lands.

Sherman Gradually Sinking.

A Washington dispatch says: Ex-Secretary Sherman was very weak again today (Monday) and has been losing ground steadily. He failed to gain any of his strength today, which was characteristic of the early stage of his sickness. His naturally extremely enfeebled condition refuses to yield to the treatment given him, and he is gradually sinking.

Eleven British and Twenty Boers Killed.

Lord Roberts reports from Pretoria under date of October 18 as follows: "A party of Boers got into Jagersfontein on the night of October 16, and a fight ensued in the morning. Onr loss was eleven killed. The Boers lost their commandant and twenty killed.

Former Governor W. P. Dillingham was elected United States Senator by the Vermont Legislature a few days ago.

POWERFUL IN EMPIRE.

The Man Who Dared to Disobey a Railroad President.

The great soldier is the man who, as a subordinate, on all ordinary occasions obeys orders implicitly, but who, when the great emergency arrives, knows that, to save the day and his country, he must obey. He breaks his orders on his own responsibility, knowing that the result and the future will justify him. Failure would be his ruin. Success may mmortalize him. And if he is great, he knows that he shall succeed. One of the members of the Russian imperial cabinet, Monsieur Witte, minister of finance, is one of the most powerful and important men in the empire. Highly esteemed and trusted by the emperor, he is respected and honored by the representatives of foreign powers. Yet Monsieur Witte is of humble origin—a fact which, in Russia, where every circumstance favors the man of noble blood above the plebeian, has counted for much against him. Monsieur Witte, in his early life, after an imperfect education, was made station-master at a small and unimportant railway station in southern Russia. The war between Russia and Turkey arose, and hundreds of thousands of soldiers had to be transported into Roumania and Bulgaria. One day Monsieur Witte, in his station, received telegraphic instructions to make certain arrangements in connection with the passage of these troops along the line. In Russia orders from a high source, connected with the affairs of the government, are terrible things, not to be disobeyed. But this young man saw that obedience in the present instance would create great confusion, if not positive disaster. His superiors had told him to do the wrong thing. He ventured to violate his instructions, and to do the right thing. The president of the railway summoned the young man before him, and asked why he had presumed to disobey his telegraphic orders in a matter of such vast consequence. Monsieur Witte told him why, and convinced him that he, the station-master, was right, and that the orders were wrong. Instead of removing or punishing him, the chief of the road advanced him. Afterward this railway president, Monsieur Wichnegdradski, was called to St. Petersburg to assume a place in the imperial cabinet. Remembering the man who had so successfully disobeyed, he sent for him and gave him a post under him. After that Monsieur Witte's advancement was rapid, and he rose to occupy the highest "business" position in the empire—that of minister of finance. —Youths' Companion.

Big Mining Contract.

The largest contract ever let by a mining company in the state of Colorado for the delivery of ore to reduction works or smelters was made last week when Dudley M. Gray of Cripple Creek closed a contract with the Independence mine management for the delivery of 200 tons of ore per day from that mine continuously for a period of five years. The work of breaking ore at the mine for transfer under the terms of the contract agreement with the reduction firm has been begun. Outside of the immense magnitude of the contract in the matter of the ore tonnage which it involves for the whole period stated, it also represents the greatest amount of value in ore production for any like period of tme which has ever been made from any exclusively gold-producing claim containing the same amount of productive territory within its prescribed limits.

Automobile Storage Rooms.

The coming fashionable apartment house will have storage rooms for automobiles. When houses were fitted up with bicycle storage rooms it was regarded as something decidedly "modern." A new apartment house in New York is being planned with automobile storage rooms. The owner of the house intends to rent apartments only to persons who are wealthy enough to own automobiles. Every arrangement will be provided for charging storage batteries, and this will necessitate the keeping of a staff of mechanics to clean, oil, repair and adjust the motor machinery of the self-goers. In some cities the liverymen have practically boycotted the automobile, claiming the electric vehicles injures their trade.

Punctureless Tires.

A German scientist has patented what he asserts to be a puncture proof tire filling. The filling is a jelly made of glue. Glycerine is added to prevent hardening, and an antiseptic preparation that keeps it from fermenting. The mixture is first heated until it liquefies and is then beaten to a stiff foam. When in this frothy condition it is introduced into the tire or saddle and allowed to cool and partly solidify. The result is a light, spongy material of cellular formation, exceedingly light in weight and proof against tacks, nails, glass and all puncturing objects.

Libby's Food Products at the Paris Exposition.

The Grand Prix d'Honneur and two gold medals have been awarded by the International Jury of Awards at the Paris Exposition, to Libby, McNeill & Libby, of Chicago, for the purity, excellence and superiority of their Canned Foods. Here in America, the "Libby" Brand has always been recognized as typical of the highest standard of excellence attained in the preservation of Meats, and it is a noticeable fact that the products of Libby, McNeill & Libby have received the highest awards at every Exposition held in the United States during the past two decades.

A Cemetery for Dogs.

In Paris there has recently been opened a special cemetery for dogs where the deceased canines can be buried with as much pomp and be marked by as pretentious a headstone as their late masters can afford. Along the front of the cemetery grounds a handsome stone wall has been erected, and within the entrance on either side are the house of the concierge and the office. Directly in front of one entering is a handsome marble monument. A heavy relief in the stone represents the dog bearing a child on his back, and commemorates the saving of a little one lost in the snow of St. Bernard pass whom a St. Bernard dog found and brought to a safe refuge.

RUSSIA'S IMMENSE FIND.

Prehistoric Animals Dug Up Near the Dwina River.

I have just had the opportunity of reading the hitherto unpublished account of the discoveries made by Prof. W. Amalizeki on the banks of the Dwina last year; they will probably make a great stir in the scientific world when published, says a St. Petersburg correspondent of the London Mail. By permission of the czar, who makes an annual grant of 10,000 rubles for this purpose, Prof. Amalizeki, of the University of Warsaw, was sent last year to conduct some excavations on the banks of the Dwina in northern Russia. These river banks consist of porous sandstone, and the excavator was soon rewarded for his exertions by finding a fossilized plesiosaurus in a complete state of preservation, twenty-nine feet long. As a temporary protection for this treasure a pit was dug 39 feet long, 13 feet broad, and 32 feet deep. In the digging of the pit a number of fossils of giant tree ferns and conifers were found, as well as another mine of plesiosauri, which were discovered lying one on top of another in layers. One of them lay on its back—this one had a well preserved set of teeth. The backs of these plesiosauri were covered partly with plates of horn, partly with horny excruscences. Judging from their teeth, these amphibious animals, whose species has not yet been established, were beasts of prey. They show a certain amount of relationship to the dinosauri, but are sundered from them by several distinguishing peculiarities. The professor's finds were immediately examined and classified in St. Petersburg. It is interesting to read of the difficulties with which he had to contend while making these excavations. The peasants of the neighboring villages at first took him for a gold digger, because he had Cossacks stationed all night long round his excavations. As time went on they became certain that he was the living Antichrist and refused to give him and his companions food and shelter, until a Russian priest living in the neighborhood had convinced them of the folly of the idea and had blessed the professor and his men. Finally the peasants satisfied themselves that the learned man was the cause of an outbreak of rinderpest in the surrounding villages, and went bent on stoning him and it was only the presence of mind of his Cossack guards that saved him from a terrible death. The process of excavating the banks of the river will be continued this year.

THE TURN OF LIFE.

The Most Important Period in a Woman's Existence.—Mrs. Johnson Tells How She Was Helped Over the Trying Time.

· CHARLOTTE JOHNSON ·

Owing to modern methods of living, not one woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying, and sometimes painful symptoms.

Those dreadful hot flashes, sending the blood surging to the heart until it seems ready to burst, and the faint feeling that follows, sometimes with chills, as if the heart were going to stop for good, are only a few of the symptoms of a dangerous nervous trouble. The nerves are crying out for assistance. The cry should be heeded in time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life.

The three following letters are guaranteed to be genuine and true, and still further prove what a great medicine Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is for women.

Mar. 12, 1897.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been sick for a long time. I was taken sick with flooding. All my trouble seemed to be in the womb. I ache all the time at the lower part of the womb. The doctor says the womb is covered with ulcers. I suffer with a pain on the left side of my back over the kidney. I am fifty years old and passing through the change of life. Please advise me what to do to get relief. Would like to hear from you as soon as possible."—MRS. CHARLOTTE JOHNSON, Monclova, Ohio.

Jan. 23, 1898.

"I have been taking your remedies, and think they have helped me a great deal. I had been in bed for ten weeks when I began taking your Vegetable Compound, but after using it for a short time I was able to be up around the house. The aching in the lower part of womb has left me. The most that troubles me now is the flowing. That is not so bad, but still there is a little every day. I am not discouraged yet, and shall continue with your medicine, for I believe it will cure me."—MRS. CHARLOTTE JOHNSON, Monclova, Ohio.

April 13, 1900.

"I send you this letter to publish for the benefit of others. I was sick for about nine years so that I could not do my work. For three months I could not sit up long enough to have my bed made. I had five different doctors, and all said there was no help for me. My trouble was change of life. I suffered with ulceration of the womb, pain in sides, kidney and stomach trouble, backache, headache, and dizziness. I am well and strong, and feel like a new person. My recovery is a perfect surprise to everybody that knew me. I owe all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I would not do without your medicine for anything. There is no need of women suffering so much if they would take your remedies, for they are a sure cure."—MRS. CHARLOTTE JOHNSON, Monclova, Ohio.

When one stops to think about the good Mrs. Johnson derived from Mrs. Pinkham's advice and medicine, it seems almost beyond belief; yet it is all true as stated in her three letters published above at her own request.

As a matter of positive fact Mrs. Pinkham has on file thousands of letters from women who have been safely carried through that danger period "Change of Life." Mrs. Johnson's cure is not an unusual one for Mrs. Pinkham's medicine to accomplish.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letters are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special permission. LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.

WHITE TRAITORS LEAD FILIPINOS

Detachments of American Troops Are Freed By Hordes of Insurgents.

BLOODY BATTLES ENSUE

Rebels Routed In One Fight; Americans Retreat In Another.

A Manila special under date of October 28 says: While scouting near Looc a detachment of the Twentieth and Twentieth-eighth regiments, under Captain Beigler, were attacked by 400 insurgents armed with rifles, under the command of a white man whose nationality is not known to the Americans. The insurgents for the most part were intrenched. After a heroic fight Captain Beigler drove off the enemy, killing more than seventy-five. The fight lasted for two hours. Captain Beigler and three privates were slightly wounded and two of the Americans were killed.

An engagement (noted in previous dispatches) took place October 24 between detachments of the Third cavalry and Thirty-third volunteer infantry and a force of insurgents, including 400 riflemen and 1,000 bolo men. The fighting was desperate. Finally, under pressure of overwhelming numbers, the Americans were compelled to retire on Narvican. Lieut. George L. Febiger and four privates were killed, nine were wounded and four are missing. Twenty-nine horses are missing. A number of teamsters were captured by the insurgents, but were subsequently released. The enemy's loss is estimated at 150.

A civilian launch, towing a barge loaded with merchandise near Arayat, was attacked by a force of 150 insurgents, under David Fagin, a deserter from the Twenty-fourth infantry. The American troops on hearing the firing turned out in force before the boat could be looted and recaptured it.

Fagin, who holds the rank of general among the insurgents, has sworn special enmity toward his former company. Of the twenty men he captured a month ago seven have returned. One was killed in a fight, his body being horribly mutilated. Fagin sends messages to his former comrades threatening them with violence if they become his prisoners. It was Fagin's men who captured Lieutenant Alstaetter, who is still a prisoner.

BRITISH LOST HEAVILY.

Roberts Sends In Report of Recent Skirmish With Boers.

A dispatch received at the London war office from Lord Roberts, dated Pretoria, Friday, October 26th, referring to the fighting of General Barton's column with General Dewet's forces, October 25th, says:

"The British losses were heavier than at first reported. An additional officer and twelve men were killed and three officers and twenty-five men were wounded. The Boers left twenty-four dead and nineteen wounded on the field and twenty-six Boers were made prisoners. Three Boers who held up their hands in token of surrender and then fired on the British were courtmartialed, convicted and sentenced to death. I have confirmed the sentence."

SHERMAN'S WILL FILED.

Estate Valued at $2,500,000--Only Three Public Bequests Made.

The will of the late John Sherman was filed for probate at Mansfield, O., Friday afternoon. The document disposes of an estate valued at $2,500,000. It is dated at Washington, December 22, 1890.

Mrs. Mary Sherman McCallum is given $100,000. After other bequests are paid she, with five others, the late senator's nephews, get the residue, making her share, it is estimated, $500,000. The public bequests are: $3,000 to Oberlin college. $5,000 to Kenyon college, $800,000 given to the senator's brothers and other relatives.

Gold In Plenty.

The gold in the United States treasury Friday amounted to $451,477,404, the highest point ever reached since the foundation of the government. This is said to be the largest gold fund in the world.

AMERICANS RETREAT.

Fierce Battle With Overwhelming Numbers of Bolomen In Luzon.

The war department Friday received a dispatch from General McArthur giving an accout of a fight in which a small detachment of the American troops attacked a much superior force of Filipinos. The dispatch follows:

"MANILA, October 26.—Adjutant General, Washington: October 24th First Lieutenant Fibigger, forty men, company H, Thirty-third regiment, United States infantry volunteers; Second Lieutenant Grayson Vheidt, sixty men, troop L, Third cavalry, attacked insurgents fourteen miles east of Tarvican, Ilocosa province, Luzon; developed strong position occupied by about 600 riflemen, 1,000 bolomen, under command of Juan Villamor, subordinate of Timos.

"Desperate fight ensued, which was most creditable to force engaged, though under heavy pressure and overwhelming numbers, our troops were compelled to return to Tarvican, which was accomplished in a tactical and orderly manner. Their loss, moderate estimate, over 150. Our loss, killed: First Lieutenant George L. Fibigger, Charles A. Lindenberg, William F. Wilson, Alfred L. Johnson, Guy E. McClintock.

"Wounded, eight; missing, nine.

"Thirty-six horses missing; some known to be killed."

COUNTY COURT N. G.

Supreme Tribunal of State of Georgia Renders a Startling Decision.

The supreme court of Georgia, Friday, handed down a decision in the case of Dave Murray vs. the state, larceny from the house, which in effect declares the county court of Washington county to be illegal and its judgments of no effect.

The court's decision is almost startling, in view of the many complications that it involves. The court was established in 1895, but the supreme court holds that the court is illegal because it was sought to be established under the general act of 1872, authorizing the establishment of county courts upon recommendation of the grand jury, but that Washington county was excepted from that act by a subsequent local act.

Since its establishment judgments involving many thousands of dollars have been rendered in this court, and hundreds of people have served or are now serving sentences in the chaingang imposed by the said court. The effect of the supreme court's decision, therefore, may be to cause the release of all persons now serving sentences imposed by the county court of Washington and to invite a renewal of litigation over civil cases already decided by a court which had no legal existence.

A FEARFUL ORDEAL.

Young Woman Attacked By Enraged Lions In Burning Cage.

On the midway of the Spartanburg, S. C,, carnival Friday a spectator threw a lighted match near a can of gasoline, which exploded. The can was near the cage in which Madam Clio, otherwise known as "The Lion Queen," was doing her turn with four large lions belonging to the Frank P. Bostic Carnival company. The straw on the ground and the tent caught fire. The lions became frenzied and attacked the young woman.

The spectators were terror stricken by the situation, and those who did not fly in panic could offer no assistance. The floor of the cage caught fire and there was danger of the lions breaking out, but Madam Clio displayed remarkable strength and courage. With an iron bar she beat back the lions. Her arms and shoulders were cruelly torn by their claws, and her clothing stripped as well as burned by the fire, but she kept the lions under control, issuing orders for extinguishing the fire, until help came, and the roaring beasts were gotten into another cage.

Defaulter Schreiber Captured.

DISASTER IN NEW YORK

Many Buildings Wrecked by Explosion of Chemicals.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE IS REPORTED

The Most Appalling Catastrophe in the City's History—Many Persons Missing and Hundreds are Seriously Injured.

A New York dispatch says: As the result of a small fire, several successive explosions of chemicals stored in Tarrant & Co's. drug store at Warren and Greenwich streets Monday blew down a number of buildings and badly damaged a score of others.

The loss of life is not known, but there are perhaps the bodies of thirty persons in the ruins, though because of the hot debris and the slowness of the moving of it no bodies had been recovered up to midnight. The disaster is the most terrible that has ever occurred in this city, and rivals the Windsor hotel fire in its appalling results, though in loss of property it will be worse. Chief Croker of the fire department said that the loss is fully $1,500,000.

The action of the tremendous catastrophe was more vivid and awful than the city has seen for a long time. Buildings fell in on themselves or toppled over on others; iron girders were thrown yards away, smashing through great walls; structures fell into the streets in piles so that the line of thoroughfare could not be marked out; huge splinters of iron, steel and wood were flung into the streets and into the building, clean through the walls, where they were buried; people walking through the streets were knocked down and dangerously injured by timbers, glass and steel; horses were thrown down, wagons and store fronts and streets of property for blocks in every direction were wrecked and damaged.

There are thirty-five persons reported missing, and one hundred men, women and children are on the list of the injured. The search for bodies is going on.

THIRTY SPEECHES.

Bryan Breaks His Own Record at Campaigning.

A New York special says: "I am feeling tolerably well," I thank you." This was Colonel Bryan's response when told Monday that he had made thirty speeches during the day, and thus broken his own record for speech-making. As a rule, the speeches were not so long as on most occasions, but they exceeded in number by nine or ten those of any previous day during the present campaign—by three the highest number made in the campaign in any one day in 1896.

The day's tour was first begun at the headwaters of the Susquehanna river and back through the Catskills, and down the Hudson on the west side of that river to Weehawken, then across the river and across Manhattan Island and into Brooklyn. All the speeches except one were made in the state of New York.

Roosevelt Roughly Treated.

For the first time in New York state, and in the home of the democratic candidate for governor, says an Elmira dispatch, Theodore Roosevelt was assaulted on the streets of Elmira Monday night, on his way to the places of meeting. He was in a carriage with former Senator Fassett, and at several points along the route was pelted with eggs and vegetables and greeted with the vilest epithets. He sat in dignified silence, while the police looked on quietly. The campaign club from Corning was also assaulted and a bitter fight ensued. In the places of meeting the governor also had interruptions.

At Ithica the governor's reception was a most friendly one.

Fate of a Peacemaker.

William Cawthorne was killed near Tyler, Tex., in a school house while services were being held. Cawthorne went out to quell some trouble and a crowd of men literally hacked him to pieces with pocket knives. Four young men have been arrested, charged with committing the crime.

Alvord Arrested in Boston.

Corneliun L. Alvord, Jr., the absconding note teller of the First National Bank in New York City, who is charged with stealing $700,000 from the bank, was arrested in Boston by Chief Inspector William Roberts and Detective Armstrong of New York in an ordinary lodging house. When arrested Alvord stated that he was glad the suspense was ended.

ALABAMA NEWS NOTES.

Notes From the State Fair at Birmingham.

Commencing next Saturday, the Louisville & Nashville railroad will put on a special train between Montgomery and Birmingham, to be run during the State Fair. The train will arrive in Birmingham a minute before 10 o'clock in the morning, leaving Montgomery at 6:30 o'clock.

There will be a big demonstration next Saturday on account of Labor day at the State Fair. The Fair association has offered two prizes, the first of $50 and the second of $25, to be given to the locals making the biggest average of membership turning out in the demonstration.

Things are booming at the fair grounds. The headquarters of the different departments have been moved there, and an army of workmen are putting in the exhibits and decorating the building.

Immediately in front of the gate is the mineral exhibit, which already contains an assortment of red ore, brown ore, magnetic ore, limestone, chert, paving brick, marble, pig iron and coal. The monster shaft of marble, thirty-feet high and weighing twenty tons, has been put in place and workmen are now shaping it up. Another piece is the 1,600-pound block of coal.

One of the most interesting and complete exhibits will be that of the Negro building. Two car loads of exhibits have arrived fram Tuskegee and are now being put in position by the students and officers of the Industrial school. There will be on exhition products of all the numerous industries taught at Tuskegee. The Negro Normal school at Huntsville will also have a carefully selected exhibit, showing the kind of work they are doing there.

Perhaps the biggest thing in the machinery exhibit will be the gins and a mammoth pump capable of discharging 2,000,000 gallons of water per day.

The cattle show is as yet incomplete but there are some extra fine Jerseys on exhibition. The rest of the stock will arrive in time for the opening. A first-class exhibit is expected.

The Midway is already assuming an interesting appearance and the perspiring managers are surrounded by a crowd of exhibitors fighting for space. The Midway will be full to the limit.

An Insect's Sting Causes Death.

Thomas S. Boykin, of Birmingham, died Sunday morning from the effect of a bite from some unknown insect. Soon after Mr. Boykin was confined to his bed septic pneumonia set in. His death is directly traced to the bite of the insect. Mr. Boykin was standing in the lobby of the Morris hotel several days ago, when he heard a buzzing sound and felt something strike his face. This was followed by a sharp pain in his lip, which rapidly began to swell. The whole face was soon affected and Mr. Boykin suffered intensely.

The remains were taken to Tilden, Dallas county, for burial.

Dispensary Agitating Walker County.

The court house at Jasper was crowded Monday by one of the largest audiences that ever assembled in Walker county to hear the speeches of Representative-Elect T. L. Long, of Jasper, and Judge Joseph H. Montgomery, of Birmingham, against the dispensary. One week ago a meeting was held by those favoring the dispensary, and all the citizens of Walker county were invited to attend, irrespective of their views on the subject. The meeting Monday was one of the largest and most enthusiastic ever held in the county.

REMEMBER PORTO RICO.

REPUBLICANS WOULD WANTONLY ENSLAVE THAT UNHAPPY ISLE.

Will Those Who Perpetrate So Foul a Deed Spare the American Workingman, the American Farmer, When They Have Gained the Power They Aspire to Hold?

Let the American voters remember our broken promises to Porto Rico and by his ballot erase the stain from the folds of our national emblem.

President Schurman, of the Philippine Commission, who, as "a gentleman and a scholar," has endeavored to throw the robe of rhetoric and the pious apology over the crimes of President McKinley and his abettors in the Philippines, could not stand the Porto Rican tariff act. In a letter to a friend, quoted in Senator Proctor's speech, President Schurman said:

"We are bound to this course by solemn promises. The supreme and irresistible reason for removing all customs barriers between the United States and Porto Rico is the promise made by General Miles, when first landing American forces on the island, that the Porto Ricans should enjoy the same rights, privileges and immunities as the people of the United States. On this understanding the Porto Ricans accepted American sovereignty, not only without opposition, but with joyful trust and confidence.

"The present issue is simply this: Shall we repudiate or shall we fulfill the national engagements? Shall this great republic break faith with the little island of Porto Rico? Having secured the fruits of General Miles's promise, shall we now renounce the promise?

"The American people will not tolerate any faltering with solemn obligations. Recognizing the national good faith as the nation's chiefest good, they will condemn any violation of it as the blackest crime. All over the country this Porto Rican question has stirred to the deepest the national heart and conscience; legislation, inspired by a breach of good faith, will bring a terrible nemesis.

"It is said that a tariff is needed between Porto Rico and the United States to provide a case for the courts to determine the extent of our jurisdiction over the new dependencies, especially the Philippines. I answer that no convenience, no expediency, no other obligation, ever justified a breach of the national good faith. Let me add, too, that this Porto Rican legislation is testing us before the eyes of the Filipinos, who keep well informed of all our doings. They will judge by this legislation of the value of American promises. When the ablest and most statesmanlike of Aguinaldo's emissaries to the Philippine Commission once expressed the fear that the American Government might not keep the promise it was making—'for Spain,' said he, 'made promises and broke them'—I silenced him with the reply: 'Signor, the United States is not Spain.'

"Is he now to learn—are all the Filipinos now to learn—that in the first legislation for our new dependencies we prove faithless to our pledges and recreant to our obligations? Such an exhibition of ourselves will strengthen the hands of Aguinaldo and the insurgents, because, unhappily, it can be used to support their persistent statement that the Americans are no more trustworthy than the Spaniards.

"At the very moment when we need to inspire confidence in the minds of the conquered Filipinos, shall we commit an act which will confirm their distrust of us, quicken their suspicions and breed new and perhaps ineradicable antipathies? God forbid."

A Thunderbolt From Bryan.

"The Republican party is not prepared to defend itself on the trust question, therefore they try to get it out of the campaign. The Republican party is not prepared to defend itself on the army question. They say there is no question of militarism, and yet an army four times as great as the standing army of 1896 is demanded by the President's message of December, 1898. How much do we spend for education in the United States? Less than $200,000,000 a year. How much do the Republicans want to spend on a military establishment? One hundred million dollars a year. They want to spend more than half as much for a military establishment as we spend for the education of all the children in the United States. Is not that a step toward militarism? (Applause.) What reason can they give for it? They only give one. But I will give the one they do not give. There are two reasons which lead men in this country to want a large standing army. One is a domestic one; the other is connected with our foreign affairs. What domestic reason is there for a large army? To protect us from the Indians? No, the less Indians we have the more army the Republican party wants. That is not the cause.

"Why do they want it? So that they can build a fort near every large city and use the army to suppress by force the discontent that ought to be cured by remedial legislation."—W. J. Bryan.

The Democratic Policy.

"The forcible anexation of territory to be governed by arbitrary power, differs as much from the acquisition of territory to be built up into States as a monarchy differs from a democracy. The Democratic party does not oppose expansion, when expansion enlarges the area of the republic and incorporates land which can be settled by American citizens, or adds to our population people who are willing to become citizens and are capable of discharging their duties as such."—W. J. Bryan.

M'KINLEY MILITARISM.

A Pretty Penny to Pay For His Imperialism.

It is announced from Washington that the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy will call upon Congress for more than $200,000,000 for the support of the army and navy for the next fiscal year. The appropriations for the army are being figured on a basis of 100,000 men.

It is pertinent in this connection to note the increased cost of the army and navy under the administration of William McKinley. For the year 1897 the army and navy, in round numbers, cost $83,400,000. The estimate of $200,000,000 for the next fiscal year is not to meet some emergency, but it is proposed as an permanent charge. The increase of over $115,000,000 a year represents the fixed charge that Oriental empire will place upon the republic.

This is a pretty penny to pay for the imperial enterprises for which McKinley stands. If it could be shown that the money was spent in a righteous cause; that it was for the spread of free institutions and the uplifting and betterment of mankind, it might be excusable. But it is for none of these things. It is being squandered to build up an Oriental empire, of which Great Britain's Indian empire is a model, for the enrichment of a favored few and for exploitation by syndicates. It is being spent to crush the aspirations of a people to attain freedom and independence that they may take their place among the nations of the earth.

And the American people are called upon to approve such a policy, to make permanent expenditures for the army and navy more than double the expenditures made for our military establishment prior to the war with Spain, that Mr. McKinley and Hanna and the trusts may have four years more of a "full dinner pail!"

What Bryan Would Do.

The Republican party says we are prosperous. Who's we?

The man who can get private concessions from the Republican Administration is prosperous, of course. Is he the only one worth talking about?

The world has no example of the opportunities afforded to those who can pay for legislation as is now on view.

He (Roosevelt) spends more time in denouncing those who denounce the trusts than he does in denouncing the trusts themselves.

While Mr. Hanna says there are no trusts, there is one trust—that is an Ice Trust. But there are others trusts.

We draw the line between honest and predatory wealth.

The laboring man wants more than protection from blackmail or a government by injunction.

It can't be that the Ice Trust is any worse than any other form of trust, or our Republican Governor would not be out West making speeches instead of being here curbing the trusts.

The laboring man will have to pray in the future "Give us our daily bread" to the trust magnate instead of to the Almighty.

A government for the people will be impossible under the regime of the trusts.

I don't believe God ever made a man good enough to stand at the head of a private monopoly and fix the price of that commodity.

A wise man gets an idea into his head. A foolish man gets it in the neck.

My first act as President will be to call Congress together to do what should have been done a year and a half ago for the Filipinos.—W. J. Bryan.

The "Good" Trusts.

Chairman Hanna says there are no trusts and the Republican National Committee confirms his declaration by issuing a campaign folder by millions in defense of trusts. This folder, on the strength of Carroll D. Wright's "statistics," shows that trusts are the workingman's only true friend.

However, it is to be noted that most of the Republican organs and orators admit that there are trusts and that they are of two kinds—good and bad. The good trusts are those that fill Mr. Hanna's campaign dinner pail; the bad ones are the trade unions. And according to the campaign folders which the Republicans are spreading broadcast the trusts have been an unmixed blessing to labor. They have increased employment, they have increased wages, and they have lowered prices. They are therefore the crowning beneficence of McKinleyism.

But it must be remembered that the "statistics" upon which this charming Republican fantasy is built were supplied by Col. Carroll D. Wright. It is understood that the figures used by the trusts themselves are dreamed by him. Their reliability is therefore not to be questioned by any Republican organ or orator.

Yet it is an interesting fact that Col. Wright is a thoroughly discredited statistician. He has been shown up in a light so utterly dishonorable that what he says must always be regarded with suspicion. He understands that his job depends upon properly "cooked" prosperity figures; and with an expert knowledge of what is wanted he is always ready to meet the demands upon him.

However, the really significant thing about this folder is, that it commits the Republicans to an open defense of the trusts.

The Real Calamity Howlers.

Men who shut down the mill "till they see how the election goes" are the real calamity howlers. Men who say the industries of the country will be paralyzed if Bryan is elected are the calamity howlers. Men who threaten a panic unless McKinley is chosen—they are the true and genuine calamity howlers, and they are more harmful to the nation than an army of rebels would be.

REPUBLICAN COERCION

WORKINGMEN DRAGOONED VOTING FOR M'KINLEY

Forcing Americans to Give Up the Dearest and Proudest Privilege of Their Citizenship—It is Imperialism at Home —A Form of Political Slavery.

One of the most sinister features of the Presidential contest this year is the policy of coercion and intimidation alleged to have been adopted by the McKinleyite employers of labor in all parts of the country. Persuasion and argument having failed to convert workingmen into supporters of McKinleyism, more drastic measures, it is charged, have been resorted to in order to assure the continued supremacy of the Republican party in national affairs. The workingman, the employe of the trust and corporations, the toilers in factories, mills and mines, are to be driven, it is said, into voting for Mr. McKinley against their convictions by methods which are as coercive as if the victims were dragged to the polls by a corporal's squad. This is the despotism to which we have come under the rule of the trusts, the moneyed interests and our "Napoleon" of "practical politics" and shyster finance.

The American people are a sober, law-abiding people, who abhor anarchy. The men who are promoting anarchy in this country are not the ridiculous creatures like Herr Most and his absurd followers. The most dangerous anarchists are those who prevent a fair expression of the people's will at the polls. They hold to the un-American theory that when they buy a man's labor his vote goes with it, and that vote must be cast for policies which will make the employer prosperous even if at the expense of the employe. Such men assume prerogatives more fitting an absolute despotism than a free republic. They are destroying the foundations upon which this Government was built. They are establishing a system of political serfdom against which there will one day be a mighty and irresistible revolt. They are the anarchists who are undermining our free institutions as effectively as if they employed the bayonet to assert their mastery. They are forcing the American workingman to give up the dearest and proudest privilege of his citizenship in order that they may have a government which will bestow extraordinary favors upon them. They are sowing the wind and they will be fortunate if they do not reap the whirlwind. Imperialism abroad is bad enough. Imperialism at home, as embodied in the coercion and intimidation of employes, involves the degradation of the citizen. It is a form of political slavery which will make the American people a nation of serfs wearing the collars of their masters, the trusts, financial institutions and favored interests which are endeavoring to control the Government.—Baltimore Sun.

Bryan's Remedies For Trusts.

"We have a remedy and our remedy is, first, to put every trust-made article on the free-list; second, we propose that Congress shall provide that before any corporation does business outside of the State of its origin it shall take out a license from the Federal Government, and this license shall only be given when the corporation shows that it has no water in its stock and that it is not attempting to monopolize any branch of business. I believe that would be a great remedy for the trusts. I believe that no private monopoly could exist."—W. J. Bryan.

"Destiny is not a matter of chance, it is a matter of choice; it is not a thing to be waited for, it is a thing to be achieved."—W. J. Bryan.

"The fruits of imperialism, be they bitter or sweet, must be left to the subjects of monarchy. This is the one tree of which the citizens of a republic may not partake. It is the voice of the serpent, not the voice of God, that bids us eat."—W. J. Bryan.

"Wars of conquest have their origin in covetousness, and the history of the human race has been written in characters of blood, because rulers have looked with longing eyes upon the land of others."—W. J. Bryan.

Pulling Down the Flag.

Don't you Republican gentlemen get serious about the pulling down of the flag. You are the only people who have hauled down the Stars and Stripes. When John Hay gave up the gold lands of Alaska to England, and pulled down the starry banner which has floated over that region since Grant bought it of Russia and paid for it, he closed the mouths of his partisans to the one wild cry they love.

And here is a result of it. This is a dispatch from Vancouver, B. C., under date of September 29:

"Dispatches from Porcupine City, Alaska, say that the British flag was raised over the Porcupine mining district September 17. The flag was raised by Archer Martin, head of the British Commission and Justice of the Supreme Court of British Columbia. Martin issued a declaration that American owners of mines must have their titles confirmed by the commission. The American miners are hotly indignant over the matter and threaten trouble."

American owners of American mines must have the titles of their own property confirmed by British officials, paying American money in fees to British appointees. And the "flag of the free" is trailed across the mud and ice to a new frontier which England designates.

Entered in the post-office at Columbiana Ala., as second class matter.

For President,
W. J. BRYAN, of Nebraska.
For Vice-President,
ADLAI E. STEVENSON, of Indiana.

FOR CONGRESS,
SYDNEY J. BOWIE,
OF CALHOUN.

DON'T fail to vote, while you are voting, for our own Sydney J. Bowie. He has no opponent, it is true, but he wants a large vote in the district, and we must give it to him. Let us all just show him how much we do think of him.

THERE is danger of the next congress attempting to cut down the representation of the South, and a strong ground for this argument is the small vote cast in our national elections. Let every citizen of Shelby county go to the polls on next Tuesday and deposit a ballot for Bryan and Bowie.

LET not our farmers become in the least discouraged on account of the reduction in the price of cotton. This means a reduction in the acreage next year from what it would be had the prices kept up. Then the smaller acreage means smaller production next season and that in turn means better prices. Our farmers are getting on top where they naturally ought to be, and they will, thanks to their bitter experience, remain there.

WE REGRET exceedingly the fall in the price of cotton, but this will all work around right in the end. It is the opinion of those who profess to keep posted on the question that the fall in prices has been on account of the prospects for a large top crop. We have made inquiries, and from the best information we can obtain the top crop will be a failure. In other words, there will be no top crop. When this is known to a certainty cotton will take a sudden rise and go as high, if not higher, than at any time this season.

LET all who expect to vote the democratic ticket observe closely the ticket to be voted, as published in this paper last week and again this week. Study the same and be sure not to make the fatal mistake of marking the cross in front of the wrong name. While a very few can take a ticket up without having previously studied it and mark it intelligently—that is, vote as he would wish—yet every one who can read can give the matter such study as will enable him to vote for whomsoever he wishes. It is a matter worth all the thought you may give it in order to qualify yourself. Cut the ticket out and put it in your pocket and study it, and show it to your neighbors.

THE project to remove the capital of the state of Florida from Tallahassee to Jacksonville has aroused the resentment of the inhabitants of west Florida, and they will make a desperate effort to be annexed to Alabama. In this scheme all Alabama will, or should, cooperate. It will be one of the grandest things for Alabama that has ever occurred in her history. West Florida, or all that part of Florida which lies west of the Chattahooche river, naturally and geographically belongs to Alabama. That strip of Florida which lies south of and between Alabama and the gulf presents an awkward and disjointed appearance on the map. For it to belong to Alabama would make a well-formed, symmetrical state of the latter. And the amount of wealth it would add to the state would be difficult to estimate. The vast pine forests of west Florida which, it is true, have been cut off and sawed up to a great extent, yet are unexcelled by anything short of portions of Maine and Texas. Then this territory includes the beautiful gulf coast city, Pensacola, whose waters comprise one of the best harbors in the country. And Pensacola would not only add much to Alabama, but Alabama would make Pensacola one of the first cities in the South in a very few years. Let all Alabamians use their influence in bringing about this much to be desired end.

THE ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY.

Before another issue of THE CHRONICLE shall have been printed the federal election will be a thing of the past. We will all know probably beyond a doubt just who is elected. This issue is our last opportunity to urge upon democrats to work for the success of the party ticket. As to the ticket in Alabama being successful we scarcely need use any argument. It is a long foregone conclusion. On this account many will stay away from the polls on next Tuesday on the slightest pretext. But we would urge upon all to go to the polls and let us show up as near our strength as possible. In former issues we have called attention to the fact that strenuous efforts will be made by republicans in the coming congress to cut down the representation of the South in congress. This we want to resist to the bitter end. Really all political parties in the South should come together on this proposition. We don't want this done. By standing together virtually as one man the South has been, as it were, a mighty bulwark in the way of the strongest legislative oppression. Remove this bulwark and there is no predicting just what will be thrust upon us. Let democrats be at the polls early Tuesday morning, and not let up until the polls are closed.

MR. BRYAN is winning new laurels for himself every day and in every state which he goes. He is truly a wonderful man. He makes from fifteen to twenty speeches a day to large crowds and enthusiastic demonstrations greet him on every occasion. His speech in New York, in Madison Square Garden, on last Saturday night was one of his strongest and most statesmanlike, and his coming the second time to this city was the occasion of one of the greatest political demonstrations of the campaign. More than 15,000 people met him at various places in the city. How the man can go through with what he does without a physical and mental breakdown is more than we can answer. He is made of the right kind of material and if elected, which seems evident now, he will be just the man to stem the tide and to ride successfully over the stormy waters through which every president is expected to pass.

IT IS the nomination of such men as the Hon. Sydney J. Bowie which will win for the democratic party and which will remove all opposition from the permanent success of that party, not only in districts, but in county, state and nation.

ATTENTION, DEMOCRATS!

Don't make a mistake in voting. You know you don't vote directly for president and vice-president, but you vote for presidential electors. If you make a mistake and vote for a McKinley elector you vote for McKinley and not for Bryan. Democrats don't want to do this. The following is about as the official ballot will be and the names before which the X is placed are the names of the Bryan, or democratic electors. Study it carefully, and be sure you don't make a mistake and vote for the wrong man. When you go in the booth be sure to make the cross mark in front of the democratic electors and S. J. Bowie. The ticket is as follows:

This makes Wilsonville the metropolis of the county, counting only the incorporated towns. Montevallo, not being incorporated, is not shown separately in the returns.

Columbiana shows an increase of 421, or 64 per cent; Calera shows an increase of 17, or 2 per cent. The other two towns have been incorporated since 1890. The county has increased 13.3, while the increase for the state is 20.8 per cent.

F. W. GIST.

Harpersville.

Hurrah for Bryan and Bowie!

Miss Meeda Kidd is visiting in Birmingham.

Doctor Nelson has treated himself to a new horse.

Mr. and Mrs. Singleton's other twin baby died a few days ago.

The chills and fever have not all entirely gone yet.

Hiram Weathers, who moved from here early in the fall to Arkansas, writes back that he has almost found heaven.

H. G. Self, of Vincent, attended preaching here Sunday.

Clem Butler transacted business in Birmingham last week.

G. W. Wallis, Sr., of Creswell, and I. S. Chancellor both attended services here Sunday last.

Rev. S. N. Burns filled his last appointment at the Methodist church Sunday, provided he is not sent back another year. Our people all wish that conference may see fit to send him back to this charge, for we have found him to be a good preacher and a clever christian gentleman.

We believed all the time that Thompson was the nominee of the democratic party in the Fifth district, and now that he has been so declared we hope he may be elected. The time has come that a few men can't take the democratic party in their vest pockets any longer.

We heartily endorsed your article some time ago on primaries. Give us primaries all the time and then give us men to conduct them who will count the vote as cast, and then harmony will prevail and democracy will triumph.

Wonder how came the census man to leave Harpersville off the list of towns? We would kick if we knew whom to kick and it would do any good, but as we don't know whom to kick we prefer not kicking this time. But we want the world to know that Harpersville is still here, as it was years ago, and is going to stay, provided the stock law men don't see fit to vote it elsewhere.

We stated some time ago that Joe Simmons had gone to the Greensboro college. Well, he did go, but his health got so bad that he was advised to go to the infirmary at Selma for treatment, and the latest news was that he was improving, having undergone two operations. We wish him a speedy recovery, for he is a deserving young man.

JAKE.

A MIGHTY MAN.

You want to brace up, Mandy, when you see me comin' round,
I'm a person of importance. It has suddenly been found
That the question of this goverment, and whether it shall last,
Must finally be answered by the way my vote is cast.
The orators have said it; they have said it loud and long;
They said it so emphatic that, of course, they can't be wrong.
So act respectful, Mandy; not familiar-like and free,
The country is in peril, and it all depends on me.

I am the solid citizen; the man who tills the soil.
The waters have grown troubled and they're hollerin' for oil.
So, Mandy, don't you bother me with talk about the chores,
And start me out off-hand a-doin' errands out o' doors.
And when I'm meditatin', don't you give my mind a shock
By rattlin' pans or kettles or a-windin' of the clock.
My livin' here should make you jes' as proud as you kin be.
The country is in peril, and it all depends on me.—Washington Star.

HALL DRUG CO.

Did you notice what we said about having an "Arbor Day" and planting shade trees along the streets of our town? Don't you think it a good idea? Now is the time it should be done.

On account of the presidential election on the 6th of November the Shelby County Medical Association have postponed their meeting, which was to have been held on that date at Calera, to Tuesday, the 13th, instant.

The brick stores on West Main street being erected by J. P. Pearson & Co. and the Hall Drug Co., are about completed and certainly present a very attractive appearance in comparison with the buildings that formerly stood on that corner.

The "pounding" given by all our people to Rev. T. P. Roberts and family on last Friday night was largely attended, and from the number of packages we beheld stored away in the parsonage pantry would say they were exceedingly well "pounded."

We are endeavoring to secure a good correspondent in each beat, who can give the readers of THE CHRONICLE all items of interest in their respective localities, and to represent the paper by collecting the amounts due and securing new subscribers for us. If you have the time to devote to this, we can make it to your interest. Address, The Chronicle Publishing Co.

A Happy Marriage.

At Shelby Springs, at high noon Tuesday last, Mr. Jerome McMahon led to the hymenal altar Mrs. Mary M. Pond. A few select friends were present to witness the happy union, Rev. T. P. Roberts officiating. An impromptu reception was held for thirty minutes, after which elegant refreshments were served, and the contracting parties left on the south-bound Southern for a trip to New Orleans. The bride is one of the best known women in the state and her friends are legion. She is owner of the beautiful Shelby Springs property and several thousand acres of land in Shelby county. Mr. McMahon is an official of the Southern Railway and has many admirable traits of character. He is a very shrewd business man and stands high with his company. A host of friends extend congratulations and trust that their voyage over the matrimonial sea may be smooth and happy.

Being divinely commanded to "give thanks always for all things," and desiring to be obedient and consistent, it behooves us to return thanks for a severe but merciful "pounding," given us on last Friday evening, by friends and loved ones here and at Shelby. So to one and all of those who participated, we hereby extend our most hearty thanks and best wishes and earnestly pray that God, our Heavenly Father, who graciously rewards for even a cup of cold water, may reward each of you "exceeding abundantly above all we can ask or think." God bless you.

A Beautiful Church Wedding.

On the evening of the 25th instant a large number of relatives and friends assembled at the Baptist church to witness the marriage of Miss Leila Mildred Parker, of this city, to Mr. H. M. Cowling, of Montgomery. The church was artistically decorated with evergreens and autumn leaves.

Messrs. J. S. Falkner and Louie Christian, as ushers, did honor to the occasion by the orderly manner in which they did their work.

At sunset Miss Kate Huyett, who presided at the organ, began to play Mendelssohn's Wedding March. The novel effect produced by the sweet strains of music floating out on the still evening air can not be described; and rarely is witnessed a more beautiful scene than was presented when the bridal party marched silently to the altar.

On the left the bridesmaids, Misses Edith and Kate Howard, Annie Maull, Mary Kroett and Mattie Hand, were followed by the bride leaning on the arm of her maid of honor, Miss Susie McGehee. On the right the groom's men, Messrs. Ocie Bird, Alton Avinger, E. G. Givhan, J. B. Hardeman and W. A. Parker, preceded the groom with his best man, Mr. Ike Lamar.

All the young ladies in their beautiful white costumes were pretty, but when the bride took her place by the groom elect a feeling of admiration arose in every heart. In her elegant gown of white chiffon, carrying a boquet of bride's roses, she was most beautiful as she trustingly leaned upon the arm of the noble man whom she had chosen as the guardian of her future.

As the twilight crept on and the organ echoed the sweet strains of Annie Laurie, Rev. C. W. O'Hara, in a very concise and impressive manner, conducted the marriage ceremony. The little flower girl, Marie Milner, scattered roses for the party as they left the church.

Immediately after the marriage a reception was given at the residence of Mr. W. G. Parker, the father of the bride. The home was cheerful and inviting with its decorations of ivy, roses and chrysanthemums. After greetings and congratulations the guests were invited into the dining hall, where a rare and elegant feast awaited them. The remaining hours of the evening were spent in pleasant conversation, listening to music and feasting the eyes on the many and elegant presents. After spending a most delightful evening, each guest departed, wishing for the couple a future attended by many blessings and much happiness.

The bride has resided in this city from early childhood and is a young lady of refinement and rare accomplishments. Having a sweet christian spirit, she is loved and esteemed by all who know her. The groom is a resident of Montgomery and is a gentleman of noble qualities.

The best wishes of many friends attend them.

Notable Wedding at Calera.

One of the most romantic marriages in this county for many moons past was that of Miss Radie Scott to Mr. Alonzo Meenach at the residence of Mr. J. D. Hardy in Calera on the evening of October 24 at half past five. The contracting parties are native Kentuckians and have been engaged about three years. About one year ago Mr. Meenach went to Seattle to visit a brother, who is a wealthy Klondiker, and about the same time Miss Scott came to Alabama to visit her brother, Mr. A. R. Scott, it being agreed between them that Mr. Meenach would return within a few weeks when the marriage would take place and they would reside in Kentucky. However, when he reached Seattle flattering inducements were offered, and he went on to Dawson City, writing faithfully twice a week to his affianced. After the first of June last he heard no more from his betrothed, but suspecting, as was the case, that the irregularity of the mails was at fault, he plied his pen still twice a week, and kept her advised as to his movements and his return for her. Meantime he was making headway for reaping a fortune rapidly, and is engaged with his brother in the operation of copper mines in southeastern Alaska. Upon his arrival at Seattle October 5 he telegraphed Miss Scott, asking if she still awaited him. Her reply was satisfactory. His next message was, "I leave tonight for Birmingham." And the union of the two faithful hearts was consummated in the presence of only a few relatives and close friends by Rev. W. I. Sinnott. Both bride and groom were equipped strictly for traveling, and after a short visit in Kentucky they go thence to Alaska. They both have a large circle of friends who wish them great joy and prosperity.

FORESTS FOR CONSUMPTIVES.

Pennsylvania Mountains May Be Changed to Resorts.

Stats Forestry Commissioner Bothrock, who, with other members of the commission has completed an inspection of the forests of Luzerne County, Pennsylvania, has outlined in brief the purpose of the state in acquiring large tracts, says the Philadelphia Ledger. He said: "The duty of the commission is to purchase three timber reservations of 40,000 acres each at the headwaters of the three principal rivers, the Delaware, Susquehanna and Ohio. The idea of these forest preserves is to raise timber on ground that will not produce anything else. The state wants to put the timber back, and cultivate and rear forests of the same order as the extensive Black Forest in Germany was started. The culmination in our present ideas may not be in this generation. It took Germany 200 years to make the famous Black Forest what it is now. But the United States will probably make as much progress in that line in fifty years as Germany has done in two centuries. The climate of Pennsylvania is far more healthful than that of any other state in the Union, but the people do not know it. Besides, they can not enjoy outdoor life at present without trespassing on some one's or some corporation's domains. There will be no need for our citizens to go to the Adirondacks, to Colorado, California, Florida or elsewhere when we once get these timber preserves in full operation, for healthful outdoor recreation. One out of every 1,000 persons dies of pulmonary consumption in the Adirondacks region, while in the Keystone State the rate is only one in every 1,330 persons. It is only a question of time when Pennsylvania will be called upon to take care of its consumptives, and find a way to prevent the spread of that dreaded disease. Our state timber reservations will be the remedy to help the state out of that dilemma."

A Tale of Two Shirts.

A discharged soldier, lately returned from the Philippines, tells a tale of a shirt which is too good to be lost. His company was returning from a long and tiresome scouting trip, in which most of the men had parted with the greater part of their wearing apparel, when he saw on a clothes-line in the grounds of a residence adjoining a big stone church two very good shirts, hung out to dry. As he had at the time only half a shirt to his back, he proceeded to help himself to a whole one. Whereupon a woman came out of the house and said to him, in passable English: "You will pay for that on the judgment day." "Madam," he replied, "if you give such long credit, I will take both shirts," which he proceeded to do.

Turkey's Back-Door Reform.

What little reform gets into Turkey usually slips in by the back door. Report has it that the only dynamo now in Constantinople passed the custom house as a washing machine, and thus the feelings of the authorities were spared.

To Mothers of Large Families.

In this workaday world few women are so placed that physical exertion is not constantly demanded of them in their daily life.

Mrs. Pinkham makes a special appeal to mothers of large families whose work is never done, and many of whom suffer, and suffer for lack of intelligent aid.

To women, young or old, rich or poor, Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., extends her invitation of free advice. Oh, women! do not let your lives be sacrificed when a word from Mrs. Pinkham, at the first approach of weakness, may fill your future years with healthy joy.

MRS. CARRIE BELLEVILLE.

"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was not able to do my housework. I suffered terribly at time of menstruation. Several doctors told me they could do nothing for me. Thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's advice and medicine I am now well, and can do the work for eight in the family.

"I would recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers with large families."—MRS. CARRIE BELLEVILLE, Ludington, Mich.

TRAIN WRECKERS NEATLY TRAPPED

They Were Caught In Act of Displacing Bolts and Rails.

DISASTER WAS AVERTED

Long Trestle on Seaboard Air Line Was Selected.

An Atlanta special says: A dastardly attempt was made to wreck the passenger train on the Seaboard Air Line railroad, four miles from Lawrenceville Saturday night, and the two men engaged in the plot to plunge the train with three hundred passengers over a trestle have been arrested and lodged in jail.

The men had been suspected and watched, and were caught in the very act of removing the bolts from the rails.

But for the fact that the attempted slaughter of many men, women and children occurred only four miles from Lawenceville, the prisoners would undoubtedly have been taken from the officers by the indignant passengers and lynched. As the train moved along, bearing the miscreants and their intended victims, the story of the outrage spread through the crowded coaches, and if there had been a few more miles to go the prisoners would have been left swinging on the side of the road to telegraph poles.

The train which left Atlanta Saturday evening at 8 o'clock had five coaches, all crowded, many of the passengers having been to Atlanta to attend the fair. The two men who had plotted to murder by the wholesale for the purpose of robbery must have counted on this, and selected a time when they believed there would be many to fall into their grasp as they lay dying at the bottom of the trestle.

The plan was to throw the train over the trestle at Yellow river, which is four miles this side of Lawrenceville. If the plan had succeeded the derailed train would have taken a frightful leap into a chasm.

THE SHERIFF'S STORY.

The account given by Sheriff Haslett is as follows:

"For several days myself, B. F. Brubaker, of Raleigh, N. C., the chief detective of the Seaboard Air Line road, have been working on this matter. It was reported to us over a week ago that an attempt would be made to wreck the night train out of Atlanta. We have been laying for them, as it were, and last night we succeeded in bagging our game.

"Just after dark, last night, J. T. Byrd, John Oaks, the detective and myself went out to the trestle, about four miles from town, it having been reported to us that the time for wrecking the train had arrived. We stationed Byrd and Oaks on one side of the river and the detective and myself on the other. About half an hour before the Atlanta train was due the wreckers were heard coming down the track and struck the trestle.

"The trestle is 450 feet long and 50 feet high. They walked on to the trestle and stopped about 150 feet from the side we were on and went to work loosening bolts, etc.

"That was sufficient warning to us, and we proceeded to close in on them. I had them both handcuffed together in a twinkling. They had a crowbar, two blocks and two rocks that they were using to throw the rails out of line. There was two of them, John Dalton, a young man about 22 years old, and Tom Patterson, a man about 28 years old.

"Dalton lived on a farm about a half mile from the trestle. He is an unmarried man. Patterson is a married man with a family, and lives about one mile from the trestle. The detective asked them who they were and what they were doing. Patterson replied that he was working on the section and was fixing the trestle.

"It was not long until the train came along. The detective waived it down and we all boarded the train for Lawrenceville. There were four coaches full of people and the news of our capture and the circumstances spread like wildfire through the train and caused great excitement. I verily believe that if the distance had been ten miles, instead of four, to Lawrenceville there would have been a lynching.

McKINLEY TURNED DOWN

By Negro Methodists of Tennessee In Annual Conference.

At Saturday's session of the African Methodist Episcopal conference of Tennessee, in Chattanooga, the committee on the "state of the union" reported a resolution indorsing the national administration, especially the gold standard and the foreign policy of the president. The resolution raised a storm of objections and a heated discussion followed. The trend of the discussion was that the negro had nothing to gain from a further affiliation with the Republican or any other party. The resolution was then voted down by a decided majority.

Nashville Gets Gun That Initiated Spanish-American War.

The gun from which the first shot in the Spanish-American war was fired has reached Nashville, Tenn., which is to be its permanent home. It is a Hotchkiss rapid fire one-pounder, and comes from the gunboat Nashville, which sent a shot over the bow of the Spanish merchant vessel Buena Ventura.

BOXER LEADERS ARE SUICIDING

Two of the Most Prominent Are Already Reported Dead.

MINISTER WU IS NOTIFIED

Prince Tuan Has Been Censured and May Be Next to Go.

The Chinese minister at Washington has received a dispatch stating that Kang Yi, a member of the cabinet with Yung Lu and one of the anti-foreign leaders, whose punishment was demanded by the powers, is dead; also that Yu Hsien, the late governor of Shan Si, who is said to have been responsible for the death of many missionaries, has committed suicide. Minister Wu regards this act as the result of the disfavor which the high officials receive from the throne. The text is as follows:

"Cablegram from Viceroy Chang Ti Tung, dated October 25th, states that governor of Shan Si has reported that Kang Yi died on October 18th; that Yu Hsien, late governor of Shansi, has committed suicide by swallowing gold leaf, and Prince Tuan has not been permitted to accompany the court.

"Cablegram, dated October 24th, from Director General Sheng, states that an imperial decree has been issued directing Prince Ching and Earl Li to fix and submit for approval the several penalties to be inflicted on those princes and ministers that ought to be punished. He adds that Kang Yi has died of sickness, and that Prince Tuan and Prince Chwang have not been allowed to accompany the court to Shansi."

The death of Kang Yi is an important event, as he is one of the ringleaders whose punishment was demanded by the powers. He held the position of assistant grand secretary and president of the civil board, and also was one of the six Chinese statesmen making up the privy council, or cabinet, which is the body nearest the throne. Although the dispatch to Mr. Wu says only that Kang Yi "died" on the 18th instant, it is thought that this "death" was the natural result of the disgrace which has overtaken the anti-foreign and boxer element.

Governor Yu's method of suicide, by swallowing gold leaf, in unique in China. It is a means by which high personages take their life, the gold leaf being representative of their high station. The leaf forms a congealed ball in canals of the body and brings death from suffocation.

Minister Wu's advices received Friday also show that Prince Tuan has been visited with severe censure from the throne, and to such an extent that it would be no surprise if he followed the course of Kang Yi and Yu. He has been prevented from accompanying the imperial court to Sinan-Fu, and remains at Shansi, cut off from further influence on the throne. It is expected that he will be banished, which to a prince of the blood is worse than decapitation, and under the Chinese idea of propriety, suicide is likely to be his end.

A "NAMELESS" BILL

Is Presented In Georgia Legislature and Creates a Sensation.

Senator Hardaway, of Thirty-sixth district, exploded a bomb in the Georgia senate chamber Friday morning by introducing a bill to amend the law for the punishment of assaults upon women. The bill caused a sensation.

When Clerk Hansell read the document and read the words developing the unique idea of Mr. Hardaway there was for a moment doubtful silence, then every man's eye sought his neighbor's and there succeeded an excited though orderly little buzz.

Mr. Hardaway's idea is to apply an unusual correction to the evil.

Lawyers among the legislators say that he has undertaken what, under our law, is an impossibility without a constitutional amendment, for the constitution prohibits the legislature from imposing what it calls "cruel and unusual punishment." The bill was referred.

SENATOR SULLIVAN SUED.

Young Woman Says He Promised to Marry Her, But Has Balked.

A suit for $50,000 damages for breach of promise against United States Senator W. V. Sullivan, of Mississippi, was filed in the District of Columbia superior court Friday afternoon by Mae Lucy Leeton, of Oxford, Miss. The plaintiff in her affidavit alleges that she, "an unmarried woman, at the request of the defendant, undertook and promised to marry him and the defendant undertook and promised to marry the plaintiff, which he without cause or right has refused to do."

HUNTINGTON'S SUCCESSOR.

Charles M. Hays Slated For President of Southern Pacific.

Charles H. Tweed, of the Southern Pacific railroad, stated Friday afternoon that Charles M. Hays had been selected for the presidency of the company. He said that Mr. Hays would assume the new office about January 1st, and that he would have his headquarters in San Francisco. Mr. Tweed added that the other officers of the Southern Pacific would probably retain their present positions.

Negro Hanged In South Carolina Makes Exonerating Confession.

Warby Wine, a negro, was hanged at Orangeburg, S. C., Friday for the murder of C. J. Paulling, near Fort Motte.

Governor McSweeney commuted the sentence of Major Green, the colored man who was to have been hanged for the same murder. Wine confessed a couple of days ago and exonerated Green.

GUILT PURSUED THEM

ELOPERS FOUND THE WORLD TOO SMALL.

This Couple Couldn't Find a Hiding Place on Earth—A Divorce Wanted—Arrest Averted a Bloody Tragedy.

"I never knew until now how small this world is and what little chance a person has of hiding in it," wrote Mrs. Julia Falcone of 552 Second avenue, New York, to her well-to-do tailor husband, who had sent her to Europe for her health. His brother, Giovanni Falcone, it is alleged, had found her visiting the Paris fair with Guiseppi Cavalieri, her husband's barber.

Falcone has brought suit for absolute divorce and has sued Cavalieri, who is wealthy and lives at 205 East Thirtieth street, for $30,000 damages for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

Falcone began to patronize Cavalieri's barber shop two years ago, and soon became friendly with the barber. Cavalieri often called at Falcone's house, and, according to her husband's complaint, became infatuated with Mrs. Falcone. She reciprocated his affection, it is said, and grew cold toward her husband, who declares that for two years his wife cooked the barber's dinner and sent it to his shop. At the time the husband did not know this.

Mrs. Falcone complained that her health was undermined. Her husband bought her a ticket for the steamship Patria, and she sailed for Marseilles April 10. Three weeks later the husband swears he received a letter from his brother, who lives in France, saying he had seen his wife at the Paris exposition with Cavalieri.

Falcone, a short time ago, received information that Cavalieri was coming back to this country to dispose of his house, and in the future would live abroad. He also received a letter from his wife stating she had run off with the barber because she loved him and no longer cared for her husband.

Cavalieri arrived in New York a few days ago. The husband obtained an order for his arrest from Judge Dugro, and he was lodged in Ludlow street jail. He is now held under $1,000 bonds to await the outcome of the suit.

A. J. Oishei of 302 Broadway, the husband's lawyer, told a reporter that Cavalieri's arrest saved his life, as his client was waiting for him in a hallway, intending to shoot him on sight

Rich Men Too Greedy.

If I had my way there would be a law requiring men to retire from business as soon as they gain a competency, says a writer in the New York Press. Our population is increasing so rapidly that there is nothing for the newcomers to do. The aged encumber the ground. We don't want the dear old veterans to die, but to retire to ease and comfort on the interest of their investments. What a happy jolly, contented world this would be if the successful man should step down and out at 50 and give the boys a chance. But he will never do it. He works harder at 60 than at 40, harder at 70 than at 30. It is a kind of insanity. The poor, starved, friendless creature is obliged to toil on and die in his poverty, but the rich man, the fortunate millionaire, toils on because his soul is filled with greed for gold and dies in his riches poorer than the other.

Growth of the Button Industry.

The shell or button industry on the upper Mississippi river is growing to enormous proportions. The crew of the Gen. Barnard have had occasion to observe this. They report that on their down trip between La Crosse, Wis., and Clarkesville, Mo., they counted 1,627 men and women in the main channel of the river engaged in getting out shells from the stream. About a year ago they counted only 716. Of course there are a great many in the sloughs behind the islands, etc., that were not counted. They estimate that no less than 5,000 people earn a living gathering shells. Just below Dubuque 120 were counted in one patch. Button factories have been established in every town along the river and in Muscatine there are twenty-two. Five or six steamboats of 100 tons capacity do nothing else but tow shells.

Yale Graduates.

Of the graduates of Yale university from 1895 to 1899 only 29 per cent were from New England, while 38 per cent were from the middle Atlantic states, 22 per cent from the north central states and 7 per cent from the South. It is also a striking fact that a large proportion of the graduates adopt business careers. At the beginning of the century a mere handful became business men, while now the percentage is one-third, another third entering the law.

Crusade Against English Sparrows.

Rufus Hendrick of Wakefield about a year ago began a crusade against the English sparrows of that town, and through the co-operation of boys with guns he has managed to destroy 6,000 birds and 6,500 eggs. He began with $30, raised by subscription, and offered the boys 3 cents for each bird killed and $1 per hundred for eggs taken from the nests. His fund was soon exhausted, but he succeeded in raising more money.

Found a Submarine Volcano.

The British cruiser Ringarooma, while practicing recently off the New Hebrides, lost a torpedo, which sunk suddenly at seventeen fathoms. Three divers attempted to descend and recover it, but were unable, as they came upon a submarine volcano in activity. The water below the surface was boiling hot; the men bled from the ears and the nose, and their diving dress was injured by the heat.

WATCH FOR ST. LOUIS.

It Will be Manufactured for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

Already novel features and schemes for attractions at the St. Louis fair of 1903 are being planned. One of these already announced will be a mammoth watch. It will lie on its back, having a polished metal case just like the ordinary watch, and will be so large and roomy inside that people will be able to walk around in it among the moving wheels. It will be nearly 75 feet in diameter and more than 40 feet high, with neat little stairways running all about it, and all the wheels properly protected, so that no one can be hurt. The balance wheel will weigh a ton and the "hair spring" will be as thick as a man's wrist. It will take about two minutes for the balance wheel to swing around and back again. It will be pivoted on two enormous agate blocks, substitutes for diamonds, and will be made of brass. One of the greatest difficulties will be in getting the balance spring of the size and strength that can stand the strain and keep its elasticity. The main spring, of course, will be an enormous affair, something over 300 feet in length and made of 10 spring steel bands two inches thick, bound together, as it would be impossible to roll so large a piece, either in thickness or length. The projector of the enterprise claims, of course, that the scheme has an educational side. Those who visit the watch will be given instructions, with practical illustrations on the care of a watch. Guides will point out and name every part, with its uses and its proportionate movement. The watch will be wound by steam regularly at a certain hour during the day, to impress upon watch carriers the necessity of a watch having regular hours, whether its owner has or not.—Philadelphia Record.

He Shortened It.

A pompous butler one day announced some callers as follows: "Mr. Edwin Algernon Pembroke Penny, Mrs. Edwin Algernon Pembroke Penny and Miss Maud Victoria Penny." Other arrivals were announced at equal length and with equal solemnity. Before the next "at home" the master of the house suggested that so much repetition and elaboration was unnecessary; that he would prefer to have his guests announced more briefly. The magnificent being bowed grave assent and said nothing. But his feelings had been wounded and he was, unlike most of his kind, as clever as he was majestic. As before, the first to arrive were Mr. and Mrs. Penny and Miss Penny. When they had ascended the stairs they paused an instant at the drawing room door; the next they heard themselves briskly announced to their dismayed hosts in the comprehensive formula, "Threepence."—Wellesley Magazine.

HOW WEAK CHILDREN ARE MADE STRONG, VIGOROUS AND WELL

LITTLE MARY McBAY
EVERETT HALLOWS

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hallows, of Peckham St., Globe Village, Fall River, Mass., have cause to thank Dr. Greene's Nervura for restoring to health, and probably preserving the life of their little son. Almost from infancy Everett Hallows was troubled with indigestion and nervous troubles, and nothing seemed to help him. Finally Dr. Greene's Nervura was recommended and tried with success. A few bottles were sufficient to effect a cure, and to-day the little one is enjoying the best of health. By the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura the sickly child was transformed into a happy, hearty, robust boy.

Dr. Greene's Nervura | for the Blood and Nerves

Thousands of other children can thank Dr. Greene and his wonderful remedy for the strength and health they enjoy. Children to whom it is given have less sickness, better health, better growth, and longer and more vigorous lives. Parents should realize that it is their duty to give it to every child who is not in perfect health. There are no diseases more dreaded by parents than fits, epilepsy, and St. Vitus' dance. Yet no child would be troubled by them if Dr. Greene's Nervura were given when the first symptoms appear.

Charles L. McBay, a highly esteemed police officer, who resides at 14 Myrtle St., New Bedford, Mass., says:

"About two years ago my little daughter became run down in health and suffered from St. Vitus' dance. Soon after she was prostrated by rheumatism, which severely affected her low limbs.

"After trying various remedies without obtaining relief, she began taking Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and experienced immediate benefit. She continued its use, and after taking five bottles her rheumatism was practically cured. Her appetite returned, her pains disappeared, she was again able to walk without lameness, her general health was restored, and she was able to attend school and to play like other children."

Dr. Greene's Nervura, blood and nerve remedy, is the prescription and discovery of the well-known Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th Street, New York City, who is the most successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic complaints, and he can be consulted in any case, free of charge, personally or by letter.

Censorship in Siberia.

Hereafter officials who wish to edit books, write for newspapers and indulge their literary taste in Siberia, must first secure permission from the ministry of the interior, after having clearly indicated the precise nature and scope of their proposed literary flights. This rule is not intended to check genuine literary talent, but to curb crude criticism and strictures launched on pseudo-literary craft. Censorship, so rigorous elsewhere, is scarcely noticed in Siberia, so light is its hand. Stil it exists, and may at any time be enforced more strictly when necessary.

ELEVEN MEN WERE KILLED

And Several More Injured in a Mine Explosion.

CONFLICTING REPORTS OF THE CAUSE

Mine Owners Say It Was Caused by Dynamite, and Men Say It Was Due to Fire Damp.

At 1:30 o'clock Saturday morning a terrific explosion occurred at the Southern Coal and Transportation company's mines at Berrysburg, six miles from Philippi, W. Va. Eleven dead bodies have been taken from the mines. The mine owners refuse to discuss the explosion, saying it was caused by too heavy a charge of powder being used. The miners say it was caused by fire damp. It is not known how many were killed and injured. Not until roll call can this be determined. As soon as the mine had cleared sufficiently rescuers began the removal of the dead. The following had been taken out dead: Lewis Pack, Andrew Blackwell, Richard Johnston, Albert Brown, Peck Adams, Joseph Jackson, Lawrence Duncan, Ivan Petroch, Poznauski, Walter Walenski and Ollie Franks. The public boss on duty and his brother, Will Merks, were taken out unconscious and cannot possibly recover.

COST OF MAIL SERVICE.

Second Assistant Postmaster-General Submits Annual Report.

The annual report of W. S. Shallenberger, second assistant postmaster-general, was made public Saturday. It shows that on June 30, last, the annual rate of expenditure for inland mails was $55,146,060, for foreign service $2,014,538; total expenditures, $57,160,598.

The experiment of box delivery on star routes, whereby persons along the line could have the mail brought from the next office by the star route carried and left in a box erected by such persons, has worked satisfactorily so far, and the next star route contracts will provide for such service, increasing the mail facilities in the rural districts at a moderate increase in cost.

GALVESTON FORTIFICATIONS.

Board of Army Engineers to Recommend Rehabilitation.

It is learned from an unofficial source that the board of army engineers which recently sat in Washington will recommend the rehabilitation of all the Galveston fortifications and the repairing of and raising of the jetties. The jetties cost about $7,000,000 and the fortifications $1,500,000. The total damage to all by the storm was about $1,750,000. The work which the engineers will recommend will cost about $3,500,000.

Gould Will Pay Court's Debts.

On the authority of an "intimate friend of the late Jay Gould," the New York World announces that the debts of Count Boni de Castellane will be paid in full by the Goulds at once." The scandal attending the claims, amounting to $4,000,000, againft the spend-thrift husband of Countess Anna is to be stopped. A lump sum probably will be contributed by George, Helen, Howard, Edwin and Frank Gould to wipe out these debts, as they consider the honor of the Gould family is involved. The total value of the Gould estate is now over $125,000,000."

Killed by Hazing.

Thomas Finlay Brown, 12 years old, is dead from injuries received while being hazed at the Porter Military Academy, Charleston, S. C. Brown was new at the academy, and the older boys, following their former custom, dropped him into a cemented swimming basin twelve feet deep. The basin was dry at the time, and the lad received internal injuries from the fall. Before he died he did not give the names of the cadets who had illtreated him, and it is said no action will be taken in the matter.

Steamer Goes Down.

The steamer Hill City, plying between St. Louis and New Orleans, struck a hidden obstruction in Tennessee chute just below Memphis Sunday morning and sunk. The water covers the lower deck, but the steamer lies in a good position and can easily be raised. The steamer had a full cargo, thirty passengers and a crew of forty. All the people got safely ashore in the yawls.

ALABAMA NEWS NOTES.

Over 75,000 spindles for the manufacture of cotton yarns above those now at service are expected to be set to work by the first of the new year in Alabama. These will include the Lowe mill, 10,000; the addition to the Dallas mill, 25,000, at Huntsville; and the Adelaide, the Anniston yarn and the Woodstock mills, 10,000 each, at Anniston; and the Opelika mill, at Opelika, 10,000. Work on the Lowe plant at Huntsville is being crowded and as soon as the building is finished the machinery will be ready for installation. Already the machinery, which includes also 700 looms, has arrived for the Dallas mill addition and is being set up this week. The machinery is practically all in in the Adelaide mill at Anniston and has been tested during the present week. The other two mills are well on the way to completion.

Young Man Shot Near Selma.

Young Archie Houston, while going through Brantly's quarter, five miles from Selma, to his home in Autauga, was shot in the back, about forty No. 5 shot taking effect. He was hurried by his colored driver to Burnsville. As some of the shot entered the cavity of the body he may be seriously hurt. Justice Burns is close on the trail of the young scoundrels, who have given the officers some trouble before. Some young negroes about the Brantley place are under suspicion. Only one arrest has been made. The sons of Viney are thought to be leaders of the gang.

Prehistoric Being Unearthed.

Fred Green, a lumber man, while excavating an Indian mound on Seven Mile Island, a few miles below Florence, unearthed a skeleton of a prehistoric Indian, which would have been a valuable acquisition to the Smithsonian Institute if it had been properly handled. The forehead of the skeleton was encircled by a band of copper and two large mica rings were found inside the skull. An earthern kettle, a foot and a half in diameter, was found resting over the skeleton, while the remains of a number of smaller bones were found in the grave.

Strike Declared Off.

The strike at the steel plant of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company at Ensley and the strike at the Bessemer rolling mills of the same company have been declared off and the strikers returned to work Monday.

STATE BREVITIES.

The oil mill at Lafayette will begin operations one day next week. This is one of the best mills in the south, the machinery being of the most modern and up-to-date kind. It cost some $50,000.

A call has been issued by A. A. Jones, secretary of the Retail Grocers' Protective association of Montgomery, for a meeting of the grocers of Alabama to be held on Thursday next to organize a state association.

Confederate veterans of Pike county held a meeting at McQuagg's Mill and organized for the purpose of holding annual reunions. Thomas Murphree, one of the best-known of those who followed the stars and bars, was chosen commander.

Mr. Thomas Jones, of Greenville, has in his possession a family Bible brought from England, which has his family record in it for nearly 300 years. It is an old relic, most highly prized. This mother's Bible has been handed down from generation to generation.

The farmers are in a better condition financially this year in Jackson county than they have been for years. They all have made good crops and have money. They are putting in a good wheat crop now for another year. Cotton is about all gathered and has turned out much better than was expected.

The Director of the Census, in announcing the population of the United States, made a statement, which, in part, follows:

"The figures of the population are the result of a careful computation by means of the latest tabulating machines. It has been the custom heretofore to make a rough count, using the names on the schedules as a basis, but in this decade it was determined to avoid the errors likely to arise from a preliminary count, and also the necessary expense and delay incident to such a proceeding. The plan was adopted of verifying the count at once by the use of the electrical contrivances referred to above.

"The early completion of the tabulation of the population of the States enables the Census Office to submit the figures to Congress as soon as it convenes in December, thus giving that body the information necessary to dispose of the question of the reapportionment of Representatives at the coming session.

"The cost of the administration of the bureau up to this date, including the expense incident to the preliminary work, as well as the cost of the enumeration and supervision, is $6,361,961, of which over $4,000,000 has been expended for supervision and enumeration."

Railroads For Porto Rico.

The Executive Council at San Juan, Porto Rico, has granted a franchise to the North American Company to build 300 miles of a system of railroads in the interior of the island and to operate the same. The work is to be completed in three years.

French Warships at Annapolis.

The French man-of-war Cecille and Suchet arrived at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and received the usual salute from the Naval Academy officers.

THANKSGIVING DAY SET.

The Annual Proclamation Issued by President McKinley.

He Designates November 29, as a Day of Thanks to a Kind Providence For National Blessings.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—The following Thanksgiving Day proclamation has been issued:

"It has pleased Almighty God to bring our Nation in safety and honor through another year. The works of religion and charity have everywhere been manifest. Our country through all its extent has been blessed with abundant harvests. Labor and the great industries of the people have prospered beyond all precedent. Our commerce has spread over the world. Our power and influence in the cause of freedom and enlightenment have extended over distant seas and lands. The lives of our official representatives and many of our people in China have been marvellously preserved. We have been generally exempt from pestilence and other great calamities and even the tragic visitation which overwhelmed the city of Galveston made evident the sentiments of sympathy and Christian charity, by virtue of which we are one united people.

"Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, President of the United States, do hereby appoint and set apart Thursday, November 29, next, to be observed by all the people of the United States, at home and abroad, as a day of thanksgiving and praise to Him who holds the nations in the hollow of His hand. I recommend that they gather in their several places of worship and devoutly give Him thanks for the prosperity wherewith He has endowed us, for seed time and harvest, for the valor, devotion and humanity of our armies and navies, and for all His benefits to us as individuals and as a Nation; and that they humbly pray for the continuance of His divine favor, for concord and amity with other nations, and for righteousness and peace in all our ways.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington this 29th day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand and nine hundred, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-fifth.

"WILLIAM McKINLEY.

"JOHN HAY, Secretary of State."

FATAL MINE EXPLOSION.

An Employe's Slight Error Results in Death and Destruction.

Wilkesbarre, Penn. (Special).—A tremendous explosion of gas occurred in No. 1 shaft of the Kingston Coal Company in Edwardsville in which five men were killed and six others were badly burned. The dead are Peter Nsovige, Michael Galahaus, Adam Waynoles and Frank Macalonski, miners, and David Evans, a driver boy. When the injured men were brought to the surface by the rescuers the skin hung in shreds from their bodies. The work of rescue was dangerous, as "after damp" had accumulated. The first rescuing party that went down the mine was driven back and two in the party had to be carried out. The accident was due to an employe who diverted the air course unwittingly.

BANDITS RAID A VILLAGE.

Blow Open a Safe at Roundhead, Ohio, and Fire on Citizens.

Bellefontaine, Ohio (Special).—A gang of mounted robbers raided the village of Roundhead, fourteen miles from here and got away with considerable booty.

A terrific explosion aroused the residents and citizens, who appeared on the street and were shot at by the robbers, who finally rode away toward Lima, firing as they went.

The heaviest loss was at Mertz & May's store, where the safe was blown open and $400 secured. Six hundred dollars in bank notes was scattered out of their reach by the explosion.

GREAT FIRE SWEEPS AMOY.

Many Blocks in Chinese Coast City Wiped Out.

London (By Cable).—A great fire has destroyed 150 houses in Amoy, China.

The destroyed houses were all in the business section, near the American and British settlement.

British, Russian and Japanese marines were landed with engines and fought the flames heroically.

General Lee Ordered From Cuba.

The army division of Cuba was discontinued and the Department of Cuba established by an order of President McKinley. General Leonard Wood is placed in command of the new department. General Fitzhugh Lee is ordered to command the Department of the Missouri, with headquarters at Omaha.

A Mother Murders Her Son.

Clifford Cawthon, sixteen years old, was found dead in his bed, at the home of his widowed mother, in Chattanooga, Tenn. His head had been hacked to pieces with a hatchet. Mrs. Cawthon, according to the police, confessed later that she killed her son "because he was bad and smoked cigarettes."

Russian Ambassador in Washington.

Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador to the United States, has returned to Washington.

SCIENTIFIC AND INDUSTRIAL.

The eucalyptus trees in Australia penetrate from 180 to 220 feet into the soil with their roots, which absorb all moisture within a radius of thirty to sixty feet.

An electric railway, to be 400 miles long and to cost $14,000,000, is to be constructed, with the approbation of the Government to the extent of $6,000,000, connecting the States of Tobasco, Yucatan, Chiapas and Campeche, Mexico.

The formation of oil in olives is discussed by a writer in the Bulletin of the Italian Botanical Society. He decides that the oil is not a result of the degeneration of protoplasm, but is formed when this substance is in its most active condition. He further adds that the presence of a small quantity of an oily substance in active protoplasm is a universal phenomenon. This oil is extracted from the pulp of the fruit, and not from the seed as in the case of most other vegetable oils.

It has been suggested by MM. Desgrez and Balthazard, in a communication to the Paris Academie des Science, that peroxide of soda could be used advantageously to regenerate the air in submarine boats, and in other diving apparatus. This substance when dissolved in water decomposes, oxygen being liberated, and a solution of caustic soda produced. This solution is, of course, a powerful absorbent of carbonic acid gas, and is also said to destroy all alkaloids which may be expired from the lungs and which give such a disagreeable odor to a crowded room insufficiently ventilated.

After a series of tests on coal with the Roentgen rays it was decided by a number of experts in Germany that the process was valueless for ash determinations. After many experiments it was found that samples tried showed great difference in regard to their permeability, the hindrance to the passage of the rays being in direct proportion to the amount of iron present. As the practical use of the Roentgen rays must determine the exact amount of ash present in the coal the method is not likely to be used.

Attention is directed in Pennsylvania to the crude and wasteful way in which coke is made in the old-fashioned "bee-hive" ovens. The nearly 20,000 ovens in active operation belch forth night and day clouds of black smoke, which could all be saved by the use of the modern by-product coke process—a European discovery extensively employed in France and Germany and introduced successfully to some extent in this country. "Bee-hive" ovens cost little to build, while scientific ovens and stills are costly. But it is predicted that the time will surely come when the scientific process will be followed, and then the cokemaker will discover that the distillates which he has been wasting are his most valuable product. The coke will then be a by-product, as it is now in gas-making, and another step will be taken towards cheapening the production of steel.

A Story of Sir William Gull.

The death of the Duke of Coburg reminds me, says a writer in London Sketch, of a story concerning him and the late Sir William Gull that I heard many years ago. When the Prince of Wales was attacked with that illness which evoked world-wide sympathy for him, the services of Sir William Jenner were, for some reason which I forget, not available, and Dr. Gull, then on the rising wave of his great eminence, was sent for. The Duke of Edinburg, on arriving in hot haste to see his stricken brother, was somewhat concerned to find a medical man in attendance who was a stranger to him. He proceeded to put to Gull a host of questions with regard to the illustrious patient, his condition, treatment, prospects of recovery, etc. Dr. Gull, in that somewhat heavy, ponderous manner which those who knew him will remember, walked over to a writing table, drew a sheet of paper toward him, and proceeded to inscribe in his remarkable caligraphy, which was, like his words, somewhat ponderous, certain words. He then handed the paper solemnly to the Sailor Prince, who read the familiar warning: "You are requested not to speak to the man at the wheel."

The Nice Young Man's Mistake.

The thoughtful young man went out to Glen Echo one evening recently, and there wasn't a thing that he could see to do for anybody's comfort that he didn't at once proceed to make an accomplished fact. He was fairly bubbling over with a desire to help his fellow man. One of his fellow men who happened to be a woman, and a young one at that, sat directly in front of him. His eye caught sight of a large spider on her fluffy back hair. He leaned forward. "Pardon me," he said quickly; "don't move; I have him. There!" And with the triumphant "there" a shriek from the young girl startled the car. The helpful young man sank back in his seat, and an auction flag wasn't a circumstance to his face for color. A wire and enamel spider dangled from the girl's disheveled hair.—Washington Post.

A Feminine Failing.

A Missouri country woman recently had her husband arrested for cruelty. He had beaten her severely, and the Judge sentenced the offender to hammer rock for the benefit of the county. When he went to work on the next morning his wife was on hand with an umbrella to keep the sun off him while he chopped up big stones into little ones with a hammer

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS

The Fad For White Wood.

There is a craze on at the present time, superinduced by the fad for colonial houses, of having white woodwork. Several years past all the fashionable houses were finished in hard wood. Now they are all painted white and papered in yellow to give the correct colonial effect, with their mahogany fournishings.

An Excellent Pickle.

Happy the housewife that has a generous and varied supply of pickles. An especially good pickle for fish and oysters is made of sliced cucumbers. Slice two dozen cucumbers half an inch thick and pour over them a strong, hot brine, allowing them to stand in it for twelve hours. The brine should be sufficiently strong to bear up an egg. At the end of the time pour off the brine and rinse the cucumbers in cold water. Put one gallon of vinegar into a preserving kettle with the cucumbers over the fire and add to it two teaspoonfuls of ground cinnamon, one teaspoonful of powdered alum, one teaspoonful of ground cloves, two saltspoonfuls of cayenne pepper, one tablespoonful of grated horseradish, one and a half tablespoonfuls of white mustard seed, one tablespoonful of ginger, one pound of sugar and one sliced garlic. Stir all together, cover and cook until the cucumbers are tender. Remove them and fill glass jars seven-eighths full of them. Fill the remaining space with the boiling vinegar and seal at once while hot.

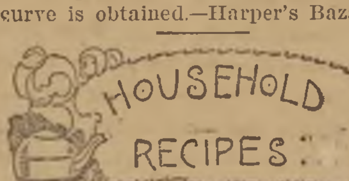
Feathers and Feather Curling.

Feather curling is a business by itself, and to excel in it requires long practice. It saves time and patience to pay some one else to do it, but a few directions will be given, for you might find yourself so situated that you would be obliged to do it yourself. Take an old feather to practice on. Buy a regular curling knife; they are kept at most hardware stores. The blade is a peculiar shape, short and narrow, and has a curve.

Have ready a teakettle of boiling water, and hold the head of the feather over the steam for a few moments. Now take the feather in both hands, and spreading out the flues to their full length, pass back and forth through the steam, but do not let it get too wet. In the same manner wave it from side to side—not up and down—for a few moments, to partially dry it. When dry enough it is ready for curling. Begin at the stem on the right side, holding the feather with the fingers of the left hand underneath and the thumb on top. The motion in curling is outward and downward, taking a few flues at a time, and the feather should be so curled that the ends are hidden or rolled under.

As the broad part of the feather is reached, the knife must extend farther out, not making as abrupt a curve. When the head is reached, a short curve is all that is required, and as you begin to curl the opposite side you change the position of the left hand; this time put the hand over the feather instead of under, but the motion of curling is the same. After both sides are curled, the stem at the head must be concealed, and this is done by "heading up." Holding the feather firmly with the thumb on top, take up a few flues, and pressing them sharply against the thumb nail, lay them over the stem.

Do the same on the opposite side, and continue to do this four times. By looking at a well-curled feather you will get a clearer idea of this, as it is something that really requires to be demonstrated. To curve the feather, place the blade of the knife underneath the stem and press against the thumb. Beginning at the base work up to the head, until the desired curve is obtained.—Harper's Bazar.



Grape Catsup—Stew five pounds of grapes over a slow fire until soft. Strain; add two and one-half pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar, one tablespoonful each of allspice, cloves, pepper and cinnamon, and one-half tablespoonful of salt. Boil until thick and bottle.

Welsh Rarebit—Place in a chafing dish or a saucepan one tablespoonful of butter, one-fourth cupful of rich cream cheese, cut into bits. Beat one egg, stir into it one teaspoonful of mustard, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a speck of cayenne. When the cheese is melted add the egg and cook until it thickens.

Diced Toast and Tomatoes—Cut dry bread into one-inch cubes, place in oven and brown thoroughly. Take two-thirds quart of finely chopped tomatoes, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful each of salt and chili (Mexican pepper). Boil ten minutes, and pour over diced toast. Serve immediately with fish rolls.

Tomato Custards—Mix one pint of stewed tomatoes with a fourth of a cup of bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of finely chopped onion, one teaspoonful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper; pour into a buttered baking dish; beat four eggs, add quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of sugar and a cup and a half of milk; stir over hot water until thickened slightly, pour over the tomato mixture, bake in a slow oven until set—about three-quarters of an hour.

THE SENTINEL'S MISTAKE.

We were somewhat surprised at the leading article which appeared in the Sentinel of last week, under the heading, "Well Paid for the Work." As to the rather unkind and discourteous references in said article to THE CHRONICLE's "write up" of the Girls' Industrial School, we care nothing; but our esteemed neighbor goes further and assumes that we were not only paid, but that we were "well paid for the work."

We might reply at length to our neighbor's leader, but we can see no good to come to the girls' school by a controversy between two newspapers, both of which profess to be friends of the school. Our esteemed neighbor, the Sentinel, claims to have done a great deal for the school, by way of devoting much of its space to frequents write ups ever since the present editor has had the control of it. This we do not gainsay. In our article on the school we endeavored to say what, in our judgment, was the proper thing to say and that which would be calculated to do the school the most good. We may have failed in this, but our neighbor does not call our attention to any injustice we have done that institution in our attempt to commend it. Really his only charge is that we have only done what it, the Sentinel, has been doing all along. But the Sentinel says it did its work GRATIS, and that we were "well paid." This is clearly and strictly assumacy on the part of the Sentinel.

Now, for the information of the Sentinel we would say that we received nothing at all for our article on the girls' school. No attempt was made by any friend of the school to employ us to write up the school, and the management of THE CHRONICLE certainly never intended to charge for what it did. Friends of the school in Montevallo did subscribe for a thousand copies of that issue of the paper, to be circulated by them for the benefit of the school. For these we only charged actual cost of the extra numbers of that issue. So, really all that we get out of the "write up" is the pleasure which comes from the consciousness of having done what we did in this matter for the good of this institution, and the hope and belief that we have not wholly failed in this.

The girls' school is an institution worthy the support and admiration of every good citizen in Shelby county. THE CHRONICLE and the Sentinel will unite, we feel sure, from this time forward in doing all they can to advance the interests of the school, and we don't believe there will be any "maybe" about it. We write the above lest the article of the Sentinel might do an injustice to the school.

MACK'S ADDRESS: WASHINGTON.

A representative of THE CHRONICLE, who went over to Birmingham Tuesday to see the fair and read the bulletins, sent word to the office devil yesterday afternoon that McKinley had carried the whole United States, the Pacific Ocean and portions of the Oriental Kingdom, and for us to state the fact to our readers and go to press. We, the one left behind, sent word back that Shelby could be included in this aggregation and that she went there by a big majority.

The result of the election, as gathered from the press despatches of yesterday, indicates large majorities for McKinley in many of the heretofore considered doubtful states, and correspondingly small majorities for Bryan in states previously ceded the democratic party. McKinley has received 265 electoral votes and Bryan 143, with Idaho, Kansas. Kentucky, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming yet unreported, which states contain 41 electoral votes. Bryan probably carries his home state by a small majority.

In Shelby county the vote cast was small, but the majority was "big"—for McKinley. Mckinley's majority in the county will doubtless exceed 700. Bryan carried only about five beats in the county—4, 5, 11, 13, 16—and that by slim majorities. Bowie's election was a foregone conclusion, but exact figures could not be obtained up to the time of going to press. Alabama will have nine democratic representatives in the next congress.

Next week we hope to publish the full vote as cast in the county.

LET THE SYSTEM BE CHANGED.

Under the head, "Electoral College Absurdity," the Age-Herald gives expression to some timely and sensible thoughts on the senseless and absurd plan of voting for president of the United States. There can be no wise and good reason why, instead of voting direct for president and vice-president, we should have to vote for a long list of men whom we do not, in many instances, know, called electors. There is always more or less confusion attending this plan of giving expression to our choice of chief magistrate. This is strictly a government by the people, and the masses of people who compose the government prefer to go at these things pertaining to government in a plain and direct way. They are not partial to any plan by which they approach their duties as sovereigns by means of a medium.

The demand from the people for direct action by the people is becoming more and more prominent and positive. The people do not like the system of electing United States senators by the legislature, and the demand for a change in this is becoming so great as to be almost irresistable. There is no doubt but in the case of voting for president the system is "calculated to bring in a minority president," as suggested by the Age-Herald. Take for instance Alabama in the election last Tuesday; there is no one who would contend for a moment that anything like a full and free expression by ballot was given. The result in Alabama was a foregone conclusion. Many, many, who were interested in Mr. Bryan's election in Alabama did not vote, for the reason they knew that the Bryan electors would be elected. Now Mr. Bryan and the democratic party were entitled to the full strength of the party, expressed by every individual voter. Why not? As it was in Alabama so it was, to a greater or less extent, in nearly every state in the union. According to the republicans own count Mr. Tilden received a popular majority over Hayes of more than a quarter of a million in the presidential election of 1876. We say, let us have, as soon as practicable and expedient, a change all along the line indicated. It is well fair and will give general satisfaction to the sovereign voters. Nothing short of this will.

OUR state legislature will now soon convene. There is a strong and enthusiastic demand all over the state for much new legislation. We must all admit that there is much reason for new legislation, growing out of the changed and growing condition of our state. And there are many defective and bad laws on our statute books that ought to be wiped off. Every citizen of Alabama is, or should be, deeply interested in the work of our legislature. And we should not sit idly by and allow that body to pass such laws as they see fit and do nothing and say nothing to make known to them our wishes in these matters. The members of the legislature go to the halls of legislation as our representatives. We can't all go in person; we must be content to send a representative. He goes there to do what a majority of his constituents desire done. How is he to do this unless we keep him posted from time to time as to what we wish him to do. All wideawake counties and communities have their legislative committees to look after legislation. Let Shelby county not be behind in this important matter.

THERE is much talk that the stock laws passed by the last legislature will be repealed by the coming legislature, and we are informed by persons who were present during the recent political canvass of the county, that the populist representative for Shelby county and senator for this senatorial district stand committed to repeal. The stock law, like many other laws, is a vexed question. We have always contended that a stock law for some communities and conditions is eminently the proper thing, while in other communities and under other conditions and circumstances, it is a very wrong and damaging thing and can not be condemned in too strong terms. It is readily seen that to give those who want and need it a stock law, without at the same time thrusting upon probably a larger class something which they do not want nor need, and which would prove a great burden and hardship, is one of the nicest of nice points. When it comes to stock and dog laws we must confess that we don't envy the average representative his position.

THE state fair in Birmingham is proving a grand success. The opening was fully up to the highest expectations of the management, so we understand. Great crowds are flocking to the Magic City from every quarter of the country. The exhibits are the best and most extensive that have ever been known in a fair in Alabama. This will not only do Birmingham and Jefferson county good, but all Alabama will share in the benefit.

THE CHRONICLE with this issue begins the sixteenth year of its existence, being fifteen years of age on its last birthday. Old enough to stand alone and receive the patronage of the best people of Shelby county.

On account of the Alabama State Fair, Birmingham, November 1st to 10th, the Southern railway will sell tickets from all points on its lines within the state of Alabama, also from Atlanta, Ga.; Rome, Ga.; Dalton, Ga.; Columbus, Miss., and intermediate points to Birmingham and return at rate of one fare for the round trip, plus 50 cents admission to the Fair grounds. Tickets to be sold daily October 31st to November 10th with final limit to return November 11. Call on Southern railway ticket agent for further information.

Hon. J. T. Leeper is on a visit to Birmingham for a week to take in the fair.

Max Lefkovits, one of our prominent merchants, visited Bessemer Saturday.

"Sewing Bees" is getting to be quite a fashionable fad among some of our young people.

Gents, boys and children, go to W. E. Merrell's for clothing.

J. F. Norris, of the Advocate, and THE CHRONICLE typo took in the state fair Saturday.

Rev. S. R. Lester, of Springville, is visiting his many friends and relatives here this week.

We had two interesting sermons by Rev. W. I. Sinnott on last Sabbath at the Presbyterian church.

Be sure to attend the Sunday school rally next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Methodist church.

Ladies, go to W. E. Merrell's, Shelby, Ala., for fine dress goods.

Miss Alma Duran, a charming young lady of Birmingham, is visiting relatives and friends here this week.

Rev. Mr. Upshaw, of Roanoke, delivered a very interesting sermon at the Baptist church in this city last Thursday night.

The state fair is quite an attraction for our people this week. A party of about twenty left for the Magic City the first of the week.

Hon. John A. Edwards and his charming daughter, Miss Olie, of Childersburg, were visiting friends and relatives here last week.

Why can't you say something good and cheering about your neighbor, and thus make his pathway brighter? Try it and see if it does not make your own life happier.

The Shelby County Farmers' Insurance Association will meet in the courthouse on Saturday, the 17th, at 10 a. m. The general agent and others will lecture. Public invited.

THE CHRONICLE is issuing a thousand copies each week and is one of the best advertising mediums in the county, a fact that the business men of our county are not slow in recognizing.

The Hall Drug Company moved last week into their handsome new store on West Main street, and now have their stock tastily arranged and are now ready to supply their customers with all articles handled in their line.

Mr. J. B. Elliott has purchased the vacant lot where Judge J. S. Leeper's residence formerly stood and is preparing to build a handsome home thereon. We are always glad to welcome such citizens to our town as "Uncle Jeff."

For the past two weeks or more there has been a great deal of indiscriminate shooting on our streets at night. This is against the law of the state and of the city, and is dangerous to life. We hope the officials will take the matter up and see that it is stopped.

The enterprising firm of J. P. Pearson & Co. have just completed their new brick store on corner of Main and College streets and moved into same and are now opening and displaying a very handsome stock of general merchandise, mention of which they give you elsewhere in this paper. Their new building and stock all present a very attractive appearance, and from the prices they are publishing show that they intend to give the public such inducements as will merit its patronage. Read their advertisement and when you are in our town call on them.

Our school is still growing, both in attendance and in popular favor. Our teachers are doing everything they can to make the school a first class success, and they are, in our opinion, succeeding most admirably. They complain of one thing, and that is that the patrons and friends of the school do not give the school the encouragement by their presence that they might. There is nothing that is so great a stimulus, both to teachers and pupils as a frequent and judicious visiting of the school by its patrons and friends. This indulged in to a certain extent proves mutually pleasant and profitable to the visitors and visited. Let us all help and encourage our school in every way possible.

The regular meeting of the city council was held in the mayor's office on last Monday evening. Only a few claims were passed upon, and the meeting adjourned until Thursday night, when the report of the city tax collector will be passed upon. We are informed that the October collection of the city taxes has been good. But there still remains uncollected the back taxes for two or three years. It is to be hoped that the collector will be able to report all of these collected by Thursday night's meeting of the council. We are informed that of the amount of back tax uncollected there is only about $30, which the collector claims is uncollectable, and we trust this amount may be reduced by the time his final report is filed.

STOLEN.

Lastly we cordially invite all the friends of truth, justice and righteousness—yea, whosoever will, let him come. Come one, come all. We have taken for this service only a few features of the topic, but hope to complete in subsequent rallies. God bless our Sunday schools.

A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY.

BY T. K. ROBERTS.

To do what? To minister to one of God's suffering children and thereby please Him and demonstrate your love and gratitude. How? I will tell you During the summer God gave me and my beloved the precious privilege of visiting a young lady who has been a helpless invalid for five years. Four years ago, when I was first stricken down, father told me about this dear girl and her intense suffering. I resolved at once to visit her as soon as possible. From those who knew her best I learned of her love to God and her beautiful christian life. Like Antipas, she is one of God's faithful martyrs. After my first visit, I wrote her a note requesting a sketch of her life. From her response I copy the following:

"My mother died when I was two years old. After her death my father went out West, and I know but little of him, though he was still living the last I heard of him, about one year ago. My grandmother took me at my mother's death and tenderly cared for me. While going to school, at the age of fifteen, I had an attack of spinal meningitis, but recovered sufficiently to attend a protracted meeting the following month. While attending this meeting I obtained the hope in Christ I now have. However, I never fully recovered from that first attack, but continued to grow worse and worse until I began having convulsions. I then became unconscious, and did not know anything for eight or nine months. Finally I became blind and deaf and dumb. My sufferings were great indeed. I am a great deal better now, but still try to bear it as patiently as I possibly can."

God bless the dear child! If these words do not stir your hearts, kind readers, I fear that my joyous undertaking is honeless. Her ability to see, hear and talk came back just in the order they departed. She can now sit up most of the day, though she can not walk a step, not even with crutches. If she had an invalid's chair of the right sort, she could get about all over the house and enjoy many sweet privileges that, for the lack of it, she is deprived of now.

A few mornings ago, while praying for her, this came into my mind:

"Write an appeal for help, have it published in the Advocate, and thus get her a chair for her next birthday."

Believing the impression came from our heavenly Father, I have gladly acted upon it. Fathers and mothers, with children healthy and strong, send me a substantial token of your gratitude and love. Young men and young ladies, put yourselves in the places of this dear sister and practice the Golden Rule. Boys and girls, this suffering girl, at your age, was well and strong like you. In a few years you may be in her condition. As you now sow you will then reap. You must help others while you are able to help, if you would be helped when you need help. To the christian people, one and all, I appeal; but especially to my personal friends. Send me a contribution at once and thereby help one invalid make another happy and so make two happy, besides yourself. Each contribution will be duly acknowledged. I thank you in advance, and earnestly pray God to do for you "exceeding abundantly above all I can ask or think."

Who will be the first? God bless you.

Yours in Jesus,
T. K. ROBERTS.

Horse Swapper's Convention.

The Horse Swappers' Convention, that annual conclave with the presence of which the citizens of Columbiana are favored at least once in every year, convened in this city on last Friday and remained with us through Saturday. We had occasion to observe some of the workings of this ancient body—unlike most ancient orders, its workings are not secret. Every one may be a spectator, and that free of any admission fee. And another peculiar privilege which attaches to it is that every one who has a horse to swap may be a member without any initiation fee, and all pass words and grips are dispensed with. A Hardshell Baptist and a straight-laced Presbyterian may be a member, as well as a flexible Baptist and live Methodist. There are no lines drawn or barriers erected. It is a live and working body, and we must say that it is one of the best humored bodies it has ever been our privilege to observe. Good cheer and good feeling seem to pervade it from start to finish. This characteristic feature seems to reach the animals themselves, which are indispensable factors in the workings of the body. The oldest and poorest and slowest mule seems to take on new life and to enter into the spirit and zest of the occasion. Withal the Horse Swappers' Convention is a good thing to have among you, and we shall ever welcome it to our quiet city. They are a clever set.

He came from Coosa county here several years and no better democrat ever voted than he. His remains were carried to Goodwater for burial. Peace to his ashes.

Sidney Grundy is one of the most prolific of dramatic authors. In one year he has been known to produce five plays.

Ira D. Sankey is meeting with a wonderful reception in England. Vast crowds come to listen to his gospel song services.

United States Minister Godfrey Hunter has left his post in Guatemala for a visit to the United States on leave of absence.

The Czar of Russia hates horseback riding because it gives him headaches and makes him feel, so he says, as though he had a "floating brain."

Mariano Beulliure, the famous Spanish artist, is at work on a monumental vase which the city of Buenos Ayres is to present to the Queen Regent of Spain.

James Whitcomb Riley is a great friend of former President Harrison, and, when the latter is in Indianapolis, the two generally take together a morning's walk about the residence portion of the city.

Herbert Spencer has broken his long silence by a paper on the South African question, which opposes British interference in the Boer States. For nearly fifty years Mr. Spencer has fought British colonization.

Count Lamsdorff, the new Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, is never seen in general society, and he goes to court as seldom as possible. He takes a two hours' constitutional walk every afternoon, never has a holiday, and is never ill.

Fellows Sentenced to Hang.

Gus Fellows, a negro, was found guilty of criminal assault at Jefferson Ga., Saturday. The two companies of militia ordered to protect him from mob violence returned him to Atlanta.

At Hazlehurst, Ga., six miles above Graham, the town jail was consumed by fire. In the jail at the time was a negro who was burned to death. The negro was charged with robbery.

Senator Davis Worse.

The condition of Senator C. K. Davis, who is seriously ill at St. Paul, Minn., is reported as decidedly worse and grave fears are entertained that if his life is saved it may be at the cost of his foot or possibly his right leg.

Ex-Mayor Strong Dead.

William H. Strong, the last mayor of the old city of New York, died suddenly in New York Friday.

The Philadelphia Record says: "It is in speedy and appropriate measures and methods of charitable relief that public sympathy and interest in the Galveston sufferers may be most cogently and intelligently expressed. The loss of property, vast though it be, is but a minor incident of the calamity. The ruined wharves and buildings will rise again, and the bridges swept away will soon be replaced. In the struggle for recovery the moral and material help of the American people may well be extended to stimulate and encourage as brave a community as ever passed under the sharp harrow of misfortune."

Some time ago Professor Franklin H. Giddings, of Columbia University, proved by a great army of statistics carefully gathered that factory employment had the effect of making women marry later in life than they probably otherwise would. Now comes Miss Mary Roberts Smith, of Leland Stanford University, with an interesting study of the comparative marrying age of women who are educated at college and women who are not. Miss Smith has been convinced by her investigations that the marrying age for all women has been growing greater for a generation past, but she finds that college women marry later than other women. The average marrying age of the latter she fixes at twenty-four, and the average for college women is twenty-six.

A Boston fire insurance company recently made an interesting investigation to discover, if possible, whether there is any reason in the popular belief that rats and mice set fires by gnawing matches. The experiment covered a period of three months. Rats and mice, singly or several at a time, were confined in large iron cages containing matches of various kinds and cotton waste. The mice, no matter how hungry they were, never gnawed the matches, but the rats set several fires, the sulphur being in each case the instrument.

A learned writer in the Nineteenth Century analyzes all the world's statistics on suicide and announces the discovery that marriage is the great preventive and divorce the great provocative of self-destruction. This is simply corroborative testimony to the proverb that "two heads are better than one," or, at least, saner.

$5,000 REWARD

Owing to the fact that some skeptical people have from time to time questioned the genuineness of the testimonial letters we are constantly publishing, we have deposited with the National City Bank, of Lynn, Mass., $5,000 which will be paid to any person who will show that the following testimonials are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writers' special permission. — LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.

How shall a mother who is weak and sick with some female trouble bear healthy children?

How anxious women ought to be to give their children the blessing of a good constitution!

Many women long for a child to bless their home, but because of some debility or displacement of the female organs, they are barren.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound more successfully than by any other medicine, because it gives tone and strength to the parts, curing all displacements and inflammation.

Actual sterility in women is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., whose advice is given free to all expectant or would-be mothers.

Mrs. A. D. Jarret, Belmont, Ohio, writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I must write and tell you what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. Before taking your medicine I was unable to carry babe to maturity, having lost two—one at six months and one at seven. The doctor said next time I would die, but thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I did not die, but am the proud mother of a six months old girl baby. She weighs nineteen pounds and has never seen a sick day in her life. She is the delight of our home."

Mrs. Whitney's Gratitude.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—From the time I was sixteen years old till I was twenty-three I was troubled with weakness of the kidneys and terrible pains when my monthly periods came on. I made up my mind to try your Vegetable Compound, and was soon relieved. The doctor said I never would be able to go my full time and have a living child, as I was constitutionally weak. I had lost a baby at seven months and half. The next time I continued to take your Compound: and I said then, if I went my full time and my baby lived to be three months old, I should send a letter to you. My baby is now seven months old, and is as healthy and hearty as any one could wish. I cannot express my gratitude to you. I was so bad that I did not dare to go away from home to stay any length of time. Praise God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and may others who are suffering do as I did and find relief. Wishing you success in the future as in the past, and may many homes be brightened as mine has been."—MRS. L. Z. WHITNEY, 4 Flint St., Somerville, Mass."

THE LOLIGO.

A Fish That Squirts Ink in the Face of His Enemy.

The largest loligo I have seen measured three feet eight inches without attempting to stretch its tentacles. Like the fishes, they seem to sleep with one eye closed at a time, as I have seen them resting on the sea bottom for this purpose; and when the bait fell near the sleeping side it was unobserved, but when dropped on the other it was gripped at once.

Their enemies are all the carnivorous fishes, which they often evade either by evolution, fight or mimicry, for all of which devices they have some special adaptations. In the first instance, they have two tough, flexible fins or wings high on the back, which enable them to swim forward or backward without turning, which is an accommodation of great utility in either attack or retreat. Then, their eyes are so situated as almost to command a circle. This also in a fight is invaluable, for they can see all their enemies and know their power, and can advance or retire as the occasion may require. Then, besides their ink bag, they have a muscular siphon enabling them to shoot their enemies in the air some ten feet and in the sea some three or four feet away.

Not long ago a friend of mine saw a skirmish between a loligo and its enemy, in which the cuttle came off the victor. He was fishing in the clear water off Mevagissey bay, and, wishing to catch a John Doree, he tied the end of his line to the tail of a live young sea bream and threw it into the sea. Now, a Doree is fond of living food and likes to swallow it headforemost. This suits the fisherman, as when devoured in this form the spines of the bream act as hooks to the fisherman's line and are sure to bring all on board.

The bream had not got far down in the sea before a cuttle saw it and quickly fastened on to the back of its neck, and before any steps were taken to scare it away a large Doree was seen coming to the front. There was no doubt or hesitation about its purpose, for it was seen that it desired to swallow the lot, as it was quietly going forward all the time, but taking a side view as the opportunity best offered. When about five feet from its quarry there was a violent rush on it, with jaws wide open, but there was just as quick action on the other side, for the contents of the ink bag were as quickly shot into the open mouth. In an instant, with the impetus of the rush, the Doree was in a cloud of thick darkness and the cuttle slunk out of sight.

The Doree appeared out of the muddle in a dreadful state; its eyes rolled as if in terror and its beautiful olive skin had turned deadly pale, while its coughing and fuming were something to be remembered, black matter being again and again expectorated from gills and mouth. It was really thought that the creature was about to die, and the gaff was got ready to take it on board, for it had floated up within four feet of the boat, but, noting her outline, it gently sank into the depths below.

When gaffing the cuttle for bait the face of the fisherman—unless he has something white about him—is always the loligo's target for shooting out of the water.

I remember having a noted London doctor out at sea for a little amateur fishing. He would like to see a loligo cuttle caught, he said. I warned him of what was likely to happen when gaffing was on, but he did not care. "Surely," he said, "I can dodge such guesswork as this must be for so short a time." I felt dubious as to the result, seeing his white shirt was a prominent object through his having such an open vest. Finally a cuttle took the bait, and as I drew it toward us the doctor lost all thought of himself and his adornments in his admiration of the movements and the beautiful eyes of the creature, when in an instant, as I gaffed it, the whole ink charge struck him in the throat.—Contemporary Review.

Manchus and Chinese.

Of the fifteen provincial Governors, ten are now Chinese and five are Manchus, and of the Manchus three have been appointed to provinces near the capital as a part of the Manchu preparation for the events of the past six months. The broad difference between the Manchu and the Chinese elements of the Chinese Government is that the first are of family and military caste origin, while the latter reach their posts by the tests of competitive examinations, foolish in their questions, antiquated in conception, and narrowing in their training, but still tests of ability and character, such as they are. The Manchus hold for the most part, by no means exclusively, tribal, military posts—their entire public life, it may be, passed in this way. The Chinese hold civil posts with which are associated military offices, authority, and duties. Lastly, the Manchus represent a conquest, now near the inevitable term and collapse of all Oriental conquests, and the Chinese officials, corrupt, venal, possessing every vice of the Oriental official, represent the normal working of the presence of competition, selection, and examination, which has survived the barbarian conquests of centuries and may easily outlast any contemporary form of government, as it has outlived all that were once its contemporaries.—The Review of Reviews.

CHERRY PECTORAL

The great trouble in trying to sell what are called patent medicines is that so many claims have been made for them that people don't or won't believe what honest makers say.

We have been telling our story sixty years. Did we ever deceive you once? If we make any statement that isn't so, we will stand the loss. Go to the druggist and get your money back.

Here's an example. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a good cure for a cough that comes from a cold. Your cough, if you have one, may not come from a cold; your doctor will tell you about that.

It is a straight medicine with sixty years of cures back of it. There isn't a ghost of the ordinary patent thing about it.

Mystery of the Horseshoe.

In days gone by there was a little fishing village of the name of Mavisoun, near Nairn, where the natives were thought to be foolish folk. One day one of the inhabitants found an old horseshoe on the shore, and, as they had never seen such a thing before, no one knew what it was. Some one suggested that it was the new moon, but the oldest and wisest fisherman declared that if that were so, it would be in the sky. He had long wondered, however, what became of the old moons and he thought after this discovery the mystery was solved—that after the old moons were done with they fell to the earth and horseshoe was one of them.

What One Grain of Wheat Did.

Did you ever stop to think of the possibilities of a grain of wheat? We are so used to seeing the field sown with wheat and the crop come up and ripen that we quite forget how each little grain does a great work through the summer days in multiplying and adding to the farmer's harvest. A farmer near Phoenix, Ariz., planted one grain of white Australian wheat, and at harvest time from it had sprung 1,360 grains of large, fat wheat. He planted ten acres of this wheat and harvested 177 sacks, each weighing 138 pounds. The single grain spoken of produces 36 stalks, so you see even a grain of wheat helps wonderfully.

Growth of Philadelphia.

As originally laid out by William Penn, the city was two miles long and one mile wide. Township after township was annexed till at last the city boundaries coincided with those of a county twenty-two miles long. Boston overran the old county lines and took in five outlying towns. Greater New York and Chicago now exceed in area and population some European principalities. In each case consolidation has been accomplished by the joint action of the city and suburbs, with legislative authorization.

Kaisar-i-Hind Medal.

According to the Westminster Budget Queen Victoria has issued a royal warrant establishing a new Indian decoration entitled the Kaisar-i-Hind medal, which has been instituted by her majesty at the request of Lord Curzon of Kedleston, who finds that the existing orders at his disposal are too limited to enable him to reward the public services of many natives and Europeans who merit some government recognition. Any person is eligible for the Kaisar-i-Hind medal, irrespective of race or sex.

Sahara's Water Supply.

The wells of Erg, in the Sahara desert, occupy the bottom of the depressions. As the surface of the ground in which they are excavated is covered with a thick layer of sand they have to be protected against the falling in of the latter. Their very narrow orifice is, therefore, hermetically closed by means of wide stones sealed through a mortar composed of sand and mud. Each caravan undoes the work in order to obtain water and then carefully seals the wells up again before departing.

Lord Wolseley, commander in chief of the British army, is particular about appearing in uniform when going about officially, and expects all officers to appear similarly attired. One of the officers inquired if he was to dress as "an officer or a gentleman." He was ordered to dress as an officer, whatever else he might be.

PURE BLOOD

AND STRONG NERVES

With glowing health all things are possible, small annoyances fade into nothingness and real troubles are battled with successfully. Women who are blessed with perfect health are a constant joy to themselves and all around them. The beauty which health alone can make permanent is a crown which raises a woman above other women. Such beauty is always accompanied by a sweet disposition, for snappishness is a sure sign of ill-health and leaves its mark quickly on the features.

It seems to be the fashion for women to ignore health and sacrifice it to the little every-day trials, or offer it up on the altar of devotion to daily tasks. Then again the nervous organization of woman is constantly attacked by woman's natural experiences, so that it is practically impossible for her to retain the beauty which nature gave her, unless she has discriminating advice and right support.

Dr. Greene's Nervura

for the Blood and Nerves.

Trials and troubles are easily overcome by the women whose strength is the genuine strength of perfect health. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, bridges the chasm that separates the sickly woman from happiness. It fills her veins with blood that is pure and clean.

MRS. WM. E. BOSSE, of 85 Farrington St., Flushing, L. I., says:

"In regard to myself, I have suffered for years with disease, having been troubled with great nervousness, female complaints, indigestion, and great weakness and prostration. I did not have strength to do much of anything. Knowing the great value of health and strength I consulted doctors and took many medicines, but they all failed to cure me, and I grew worse rather than better. I happened to see in the papers how much good Dr. Greene's Nervura, blood and nerve remedy, was doing in restoring to health everybody who took it, and I thought I would try a bottle. I used it and to my surprise I began to gain strength every day. I am so thankful that I tried it! It is certainly the most excellent tonic and strength giver. I recommend it very highly and wish that other people who are troubled in any way would take warning and use it."

TO PRESERVE WOMANLY BEAUTY

At all the stages of a woman's life Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, is shown to be efficient to ward off the results of nervousness, or overwork, or impure blood. From early girlhood to advanced years, this world-renowned medicine builds up the forces destroyed by disease, grief, or overexertion, and the effects of this great medicine are quickly felt and permanently retained. Let women guard well their health, and consult Dr. Greene freely. Nothing they can possibly do will so surely keep them strong and well, or repair the exhaustion from acute illness, nothing will work so continually to the preservation of beauty as the great health-giving Nervura. Dr. Greene's office is at 35 West 14th Street, New York City, where he may be consulted either by personal call or by letter Women may write in perfect confidence, and get Dr. Greene's advice free.

WATERY GRAVE FOR MANY SOULS

Fearful Marine Disaster on Halifax Coast.

THIRTY-TWO LIVES LOST

Bodies of Twenty-Five Victims are Recovered Along the Beach—Steamer Monticello Was Fated Vessel.

A special from Halifax, N. S., says: The worst marine disaster in the long list of steamers wrecked among the rocks and shoals at the entrance of the Bay of Fundy occurred Saturday morning when the side-wheel steamer City of Monticello, bound from St. Johns for Yarmouth, was quickly overwhelmed by the mountainous seas only four miles from her destination, and engulfed with thirty-four of her passengers and a crew. A heavy gale was raging at the time and there was a tremendous sea.

The place where the Monticello struck is at the mouth of the Bay of Fundy, where the waters of the bay join those of the Atlantic. There are many reefs and shoals at this point, and the currents are many and changeable, it being one of the most dangerous places on the coast.

Just before the vessel foundered an attempt was made to reach the land in a small boat in charge of the quartermaster, and it contained Third Officer Fleming, a stewardess named Smith and three passengers. This boat was smashed by a huge comber, and the occupants being hurled high upon the beach at Pembroke uninjured. It is believed these are the only survivors.

The City of Monticello was used in the coastwise service between Halifax, Yarmouth and St. Johns, and was due at Halifax Sunday morning. She was an iron, side-wheel boat of about 1,000 tons gross, and was commanded by Captain Harding, of Yarmouth, where most of the thirty-seven men belong.

She was formerly called the City of Norfolk, and was built at Wilmington, Del., in 1866. When she received British register her name was changed. She was valued at $35,000, and was partially insured. The vessel had been rebuilt within fifteen years, but was not regarded safe in an exceptionally heavy sea. She carried a crew out of proportion to her size.

TWENTY-FIVE BODIES RECOVERED.

A special of Sunday from Yarmouth, N. S., says: "The shore of this county for ten miles east and west is strewn with the wreckage of the hull and cargo of the steamer City of Monticello, which foundered Saturday morning, and twenty-five bodies of victims of the disaster have been recovered from the sea, which is still raging with terrific fury. The death roll so far as known is thirty-two.

"Many people have assembled at Rockville, near where the first body came ashore, and numerous relatives of members of the crew, who nearly all belonged to points on this coast, have arrived to identify the dead. The bodies were arranged in a room in the public hall and Coroner Fuller, who held an inquest, gave an opinion of accidental drowning. All the bodies are terribly battered.

"The first body was found at daylight, when the zinc lifeboat, which was supposed by the survivors of the first boat to have been swamped, was discovered on the shore. A few yards distant were the bodies of Mr. Eldridge, a passenger; Second Engineer Poole, Mr. Fripp, a traveler for McGee's Sons, of St. John, and the body of a seaman. All four had life belts around them.

"At short intervals along the beach eleven more bodies were found, making fifteen found up to noon today. They had all evidently some ashore in the life-boat and were killed on striking the beach, not one escaping.

"It is a coincidence that the ship Peter Stewart was wrecked off this shore a few years ago in the month of July and a boat load of men came in where the Monticello's boat was found. Half of the men were dead before the boat touched the land."

PRESIDENT REPLIES

To Bryan's Telegram of Congratulation—Wishes Him Well.

President McKinley answered Mr. Bryan's message of congratulation in the following dispatch:

"Executive Mansion, Washington, November 9, 1900.—Hon. W. J. Bryan, Lincoln, Neb.: I acknowledge with cordial thanks your message of congratulation, and extend to you my good wishes.

"William McKinley."

Mr. Bryan's message to the president reached Canton after Mr. McKinley had started for Washington, and was forwarded to him at the capital.

RICH BEYOND AVARICE.

Old Creosus Not In It With the Standard Oil Company.

At New York Saturday Standard Oil certificates were quoted at 700 bid, none offered, as against 655, Friday's highest. The par value of the company's entire outstanding stock is $97,500,000, and $750 per share indicates a market value of $682,500,000, the highest on record. During this year the company has paid $46,000,000 in dividends.

CHINESE QUESTION BEFORE CABINET

Uncle Sam's Policy Already In Force Will Be Strictly Maintained,

TO CRUSH THE FILIPINOS.

More Active Measures Will Be Used In Philippines.

A Washington special says: Two of the three hours that Friday's cabinet session consisted of were occupied in a discussion of foreign affairs, necessitated in part by the fact that the president intends to exhaustively treat on this subject in his forthcoming message to congress.

Reference was made to the expressions in portions of the European press that the United States policy regarding China would undergo marked change immediately after the election, and it is authoritatively announced that after a most exhaustive review of every step of the Chinese difficulty, from its inception up to the present moment, delivered by Secretary Hay, the cabinet ratified every detail and moreover unanimously expressed its judgment that the policy so far pursued should be continued without change to its logical conclusion.

Accordingly the present legation guard at Pekin will be maintained and such troops as yet remain to be withdrawn, according to the original programme, will be shipped to Manila. With this addition to his force, General MacArthur is expected to renew the campaign against the rebellious Filipinos with the greatest energy. Administration officials here think that as soon as the result of the election becomes known throughout the Philippines, the resistance to the authority of the United States will be overcome.

BEEF GOES UP

Big Packing Company In Chicago Raises the Price Over Ten Per Cent.

A Chicago special says: A flat increase of 1 cent a pound was put on beef, pork and mutton Friday by Chicago packers. In one year the additional cent will yield to the Chicago packers, basing the estimate upon last year's business, the following sums:

Dressed beef, $15,000,000; dressed pork and pork products, $20,000,000; mutton, $4,000,000. Total addition to incomes, $39,000,000.

Retailers of meats were thrown into a panic by the unexpected rise in prices. In the adjustment of prices to the consumers, choice cuts of beef have gone up as much as 5 cents, pork tenderloin jumped to the same extent, and mutton chops went up 3 cents. The advance by the packers is more than 10 per cent on the price of meat the day before the election. The advance by the retailer to the consumer will average 25 per cent.

The packers claim they have been selling dressed meats at a loss for several years. In six months the price of meat stuffs has gone up $2.50 per hundred pounds. There has been no corresponding advance in the price of cattle, hogs and sheep.

Reports of the packers in charge of the dressed meat department says the advance was justified by the condition of the trade, and imposition on the heels of the election is but a coincidence.

BILOXI FLAME SWEPT.

Little Mississippi Town Loses Heavily From Big Fire.

Biloxi, Miss., situated in the Mississippi sound, eighty miles from New Orleans, was swept by a terrific fire Friday morning which destroyed upwards of 100 buildings and rendered hundreds of people homeless.

Biloxi is a town of 7,000 people and a well known summer resort for Mississippians and Louisianians and a winter resort for northerners. It has a small fire department and contains many frame buildings, and the fire simply burned until it had nothing further to feed on.

The total loss is estimated at $300,000 with $125,000 insurance.

At Somerset, Ky., Friday, George W. Wait, president, and R. G. Hail, cashier of the Somerset Banking Company, were arrested. Hail was arrested on the charge of embezzling $16,000, and Wait on the charge of false swearing in making the bank statement. Both gave bail.

Severe Typhoon at Hong Kong.

A typhoon struck Hong Kong Friday evening and raged until Saturday morning. A British river gunboat was sunk, but her crew are reported safe. Great damage and loss of life occurred among the native craft.

NEBRASKAN'S FUTURE PLANS.

Mr. Bryan Will Enlighten the Public When He Has Rested.

A Lincoln dispatch says: Mr. Bryan is in receipt of many requests for a statement concerning his future plans and his attitude on public questions, in view of Tuesday's result. He intimated Friday that he would before long enlighten the public fully, but for the present he had private matters which needed his attention.

R. G. DUN PASSES AWAY.

Was Head of Well Known Agency Operated Under His Name

R. G. Dun, head of the Dun Mercantile Agency, died at his home in New York city Saturday morning. Cirrhosis of the liver, heart failure and old age was the cause.

Mr. Dun, who was seventy-six years old, has been in failing health for more than six months past.

Mr. Dun's wealth and fame rests upon the tremendous mercantile agency of which he was the head. Whether he was the pioneer in this business or not is not positively known. Others lay claim to the distinction. Mr. Dun, however, was the first man to appreciate its possibilities and make an effort to attain them.

In 1845 he purchased a number of individual agencies in and around New York state and had the R. G. Dun Mercantile Agency incorporated. Then he went steadily to work and added to this nucleus until the agency now covers all of North America, reaching into every hamlet in the United States, Canada and Mexico, and constitutes one of the greatest of American fortunes.

FIRST MONITOR FLOATED.

The Arkansas Is Launched at Newport News With Ceremony.

The monitor Arkansas was launched at the ship yard at Newport News, Va., Saturday morning. Miss Bobbie Newton Jones, daughter of Governor Jones, of Arkansas, christened the monitor as it started down the ways.

The Arkansas is the first of a type developed by the American navy, for not since the days of the civil war has a single turretted monitor been constructed. The Arkansas will have three sisters—the Florida, the Wyoming and the third, which was to have been the Connecticut, still unnamed. These are known as harbor defense monitors, and will have all the latest improvements known in naval science.

BRITONS WELL PLEASED.

People and Press Elated Over the Re-Election of President McKinley.

A London special says: The elections in America and Canada held the interest of Great Britain throughout the week to an unprecedented extent. Of the two great contests, that between President McKinley and Mr. W. J. Bryan was by far the most closely watched.

There is no concealing the fact that Mr. McKinley's re-election meets with the unanimous approval of the press and the public, while the foreign office expresses undisguised relief that it will not have to deal with a new set of diplomats in this critical stage of affairs in the far east and in other parts of the world.

UNUSUAL CONVICTION.

Would-Be Lynchers In Louisiana Are Given a Life Sentence.

At Lake Charles, La., Saturday William Daniels and Ross Johnson were convicted of murder and sentenced to the state penitentiary for life. The case is a remarkable one, since it marks the first instance in the state where would-be lynchers have been caught, tried and convicted.

On September 27th, of this year, an attempt was made by a negro at Lake Charles to assault a white woman. The fellow was immediately captured and lodged in jail. At night a mob gathered and attempted to break into the prison. The sheriff's deputies resisted and during the melee one of their number was killed. Daniels and Johnson were convicted of doing the killing.

MAY REDUCE WAR TAXES.

Meeting of Ways and Means Committee to Be Held on 20th.

Representative S. E. Payne, of New York, chairman of the ways and means committee and Republican leader of the house and had a conference with the president Friday,. Later in the day Mr. Payne said he would call a meeting of the Republican members of his committee for November 20th, to outline a partial programme for legislative work in the house during the approaching session.

One of the matters which will come before this meeting will be the proposed reduction in the war revenue taxes.

TWO MORE BODIES RECOVERED

From Debris of Burned Tarrant Drug Store In New York City.

Two bodies were taken from the ruins of the ruins of the Tarrant building in New York Friday. The first was that of Hamilton Matthews, a driver for Tarrant & Co. The remains were shockingly mutilated.

Later the diggers in the ruins came across another body. This proved to be that of Benjamin Moorehouse.

WILL CONTEST IN KENTUCKY

Republicans Will Resort to Courts If Necessary.

M'KINLEY GETS NEBRASKA

Later Returns Indicate That Republicans Win In Bryan's State By a Majority of 6,000.

"A Louisville, Ky., special says: With unofficial returns from every precinct in Kentucky, The Courier-Journal puts Bryan's majority at 7,635 and Beckham's at 4,110. The county board canvassed the returns in every county in the state today and the fifty counties out of 119 in the state whose official returns had been received tonight did not materially change the majorities given in the foregoing, though there is no doubt that the full official returns will vary somewhat from the unofficial figures. It is hardly possible that majorities of 7,635 and 4,110 shall be wiped out, however, unless the unexpected should happen in the counties whose officials returns are not in."

Chairman Leslie Combs, of the Republican state campaign committee, said he wished to state his position as to contests and correct some erroneous impressions. He does not want to be understood as saying authoritatively that the Kentucky election will be contested. He says he will advise with the national and state leaders as to whether or not contests should be made.

He does not say that contests will be made over the third, ninth and tenth congressional districts, but says that if his information about the election in those districts is correct, contests should be made. He is in favor of contesting the electoral vote of the state, not because Kentucky's vote is needed by the McKinley electors, but for a precedent.

"If we allow this election to pass uncontested," says Chairman Combs, "we only foster more frauds for the future.

"There is no question but what, if the face of the returns fail to show Yerkes's election, we can make specific exposures that will show he has been defeated, not by a majority of the voters of Kentucky, but by the fraudulent use of the advantage given the Democratic party by the Goebel election law."

It is currently reported in Louisville that the Republican managers are in communication with federal officials with a view to having an investigation of the election in this state so far as the electors and congressmen are concerned. It is stated that this would indirectly have some effect on the claims for governor. The only state officer voted for this year was that of governor, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William Goebel, who succeeded in the contest with W. S. Taylor.

The other state officers hold over under the contests settled in the courts last spring. The ballots, therefore, contained the names of thirteen electors on each of the five state tickets and only one name each for a state officer, that of governor. It is stated that the investigation will be made for contests in two or three congressional districts, and that it will be extended into certain counties not in the contested districts. Republican managers have already communicated with National Chairman Hanna regarding the situation.

M'KINLEY GETS NEBRASKA BY 6,000.

A special of Friday from Omaha, Neb., says: Almost complete returns give McKinley a plurality in Nebraska of almost 6,000. The Republican state ticket is apparently elected by from 1,500 to 2,000. The Republicans elect congressmen in the first and second districts, the Fusionists in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth districts. The legislature, the returns on which are not yet returned will probably stand: Senate, Republicans, 16; Fusionists, 16; vacant, 1. House, Republicans, 51; fusionists, 49.

SENATOR QUAY IN FLORIDA.

Says He Has Control of Pennsylvania Legislature and Rests Easy.

Ex-Senator Matthew Quay, of Pennsylvania, and a party of friends arrived at his winter house at Saint Lucie, Fla., Saturday. The senator will remain in Florida during the winter, returning to his state at intervals to look after his political interests. He stated that he was absolutely certain of over 150 votes in joint ballot in the Pennsylvania legislature for United States senator, and that he expected to be elected.

STATUS IN EAST TENNESSEE.

Twelve Democrats Are Elected to Legislature From That Section.

Complete returns from counties in east Tennessee show that the section will be represented in the next legislature by twenty-one Republicans and twelve Democrats, the largest number of Democrats ever known from East Tennessee. Two years ago east Tennessee had nine Democrats in the legislature. Knox county gave every Democrat a majority, a thing unprecedented in the history of the county.

GENERAL M'ARTHUR MAKES HIS REPORT

Shows Conditions In Philippines From Military Standpoint.

CASUALTIES MADE KNOWN

American Losses Over a Thousand; Filipinos Over 7,000.

Major General Arthur MacArthur, commanding the United States forces in the Philippines and military governor of the islands, has submitted his report to the war department.

Every question in the Philippines is treated, and the inference drawn by many of those at headquarters is that if the United States are to conquer the Philippines it must be by sheer force of arms.

While, according to the report, Aguinaldo and his band voted to discontinue war November 12th, 1899, as a matter of fact it continued. By their ability to doff the habiliments of war and assume the garb of peace, Filipinos have successfully kept in the field, but at a tremendous loss. Fifty-three stations occupied by Americans on November 1st, 1899, had on September 1st, 1900, expanded to 413. While the Americans had lost 1,073 in killed, wounded and captured, the Filipinos had lost 6,785. The report says:

"The Filipinos are not a warlike or ferocious people. Left to themselves, a large number would gladly accept the American supremacy, which they are gradually coming to understand means individual liberty and absolute security in their lives and property."

General McArthur says the extensive distribution of troops has strained the soldiers of the army to the full limit of endurance. He says the apparent desultory work has demanded more of discipline and as much of valor as was required during the period of regular operations against concentrated field forces of insurrectionists. General McArthur's report says that the troops amidst all labors and hardships are content.

The Filipinos, the report says, left to themselves would gladly accept the American supremacy. The Americans are making as many friendly overtures as is compatible with the conditions.

MCARTHUR TO TAKE THE FIELD.

A Washington special says: In pursuance of the plan to make an aggressive campaign in the Philippines during the winter, it has been arranged that Major General McArthur shall personally direct the military operations against the insurgents. While he is in the field Major General Bates will be assigned to duty in Manila, as exectuive head of the military government of the island.

General MacArthur does not propose to lay himself open to the criticism which was made against his predecessor, General Otis, who occupied himself with office details while his subordinates led the fighting. General MacArthur's determination to lead the troops himself is warmly approved by the president and the secretary of war.

THESE PERISHED MISERABLY.

Schooner Myra B. Weaver Wrecked In Storm and Six Lives Lost.

A Boston special says: The three-masted schooner Myra B. Weaver was wrecked in Vineyard sound early Saturday morning and six lives were lost. The names of those who perished are:

Captain R. S. Vannaman, of Philadelphia, aged about thirty-five.

Steward William Petersen, married, residing in New Orleans.

Charles Magnussen, single, of Bergen, Norway.

John Hejman, of Aland, Finland.

Miss Mary Emerson, aged about twenty-three, of Mobile.

Miss Ella Deboe, aged fifteen, also of Mobile.

Miss Emerson was a sister-in-law of the captain and Ella Deboe was her niece. The details of the disaster were learned upon arrival at Boston Saturday afternoon of the City of Macon, Captain Savage, which rescued four survivors. The Weaver left Fernandina, Fla., October 16th with a cargo of lumber.

BAD WRECK ON SOUTHERN.

Engineer Loses Life and Four Others Are Seriously Hurt.

Engineer Richard Parrott's arm and leg were broken and he was otherwise seriously injured. Mail Clerks I. N. Thomas, W. H. Roberts and L. H. Harris were also seriously injured. The three engines were completely demolished.

SENTENCE CARRIED OUT.

Chinese Officials Are Executed Under the Order of Allies.

Advices from Pekin, November 6, via Shanghai, November 9, state that four of the leading officials of Poa Ting Fu, including Ting Tang, the acting viceroy of Pe Chi Li, and General Kusi Hing, were executed November 5th under the sentence imposed by the tribunal of the allies. Renewed reports of the death of the empress dowager are in circulation, but they lack verification and are discredited.

ALABAMA NEWS SUMMARY.

Important Questions to Come Before the Daughters of the Confederacy.

At the annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, which convenes in Montgomery this week, two questions of live importance will come up. First will be the question of purchasing the "White House of the Confederacy" as a museum of southern history, and the second will be the taking of some action looking to the introduction into public schools of histories treating of the civil war in a manner acceptable to the organization. The attendance at the convention is to be large. The opening exercises will be held in the capitol and in the hall in which the confederate convention held its historic sessions and declared the right of secession.

The jury stood three for assault and nine for assault to rape as charged.

May Become an Alabamian.

"Private" John Allen, the well known Mississippi Congressman who retires from office with his present term, may become an Alabama citizen. He owns a little place at Coden, in Mobile county, given him by his good friend, Hon. E. L. Russell, president of the Mobile and Ohio railroad, and he likes the country. To a reporter of the Mobile Herald Mr. Allen said that he would probably build a l o ne at Coden and spend much of his time at that place.

HORRIBLE HOTEL DISASTER

Many Dead and Injured in a Fire at Poplar Bluff, Mo.

GUESTS CAUGHT LIKE RATS IN A TRAP

And Leaped From the Windows—Four Known to Be Dead and Others Missing—A Dozen or More Bodies May Be Found.

A special from Poplar Bluff, Mo., says:

"A fire, accompanied by terrible fatality, occurred here Monday morning, resulting in the total destruction of the Gifford house, a large three-story frame building. The list of known dead is as follows: Heck Clark, Donephan, Mo.; Rebecca Owens, Shelby DeHart and Curly Berry, Poplar Bluff.

"Fatally injured: Etta Hargrove, Poplar Bluff; Winslow Stowe, Tennessee.

"Missing: Eugene Dalton, Hot Springs, Ark.

"The following were badly hurt or injured by jumping from windows: T. A. Smith, Poplar Bluff; Barney Pernaud, Desoto, Mo.; Charles Stradley, Benjamin Shelby, Mrs. Benjamin Shelby, Pink Berry, Elmer Freshear and James Upchurch, all of Poplar Bluff.

"An unknown woman is also thought to be fatally injured and about a dozen more were slightly burned or received bruises in escaping from the building.

"The fire originated in the rear of the hotel, and a few minutes later the hotel building, which was entirely of wood, was a mass of flames. There were in the neighborhood of forty-five guests in the building. The porter, the only person awake in the hotel, was unable to give an alarm, the smoke and flames driving him back.

"The guests on the second and third floors were caught like rats in a trap, the fire preventing their escape by the stairs, and they leaped from the second and third story windows.

"Benjamin Shelby asserts that he saw ten or fifteen persons in the hallway overcome by smoke. If this is the case a dozen or more bodies may be found in the ruins.

"A number of the guests were not registered and their names are unknown. Every room in the house, forty-five in number, was occupied. Men are now at work on the ruins, but it will probably be several days before the complete list of deaths will be obtainable."

Marcus Daly is Dead.

Marcus Daly, of Montana, died Monday morning at the Hotel Netherland, New York. Mr. Daly's death had been expected for weeks. Bright's disease complicated with heart weakness was the cause of death.

Marcus Daly was born in Ireland in 1842. He came to the United States early in life, and since 1876 has been a citizen of Montana. He became general manager of the Alice silver mine and later came into control of the Anaconda copper mine. At the time of his death he was president of the Amalgamated Copper company. In politics he was a democrat.

Feud Results in Three Deaths.

King Campbell shot and instantly killed his 10-year-old brother while out hunting, near Bristol, Tenn. Campbell's shotgun was accidentally discharged and the full load penetrated the boy's abdomen.

THE RESULT.

The news of the election of the national republican ticket has been scattered far and wide, and is now known in every hamlet and home doubtless in Shelby county. A great many whys and wherefores have been given for the results, and it may not be amiss for us to expatiate along this line. Ours is a land where freedom of the press is recognized. So why should we hold back from enjoying these coveted principles along with the rest of our bold contemporaries?

The results of the election on last Tuesday should not be attributed to anything good in the republican party, as a party. The landslide was not, in our opinion, because the republican party, as a party, held to and promulgated this principle or that principle. It was not because the republican party advocated high tariff or the gold standard. It was not on account of the relations of that party to the great trusts and combines, which have been, and are now, sapping the very life-blood from our body politic. It was not on account of the salutary war policy of that party, or its policy of imperialism. The best reason we have seen given for the great victory of that party on last Tuesday is that the people of the country looked at and were governed in their action at the ballot box by the condition of things. We must all concede the fact that we are now, and have been for some time, in the grandest era of prosperity that we have experienced in many years. This very prosperity prompted many men to cast their vote for that party which happened to be in power pending the prosperous period. There is no just and valid reason why this should have been so. Men in casting their ballot should have taken into consideration the issues involved in the campaign.

The prosperity of our country can not properly be attributed to anything the republican party has done, but came in spite of it. It would have come if the democratic party had been in power, just the same. But as it did come while the republicans were in power, no kind of policy that the democrats could have fallen on would have won. But "no use grieving over spilt milk." Let every citizen bow gracefully to the results and look forward to next time.

THE OUTLOOK.

The unfavorable results of the election to the democratic party was promptly seized on by those democrats not altogether friendly and faithful to the party, and at once a sensation is attempted to be created by earnest suggestions that the democratic party be reorganized. This is the veriest bosh. Why reorganize the party? The party is just what it has always been; its principles are the same. It is true democrats frequently disagree on certain measures that come up, one holding that a certain measure would be to the best interest of the party and the country, and the other holding that an entirely different measure would be the proper thing. It has always been conceded that democrats should be allowed to differ and fight out and settle their differences inside the party. This has always been the case until, of recent years, there has sprung up an element not content with anything that is not thoroughly in keeping with their own peculiar views of things. When measures are adopted by the party in its highest courts that are counter to their views, they are ready to kick out, and where they do not openly support the adverse party all of their influence is thrown in that direction.

Now then, these are, in the main, the parties who are crying out for a speedy reorganization of the democratic party. We wonder if these parties, these disgruntled parties, could be satisfied reorganized. We fear not, except on a basis involving their pet ideas and views. We don't think there is any need or call for a reorganization of the democratic party. We can't see how it would be possible to put us in any better condition than we are now in. It would be utterly impossible for all democrats to come together on any medium ground which would conciliate all. And the very effort we would make to reorganize would be a fatal far as we are concerned, we see nothing in the recent results to discourage any true democrat. As said elsewhere, it was conditions that defeated the party, and not principles. Everybody, even republicans, knows of the corruption in the republican party. This wave of prosperity will blow over some day. The officeholders will become more and more corrupt and bolder and bolder in it, and we predict that by the next presidential election there will be such a landslide in favor of the democratic party as has never been known in the history of the party. Let democrats take on renewed courage. No other party can do that which the democratic party is destined to do in the distant future.

GOVERNOR-ELECT SAMFORD.

All Alabama, regardless of party, has been in a condition of feverish anxiety for the past week on account of the state of health of Governor-Elect Wm. J. Samford. He has been, as it were, "hanging in the scales." His trouble is said by his physicians to be acute indigestion, which materially affects the action of his heart. He experiences great difficulty in breathing, and has spells of smothering. He has been very near to death's door, and is not regarded at this writing as being entirely out of danger.

The death of no man in Alabama, perhaps, would bring more universal grief and regret, from a personal standpoint, than would that of Wm. J. Samford. He occupies a large place in the hearts and affections of the people of Alabama. We have never known a strong man—a man of decided convictions and of boldness in asserting the same—who had so few open personal enemies. Colonel Samford possesses these qualities and characteristics to a large degree, and yet he is beloved by all.

Aside from the gloom which his death would spread over Alabama, on account of the many friends and admirers he has, to whose hearts deepest sadness would be brought, it would also precipitate the state into a condition of confusion and deepest disappointment—disappointment that the state had been deprived of the invaluable and inestimable services of this great man, and confusion as to how the situation could be relieved. It is generally known that at the death of the governor the president of the senate acts as gouernor, and if for any reason the president of the senate can not, then the speaker of the house. But this contemplates, in the opinion of lawyers, that the governor must have qualified by having taken the oath of office. In this case should our governor-elect die before having been sworn it, it is the opinion of lawyers, and we doubt not it is correct, that Governor Johnston would hold over until his successor is elected and qualified, unless, in the meantime, some provision is made by the legislature.

We sincerely trust, and the prayers of the people of Alabama are going up daily and hourly, that if it be God's will this great and good man may be spared to our state. It is, and has been, our opinion that the administration of this gentleman as chief mrgistrate of the commonwealth of Alabama would be a model for all future administrations. We believe that he, as governor of Alabama, would leave his impress upon this people on account of his ability, fairness, purity and virtue that would go further, in a salutary way, towards shaping the future government of this state, as well as the characters of the youth of our state, than any other agency that could exist at this time. But we have high hopes of his recovery.

REMOVE THE CAUSE FIRST.

The Age-Herald seems to be somewhat agitated over the "evils afflicting the population of Alabama," in general, and beats 21 and 37 of Jefferson county in particular, designating "carrying concealed weapons" and "deadly drugs" as two of the greatest of all evils, calling upon the legislature to abate these monstrous vices, and thus immortalize itself.

Why not strike directly at the cause that has more to do with producing the effects complained of than all else combined? Of the numerous murders which have been committed in Jefferson county, where the concealed weapon played such a deadly part, they can, in most cases, if not all, be traced directly to the use of intoxicating liquors. Let the voters of our country understand that 90 per cent of the business of the criminal courts is caused by the liquor traffic; that we are spending annually $962,192,854 to satisfy the appetite for that which dethrones reason, blights the lives, blasts the homes and sends 60,000 of the bread-winners of our country annually to fill drunkards graves; tha the saloons of this country graduate 600,000 drunkards each year, of which number 100.000 are boys from 16 to 20 years old, boys who should be fitted for citizenship, providers of homes and makers of laws; that 25 of the great railway systems of our country, who employ 180,000 workmen, will not tolerate a drinking man in their employ, showing in what light great business men regard those who drink, thereby lessening the opportunity of the drinker in securing employment; and when our citizens realize what this evil is to our homes, they will take care to send men to our legislatures who will see to the enactment of such laws as will alleviate much of the sorrow that overshadows lives of thousands in Alabama to-day.

Yes; carrying concealed weapons is a great evil and should be legislated against, and the legislation upheld by the civil authorities, and the moral sentiment of our people should uphold them in the discharge of their duties; but a far greater evil is the liquor traffic, and it should claim the attention of our lawmakers now assembled, for it is the parent of all the "evils" complained of by our contemporary.

Multum in Parvo.

J. F. Pope and son were visitors to our city Monday.

J. W. Millstead, of Sylacauga, is visiting relatives here this week.

Messrs. J. R. Hill and Fred Hardy, of Calera, transacted business here on Monday.

Mrs. J. W. Harrell was confined to her bed the first of the week on account of sickness.

Prof. W. H. Bird, who is teaching a school at Six Mile, was up to see his family Sunday last.

A. J. DeShazo, a prominent citizen of Bridgeton, transacted business here the first of the week.

Sheriff Cox and family moved to our city a few days ago from Bridgeton, and will make this place their home.

Rev. T. K. Roberts occupied the Methodist pulpit Sunday morning, and delivered an interesting sermon.

Sunday was the last appointment at the Methodist church before conference, which convenes on the 28th.

Mr. Frank Turpin, who was convicted at the last term of the circuit court of assault with intent to murder, was granted an unconditional pardon by Governor Johnston on last Friday.

Winter came at us with a whoop last week, and the first frost of the season was observed. It was cold enough last week to discover ice in water buckets and elsewhere until late in the mornings.

You wont get lost when you come to Columbiana, if you have not been here for some time, but you will see quite a change in the city's appearance; and all this done in less than a twelvemonth!

Mr. W. A Tallant carried his wife down to Calera last Saturday, where she will remain for some time. Mrs. Tallant has been in feeble health for quite a while, and it is truly hoped by all her friends here that the change may prove beneficial.

The local freights, which are scheduled to pass this place in the mornings and afternoons of each day, usually arrive in the afternoons, and early mornings of the next day! Too much traffic, and not enough trains, is the main cause.

Notice change this week in the advertisement of that hustling and enterprising firm, the Columbiana Mercantile Co. They offer exceptional bargains to all who want first-class goods at prices within the reach of the most economical. You will have no difficulty in finding their store.

From the best information we can gather, the corn crop throughout the South is exceedingly short, and the price during the next year will necessarily be high. So it behooves our farmers to sow large crops of oats and wheat, so as to relieve them of buying corn at a time of the year when money is not as plentiful as "good advice."

The three Sunday schools of this place held a rally on last Sunday afternoon in the Methodist church, which was largely attended, and much interest was manifested by all in this important work. It is proposed to hold these rallies once each quarter, alternating in the respective churches and no doubt much good will be accomplished for our Sunday schools by these meetings.

Main Street Private School, taught by Miss Mary Liles, is increasing in numbers and interest. New pupils are coming in, but very few more can be taken, as a great deal of work is required in the special training of two classes for college. The school is composed of a clever set of girls and boys coming from as good families as we have in our city. All the pupils are applying themselves studiously and are making rapid progress.

The Sunday schools of Calera organized themselves into a beat association last Sunday afternoon. Mr. I. W. Bailey was elected president, Mr. N. A. Graham, vice-president and Mr. J. R. Hill, secretary. There was a good deal of interest manifested by those present, and the management will take steps to have a house to house canvass of the town. Judge Joseph Carthel, the state field worker, and W. F. Thetford, Jr., president of the county association, were present and helped in the organization. The association is to have a convention every three months, and will hold its next convention on the second Sunday in February, 1901.

Miss Mary Langley, an inmate of the county poor house, died this week. She has been an inmate of this institution for more than twenty years, and the history of her life is rather a strange one. When she was quite a young girl she had a lover, who poured into her ears the story that is so very old, and yet ever new, promising at some future day to make her his wife. Time passed on, so the story goes, but the lover proved false to his promise, and then "Sitting Mary," as she was called, made a vow that she would never more, as long as she lived, walk another step. She has kept faithfully this vow, and for nearly a quarter of a century she has been sitting in the county almshouse awaiting the summons, that came a few days ago.

To Our Columbiana Girls.

All the girls of our town, regardless of denomination, from 16 years old down, are hereby cordially invited to come to the parsonage promptly at 3 p. m. next Saturday. November 17. Girls, I have something to show you and something to tell you. Don't fail to come. God bless you!

"BROTHER TOM."

Silent Prayer—1. For our missionaries; 2. That God may call some of our young people to be missionaries; 3. That we may do our whole duty to our brothers and sisters who have never heard of of Jesus.

In Memory of Miss Mattie Densler.

On Tuesday morn, the 9th of October, as the clock struck nine, the soul of Miss Mattie Densler crossed over the river to the beautiful beyond, where pain and suffering are no more forever, to be welcomed by the ringing hosannas and the vibrating of countless wings of dazzling white around the great white throne of God.

Being 67 years of age, she had spent a life of love and affection for family and friends, beautiful in its unselfishness, devotion and usefulness. Her sphere was a noble one. Never in robust health, yet a constant worker in her Master's vineyard, bringing to bear in His cause the full strength of a brilliant intellect, cultivated to a high degree, and a zeal sustained by an abiding faith in her Lord and love for His cause on earth.

Her place in the family, which she adorned and sweetened as only a loving sister and aunt, will never be filled, and the chasm in the hearts of her loved ones can only be bridged on the resurrection morn. But there is consolation in knowing that she is peacefully waiting "under the trees," a constant inspiration to those whose pilgrimage is yet unfinished. The refinement of her nature and taste, delicacy of sentiment, no less than her ability to "feel another's woes," made her companionship a rare joy. Of a sunny temperament, her presence in the social circle, which she adorned, will be sadly missed.

Having lived here for many years, and having served faithfully and exceeding satisfactorily the people as postmistress for nearly eight years, she was known by every one; and no one knew her but to love her. Her memory will be cherished; her name linger on our tongues as we journey on down to the end of the pathway of life.

The next oldest child in a family of six children, her precepts and teachings shall live on into that perfect day, and, as the writer knows, the influence of a good woman has caused many to follow that path, which starts on calvary, extends through time and leads on up to the temple prepared for all who love and serve the Master, he can, without hesitation, say there was a crown of glory, resplendent with the good deeds done in the body, awaiting her and that she has come into her own. Let us follow on after her, "with our hands upon the throttle and our eyes upon the rail," that guided her over and some sweet day meet again, never to part no more.

Montevallo.

A gang of workmen and scrapes passed through town yesterday going to work on the spur track to the Messrs. Reynolds' coal mines.

Montevallo will doubtless soon be incorporated. The citizens have agreed upon a charter to be presented to the general assembly. The principal objects are to preserve order and improve the streets.

There is some talk of inducing the L. & N. to extend the Alabama Mineral railroad from Calera to Montevallo, and then to Aldrich. It is thought that officials are favorably considering the proposition.

Capt. H. C. Reynolds, who has been ill for some days, is improving.

Mrs. M. E. Ham was called to Kentucky last night by news of the dying condition of her mother.

Yesterday was Hobson Day in Montevallo. A delegation of citizens, headed by Dr. F. M. Peterson, met the distinguished Lieutenant at Calera early in the morning, and drove with him to Montevallo. At 11 o'clock he addressed the Girls' Industrial School, after which he and a number of citizens were entertained at dinner by Dr. and Mrs. Peterson. From 3 to 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon the Lieutenant received the school and citizens in the reception hall at the dormitory, and was given a grand ovation when he took his leave. Although the Lieutenant professed to know little, outside his peculiar sphere of action aboard ship, his earnest, thoughtful address showed him to be a man of many parts, a student of human nature and of the sciences. His delivery was deliberate and most pleasant in vein and manner. He congratulated the school and state most heartily that his old professor, Dr. Peterson, had been called to preside over the school, and felt that the invitation he had received to visit Montevallo was one that he could not decline. He dwelt at length on the transcendent power of woman, in war as well as peace, a fact, he said, which they did not seem to realize. Instead of making a hero of man, who performs the mechanical part of war, he would have the regiments, as they go forth, to erect beautiful banners for women and, marching by to wave their caps; and as they returned from the victories to pause at every mansion, cottage and hut, that held a woman, to do homage to the real patriots of the country. He had traveled and observed much and learned to correctly estimate a people by the condition of their women. By this criterion he held America to be the leading nation of the world, and for this reason he rejoiced in the advancement of education of women along the lines of scientific training, and in the establishment of this school, whose progress he was watching with keenest interest. He paid most reverent homage to the Confederate veterans and the noble women, who buckled on their swords, to fight through, with unparalelled courage, a war that it was necessary to fight in the settlement of the questions that had arisen. Asked to tell of his experience in sinking the Merrimac, he waived the subject with slight and modest reference. He impressed upon his young hearers the great necessity for preparation for the duties of life by the apt illustration of the American victories in the recent war which, he says, were won by careful preparation. The gifted hero has implanted the memory of a day of brightness and gladness in Montevallo.

Shelby.

The majority of us have colds.

Misses Lizzie Sinnott and Lallage Longshore, of Columbiana, were seen driving through our streets Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Finch were called to Anniston last Saturday to attend the bedside of his mother, who is very low.

A couple of Columbiana dudes were seen on our streets with happy faces a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Page and mother, Mrs. Cromwell, visited relatives in our beautiful little city this week.

Services at the Baptist church Sunday were well attended, and two very interesting sermons were delivered by the pastor, Rev. James Hogan, of Birmingham.

These two little girls will look out for more news for the next issue:

Shah's World Clock.

The Shah of Persia, now in Paris, is apparently determined to keep level with the times. He has just bought a clock for his private use which will show him at a glance the time, not only at Teheran, but at twelve other places scattered across the world. When he gets up in the morning he will be able to tell to a second how the world is wagging, from Washington to Pekin, from Yokohama to Berlin, from Rome to Paris, London, St. Petersburg, Vienna, or Bombay, to Teheran or Samarcand. The central dial of the clock, which shows Teheran time, is surrounded with smaller dials giving the corresponding hour in the other cities named. Messrs. Bensons, of Ludgate, have made this remarkable timepiece. The dials are set in richly-engraved ormolu, and the figures are, of course, in Persian. But the case is ornamental with the rose, thistle, and shamrock, on either side of the Prince of Wales' feathers!

The groom may lead the bride to the altar—but his leadership is apt to end there.

WOMEN MUST SLEEP.

Avoid Nervous Prostration.

If you are dangerously sick what is the first duty of your physician? He quiets the nervous system, he deadens the pain, and you sleep well.

Friends ask, "what is the cause?" and the answer comes in pitying tones, nervous prostration. It came upon you so quietly in the beginning, that you were not alarmed, and when sleep deserted you night after night until your eyes fairly burned in the darkness, then you tossed in nervous agony praying for sleep.

MRS. A. HARTLEY.

You ought to have known that when you ceased to be regular in your courses, and you grew irritable without cause, that there was serious trouble somewhere.

You ought to know that indigestion, exhaustion, womb displacements, fainting, dizziness, headache, and backache send the nerves wild with affright, and you cannot sleep.

Mrs. Hartley, of 221 W. Congress St., Chicago, Ill., whose portrait we publish, suffered all these agonies, and was entirely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; her case should be a warning to others, and her cure carry conviction to the minds of every suffering woman of the unfailing efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

PEACE TERMS AGREED UPON.

Foreign Envoys in China Form a Basis for Settlement.

Dr. Morrison, wiring to the London Times from Pekin, says:

'Pressed by the common desire for a speedy termination of present conditions, the foreign envoys have finally agreed to the following terms, to be presented in a conjoint note, which is subject to approval of the government treaty: "China shall erect a monument to Baron von Ketteler on the site where he was murdered, and send an imperial prince to Germany to convey an apology. She shall inflict the death penalty upon eleven princess and officials, already named and suspend provincial examinations for five years, where the outrages within their jurisdiction shall be dismissed and punished.

"Indemnity shall be paid to the states, corporations and individuals. The Tsung Li Yamen shall be abolished and its functions vested in a foreign ministry. National intercourse shall be permitted with the emperor, as in civilized countries.

"The forts at Taku and other forts on the coast of China shall be razed, and the importation of arms and war material prohibited. Permanent legation guards shall be maintained, and also guards of communication between Pekin and the sea.

"Imperial proclamations shall be posted for two years throughout the empire suppressing Boxers."

The indemnity is to include compensation for Chinese who suffered through being employed by foreigners, but not compensation for native Christians. The words missionary and Christion do not occur in the note.

WILL DISCONTINUE

Department of Porto Rico on December 15.

The department of Porto Rico will be discontinued on December 15 by order of the president. The island of Porto Rico and the islands and keys adjacent thereto will be attached to the department of the east and designated as the district of Porto Rico. Officers in command will be returned to Washington for reassignment where needed. Brigadier-General Davis, now in command, will become inspector-general at Manila.

This order leaves in Porto Rico the native regiment, consisting of 850 men, a battalion of the Eleventh infantry and Batteries C, F and G of the Fifth artillery.

Will Send Warship to Morocco.

The government of Morocco has again declined to meet the demands of the United States for the payment of an indemnity on account of the killing by a mob of Marcus Essagin, a naturalized American citizen.

The state department has come to the conclusion that the consul's representations will be more effective if he is supported morally by the presence in Moroccan waters of a United States warship, which will proceed to the point nearest the capital of Morocco.

Nashville Bank Victimized.

The arrest of T. P. Brady upon a federal warrant sworn out by F. O. Watts, cashier of the First National bank, has stirred up a sensation in Nashville, Tenn. The firm of Connor & Brady, composed of J. H. Connor and T. P. Brady, wholesale grocers and liquor dealers, made an assignment Monday and the arrest of Brady followed. In this connection the disappearance last July of W. W. Lea, an individual book keeper of the First National bank, is explained. The two are charged with collusion in defrauding the bank out of $44,000.

Shot Through the Heart and Lives.

Annie Norton, a middle-aged woman of Chattanooga, shot herself with a pistol in the breast a few days ago, and it was thought at the time that she could not live. She is in a fair way to recover, however. The city physician, Dr. Shoff, who has charge of the case, states that he carefully probed the wound and found that the bullet penetrated the heart, going through it. He gives this as one of the very few cases of survival after a bullet wound through that vital organ.

Rural Mail Delivery.

The appropriation for rural free delivery service, which the postmaster-general will ask from congress for the next fiscal year, probably will be upwards of $2,500,000.

Richardson's Majorities.

H. A. Skeggs, chairman of the district democratic committee, estimates Judge Richardson's majority in the district as follows: Colbert county, 800; Jackson, 205; Lawrence, 290; Lauderdale, 100; Limestone, 841; Morgan, 720; Madison, 2,500.

REMARKABLE BLIND MEN.

One Can Go to His Postoffice Box, and Another Is a Jailer.

"Two very remarkable blind men have come under my observation lately," remarked a citizen who has a penchant for the oddities of life. "One is an old gentleman who walks a distance of 10 blocks to the postoffice nearly every day for his mail. He lost his sight more than 20 years ago, and, instead of using a cane as most blind men do, he carries a small, light riding whip, which he holds slightly inclined to the front, with the tip just touching the pavement. His sense of touch has become so delicate that the whip is almost an artificial eye. When the point encounters anything he makes a few swift passes over the surface and generally determines the exact character of the obstacle. Few passers have the least suspicion of the old man's infirmity.

"When he reaches the postoffice he turns unhesitatingly, mounts the middle stairs, walks over to the lock boxes, and, without any feeling around, thrusts a key into the right aperature. That seems to me to indicate a marvelous sense of location. In order to fully appreciate it, just shut your eyes and try to walk across the room and put your finger upon a predetermined spot on the wall. The odds are a hundred to one you will miss it by at least six feet.

"The other notable case is that of an old negro jailer at Franklin, La. He is totally blind, yet he has had charge of the lock-up there for years and gives perfect satisfaction. One can hardly imagine a vocation less adapted to a blind man than that of keeping a jail in order, but the old fellow knows the estblishment as a scholar knows his alphabet, and he guards it so closely that escapes are out of the question. The best evidence of his efficiency is the fact that he has held his job so long."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Bread Was an Extra.

"One of the strangest things about the management of English restaurants," remarked a gentleman who has recently returned from a visit to London to the writer, "is the custom of charging diners for every slice of bread which they eat. For instance, a day or two before my departure from the British capital, I, as a mark of esteem invited several English friends to dine with me at one of the most celebrated of the fashionable West End restaurants. Well, the repast was served in a private room, and everything went off splendidly until I asked that my bill be brought to me. There, to my utter astonishment, the head waiter, in the hearing of the assembled company, approached me, and in a loud voice asked: 'And how many breads 'ave you 'ad, sir?'

"This question I could not answer, as I had not been engaged in counting the number of slices consumed, but one of my guests, who had evidently kept track of the bread, noticing my embarrassment, said in my behalf, 'Four plates.'

"'Ah!' muttered the waiter, 'that's one shillin' h'extra,' and after adding the amount to my bill, he handed it to me for inspection.

"Of course I paid for the bread, but I have been wondering ever since I did so why the American custom of not charging for 'the staff of life' is not introduced over there."—Washington Star.

A Snake's Predicament.

A lady in Durban on getting up one morning heard a most peculiar noise in the pantry, says the Asian of Calcutta. She was astonished to find that a snake had its head and part of its body through the handle of a china jug. Both sides of the snake—that is, the portion on each side of the handle —were bulging out. Then she discerned what had happened. Some eggs had been lying on the shelf, and the snake, after having swallowed one, had crawled partly through the handle of the jug—that is, as far as the swallowed egg would allow—in order to get at another, which it had also swallowed. Naturally enough, it could not then go either forward or backward, through the handle. The lady was just going to call her husband, when the reptile gave a desperate wriggle, and in doing so fell on the floor with a bang, handle and all. But the fall broke both the eggs in its inside, and taking advantage of its release from the handle, it was out in the garden before you could say "Ware!"

For Art's Sake.

"The trouble with the drama of today," said the severe critic, "is that the managers are too fond of the mighty dollar. They produce plays to make money."

"Just so," said his friend. "True art, I suppose, would furnish us all with free passes."—Brooklyn Life.

VALUE OF DOGS.

Wolf Species Contribute to the Country's Development.

Wolf dogs are not the handsomest of their species, yet they are now, and have been in the past, contributing not a little aid to the development of the far northwest. Much has been said of the Klondike, but the wolf dogs, which in the beginning made that frigid El Dorado possible, have received little more than passing comment. Nor has this neglect been due to their being but the humble servants of the master—man. They are far from humble, as their wild ancestry attests. They may be beaten into submission, but that will not prevent them still snarling their hatred. They may be starved into apparent docility and then die suddenly, with teeth fast locked in a brother's throat, torn to pieces by their comrades. Rather has little attention been accorded them because the interest of man has gravitated inexorably toward the natural, mineral and social features of that far-northerly land. But the husky is far from uninteresting. As a type of endurance no better evolved product of natural selection need be sought. If ever a species has been born and bred of hard times it has. Only the fittest in a struggle for existence extending through a thousand generations have survived. And they are well fit. Domesticated by the savage autochthons of that forbidding region, they may not only account their remote ancestors as wild wolves, but often their immediate forbears.

Where Breakfast Is Not Eaten.

For the last fifteen years Dr. E. H. Dewey of Meadville, Pa., has never eaten breakfast. As a result he declares he is always in good health and has never known the pangs of dyspepsia. Dr. Dewey believes that to eat immediately after getting up in the morning is irrational and harmful. At that time the body is recuperated by sleep and is in no need of food. If a heavy breakfast is eaten the vital forces are employed with digestion and consequently a smaller amount of work can be done. So long has Dr. Dewey preached and practiced his peculiar theory that a large percentage of the inhabitants of Meadville have become his disciples, and the breakfast bell is fast becoming unknown in the Pennsylvania town. Dr. Dewey is a practicing physician, and in many cases of severe illness he prescribes not only abstinence from breakfast but from food at any time until the patient is well on the way to recovery. It is his opinion that many diseases are caused by overeating, and that they can be cured quicker by fasting than in any other way.—Chicago Tribune.

Switzerland's Army Is Large.

There is no country in Europe, with the exception of the little governments of Monaco and San Marino, which spends less for military purposes than Switzerland. The annual cost of its army is only about $500,000, and yet, in case of necessity, it can put into the field within two days 100,000 trained soldiers and retain at the same time another 100,000 as reserves, in addition to its militia, numbering 270,000 men, says the New York Herald. In Switzerland young men are trained to become good rifle shots, and there is not a hamlet in the country, without a volunteer association formed for this purpose. Military service is also compulsory from the twenty-second to the thirty-second year, forty-five days' service being required during the first year and sixteen during every subsequent year. The soldiers keep their weapons and uniforms at their own homes, and are held responsible for them by the government, which inspects them carefully once a year.

American Actresses in England.

Several of our American actresses have gone to England and almost without exception own charming houses. We perhaps hear the most about Mrs. James Brown Potter's cottage on the Thames, though her house in London also is famous. The Thames cottage has rare blue china and quaint old furniture.

Expensive Toy Road.

Some children of Macon, Ga., are to have an expensive but highly instructive toy in the shape of a complete miniature trolley line about a mile long. Each car will accommodate eight passengers, and is complete in all details, including electric lights. The railway is to be located in a private park.

Might Have Patronized "Uncle."

The bishop of London told a quaint story the other day at a meeting at the speaker's house, Westminster. A little east end girl was being examined upon the question of the prodigal and his eating of the husks, when she inquired: "What else could he have done?" The child replied: "He could have pawned his little girl's boots."

Illiteracy in Roumania.

Roumania would appear to be the most illiterate country in Europe. The last census shows that, in a population of nearly 6,000,000, nearly 4,000,000 can neither read nor write, and that only a little over 1,000,000 have any education at all.

New South Wales' Population.

The estimated population of New South Wales on June 30 was as follows: Males, 720,420; females, 631,700 —total, 1,361,120. The increase for the half year amounted to 4,470, the smallest price 1860.

NEWSPAPERS IN RUSSIA.

Journals Are Permitted to Print Only News Authorized by the Censor.

The Russian government has gone into the business of publishing news itself, has established a regular press bureau for the circulation of news and supplies all home newspapers now with foreign news. State Councilor Naratoff is the editor-in-chief of news on questions of current politics.

Should a Russian newspaper dare to "handle" news in a manner different from that in which it is furnished the censor takes hold at once. And it is a pretty hard case for which the censor cannot find a handle, as was shown by Count Uvaroff when he found an excuse for warning an editor enemy by citing his eulogy of Pushkin. The editor had said nothing against the government implying disrespect or criticism of the government in his article, but Uvaroff found that Pushkin 'had no position in the government service, was neither a captain nor a head of department and was only a verse writer." So the editor was "warned," and a warning is a serious thing, for it means that the next offense may be punished summarily by the suppression of the paper. Thus one paper, the Gazeta Gatzuka, was warned once and then suppressed for "want of respect for the nobility." The motive of a minister's refusal to authorize a new publication are sometimes curious enough. For instance, not more than three years ago the permission to publish a private newspaper in Tamboy was refused on the ground that the necessity for such a publication there "has not ripened yet," and that "the local official paper is quite efficient for the place." Sometimes a refusal is based on the fact that the local censor, having various other official duties has work enough without a new paper.—New York Press.

The Bishop Ditched.

I remember once driving across the country with Bishop ———, while discussing the nature of the soul. That is, the bishop was discussing; I was only prompting by a question now and then. We were on the rear seat of a wagon, with a driver on the front seat. It was a very dark night. In the middle of the bishop's exposition the wagon took a wild plunge, there was a crash, and over we went into the muddy ditch. "I beg your pardon, gents," said the driver, who had retained control of the horses, as we scrambled to our feet, "I was so interested in hearing the little man discussin' my immortal soul, which I hardly ever knowed that I had one before, that I clean forgot where we was and drove you plump into the ditch."—Ladies' Home Journal.

ST. VITUS' DANCE

Three great and complete cures effected by Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy.

LULU FERRE
CORA LEARMONTH
GRACIE BAILEY

Mrs. J. A. Ferre, who resides near 905 Main Street, Hartford, Conn., says:

"My daughter Lulu became very ill with St. Vitus dance over a year ago. She became so bad that she lost the use of her right arm and side, and we thought at one time she would lose her speech. Her tongue was almost paralyzed. She was so bad she could not feed herself, and at night she would get so nervous I had to sit and hold her. I tried several doctors, but they did not do her any good. I did not find anything that would help her until I tried Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. She is now, by the use of this medicine, entirely cured."

C. H. Bailey, Esq., of Waterbury, Vt., writes:

"I am more than glad to write about my little daughter. Until a short time ago she had always been a very delicate child and subject to sick spells lasting weeks at a time. She was very nervous, and our family doctor said we would never raise her, she was so delicate and feeble. We tried many remedies without the least good. We felt much anxiety about her, especially as no doctors could benefit her, and had great fear for her future. Learning of the wonders being done by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I determined to give it to her. She soon commenced to improve under its use, and rapidly gained in every respect. She eats and sleeps well, and her nerves are strong. The medicine has done wonders for her and it is the best we ever knew. I recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura, blood and nerve remedy, to everybody."

Mrs. J. Learmonth, of 776 Broadway, South Boston, Mass., says:

"At ten years of age my daughter became affected with a nervous condition which soon developed into St. Vitus' dance. It was pronounced by the attending physician to be a very severe attack. The mouth would be drawn spasmodically far to one side, the hands and arms were restless and constantly twitching. Her limbs also were weak; her ankles bent under her so that it was almost impossible to walk. She was so nervous that she would scream almost like a maniac and then have fits of crying. After two months' treatment without a cure, I concluded to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Three bottles entirely cured her. She is now thirteen years old, and has been well ever since, and to-day is a picture of health."

CHINA TROUBLE STILL UNSOLVED

Situation Is Dubious According to Mr. Conger.

FOREIGNERS ARE ALARMED

They Predict That Seas of Blood Will Flow Before Matters Are Placed On a Basis of Peace.

Advices from Pekin under date of November 17 stated that the preliminary note had not yet been presented. Its terms are not completed and there will probably be a further delay. The foreign envoys have reopened the discussion of the death penalty for the princes and other high officials. It is evident that the ministers are weakening as they have reduced their proposal from execution to the severest punishment provided by Chinese law, forgetting that princes lie beyond the reach of Chinese law.

Mr. Conger, the United States minister, had the following to say:

"What the result will be it is impossible to foretell. Events have have placed China in a very critical position. Whether she will be able to preserve her integrity and save her trade relations with the rest of the world will depend upon what the powers demand in the final settlement and upon her willingness to accept promptly the conditions proposed.

Sanitary conditions in Pekin are becoming serious. Since the foreign occupation many Chinese have died of smallpox and other infectious diseases. Fearing that their funerals would be interfered with, they have kept most of their coffins containing their dead in their houses and courtyards.

As the natives are forbidden to deposit refuse in the streets, there is now an enormous accumulation in their dwellings and yards, which threatens a serious epidemic. In view of the large number of troops in and near the capital, the consequences of such an outbreak would be frightful.

MORE TROUBLE IS PREDICTED.

An Associated Press correspondent at Shanghai says: From Pekin to Shanghai it is next to impossible to meet a European or American who has resided any length of time in China but who believes the real trouble has not really commenced. They bitterly reproach the powers for not being more severe in their measures, partiularly for not absolutely destroying the Forbidden City at Pekin. Old residents at Tien Tsin, Che Foo and Shanghai say it was a grave blunder that will in the near future cause the loss of thousands of lives and the destruction of much property.

It is a well authenticated fact that hardly a Chinaman outside the province of Chi Li believes that the allies have had any success at all. Papers are sold in Shanghai, giving graphic details of the alleged capture of Admiral Seymour, General Chaffee and others, as did many of the wonderful stories that emanated from Shanghai a few months ago describing the butchery of the ministers and their families, which were so freely published in all the European and American papers

Not only are the details given at full length, but pictures are published showing the admiral and several generals with carques around their necks being tried before the native judges. Two Chinamen were beheaded recently in Shanghai for publishing "willful slanders and malicious falsehoods" in stating that Pekin had fallen into the hands of the allies and that the empress dowager and the emperor had fled. The most serious part of the whole affair is considered to be the fact that the Chinese judges themselves believed the men were really lying.

The white people in that part of China say that Chi Li is but a very small part of the country, only one province of eighteen, and but of medium size in population, and that if it took as many men as it did to subdue Chi Li, what will it take when the whole country rises as it is ripe to do.

BRATTON BROTHERS FREE.

Slayers of Brown Awarded Verdict of "Not Guilty" By Jury.

The trial of Paul R. and John S. Bratton for the murder of Harry A. Brown was concluded in Yorkville Saturday and resulted in acquittal. One of the features was the absence of Mrs. Fannie A. Bratton, who was wanted as a material witness for the defense. She is John Bratton's young wife, on whose account Brown was killed. A warrant was issued for her arrest, but she was not found.

LIABILITIES SIX FIGURES.

New York Broker Owes More Than a Million Dollars; Assets None.

A New York dispatch says: Francis D. Carley, a well known Wall street broker, filed late on Saturday, at Trenton, a petition in bankruptcy. The petition declares the liabilities to be more than a million and the assets nothing. He furnishes a long list of the principal creditors.

These claims against Mr. Carley, he says, are the result of a venture in the south several years ago in which he lost $1,500,000.

RESULTS DOUBTFUL.

Contrary Course of the Allies In China May Fail to Establish Peace.

The state department has not heard from Minister Conger for four days past. But his last report upon the progress of the negotiations now going on at Pekin between the ministers, taken in connection with the department's ample instructions relative to this subject, warrants the officials at Washington in confirming the Pekin view that the end of these consultations is in sight.

It cannot be concealed, however, that disapproval is entertained of the attitude of the German military commander in China, and though our government has not protested against the punitive expeditions, which it regards as ingeniously calculated to cause fresh outbreaks among the Chinese, it fears the results.

There is no hesitation in energetically denying the European implication that the United States government is moved in its Chinese course by sentimental and unbusiness-like considerations.

On the contrary, it is pointed out that while sentiment is on the side of our government on this matter, it is accompanied by the soundest business considerations, for the animating purpose of the state department now is to prevent the destruction of Chinese territorial integrity upon pretexts; to maintain the open door for which our government so long has contended; to secure indemnities for the past and guarantees for the future.

It is felt that these objects can be secured without breaking the implied truce entered into between the ministers and Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching.

Advices from the most influential Chinese sources agree in stating that American prestige has been greatly advanced in China by the moderate and humane course adopted by the United States.

LORD HELP US!

"Fearful" Punishment Will Be Meted Out to Chinese Officials.

Minister Wu at Washington has received from Director General Sheng the following cablegram which he communicated to Secretary Hay Friday:

"An imperial decree of November 13th deprives Prince Tuan and Prince Chwang of their ranks and offices and orders them to be imprisoned for life; Prince Yih and Secondary Prince Ying to be imprisoned; Secondary Prince Lien to be deprived of his rank; Duke Ian and Ying Nien to be degraded in rank; Kang Pi being dead, no penalty can be imposed upon him; and Shao Shu Chian to be degraded, but retained in office, and Yu Hsien to be exiled to the farthest boundary."

MILES FOR BIG ARMY.

Commanding General Makes Recommendation In His Annual Report.

The feature of the annual report of Lieutenant General Miles, commanding the army, is a chapter dealing with the need for a general reorganization of the military service. In regard to this question he says:

"The need for an efficient and well organized land force for an indefinite period in the future is most obvious, and the organization of such a force cannot be wisely avoided. Such a service as is now demanded of the army cannot be performed by a temporary organization."

A BLACK BRUTE DIES AT STAKE

For Outrage and Murder Of a Little Girl.

FATHER APPLIED TORCH

Enraged Citizens of a Colorado Town Wreak Terrible Vengeance--Culprit Confessed Heinous Crime.

A special from Limon, Col., says: Chained to a railroad rail, set firmly in the ground, on the exact spot where his fiendish crime was committed, Preston Porter, Jr., colored, or, as he was familiarly known, John Porter, Friday evening paid a terrible penalty for his deed.

It was 6:25 o'clock when the father of the murdered girl touched the match to the fuel which had been piled around the negro, and twenty minutes later a last convulsive shudder told that life was extinct. What agony the doomed boy suffered while the flames shriveled up his flesh could only be guessed from the terrible contortions of his face and the cries he gave from time to time.

The executors, who numbered about 300 citizens of Lincoln county, had not the least semblance of the ordinary mob. Their every act was deliberate, and during all the preparations, as well as throughout the sufferings of the negro, hardly an unnecessary word was spoken. Grimly they stood in a circle about the fire until the body was entirely consumed, and then quietly they took their way back to Limon, whence they departed for their homes shortly afterwards.

Preston Porter did not seem to realize the awful punishment that he was destined to undergo. As he had exhibited indifference to the enormity of his crime, so he seemed to lack all understanding of its terrible consequences. For more than an hour, while preparations for his execution were in progress, he stood mute and sullen among the avengers.

When everything was ready he walked to the stake with a firm step, pausing, as he reached the circle of broken boards, to kneel in prayer. He was allowed to take his time. He arose and placed his back to the iron stake and half a dozen men wound chains about his body and limbs.

VICTIM'S FATHER APPLIES MATCH.

Kerosene oil was applied to the wood, and, after a brief pause, Richard W. Frost, the father of little Louise Frost, whose cruelly mutilated body was found one week ago on that very spot, applied a match. For a moment a little flickering flame arose. Then the oil blazed up, sparks flew into the air and the wood began to crackle. Almost instantly the negro's trousers caught fire.

At first he did not utter a sound. The flames crept slowly upward on his clothing, the sparks flew up in a cloud of pale smoke. Porter turned his head and a frightful expression came over his face. With a sudden convulsive tugging he stretched his head as far from the rapidly increasing flames as possible and uttered a cry of pain, "Oh, my God, let me go, men."

The cries of the wretch were redoubled, and he begged repeatedly to be shot. Some wanted to throw him over into the fire; others tried to dash oil on him. Boards were carried and a large pile made of the prostrate body. They soon were ignited, and the terrible heat and lack of air quickly rendered the victim unconscious, bringing death a few moments later.

Throughout the entire affair but little was said. As they had calmly prepared for the avenging, so the people of the eastern part of the state carried out their plan coolly and deliberately. Not a weapon was drawn, there was no angry discussion. After the fire had burned low they told each other good night and then went home. They did not stop to discuss the affair.

PORTER CONFESSED CRIME.

While in jail at Denver the negro confessed every detail of the hideous crime. The little girl was the daughter of a ranchman living four miles from Limon and attended school in town, driving back and forth. On Wednesday last, while on her way home, she was waylaid, assaulted and murdered, her body showing no less than fourteen knife wounds.

Notices have been posted warning Negroes of bad character to leave Lincoln and Elbert counties, and declaring that if they do not go they will be escorted across the border. Officials of the Union Pacific and the Rock Island railroads have also been petitioned to remove from these counties all the imported colored section men. This action was taken in pursuance of resolutions adopted at a mass meeting of citizens.

CHINESE TROOPS MASSED.

Rumor Is Current That One Hundred Thousand Will Oppose Allies.

It is rumored that a rebellion has broken out in the province of Kan Su. Chang Chi Tung, the Wu Chang viceroy, is said to be raising 100,000 troops and to have proposed to the Nankin viceroy that they should combine forces to oppose the allies, making the Yang Tse their base for operations against Shen Si.

WOMAN THROWS AX.

Novel Attempt By a Lunatic to Assassinate Emperor William of Germany.

A news special from Breslau, Germany says: Emperor William was the object of an attempted outrage Friday, which, however, failed.

As he was driving in an open carriage to the Cuirassier barracks, accompanied by the hereditary prince of Saxe-Meiningen, a woman in the crowd hurled and axe at the carriage.

The rapidity with which the vehicle was passing saved its occupants.

The axe or hatchet, fell just behind the carriage. The woman was immediately arrested.

The missile, it developed later, was a short hand-chopper.

The woman's name is Selma Schnapke, and she is believed to be insane. She occupied a place in the front rank of the spectators, on the side furtherest from the emperor. The hatchet, it appears, struck the carriage. A crowd of people who witnessed the act said the outraged crew threw themselves on his majesty's assailant, but the prompt intervention of the police saved the woman from injury.

According to most reports, Emperor William did not notice the incident, but the Breslau Schlesische Morgan Zeitung says he saw what had happened and turned very pale, but continued to greet the bystanders pleasantly.

The entire Breslau garrison was immediately alarmed and drawn up in line on both sides of the route which the emperor took in returning from the barracks to the depot after luncheon.

The news of the attempt on the kaiser created a great sensation in Berlin. It was first reported on the bourse, where the market weakened. The evening papers printed the details in bold type. The accounts agreed that the woman is demented. It seems that she appeared Friday morning in the Breslau court in lunacy proceedings.

While the attack upon the kaiser may not have formed any part of an international plot, there is no doubt that unusual anarchist activity is developing in various countries of Europe, and that the police are taking exceptional precautions against it.

SENATOR MORGON RE-ELECTED.

Alabama Legislature Formally Approves Action of Primaries.

The Alabama legislature Thursday night unanimously re-elected Hon. John T. Morgan to represent the state in the federal senate for the ensuing six years. This is the beginning of his seventh term.

The senator was escorted into the legislative hall by a committee and addressed the assembly. He spoke feelingly of his affection for the people of Alabama, who had honored him so cordially. He said that while all political parties denied it, that sectionalism was even now the bane of government, and that the south would never have its dues so long as northern states had two-thirds of the votes in the senate.

He favored the annexation of Cuba and other such recent acquisitions and the making of states out of them, for the reason that they would be free from sectionalism. He deplored the existence of the national bank system, by which the banks were enabled to control the money of the country. He had very little to say of local issues.

BRATTON BROTHERS ON TRIAL.

They Are Charged With Murder of William Brown at Rock Hill.

The trial of Paul R. Bratton and John S. Bratton, brothers, aged thirty-five and thirty, respectively, began in Yorkville, S. C., Friday. The defendants are charged with having murdered in his bed William Brown, of Rock Hill, a man with a family.

It has been proven that on the night of September 13th the brothers drove from Yorkville, where the brothers live, to Rock Hill, fifteen miles, and that one of them went into Brown's house and fired two bullets into his body while he was in bed.

Three convicts made a dash for liberty at the state penitentiary at Lansing, Kan., Friday afternoon. One was killed and two escaped. They bluffed the guard with a "dummy" revolver made of wood.

ELECTION IN HAWAII

Results In Victory of Royalists as Against Republicans.

Robert Wilcox, the independent Royalist candidate, has been elected Hawaiian delegate to congress by a small majority over Samuel Parker, Republican. Much depression has resulted among all whites, as Wilcox was strongly opposed by Republicans and Democrats alike. His campaign was an anti-white canvass, with promises on the part of some of his campaign workers that if he were elected Queen Lillioukalani should be restored to the throne. The result of the vote shows the native bitterness over annexation to be still alive.

KENTUCKY BANK IS BADLY LOOTED

Cashier Brown Is Found Short Something Over Two Hundred Tousand.

EXAMINER TAKES CHARGE

Lexington Citizens Indignant and Great Excitement Prevails.

A Cincinnati special says: United States Bank Examiner Tucker took possession of the German National bank, at Newport, Ky., Sunday and posted a notice that the bank would remain closed pending an examination.

Examiner Tucker also announced unofficially that Frank M. Brown, the individual bookkeeper and assistant cashier, was missing and that a partial investigation showed that Brown was short about $201,000. Brown had been with the bank eighteen years, was one of the most trusted men ever connected with the old bank, and it is stated by the experts that his operations extend back as far as ten years.

The capital stock of the bank is only $100,000. Brown's alleged shortage is double that amount, and more than the reserve and all the assets, including the real estate. While Alvord got away with $700,000 in New York, he did it in a large bank, but Brown did not have so much to go on, and seems to have gone the full limit for a small bank in a city of less than 30,000 inhabitants. The First National bank of Newport was wrecked two years ago by Cashier Youtsey, and now, with the German National closed, Newport has only one bank left. For two weeks there have been rumors that Brown was short and some depositors withdrew their accounts.

Three weeks ago the bank examiners made a good statement for the bank and the officers and directors allayed suspicion by referring to the report of this examination and to their last statement. Last Wednesday Brown left, and it was announced that he had gone hunting on a vacation. He did get a ticket for Odin, Ills., but it is learned that he did not go there, and it is generally believed that he is out of this country with plenty of money in his possession.

The alleged shortage caused a panic in Newport Sunday, so that the bank had to be taken in charge by the examiner.

Brown, it is alleged, was living a fast life with wine, women and gambling. His career was not cut short by any discovery at the bank till a jealous woman gave him away.

The only farewell letter that Brown is known to have left was to this woman, whose apartments are on Ninth street, in Cincinnati, and in this letter he admits that he had secured about all that he could get and that the time had come to say farewell.

Brown was a great poker player, with the limit, it is said, never too high and he had been a plunger on horse races for years. His bets on the horses, it is alleged, were frequently too high for the poolrooms in Covington, Ky., and he had brokers in both Chicago and New York.

The officess of the bank are all wealthy and responsible men, and they will be able to make the losses good.

There are about 1,500 depositiors in the institution, among them being nine building associations that have the savings of many people.

Brown wrote to the Cincinnati woman that he was bound for South America, but The Enquirer says that it has good authority that Brown sailed from New York Saturday and that his destination is China.

FOR GOVERNOR'S SIGNATURE.

Alabama General Assembly Passes Two "Succession" Bills.

The Alabama senate, Saturday, passed house bills Nos. 1 and 2, which provided respectively that the president of the senate should succeed in the event of the death of the governor-elect; and that the governor-elect might take the oath of office otherwise than in the presence of the general assembly. As soon as these bills passed the senate they were enrolled and signed by the presiding officers of the two houses, after which they were sent to the office of the governor to await his signature.

Schreiber Eludes Detectives.

The authories of the Elizabethport, N. J., Banking Company have about given up hope of capturing William Schreiber, the young clerk who is alleged to have stolen $100,000 from the institution. They now admit that despite the fact that several detectives have been working on the case, absolutely no trace has been found of Schreiber since he decamped.

Many skirmishes occurred and several small engagements in north and southern Luzon. The termination of the rains permits a resumption of the operation on both sides.

THE CANAL TREATY

To Be Passed In Its Original Form Is the Administration's Plan.

Plans are being made by the administration, according to a Washington dispatch, to press with vigor the ratification by the senate of the Hay-Pauncefort treaty in its original form, as the first step toward constructing an isthmian canal.

This action is likely to precipitate one of the memorable contests of the coming session of congress. Opposition to the treaty is based on the fact that it provides that no fortification shall be erected an the canal. The Hepburn bill, which has passed the house, provides for the construction and protection by the secretary of war of a Nicaraguan canal. In addition Senator Davis has brought before the senate and commission on foreign relations that the treaty shall restrict measures which the United States may find necessary for the defense of the United States.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

Bill Introduced in the House of Representatives Monday.

Representative Harwood, of Greene, introduced in the house Monday a bill providing for the holding of a constitutional convention in Alabama. With a few exceptions the bill is identical with that passed by the general assembly two years ago. The Harwood bill provides for 150 delegates to the convention, fifty of whom shall come from the state at large with at least one from each of the thirty senatorial districts. The bill further provides for the submission of the constitution as framed to a vote of the qualified electors of the state for the ratification or rejection. The date for holding the election and convention is not set out in the bill, but was left to the committee to which the bill was referred. It seems to be the opinion of the committee that the election to determine the holding of a convention sit for fifty working days during May and June. The ratification election will probably be ordered for August.

Mr. Dill, of Jefferson, introduced into the house a bill creating an associate judge for the Birmingham criminal court.

Mr. Leath, of Jefferson, presented two bills of especial importance, seeking to regulate the employment of children in mines and factories, and regulating the hours for labor.

UNDER ONE HEAD.

All Labor Organizations Will Probably be Amalgamated.

John Mulholland, president of the International Association of Allied Mechanics, has returned to Toledo, O., from extended conferences with the heads of various metal-working organizations of the country that were held in New York and Washington. He says that the convention of the American Federation of Labor to be held in Louisville in December will be the greatest of its kind ever held, and that a mammoth labor organization will be formed that will be able to cope with any legitimate situation, and will work through conservative lines. It will practically amalgamate all organizations in any way interested and which are morally affiliated at present.

Dr. Moseley's Remains.

Instructions have been sent to the consul-general at Yokohoma to have the remains of R. A. Moseley, Jr., late United States consul-general at Singapore, forwarded to his home in Alabama for interment. Consul-General Moseley died last Wednesday at Yokohoma, where he had gone on leave of absence.

Cyclone Struck Summit, Miss.

A cyclone which came from the south struck the lower edge of Summit, Miss., Monday, completely demolishing two residences, damaged a dozen others more or less, leveled fences and uprooted trees. Mrs. A. M. Allison and Mollie Norman were seriously injured.

Big Fire in San Antonio.

The A. B. Frank Company, wholesale grocers, and Gold, Frank & Co., wholesale dry goods, San Antonio, Tex., suffered a fire Monday which inflicted a loss of over $250,000. The damage is fully covered by insurance.

Milder Punishment.

The London Morning Post's correspondent wiring from Pekin says: "The edict inflicting punishment is milder than the first reports suggested. Prince Tuan and Prince Chwang are only banished and not imprisoned. Duke Lan is merely dismissed. The foreign envoys cannot accept the edict owing to the inadequacy of the punishments."

ALABAMA NEWS ITEMS

Physicians Give Out Statement of Colonel Samford's Condition.

The rumor and alleged statement of one of the consulting physicians attending upon Governor-elect William J. Samford that the distinguished patient is suffering with paresis, brought forth an emphatic denial that such was the case, and the following authorized and authentic statement from the consulting physicians:

"Of the number of prominent physicians who have seen Colonel Samford in consultation, not one has offered paresis as a cause of his trouble. The opinion of all is that his trouble is primarily heart trouble, threatened at present with uremic poisoning, due to the defective action of the kidneys. This symptom has been in great measure relieved. The mild delirium from which he suffers is merely an incident of the disease, and will, without doubt, pass away upon his recovery."

Colonel Samford is in a critical condition and is liable to die at any moment.

Unless an unexpected change in his condition occurs, he will not be able to be inaugurated as governor of Alabama on December 1.

Inspecting Coosa River.

Members of the Congressional rivers and harbors committee Monday began an inspection of the Coosa river for the purpose of determining the advisability of building twenty-seven more locks on that stream between Rome and the gulf, giving an open passage and greatly increasing the horse-power for manufacturing purpose. The party is composed of Representatives Bishop, of Michigan; Alexander, of New York; Laurence, of Massachusetts; Lester, of Georgia, and Bankhead, of Alabama. President Burton and the other members of the committee will meet the party at Gadsden.

Marshal of Gurley Shot.

John Childress, city marshal of Gurley, was shot in the back and fatally wounded Monday by Dave Wilburn. Wilburn was arrested Saturday for being drunk by the marshal, who was compelled to club him. Monday Childress was standing with a crowd of friends talking when he was approached from behind Wilburn, who opened fire with two pistols. Childress fell with two bullets in the head. His body was riddled before friends could interfere. Wilburn fled, but was pursued by a posse and was shot down. He was slightly wounded.

Tragedy at Uniontown.

K. D. Chandler, a traveling representative for the McDonald March Company, of Mobile, was killed at Uniontown Monday by T. L. Estes, a blacksmith, who gave himself up. Estes, who had just returned home, was attacked by Chandler with a bludgeon. He grappled with his assailant and managed to get out his knife, with which he cut Chandler's throat, causing instant death.

Asleep on the Track.

Two unknown white men were run over and killed at Alabama City Monday by the Louisville & Nashville passenger train. The men were said to be drunk and asleep on the track and were seated just around a curve, and it was impossible for the engineer to see them until it was too late. They were literally cut to pieces.

Bale of Cotton Fell on Him.

Everett Houston, a well known citizen of Greene county, lies in a dangerous condition at his home, the result of an accident at Clinton a few days ago. He was standing near the platform at the gin house of Brown & Hagaman when a bale of cotton fell on him, injuring his spinal column and inducing paralysis, which, however, is believed to be temporary.

A New Knitting Mill.

The Thompson Land and Investment company has interested a number of Northern capitalists in Huntsville and they have decided to establish a $100,000 knitting mill. Fine underwear and hose will be the products of the proposed industry.

Stout Mountain Road.

The grading of the Stout Mountain branch of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, in Blount county, is completed and track laying will commence shortly.

Members of the Knights of Pythias in Anniston have begun a movement looking to the erection of a charity hospital at that place.

THE ALABAMA GEMERAL ASSEMBLY.

The general assembly of Alabama convened on Tuesday of last week, and up to this writing has been a very busy body. Senator Jelks, of Barbour county, was elected president of the senate, and Francis L. Pettus speaker of the house. The latter gentleman has repeatedly occupied the position as speaker of the house and president of the senate, and is at home in this role. He makes a very fine presiding officer and will despatch the business coming before the house in a manner which will give satisfaction to all. Senator Jelks assumes the gavel as would one who had had years of experience. He is a man of ability, a fine parliamentarian, and there is no fears but he will prove himself adequate to any emergency. It is a very fortunate thing too that so good a man and efficient business man should have been selected for this position, as the chances are that he may have to assume the responsible duties of chief executive of Alabama. We hope and pray that this may not be, but it is, to say the least of it, comforting to know that, in the sad event of the death of Col. Samford, we will have such a man as Senator Jelks at the helm of the ship of state.

There have been many bills introduced, two of which were designed to relieve the complications and confusion that would have existed had Col. Samford died. At this writing (Monday) these bills have passed both houses, and only need the signature of the governor for them to be laws. There is much conjecture as to what Governor Johnston will do in reference thereto. Should he refuse to sign them there is no doubt but that the general assembly will pass them over his veto. The situation in reference to the present status of the matter was explained in our issue of last week. Of course if no law is passed, and the governor-elect should die before having been sworn in, the present governor would continue to act as governor until his successor should be elected and qualifies. So far as we are concerned we don't believe that Governor Johnston has any desire to do anything in reference to the grave situation that may confront us in the early future but what he conceives to be his duty. We trust, however, that Governor-Elect Samford may live to solve the problem by his presence and the personal execution of the duties of his office. This would please the people of Alabama better than anything else that could occur.

TRUST THE PEOPLE.

The Age-Herald of last Sunday, under the heading, Constitutional Reforms, gives expression to sentiments which evidence a feeling of doubt in the mind of the writer as to whether or not the present legislature would pass an act providing for a submission to the people of Alabama the question of calling a constitutional convention. We may have misjudged the feelings prompting the article. And we concur fully in everything contained in it, so far as pertains to the arguments used in favor of the prompt passage of the bill; but we have heard nothing to lead us to even have any mistrust or misgivings as to this bill. As is well said by our contemporary, the present members were nearly all elected on this issue of convention or no convention, and where democrats were defeated, as in this county, it was largely on this issue. We can't conceive of this legislature going through the present session and not introducing and passing this bill. We would miss the opportunity of our lives. We feel sure now that a large majority of the voters of the state are in favor of a constitutional convention and we, for our part, are in favor of giving them an opportunity at any rate of giving expression as to how they do stand and what they do desire. We should not fear to risk the people. There is a demand on the part of the sovereign voters of Alabama for the passage of this bill, and woe be to that man who raises a hand against it, or throws an obstacle in its way.

* * *

Senator John Tyler Morgan, our "grand old man," succeeds himself in the United States senate. His address before the democratic caucus was an able one, and was proof that he had lost none of his powers and gift of speech. His views of the condition of things as they exist, as expressed in his address, will be widely read and carefully pondered. The influence of such a man as Senator Morgan, in a state or nation, can not be easily overestimated. When he speaks all listen; when he writes all read. His life, for more than a quarter of a century, has been devoted nearly exclusively to the service of his country and his career of usefulness can be pointed to with pride by future generations of Alabamians and of Americans, and the youth of our country will be incited to active exertions and noble deeds by the life of this great man. May he live long to receive the homage of an admiring people.

SHELBY COUNTY'S PUBLIC ROADS.

There are matters concerning which newspapers might write in which only a few individuals would be interested; there are others which would only interest certain sections of the country; but there are others again in which every man, woman and child has an interest and should feel interested. The matter of public roads will come within the latter. Yes; every one is interested in public roads, from the old decrepit man, wending his way on crutch and stick, to the babe jostled in the country ox cart. Public roads are an absolute necessity. There is no way in the wide, wide world for getting along without them. No country, since the peopling of this planet, has been able to dispense with public roads. The wild men of the forests recognized their necessity, and from wigwam to wigwam, from hunting ground to gunting ground were tramped out paths sufficient, to some extent, for their only uses, and they became public from the manner of their using. Even the animals, wild and domestic, have their instinctively selected roads, which became public to all of that class and family of animal.

Our law books define a public road as meaning either a road which has become public by the character and length of time of its using, or one made public by an order of the proper and legally constituted authorities in any given territory or section. It is of the latter class of public road, of course, to which we intend this article to apply. Now, we said public roads were an absolute necessity. We will go further and say that good, improved public roads will, sooner or later, become an absolute necessity to any county or section of country if that county or section expects to build up and become what every patriotic, refined citizen desires it to be. Yea, we will come closer home and say that good, improved public roads in Shelby county are an absolute necessity for Shelby county if she expects to build up and improve in population and general prosperity and do anything like keeping pace with other sections of the state.

There can be no doubt but good, first-class public roads, wisely and judiciously established and zealously and intelligently cared for and improved, do more to build up a country or section than any other one agency. We don't have to go far to prove this proposition. Look at our sister county, Jefferson. What has made her what she is? You may say her iron, coal and mineral interests. We take issue with you on this answer. True, these interests are great and figure largely in making Birmingham and Jefferson county what they are. But it has not been these which have built up, improved and beautified every town and hamlet nearly in Jefferson county. If so, why should Shelby county lag behind as she is doing on the question of public roads. She also is rich and inexhaustible in these minerals and other material resources, both developed and undeveloped. She has her Shelby Iron Works, her Montevallo Coal and Transportation Co., and numerous other rich iron and coal mining businesses distributed all over the county. Then she has a combination of the finest lime manufactures, turning out a superior quality of lime, that can be found in any county in the state.

And it is a fact that right up to the entrances to these mines and doors of these enterprises the public roads are, in many instances, nearly impassable. No; this is not the sole reason of Jefferson county's success. But she early saw the point and went to work right to have this natural wealth developed in such a manner as would at the same time build up and improve the whole county. She spent her money to build up and improve her public roads. She now has as good roads as can be found in the South, and what are the results? She boasts of being the largest county in population in the South. Let Shelby county awake from her lethargy and go to work in this direction, intelligently and earnestly, and not many years will pass before we can all see the happy results. Then, and not till then, will our good and rich old county begin to blossom as the rose. Then will her real estate enhance in value. Then will homeseekers from all parts of the world be attracted to her borders. Then will we have a county of which we will all be proud and where we can live happily and contentedly and gladly transmit to our posterity the grand results of our enterprise.

Thanksgiving next Thursday.

Dr. B. H. Smothers, of Weldon, was in the city Tuesday.

Mrs. J. W. Bykes, of Essonville, visited in the city this week.

Mrs. F. W. Gist, of Calera, was among the visitors here last week.

W. Milner, of Birmingham, is visiting relatives in our city this week.

Attorney J. E. Webb, of Birmingham, was over on professional business Tuesday.

Messrs. Deans, Thomas and Glenn, of Shelby, were up Sunday looking after their interests.

Quite a number of our young people went out to the beat association of Sunday schools at Bethel Sunday afternoon.

Sam Lefkovits, of Bessemer, one of the firm of the Columbiana Mercantile Co., is looking after business matters here this week.

Miss Myrtle Thompson left Sunday for Six Mile, where she went to accept a position as assistant in the school of Prof. Bird.

The Clardy building, formerly occupied by the Hall Drug Co., has been overhauled in the interior and a new coating of paint applied.

More drunkenness was noticed on our streets Saturday than for quite awhile. We thought there was a city ordinance to protect our citizens along these lines.

Rev. A. E. Burns filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Sunday. We understand that he is contemplating severing his pastoral relations with the church at this place, much to the regret of all our people.

On Saturday of last week the little six year old daughter of Mr. J. D. Smith died at Dogwood and was buried on Monday at the family cemetery, about three miles west of this place. The parents have our deepest sympathy in this their dark hour of bereavement.

"Uncle James" McGowen came running up the steps yesterday to give us his renewal and said he didn't want his subscription to be delinquent. When told that his subscription does not expire for many months yet, he breathed easier and said that he had read the label on his paper without specs. We can count on his renewal always.

The Sunday school beat associatian met last Sabbath afternoon at Bethel church, three miles north of this place. There was quite a large crowd present and much interest was manifested in the Sunday school work. The next meeting of the association will be held in Columbiana on the third Sunday in January, at which time it is proposed to have Miss Haley, of Birmingham, to demonstrate the method of teaching the primary department. It is hoped that every school in the beat will have a representative at that meeting.

The latest news from Governor-Elect Samford, before going to press, as contained in the Age-Herald, is that a statement has been given out by his physicians to the effect that he is not suffering with paresis, as has been rumored; that the primary trouble comes from his heart, and that uremic poison is threatened due to the defective action of his kidneys. This condition, however, has been partially relieved. His condition is very critical, and it is not believed that he can be inaugurated on December 1.

A bill was introduced in the house soon after its organization to make Bessemer county. It was proposed to make this new county out of Jefferson, Bibb, Shelby and Walker counties. As soon as it was introduced a motion was made by Mr. Long, of Walker county, to refer it to a special committee to be composed of a member from each of the counties to be affected by the bill. This was done, notwithstanding the earnest protest of the member from Jefferson who introduced it. This disposition of it gave it what is termed a "black eye." The bill will hardly become a law, and Bessemer will hardly be added to the list of the counties in Alabama for the present.

Just as was predicted elsewhere in this issue, a bill providing for a constitutional convention has been introduced in the house, by Representative Harwood, of Greene county. We felt morally certain that one of the great works with which the people had entrusted their representatives would not be allowed to slumber. The provisions of the bill are not materially different from the bill passed by the last legislature, which was repealed by the extra or special session. [illegible] other things it provides for the submission to the people for their ratification of whatever constitution may be adopted by the convention, should a convention be held. This removes one of the greatest barriers that has lain in the way of the convention. The people have been made to fear that the constitution would not be submitted back to them. Now that this objection has been removed we see nothing in the way of a constitutional convention.

There have been some changes made in the dealings of the bank here with its customers and the public which will doubtless be of interest to many of our readers, and we therefore give them. Having heard something of a contemplated change, a representative of this paper called upon Mr. DuBose and from him obtained the following facts, which are the principal features in the new order of things: First, from and after this date the bank will confine its loans exclusively to its regular customers, the amounts loaned to any one will be in the proportion of about four dollars to every one dollar of the average amount of deposits, and will only charge 8 per cent interest and discount, where discounts are made; second, the rate of exchange on checks and bills will be the same as charged by city banks. Now who can say that Shelby county has not a first-class banking institution in her midst?

The Farmers' Insurance for Shelby county convened in the court house last Saturday. The president, Rev. J. G. Walker, called the meeting to order and made some appropriate remarks, after which Rev. T. M. Nelson led the association in prayer. The secretary called the roll of members and reported property insured amounting to $97,000, and one third only of the county worked. Mr. Newton, general agent, addressed the association; then several members made short, interesting talks. There was much interest manifested. Churches and school buildings are insured free of cost, and exempt from assessment, by resolution of association. This county association was organized and the insurance went into effect last Saturday at 12 o'clock. The general agent and his assistants will continue the canvass and run the insurance to $200,000.

Dispensary Movement.

On Friday evening, the 23d, at 7:00 o'clock, there will be a mass meeting of the citizens of Columbiana held in the court house to discuss the advisability of having a dispensary established here. This is a question that is of the greatest interest to everyone who lives in our town, and all should be present.

The ladies are especially invited.

To Teachers.

I will examine teachers at Columbiana December 3d at 10 o'clock a. m. I regret that I can not obtain copies of Alabama School Laws with which to supply the teachers and trustees throughout the county. Chapter 100, article 1 to 17 Code of 1896 gives full information of the laws governing public schools of Alabama.

Shelby.

The country looks more prosperous since McKinley was reelected.

Miss Belle Huyett visited friends in our city last Wednesday.

Rev. A. T. Clarke was absent Sunday evening to officiate at the wedding of Mr. Walter B. Seale, of this place, to Miss Alice Lena Browning, of Calera.

Messrs. Glenn, Thomas and Dean are making frequent Sunday visits to Columbiana.

Miss Lottie Belle Cromwell made a flying trip to Columbiana Friday.

Shelby was well represented at the beat meeting at Bethel church Sunday.

Miss Lizzie Halmark visited relatives in Calera the first of the week.

Mrs. E. C. Parker is visiting relatives and friends in New Orleans.

Mrs. Ida Sturdevant has been quite sick for the past week, but is improved at this writing.

Our L. & N. agent left for a few hours business trip last week.

VIOLET AND PINK.

Montevallo.

Mr. Frank J. Kroell was shot Saturday night by Miles Goodwin, of Aldrich, near Kroell's store. It was a narrow escape for Mr. Kroell, the ball missing his spinal column about a quarter of an inch, and going entirely through his body. He is getting along nicely and nothing serious is apprehended from the wound. Goodwin made his escape without being arrested. The trouble grew over a garnishment suit.

The remains of Mr. Peddy Oldham, one of the unfortunate victims of the Southern collision at Hargrove Sunday, were brought here Monday and interred at the West graveyard, near Concord.

Subscribers have filed declarations of incorporation for the Dogwood Coal Company, operating at Ryans.

The merchants are beginning to embellish their windows with holiday goods of a high grade, indicative of good times in the country and for the little folks, and plenty of work for old Santa Claus.

The pupils of the music and elocution departments of the Industrial school gave a recital Saturday afternoon, which was enjoyed by a number of visitors. The splendid execution of the programme reflected great credit on the teachers in these departments. Other similar entertainments were promised by Dr. Peterson for the future.

Three large congregations worshipped in as many churches Sunday morning. At the Presbyterian church Rev. D. D. Little, the pastor, was installed with most interesting exercises. Rev. D. McQueen, of Anniston, preached the installation sermon and delivered the charges to the pastor and congregation. Mr. Little is a youthful looking preacher, but is earnest and gifted, and will make a most useful minister.

Cotton comes rolling in after the election, although some of our farmer friends were somewhat disappointed that McKinley didn't run up the price a few buttonholes higher.

X.

Redlawn.

Rain the first of the week.

Dr. E. B. Teague has moved from our town to Harpersville, and we regret to give him up. But what is our loss is Harpersville's gain.

W. J. Miner is at Vincent this week on professional business.

Rev. H. M. Millstead filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church Sunday morning and delivered a good sermon to a small but attentive congregation.

Taylor & Son have sold out their mill and gin to the Horton Brothers, of the Kingdom, who will take hold of the business in a few days; and we think they will meet with success, as this is a good section for a mill and gin.

D. M. Smith and family have been at Dogwood for the past week at the bedside of his granddaughter, little Ellen Smith.

Corn and cotton about all gathered, and the farmers are all busy sowing wheat and oats.

Walter Miner was at Dogwood the front end of the week.

J. D. Riddle, of Lewis, was in our parts Sunday.

Several of the boys attended divine service at union Sunday morning.

J. M. Taylor and wife were visiting in Talladega county Sunday and Monday last.

Rumor has it that Redlawn will lose one of its finer sex December 23.

BUD.

Ex-Chief Justice R. C. Brickell of the supreme court of Alabama died on the 20th instant at his home in Huntsville. Judge Brickell was 70 years old, one of the best lawyers in the state, and the author of Brickell's Digest.

The day set apart for this nation to return thanks to the "Giver of all good and perfect gifts" is the 29th of this month. Thanksgiving services will be held on that day at 11 o'clock at the Presbyterian church in this place. We as a community, as well as the entire nation, have much to render thanks for, and we think our people should suspend business during the hours set apart for this service at the Presbyterian church and attend.

Our sister county, Jefferson, is a great county. Birmingham is a great city, and her future possibilities are unmeasured and unmeasurable by anything we can see in the prospectus. It is a privilege to live alongside such a county as Jefferson and in such close proximity to such a city as Birmingham. We say it is a privilege, and we repeat it. Her thrift and enterprise and general get up, as shown by everything with which you come in contact, from the time you strike the Jefferson county line until you arrive in the heart of that city truly and justly called the Magic City, are an inspiration. Her example is worthy of inspiration. She has, it is true, many natural advantages over any county in Alabama, or in the South for that matter, but too much can not be said in commendation of the enterprise, push and energy of her citizenship. Her good roads, as one item alone in the list of her enterprises, has done more possibly to add to her huge population than all other causes together, and there is no estimating the amount of wealth brought into this great county through the medium of her fine roads. Let other counties go and do likewise.

An Old Idea.

Every day strengthens the belief of eminent physicians that impure blood is the cause of the majority of our diseases. Twenty-five years ago this theory was taken as a basis for the formula of Browns' Iron Bitters. The many remarkable cures effected by this famous old household remedy are sufficient to prove that the theory is correct. Browns' Iron Bitters is sold by all dealers.

Growth of Golf.

Six years ago there were only five clubs in the United States Golf Association. Now there are twenty-five associate and 225 allied clubs on the roll. There are now in existence about twenty state or other branch leagues subordinate to the United States Golf Association, and that in many instances a golf club is content to remain only a member of its local organization is shown by the record in Newman's Official Golf Guide for 1900, which gives a list of nearly 900 regularly organized clubs. New York heads the list, with 153. The same authority estimates that there are at least 200,000 golfers in the United States.

Cool Under Fire.

That "man gets used to anything" has been shown again by the extraordinary cases of coolness under fire at the front in the South African war. At Labuschagne's nek a private in the deadly zone of fire tore open a letter from his sister and began to read it eagerly; a wounded batsman at Ladysmith finished his run at cricket before dropping dead; a trooper named Charles Hands kept his cigarette alight between falling from his horse with a fractured thigh and being taken to the hospital.

Wants a Pine Funeral.

A rich widow at Topeka, Kan., has given her lawyer these instructions: "I don't want my body embalmed. I want a pine coffin, to cost not more than $10. There must not be more than the hearse and two carriages at my funeral."

LAND OF HUMMING BIRD.

Phenomenon That Follows Digging in Trinidad's Asphalt Lake.

The tourist may take passage to the "land of the humming bird"—as Trinidad people like their country to be called—and after securing accommodation at the only decent hotel in the colony, proceed to the lake by one of the small government steamers plying coastwise three times weekly, disembark at the Brighton pier, and proceed to the scene of "digging." Of all the crude, rough and ready means of extracting wealth from mother earth, the Trinidad lake asphalt operations are the most striking, says a writer in the New York Post. The Visitor arrives on a fairly level plateau, spotted here and there with tiny pools of water, beneath which the soft shiny substance known as asphalt glitters in the reflections of a fierce tropical sun. Scattered over the surface of the lake dozens of swarthy negroes are plying pick and hoe, extracting the tar-coaly looking stuff from the earth. One may sit in the shade of a near-by shrub or under the protecting shelter of an umbrella and watch the negroes pile heap after heap of the asphalt into the end of the endless chain of tubs that hurry along to the pier, from which one has but recently landed, until a yawning excavation of twenty or more feet suggests to the supervising darky that the time has come to move a bit further on. In the course of a few hours the excavation resulting from the morning's diggings begins to look less deep, and by the evening the spot from which more than five or ten tons have been dug is again level with the surrounding earth and ready to be dug over by the gang of noisy blacks. From the point of digging to the pier is about a mile or less of endless-chain descent; moored to the pier are big sailing vessels and sometimes steamers, into whose capacious holds the tubs discharge the pitch at the rate of two or three hundred tons per day.

Chinese Learning.

There is much to be learned after the world captures China. Many scientists believe that the nucleus of great events is imbedded amid the mysteries of that great region of country, which may not be so benighted as is generally supposed. The preservation of grapes, to make use of one illustration of Chinese industry, is one of the many things that is only known in that country. Millions have been spent in civilized countries in futile attempts to preserve this fruit. The Chinese have known the secret for many centuries and millions more have been vainly used in the effort to drag from them the recipe.

Judges Need Not Be Lawyers.

In Colorado it is not necessary that judges of county courts shall be lawyers. The result has been that decisions of such tribunals, when appealed, are reversed in almost half the cases. It is found that in nearly all cases county courts get at the equity all right, but err as to technicalities, and it is suspected that more or less unscrupulous lawyers lay traps to bring about just such results.

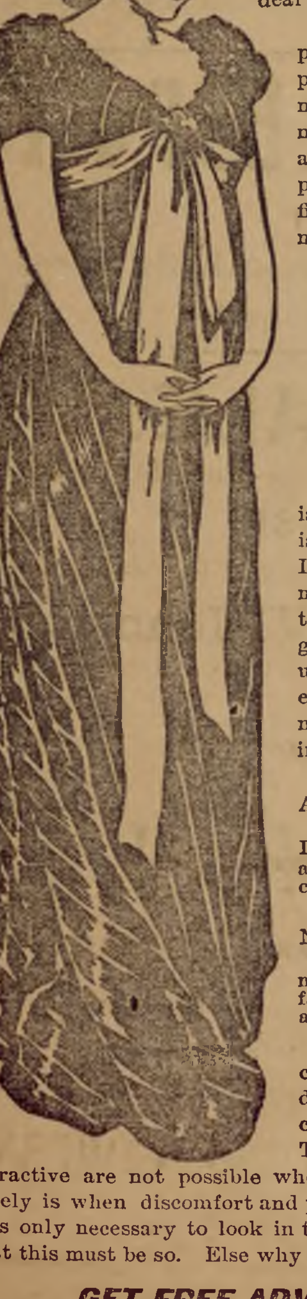
FADED IN HER YOUTH

Pretty faces and graceful forms of young women! Why is it they are so soon replaced by plainness and lankness? It is because the young girl just entering into womanhood does not know how to take care of herself and has no one competent to instruct her. It is not necessary that there should be anything weakening or wearying about the functions of a female organism. Parents of young girls should inform themselves and prevent their dear ones from making costly errors.



That young woman has a just cause of complaint, who is permitted to believe that great periodic suffering is to be expected, that severe mysterious pains and aches are part of her natural experience as a woman. These things are making constant war on her health, her disposition and her beauty. It is a wanton sacrifice, absolutely unnecessary and cruel. It is more—it is criminal.

Dr. Greene's
NERVURA
for the Blood and Nerves

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, is the right medicine for every young girl who is just entering the first stage of womanhood. It prepares the system in every way to act normally. It enriches the blood supply, and keeps the nerves calm and steady. Fortified with this great medicine, all the womanly duties may be undertaken and experienced without the slightest jeopardy to health. It preserves the gifts of nature and assists their development into glowing, healthful beauty.

MRS. MARY FRANCES LYTLE, of 2 Hunter Alley, Rochester, N. Y., says:

"I was very pale and delicate—had no color. I took Dr. Greene's Nervura, blood and nerve remedy, and now I am well and strong, my face is plump, and cheeks red, and my complexion pure."

MRS. WILLIAM BARTELS, 239 East 87th St., New York City, says:

"Dr. Greene's Nervura made a wonderful improvement in my health, and that dark, sallow look left my face. My friends hardly know me. I have gained flesh and am like a different person."

The nervousness in women which invariably comes with pain is of itself certain to stop the development of beauty in face and figure. Excited nerves make sharp lines and hasty speech. The beautiful curves which make women so attractive are not possible when the female organism is out of order, as it surely is when discomfort and pain are always or even periodically present. It is only necessary to look in the faces of young women everywhere to see that this must be so. Else why are they so pale and thin?

GET FREE ADVICE FROM DR. GREENE

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. It is possible to every woman who takes the matter in hand intelligently. Get advice from Dr. Greene, the great specialist in these matters. He will tell you why all this is so, and show you how to avoid the stumbling blocks that bar woman's way to happiness. You may consult Dr. Greene without cost by calling or writing to him at his office, 35 West 14th Street, New York City. Don't throw away your beauty. Write to Dr. Greene to-day.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Summary of the Doings of Alabama's Law Makers at Montgomery.

There was a flood of bills introduced into the lower house of the general assembly Wednesday. Fifty-seven bills was the day's record. Outside of the introduction of bills there was nothing of special importance brought up before the sessions.

A number of very important bills were presented in the house. The first in importance was presented by Mr. Oliver, of Chambers, providing for the calling of a constitutional convention in Alabama. This bill provides for the submission of the question to a vote of the electors of the state as to whether a convention shall be held.

Another bill of importance was by Mr. Gunnels, of Calhoun, seeking to grade the public schools of the state. Mr. Bulger, of Tallapoosa, also presented a bill to provide for a uniform system of text hooks for the free schools.

A bill was introduced seeking to prohibit the sale of cigarettes, cigarette paper or cigarettes in the state.

An important bill was presented by Mr. O'Brien of Jefferson, providing for a survey of the several counties in the state to ascertain more perfect county boundaries.

Mr. Pettus, of Limestone, presented a bill seeking to make June 3 of each year, Jefferson Davis' birthday, a legal holiday.

In the senate a bill was introduced to regulate primary elections in the state and another to appropriate $25,000 to aid the Alabama Insane hospital.

Thursday's session of the legislature was without special interest except the passage by the house of bills Nos. 1 and 2, relating to the governorship and the administration of the oath of office to the chief executive, which were introduced the first day of the session.

The house was in session but an hour. The passage of two and the introduction of sixty-seven bills marked the day's work.

On motion of Mr. Tunstall, of Hale, the regular order was suspended and the passage of bills taken up. Mr. Tunstall said that he made the motion because of the very urgent demand for the passage of house bills 1 and 2. The Bulger bill, amending section 1953 of the code, so that any officer eligible to administer an oath of office shall be eligible to administer an oath to the governor, was called up, read a third time and passed without debate. The vote was 83 ayes and 1 nay.

The Tunstall bill, prescribing who shall assume the duties of the office of governor in case of the death of the governor-elect, or of his failure to qualify, was read a third time and passed without debate by a vote of 83 to 0.

At night Hon. John T. Morgan was nominated by the democratic caucus for his fifth term in the senate of the United States. He received all of the votes cast in the caucus, 115.

The feature of the proceedings in the house Friday was a bill which was introduced by Mr. Lacy, of Jefferson county, who resides at Bessemer, a town of some 6,000 inhabitants, which is situated twelve miles from Birmingham, providing for the creation of a new county to be known as Bessemer county and to be created by carving slices out of the counties of Bibb, Shelby, Walker, Tuskaloosa and Jefferson. This bill produced the first lively discussion of the session. It was referred for consideration to a special committee to be composed of the representatives from the counties interested.

Mr. Graves, of Montgomery, introduced a bill for the election of the members of the board of revenue of Montgomery county by the people. At present they are appointed by the governor.

Mr. Whitson, of Talladega, offered a joint resolution petitioning the secretary of state to consent to no arrangement that would cause the Chinese ports to close their markets to cotton goods.

Speaker Pettus announced the standing committees for the session.

In the senate, Mr. Blackman introduced a bill to exempt from state, county and municipal taxation the sale and manufacture of wines and rums made in Alabama from grapes grown in this state. This bill is of special interest in the counties in the state having German settlements.

Senator Thompson introduced a bill providing that the state loan the Montevallo school $100,000, $50,000 of the amount to be repaid when the school sold the lands which was recently donated to it by the general government.

Mr. Windham introduced a bill which is of great interest to farmers. It provides that where a laborer has made one contract and makes another without giving notice of the first, he shall be punished by a heavy fine.

The senate, before adjournment, announced its standing committees.

Probably no young woman ever reformed a man by laboring with him. The most effective way for young women to reform men that need it is to leave them alone.

JACKSON'S PERIL.

Almost Forgotten Attempt on the President's Life.

On March 30, 1835, Gen. Jackson was attending the funeral of Warren R. Davis, a member of congress from South Carolina, at the capitol, and while walking in procession to take a carriage on the east front of the capitol he was approached by a man named Richard Lawrence, who presented a pistol within a few feet of him. The cap exploded, but did not ignite the charge. Lawrence threw the pistol away and drew another, which also missed fire. Gen. Jackson was on the arm of Mr. Woodbury, secretary of the treasury, but pursued the assassin with raised cane. Lieut. Gedney of the navy knocked Lawrence down, and the friends of the president tried to restrain him, but he said: "Let me go, gentlemen; I am not afraid. They can't kill me. I can protect myself." Lawrence was arrested and arraigned before Judge Cranch and committed. At the trial he behaved much as Guiteau did, interrupting the proceedings and talking all the time, until the judge ordered him to be removed from the court room. A commission appointed to examine into his condition reported him of unsound mind. He was committed to an insane asylum, where he lived for many years. There was an attempt made to involve some political adversaries of Gen. Jackson in this attempt on his life, but the examination and trial revealed nothing but that it was the act of a madman. Gen. Jackson's escape from death was providential. The pistols were loaded very heavily, and after the arrest of Lawrence were fired, the caps exploding and igniting the powder readily in the pistol and sending the balls through several inches of plank. It was stated that Gen. Jackson said at the time that he knew where the attempt originated.

ZOLA AND FATHER.

Slanders Published About the Latter Must Be Set at Rest.

A new grief has come into the turbulent life of Emile Zola, the distinguished French novelist, and it has almost prostrated him. Hitherto he has only suffered for himself; now the memory of his dead father has been attacked, and he is almost frantic. His partisanship for Dreyfus in his battle for honor against the machinations of the army officials has brought this sorrow upon Zola. It seems that years ago his father, who was a skilled engineer, emigrated to Austria and assisted in the construction of the first railroad built in Europe. Having completed this work, he entered the French army, served in the Algerian division and retired in 1833 as a civil engineer to Marseilles. The original plans for an extension of the Marseilles harbor were prepared by him. Others were chosen, however, to see the work done, and, disappointed, Francois Zola went to Aix, where the triumph of his labors was to be his lot. The municipal authorities trusted him with the building of the great canal which yet bears his name. In 1847 he died suddenly. Now the enemies of his son are declaring that death was due to suicide in the effort to escape punishment for defrauding the municipality of Aix in the matter of the harbor contract. To vindicate his father's name Emile Zola now avers he will devote his entire life. He recognizes the difficulties in his way—the enmity of the military power—but declares that he will never rest until all suspicion of misfeasance shall be blotted from the name of a father whom he dearly loved.

BY CAT'S EYES.

Chinese Tell the Hour by the Line in the Feline Visual Organ.

It must be conceded that in some qualities of primitive, but practical resourcefulness the Chinese are ahead of most civilized nations. All travelers agree that if in a district where clocks and watches are unknown you ask a Chinaman the time of day he will, if well disposed, at once proceed to ambuscade and capture the household cat, and after pushing up the lids and looking for a moment into its eyes he will tell the time with astonishing accuracy. The explanation is a simple physiological one. The pupils of the cat's eyes constantly contract until midday, when they become like a fine line, as thin as a hair drawn perpendicularly across the eye; after twelve they begin again to dilate. It is to be hoped that if the practice is ever introduced into this country watches and clocks will continue to be made, as there will probably be many who will not care to run after a cat whenever they want to know the hour, or who may fear some danger to their own eyes from too close an examination of hers. The Chinese have by no means a monopoly of the cat as a perambulating timepiece. The negroes of Jamaica are very well acquainted with the method of telling the time by looking at the effect of the sun on pussy's eyes, and those who twenty years ago were quite illiterate and could not tell the time by a watch used to resort to this method for discovering the time of day. I have myself repeatedly, watch in hand, asked a negro to tell the time in this way, and it was very rare indeed for him to be five minutes out by the clock.

Orientals as Soldiers.

No European nation has succeded in holding or controlling tropical possessions without the aid of native troops. Moreover, these can be maintained at a much smaller cost than white soldiers, not to speak of the great expense of transportation. Two-thirds of the Dutch army in Java is composed of native troops; Spain, before the insurrection, had over 13,000 natives doing military service in the Philippines, and England's success in converting the Egyptian fellahs into good soldiers is another example of how apparently poor material can be utilized.

How Mothers may Help their Daughters into Womanhood

Every mother possesses information of vital value to her young daughter. That daughter is a precious legacy, and the responsibility for her future is largely in the hands of the mother. The mysterious change that develops the thoughtless girl into the thoughtful woman should find the mother on the watch day and night. As she cares for the physical well-being of her daughter, so will the woman be, and her children also.

When the young girl's thoughts become sluggish, when she experiences headaches, dizziness, faintness, and exhibits an abnormal disposition to sleep, pains in the back and lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude, and a dislike for the society of other girls, when she is a mystery to herself and friends, then the mother should go to her aid promptly. At such a time the greatest aid to nature is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It prepares the young system for the coming change, and is the surest reliance in this hour of trial.

The following letters from Miss Good are practical proof of Mrs. Pinkham's efficient advice to young women.

Miss Good asks Mrs. Pinkham for Help.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been very much bothered for some time with my monthly periods being irregular. I will tell you all about it, and put myself in your care, for I have heard so much of you. Each month menstruation would become less and less, until it entirely stopped for six months, and now it has stopped again. I have become very nervous and of a very bad color. I am a young girl and have always had to work very hard. I would be very much pleased if you would tell me what to do."—MISS PEARL GOOD, Cor. 29th Avenue and Yeslar Way, Seattle, Wash.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. It is just simply wonderful the change your medicine has made in me. I feel like another person. My work is now a pleasure to me, while before using your medicine it was a burden. To-day I am a healthy and happy girl. I think if more women would use your Vegetable Compound there would be less suffering in the world. I cannot express the relief I have experienced by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MISS PEARL GOOD, Cor. 29th Avenue and Yeslar Way, Seattle, Wash.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Discusses Chinese Trouble at Length.

THE LESSON IT TEACHES.

Recounts Instructions to Philippine Commission.

THINKS LARGER ARMY IS REQUIRED.

Washington, Dec. 3.—The President's message was sent to Congress to-day. The message says:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives:

"At the outgoing of the old and the incoming of the new century you begin the last session of the Fifty-sixth Congress with evidences on every hand of individual and national prosperity and with proof of the growing strength and increasing power for good of Republican institutions. Your countrymen will join with you in felicitation that American liberty is more firmly established than ever before and that love for it and the determination to preserve it are more universal than at any former period of our history.

"The Republic was never so strong because never so strongly intrenched in the hearts of the American people as now. Popular government has demonstrated in its 124 years of trial here its stability and security and its efficiency as the best instrument of national development and the best safe guard in human sight.

"When the Sixth Congress assembled in November, 1800, the population of the United States was 5,380,483. It is now 76,304,799. Then we had sixteen states. Now, we have forty-five. Then, our territory consisted of 900,050 square miles. It is now 3,846,595 square miles. Education, religion and morality have kept pace with our advancement in other directions, and while extending its power the government has adhered to its foundation principles and abated none of them in dealing with our new peoples and possessions. A nation so preserved and blessed gives reverent thanks to God and invokes His guidance and the continuance of His care and favor.

TROUBLES IN CHINA.

"The recent troubles in China spring from the anti-foreign agitation which for the past three years has gained strength in the Northern provinces. Their origin lies deep in the character of the Chinese race and in the tradition of their government. The Tai-Ping rebellion and the opening of Chinese ports to foreign trade and settlement, disturbed alike the homogenity and the seclusion of China. Meanwhile, foreign activity made itself felt in all quarters, not alone on the coast, but along the great river arteries and in the remoter districts, carrying new ideas and introducing new associations among a primitive people which had pursued for centuries a national policy of isolation. The telegraph and the railway spreading over their land, the steamers plying on their water, the merchant and the missionary penetrating year by year further to the interior became to the Chinese mind types of an alien invasion changing the course of their national life and fraught with vague forebodings of disaster to their beliefs and their self-control.

"For several years before the present troubles all the resources of foreign diplomacy backed by moral demonstrations of the physical force of fleets and arms, have been needed to secure due respect for the treaty rights of foreigners and to obtain satisfaction from the responsible authorities for the sporadic outrages upon the Philippine Islands and property of unoffending sojourners, which from time to time occurred at widely separated points in the Northern provinces as in the case of the outbreak in Sze-Chuan and Shau Tung. Posting of anti foreign placards became a daily occurrence which the repeated reprobation of the imperial power failed to check or punish."

The President then recounts events which called forth protests from the diplomatic representatives of the powers in Pekin. Efforts to check the Boxer movement, which centered about Pekin, were met with evasive edicts from the Palace. Hostile demonstrations, aimed at no particular class of foreigners, had the sanction of the imperial forces, and the immediate counsellors of the Empress Dowager were in full sympaty with the anti-foreign movement.

OUR POLICY WAS PEACE.

"The increasing gravity of the conditions of China and the imminence of peril to our own diversified interest in the Empire, as well as to those of other treaty governments, were soon appreciated by this government, causing it profound solicitude. The United States, from the earliest of foreign intercourse with China, had favored a policy of peace, omitting no occasions to testify good will, to further the extension of lawful trade, to respect the sovereignty of its government, and to insure by all legitimate and kindly, but earnest means, the fullest measure of protection for the lives and property of our law-abiding citizens, and for the exercise of their beneficent callings among the Chinese people.

"Mindful of this, it was felt to be appropriate that our purposes should be announced in favor of such course as would hasten united action of the powers at Pekin to promote the administrative reforms so greatly needed for strengthening the imperial government and maintaining the integrity of China, in which we believed the whole Western world to be alike concerned. To these ends I caused to be addressed to the several powers occupying territory and maintaining spheres of influence in China, the circular proposal of 1899, inviting from them declarations of their intentions and views as to the desirability of the adoption of measures insuring the benefits of equality of treatment of all foreign trade throughout China.

"With gratifying unanimity the responses coincided in this common policy, enabling me to see in the successful termination of these negotiations proof of the friendly spirit which animates the various powers interested in the untrammeled development of commerce and industry in the Chinese Empire as a source of vast benefit to the whole commercial world.

AN AGREEMENT REACHED.

"In this conclusion, which I had the gratification to announce as a completed agreement to the interested powers on March 20, 1900. I hopefully discerned a potential factor for the abatement of the distress of the foreigners, whose presence for the past year had appeared to inspire the policy of the imperial government, and for the effective exertion by it of power and authority to quell the critical anti-foreign movement in the Northern provinces most immediately influenced by the Manchurian sentiment."

All pending questions were remitted to the ordinary resorts of diplomatic intercouse, "but the Chinese government proved unable to check the rising strength of the Boxers and appeared to be a prey to internal dissessions. In the unequal contest the anti-foreign movement soon gained the ascendency under the leadership of Prince Tuan.

FEEET ASSEMBLED.

"Attacks upon foreigners, destruction of their property and slaughter of native converts were reported from all sides. The Tsung Li Yamen already permeated with hostile sympathies, could make no effective response to the appeals of the legations. At this critical juncture, in the early spring of this year, a proposal was made by the other powers that a combined fleet should be assembled in Chinese waters as a moral demonstration, under cover of which to exact of the Chinese government respect for foreign treaty rights and the suppression of the Boxers.

"The United States, while not participating in the joint demonstration, promptly sent from the Philippines all ships that could be spared for service on the Chinese coast. A small force of marines was landed at Taku and sent to Pekin for the protection of the American legation. Other powers took similar action until some 400 men were assembled in the capital as legation guards.

LEGATIONS CUT OFF.

"By June 19 the legations were cut off and an identical note from the Li Yamen ordered each minister to leave Pekin under a promised escort within twenty-four hours. To gain time they replied asking prolongation of the time which was afterward granted, and requesting an interview with the Tsung Li Yamen on the following day. No reply being received on the morning of the 20th, the German Minister, Baron Von Ketteler, set out for the Yamen to obtain a response and on the way was murdered.

"An attempt by the legation guard to recover the body was foiled by Chinese troops. Armed forces turned out against the legations. Their quarters were surrounded and attacked. The mission committee compounds were abandoned, their inmates taking refuge in the British legation, where all the other legations and guards gathered for more effective defense. Four hundred persons were crowded in its narrow compass. Two thousand native converts were assembled in a nearby palace under protection of the foreigners. Lines of defense were strengthened, trenches dug, barricades raised and preparations made to stand a seige which at once began.

THE SEIGE AT PEKIN.

"From June 20 until July 17,' writes Minister Conger, "there was scarcely an hour during which there was not firing upon some part of our lines and into some of the legations. varying from a single shot to a general and continuous attack along the whole line.'

"Attempts were made to burn the legations by setting neighboring houses on fire, but the flames were successfully extinguished, although the Austrian, Belgian, Italian and Dutch legations were then and subsequently burned. With the aid of the native converts directed by the missionaries, to whose helpful co-operation Mr. Conger awards unstinted praise, the British legation was made a veritable fortress. The British Minister, Sir Claude MacDonald, was chosen General Commander of the defense, with the Secretary of the United States legation, Mr. F. G. Squires, as Chief of Staff.

"During the seige the defenders lost sixty-five killed, 135 wounded and seven by disease—the last all children.

A SORT OE ARMISTICE.

"On July 14 the besieged had their first communication with the Tsung Li Yamen, from whom a message came inviting to a conference, which was declined. Correspondence, however ensued and a sort of armistice was agreed upon which stopped the bombardment and lessened the rifle fire for a time. Even then no protection whatever was offered nor any aid given, save to send to the legations a small supply of fruit and three sacks of flour.

A TEST MESSAGE SENT.

"With the negotiations of the partial armistice of July 14, a proceeding which was doubtless promoted by the representations of the Chinese envoy in Washington, the way was opened for the conveyance to Mr. Conger of a test message sent by the Secretary of State through the kind offices of Minister Wu Fang.

"Mr. Conger's reply, dispatched from Pekin on July 18 through the same channel, afforded to the outside world the first tidings that the inmates of the legations were still alive and hoping for succor.

PUNISHMENT IMPERATIVE.

"For the real culprits, the false counsellors who have led the imperial judgment and diverted the sovereign authority to their own guilty ends full expiation becomes imperative within the rational limits of retributive justice. Regarding this as the initial condition of an acceptable settlement between China and the powers, I said in my message of October 18 to the Chinese Emperor:

" 'I trust that negotiations may begin so soon as we and the other offended governments shall be satisfied of your Majesty's ability and power to treat with just sternness the principal offenders who are doubly culpable, not alone toward the foreigners, but toward your Majesty under whose rule the purpose of China to dwell in concord with the world had hitherto found expression in the welcome and protection assured to strangers.'

MATTER OF INDEMNITY.

"The matter of indemnity for our wronged citizens is a question of grave concern. Measured in money alone, a sufficient reparation may prove to be beyond the ability of China to meet. All the powers concur in emphatic disclaimers of any purpose of aggrandizement through the dismemberment of the empire. I am disposed to think that due compensation may be made in part by increased guarantees of security for foreign rights and immunities, and most important of all, by the opening of China to the equal commerce of all the world. These views have been and will be earnestly advocated by our representative.

"The government of Russia has put forward a suggestion that in the event of protracted divergence of views in regard to indemnities the matter may be relegated to the Court of Arbitration at The Hague I favorably incline to this, believing that high tribunal could not fail to reach a solution no less conducive to the stability and enlarged prosperity of China itself than immediately beneficial to the powers.

FOREIGN RELATIONS.

The President next deals with our foreign relations. Efforts have been made during the past year in the interest of our expanding trade to conclude conventions with the South American Republics for the enlargement of postal facilities. Two agreements of this kind were signed with Bolivia. The message touches on the insurrectionary movements in Colombia. Relations with Germany and Great Britain continue friendly. The President reviews the questions growing out of the Boer war and says whatever complications arose, so far as we were concerned, came to a satisfactory conclusion.

The modus vivendi looking to a settlement of the Alaska boundary dispute has worked well. The President urges the complete establishment of the frontier line, to which we are entitled by the Russo-American treaty for the cession of Alaska.

INTER-OCEANIC CANAL.

On the subject of the inter-oceanic canal the message says that this idea has assumed a new phase. He adds:

"Adhering to its refusal to open the question of the forfeiture of the contract of the Maritime Canal Company, which was terminated for alleged non-execution in October, 1899, the government of Nicaragua has since supplemented that action by declaring the so-called Eyre-Cragin option void for non-payment of the stipulated advance. Protests in relation to these acts have been filed in the State Department, and are under consideration. Deeming itself relieved from existing engagements, the Nicaraguan government shows a disposition to deal freely with the United States by taking measures to promote the waterway.

"I commend the early attention of the Senate to the Convention with Great Britain to facilitate the construction of such a canal and to remove any objection which might arise out of the convention commonly called the Clayton-Bulwer treaty."

RELATIONS WITH SPAIN.

Satisfactory progress has been made toward the conclusion of a great friendship and intercourse with Spain in replacement of the old treaty, which passed into abeyance by reason of the late war. A new convention of extradition is approaching completion and the President would be much pleased were a commercial arrangement to follow. By the terms of our peace treaty the line bounding the ceded Philippine group failed to include several small islands lying Southwest of the Sulus. The President has directed the negotiation of a supplementary treaty whereby Spain quits all title and claim to the islands in question in consideration of which we are to pay Spain $100,000.

The President asks that an appropriation be made carrying into execution Article VIII. of the Spanish peace treaty to pay certain claims for indemnity of our citizens against Spain.

THE FINANCIAL SHOWING.

On the suject of finance the message says in part:

"It is gratifying to be able to state that the surplus revenues of the fiscal year ended June 30, 1900, were $79,527,060.18. For the six preceding years we had only deficits, the aggregate of which from 1894 to 1899 inclusive, amounted to $283,022,000.14 The receipts for the year from all sources, exclusive of postal revenues, aggregated $567,240,851.89, and expenditures for all purposes except for administration of the Postal Department aggregated $487,713,791.71. The receipts from customs were $233,164,871.16, an increase over the preceding year of $27,036,389.41. The receipts from internal revenue were $295,327,926.76, an increase of $21,890,765.25 over 1899. The receipts from miscellaneous sources were $38.748,053.97, as against $36,394,976.92 for the previous year.

"The present condition of the treasury is one of undoubted strength. The available cash balance was $139,303,794 50. Under the form of statements prior to the financial law of March 14th last this would have been included in the statement of available cash gold coin and bullion held for the redemption of United States notes.

MUST INSURE PARITY.

"It will be the duty of Congress to provide whatever further legislation is needed to insure the continued parity under all conditions between our two forms of metallic money, silver and gold. Our surplus revenues have permitted the Secretary of the Treasury since the close of the fiscal year to call in the funded loan of 1891 continued at 2 per cent. in the sum of $25,364,500. And including November 30th, $223,478,100 of these bonds have been paid. This sum together with the amount which may accrue from further redemption under the call will be applied to the sinking fund.

SHIPPING.

"American vessels," says the President, during the past three years have carried about 9 per cent of our exports and imports. We think the judgment of the country favors the policy of aid to our merchant marine.

TRUSTS.

The President quotes from his last message on the subject of trusts. on which he said that uniformity of legislation upon this subject in the several States is to be desired, and that restraint upon such combinations as are injurious and which are within Federal jurisdiction should be promptly applied by Congress.

PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

Progress in the direction of pacifying the Philippine Islands has been favorable. Our forces have successfully controlled the greater part of the islands, overcoming the organized forces of the insurgents and carrying order and administrative regularity to all quarters. What opposition remains is for the most part scattered, obeying no concerted plan of strategic action, and operating only by methods common to guerrilla warfare.

The President then tells of the appointment of a Civil Commission to go to the Philippines to open the door for the extension of a stable administration. The scope of the commission was set forth in instructions given to them April 7, 1900. Here follows in detail the instructions given the Taft Commission, which contemplated the gradual transfer of the government of the islands from military commanders to civil officers. The instructions which are directed to the Secretary of war, says in part:

"Beginning with the first day of September, 1900, the authority to exercise, subject to my approval, through the Secretary of War, that part of the power of the government of the Philippines which is of a legislative nature is to be transferred from the military government of the islands to this commission, to be thereafter exercised by them in the place and instead of the military government under such rules and regulations as you shall prescribe until the establishment of the central government of the islands contemplated in the last foregoing paragraph, or, until Congress shall otherwise provide.

Speaking of the Filipinos, whom he calls "the wards of the nation," the President says:

"The Filipinos are a race quick to learn and to profit by knowledge. He would be rash who, with the teachings of contemporaneous history in view would fix a limit to the degree of culture and advancement yet within the reach of those people if our duty toward them be faithfully performed."

PORTO RICO.

The civil government of Porto Rico, provided for by act of Congress approved April 12, 1900, the President says, is in successful operation.

CUBA.

Relative to Cuba the President says that on July 25, 1900, he directed that a call be issued for an election for members of a Constitutional Convention to frame a Constitution on a basis for a stable and independent government in the island. The election was held on the 15th of September and the convention met November 5th, and is now in session. When it concludes its labors the Military Governor of Cuba will transmit to Congress the Constitution as framed for its consideration, and for such action as may be deemed advisable.

CABLE TO HAWAII.

The President renews his recommendation for cable communication between the United States and Hawaii, with extension to Manila.

LARGER ARMY NEEDED.

On the question of the needs of the army, the message says:

"The present strength of the army is 100 000 men—65,000 regulars and 35,000 volunteers. Under the act of March 2, 1899, on the 30th of June next the present volunteer force will be discharged and the regular army will be reduced to 2,447 officers and 29,025 enlisted men."

After reviewing conditions which obtain in the Philippine Islands, Cuba and Porto Rico, the President says:

"It must be apparent that we will require an army of about 60,000 and that during present conditions in Cuba and the Philippines the President should have authority to increase the force to the present number of 100,000. Included in this number authority should be given to raise native troops in the Philippines up to 15,000, which the Taft Commission will be effective in determining on. They are better adapted to suppressing guerrillas, assassins and Ladrones than our own soldiers."

CONCLUSION.

The message says in conclusion:

"Let us keep always in mind that the foundation of our government is liberty; its superstructure peace.

FIRE IN CONVICT CAMPS.

Plant of Chattahoochee Brick Company Almost Annihilated.

The Chattahoochee convict camp, located on the Chattahoochee river, about eight miles from Atlanta, Ga., was the scene of a disastrous conflagration Sunday which destroyed almost the entire camp and entailed a loss of about $50,000 or $60,000.

This immense loss is complete, as the management carried no insurance whatever on the camp. This is perhaps the largest convict camp in the south, and almost the entire operating plant is only a mass of blackened and charred debris, displaying to view here and there masses of ruined machinery. Only the stockade buildings, the office, and two or three kilns were kept free from the ravishes of the flames.

The fire was discovered about 10:30 o'clock in the morning and the greedy flames were not subdued until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Chief Joyner, of the Atlanta fire department, was called on for aid shrtly before noon and he responded with men and hose.

About twenty or thirty convicts were at work in the yards when the fire was discovered, and all of them, with the exception of a number of trusties, were immediately locked in the stockade. The stockade was placed under strict guard, and, although great excitement prevailed, no escapes occurred. The trusties and a force of free laborers assisted the firemen and did valiant work.

Captain J. W. English, of the Chattahoochee Brick Company, states that the plant will be rebuilt at once.

FOUR FILIPINOS TO HANG.

General MacArthur Confirms Sentence of Death on Murderers.

A Manila special says: General MacArthur has confirmed the sentences of hanging passed upon four natives recently convicted of murder at Lingayen. The condemned were members of the Guardia de Honor, a band of assassins whose victims were kidnapped and boloed. They will be hung December 21st.

The United States cruiser Newark is under orders to proceed to Guam to investigate the circumstances of the disaster to the United States auxiliary cruiser Yosemite.

FRENCHMEN ARE SURPRISED.

Kaiser's Act in Giving Kruger the Cold Shoulder the Cause.

Emperor William's refusal to receive Mr. Kruger has occasioned surprise in Paris. Most of the morning papers make it an excuse for articles sympathizing with the Boer statesman or condemning the kaiser.

"The kaiser is no longer a modern Lohengrin," says The Echo de Paris, "but a simple disciple of Birmarck. His attitude is dictated by the interests of Germany, which he considers identical with those of England."

FATALITIES AT GUAM

The Subject of a Report to Navy Department by Admiral Remey.

The navy department has received the following cablegram from Admiral Remey:

"Cavite, November 30.—Official report from Guam just received. Following men drowned on 13th: Joseph Anderson, coal passer; Jacob Leroy Mehaffey, apprentice, first class; Geo. Aubet, seaman; William Frederick Davis, fireman, first class; Frank Swanson, coxswain.

"Two bodies recovered, but were unrecognizable. Governor reports danger of starvation.

Votes Sympathy For Kruger.

The French senate Friday unanimously adopted a resolution of sympathy with Mr. Kruger, in the same terms as the resolution previously passed in the chamber of deputies.

TREATY SIGNED BY NICARAGUA

Privilege Given to United States to Build Canal.

A CONCESSION IS SIGNED

All Obstacles Removed at Conference Between Minister Corea, of Nicaragua and Secretary Hay.

A Washington special says: Secretary Hay Saturday morning, for the government of the United States, and Senor Corea, the Nicaraguan minister, for his own government, signed a treaty whereby the latter government concedes to the government of the United States the necessary rights and privileges within her bestowal for the construction of the Nicaraugan canal.

This action is taken in anticipation of the congressional action upon the pending Nicaraguan bill and the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. Pending the submission of the document to the senate, which body must ratify the agreement, its terms will not be made public. It is understood, however, that generally, Nicaragua grants to the United States government the exclusive right to construct and operate the across Nicaragua, including the free canal between the Atlantic and Pacific use of the San Juan river, and of Lake Managua, as a part of the river course.

Nicaragua is also to rid herself of any outstanding treaties that would tend in any way to abridge the privileges to be acquired by the United States. It is understood that Nicaragua concedes to the United States full authority to police the canal. Nicaraugua is to receive in compensation a certain amount of the securities of the canal construction company, and although it is not now possible to learn the figure set down in the treaty, it is believed to approximate $5,000,000.

The state department has already entered into an agreement on similar lines with the republic of Costa Rica. This was because Costa Rica has established a claim to the right bank of the San Juan river, which must of necessity form about a third of the length of the canal, should the Nicaraguan route be selected and be constructed on the lines which will be suggested by the "Walker commission."

An understanding also has been arrived at with the United States of Colombia, covering the same rights and privileges for the Panama route as are conveyed by Nicaragua and Costa Rica in the case of the Nicaragua route. So the state department has now cleared the way for such action as congress may care to take in the case of either of the canal routes which have been found feasible.

DEMANDS NOT CHANGED.

Kaiser William Still Holds Out For Punishment of Chinese.

A representative of the foreign office in Berlin has informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that Germany has not indicated a disposition to modify her demands for the punishment of guilty Chinese officials, since she does not know what the different powers want.

"Germany, above all," the official said, "wants harmony of action. Germany foresaw that the note to be formulated by the Pekin ministers would not be accepted entirely by all the powers. We have to admit that several of the powers, including Russia, desire a change in several of the provisions. The whole matter is still involved in great uncertainty, so that it is impossible to predict what form the final agreement will take."

A SHIP LOAD OF BEER

The outgoing steamship Empress of China, which sailed from Vancouver, B. C., for the orient Saturday, carried a record breaking cargo of beer for the Filipinos. Fifty thousand barrels are consigned to Manila.

KRUGER SNUBBED BY KAISER BILL

German Ruler Refused to Receive Boer Ex-President Officially.

BERLIN VISIT CALLED OFF

Old Man Will Proceed Direct to Holland From Cologne.

Advices from Berlin, Germany, state that Mr. Kruger has abandoned his proposed visit to that city owing to the receipt of an official intimation that Emperor William regrets that owing to previous arrangements he will be unable to receive him. The Boer statesman, therefore, will proceed direct from Cologne for Holland. The Cologne Gazette, in an inspired communique, says:

"Mr. Kruger's visit is not agreeable to Germany, his aim being to obtain intervention in South Africa. It would be a grave political mistake, a political crime, to allow him to entertain even a spark of hope that Germany will render him any practical support."

This declaration is accompanied with reproaches, Mr. Kruger being charged with "having encouraged a useless guerrilla warfare and having disregarded Germany's advice when he still might have followed it." The press generally strikes the same note.

KRUGER LEAVES PARIS.

Mr. Kruger left Paris Saturday shortly afternoon. The Boer leader was cheered as he drove away, swinging his hat from the landau window in reply.

Mr. Kruger spent the morning in conferences with his party, only receiving three or four persons outside his followers. Just before leaving his apartments he went out upon the balcony. His appearance was the signal for warm cheering.

When the carriage conveying Mr. Kruger and his accompanying friends, who occupied separate carriages surrounded by guards, started for the northern railroad station, the same station where Mr. Kruger arrived a week previous at almost the same hour, the crowd along the streets and the people who filled the windows cheered him warmly as the cortege passed, many ladies throwing flowers toward Mr. Kruger's carriage while the men cheered and waved their hats.

At the railroad station there were a few hurried farewells and at 1:40 p. m. Mr. Kruger departed for Cologne.

Mr. Kruger arrived in Cologne at 11:30 o'clock p. m. A considerable crowd had assembled and caused a dangerous crush. No official reception had been arranged and Mr. Kruger drove to the Cathedral hotel, the crowd cheering as he left the station and as he drove along the route. The absence of an official welcome is said to have been due to neglect to secure an understanding with the imperial court, which is necessary in the case of visits of the heads of states.

DIAZ AGAIN TAKES OATH.

President of Mexico Qualifies as Chief Executive of Republic.

A special from Mexico City says: President Diaz, escorted by his military staff and presidential guards, left his house at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, and passing through streets lined with troops went to the hall of the house of representatives, where he took the oath as president of the republic for the next four years.

TEXAS' OFFICIAL VOTE..

Owing to Lethargy Ballots Fell Far Short of Those Cast in 1896.

A special from Austin says: The secretary of state has completed the task of counting the votes cast in Texas for the presidential electors on November 6th and finds results for the three leading tickets as follows: Democratic—votes 267,432; Republican 121,173; Populists 21,160. The vote falls 110,270 short of the one cast four years ago, due to the fact that it was conceded that the state was going for Bryan and little interest was manifested in the election.

POPULISM WILL COME AGAIN.

From The People's Advocate.

"We need not remind our readers that fusion as a policy is simply the auction block. You fetch your goods to the market and you sell to the highest bidder. You want office—that is all you want. You sell to democracy in one state and to republicanism in another. In North Carolina you are particularly happy—you can sell to both parties—cheat both. But while all this is a luxury to the office-getters of the fusion populism, it is death to the principles of the party. It has saddened, disheartened and disgusted the thousands of honest reformers who broke away from both the old parties and sought to find a party free of the crimes of both. A magnificent army of nearly two millions has been melted away. There is no enthusiasm—how could there be? How could men grow earnest over the paltry bickerings of of spoilsmen? Populists who have labored tirelessly in the cause, spent their time and their money and their talent to speed it ownward, hang their heads in shame, and being unable to prevent the sell-out manipulated by the leaders, they stay at home, "work harder and talk less," and let the mad world wag its way. Populism has much to say that the world must hear, must heed, must obey. It will come again.—Thomas E. Watson."

The above from the lips of the famous Thos. E. Watson, of Georgia, comes with good grace, and should sink into the minds of all true patriots of America. The unpurchasable Tom, as he has been called, has been silent in the great cause of reform, and one can easily see and know the cause from reading the above. Listen to the words of one of the greatest men America has ever known: "Populism has much to say that the world must hear, must heed, must obey. It will come again." Truly this is encouraging to the people, coming from the source it does; coming from a man who has welfare of the people of this great nation at heart and who will rise again to champion this great cause of reform. Let the populists of this country of ours heed these words and adopt the plans and measures of this great statesman. Thos. E. Watson is a man whom the people cherish and love, and we believe that in him the people will yet have a faithful and gallant leader.

You may think we are going to write an editorial on the above, but we are not. We recall the story told by the lamented Rufus Sanders about the old man who was known in the Rocky Creek settlement as the most gifted cusser in the county. It is said that this gentleman was hauling a load of pumpkins one day, and as he reached the top of a very steep hill the hind gate of the wagon fell out and all the pumpkins rolled down the hill and fell into a ditch. That a neighbor came to the top of the hill from the other side just as the last one rolled into the ditch and saw the old man gently turn the wagon and start down the hill after the pumpkins; and there was a silence that might well be commended to the editor of the Advocate. When asked why he was not cussing, the old man said he was unable to do the matter justice. We are facing the same kind of difficulty, and we give you the article, and if you are able to make anything out of it you will confer a favor upon the editor of THE CHRONICLE by mentioning it to him.

THE house by a very large majority has passed the bill calling for a constitutional convention, and they have the gratitude of all the people in the state who love their state. There is scarcely a doubt that the bill will pass the senate as well, and there are very few who do not believe that the people will call the convention. There are a great many other parts of the organic law of the state that need changing besides the first and foremost one of placing the ballot where it will be pure and where it will be a protection to the state instead of being an instrument in the hands of ignorant men at the instance of bad men for the destruction of that which is good for the state. The state of Alabama is growing, and as a state grows its law must grow too, or the state will be cramped. The state is cramped now because of a constitution that was framed to fit conditions that have passed away, and Alabama now needs a constitution that will keep pace with her other growth.

LAST Saturday at noon Governor Johnston very gracefully made his bow to the people, and his office in the capitol will know him no more. We think it will be well for the newspapers to find some other subject for their editorials. The Romans had a custom of saying nothing that was bad about the dead, and we think that this custom might well be followed in this state.

WILLIAM J. SAMFORD is governor and the whole state is glad. There are few men who have been loved more than this man who has been so bravely fighting for his life, and now that it seems that he is to be spared to us we are all thankful to God for it. With a strong christian man for governor, and with the best men in the state in the legislature, the people expect great that is good to come from Montgomery in the next few months.

OUR GIRLS' SCHOOL.

The legislature passed a bill last Friday appropriating $100,000 for the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo. This rejoices the heart of every friend of the school in Shelby county and in Alabama. From the best information we can obtain the bill would never have passed had the legislature not visited the school and seen for themselves the work that was being done and the needs of the school. They went on a special train provided for them to Montevallo on Thursday morning, and remained until about 4 o'clock p. m. They took Thanksgiving dinner in the school. Every one returned to his post in Montgomery prepared to work for the appropriation and for the future to do anything in their power for the school.

The bill met with some opposition on general principles, but the main opposition was as to the amount to be appropriated, taking the ground that it was excessive. This appropriation is to be used in completing and enlarging the dormitory and establishing a system of waterworks and an electric light plant. This school is destined to be one of the finest and best institutions of learning in the country. It has already grown to be the pride of all Alabama—it will ere long be of the South.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The general assembly has been considering for the past week or ten days the following bills of interest to the whole people of Alabama, some of which have become laws, and others are pending:

To appropriate $25,000 to the White Boys' Industrial School.

To appropriate $20,000 for repairing and improving and adding to generally of the Medical College of Alabama.

To authorize the state to subscribe for Maryfield's Digest.

To abate all suits pending in any of the courts of this state for taxes under the late revenue law.

To make appropriations to the public schools of Alabama.

To prescribe the qualifications of persons eligible to the office of county superintendent of education. This bill provides for the examination of the candidate.

To regulate primary elections of recognized political parties in Alabama.

To provide for the further relief of needy Confederate soldiers.

To prohibit excursion trains on Sunday

To prohibit sale, giving away or disposing of cigarettes, cigarette paper or substitute therefor.

To make it the duty of the several sheriffs of Alabama to enforce the license law of the state.

To repeal the back tax law.

To provide for the holding of a constitutional convention.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION BILL.

From The Age-Herald.

Along with the peaceful settlement of the succession question comes the equally good news that the democrats of the legislature have decided to adopt the Harwood constitutional convention bill and will speedily pass it. If the legislature remain in session throughout the present week, doubtless the bill will be passed before a recess is taken.

The bill provides for an election on April 23, alike on the convention and for the selection of delegates, and it also provides that in case of an affirmative vote on the convention proposition the convention shall be convened May 21 and that it may sit fifty days. The convention under the pending bill would consist of 150 delegates, 100 to be selected as members of the lower house are elected, one also from each senatorial district, one also from each congressional district and four at large.

This plan calls for all sorts of talent, and it will doubtless call the men best fitted for the work at hand. The selection of 100 men from the counties as such will keep the convention in touch with the people, for almost every voter will be represented by some one whom he knows and can talk with, and the 50 delegates to be selected from larger constituences will bring out the broadest and most capable men in the state. All of these delegates could be selected by direct popular vote, and there is really no reason why they should not be. Even the four at large could be selected in that manner by consolidating the vote of the counties, as is done in each state election in South Carolina, thus obviating the expense and annoyance of a state convention. Give the people the fullest possible opportunity. Conventions are fast passing away; they are as a rule rotten devices; and the quicker they are gone and forgotten the better for all. They are especially inapplicable to conditions existing in states that practicably have but one party.

PLUCK.

Montevallo.

Montevallo was signally honored on Thanksgiving day by a visit from the general assembly in acceptance of an invitation extended by the president and faculty of the Industrial School. The special L. & N. train of three cars, well filled, pulled into the station at 12 o'clock, one hour late. Many conveyances had been assembled to transport the distinguished visitors to the college, and they were soon landed there. Among them were many ladies and the trustees of the school.

The legislators were received by the students standing, and were given places on the rostrum. Dr. Peterson who brought up the rear, was given a rousing reception. The girls sang with great fervor Miss Julia Tutwiler's patriotic hymn, "Alabama," which was heartily cheered by the legislators. Not many of the audience knew at this time that Miss Tutwiler herself was present. This one rendering of her verses must have given her great pleasure. The industrial classes were at once sent to their work and the legislators in parties of six were placed in charge of pupils and fulfilled the principal object of their visit by inspecting the school in operation.

At 1 o'clock the school and visitors reassembled in the chapel, and it was easily to be seen that the solons had been captivated with the school. After a song, "Glory to God," Dr. Peterson welcomed the general assembly and turned over the meeting to Senator Meadows. He expressed great pleasure for the privilege of meeting and examining the school, avowed his interest and purpose to aid it to his utmost, and introduced Senator Jenkins, of Wilcox. After hearing him one need not be told that he is a man of business, as well as eloquence; active, energetic, observing, punctual. He had seen all the departments, had inspected the new building from bottom to top and even made a tour of the kitchen and pantry. He had discovered a turkey for every senatorial district, and announced to the gentlemen of the house that if they desired to eat turkey they must ask permission of the senate. He then spoke most entertainingly of Industrial Education. The chairman then introduced Hon. J. T. Heflin of the house, whose subject was the Women of Alabama. Although his address was prepared on short notice, it showed that he had expended much thought on his subject. Next the chairman introduced in his felicitous style the "baby" of the house, Hon. Earle Pettus, of Limestone. His subject was Alabama, and like Mr. Heflin showed himself to be thoroughly in love with his subject. It was an eloquent address and worthily applauded.

Dr. Peterson now announced that a ceremony of peculiar interest to all present would take place. Senator Thompson came upon the rostrum, carrying a picture, and with feeling and fitting reference to his association with a former trustee and his great interest in the school, presented a portrait of Dr. Geo. B Eager. When he turned the beautifully executed and thoroughly life-like and smiling portrait to view, there was prolonged applause and murmured admiration, which showed the great appreciation of the school. Dr. Peterson in behalf of the school accepted the picture, referring with great emotion to Dr. Eager's resignation as a trustee.

Dinner was announced and the distinguished guests repaired to the dormitory dining room, where the turkeys and other Thanksgiving accompaniments were served by pupils. Until four o'clock an informal reception was held in the dormitory, when the legislators took their departure. The house, as well as the senate, seemed to have been "delighted" with the day in Montevallo, and certainly all Montevallo was more than delighted with the general assembly. We hope the members may be spared to hold many sessions here.

Col. J. M. Falkner, of Montgomery known and admired by all Shelby county people, district attorney of the L. & N. and a trustee of the Industrial School, was with the legislative party and took a lively interest in the proceedings.

Many legislators commented favorably upon the promising future of Montevallo. All were duly impressed with the management and advantages of the school. That the liberal appropriation bill—liberal in view of former appropriations—should pass without serious opposition follows naturally, after a realization of its necessity. The girls are destined to share equally with the boys in the beneficence of the state.

X.

Harpersville.

J. P. Rowe transacted business in Columbiana Monday.

Mrs. Mary Hatcher, of Sylacauga, is visiting our community.

The building boom has struck South Harpersville for a sure fact.

Quite a number of the Vincent people attended preaching here last Sunday.

Smith Rowe, of North Alabama, was among his many friends here a day or two last week.

Assessor Pitts and Collector Robertson were here Monday seeing after taxes.

W. A. Gorman and sister, Miss Kate, came down from Easonville Saturday to see homefolks.

The carpenters are busy working on Colonel Kidd's house when the weather will admit.

Did you ever know or see so much moving? The like was never known here before.

Rev. Bently preached two very interesting sermons at the Baptist church Saturday and Sunday last. His sermon on Sunday was very interesting indeed, but we didn't agree with him when he said, "Train up a child in the way that he should go and when he became old he would not depart from it," for quite a number of our people were trained up to vote the democratic ticket and they all don't do it.

Doctor Teague is now a citizen of our town and the whole town and community extends to him a hearty welcome and hope that his days may be many.

Quite a number of people who went from here to Texas last fall have come back home, and all say that Alabama is ahead of Texas.

Joe Simmons came home last week from the infirmary at Selma, which we mentioned sometime ago, and is improving slowly.

Our school at this place, although small, is progressing finely, and Prof. Florey is proving himself to be a fine educator and master of his profession.

John Kidd, who moved from Vincent to Birmingham last winter, has moved back to Vincent and gone into the mercantile business again. John is a splendid good fellow and we wish for him unbounded success.

ANCIENT SUN-DIALS.

The Earliest Was Probably a Nomad Chief's Spear.

It is probable that the earliest sundial was simply the spear of some nomad chief stuck upright in the ground before his tent. Amongst those desert wanderers, keen to observe their surroundings, it would not be a difficult thing to notice that the shadow shortened as the sun rose higher in the sky, and that the shortest shadow always pointed in the same direction—north. The recognition would have followed very soon that his noonday shadow changed its length from day to day. A six-foot spear would give a shadow at noonday in latitude 40 of twelve feet at one time of the year, or less than two feet at another. This instrument, so simple, so easily carried, so easily set up, may well have begun the scientific study of astronomy, for it lent itself to measurement, and science is measurement; and probably we see it expressed in permanent form in the obelisks of Egyptian solar temples, though these, no doubt, were retained merely as solar emblems ages after their use as actual instruments of observation had ceased. An upright stick, carefully plumbed, standing on some level surface, may, therefore, well make the first advance upon the natural horizon. A knob on the top of the stick will be found to render the shadow more easily observed.

Breach of Promise Cases.

Should breach of promise cases be encouraged? On the one hand there is sometimes cruel heartlessness displayed by men, in which cases a verdict of thumping money payments is the greatest punishment to the ill-doer; on the other hand, it is not necessarily the most innocent or the most deserving who choose to go into court. The woman who trusts her fair fame to the tender mercies of her lover knows pretty well the consequences of her act, while the really unhappy and ill-used woman who has suffered most, and whose life is completely shattered, shrinks from dragging her woes into the lurid glare of the law courts. Pecuniary payments can, after all, only soothe outraged feelings, very often the least desirable feelings, those of rage and anger. The tender, confiding female loves on in spite of everything and is probably the last to bear witness against the man who has ruined her prospects. No doubt, ample damages help a future marriage, for, such is the strange irony of fate, an acquitted murderess, or a fair woman in a breach of promise case, promptly find numerous applicants anxious to claim her hand.

Our Postal System.

For the first time since 1883 our postal revenues exceeded the expenditures. In that year there was a surplus of nearly $3,000,000, the second since 1865 (the first being about $1,800,000 in 1882), and congress got so excited about it that the rate of letter postage was reduced from three cents a half ounce to two everywhere in the United States. This caused a change in 1884 of $3,000,000 from the credit to the debit side of the account, making a difference in revenues of more than $6,000,000 in one year. To offset this congress, in 1885, passed an act making the letter rate two cents an ounce, or fraction thereof, and in that year the expenditures exceeded the revenues by over $7,000,000. The deficit in 1897 was nearly $12,000,000.

INSIDE YOUR WATCH.

Hundreds of Years of Study on the Balance Wheel.

If you own a watch open it and look at the little wheels, springs and screws, each an indispensable part of the whole wonderful machine. The busy little balance wheel alone is the result of hundreds of years of study and experiment. The watch I have before me is composed of 98 pieces, and its manufacture embraces more than 2,000 distinct and separate operations. Some of the smallest screws are so minute that the unaided eye cannot distinguish them from the steel filings or specks of dirt. Under a powerful magnifying glass a perfect screw is revealed. The slit in the head is two one-thousandths of an inch wide. It takes 308,000 of these screws to weigh a pound, and a pound is worth $1,585. The hairspring is a strip of the finest steel about 9½ inches long, a hundredth part of an inch wide and twenty-seven ten-thousandths of an inch thick. It is coiled up in spiral form and finely tempered. The process of tempering was long held a secret by a few fortunate ones possessing it, and even now is not generally known. Their manufacture requires great skill and care. The strip is gauged to twenty one-thousandths of an inch, but no measuring instrument has yet been devised capable of fine enough gauging to determine beforehand by the size of the strip what the strength of the finished spring will be. A twenty-thousandth part of an inch difference in the thickness of the strip makes a difference in the running of a watch of about six minutes per hour. The value of these springs when finished and placed in watches is enormous in proportion to the material from which they are made. A comparison will give a good idea. A ton of gold is worth $627,915. A ton of steel made up into hairsprings when in watches is worth $7,882,290—more than twelve and one-half times the value of pure gold. Hairspring wire weighs one-twentieth of a grain to the inch. One mile of wire weighs less than half a pound. The balance gives five vibrations every second, 300 every minute, 18,000 every hour, 432,000 every day and 157,680,000 every year. At each vibration it rotates about one and a quarter times, which makes 197,100,000 revolutions every year. In order that we may better understand the stupendous amount of labor performed by these tiny works let us make a few comparisons. Take, for illustration, a locomotive with six-foot driving wheels. Let its wheels be run till they shall have given the same number of revolutions that a watch gives in one year and they will have covered a distance equal to twenty-eight complete circuits of the earth. All this a watch does without other attention than winding once every twenty-four hours. When we compare this with the frequent repairs an engine receives we certainly ought to be willing to have our watches cleaned once a year.—Chicago News.

Berlin Registers 1,000,000 Strangers.

Berlin last year for the first time registered over 1,000,000 strangers who had visited the city. Vienna, which formerly had more visitors than Berlin, counted only a few over 500,000 in 1899, and was surpassed by Munich with 600,000. Dresden had over half a million visitors; Hamburg, Leipsic and Zurich each about 400,000, and Stuttgart, Basel and Dusseldorf each over a quarter of a million.

WOES OF WORKERS.

The American man or woman is industrious. Our leisure class is small, our working world very large. Many of our leading citizens of great wealth are hard workers. Our laboring classes are found in herds and hordes in the "hives of industry." What is all this work for? In most cases it is for daily bread, in many for maintenance of others. Great numbers also work to acquire wealth. Some for great commercial prominence. Some to preserve intact a splendid inheritance. Necessity, generosity and ambition are the inspiration of all classes of industry, and the object of every one falls to the ground when ill-health attacks him.

Maintaining health is the most vital thing in the world for workers of every class, and the usefulness of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, as a strengthener of the constitutional and vital powers, is beyond all question. This great remedy enters into partnership with Nature and helps human beings do their work without giving up to premature decay. The strain of work is on the minds of some, on the bodies of others, but the nourishing of either, or both, is in the nerves and blood. Nervura acts directly on the fountains of health and its strengthening power is wonderful.

Dr. Greene's NERVURA

for the Blood and Nerves.

What does the worker do when some chronic trouble manifests itself? He takes some stimulant or something which is designed for temporary effect, and simply weakens his already overworked system. How different from this is the work of Nervura! How beautiful its support to the natural powers! Without shock of any kind its purely vegetable elements seek out the weak spots and build them up. Immediately the circulation of the blood improves and the sluggish elements are expelled. The nerves are quieted, the quality of the blood is enriched and the new and strengthening tide communicates itself to every muscle of the body.

Mr. JOHN D. SMITH, Electrician for the Thomson-Houston Electric Co., of Lynn, Mass., says:

"When a man has been sick and is cured, it is his duty to tell others about it, that they, too, may get well. Three years ago I had been working almost night and day, could not eat regularly, and got only a few hours' sleep at night. No man can stand that long, and I soon began to be prostrated. I could not sleep when I tried, and my food would not stay on my stomach. I was in a terrible condition, and was much alarmed.

"I went to doctors, but they did me no good. Learning of the wonderful good done by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I determined to try it. It cured me completely of all my complaints. I eat heartily and sleep well, thanks to this splendid medicine. I believe it to be the best remedy in existence."

Dr. Greene, Nervura's discoverer, will give all health seekers his counsel free of charge. His office is at 35 West 14th Street, New York City, and his advice may be secured by personal call or by letter through the mail; no charge is made in either case. The worn-out in body, mind, or sexual powers will get prompt help from Dr. Greene. His advice is absolutely confidential and is free to all.

THE MOOSE HUNTER.

How the Sport of the Maine Woods Tries a Man's Mettle.

There is no better test of what there is of a man than to strip him of the conventionalities and accessories of civilization and leave him to his own resources in the heart of a wilderness like that of Maine. Some of those whom the world esteems great and wise would starve forthwith, while many of those who live and die unknown to fame would "wax and grow fat." There is one denizen of the Maine woods that stands pre-eminent to all others which claim the attention of sportsmen—pre-eminent in size, pre-eminent in the uncouth grandeur of his gigantic bluk, pre-eminent in the time, patience, labor and skill involved in his capture, and pre-eminent in power to thrill the steadiest nerves and cause th blood to flow in quick throbbing beats like quicksilver in the veins.

The sportsman who has not confronted a bull moose in his native woods has missed an experience which is well worth the best year of his life. I speak advisedly, for I have been there. Imagine, if you can, a huge bundle of muscular power, reared on great stilt-like legs to a height of seven feet, with bristling mane, and eyes which gleam viciously from beneath broad, massive antlers which sway with the huge head eight to ten feet above the ground.

Imagine yourself standing, if you have strength to stand in front of this frightful apparition, and only a few yards distant, with the knowledge that if you don't kill him he will very likely kill you, your heart throbbing so painfully that your ears fairly ache with its pulsations, the blood racing through your veins like molten lead, the sweat starting from every pore in your skin, while your brain labors in vain to regain control of the wild tumult which possesses you. Imagine all this, if you can, and then multiply the sensations which it calls up two or three million times, more or less, and you will have a result which approaches the reality in magnitude. The man who sends every bullet straight to the mark under such conditions as these should be excused if he brags a little about it afterward. He should also be excused if he does some very foolish things when he sees the awe-inspiring monster collapse under the paralyzing shocks of the well-directed bullets—i. e., dropping his rifle and trying to hug himself, attempting to turn somersaults which only land him on his head, trying to shout the great news to everybody within a hundred miles, and only succeeding in making a poor little squeak somewhere down in his throat, trying—but let us drop the curtain. The ethics of sportsmanship forbid me to disclose all the absurd things even the most sedate and dignified of our craft will do on such an occasion.—Forest and Stream.

Failure.

"Failure," says Keats, "is, in a sense, the highway to success, inasmuch as every discovery of what is false leads us to seek earnestly after what is true, and every fresh experience points out some form of error which we shall afterward carefully avoid."

Defeats and failures have played a great part in the history of success. It is not pleasant to think that more or less of defeat is absolutely necessary to great success; but that it is true every student of history knows. Defeats and failures are great developers of character. They are the gymnasia which have strengthened the muscles of manhood, the stamina, the backbone which have won victories. They have made the giants of the race by giving titanic muscles, brawny sinews, far-reaching intellects.

How true it is that poverty often hides her charms under ugly masks! Thousands have been forced into greatness by their very struggle to keep the wolf from the door. She is often the only agent nature can employ to call a man out of himself and push on toward the goal which she had fitted him to reach. Nature cares little for his ease and pleasure; it is the man she is after, and she will pay any price or resort to any expedient to lure him on. She masks her own ends in man's wants, and urges him onward, oftentimes through difficulties and obstacles which are well-nigh disheartening, but ever onward and upward toward the goal.—Register.

American Miniatures.

There has been a revival in this country of the art of miniature painting, and in the Century Pauline King tells of the men and women who are responsible for it. One of the illustrations to Miss King's article forms the frontispiece of the number. The writer says:

Although popularity does not affect artistic standards, it is interesting to note that it is now as much the mode to have a portrait "done in little" as it was when Mr. Pepys felt that no man of taste could afford to be without one of Cooper's miniatures, and deciding that Mrs. Pepys should sit to the artist as soon as possible, recorded the progress of the work in his immortal "Diary." Before a really just estimate of miniature painting can be made, all feelings of condemnation on account of the smallness of the work must be laid aside. Quality alone is to be considered in matters of art, and no distinctions can be allowed between a portrait of two inches and one of as many feet merely on account of their proportions. Moreover, the smaller picture should not be looked upon as a curiosity, for its form is a perfectly legitimate one, and has been in constant usage since antique times. Such narrow limits are no more to be despised than those of the sonnet, and what was not considered a too "scanty plot of ground" for Holbein and the Clouets needs no more apology than Milton's choice of verse.

All for the Best.

"They say that women have a very deficient sense of humor," remarked Willie Wishington.

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "And perhaps it is just as well. If we had too much discrimination in such matters we couldn't smile at so many well-meant masculine efforts to be funny."—Washington Star.

You're Gambling!

It's too risky, this gambling with your cough. You take the chance of its wearing off. Don't!

The first thing you know it will be down deep in your lungs and the game's lost. Take some of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and stop the gambling and the cough.

"I was given up to die with quick consumption. I ran down from 138 to 98 pounds. I raised blood, and never expected to get off my bed alive. I then read of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and began its use. I commenced to improve at once. I am now back to my old weight and in the best of health."—CHAS. E. HARTMAN, Gibbstown, N. Y., March 3, 1899.

You can now get Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in a 25 cent size, just right for an ordinary cold. The 50 cent size is better for bronchitis, croup, whooping-cough, asthma, and the grip. The dollar size is best to keep on hand, and is most economical for long-standing cases.

Cyclones of West Indies.

About 88 per cent of the West Indies cyclones occur in August, September and October. Fortunately most of them are not very destructive in character. The records in the island of St. Thomas, for example, show that in the century and a half preceding 1897 that island suffered from devastating cyclones only seven times though it is the northern and eastern islands, such as St. Thomas, Porto Rico, Cuba and the Bahamas, that are most frequently in the pathway of the severest cyclones.

THE SHOPPER ABROAD.

He Is Not as Easily Suited in France as He Is in America.

Men accustomed to American clothes are great sufferers in France. It is almost impossible in Paris to get a proper string tie. French collars are ugly in shape—too low for American ideas—and made of heavy linen. French collar buttons are beneath contempt; they are a joke, and it is an unwise man who has less than three before him when he starts to unite his thick, badly fitting collar to his worse-fitting shirt. French shirts are invaribly too low in the neck and have yards of superfluous cloth in them. It is impossible to buy in France a negligee shirt with collar attached, although some of the English places will make them at a high price. Shoes are clumsy and dear and the shape of the French hat is not to be trusted. That any of these things shall be all right, one must go to the English tailors and outfitters who have established shops in Paris. These places, while never the equal of the London places, are much more expensive, says the New York Tribune. On the whole, unless a man makes periodical visits to London, he is pretty badly off in Paris so far as clothes are concerned. A woman is worse off, for she can rarely find the things she misses in the London shops. In regard to all cotton things, the Paris shops are huge failures. Decent sheets are $3 a pair in Paris and, while elaborately trimmed and hand made, underwear is cheaper there than here. Good-fitting, nicely made garments cannot be found for a moderate price. The woman of limited means sighs for the American shops when her stock of underwear gets low. It is absolutely impossible for a woman to find a decent linen collar in Paris or a ready-made shirt waist that will pass muster. She is, indeed, fortunate if she can get anything of this sort properly made to order at a high price. French women wear cheap underwear and clumsy shoes; the footgear that a French woman shows when lifting her skirt is astonishing. Stockings are expensive and badly shaped, unless one pays the equivalent of 70 cents a pair. This refers only to cotton and lisle-thread stockings, for silk stockings are included among the luxurious articles that are cheap. On the whole, it is cotton and woolen goods that are expensive in France. These articles should be cheaper in England than they are in America, and they are; but they are so poorly made as to be impossible for American taste. In combining comfort and style with a modest price, no European country equals America.

Nobility of Ascent.

If there be no nobility of descent, all the more indispensable is it that there should be nobility of ascent—a character in them that bear rule so fine and high and pure, that as men come within the circle of its influence they involuntarily pay homage to that which is the one pre-eminent distinction, the royalty of virtue.—John Stuart Mill.

"Oh! Dear I'm so Tired."

The ordinary every-day life of most of our women is a ceaseless treadmill of work.

How much harder the daily tasks become when some derangement of the female organs makes every movement painful and keeps the nervous system all unstrung!

One day she is wretched and utterly miserable; in a day or two she is better and laughs at her fears, thinking there is nothing much the matter after all; but before night the deadly backache reappears, the limbs tremble, the lips twitch—it seems as though all the imps of Satan were clutching her vitals; she goes to pieces and is flat on her back.

No woman ought to arrive at this terrible state of misery, because these symptoms are a sure forerunner of womb troubles. She must remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is almost an infallible cure for all female ills, such as irregularity of periods, which cause weak stomach, sick headache, etc., displacements and inflammation of the womb, or any of the multitudes of illnesses which beset the female organism.

Mrs. Gooden wrote to Mrs. Pinkham when she was in great trouble. Her letter tells the result.

MRS. E. J. GOODEN

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am very grateful to you for your kindness and the interest you have taken in me, and truly believe that your medicines and advice are worth more to a woman than all the doctors in the world. My troubles began with inflammation and hemorrhages from the kidneys, then inflammation, congestion and falling of the womb, and inflammation of the ovaries. I underwent local treatment every day for some time; then, after nearly two months, the doctor gave me permission to go back to work. I went back, but in less than a week was compelled to give up and go to bed. On breaking down the second time, I decided to let doctors and medicines alone and try your remedies. Before the first bottle was gone I felt the effects of it. Three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash did me more good than all the doctors' treatments and medicine. I have gained twelve pounds during the last two months and am better in every way. Thanking you for your kind advice and attention, I remain. Yours gratefully,

"MRS. E. J. GOODEN, Ackley, Iowa."

THE BIOGRAPH FIEND.

Public Men's Terror, Who Threatens Peace of Notables.

The camera fiend is bad enough, and there is a continual protest against him by every person in whom the public takes an interest. But the biograph fiend, who is threatening the peace of notables, is much worse. Kinetoscope pictures are about to be put within the reach of everyone. A London concern has established a studio where people may go to have moving pictures taken of themselves, just as they now go to be photographed, and a cheap apparatus for the reproduction of films is sold, which, while not so good as those used in the theaters and nickel-in-the-slot devices yet answers the purpose. The manager of the studio says that it is in demand for weddings. The bride and bridegroom, bridesmaids, best man and all the rest are photographed while the wedding ceremony is being performed, and the happy pair and their friends have copies of the films as souvenirs of the occasion. But this is not the worst. A cheap biograph machine has been invented, by which a person may take hundreds of snap shots of anyone whom he chooses, and reproduce them. It is but natural for the owner of a few biograph strips to want other films for his machine. The worry to public people will be great. They will be the sufferers. For instance, instead of Gov. Roosevelt's children being photographed in bathing, the biograph fiend will take snap shots of their movements, and reproduce them on the screen as living pictures. The aim of the fiends naturally would be to secure statesmen in the most undignified attitudes possible.—

SHIP CONSTRUCTION BIDS ARE OPENED

Many Firms Stand Ready to Build Our New Warships.

FIGURES ARE INTERESTING

Sectary Long Presides Over Important Ceremony.

A Washington special says: Never since the birth of the new navy has there been such a gathering of ship builders and metal kings as were assembled in the office of the secretary of the navy at noon Friday to witness the opening bids for the amount of the naval construction which Secretary Long denominated as the greatest industrial event this or any other country had ever seen, involving the placing of contracts of about $50,000,000.

The secretary left the cabinet meeting to preside at the ceremony, and associated with him were the chiefs of the naval bureaus, while among the spectators were representatives of prominent firms and others identified with ship building.

There were eight bidders, and most of the bids were well within the limit of cost allowed by congress for the ships. The notable feature was the attempt on the part of the younger and smaller concerns to break the line of the old organizations which have constructed all of the heavy vessels of the new navy up to this time.

Because of changes made in the specifications by the bidders, the general tendency of which is to considerably reduce the equipment of the ships, it is not possible to tell which of the bids are actually the lowest.

The battleship bids as read are:

Cramp & Sons, one sheathed and coppered, $3,600,000.

Newport News company, one sheathed and coppered $3,593,000; one unsheathed $3,540,000.

Fort river works, one for $3,580,000, or two for $3,555,000 each, all sheathed and coppered. Without sheathing one for $3,640,000, two for $3,405,000 each. A bid also is submitted for two more at the same price under the act of 1900.

John H. Dialogue & Sons, one sheathed and coppered, $3,400,000; one without sheathing, $3,490,000. Another at the same figure under the act of 1900.

Bath Iron Works, one sheathed and coppered, $3,500,000.

New York Ship Building Company, one sheathed and coppered, $4,200,000, or two at $4,175,000 each. Without sheathing, one for $4,100,000, or two for $4,075,000 each. This firm offers to reduce the time limit of completion six months.

Moran Bros. & Co., Seattle, one sheathed and coppered $3,865,000 or two sheathed $3,490,000, Without sheathing, one for $3,697,000 or two for $3,586,000 each. Bids also are made for two more at the same price under the act of 1900. This firm also offers to reduce the time limit about six months.

Union Iron works, one unsheathed, $3,400,000.

A naval board will consider the bids and report upon them.

The acts of congress limit the cost of the cruisers to $3,600,000 each, and of the battleships to $4,250,000 for the sheathed and $4,000,000 for the unsheathed.

Secretary Long expressed himself as pleased with the result of the bidding and that the bids were very liberal.

The bids were for five new battleships and six armored cruisers, aggregating a total displacements of 154,000.

Of the battleships, namely the Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Georgia, Virginia and Rhode Island, three are to be sheathed and coppered and will carry super-imposed turrets; the other two are to be unsheathed vessels, having "quadrilateral arrangement" of eight inch turrets.

Title Given Boutelle.

The bill authorizing the appointment of Representative Boutelle, of Maine, as a captain on the retired list of the navy upon his resignation from congress was favorably reported Friday by the house committee on naval affairs, over which Mr. Boutelle presided until his present affliction.

EAGAN IS "FORGIVEN."

President Restores Him to Duty and Miles Puts Him on Retired List.

A Washington special says: Thursday Brigadier General C. P. Eagan, commissary general, was restored to duty by the president and at once placed on the retired list.

The order issued by the president remitted the unexpired portion of his sentence and restored him to "a status of duty with station in this city."

This order was immediately followed by one issued by General Miles announcing that General Eagan had been placed on the retired list on his own application after thirty years service.

A cable dispatch from Lisbon says: The minister of the Netherlands to Portugal and the Portuguese minister at The Hague have left their respective posts. It is believed that a difference has arisen on the subject of the exequatur to the Dutch consul at Lorenzo Marques, which the Portuguese government has withdrawn.

REPORT ON WAR TAXES

Submitted By Chairman Payne of the Ways and Means Committee.

A Washington dispatch says: Chairman Payne, of the ways and means committee, Friday submitted the report of that committee signed by all the Republican members in favor of the bill reducing the war revenue taxes about $40,000,000. The report says, in part:

"While the war for which these additional taxes were levied is ended, the train of extraordinary expenditures has not terminated with the close of actual hostilities.

"According to the report of the secretary of the treasury, the receipts for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1900, were $660,595,431, while the expenditures were $590,068,371, showing a surplus of $79,527,060. He also estimates the receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1901, at $687,773,252, and the expenditures at $607,773,258, which would leave an estimated surplus of $80,000,000.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902, the secretary of the treasury estimates the revenue at $714,633,042, and the expenditures at $690,374,804, leaving an estimated surplus of only $26,258,237. It will be seen that for 1902 there is an estimated increase in the revenue of $29,000,000 over the previous year, and an increase of expenditures of nearly $83,000,000."

"BOGUS BUTTER" BILL

Is Passed In National House of Representatives By Decisive Vote.

A Washington special says: The house Friday passed the Grout oleomargarine bill by a vote of 196 to 92.

The bill as passed makes all articles known as oleomargarine, butterine, imitation butter or imitation cheese transported into any state or territory for consumption or sale subject to the police power of such a state or territory, but prevents any state or territory from forbidding the transportation or sale of such product when produced and sold free from coloration in imitation of butter.

The bill increases the tax on oleomargarine colored in imitation of butter 2 to 16 cents per pound, and decreases the tax on oleomargarine uncolored from 2 cents to ¼ of a cent per pound.

A long and interesting discussion preceded the vote.

KRUGER "AT HOME."

His Arrival at The Hague Made the Occasion of Demonstration and Addresses of Welcome.

At the opening of the second chamber at The Hague, Thursday, the president, J. C. Gleichman, said:

"President Kruger arrives here today. He will take up his residence here. I take the occasion to propose that the chamber authorize me to welcome in its name the president to our country, and offer him an expression of our cordial sympathy."

The proposal was adopted amid cheers and bravos.

Mr. Kruger arrived during the day and was greeted at the station by the burgomaster and counsellors. A choir of 600 men and girls chanted Psalm 72, verses 6, 7 and 11. The former president and his suite then repaired to the royal waiting room, where the burgomaster warmly welcomed them in a brief speech.

Then followed Dr. Spink, the president of the local South African association, in a long welcoming address, assuring Mr. Kruger of the deep sympathy of the entire Dutch nation, "who had," he said, "so greatly though vainly hoped that the great powers who had recently assembled at the peace conference would not have permitted that in South Africa that the right of nations, the right of war and civil war should be trampled under foot, or a little nation be sacrificed in an unequal combat in defence of its existence."

The address, after a long eulogy of the heroism of the Boers, proceeded to liken Mr. Kruger to William the Silent, who sacrificed everything for the welfare of his people, and concluded:

"May your reliance on the Almighty, similar to that of the Prince of Orange, support you, Mr. President, in the arduous fight for right and liberty, and may the liberty of your nation crown your courage. Then will Great Britain have learned of how dangerous it is to attempt to throttle the independence of a free nation."

The river and harbor committee has passed over the proposed improvements on the Warrior and Tombigbee rivers until Major Rossell's report is received. Rossell telegraphed that the report on the work in Mobile Bay has been forwarded, but other reports are not completed. General Wilson, chief of the engineers, has wired Rossell to hasten reports, and he will possibly send perliminary estimates.

Talladega county has a progressive colored citizen in the person of Geo. Ragland. He made this year 400 bushels of corn, 300 bushels of potatoes and 12 bales of cotton. This crop was made with one mule, supplemented by some plowing done by a mule too young to work regularly.

Two years ago some one stole a mule from William Stewart, near Piedmont, who, after considerable futile effort to recover the animal, gave it up as lost. Recently Wirt Hall, a colored man, who at one time worked for Mr. Stewart, was in Birmingham, and recognized a mule as the lost property of Mr. Stewart. Wirt at once notified Mr. Stewart, who went down and recovered his long-lost property.

Talladega's city council has passed an ordinance taxing female dogs $5 and male dogs $1 a year. The ordinance requires every taxed dog to wear a collar, and goes into effect January 1. It is really distressing to learn from Lord Rosebery's address that a slight circumstance might have averted the Revolution and left us all subjects of a real sovereign, with a real court and a real aristocracy. The United States have the largest number of postoffices of any country, though Switzerland has the largest number in proportion to area, and Australia the largest number in proportion to population. We also send and receive more articles of mail matter to each inhabitant than any other country. THE CHRONICLE

J. R. WHITE - - President.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

The constitutional convention bill has passed the senate and house and has been signed by the governor. It is now a law. In April next all of the qualified voters of the state of Alabama will have an opportunity of voting on the question as to whether or not we shall have a constitutional convention. If the result of that election is in favor of a convention then the convention will be held the following month. We have every reason to believe that an overwhelming majority of the voters of the state are in favor of the convention, and will cast their vote accordingly. Nothing will keep a white man of intelligence from voting for the convention, in our opinion, but some political inironment, or a selfish and cowardly fear that his own political interests may be made to suffer. There are many things necessary to be done by a constitutional convention, but the all-absorbing thing is suffrage reform.

Our white people are really in favor of suffrage reform and deep down in their hearts, they all agree substantially on the modus operandi. There is one thing that kept them, in the recent election, from acting together on this question—it really was an issue in most counties—and that was designing politicians, who desired the negro vote, made a certain class of whites believe that the white man would also be disfranchised, especially where he did not belong to a certain political party. They were told that a constitution would be adopted just to suit a certain class of politicians and that it would never be submitted to the people for their ratification. But the present bill provides especially for this. Whatever constitution may be made by the convention when it meets in May will be submitted to the people. Every voter will have ample opportunity of examining and seeing whether it suits him or not, and if it does not to vote against it and use his influence against it. This assurance to the white voters of Alabama ought to, and will, in our opinion, remove all doubts and fears and will bring again all, or substantially all, of the white people together.

GO SLOW.

One extreme generally follows another. This is a truism and applies with as much force to our legislatures as to anything else. There has heretofore been a disposition on the part of our legislatures to be close-fisted and seemingly parsimonious. Our public schools and everything depending in any degree on state appropriations have suffered and been kept in the rear of general progress on account of this. But our present legislature has attempted to turn over a new leaf, and we fear they are turning it too abruptly. They have been unusually liberal and broad in their appropriations, so much so that Acting Governor Jelks has been forced to sound a warning note and to ask that no more appropriations be made until the condition of the treasury can be investigated.

We think that they should go slow for a while yet. Our public schools need more money. They need to run at least five or six months in the year. Our normal schools, the Girls' School in Montevallo and the reformatory at East Lake, all need money. The buildings in most cases are inadequate and much improvement might be made, to the great advantage of these institutions. But we can't afford to not keep an eye on the treasury. We think the warning is timely and the call to halt proper.

LET US ALL ATTEND.

A call has been published in the county papers for the past two or three weeks, signed by the members composing the commissioners court, for a mass meeting of the citizens of Shelby county to take steps looking to the improvement of the public roads in our county. This meeting is called for next Friday night, December 14. It is to be hoped that every one in the county interested in improving our public roads will be present at this meeting.

Why is not every one interested? There is one thing to a moral certainty, the move must be made at some time, sooner or later. If not we, the people of Shelby county are left, world without end. Well, if you agree with us in this then why wait? Suppose we do not accomplish just what we desire and aim at, for years and years to come, is it not better and to our interest and the interest of those coming after us—yea, is it not our duty—to make the start now, and do what we can and as soon as we can? To be sure it is. There is a responsibility on us, friends, in regard to this matter and we must not shirk it. Let us all "to the work" with all our might and we can do something of which we need not be ashamed.

THE government reports on the cotton crop for this year places the estimate at 10,000,000 bales. As soon as this report was published the price of cotton dropped nearly half a cent per pound and those who have been holding for higher prices are feeling just a little uncomfortable.

WE WOULD ask our readers to note the article in another column from Rev. C. L. Chilton on the liquor question. There is nothing before our people today that demands more earnest thought and careful consideration of this liquor traffic that is bringing so many of our fellow-men to poverty and degredation.

WE ARE informed that bills have been introduced in the general assembly to prohibit stock from running at large in beats 10 and 16. The bills are, so we are informed, framed after the manner of the stock law in beat 9, passed at the last legislature. Messrs. Peters and Beavers have been in Montgomery representing the stock law men.

BY AN organized movement the students of the University of Alabama made an open revolt last week against the strict military discipline in vogue in the institution. We regret to see these things and think the conduct of the boys is reprehensible. We are glad to see that the trouble is likely to soon blow over.

THE house bill appropriating $100,000 for the Girls' School in Montevallo was amended in the senate by reducing the amount appropriated to $65,000. The house at once concurred in the senate amendment. We have not noticed where the bill has been signed by the governor, but we presume it has. If it has not it doubtless will. We all rejoice at this.

CONSTITUTIONAL PROHIBITION.

To The People of Alabama:

Now that it is a settled fact that the state of Alabama is to have a constitutional convention, for the purpose of framing anew the organic law of the commonwealth, it behooves all the friends of order and good government to bestir themselves and see to it that the new constitution contains a clause prohibiting the sale of alcoholic liquors within the state.

A demand has gone up from the would-be honest people of the state for a constitution that will settle the suffrage question in such a way that it may be possible to live in this country and at the same time carry on an honest election. All honest and thoughtful persons who are acquainted with the general procedure in elections deplore the fact that such conditions exist in our state as to occasion the practice of cheating at elections.

Such practices have been largely instrumental in breaking down public conscience in general—for that which breaks down the conscience at one point breaks it down sooner or later at every point. The habit of cheating at elections, the managers having sworn to conduct the election according to law, and the habit of actual or tacit endorsement of such methods, has been more instrumental in the undermining of the veracity of our people than any other one thing. The amount of false swearing done in our courts is appalling and a constitutional provision which will take away the occasion for much of it will be a blessing to the country.

But, in our zeal for one reform, let us not lose sight of the need for that which is far greater. There is not a thoughtful, patriotic man in all the land who does not know that whisky is the greatest curse of mankind. It destroys more lives than all the wars, pestilences and storms combined. It is the direct or indirect cause of nine-tenths of all the crime of the country, and the consequent cost of the prosecution of the same, together with nearly all the misery, woe and want to be found in our insane asylums, poor houses and thousands of wretched homes. We need no argument to prove the horrors that follow in the wake of the saloon or the bottle. There are multiplied thousands of the victims of alcohol to vouch for its awful, galling chains. There are thousands of desolated homes which stand mute, but eloquent monuments of the curse and havoc wrought by the demon of intemperance. There are thousands of heart-broken mothers whose cries have gone up to heaven over the ruin of their sons caused by whisky. There are thousands of crushed and bleeding hearts of pure women who have seen their husbands go down under the terrible curse of drink. There are tens of thousands of orphans throughout the land whose fathers have been murdered by the saloon. There is scarcely a home in which this serpent has not left his slimy trail. No pen is sufficient to compute the sum total of the awful ruin. People of Alabama, now is the time to rise up in your dignity and sovereignty and say that this curse shall be forever swept from our fair land. Put prohibition into the organic law of the state, settle the question once and for all. The blessings which will flow from constitutional prohibition are incalculable. Put it into the constitution. This will take the question out of "party politics" and remove the greatest foe to our prosperity as a people.

This appeal is not intended as a discussion of the question. It is made by one who loves his country and his fellow men in hope that it may arouse others more capable to take hold of the matter. The great enemy does not care how much we preach, write and pray, so long as we do not press this matter to the practical issue of prohibition. I am in favor of the organization as soon as possible of a movement looking to a prohibition convention, a representative body, for the whole state, which shall discuss the question of constitutional prohibition for Alabama, and inaugurate a campaign looking to that end. We may rest assured that nothing will ever be done as long as we sit idly by and wait for the lead of professional politicians. They will doubtless oppose us, but for one I believe that this is the paramount issue in our country to-day and that there are enough good, law-loving, men-loving, God fearing people in Alabama to put prohibition for the liquor traffic into the constitution if they can only be aroused to their duty, unified and organized.

Now is the accepted time. We shall not have such another opportunity in a generation. Let us all bestir ourselves on this matter. Write about it, talk about it, pray about it, organize and give such expression to our determination as, that like the voice of many waters, the sovereign people of Alabama shall demand that the curse which has fastened its clutches upon us shall be forever swept from our soil; that the ten thousand who are bound with worse than the chains of slavery shall be free; that the burden and pall of a thousand homes of sorrow shall be lifted, and that our fair commonwealth shall be forever rid of the nefarious business of damning, for money, the souls and bodies of men.

SOOCHOW UNIVERSITY.

The board of missions of the M. E. Church, South, intends establishing a college of high grade in Soochow, China, and to make the other schools feeders to this. In the early part of the present troubles wealthy natives gave $20,000 toward it. We must have such an institution to train especially the young men of China. Some of them are now studying in the United States. Two of the grand nephews of Li Hung Chang are now studying in Nashville in the training school of Prof. Bowen and are in the care of his brother, Rev. A. C. Bowen, of the Alabama Conference. At the missionary conference at Decatur Dr. Lambuth raised a collection of $1,315 for this institution.—Alabama Christian Advocate.

Redlawn.

W. S. Taylor moved from Harpersville Tuesday to our place, and we are glad to welcome him and his family in our midst.

Rev. Holdridge was sent by conference back to this circuit, which we are glad to state. He preached at the Methodist church here to a large and attentive congregation Sunday.

A Mr. Hayse, of Dale county, was visiting in our parts the front end of the week.

Redlawn is booming some now.

J. W. Powell and wife, of Vincent, are visiting friends and relatives in our section this week.

All remember the entertainment to be given at Julius Baggett's Friday night. Everybody come and bring a girl, but if you can't bring a girl don't come. Hear that?

C. W. Stamps and E. B. Lyon were visiting at Lewis Sunday.

J. F. Baker, the artist of Harpersville, was with his many friends here Sunday and Monday.

Married, at the residence of the bride, on last Wednesday night, Mr. Amos Crowson to Miss Alice Hattaway, Rev. S. S. Crumpton officiating. We wish them all happiness possible throughout life.

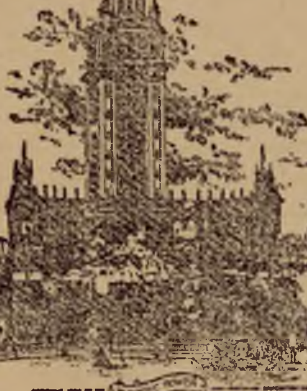
The Pan-American Exposition and the Opportunities It Offers For Making Known to the World the Possibilities of the South.

The great Pan-American Exposition to be held at Buffalo next year has already attracted the attention of many of the people of Alabama. Perhaps no state should have a livelier interest in this magnificent enterprise than this, for surely no state in the Union has shown in the last few years more progress or more definite gains in industry and wealth than Alabama. This state surely is in a condition of development where it could derive especial benefit by proper representation at Buffalo. As a state we are inviting the capital of northern men to take advantage of the many opportunities which the state offers. We are calling the attention of the home seekers of the north to the wonderful opportunities which this state affords. It therefore seems particularly desirable that Alabama shall send to Buffalo a complete exhibit, showing her great natural resources and the unusual possibilities for the development of industries to be found within the boundaries of this state.

The city of Buffalo, having alone a population equal to more than quarter that of the entire state of Alabama, is within a night's ride of the homes of more than 40,000,000 people, or more than half the population of the United States. The Pan-American Exposition, whose gates are to be opened on the 1st of next May, is the first great Exposition in the eastern part of the country since the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia 25 years ago. It will be the first opportunity that Alabama has had to carry an object lesson, such as it now can offer, to the people of the north.

Governor Joseph F. Johnston, in his inaugural address on Dec. 1, 1896, made the assertion that "there is no territory of like size in the known world so prolific in the variety of its resources" as Alabama. He said further that "were a wall to be erected around the state, cutting off all access with its neighbors, the people could produce within their borders everything necessary for the comfort and convenience of man." But the policy of Alabama is quite the reverse of this. The mines and forests and agricultural lands of the state are being developed as never before, and still less than one-third of the productive area is touched, and the mineral wealth of the state is still undeveloped. There is opportunity for every one who is prepared to take up the task of developing a business enterprise under the most favorable conditions that any state can offer. With nearly 4,000 miles of railroads traversing the state in every direction and navigable rivers affording an unusual means of transportation from points untouched by railroad, with abundant water power in almost every section of the state, with a climate that permits its inhabitants to follow outdoor employment without discomfort almost every day in the year, with a population earnestly devoted to the pursuits of peace and sustaining loyally a just and economic system of government, Alabama has indeed much to offer and should be proud to make her resources known wherever opportunity permits.

The purpose of the Pan-American Exposition are, first of all, the promotion of trade and commerce and the dissemination of knowledge of commercial and industrial possibilities among all the people of the western hemisphere. It is distinctly a Pan-American enterprise, the prefix "Pan" having the meaning of "All" and the exposition being for all the Americas. There will be no exhibits from the old world. Nearly all of the central and South American countries will be represented, some of them having very large and wonderful exhibits of their resources. It is expected that all of the states will also be represented either by state exhibits or by the exhibits of individuals in various divisions of the Exposition. It is to be hoped, therefore, that Alabama may have an exhibit that will be to her credit and such a one as to surprise people who are unfamiliar with the boundless resources of which this state can boast.



ELECTRIC TOWER.

Manitoba and the Exposition.

The Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo next year is assured of a representative exhibit from the important province of Manitoba. Special Commissioner Henderson, who has made a tour of northwestern Canada for the Exposition, met with gratifying success in arousing interest in the enterprise.

Oregon Editors Will Go to Buffalo.

The Oregon Press association at its annual convention recently voted to hold its annual excursion meeting in 1901 at the Pan-American Exposition.

Did you see the show?

For fine watches call on T. J. Weaver.

Capt. J. L. Walthall was in the city Saturday.

A fine display of jewelry at T. J. Weaver's for Xmas.

Two more weeks until Christmas and the fireworks.

Mr. E. W. Bell, of Vincent, was a visitor to our city Monday.

James Evans, of Wilsonville, was shaking hands with friends in our city this week.

Hon. Hugh McEldery, former senator from Talladega county, was a visitor here Saturday.

Mr. Max Lefkovits, one of our popular merchants, was visiting Talladega the first of the week.

Ed Duran, of Birmingham, came over Sunday, and brought his gun, to kill Shelby county game.

Attorneys Peters and Beavers made a business trip to Montgomery the latter part of last week.

Hon. E. S. Lyman, of Montevallo, one of the prominent attorneys of our county, was in our county the first of the week.

Why is it you wait until your neighbor is dead before you can say one word in his praise or see a single trait in him to admire.

Until further announcement the evening services at the Methodist church will be held at 6:30, instead of 7:00, as heretofore.

Mr. W. G. Brown, of Ganadarqe, a prominent lumberman of that district, was in to see us Monday, and didn't neglect to give us his subscription.

The crowds on the streets for the past few weeks give to our place quite a "citified" appearance, and our merchants seem to be doing a land-office business.

W. F. Adams, Esq., of Weldon, was in the city Friday and called in to see us. He is another man who reads THE CHRONICLE, and isn't quite ready yet to cease his subscription.

If you want something nice for a Christmas present call on T. J. Weaver, where you will find the finest assortment of jewelry and watches ever seen in Columbiana.

J. W. Dykes, of Easonville, was in our city the first of the week. Jim has accepted a position with the Shelby Iron Co. and will move his family to that place shortly.

Messrs. William Bros. have recently purchased the brick building next to Lester & Co., and by an application of the paint brush to the interior have improved its appearonce very much.

Last week J. H. Hammond, the popular grocer, sold his entire stock of merchandise to J. Q. Wade, of Calera, who will conduct the same at the old stand. See notice of change elsewhere.

A slight change in schedule for the Southern went into effect Sunday, the southbound reaching here at 1:30 p. m. and the northbound at 1:55, just fifteen minutes earlier each way. The trains meet at Shelby Springs, as formerly.

Steps are being taken to organize a lodge of Knights of Pythias in this city. There is good material here and no reason that we can see why a flourishing lodge could not be organized and maintained.

Saturday used to be the busy day in Columbiana, but the remainder of the week is claiming some attention now. Columbiana has grown to be a city, not only in appearance, but in life and activity as well. If you don't believe it, come and spend a week here.

On Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock Judge A. P. Longshore joined together in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. Knox Nivens and Miss May Riley, both of this county. May happiness attend them throughout life's journey.

On last Sunday the three Sunday schools of this place appointed committees to confer and arrange for a Christmas tree. This is well; the little folk deserve a visit from "Santa," and we trust he will come laden down with nice things.

Columbiana can boast of possessing the most expert "possum searchers" in Alabama. A few nights since a party of six left here in a hack and searched the public highways for ten miles for his 'possumship without success, when it was suggested by some one that it was necessary to have a 'possum dog. This it seems had never occurred to the searchers before, so the trail was abandoned until the services of a [illegible] could be secured.

We call your attention to the change in the advertisement of that reliable, wideawake merchant, Henry Milner, which appears elsewhere in this issue. When in town call on him and get his prices.

Mr. W. B. Hubbard, from San Diego, Texas, who has been visiting in the city for the past two weeks, left yesterday for Corpus Christi, same state, where he goes into the hardware business and where also he will read THE CHRONICLE.

Dr. H. A. Kirksey, who has been located here for the past few months, left Wednesday for Eutaw, his former home, where he will practice his profession in the future. While here he made many warm friends and enjoyed a profitable patronage. We wish him much success.

Little John Hodgins, the eighteen-months old child of James Hodgins, of this county, was burned to death Saturday last while handling a lighted miner's lamp. This makes the second death from burns among children in this county within the past week or so.

For the Christmas holidays the Southern Railway will sell tickets from all points on its lines to points east of the Missippi and south of the Ohio and Potemac rivers at rate of one and one-third fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold December 22-25 and 31, also January 1st, 1901, final limit to return January 4. This gives excellent opportunity to parties contemplating spending the holidays with friends at their old homes.

Rev. T. K. Roberts—"Bro. Tom," as he is familiarly called by so many of his friends and admirers—preached in the Methodist church on last Sunday. His theme was, "The Race of Life—Practical Christian Living." He handled the subject in such a forcible and practical manner as to command the closest attention of his hearers from the beginning of his sermon to its conclusion. We feel that much good is done whenever a sermon like this is preached by one so earnest and honest as this young brother is.

Having bought out the entire stock and good will of J. H. Hammond, I desire to inform his customers and the public generally that I am now engaged in the family grocery business at Hammond's old stand—the Armstrong brick store—in Columbiana and that I will keep constantly on hand fresh and pure goods of all kinds usually sold in my line. A cordial invitation is extended to everybody to come and see me in my new store and examine and price my goods. I would be greatly pleased for all of Hammond's old customers to continue their patronage with me at the old stand. You will find that I will sell you your groceries as cheap as the cheapest and treat you right in every way, and I want to get many new customers out of the trading public of Columbiana and vicinity. Give me a trial, and by fair dealing, pure goods and low price, I hope to deserve a continuance of your patronage. I have also a full line of choice Christmas goods of all kinds.

J. Q. WADE.

NOTIC

I have this day sold my stock of fancy groceries to J. Q. Wade, who will continue business at my old stand. I thank you all for your liberal patronage and bespeak the same for Mr. Wade.

The Hog Law.

At a meeting of the mayor and council on last Friday evening the consideration of the petition asking for an ordinance prohibiting hogs from running at large in the city was postponed to the next regular meeting. Some opposition has sprung up against the law. The objection is on account of the hardship that would be imposed on those living on the boundary of the prohibited district.

A bill has been introduced asking for a hog law for the whole of beat 1. If this passes there will probably be no need for the city to pass any ordinance at all on the subject.

The City Colored School.

Having heard that the mayor of the city, who is ex officio president of the board of education, had made an official visit to the colored school recently, a reporter of THE CHRONICLE called on that official and made inquiry as to the condition of the school. He was informed that the school is in a most flourishing condition; that the principal, Prof. Rakestraw, is the right man in the right place, and that he has a competent assistant; that the work being done by these teachers is as good as can be found in any of the public schools of the country. He reports about fifty-five pupils, from six to fifteen years of age, in attendance, and during the hour and a half which he spent in the school inspecting the work he never saw a semblance of improper conduct on the part of a single pupil. This is very gratifying to us and certainly speaks well for the principal and his assistant teacher. Columbiana feels an interest in her colored school.

"Blessed Are the Peace Makers."

Mention was made in our last week's issue of a difficulty which occurred on Yellow Leaf between Jasper and Dayton Gilbert on the one side and Roberson, Evans and Dudley on the other. This difficulty resulted in the Gilberts being arrested for assault and battery with weapons, and Roberson, Evans and Dudley for assault with intent to murder, and abusive language. The parties were deeply stirred up, and employed counsel to prosecute, and every step was taken to make vigorous prosecutions and defences. The whole community, on account of the friends of both sides, became stirred up, but a few friends of the parties, seeing what it must lead to, went to work to get the cases settled. They succeeded most admirably. After consultation between the attorneys on both sides on last Monday, the day set for the preliminary trial, an agreement was reached by which all of the cases were dismissed. We rejoice at such settlements as these, and must say that too much cannot be said in commendation of those by whom this settlement was reached.

Now, that the cases have been disposed of, we feel at liberty to say, without fear of doing any one an injustice, that our information is that this trouble grew out of a not very kindly feeling which has existed between these parties for several years past. If this is so, we do trust this will end all former troubles or unkindly feelings, and that the parties will come together as friends and agree that the hatchet may be buried, and then and there bury it. Otherwise the old grudge will remain and even may be transmitted from father to son, and may result some day in a more serious trouble than has ever been dreamed of by any of the parties concerned.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA.

Men Who Travel Much Prone to Suffer from This Disease.

This distressing affection, known also as Tabes dorsalis, is a disease of the spinal cord occurring usually in middle life, between thirty and fifty years of age, but sometimes in children as young as ten or twelve years. It is believed to be due primarily to some constitutional trouble, but is brought on often by exposure to changes of weather, by physical or mental overwork, and by whatever depresses the general health. It is said that railroad men and others who travel much are prone to suffer from this disease. Men are affected more often than women. The first sign of the disease is usually a numbness of the feet and an uncertainty in walking, especially in the dark. The patient feels constantly fatigued, without apparent reason, and sometimes slight attacks of dizziness are complained of. The difficulty in walking gradually increases, and then an awkwardness in the use of the hands is noticed. This becomes very apparent if the patient is made to shut his eyes and try to touch the end of the nose with the index finger. A well person can usually place the finger on or very near the nose, but one suffering from locomotor ataxia is as likely to touch the eye or the chin. There is also frequently a feeling of constriction about the waist, as if a cord were tightly tied around the body. Sharp, darting pains may be felt in the legs, and sometimes there is severe pain in the stomach, perhaps with vomiting. Not uncommonly there is irregular action of the bowels and bladder. The eyes are often affected, the sight gradually growing dim, or double vision being present, and occasionally there is deafness as well. Painless swelling and deformity of one or more joints may occur, and sometimes the bones become so brittle that they break very easily, as in a simple fall. A rare symptom is an ulcer on the sole of the foot, which it is difficult or impossible to heal. Locomotor ataxia is a very slowly progressive disease, lasting sometimes for many years, and seldom in itself a cause of death. When treatment is begun in the very early stages, it is believed that the disease may possibly be cured but later the most that can be done is to delay its progress and relieve the most distressing symptoms.—Youths' Companion.

LIVELY ENCOUNTER

To a Finish Between a Big Bear and a Husky Negro.

While at Batesville last week the writer was told of a genuine mix-up between Edward Brown, a worthy and well-to-do colored man living 10 miles west of Batesville, near the big Tallahatchie bottom, and a 600-pound black bear, says the Atlanta Constitution. The incident happened on Tuesday of last week. The negro's corn field is near the bottom, and for two weeks past several bears had made night visits thereto to partake of the delicious roasting ears. Brown is an old bear hunter, and in his day has killed many dozens of them. He built a scaffold in the corn field near where the bears entered, and Monday night, with his trusty gun, he took his stand thereon, intending to bag Bruin while devouring his corn. Now the thrilling part comes, and boys who love to read hairbreadth escapes from wild and ferocious beasts must prepare to hold their breath. The bear came on schedule time and started straight for the negro's shelter. Brown saw that he was a tremendously large one, and tried to make good his aim. He only succeeded in wounding him badly, however, and the bear ran off to the woods. Brown called his sons to bring the dogs and a fresh gun, and soon the dogs had the monster bayed in a brush thicket within the field. The moon shone brightly, and he could see the struggle the dogs were having with the game, so to make short work of it he rushed in to get a dead shot, when Bruin turned on him with the ferocity of a Texas cyclone. The negro was knocked down, his arm crushed to splinters, and he was badly bitten and otherwise used up. Brown's oldest son saw the predicament of his father and rushed in, grabbed the rifle and ended Bruin's checkered and corn-eating career on the spot. The bear weighed over 600 pounds.

Sawdust for the Pig Pens.

Sawdust is one of the best substances that can be used in the pig pens, and it is also excellent in the stalls. While sawdust does not quickly decompose, yet it is an excellent absorbent and in time is reduced to its original elements. It is clean, easily handled, and is not bulky, while its odor is not disagreeable. It also serves to keep the manure in a finely divided condition.

Weeds That Are Useful.

Weeds are sometimes useful because they occupy the land and shade it in the summer and cover it in winter. The term "weeds" may apply to any kind of plants. Even when two plants of the same kind are growing side by side one is a weed if it interferes with the growth of the other. Some of the most showy flower plants become weeds if they escape from their proper place. A rose is a weed if found in a cornfield, and one of the prettiest of flowers—the daisy—has become a general weed and nuisance.

Destroying Parasites on Trees.

Sometimes maggots or lice injure young trees at the roots, peach and plum trees being more frequently attacked than other kinds. Remove the earth, so as to expose as much of the roots as possible, and saturate the earth at the roots with soap-suds and then scatter a pound of kainit on the roots before returning the earth to its place. The trees will not be injured and the parasites will be destroyed.

A Hint to Peach Cultivators.

Those who grow peaches should keep a continued lookout for indications of the yellows. A premature ripening of the fruit is one of the first symptoms, though the lack of flavor in the peach should enable one to detect the disease if he is familiar with the variety. But when the little yellow looking sprouts and bunches of leaves seem to break out through the bark at places where no branches should be expected, then it is a sure thing that the tree has the yellows, and the sooner it is disposed of the better for the rest of the orchard. Cut it down or dig it out root and branch, taking care not to touch another tree with it while doing so, or while carrying it out. Then as soon as dry enough burn it. Do not let even the smoke of the burning blow toward the other peach trees, and do not set another tree near the spot where this condemned tree stood.

Fall Planted Trees.

There is a security of investment in trees for fall planting, that does not attach to spring planted trees. In the fall planted tree the risk is minimum; whereas, in the tree set out in the spring it is maximum. This has been our observation and experience. The tree that is planted in the fall has three or four months to fortify itself at the roots before nature calls on it to pump sap to the top for new top growth. It soon establishes itself firmly, takes a vigorous root, and is in condition to develop itself above the surface, at the very first call for renewed growth. It is firmly set by the late fall and the winter rains, and if the summer should be dry, it will not suffer like the spring set tree that is still unsettled and weak at the root.

In planting, we prefer one year old trees. They do not make as much show at first, but we venture the assertion that one year old trees, set out in the fall, will surpass in growth any two year old trees that are set the following spring. Root growth is the prime object at first, and in no way can it be more surely obtained than by planting one year old trees in the fall of the year. A vigorous top growth is sure to follow as the season advances.—The Epitomist.

A Profitable Combination.

To combine poultry raising and gardening, so as to make the land produce large crops and increase in fertility, gives returns every month in the year. A poultryman in New England has a four-acre farm, fenced and divided into two lots of two acres each. His poultry home is so arranged that the fowls can be turned into either lot, as desired. About 200 hens are kept in one lot while the other is used as a garden. The fowls are not fed on the same ground continually, but at different places, so as to cover the entire lot several times during the year, the object being to have the hens work over the whole surface and distribute the manure evenly. The next year the fowls are changed into the garden plot and the gardening done on the plot formerly occupied by the fowls. The result that the land is enriched by the droppings and the waste food, and as the fowl yard is plowed once or twice a year the insects are reduced, the garden crops being large, while returns come in during the winter months from eggs. Some poultrymen prefer to place fruit trees in yards occupied by fowls, but by alternating a garden plot with crops and fowls there are fewer diseases of plants and birds and a few acres pay well.—Philadelphia Record.

Less Salt in the Butter.

Too much salt is used by many butter-makers. The whole tendency among consumers is toward fresher butter. In England and on the continent butter is made in those countries is served particularly fresh and white. In the best restaurants and hotels in the larger cities in this country the butter contains very little salt. A great number of Americans who go abroad, or who patronize city hotels and restaurants in their own country, are acquiring the taste for fresh butter. The fancy dairies that command extravagant prices put out a product that is almost fresh. Creameries that are catering to the highest class grocers and best family trade, now use only half as much salt as they did five or 10 years ago.

This point is worthy of more general consideration by dairymen and creamery men everywhere. The quality of salt is also important, but the leading brands are now quite above reproach in this respect. Of course the salt manufacturer favors the largest possible use of salt, but the dairyman's chief object should be quality rather than quantity in salt. The large export trade in butter, particularly in England and the continent will never be built up until the peculiarities of that market regarding a reduced quantity of salt in butter are catered to.

Winter Care of Colts.

After weaning, young colts should be given special care during the first winter. If they are neglected it will be very difficult to make up for this afterward even with the best of care. Put the colts in a box stall. Two or more can be kept together loose in one stall if it is large enough to give them a chance to walk around a little. In the winter especially the box stall should be as well lighted as possible, for the colts will not thrive in a dark place. Never confine them to a stall tied up for any length of time, as it will weaken their joints. Their feet may be deformed if they do not get the necessary amount of exercise while young and growing.

Feed colts liberally, give all the good hay they will eat up clean. Water at least twice a day, or better three times. The grain feed should consist principally of oats, which should be fed three times a day. Let the morning feed consist of equal parts of oats and bran made into a mash by scalding with hot water, and let it stand until lukewarm before giving to the colts. If two pounds of carrots or mangels can be sliced very thin so there will be no danger of choking, and given to each colt daily, it will aid digestion and keep the bowels in good order by preventing constipation. If colts refuse to eat roots at first, mix with a little ground feed. A spoonful of sugar will prove irresistible if sprinkled over the roots.

When the weather is good and not very cold, the colts should be let out into a yard one or two hours daily for exercise. In cold weather keep them in. Groom daily whether they look clean or not, but handle gently so they do not get scared. Break to use of halter and take up feet once in a while so they will become accustomed to handling.—American Agriculturist.

Modern Methods of Dairy Practice.

The dairy business is in a sense a manufacturing business. The cow is the machine which converts the raw material represented by grain and forage into milk. All lines of business, including agriculture, have been compelled to adopt modern methods. The dairy business, however, requires a large degree of intelligence in that it is governed by natural laws which are not as constant as those governing the manufacture of iron and steel products. Success in dairying today depends upon two conditions: First upon the reduction of the cost of production and second the improvement of the quality of the products. In the first instance the dairyman must thoroughly understand the feeding of cows, the milk and its care, the marketing of butter and cheese, the cow herself, and must have a thorough knowledge of the various feeds needed.

The difference in cows is nicely illustrated by two cows at the New Jersey experiment station. During the past year these cows ate practically the same amount of feed—$40 worth. They received precisely the same care, and were looked after by the same attendant. One cow produced 12,000 pounds of milk, which sold for $120, thus giving a profit of $80 above the cost of the feed. The other cow produced 4500 pounds of milk, which sold for $45 and returned a profit above the cost of the feed of only $5, a difference of $75 in favor of the first cow. The amount of milk, however, is not the only consideration. The 12,000 pounds of milk produced by the first cow contained only 4 per cent. of butter fat, which if made into butter would have been worth $140, the profit being $100. The other cow's milk contained 6 1-2 per cent. of butter fat, which, if made into butter would have been worth $85 and left profit of $45. This illustrates the necessity of choosing a cow of maximum capacity for milk or butter.

The matter of feeding cows is a very complicated one. As a general thing a balanced ration is best, but it is best only when it is cheapest. A wider ration will answer when it will produce butter cheaper than a narrow ration. It has been found that a ration consisting of silage, corn stalks and brewers' grains with a nutritive ratio of 1-5.4. The basis if this ration was the food value only. In tests at the New Jersey experiment station, it was found that good corn silage, being more palatable, was from 10 to 18 per cent more valuable than the same amount of corn fodder.

The second consideration, that of making a high-grade product, is of very great importance. Uniformity of milk and butter is absolutely necessary to a business success. A few years ago the New Jersey experiment station began dairying in a small way with grade cows under conditions as found on the ordinary farm. The milk sold reasonably well, but at the end of the first year there was an increase of not more than 5 per cent. in the amount consumed.

The second year, a modern dairy house was erected where it was possible to handle the milk properly. The cows were also well cared for and well fed and bedded. At the end of the first six months of the second year, the sale of milk had increased 30 per cent. and 20 per cent. more during the second six months. At the end of the fourth year a further increase of 15 per cent. was noted. Not only this, but a cash business was done and the milk is now selling for eight cents per quart, while ordinary milk brings only four cents. Not only did the sales increase, but the families who first bought increased their consumption 15 per cent. —Professor E. B. Voorhees, in the New England Homestead.

WHY MRS. PINKHAM

Is Able to Help Sick Women When Doctors Fail.

How gladly would men fly to woman's aid did they but understand a woman's feelings, trials, sensibilities, and peculiar organic disturbances.

Those things are known only to women, and the aid a man would give is not at his command.

To treat a case properly it is necessary to know all about it, and full information, many times, cannot be given by a woman to her family physician. She cannot bring herself to tell everything, and the physician is at a constant disadvantage. This is why, for the past twenty-five years, thousands of women have been confiding their troubles to Mrs. Pinkham, and whose advice has brought happiness and health to countless women in the United States.

Mrs. Chappell, of Grant Park, Ill., whose portrait we publish, advises all suffering women to seek Mrs. Pinkham's advice and use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as they cured her of inflammation of the ovaries and womb; she, therefore, speaks from knowledge, and her experience ought to give others confidence. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is absolutely free.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. LUCKY PREACHER

Makes a Fortune in Mining Stocks and Pays Off Church Mortgage.

Shrewd investment in Arizona mining properties has raised Rev. Larkin A. Rockwell, pastor of the West Pullman M. E. church, from his position as a struggling minister on a small salary to a man of affluence. Several years ago he began buying stock in the Azurite, Twine Beauties and other old mines in Arizona. His investments turned out so profitably that a short time ago he was able to announce to his congregation that he himself would pay off the mortgage of $2,500 which rested over the little church where he presided as pastor. At the same time he resigned his salary, as he said his own income was adequate for the support of his family. Rev. Mr. Rockwell was formerly pastor of the Second Methodist church at Englewood. When he accepted the call to West Pullman he found that church incumbered by a mortgage and the congregation hardly more than able to keep up the interest. The mining investments of Mr. Rockwell are reputed to have made him worth $500,000. He is at present in Arizona looking after his investments. He has in view other charitable dispensations on his return.

MINISTER SAVED

Rev. Henry Langford entirely cured of Nervous Prostration by Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy.

REV. HENRY LANGFORD.

Rev. Henry Langford, the eminent Baptist divine, of Weston, W. Va., has just escaped utter nervous and physical prostration. He is pastor of four churches. "For ten years," he said, "I have been nervous and growing worse all these years. During the last four or five years I became so nervous I could scarcely sign my name so it could be read. I was so nervous that I could not read my own sermon notes after they had been laid aside awhile.

"I was unable to hold my head steady in the pulpit, nor could I hold or handle my books and papers without embarrassment, owing to the trembling and weakness of my hands and arms. I was so nervous that I could scarcely feed myself. In fact, my nervous system was wrecked.

"I tried many remedies recommended by physicians, but found no permanent relief.

"One day I was in the store of R. S. Ogden, at Sardis, W. Va., and he said to me: 'You take two bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and if you say it don't help you, you need not pay for it.'

"I took two bottles of this medicine and found so much relief that I bought two more bottles, and now I am wonderfully improved in health and in strength. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy did it. I can heartily and truthfully recommend it to the sick. Too much cannot be said in praise of this splendid medicine. I say this for the good of other sufferers from nervous and prostrating diseases who can be cured by this remedy. For myself, I am thankful to God that I found Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and for what it has done for me."

To Raise the Kangaroo.

A movement has been started in France which has for its purpose the preservation, or, rather, the cultivation of the kangaroo, which has been rapidly proceeding toward extermination. Dr. Brisson, a French surgeon, says that there is likely soon to be an exceptional demand for the animals in consequence of the success attending the use of the kangaroo tendon in the hospitals. It has been employed in scores of instances to tie up the fractured bones of a man's leg, in order that he may use his knees while the bones are knitting together. Kangaroo tendon, he says, is as strong as silver wire. It is taken from the tail, and being animal in its nature is absorbed, and the leg does not have to be cut open, as is necessary when silver wire is used.

REDUCTION BILL PASSED.

War Tax Measure Goes Through the House By Decisive Majority.

A Washington special says: The house Saturday passed the war revenue reduction bill. The opposition sought to recommit the bill with instructions to report back a measure reducing the revenue at least $70,000,000, and including a provision for an income tax so drawn as to escape an adverse decision of the supreme court. The motion failed 131 to 155. Thereupon the bill was passed without the concurrence of the Democratic minority who refrained from voting.

The amendment placed in the bill Friday to tax express receipts was defeated on an aye and nay vote in the house—125 to 139. The pension appropriation bill, carrying $145,145,130, was passed in exactly fifteen minutes.

Robert W. Wilcox, the delegate from Hawaii, was sworn in immediately after the approval of the journal. After the oath had been administered many members came forward to congratulate Mr. Wilcox. The consideration of the war revenue reduction bill was then resumed and passed as above stated.

Queens' Speech Was Brief.

A London special says: "Parliament was dismissed Saturday until the middle of February with the reading of the shortest of the queen's speeches. It was as follows: "My Lords and Gentlemen: I thank you for the liberal provision you have made for the expenses incurred by the operations of my armies in South Africa and China."

Workmen while removing debris found five bodies at the foot of a fire escape. They were piled across each other and burned beyond recognition.

HANDSOME MAJORITY GIVEN.

Georgia Senate Passes Soldiers' Home Bill By Vote of 25 to 10.

The home for the confederate soldiers has been at last accepted by the state of Georgia. The senate by a vote of 25 to 10 passed the bill as it came from the house, and it only remains now for the governor to put his name to the bill for it to become a law. It was believed by all who had kept up with the measure that the bill would pass the senate, but the most sanguine friends of the home did not expect it to go through by such a handsome majority.

SQUEEZED TO DEATH.

Dying Girl Enveloped In Flames Holds Mother In Fatal Embrace.

At the home of Allen Fuller, near Fayetteville, N. C., his daughter discovered an outhouse on fire. She ran to put it out, and in doing so her clothing caught fire. Her mother, attracted by her screams, ran to the aid of the young woman, who was in a mass of flames. She threw her arms around her mother, in her death agony, and literally squeezed her to death.

Physicians say the mother was thus killed before the fire did its work upon the daughter.

BILL ARP'S LETTER

Old Man Grows More and More Solicitous of the Little Ones.

THEY LIGHTEN THE BURDEN OF LIFE

Arp Sees Many Beautiful Things In This Vale of Tears, and Does Not Sigh For Death.

These little chaps alarm me—alarm me with their innocence, their happiness, their love, for I have a foreboding that it cannot last. Life is full of sorrows and they will have their share. It is the common lot. One melancholy poet says: "Man was made to mourn." Another says: "I would not live alway," but I like that one better who wrote "The world is very lovely. Oh, my God, I thank Thee that I live." From my window almost every day I see two little girls, only four and six years old, turning the corner and coming up through the grove to see grandma and grandpa and be petted, and of course, be feasted with biscuit and jelly and apples and to nurse the cat and play with their little cousin's fine Paris doll. They always come hand in hand and with clean faces and ribboned hair, and we meet them at the door, for they bring sunshine to our hearts and home.

I love to have them climb into the back of my big chair and bother me while I write, and I have to stop and draw pictures for them and to hear the little one call me her good old for nothing gan'pa. The other day I met them going another way and they said they were going to see their other grandma. "Yes," said I, "you have two grandmas, but you haven't got but one grandpa." The little one looked up lovingly to me and said: "We don't need any more." I bought a fine turkey for the boys who are coming and the little girl surveyed him and said: "Gan'pa, he is running at the nose and it's bloody." It was the older one who said the turkey is sick, I reckon, for he keeps vomiting.

Dean Swift was a cynic and had no love for children. He said that an author who talked about his own books was as silly as a mother who was ever telling something smart about her children. I reckon he would say that grandparents were more silly than mothers. I confess that it is a good part of my happiness now to mingle with and to pet the little grandchildren, and that is why I feel alarmed for fear something will happen to them before I die or that I will die before they get old enough to love me with a love that will not forget, and I think of Tom Moore and his gazelle that died. I don't know where my spirit will be, but it seems to me now that I would like to have these little ones bring flowers to my grave sometimes and talk about me.

What would the world be without children, for of such is the kingdom of heaven. Just imagine for a moment the desolation, the despair that would pervade the home and society and trade and commerce—not a day school in all the land, nor a Sunday school, not a little shoe or stocking, nor a little hat, nor a doll or toy in any store; no castoria or soothing sirup or other infantile medicines; no fireworks, no Christmas nor Santa Claus; no nothing hardly, for it is a fact that the world is working for children. The cynics say that marriage is a failure. Suppose it is in many cases. Children are not failures. Divorces may stifle the love of man and wife, but they still love the children and contend for the possession of them.

Good schools build up towns and communities and the children make the schools. Country people move to town to educate them. What would become of the 4,000 teachers in the state of Georgia? What would the publishers do with all their schoolbooks and picture books? Who would go to a picnic or a monkey show? What excuse would men folks have for going to the circus? Wouldent it be a lonesome, no account world?

But marriage is not a failure. It could not be, for it was ordained by God. One or two unhappy marriages in a community sets all the dogs barking. Divorces are multiplying, but only among the very rich or the drunken poor. Money or whisky are the cause of most of them, and in nine cases out of ten the man is to blame. There is but one scriptural ground for divorce, and nine men are guilty of that to one woman. Poor, long suffering women. How silently, secretly and sadly you have to endure what you know, but cannot tell, and all you can do is to hug your children all the closer to your bosom and trust in God.

I was ruminating about children because I am away off from mine and on my way here I passed a country school house just as the children were piling out for recess and they came like bees out of a hive. As long as the train stopped at that station I watched them at their merry plays and sports in the pretty grove near by and I almost wished that I was a boy again so that I might join them. Good gracious, how I could run and jump and climb and shout; how long and happy was the day.

"The sun ne'er rose a wink too soon,
Nor brought too long a day,
But now I often wish the night
Had borne my breath away."

Tom Hood wrote that, poor fellow. I do not say it, for I love to live and have few regrets to distress me. I am here in Okolona, a pretty town with a pretty name. This good old state, a daughter of Georgia, is full of Indian names of towns and counties and rivers. These names are all that is left of the tribes—the Chickasaws, and Choctaws and Creeks and Natches. They were a proud and happy people, but had to vanish when the pale faces came and coveted their lands. Colonel Gordon, a Confederate veteran, lives here and interested me greatly in the history of Mississippi, for he and his father before him could say "magna pars fui"—"a good part of it I was."

He gave me the origin and meaning of many of these Indian names, such as Pontotoc and Tupelo and Okolona, and also of Aberdeen, which his father, who was a Scotchman, had named Dundee, but got mad because our people would call it Dundy and so changed it to a name they could not mispronounce. His father was very wealthy, owning thousands of acres of the rich prairie land that he had bought from the Chickasaws before they signed the treaty that ceded their lands to the United States government. I said that his father was a native of Scotland. Of course he was or he could never have bought those lands. The Indian tribes all liked the Scotchmen, for they treated them fairly and kindly in trading and taught them the use of the cross bow and long bow.

These Scotchmen frequently married Indian maidens, the daughters of the chiefs, and in course of time their halfbreed children became the chiefs. Such was Ross and Ridge and McIntosh and Osceola. Major Colbert, another halfbreed whose Indian name was Ittawamba, became chief of the Chickasaws. He was a great favorite with Mrs. Dolly Madison, the president's wife, for he was a splendid specimen of Indian and Scotch manhood and was smart and well educated. Mrs. Madison gave him a pair of peafowls and he brought them home and from that pair every peafowl in Mississippi has descended. This pair was many years afterwards given to Colonel Gordon's uncle, Josiah Walton, and by him to his sister, Mrs. Doggett, and the male bird lived to be seventy-two years old. A pair of this same stock has been recently presented to the city of Memphis for their zoo. I had no idea that peafowls lived to such great age, but I do know that we have been breeding them for over twenty years and have given away a great many and I never knew one to die a natural death.

But I am tired—travel worn, for no hours are mine; they are the railroad's by night as well as by day and my rest is broken up and I begin to realize that I cannot stand it much longer. Ben Franklin's definition of man was that he is "a bundle of habits" and the older he grows the stronger his habits hold him. The very word habits comes from the latin "habeo," to hold, to bind.

The Daughters of the Confederacy are wide awake in this town and are going to build a monument to their heroic dead of whom about 1,200 are buried here. They called me here to help them.—BILL ARP in The Atlanta Constitution.

State boards of arbitration appear to have failed signally in the purpose of their creation. Twenty-three States have laws providing for arbitration, and these laws are dead letters in all but five or six of the States. In the States where public boards of arbitration survive, labor interests at odds prefer fighting—a resort to strikes and lock-outs—rather than an appeal to these supposed beneficent institutions of a progressive State. This is because State arbitrators have not sufficient experience in the affairs from which labor troubles spring, to inspire confidence in either capital or labor when necessity of adjusting differences arises.

A traveler reports Honduras as a curious mixture of jungle and gigantic forest, of cocoa and of rubber trees, of bugs, vampires, snakes and crocodiles—of all manner of things that creep and crawl and sting and bite. Here, in every hamlet and city, are to be found men from different lands, mostly outlaws from their own country. Chicago, Boston, New York City and Philadelphia all furnish their quota. England, France, Italy, and even faraway Russia have their share.

There are valuable products in Alaska other than the minerals. F. A. Walpole, a special agent of the department of agriculture, has found there an immense growth of many kinds of woods which will make valuable timber. The principal trees he found were two varieties of spruce, two of hemlock, and one each of pine and cedar. There is a great deal of spruce. The pine as a rule is not of much value. It is rather small and grows in the marshes and bogs. The cedar is the most valuable wood to be found in southern Alaska. It grows in great abundance along the coast, and is called there the yellow cedar, but is known in all parts of the country as the Alaska cedar. There is some red cedar and it is very large. There is a good growth to be found about Wrangel. The yellow cedar is good principally for making moth-proof boxes and such like articles, and is especially valuable for interior finishing and the manufacture of furniture.

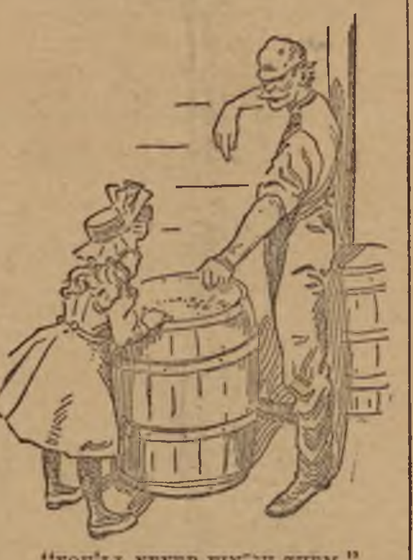
WANTED at once, pick over beans. Will beans to your residence and will pay twelve and a half cents a bushel. Drop a card stating number of bushels wanted. Address box 437, Lewistown."

This is what twelve-year-old Nora Nagle read in the local paper. Then she consulted her mother.

"I want a dollar very much, mother. Please don't make me tell what for. May I have the beans?"

Mrs. Nagle remembered that Christmas was coming and gave consent.

"Eight bushels!" said the man, laughing when he saw how young the applicant was, "you'll never stick to 'em till they're done. I've got to have 'em in ten days exactly."



"YOU'LL NEVER FINISH THEM."

"Yes, I will," replied Nora firmly. "My father says that to 'look before you leap,' is a sound business principle, so I've considered a good deal. I'll have them all picked over in ten days sure."

Consequently nearly every spare minute before and after school Nora picked over beans. The first bushel was "just fun," the second not quite so funny, the third not comical at all, the fourth needed this mental reminder from Nora to encourage herself: "This is business; I've undertaken it and I must finish."

Various were her expedients to rest her wrists during the movements of sorting; in her dreams she was constantly engaged in picking out the damaged and discolored beans that somehow would get back into the culled quantity, and when the seventh bushel was begun Nora's sister, hearing some one fall in the kitchen, went out and discovered Nora, her head within the basket of beans in a dead faint.

Then Mrs. Nagle thought it time to interfere. She sent the girl outdoors for her customary exercise and fresh air, saying firmly:

"No more beans, my dear."

But big Brother Tom, impressed by the quivering lips of the little sister, whispered, "Never mind, sis, we'll have a family party to-night and rope 'em all in to help."

So invitations were given out and in the evening father, mother, two sisters and big brother Tom and little brother Ben and Nora gathered in the kitchen and made short work of the remaining beans. Then they had some of the company peanut wafers and guessed conundrums and in conclusion Nora gave them a grateful kiss all around. And that, her father said, was very good pay.

"You're a clipper to pick beans, ain't ye?" said the man when he came for them. "Now, you watch the postoffice to-night, little woman, and I shouldn't wonder if you got a nice dollar bill."

Nora did watch the postoffice, but no dollar came. Not that evening nor the next day nor ever. The bean man proved to be a swindler who had disposed of his sorted product immediately and left for parts unknown without paying any of the bean pickers.

Did Nora cry? Not a bit, although she felt very much like it.

"Would it have been better, father, to say I must have my pay when he took the beans away? Would that be the way to do business with a stranger?"

Mr. Nagle nodded, very proud to have his little daughter draw this helpful conclusion instead of merely bemoaning the fact of being victimized. He also felt indignant enough to pay her from his own pocket, but waited, wishing to see what she would do.

Somehow after that Nora had many chances to earn pennies. When she did errands for different members of the family, to her surprise they insisted upon dropping payment into the little bank she had made ready for her bean money. And the neighboring women, too, all at once were so busy they could not take their babies out for airings. "If Nora would be so kind as to do erly a the village st baby.

At last the dollar was earned and Nora firmly refused to test further the kindness of her friends.

"Mother says 'enough is enough.' That sounds right, and I'm going to do errands after this for 'commodation's sake," she insisted.

That night Nora told her plans to her pillow. "No one will ever know," she whispered. "How can they if I never tell. Let's see. Two pairs of stockings will cost fifty cents; I know where I can get a fascinator for nineteen cents—the blue is the prettier, but I think I better get red; it won't show soil so quickly—that's sixty-nine cents; a pair of mittens will be twenty cents more, then there's 'leven cents left for a hair ribbon. Then I'll do 'em all up tight and drop them inside Myra Pell's door. She'll want to see what's inside the bundle before she looks outside, and that'll give me a good chance to run off. I declare, when Myra came into school the morning we had snow, she was 'most froze. Just thin cotton stockings and no mittens! And I don't believe she gets enough to eat. 'Course her mother washes, but her father just hangs around and tells the rest what they ought to do. But I'll never tell her who gave her the bundle. If I did she'd either thank me to death, and that would make me feel so 'shamed, or else her father would think I might give her something all the time, and my father wouldn't like that, and I guess my father knows what's best. Now, let's see—two pairs of stockings, a red fascinator, a pair of mittens—red, with long wrists—a hair-ribbon and a one-cent pencil. That just makes the dollar. And I shan't wait for Christmas, either. I'll slip off to-morrow morning before I go to school and buy 'em ,and hide 'em till night, then open Myra's door just enough to slip the bundle in; then run."

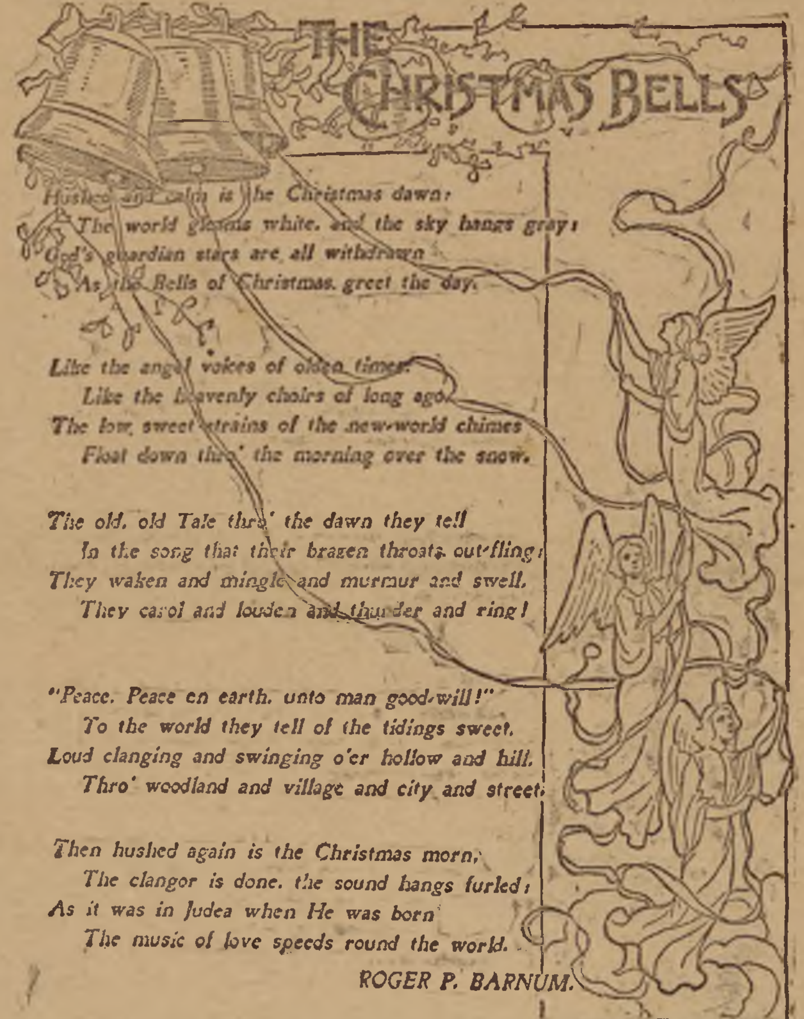
"Well," continued Nora, more and more drowsily, "as old lady Banks always says, 'I hope a blessing will go with them.'" With the utterance of this wish Nora dropped into dreamland.

NORA'S CHRISTMAS SHOPPING.

from school and told his mother that "Myra Pell, that skinny girl that lived in the alley, had a lot of new toggery and Nora acted just as if she owned her."

So the older members of the family could guess where the dollar went to, but they respected the little business woman's wishes. It is rumored, however, that Santa Claus is going to find the bean man and that Nora will find a dollar bill in her Christmas stocking.—Denio Stuart, in the Chicago Record.



Hushed and calm is the Christmas dawn;
The world gleams white, and the sky hangs gray;
God's guardian stars are all withdrawn
As the Bells of Christmas greet the day.

Like the angel voices of olden times,
Like the heavenly choirs of long ago,
The low, sweet strains of the new-world chimes
Float down thro' the morning over the snow.

The old, old Tale thro' the dawn they tell
In the song that their brazen throats out-fling;
They waken and mingle and murmur and swell,
They carol and louden and thunder and ring!

"Peace, Peace on earth, unto man good-will!"
To the world they tell of the tidings sweet,
Loud clanging and swinging o'er hollow and hill,
Thro' woodland and village and city and street;

Then hushed again is the Christmas morn,
The clangor is done, the sound hangs furled;
As it was in Judea when He was born
The music of love speeds round the world.

Christmas Surprises.

"Let me see," said Mr. Flickerson, "what is it you are to get me for a Christmas present?"

"Why, those new curtains for the dining-room, you know," his wife answered.

"Oh, yes. And what is it I am to surprise you with?"

"Henry, I don't believe you really take the enthusiastic interest one should in these things at this glorious time of the year. You are to get me a new carpet for the hall."

Then he started for the office, full of the sublime significance of the merry Yuletide.

A Delicate Question.

Christmas is nearing,
What shall I send her?
Truth, I am fearing,
Lest I offend her.
My heart is the offering
I gladly would send her.
I'm chary of proffering
Lest I offend her.

and butter to keep hot. Wash and one quart of oysters. Throw the oysters into a hot pan, shakes quickly, and add one tablespoonful of butter, half a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of cayenne. When they reach the boiling point dish on the rounds of toast, garnish with a thin slice of lemon for each one, and serve at once.

Fruit Punch—Put one pint of water and one pound of sugar and the chopped yellow rind of a lemon on to boil. Boil five minutes; strain, and while hot slice into it two bananas; add one pint of grated pineapple (canned) and a quarter of a pound of candied cherries. When ready to serve add the juice of six lemons. Put in the centre of your punch bowl a square block of ice; pour over it two quarts of mineral water; add the fruit mixture and at the last minute two shredded oranges; mix all together. Serve in thin tumblers.

Roast Beef—The roast beef of old England still enters conspicuously into our Christmas fare. It may be new to many to learn that the object of serving it at this season was really to remind our forefathers of the bulls sacrificed by the Druids when the sacred mistletoe was cut.

Christmas Pudding—Mix together one pint of stale bread crumbs, three-quarters of a pound of stoned raisins, one-quarter of a pound of sifted flour, one-half a pound of cleaned currants, one-half a pound of shredded suet, three-quarters of a cupful of sugar, one-half a pound of shredded citron, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half a teaspoonful each of nutmeg and allspice. Beat together four eggs, add one-half of a cupful of molasses (light) and one-half a teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in one-half wineglass of hot water; stir this into the other ingredients add the grated rind and strained juice of a lemon; turn into a greased mold and steam, or boil, five hours. (The Christmas pudding is supposed to be emblematical of the rich offerings made by the three kings to the Infant in the stable at Bethlehem).

The President's Christmas.

Wagon loads of gifts are received at the White House at Christmas time. They come from all parts of the country, the majority of them from persons unknown to the President and his wife. These miscellaneous articles are the private property of the recipients, and the numerous parcels are placed in one of the family rooms for examination. They generally contain the names of the donors, and to all these notes of thanks are sent. On Christmas Eve all the employes of the house—the clerical staff, the ushers and domestic servants—are given, through the established munificence of the President, a fine fat turkey. Fifty fowls, selected from the best in the market, are purchased for this event, so that everybody about the famous mansion has reason for rejoicing.—Mary Nimmo Balentine, in the Woman's Home Companion.

The Children's Christmas.

Beneath the cedar and the pine,
And gleaming Christmas holly,
Our happy thoughts a wreath entwine,
Our silvern notes are jolly.
For in the home are charm and mirth,
And here were sadness, folly—
Here, in the dearest spot on earth,
Beneath the Christmas holly.
—Katharine B. Johnson.

improve and deve county.

The question is, how shall it be done, whether by taxation, or by issuing bonds and building macadamized roads, or by working the county convicts on them, or by amending the present law with the view of making it more effective, or whether or not any of these methods, and if none of these, what?

At the meeting held various suggestions were made, and the different phases of the question were discussed by the chairman, Judge A. P. Longshore, John E. Dykes, M. S. Wilson, Judge D. R. McMillan, R. J. Griffin and others. It was decided that a committee be appointed which should thoroughly investigate the plans suggested and make a report to an adjourned meeting to be held in the courthouse on January 8, 1901, at which time definite action will be taken. The following is the committee appointed to recommend and report a plan: M. S. Wilson, D. R. McMillan, E. L. Crumpton, N. M. Davis, J. R. White, A. P. Longshore, J. E. Dykes. The meeting unanimously extended an invitation to our representatives, Messrs. W. R. Oliver and G. B. Deans, to be present on January 8. We hope they can be present and assist our citizens in adopting the very best methods possible to improve the road system in our county. We also trust that each beat throughout the county will hold meetings and send a representative here who is authorized to act for them in this meeting.

TOO MUCH CLEMENCY.

We were very much impressed with an editorial which appeared in the columns of the Montgomery Advertiser a few days since on the laxity of our courts in the administration of the law against murder. It was called forth by the action of the jury in the Gafford case tried last week in Montgomery

It will be remembered that Gafford shot to death F. B. Lloyd in Butler county something more than three years ago, was twice tried in that county, and each time a jury selected from the citizens in the county in which the murder was committed said by their verdicts that the murderer should suffer the extreme penalty of the law. The first verdict was that he should be hanged, and the second that he should be sent to the penitentiary for life. The case was reversed by the supreme court on technicalities, and the defence succeeded in getting the case moved to Montgomery county for trial, and by the lapse of time, the absence of witnesses and the failure of memory of other witnesses, the criminal goes scot free.

Can it be wondered at that mob law is so often resorted to in Alabama? As long as it is possible for such advantages to be taken in criminal cases in this state, just so long will the people resort to that most dangerous and degrading remedy known as mob law. We sincerely trust the present legislature will enact such a law as will protect the lives of our citizens and visit swift punishment upon the murderers who stalk abroad over our state and relieve our people of the odium which they now endure.

THE legislature has adjourned until January 29, 1901. This has been a history-making session, not only for the immense amount of work done, but for the importance of many of of the laws it has enacted. The body representa-

bors shall have
our posterity for generations to come can point to it with pride, and our state go forward by leaps and bounds to prosperity and distinction among the sisterhood of states.

IT CAN no longer be charged that Alabama is not trying to do her duty towards the common schools of the state. The total appropriation now stands at about one million, one hundred thousand dollars, and is derived from the following funds: direct appropriation, $550,000; special school tax, $250,000; poll tax, $150,000; interterest on trust funds, $150,000. While this sum does not meet all the demands and place our common schools on the basis we would like to see them, yet it is a long stride in that direction, and no doubt is as much as we are able to afford for the present.

COLONEL H. Clay Armstrong died at his home in Auburn on the 17th instant. Colonel Armstrong has been a prominent man in this state for many years, being at one time speaker of the house, and afterwards served a term of four years as state superintendent of education. Under Cleveland's administration he was appointed United States Consul-General to Brazil. At the time of his death he was Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Alabama, a position he had held for many years.

THE State University rebellion has been amicably settled, and it appears from the report made by the committee that all parties have been exonerated. There seems to be a strong sentiment among the students to have the military feature at the University abolished, and if the reports that have been circulated are true it would be a wise thing to do.

CENTURY ONE OF WONDERS.

Close of Present Period Shows Enormous Advance in All Lines.

Taken from Montgomery Advertiser.

An eventful century truly has been this nineteenth of the christian era, now within a month of its close. From whatsoever standpoint it is regarded its history is marvelous. In the knowledge we have gained during its progress of our own globe it stands unparalelled. There has been wonderful progress also in science, in education, and in the adaptation of natural forces to human purposes.

Political and territorial changes too have made this a very different world from that of 1800. It is not possible in small space to even mention the events which make the century memorable, but it may be interesting to recall a hundred, which, if not the most important, are those that have had the greatest influence in shaping and developing the condition of the nations.

Our friend, Max Lefkovits, made a trip to Talladega the first of the week on important business (?) and says Talladega is one of the most wideawake, up-to-date business towns in Alabama.

Why is it that some of our enterprising capitalists do not build a cotton warehouse? It certainly is very much needed by the business men of our town and the farmers of the county, and would pay a handsome interest on the money invested.

Uncle Jeff Elliott has completed his new residence on North Depot street and moved into same. We give you a hearty welcome, "Uncle Jeff," and wish for you and yours many long and happy days in your home.

It is with feelings of deep regret that his people, and in fact this entire community, part with him. [illegible] is an excellent prea[illegible] a devout christian, and good [illegible] and the people of Sylacauga are [illegible] congratulated in securing his ser[illegible].

For the Christmas holidays the Southern Railway will sell tickets from all points on its lines to points east of the Missippi and south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers at rate of one and one-third fare for the round trip. On last Sunday morning at 3:30 o'clock Mr. D. R. Hayley died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. F. Thompson, on South Court street in this place, aged 76 years. He had been a resident of Columbiana for only a short while, but had made many friends, who deeply sympathize with the loved ones whom he leaves. He was formerly from Auburn, where he lived for many years, loved and respected by all. His remains were taken to his old home in Lee county Sunday afternoon for interment.

Tom and Irvin Horton, two of the prisoners who escaped from the county jail at this place last February, were brought here Saturday from Columbus, Miss., and safely landed behind the bars once more. They were charged with burglarizing the store of Shelby Cross, at Pelham, last January. Sheriff Cox and J. W. Hester went over to Columbus to secure the prisoners. The men had not enjoyed their freedom and other good things of this world very long, as both had been stopping at the convict farm near Columbus for quite awhile.

Cristmas will have come and gone before THE CHRONICLE greets you again. It is at this time each year that our little folk look for and expect great things, and may none of them be disappointed. It should be a glad happy time in the life of us all, for it reminds us of the personification of God's love for humanity, and the sacrifice of a life as a testimony to the perpetuity of that love. May we each seek happiness by endeavoring to make some one else happy, and not in drunkeness, rioting and the gratification of selfish pleasures. We are not all blessed with an abundance of this world's goods, and those who are should remember the many that are poor and divide with them some of the bountiful provisions that have been committed to their care. Let us vie with each other in doing good and make this the very happiest Christmas of our lives.

Card of Thanks.

I desire to express my sincere thanks to one and all who showed us so many acts of kindness during the illness of my father. Sincerely,

MRS. A. F. THOMPSON.

☞ When we say that our job department has facilities for doing city work, we merely reiterate the statement of our patrons.

Shelby.

Everybody is glad of the return of Rev. Roberts as our pastor at the Methodist church. He preached an excellent sermon to young men last Sunday morning. At night Rev. A. T. Clarke, of the Congregational church, at Bro. Roberts' request preoched for him from Heb. 4:2.

Our successful teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Dowell, are to give their pupils a holiday vacation of two weeks.

The movement of iron from the Company's yard has been considerably more active since the presidential election.

Our merchants have put up an unusual attraction of holiday goods.

The officers and teachers of our three Sunday schools met last Monday night to make arrangements for a Christmas tree. It is the year for the Methodists to have charge of the Chistmas exercises, but at their request the gathering next week on Tuesday night will be at the house of worship of the Covenant Congregational church, as it is the larger building.

I have been told that Miss Maude E. Clarke has fifteen pupils in instrumental music. A good indication that our people are musically inclined.

Messrs. Upshaw and Dykes are recent additions to the large force of clerks in the store of the Shelby Iron Company.

As your recent correspondents seem to have resigned, your old correspondent writes once more.

B. S. Q.

Montevallo.

The ladies of the Studiosis held a bazaar in the Reynolds store building two days last week and served oysters and other refreshments. The room and windows were beautifully decorated with evergreens and adorned with fancy articles which found ready sale. The Studiosis is preparing thus early to entertain the next annual meeting of the state federation of clubs, which will be held in Montevallo.

"The Town of Montevallo," so created and styled by the sitting general assembly, will elect her mayor and council on the second Monday in January next. The progress and changed conditions of the village demanded a municipal government, and it will be heartily greeted by many of our citizens who expect to see a marked improvement in all public enterprises of the town.

Citizens generally share the regret of his congregation in bidding adieu to Rev. Edward Fullmer, the recent pastor of the Methodist church, who is sent to Blountsville by the conference. He had endeared himself to this people by his many admirable qualities. His successor, Rev. W. H. Wells, comes highly recommended and will be warmly greeted.

All friends of the Industrial School rejoice over the action of the general assembly in appropriating $65,000 to that institution. The public money could not be more profitably expended.

The Presbyterians are placing material on their lot for a handsome church building.

Harpersville.

One week until Christmas.

How that Christmas turkey gobbles.

Professor Florey has been appointed N. P. for this beat.

J. P. Rowe and family have moved this week to North Alabama.

Charley and Renfro Millender have come back from Texas satisfied to remain in Alabama. Terrell Gaddy, who went from this community last winter to Texas, came back a few days ago. He came by private conveyance and was five weeks on the road.

A wood and blacksmith shop has been recently built in South Harpersville, and now we want a live man with a live stock of goods. The opening is fine for such a man who wants to go into the mercantile business.

There was a mad dog in our community a few days ago biting hogs, dogs and cows and scaring the people.

Mrs. E. V. Caldwell is visiting her father, Dr. Welch, at Alpine.

Clem Butler is so pushed up with orders for lumber that he runs his planer a great deal at night.

The long and wearisome strike between the government and Mrs. Jake's hens has ended in favor of the hens, and they have resumed work at a much higher price.

The constitutional convention is being talked of now and some counties are already looking up a suitable man as delegate, provided the convention is held. So it behooves grand old Shelby to be looking up hers. We don't need a broken-down politician nor a jack-leg lawyer, but we need a good man, a true man, one who has the welfare of all the people at heart, one who will work in the interest of the whole people and not for a few, one who has conviction and who will not forsake them just in order to be on the "popular side," and, to be short, a man with brains. Now Shelby county has just such a man; yes, many of them. So find him and trot him out and let us elect him with a whoop. Hurrah for the convention!

the flower garden, but of Alpheus to hoe the vegetables and mow the lawn.

He did this under protest. He had to be asked many times, and perhaps be threatened with a reduced allowance before the work would be satisfactorily done. In a year from the time of his marriage he had the distinction of being known as the laziest man in town.

It is said that Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do. Whoever furnished it, mischief was certainly done by Alpheus Chubbuck. Not by his hands, to be exact, but by his lively imagination and his active tongue.

There was a fair prospect that to his other reputation would be added that of being the greatest gossip in town. By gentle ridicule, sly insinuation and the repeating of things people said, he soon had the whole town unsettled. Old family feuds were revived, new ones started, while half the people would not speak to the other half.

One day, it was the first of April, Mrs. Alpheus heard a strange sound in the yard. She went to the window and saw a clattering, rickety, dingy hen cart drawn by a raw-boned sorrel horse. On the seat of the cart sat her husband and another man, a shabby, slouching, disreputable-looking man. Both jumped to the ground when the cart came to a stop in the middle of the side yard and with apparent haste unharnessed the horse.

Then Alpheus took out his pocketbook and gave the man some money. The man swung himself on the horse's back and with his legs dangling against her thin sides ambled out of the yard and down the street.

"Well, of all things!" said Mrs. Alpheus, and she went out to make inquiries.

"I'm going into the hen business," said Alpheus. "And just think, Loizy, I bought that cart for $3."

"And got cheated, too," she said, sharply. "But then it's your own money," she added.

"Yes, and I've got a dollar left to fix it up with."

"A dollar!" she said, contemptuously. "How far will that go? It won't set the tires, to say nothing of painting it and fixing the broken doors."

"Oh, well," said Alpheus, easily, "I shall have some more money next month, and I'll do all I can on it myself."

For more than two months Alpheus was missed from his old haunts, and the relations of the villagers became less strained. One pair of lovers after another became reconciled and a number of the family feuds were as if they had never been.

All this time Alpheus was at work on his hen cart and people began to drop in to look at it.

"I've got it just about in condition to paint," he would say, proudly. "It's taken me a good while to get it ready, but I believe that if anything is worth doing at all it is worth doing well, and my wife will tell you that it was a pretty hard-looking old trap when I got it. You see, it's fixed up pretty nice now. Of course, it won't show how much I've done to it until after it is painted. I had the tires set and that broken shaft mended, and two new spokes and a part of a rim in that hind wheel. I've scraped and sandpapered it and put new snaps on all the doors—why, they were fastened with clothes pins when I got it. And I've fixed a little railing around the top so I can carry things there if I want to; and I've got hinges on the seat, and you see there is a box under it where I can carry my dinner, and I've put up that frame for an awning so I won't get sunstruck."

"When are you going to start into business?"

"Oh, I don't know; time enough for that when I get my cart finished."

In due time the cart was finished. But now, instead of going into the hen business, Alpheus began again to loaf about the grocery store and to resume his old habits. When he went home at noon he would look proudly at his aun-is hat and stood a rickety, dilapidated en cart. Alpheus looked at it blankly, then his eye caught sight of an envelope tacked to the side. On it was written the one word "Boot." With trembling fingers he tore it open and drew forth a $5 bill.

When he went in to breakfast his eyes were sparkling. "It's worse than the other one," he said, enthusiastically, "and the wheels are dished like pie plates. The color of the other one id not just suit me," he said, after pause. "I think I'll paint this one llow and purple, and it won't take e so long as it did before, either."
Just before the last coat of purple int was dry Arthur Wade and Alice ere safely married.—Chicago Record.

GOT HIS WISH IN BATTLE.

A Soldier Who Was Hit in the Spot He Chose on the Previous Evening.

Somebody had asked a Confederate veteran in a group on the hotel piazza at a near-by resort whether he had known of many cases of premonition of death before battle. "Yes and no," he replied. "On the eve of an engagement thousands of soldiers undoubtedly have a vague 'feeling' that they will be killed, and of course in some cases the prescience is bound to come true. However, there is nothing remarkable in premonitions of that kind. Where one is fulfilled hundreds come to nought and are forgotten.

"But your question reminds me," the veteran continued, "of a very curious experience of my own. It was on the night before Shiloh, and a dozen or so soldiers in my company were talking, half in jest, of their chance of being wounded in the battle which we all knew would take place the next day. One said he would be willing to sacrifice a finger to his country, another said he would prefer to 'get it in the foot,' and finally somebody in the party turned to me. 'Say, sergeant,' he exclaimed, 'tell us where you would rather be hit if you have to be wounded to-morrow?' 'I don't want to stop a bullet at all,' I replied, 'but if that's my fate, I think I'd prefer to be hit in the canteen.' They all laughed at the sally, and the chaffing turned to something else.

"Next day we were in the thick of the battle. I saw comrade after comrade fall, and at last what was left of our command found itself in that frightful death trap afterward known to history as 'The Hornets' Nest.' We were striving desperately to hold our position, and, I myself was kneeling behind a little bush, firing as rapidly as I could reload my musket. I had just discharged the piece, and had my right arm raised in the act of driving home the ramrod, when I felt a terrific blow on the side of the head, and instantly something wet poured over my face and neck. Supposing, of course, that I had been hit, and was being deluged with blood, I put up my hand and was amazed to find it simply covered with water. Incredible as it may seem, I had actually been hit in the canteen, and the bullet had given the big tin bottle such an impetus that it had whirled up and struck me just above the ear. If I had been in any other position I should have been bored through and through, and, in spite of my deadly peril, I was so impressed by the incident that I kept the perforated canteen and sent it home as a souvenir.

"I believe, in all the war, I was the only soldier who was hit in exactly the spot he selected, and who was entirely satisfied with the results."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Agricultural Experiment With Japanese.

"The Government of Buenos Ayres," says a writer in Spectator, "has granted a concession of 200 square leagues of land in the valley of the River Pilcomayo for the foundation of an agricultural colony, and by the conditions of the contract 20,000 Japanese settlers are to be planted in this territory. Argentina is ready to welcome the Japanese settler as a means of utilizing her vast and, at present, unprofitable domains, where the population does not amount to more than 2.5 a square mile, being the lowest rate which obtains even in sparsely peopled South America. If the experiment proves successful—and there is no apparent reason why it should turn out unfavorably—then the 20,000 settlers above referred to will be probably only a first installment."

The Suburbanite and His Hens.

Some time ago a Philadelphia man moved to the suburbs, and determined to keep hens. He went personally to a dealer and picked out a number of large, fine looking ones, thinking with pleasure of the nice new laid eggs that he would soon enjoy. Several weeks passed, and there were no eggs, although all the members of the household were aroused at dawn every morning by the incessant crowing of the chickens. This went on for some time, and the new suburbanites became alarmed. "I've been cheated," he thought. Then he called in a neighbor, and was very much amazed when told that his chickens were all roosters.—Philadelphia Press.

In playing the races the odds are seemingly 'against the guessers,' for the reason that they are influenced by all sorts of hints, tips and premonitions, mostly wrong. It isn't really a case of guessing, but a case of misplaced confidence."

"Do you believe in luck?" asked one of the listeners to the foregoing.

"That depends upon whether you mean theoretically or practically," replied the scientific turfman.

"Luck is something that doesn't exist except in real life. The late Professor Proctor delivered a lecture in Philadelphia on the 'Mathematics of Chance,' and proved conclusively there was no such thing as luck. Afterward he took a dice box and attempted to demonstrate the fact to some sceptical sports, and went broke in eight minutes by the watch. There is absolutely no reason why people should have streaks of good or bad luck. I can demonstrate to you on paper that the thing is impossible, and you can demonstrate to me by ocular evidence that it happens every day. So there you are.

"It's a funny fact, by the way, that the two principal 'systems' at Monte Carlo are based on diametrically opposite theories of luck. One is called the 'maturity of chance.' To illustrate, suppose red turns up three times in succession; according to the system the chance of it appearing again is greatly diminished and grows less with each repetition. Consequently the player bets on black. The other is the 'system of runs.' Its votaries hold that a color which has once 'repeated' is apt to keep on, at least five or six times in succession. Each band of cranks prove their case by the daily record kept year in and year out at the Casino. You pays your money and you takes your choice."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Fly on the Ceiling.

Now, as to how flies walk upside down. They do not accomplish the feat by adhering to ceilings by means of little air pads attached to their feet, as many suppose. They walk on the ceiling and on glass by means of capillary attraction, the operation of which is accentuated by means of little drops of oil, which exude from hairs on their feet. Every time a fly walks over a window pane it leaves behind it a series of tracks, invisible to the naked eye, perhaps, but composed of little spots of this delicate oil.

One scientist counted the hairs on a fly's feet and found on an average of between 10,000 and 12,000, from each of which flowed the minute specks of oil. The oil is absolutely necessary to the fly when walking on a vertical surface. If a pane of glass should be wet or very dusty it would be impossible for the fly to walk over it, in the one case because of the flowing of the oil between the hairs of the feet and destroying the strength of the capillary action; in the other because of the clogging of the hairs with the dust.

The effort of the fly to get rid of dust can be noticed by any one. The insect will constantly stop and clean out the hairs on its feet by wiping them off on the wings, which are provided with wonderful little stiff hair brushes for this purpose.—Boston Herald.

Glad He Wasn't Home.

Though the Teuton loves his Fatherland, he is sometimes very glad to be out of it, as the following story which I heard the other day bears witness to: The other day a young German, a well-known operatic singer, meeting some compatriots in a West End cafe, made a few disparaging remarks about the Kaiser. Later he sought quarters in hotel. Early in the morning he awoke, and for the nonce was puzzled as to his latitude. He remembered that he had said something uncharitable respecting Emperor William, and got into a condition of blue funk, as he thought he was in for a year or two of imprisonment for the offense of lese majeste. Suddenly he heard the "mee-ow" of the milkman, and he jubilantly exclaimed to himself, "Thank Himmel, I am safe; I am in London! Donnerwetter, I fancied I was in Berlin!"—London Household Words.

Hen Killed a Hawk.

Mrs. R. King is the owner of a courageous and capable old hen, of nondescript breed, that she wouldn't trade for a whole flock of blooded poultry. It is the only hen in Oregon, perhaps in the United States, that ever fought and killed a hawk. The battle occurred a few days ago, when a chicken hawk swooped down upon a band of baby fowls of which the old hen was the mother. The hen didn't squawk and run, calling her offspring to follow her, but with a fierce and well-directed peck buried her bill beneath the hawk's left wing. It was a solar plexus blow and a clean knockout. The hawk semed surprised and dazed. It feebly arose, flew aimlessly against a clothesline, and then dropped into the garden, stone dead. That hen will be queen of Mrs. King's poultry yard on Wild Horse Creek as long as she survives.—Weston Leader.

CRIMINAL VIRTUE.

Spain's Queer Law Prevents Rescue of Royalty from Peril.

There is a Spanish law that no subject shall touch the person of the king or queen. Alfonso XIII., king of Spain, nearly suffered a severe fall from this rule in his childhood. An aunt gave him a swing. When he used it for the first time the motion frightened him, and he began to cry, whereupon a lackey lifted him quietly out of it, and so, no doubt, prevented him from falling. The breach of etiquette, however, was flagrant and dreadful. The queen was obliged to punish it by dismissing the man from his post. At the same time she showed her real feelings on the subject by appointing him immediately to another and better place in the royal household. In another case a queen of Spain nearly lost her life in a dreadful way owing to this peculiar rule. She had been thrown when out riding, and, her foot catching in the stirrup, she was dragged. Her escort would not risk interference, and she would have been dashed to pieces but for the heroic interposition of a young man, who stopped the horse and released her from her dangerous position. As soon as they saw she was safe, her escort turned to arrest the traitor who had dared to touch the queen's foot, but he was not to be seen. Knowing well the penalty he had incurred, he made off at once—fled for his life—and did not stop until he had crossed the frontier.—Answers.

SHORT HONEYMOONS.

A Week or Ten Days Is the Correct Thing.

Now that among fashionable—as well as busy people—the regulation length for the honeymoon is being made shorter and shorter, till a week or ten days has come to be considered the correct thing, one begins to wonder if it will soon be done away with altogether, and whether we shall revert to the custom of our great-grandmothers' days, who drove from the wedding breakfast to their new home. Still and for all that, as they say in the Green Isle, I fancy there will always be many who will uphold the pretty—if modern fashion, which dedicates a whole month—if not to the actual "drinking of honey mead," at least to becoming properly acquainted with one another without any outside distracting, and under the benign patronage of the god Hymen. There is always something exceedingly novel in the way of engagement rings. Three rings fit one over the other so as to look like one joined by clasped hands in the middle or by a diamond stud. On drawing this aside the ring opens and you see two enameled hearts, with the joint initials, the date of the engagement and a motto. These are both pretty and exclusive.

Horse Is Stage Struck.

A hansome usually stands at the corner of Broadway and 29th street, where passengers wait for the cross-town cars. They always have to wait and so have time to make friends with an intelligent hansom horse, who feigns to be asleep until he is patted on the nose, when he comes back to earth apparently with a stagy start. The fact is that the theatrical neighborhood in which the cab has its stand has affected the horse and has taught him to dissimilate. He has become such a pet with waiting passengers that they carry sugar and apples in their pockets with which to feed him. He never refuses anything. He calmly consumes a $4 bunch of violets, finishing to the last inch of ribbon, and would doubtless eat the pin that has held the bunch if it were offered to him. He also eats cigarettes, artificial flowers, candles, peanuts and theater programs.—New York Sun.

GREAT KNIFE WORK.

Mexican's Experience with a Herd of Antelope.

A Mexican freighter whose route lies across the deserts of New Mexico and Arizona and who is known as Juan Riviera has many tales to tell of bloodcurdling adventures he has had during his trips across the sands. Although considered to be as truthful as the ordinary man by his acquaintances, some of his stories would indicate that he occasionally departs from the path of rectitude or else the road he travels must be a veritable paradise for hunters. One of his reminiscences is as follows: "While passing from Chihuahua to Tucson, some fifteen years ago, I encountered a great herd, probably a thousand, of antelope, and this accounts for the loss of my forefinger, which you see is lacking two joints. This herd was not far from a box canyon, having a very narrow entrance when I first saw it. By riding to and fro, I succeeded after an hour in getting them to enter the canyon, but as the entrance was narrow I could get them in only one at a time. After losing considerable time I got them all in. To keep them cooped up, I began to pile up stones at the opening, intending to leave the antelopes there and notify my friends of the catch. While at work the antelopes suddenly turned on me and began to rush out. There was not time enough to bar the opening, so I grabbed my knife and stabbed them as they came out. Antelope are much like sheep, and follow their leader, and came rushing through so rapidly that my arm was kept in motion like the crank shaft on a windmill. I wore out the knife, then the handle, and was so excited that I kept on jabbing with my forefinger until I had worn it down to one joint. It doesn't pay to get excited."

Increase in Use of Burlap.

An enormous and increasing amount of burlap is used in this country, 500,000,000 yards a year, it is said. Burlap is used for making bags, it figures in coat linings, among other things, and is even entering, in a dressed-up state, into wall coverings. But it is chiefly used for packing and wrapping, and with our increasing export trade great quantities of it are demanded.

THEIR PITIFUL END.

When Indian Women Become Too Old to Work They Are Left to Die.

The attention of the United States government has just been called to a barbarous custom that it still being practiced among the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache Indians in Oklahoma Territory. The Indians of these tribes, while living under the management of an Indian agent, are comparatively civilized and do not go on the warpath, but work for their living as farmers. But they have no love in their hearts for one of their own people after that person has passed his or her age of usefulness. An aged squaw, after she reaches the age of eighty years, is sent into the fields and left there to die, unless some sympathetic white person comes along and sends the poor old woman to the Indian agency, where she may be taken care of at the expense of the government. Travelers in the reservation may hear the distressing cries of some deserted woman at most any time they care to listen. The women are given a few days' rations, clothed in their best garments and taken into the fields amid the horses and cattle. There they are left alone. Not being strong enough to get away, they have to remain there and die. The plains of this Indian reservation are strewn with the bones of those who have been left to die because they were getting too old to work any more.

Li's Desertion by His Secretary.

The severest blow Li Hung Chang has received for many years is the desertion of J. W. Pethick, an American who had been his private secretary for twelve or fifteen years. Mr. Pethick was paid a large salary to act as advisor and instructor in modern languages and sciences, and had charge of all the viceroy's foreign affairs and much of his private business. Earl Li has money invested in all sorts of enterprises in Europe and Asia, and Mr. Pethick has looked after his financial business in foreign countries. He has also taught the Earl nearly everything he knows of foreign affairs, and has read aloud to Li Hung Chang more than 800 books in English, French and German, which he was able to translate into Chinese as he read them. Last spring for reasons not yet publicly explained. Mr. Pethick resigned his position with Li Hung Chang, and has since denounced him as untrustworthy and a traitor to the friends he pretends to serve.—Chicago Record.

Penny-in-the-Slot Bootblack.

Nearly fifty years ago the Shoeblack brigade was started in North London, and since then the small box with the footrest, the blacking and the brushes and the boy with or without uniform has become a recognized and almost indispensable institution in every large town. But now it seems that an automatic shoeblack has been invented, and a penny-in-the-slot will secure the desired result. You put your foot in a black hole supplied with brushes, and the coin sets the mechanism in motion, which brushes, blacks and polishes in an incredibly short space of time. The humble shoeblack, like so many other honest citizens, may have to go down before the advance of machinery.

LONG RANGE GUNS.

Good Lessons Taught Other Nations by the Boer Artillerymen.

There is an effort being made in different countries to turn the lesson of the Anglo-Boer war to profit by constructing ordinance of increased range. The Boers got their greater range not by having superior guns, but by elevating the muzzle, as the English found out when the Boers turned captured English guns upon them. The English cannon fired as far as the Boer cannon when the muzzle was given equal elevation. But the point remains that the Boers taught the world that superior range, no matter how obtained, gives a decided practical advantage. In 1888 an English 9.2-inch gun made a record with a range of twelve miles. A Krupp 9.45-inch four years later made a new record of twelve and a half miles. Recently there has been talk of a German gun that ranges fifteen miles. But an American ordnance factory is preparing a 12-inch gun, it is said, which is to carry a shell nineteen miles. Its length is to be equal to forty calibers and the 1,050-pound shell is to have an initial velocity of 3,000 feet a second. The difficulty in obtaining extreme ranges lies largely with the gun carriage. Most gun carriages permit an elevation of the muzzle of but seventeen degrees, whereas the best possible range of any given gun requires an elevation of forty-four degrees. A larger arc of elevation is lesson the Boer artillerists have enforced, drawback of extreme ranges is uracy of fire. The Boers pr a great moral effect upon the h by landing shells at distances British batteries could not cove but they seldom made hits. They were content to demoralize their foe by subjecting him to a fire he could not reply to. At Ladysmith, for example, there were a few good shots at extreme ranges, so that the loss of life caused by cannot fire from great distances was trifling. As the range increases the chance of missing likewise increases, a very small error in the aim being multiplied more and more the farther the shot goes. At nineteen miles it is hard to believe that one shot in a thousand would hit an object no bigger than a house.—Baltimore Sun.

Miss Braddon a Prolific Writer.

Miss Braddon has published over sixty novels since 1862. Previous to trying literature, however, Miss Braddon appeared on the stage. There is some doubt in the matter, but "An Old Player" writes that the future novelist made her debut at the Brighton Theater Royal in 1857, and that during the five following months she impersonated as many as fifty-eight distinct characters. Her stage name was Mary Leyton, and, though now known as Miss M. E. Braddon, she is really Mrs. Maxwell and a widow.
